1979 BUICK SKYHAWK. Great shape: New tires, and muffler. $1000 or B/O call 546-8228.

1982 VW RABBIT 4 speed hatchback - AM FM-AC New exhaust excellent condition $1600 or best offer. Call 586-9526 EVES.

SEIZED CARS, TRUCKS, 4 WHEELERS, TV's, stereos, furniture, computers by DEA, FBI, IRS, and US Customs. Available your area now. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext C-1675.

ATTENTION - Government Seized Vehicles from $100. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus buyers guide. 1-602-838-8885 ext. a-7627.

1983 CHEVROLET CAPRICE WAGON good engine high miles $700 or BO Eric eves 584-3506.

1976 PLYMOUTH VOLARE WILL START IN bitter cold best offer must sell call 549-5046.

LAND YACHT/BATTLE WAGON/PARTY MOBILE1977 Caprice Classic Station Wagon 350VB Solid Winter Car $1000 or BO 549-3538.

'79 TOYOTA SUPRA LOTS OF POWER 5 speed 6 cylinder A/C $1900.00 or best offer 548-9892 eves.

NEED A CAR? Dependable 1976 Ford Granada. Great shape. Four door, nice interior, runs great! $500 or best offer! call 549-2862.

COLD???

DON'T GET LEFT OUTin the cold! Spring break trips are giong fast! Choose from the Bahamas, Cancun, or South Padre Island! Great Prices! Great time! For more information call Donna at 549-8228!

ENTERTAINMENT

BILLY JOEL TICKETS 21 row floor Worcester Centrum Friday December 8 Best offer call Jodi 546-9365.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED

FOR NEXT SEMESTER! Very low rent, sunny and clean (non-smokers, please) apartment. Call Alise 256-1250, evenings. Thanks.

FOR RENT

WANTED: 1-3 females for Townehouse apt starting in Jan $182/mot. Please call 549-8026. Leave a message.

SPACIOUS SINGLE 4BD APT 235 heat/water no deposit or lease non-smoker m/f. 256-4659.

TWO BEDROOM APT. AVAILABLE IN BRITTANY beginning Jan 1 and ending June 1 $560/mo heat and hot water inc. Call 253-2303.

TAKE OVER OUR LEASE 2 bedroom swood apt new carpet, appliances, paint call 253-7085.

ONE BEDROOM APT. in Sunderland for rent. Avail Jan 1. Call 665-7353 after 4 p.m. Mon thru Friday, on bus route. Good deal to be made.

ROOM IN NEW HOUSE ON LAKE Male or female needed to fill large bedroom Call 367-9774 Leave message.

FOR SALE

KEG COOLER AND CO2 TANK for sale call 253-0930.

QUEENSIZE FUTON AND MATTRESS both exc. cond. $85 and $45 scuba gear cheap Ken 538-3139.

NINTENDO ENTERTAINMENT SYSTEM — perfect condition $50 or BO Atari 2600 with 6 cartridges $30 leather jacket $130 Eric 546-9602.

HARTFORD TO WASH DC USAir ticket $118 from Dec 6 to Dec 10 call 549-9316.

REPOSSESSED VA & HUD HOMES available from government fro $1 without credit check. You repair. Also tax delingquent foreclosures call 1-805-682-7555 ext H-2009 for repo list your area.

DAYTONA BEACH TIX DEC 26 $150 or BO call Colin 6-6998.

SAN FRANCISCO $99 Dec 7th and 13th 253-7109 or 253-9875.

BASEBALL CARDS. Buy and sell call Brian 617-329-3999 UD TOPPS and more!!

AMERICAN AIRLINES VOUCHER FOR SALE $400 voucher to anywhere they fly. $325 or best offer. Call 253-2233 Steve.

STEREO RECEIVER NAD722OPE excellent condition $200 call Nikhil 546-5546.

TWO FORMAL DRESSES inexpensive good cond. Call anytime leave message 6-9056.

COMPUTER AMIGA 1000 1988 3 disk drives memory board mouse, amaculate condition high tech graphics, stereo sound, great for video over $1000 in disks, asking $1500 or best offer 546-6245 leave message.

SKI BOOTS SALOMON SX61 size 9. $100 or B/O call 549-5157.

---PLANE TIX 4 SALE---

One way Dec 28th Ticket Boston to Minneapolis $120 or BO Call Marshall 6-6853.

COMPUTER IBM XT HARD DISC DRIVE $800.00 or best offer 548-9892 eves.

FREE

TWO CATS NEED A HOME.
1 adult female-spayed,
1 6 month old male.
If interested in either one,
please contact Stephanie 545-2152.

HELP WANTED

ADVERTISING SALES REP Innovative marketing program needs sales rep for UMASS market. Excellent $ opportunity. Local advertising experience necessary. Call Gary at 919-361-4646.

HOLIDAY JOBS FOR THE ENVIRONMENT
Work on progressive recycling campaign MASSPIRG is hiring bright people to help pass strongest solid waste legislation in the country. Earn 200-300/week, full and part-time jobs available. Call Mick today! 256-6434.

DIRECTORE WANTED apply w/in SGA Communications Office, 304 SU by 12/6. Ask for Kim 545-1977.

SUPPORT OUR UNIVERSITY! Telefund needs students now and during intersession to raise money for UMass. Make $5-$7/hr. Call 545-3509.

ATTENTION - hiring! Government jobs - your area. $17,840-$69,485. Call 1-602-838-8885. Ext R7627.

CRUISESHIPS NOW HIRING for spring, Christmas and next summer breaks. Many positions. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext S-1120.

CARE FOR THE ELDERLY. Full and part-time positions available. Flexible hours. Car required. Call 253-9726 for information. AA/EOE.

BEAT THE HIGH COST OF TUITION! Earn $1,500 and up this winter break while you help in the fight against pollution and depletion of our natural resources. Train now to work over January No exp necessary call 549-7450 Clean Water Action.

LEARN TO RUN YOUR OWN BUSINESS THIS SUMMER and make big money at the same time. For the last two years our managers have averaged $9000. Call T.A.S.P. today and get in on the opportunity. 1-800-922-5579.

EXERCISE TECH EVES.
Hampshire Fitness Club$5/hr. and membership. prefer exercise science grad. 256-8327.

ADVERTISING SALES REP Innovative Marketing Program needs Sales rep for UMAss market. Excellent $$ opportunity. Local advertising experience necessary. Call Gary at 919-361-4646.

PART TIME EARN EXTRA CHRISTMAS MONEY while helping others. $5.50-$6.50 per hour. Call 586-5243.

STREET ENTERTAINMENT NEEDED FOR CHRISTMAS Season fundraiser! Earn extra money for Christmas! Call 586-5243.

I'LL EDIT YOUR PAPER

I'LL HELP WITH SPELLING, grammar, word choice, sentence structure and length. Let me take your rough draft and make it something special. $2 for pages 1-5, $1.50 for every other page. Papers in the humanities (economics, political science, journalism, etc.) preferred. Four years editing experience. Call David at 253-2455. Leave a message on my machine. Thanks.

LOST

66676 BACKFIRED AND 66749 doesn't seem to connect us. Please leave the wallet at the Campus Center Information Desk or take an ad out here so I can contact you. Will reimburse.

HEWLETT PACKARD 11C CALCULATOR in CC Reading room Monday. 256-8189 Reward.

LONGHAIRED ORANGE PERSIAN CAT, answers to Buckwheat, lost 11/19 Maplewood Farms Area, fluffy tail, white chin alte red male, huge reward; brokenhearted, call 256-8448 anytime.

HELP! lost keys on Norway keychain. Please call 256-0558.

JEN BYRAM OFFERING reward for lost ID call 546-7401.

66676 BACKFIRED AND 66749 doesn't connect us. Please leave lost item at campus center info desk or take an ad out so I can contact you. Will pay for ad when I see you!

GREEN SUEDE PURSE UPTOWN near delanos. Had ids and other important things. Reward! Call Dave at 546-9127.

BLACK AND GOLD CROSS PENSET in cream colored case between LGRT and Knowlton both engraved with JENNB extreme sentimental value. Please call 6-9503 ASAP.

ONE GREEN BACKPACK NEAR HERTER. During strike week. Contains some very important materials! Please call Jay at 6-7162.

LOST HP15C CALC IN CAMPUS CENTER Women's restroom please call 546-6820.

YAMAHA '82 Mint cond. $600 BO. 2 Helmets 253-5018 call eve.

PERSONALS

A.R. (AKA — HOE!) I'll be sure to bring the bandages for your face and neck. Oh, wait, is the seventies hairdo gone? Too bad, and you said you really loved sideburns.

COURTNEY DARGIE - Welcome to the wonderful world of Flamingos! I'm so psyched that you are my little sister! No one can beat our flamingo family with Thyme as our founder! Have an amazing time tonight! Love ya, Andrea.

Thyme - you Hoe! Our family is expanding love you too! Love, Little.

M.M.— Get ready to LOVE SHACK tonight. Love, Andrea.

MELISSA PRESCOTT Happy birthday to the best roommate at UMass love ya Sue.

DEE DEE MURPHY IS 21 TODAY Have a great birthday! We love you - Andrea, Diana Kelli and Laura.

LEE ANN DEVLIN IS 21 TODAY. Happy birthday to a very special friend. Have a super day! Love, Pamela.

MELISSA L. This one's For you!! Have an awesome birthday. Love, Jaline.

FRIDAY IS THE BIG DAY FOR ROBBI N. Will it be worth 67.50? Anyway Happy birthday to the unlicensed driver - Liz.

JR — So glad you can come to the SDT Formal. Get psyched tonight. Love, JR.

MIKE IN AEPi - You like to have what in bed in the morning? Cold chinese food... you deserved one before graduating.

MEGAN We just love using you! The using Suite (McNamara)

SISTERS AND PLEDGES OF Sigma Delta Tau Get psyched for an awesome formal!

SAW YOU IN THE HATCH WED 2pm wearing argile sweater. You asked for a chair, wish I had said more than yes. Interested? Respond here.

HEY GUYS GET PSYCHED. It's Phi Mu's last formal and the best. And you know why...

RHINO E. - I'd love to see you tonight if you're not tied up! Love, Your Possum S.

HAPPY 21 TO THE JOANSTER — The L-word! Love Al, Bren and Lynn.

HAPPY 23rd GEORGE YOU BIG STUD. We love ya. The bimbos on 18 - Carrie, Dawn & Sandi.

DEAR BUBBA, HERE'S TO OUR first kiss one year ago. Love Marvin.

HAPPY 22nd BIRTHDAY TEE! Get ready for Ta-Kill-ya! You are the best. Love, your roomies.

K—E—L—L—Y no doubt you'll have an excellent birthday with the terrorizing trio. Have a very happy birthday Ready and Able.

CRAIG HAPPY 21 BIRTHDAY! Enjoy, have some lettuce, and don't accept any wooden nickels. Love Betty.

HEY SDT SISTERS -- It's here. It's tonight. It's time to get psyched. It's formal night. It's gonna be awesome. Luvyaall - SP.

DAVIDZ IT'S 12-1 and you know what that means....you little weasel! The formal will be awesome - it's our 6 mo "anniversary" ya know! I love you! Renee.

DESPERATELY SEEKING
SUSAN
12/2
1pm Times Square
Michael

PAM WENT TO ISRAEL in turmoil to comfort my heart that had suffered from racism. Her courage moved me. Love returns to its basics. Yuji.

CONGRATULATIONS ON YOUR ENGAGEMENT
Michele and Steve wishing you both love and happiness today and forever. Love your sisters at SDT.

TO THE CAST OF UNIFNISHED WOMEN - Get psyched for opening night! Good luck to all! Love Midgey.

MTE - These 2½ months have been the best! Get psyched for the formal tonight night and don't forget to wear your longest coat! I love you! PMW

WHAT'LL YOU DO NOW DAVEY?

LISTEN YOU STUPID DOG....

TOO MY FAVORITE CLAM, LOVESLAVE, teacher etc, the study of robology has been quite an educational experience!! Get psyched for formal and happy 6 months. Love your devoted pupil.

LOVE SHACK, BABY, LOVE SHACK!

RIDE WANTED

TO ORONO, MAINE - or nearby - weekend of Dec 8. Will share expenses. Call Nicky 6-4869.

ROOMMATE WANTED

MALE ROOMMATE WANTED. January and spring. Beautiful condo. Downtown amherst. Call 549-8150.

ONE OR TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES wanted for So. Wd. Townehouse new rugs nice place on bus route start Jan 1 call 253-2566 anytime leave message.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED to share room in Southwood Apt. Starting Jan 1 $165 month. Please call 253-9918 leave message.

NON—SMOKER FEMALE NEED to share room in presidential apts. for the spring semester. Cheap rent (155/mo + util.) Beautiful apt if interested please contact Yvonne at 549-6628.

LARGE BEDROOM AVAILABLE IN NEW 3-bedroom house. Just 8 miles to UMass in Beautiful town of Montague. $230/month plus utilities. Large yard, garage...what a deal! Call Kateri or Bethann after 5:00 at 367-2203.

2 FEMALES WANTED FOR townehouse apt Jan 1 Call Nancy or Lisa 549-4301.

FEMALE NONSMOKER BEGINS Jan 1 175$ bus stops at apt. 2 miles from campus. 253-2582 Leave message.

2 ROOMMATES NEEDED FOR LG ROOM in apt in town 200$ 549-1677.

ROOMMATE NEEDED FOR NEXT SEMESTER in Brandywine. Call Chris or Bob at 549-5883.

SINGLE ROOM - available in condo, non-smoking on bus routes $215+ Joy 253-9223.

WANTED! 1 or 2 fun females to share a 2 bedroom apartment in Townhouse apts. or Amherst. Privately owned apartment in brand new condition. Wall to wall, microwave, VCR, answering machine, color TV, 1 and ½ baths, dishwasher and much much more! Private parking or we are also right in front of the bus stop! Don't wait! Call now for an awesome spring semester! 549-8228.

FEMALE WANTED INTERSESSION And Spring Near Bus Route. Cable TV Washer dryer $250/mon 256-8979.

FEMALE NON SMOKER TO SHARE Large attic room. Main St Washer Dryer 185+ 256-4968.

1 RM IN COLONIAL VILLAGE $175/month 1 or 2 people for intersession and spring semester. Can move in ASAP Call 253-5094 Michelle or SUe.

SERVICES

PURCHASING A USED CAR? Having your car repaired? Do you know your rights? Contact the Legal Services Center, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

TO SUBLET

WANTED - Subletters for 3 bedroom apt in Puggton intersession, start Jan 1. Call 549-6087. Leave message.

TRAVEL

GET PSYCHED FOR SPRING BREAK!! Cancun & Bahamas from just $399 also ask about So. Padre Islands! for info call Laura 549-8425 or 545-2152.

WE BEAT THE COMPETITION BY $30-$70 on trips to Jamaica and Montego Bay. Great Deals also on Bahamas and Nassau. Save $25 if booked before 1-15-90. Michelle 546-7653.

UMASS TO CARIBBEAN - $189 for Winter Break. Why hang around and freeze when you can be stretched out on the sands of the Caribbean or Mexico for only $189 r/t. Flights from Logan, JFK, Philly. Call Sunhitchem 256-4116.

NASSAU Spring Break '90 as low as $339 colpitts world travel Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235.

SKIERS WANTED. For trip to Killington, Vt. On January 7-12. Call Scott for details. 546-9455.

SPRING BREAK 90' Jamacia, Acapulco, Cancun, Daytona. Experienced sales rep dependable travel service $25 off before Jan. 1 Mary and Karen 549-8166.

TYPING

FAST INEXPENSIVE TYPING spell check $1.75/pg call Ashley at 546-6756.

ACCURATE PROFESSIONAL TYPING. Pickup and delivery. Gloria 323-5140.

WORDPROCESSING, LASER PRINTING - Dissertations, theses, reports, call Rosemary 259-1628.

NO TYPING AS USUAL. I can type your paper fast! 548-9436.

EXPERIENCED TEACHER proofreads/edits and/or types papers on short notice. 253-3354.

WORD PERFECT-LETTER QUALITY. Pick-up and delivery available. Call 549-0546.

CASES, PAPERS THESES, ON CAMPUS Affordable grammar reviewed dependable experienced 584-7924, Nancy.

RESUMES AND PAPERS TYPED PROFESSIONALLY: Laserprinting, typesetting, Carolyn at Wordsmith 253-4564.

WANTED

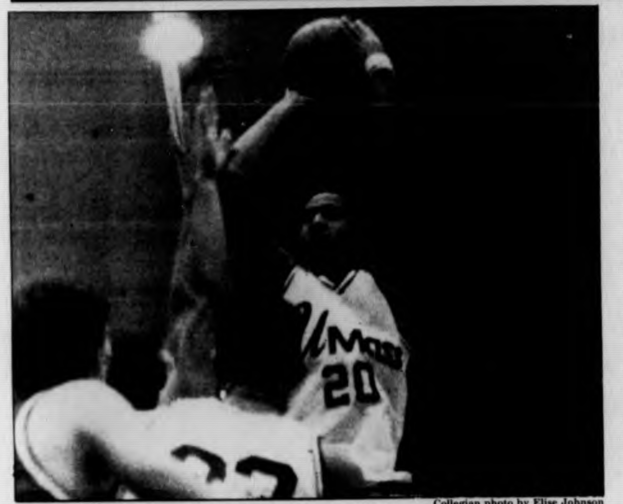
WANTED TO RENT

FEMALE NONSMOKER LOOKING TO RENT single room in Amherst starting Jan 1 leave message 253-5496.

RESPONSIBLE COUPLE NEEDS ROOM or apartment for winter session 546-4190 or 546-9403. Lv message.

Happy Birthday 21st JENI MARCH

SPORTS



Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

Jim McCoy and the rest of the University of Massachusetts basketball team will attempt to rebound from a tough loss to Lowell when they travel to BU tomorrow.

Minutemen to attempt to rebound against Boston

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

OK, time for life to move on. No more agonizing over Tuesday night's humiliating loss to Lowell.

Tomorrow, the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team tries to get itself back on track when it visits Boston University (7:30 p.m. at Walter Brown Arena). Maybe a victory over the Terriers will be enough to cure the ills that have set in after the disheartening 70-69 season-opening setback.

"Right now, I don't know," said UMass coach John Calipari. "We're still very young. We've got a long way to go."

The youth is a big concern for Calipari, especially against a Terriers team that is long in experience in the starting lineup.

"They go senior, senior, junior, junior, sophomore," Calipari said, "while we are freshman, freshman, sophomore, sophomore and a junior [center John Tate] who has really played only one year."

Fortunately for the Minutemen, BU is just as short height-wise. Senior forwa Ron Moses (16.5 points, 6.5 rebounds per game) starts at center at just 6-foot-8. The forwards are 6-7 sophomore Bill Brigham (team-high 9.7 rebounds per game) and 6-6 junior Fred Davy. The guards are senior Steven Key, who leads the team in scoring with 18 points per game, and junior Reggie Stewart.

Simply put, UMass can match up well with the Terriers. But that won't mean squat if the Minutemen are as sloppy on the boards as they were against Lowell.

"The effort just wasn't there at all," Calipari said. "We had three guys out there who weren't ready to play. We had a great crowd cheering us on, and we give them a game like that."

If it helps matters any, BU (1-2) is coming off a stinging loss of its own, against Fairleigh-Dickinson, 77-76 in overtime Wednesday night. But that is on the heels of a pair of impressive outings, including a 73-60 opening win over Indiana State, and a 73-65 loss to nationally-ranked Michigan at Boston Garden.

"They'll be coming in with three games

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

Women's hoop to entertain Hartford

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

The University of Massachusetts women's basketball will attempt to get its first win of the year tomorrow as they host Hartford.

Minutewomen look for 1st win of year

By JOHN STEVEN MARPLE
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts women's basketball team continues the search for its first victory of the year tommorrow night when it plays host to the Lady Hawks of Hartford in The Cage at 2 p.m.

The Minutewomen (0-2) are coming off a 72-46 blowout at the hands of Boston University. Hartford comes into the game with a record of 1-2, including a second place finish in the Iona Classic earlier this season. In the first round, the Lady Hawks beat Iona 71-69 and then fell in the finals, 83-81, against Columbia. Last Tuesday they dropped their second game, losing to Yale, 68-44.

The Lady Hawks will send out a starting unit of forwards 5-foot-9 Betsy Anderson and 5-foot-10 Karen Ball, 5-foot-11 center Dacia DeAngelis with 5-foot-8 Maura Rodgers and 5-foot-7 Trish Slocum at the guards. Anderson and Rodgers are the top scorers, averaging 18.3 and 16 points per game respectively. Anderson also leads the team in rebounding with 8.3 a game. While Slocum is not a big scorer (4.3) for coach Jean Murphy, she is queen of the assist for Hartford. In fact, she holds the all-time assist record in Lady Hawk history.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

Women's track to trek to New Hampshire

By ADRIENNE MATT
Collegian Staff

Proudly rolling off a season-opening meet at Dartmouth, the University of Massachusetts women's indoor track team heads into this weekend with their heads held high as they travel to New Hampshire tomorrow at 10 a.m.

At Dartmouth, both senior Tina White and freshman Rachel Castriotta broke the UMass 20-pound weight record in addition to setting personal records. Placing first, Castriotta threw 44 feet 9½ inches, while White, taking second, threw for 42 feet 8½ inches. "For what we expected from them, they were right on," said assistant coach Jim Giroux.

Castriotta placed second in the shot, again setting another personal record, throwing 36 feet 8 inches. Freshman Colleen Anderson placed third throwing 28 inches 4½ inches. Anderson stole first in the high jump stretching to 4 feet 10 inches and then took third in the 55-meter hurdles with a time of 9.31.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14

Springfield swimmers to stroke over to Boyden

• Minutemen come in at 2-0

By C.J. ABATI
Collegian Staff

As the season progresses, the chances of the University of Massachusetts men's swimming team repeating as New England champions for a fourth straight year get better each time they jump into the pool.

It's still early yet, but the team is ready and waiting. The Minutemen try to improve on their 2-0 mark by taking on Springfield College tomorrow afternoon. The meet takes place at the Joseph R. Rogers pool in Boyden Gymnasium at 1 p.m. where UMass is 1-0 this year.

Springfield competes in Division II, and have not been too successful in recent years. They are presently 1-1, with a victory over Keene State and a 126-113 loss to the Holy Cross Crusaders. The team is led by coach John Taffe.

"They have a new coach this year," said UMass head coach Russ Yarworth. "They've been going down hill the last few years, so he's going to try and rejuvenate the program. He's a good coach and he knows what he's doing."

Springfield and UMass have been rivals in the past, and if the program turns around, they probably will be again some day. Yarworth is not expecting Springfield to cause too much trouble for the Minutemen. In fact he is expecting an easy victory, and is looking ahead to next Wednesday's meet against Brown in Rhode Island.

"We used to have some pretty good meets with them," said Yarworth. "But that was a few years ago. I don't think they'll give us any trouble. We've been getting ready for Brown, but that shouldn't effect my guys. They know what they have to do."

The Chiefs are a small team with only eleven swimmers and one diver. They are led by senior co-captain Lee Mogavero and sophomore distance freestyler Brian Brocher. Their lone diver, Guy Polino, has already qualified for the Division II national championships.

"This is basically a rebuilding year for us," said coach Taffe. "We really don't have the depth to compete with teams like UMass. It's a joke to think we can."

Yarworth is planning to swim some people in off events to give them some work in preparation for next Wednesday's big meet with the Bruins.

"I might swim some guys in different events like I did the other night against Tufts. It should get us ready for the rest of the season," said Yarworth.

• Minutewomen come in at 0-2

By TAMIR LIPTON
Collegian Correspondent

It has been two weeks since the UMass women's swimming team lost it's second straight. Two long weeks. After a week of turkey and stuffing, Bob Newcomb's squad returns to the pool on Saturday afternoon when Springfield College cruises up Route 91 for a meet in Boyden pool (4 p.m.).

"Springfield usually comes in to this meet really charged up," said Newcomb. Regardless of how revved up Springfield is, UMass should be ready. The Minutewomen have not fully forgotten about their drubbing at the hands of Maine, and a meet against a weaker club such as Springfield is just what UMass needs.

"We are going along the same lines at practice that we have gone along all year," Newcomb said. "We have not changed our work ethic, or strategy."

The strategy that Newcomb is referring to is to swim fast at the end of the year in the New England Championships. "If we keep in mind the goals that we have set for ourselves, then we will do all right," Newcomb said.

Newcomb also admitted that the team was a tad depressed about their two losses to Connecticut and Maine.

"This is going to be a key meet for us, we need an all out team effort," said Newcomb.

"We are swimming longer distances in this meet, in order for us to win, we need production from our distance swimmers," Newcomb said. When you look at the times that UMass has been swimming, and compare them to that of Springfield, there really is no reason for UMass to lose this weekend.

"Springfield has some of the poorest times in the breast stroke," Newcomb said. "What it comes down to is that our distance swimmers must produce, we need a big day from Melissa McCarthy and Jodi Schwartz."

A loss to Springfield would be devastating since UMass possesses a young team that may not believe what Newcomb wants them to remember, that being that they will swim fast at the end of the season.

"If we lose this meet, we will have some upset swimmers," Newcomb said.

This should be enough of a motivating factor for the Minutewomen, but if it is not, then how about the fact that another loss would give UMass a three game losing streak and a sub .500 record for the first time all season.

NEWS	SPORTS	TOMORROW
Director of AIDS policy in Massachusetts discusses the epidemic and the state. Page 3.	UMass Men's hoop team dismantles Boston University Terriers 76-60. Page 12.	Goals and attitudes of the Women's Caucus after a five-year hiatus. In Women's Issues.

MONDAY

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY MONDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1989

COLLEGIAN

VOLUME CXXIII LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 61

Super summit yields hope

MARSAXLOKK Bay, Malta (AP) – President Bush and Soviet Leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev wrapped up a two day superpower summit on Sunday, claiming strides toward a new era of East-West peace but underscoring differences that linger at the end of a 45-year Cold War.

Both men said they would meet again next year in the United States, and expressed the hope - but not the certainty - they would be able to sign historic agreements in 1990 to cut long range nuclear weapons and conventional forces in Europe and make progress toward a chemical weapons ban.

"We state, both of us, that the world leaves one epoch of Cold War and enters another epoch," Gorbachev said at an unprecedented joint news conference that marked the end of two days of storm-tossed talks held aboard a Soviet luxury liner. "We are just at the very beginning of our long road to a long-lasting peaceful period."

Said Bush after his first summit as president: "I am optimistic that as the West works patiently together and increasingly cooperates with the Soviet Union, we can realize a lasting peace and transform the East-West relationship into one of enduring cooperation."

Even so, neither man sought to gloss over differences on two topics, the Soviets' call for cuts in naval forces and American anger at the continued flow of Soviet weapons to leftist rebels in El Salvador.

Gorbachev departed Malta for Moscow, where he was convening a meeting of virtually an entirely new lineup of Warsaw Pact leaders to discuss the summit.

Bush went immediately to Belgium to meet with NATO leaders on Monday. Arriving in Brussels, he noted the "thunderous events" taking place in the Eastern bloc, and said, "Tonight we stand at the crossroads of history on a way to Europe, whole and free...And that simple truth brought Mikhail Gorbachev and me together in a windswept harbor off Malta."

Windswept it was. Bush and Secretary of State James Baker, who spent the night aboard ship in the harbor, sported penny-size patches behind their ears to guard against seasickness.

The joint news conference in Malta was held aboard the Soviet luxury liner Maxim Gorky, which was pressed into service as the site for the two days of talks after bad weather forced cancellation of plans to use U.S. and Soviet warships anchored offshore. An afternoon session and a dinner on Saturday were cancelled because of the rough weather.

AP photo

Soviet President Gorbachev gestures during talks with President Bush about the Soviet liner Maxim Gorky, docked in Marsaxlokk Bay, Malta, yesterday. Joining the meeting are Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and U.S. Secretary of State James Baker III right.

Duke sees a compromise

Rosenberg begs to differ on new taxes

NEWTON (AP) – Gov. Michael S. Dukakis expressed confidence Sunday that a compromise on new taxes will be reached before Christmas and reminded lawmakers that politicians aren't elected "just to do the popular thing."

However, in a telephone interview last night, Rep. Stan Rosenberg (D-Amherst) said he thinks Dukakis is being overly optimistic.

"Things look very grim at this point," he said.

Efforts to reverse the state's fiscal crisis were stymied last week when Speaker George Keverian failed to muster support for a $1.2 billion revenue package and the measure was returned to the House Ways and Means Committee.

Rosenberg said the tax bill is now back at square one. He added that he can't imagine the bill will be in committee any less than a week. Some legislators say it won't come out until after the new year, he said.

"As far as [the University of Massachusetts], we needed to do this as soon as possible, so bills would reflect the lower fee increases," he said.

Rosenberg said he will still fight to have a restoration package with the bill.

He said that another $800 million could be cut from the state budget, which could result in an additional cut of $40 to $50 million to public higher education.

Attending a fund-raiser for the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston yesterday, Dukakis spoke with reporters as he took a more active role in developing a revenue plan.

The governor has lobbied lawmakers on behalf of new taxes to deal with the state's estimated $825 million budget deficit for fiscal 1990. But he had no hand in writing the latest tax proposal.

Dukakis said he would continue to pare down government, but that taxes were needed to avoid further cuts to key human services and educational programs and restore "fiscal stability to this state so we can get the economy moving again."

Keverian, however, was less certain progress could be made. "We will wait and see if there's a consensus before any other action," he said. "It will be ready when it's ready, or it won't be ready at all."

Rosenberg said the statehouse has received 100 to 150 calls a day against taxes.

"Those who understand that taxes are necessary are just not getting through to their legislators," he said. "Students need to persuade their parents that this situation cannot be solved just by cutting programs."

Provost stands firm on contract violations

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Provost Richard O'Brien said yesterday that although there is no definition of a "legal strike" professors who canceled classes during the weeklong boycott of classes did violate the provision of the contract which prohibits work stoppage.

Peter d'Errico, professor of legal studies at UMass, said Thursday that in order for the professors to have violated strike policy of the contract, an actual strike had to occur. He said students participated in a boycott, not a legal strike.

However, O'Brien said the professors violated their contracts even if the boycott was not termed a "legal strike" because the contract prohibits work stoppage.

Last week, several professors received letters from O'Brien that alleged they canceled classes out of sympathy for the recent student strike.

The Massachusetts Society of Professors contract forbids work stoppage or withholding of services during a strike.

O'Brien said professors did violate the contract if they walked away from classes and left no arrangements to compensate for the missed time.

"The language of the the contract is very extensive," he said. "There is to be no work stoppage."

Frank Hugus, secretary of the executive board of the Faculty Senate, said faculty members had an obligation to hold classes regardless of the strike.

"The contract clearly indicates that they can't not hold classes," he said. "One can support the strike without canceling classes."

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

A rethinking of Marxism

By MICHAEL WEBBER
Collegian Staff

The recent events in Eastern Europe are demands for political freedom, multi-party systems, and democratic rights — not outright rejections of communism, or endorsements of the U.S. political system, said Professor Ralph Miliband, at a three-day Marxism conference at the University of Massachusetts.

Miliband, who traveled from England to attend the conference, Saturday said, "The term 'capitalist democracy' is a contradiction in terms. Any society based on inequality and oppression is not democratic."

Steve Cullenberg, one of the main organizers of the event and professor of economics at the University of California at Riverside, said the conference, "Marxism Now: Traditions and Difference," aimed "to bring together people who are rethinking Marxism from a variety of academic and non-academic fields and to begin to discuss the direction of Marxism in the 1990s."

Cullenberg said between 1,000 and 1,200 people participated in the conference, which included 57 panels of speakers and

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN
New England's largest college daily newspaper. Daily circulation: 21,000. Founded in 1870. Published every weekday during the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts. 113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA. 01003. For more information call (413) 545-3500.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

EDITOR IN CHIEF	DAVID R. MARK
MANAGING EDITOR	COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL EDITOR	MEREDITH O'BRIEN
BUSINESS MANAGER	ROBERT J. BIKASH
PRODUCTION MANAGER	TERRY STARMER

BOARD OF EDITORS

MANAGING	COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL	MEREDITH O'BRIEN
NEWS	SARAH DEMASTER NATHAN KRYSTALL
SPORTS	JIM CLARK GEORGE AUSTIN
ARTS	AL KAUFMAN W.J. GEORGIADES
PHOTOGRAPHY	DONDI AHEARN
WOMEN'S ISSUES	DANIELLE BIONDA KATERI WALSH
MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS	SCOTT C. HILL

BUSINESS BOARD

MANAGER	ROBERT J. BIKASH
ADVERTISING	JENNIFER RONAN
FINANCE	MARTINA RIOS
CIRCULATION	CHRIS BAKER
SUBSCRIPTIONS	JOYA FARETRA

GRAPHICS BOARD

MANAGER	TERRY STARMER
AD MANAGER	RORY EVANS
SUPERVISORS	MIKE WESTER FLORENCIO TERRA CHRISTINE ASHE TRICIA HANLEY

SUPPORT STAFF

BUSINESS	BRIAN HARRINGTON MAUREEN MAJEROWSKI LORI BLACK
GRAPHICS	ANDREA BELANGER

TODAY'S STAFF

NIGHT EDITOR	BETH GATELY
COPY EDITOR	COSMO MACERO Jr.
LAYOUT TECHNICIAN	PETER LEON
PHOTOGRAPHY TECHNICIAN	JOEL SOLOMON
PRODUCTION SUPERVISOR	CHRIS ASHE
PRODUCTION	KIM FRISINO TERRY STARMER MIKE ATKINS NICOLE DEMARTINO RENEE SMITH

Correction

The Collegian incorrectly reported Friday that fee waiver applications will be available until today. Applications will be available from today until Friday, Dec.22. The Collegian regrets the error.

LEGAL PROBLEMS?
Call the Legal Services Center of UMass!

HOUSING · FAMILY · STUDENT RIGHTS · CIVIL RIGHTS · WORKERS RIGHTS · CRIMINAL AND CONSUMER LAW ·

Call 545-1995

Recycle this newspaper

Open Early
Open Late
kinko's®
the copy center
220 N. Pleasant St.
253-2543

Come and try that little Italian place next to the Depot in downtown Northampton. This offer is good Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights through December 13th with this coupon.

BUY ONE DINNER, GET ONE FREE!
(Of Equal or Less Price)

spaghetti freddy's
That little Italian Place next to The Depot

ENGINEERING STUDENTS

AT RILEY, EDUCATION IS ENERGY

WHO WE ARE: Our innovative steam generator and fuel burning power systems create energy from a variety of traditional and non-traditional fuels—from gas, oil and coal, to coffee grinds, nut hulls and municipal waste. Cities and industries are learning a lot from us—and so can you.

HOW IT WORKS: Riley is seeking Chemical, Mechanical, Civil, and Electrical Engineering Students who are interested in Design Engineering, Performance Engineering, or Development work in the Steam Generation/Energy Industry. Our EIT Program is a six-to-nine-month training period in which the EIT gains exposure to the various facets of our Corporation—from contract design to field/performance testing to marketing and sales, our EIT's gain a bird's eye view.

And now, the energy is building—Riley Consolidated will be on campus:

December 5, 1989
8:30am-4:30pm
University Career Center

WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU: Creating enough energy to meet the world's needs is one of the major responsibilities we face today. Here, you'll have the satisfaction of knowing your degree can make a difference. Plus, you'll enjoy real advancement potential, an excellent salary and exceptional benefits, including 401(k) and tuition reimbursement.

WHAT TO DO: Make plans now to stop by your Career Center and sign up for an interview! If you can't make it, send a letter and resume to: Employee Relations Department, Riley Corporation, P.O. Box 2040, Worcester, MA 01613-2040.

RILEY CONSOLIDATED, INC
Ashland

JAC awaits decision

RSO status the question

By WILLIAM FLEISHMAN
Collegian Staff

The Student Government Association Registrar Committee is scheduled to decide tonight if the University of Massachusetts Japan-America club will be granted Registered Student Organization status.

Officers of the JAC will attend tonight's meeting to convince the RSO Board that a need exists for such an organization on campus, said Tara O'Brien, president of the JAC.

'Through our organization, we wish to provide Japanese as well other students in the UMass community a means of understanding cultural differences," O'Brien said. "We want to make people aware."

Since the beginning of the semester, the group has gained the support of the Asian Language Department and the International Programs Office and the Literature Department, according to O'Brien. They have also contacted similiar clubs in the five college area for developmental input and suggestions.

"We took our time [in applying to become an RSO]."O'Brien said. "We wanted to be well grounded in the community and become well organized."

"It just wasn't slapped together by any means — it really is a big project," said Matthew Reardon, one of organization's co-vice presidents.

Mami Ozaki, co-vice president and Japanese exchange student, said the JAC helps students from Japan learn English and experience American customs.

"Becoming part of this group has really helped me to integrate," she said. "I think that most Japanese students feel this way. I'm really getting used to the American way."

The JAC was officially started at the end of the summer by two students in the UMass Japanese department. With the aid of some faculty members from the department, the organization has since gained a membership of almost one hundred, O'Brien said.

In addition to educational endeavors of the club, the JAC also organizes social activities, such as day trips and different cultural events. The group also coordinates a language table that meets every Wednesday in the Blue Wall cafeteria to allow students the chance to practice conversational English and Japanese.

"Our goal is to create something here that will hopefully withstand the test of time," Reardon said.

AP photo

President George Bush and West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl greet each other on Bush's arrival in Brussels yesterday. Bush briefed the NATO leaders on the summit.

AIDS epidemic slowing down in Bay State

By CHRIS MUTHER
Collegian Staff

The increase of the AIDS epidemic appears to be slowing in Massachusetts, but an average of 41 new cases a month still surface, according to Dwayne Draper, director of AIDS Policy and Services for Massachusetts.

Draper, who spoke Friday at the AIDS Research Colloquium held in recognition of World AIDS Day, said as of Oct. 31, more than 26,000 cases of AIDS have been reported in the state. More than 18,000 of these people are still alive, he said.

Draper said the state should focus its effort on education and children.

"We have an effective vaccine for AIDS — education," he said. "The risk behavior involved in contracting AIDS is voluntary. We need to teach people not to take those risks."

Draper said AIDS workers are concerned about adolescents. He said if children do not receive explicit sexual education starting in grammar school, they will continue the spread of the disease and then "we could never stomp it out."

"Gay men were the first wave, drug users were the second wave, and if we're not careful, adolescents will be the third wave," he said.

Gay men, who account for five percent of the population in the state, have the highest percentage of AIDS cases with 62 percent, according to Draper. He said 30 percent of the cases are drug dealers.

As a result of the state's budget problems, Draper said AIDS funding could be cut by as much as $20 million in the next two years, which could effect housing for AIDS patients, mental health care and funding to hospitals to treat AIDS patients.

He said a goal of his department is to increase the state's health care system to better suit the needs of AIDS patients.

Draper said a series of grants totaling $8 million was given to 19 community health care centers in the state. He said the community health care center is the only sensible way to treat people with AIDS.

Health care facilities across the country are, and will be unable to cope with the influx of AIDS patients, Draper said. However, he added that he hopes the health care system in Massachusetts can revive.

"The revival of the health care system will be behind the epidemic," he said. "The virus spreads but the money doesn't," he said.

Draper said there has been controversy surrounding the issue of AIDS testing, because there are not enough facilities and enough money to test all those at risk. This, in addition to discrimination against high risk patients, places the group at an even higher risk. he said.

AP photo

Government soldiers inspect high-powered firearms surrendered by rebel soldiers yesterday in Camp Aquinaldo in suburban Quezon City.

Coup attempt thwarted

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Government forces battled rebel holdouts Sunday after driving off an assault on military headquarters by mutineers seeking to oust President Corazon Aquino. More than 600 rebels surrendered.

Defense Secretary Fidel Ramos said the government had crushed the attempted coup. Mrs. Aquino ruled out a cease-fire and vowed; "What they started, we will finish."

Junior and middle-grade officers in several provincial commands declared their support for the rebellion, which began Friday. About 400 rebels maintained control of Mactan Air Base in Cebu, 350 miles south of Manila.

Mrs. Aquino, facing her sixth coup attempt since coming to power four years ago, rejected suggestions by Cabinet members that she declare a "state of siege," according to assistant Press Secretary Lourdes Sytangco. Such a declaration would be tantamount to martial law.

El Salvadoran repression to be addressed tonight

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

America Sosa, an internationally-known Salvadoran human rights activist, and Mark Anner, an American trade union organizer nearly killed in October after a death squad bombing of El Salvador's largest labor federation are scheduled to speak tonight at the University of Massachusetts.

As part of a national tour, the two speakers will discuss the widespread suppression of church, labor and other organizations by the Salvadoran government and army, according to Rob Wilson, a coordinator of the Northampton-based El Salvador Health Clinic Project.

"Each of our guests has eyewitness experiences to share that will pull into focus the confusing and often tragic events of the last several weeks," he said.

Sosa fled El Salvador in 1985 after receiving death threats because of her involvement in The Mothers of the Disappeared and Assassinated of El Salvador. She became politically active after her husband died of injuries he received while being tortured by Salvadoran police, according to Wilson.

Anner, in a telephone interview yesterday, said that on September 18, the Salvadoran National Guard began a round-up of trade unionists in a raid of El Salvador.

Anner said his home was one of the many ransacked during the raid.

That afternoon, the National Federation of Salvadoran Workers (FENASTRAS), organized a march of 200 people, he said. The police sent bullets and teargas into the crowd, and raided a church in which several of the march participants tried to find refuge.

On October 31, Anner narrowly escaped death when the FENASTRAS office in San Salvador in which he was working was bombed, killing 10 people, he said.

Rene Heberley, of the Graduate Employee Organization, one of the groups which is sponsoring the event, said "Right now El Salvador is in the midst of a Civil War, so [the trade union movement] is just trying to survive," she said.

The trade unions are also trying to get fair wages, decent work conditions, and fair treatment of workers, she said.

Heberly said tonight's talk will aim "to bring to the attention the roots of what is happening now. This is not a sudden uprising on the part of the opposition. It's been building for years and years."

■ provost

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Philosophy professor Ann Ferguson, who received a letter from the Provost's office alleging that she violated her contract, said she cancelled one class because she did not want to penalize the students who were boycotting.

She canceled office hours but met with students because she said she didn't believe in crossing the picket line.

Ferguson said there were many professors who canceled classes to support the student strike, but only a few professors were targeted for "hassling by the administration."

Samuel Bowles, economics professor who also received a letter, from the Provost, said he canceled two of his classes to support the strike, but he made arrangements to reschedule them.

"I felt that this was the most effective way to dramatize problems that the University faced," he said.

Bowles denied he violated the contract.

"It is ludicrous of the University to worry about professors not fulfilling their obligations," he said. "It was the most dedicated professors who canceled their classes."

"I am a bit puzzled as to why the Provost chose to spend his time pursuing these complaints considering that any students who complained already knew that I had made other arrangements," Bowles said.

Glen Gordon, dean of the Social and Behavioral Science Department, said he believes that the Provost is under political pressure from state legislators to follow up their complaints about professors' conduct during the strike.

Arthur Quinton, physics professor, said that he supports the Provost's investigation and believes that providing notes "is a useful supplement but a poor substitute for teaching class."

■ Marxism convention

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

discussions, as well as art exhibits, poetry readings, videos and films.

Frank Cunningham, a professor at the University of Toronto who spoke at the conference, said he was excited by its realistic and engaged nature.

"People realized that there are no easy answers to the problems concerning socialism, and discussed socialism as it relates to real events occurring in Eastern Europe, Central America, and other areas of the world," Cunningham said.

ELECTION
FOR EDITOR
IN CHIEF
TODAY
9-5

Vote or be a parallelogram

THE UMASS MUSIC THEATRE GUILD
PRESENTS

EVITA™
A POP OPERA
by Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber
DECEMBER 7, 8, 9 8:00 p.m.
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
Get your tickets at F.A.C. Box Office
TODAY!
They are going fast!
$5 General Admission
$3 Students w/I.D.

The Office of Financial Aid
will be closed on Tuesday,
December 5, 1989
for mailing of Financial Aid Forms.

SQUIRE VILLAGE
APARTMENTS

1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments
available for January 1.

On Bus Route
CALL 665-2203

Genuine U.S. and European Surplus!

ANNUAL
ARMY & NAVY
Surplus Sale

- Genuine U.S. & European Military and Antique Overcoats $25 - $35
- Wool, West German, British, French Pants $15
- U.S., British, French, Italian Wool Sweaters $8 - $15
- Mexican Baja Pullovers and Blankets $12 & $15
- Heavy Cotton, 6-Pocket Field Pants: U.S., Dutch, West German $7 - $15
- Genuine Issue Camo, Desert, Tiger, Urban Black Six Pocket Pants $25
- World Flags (3' x 5') $10 each / 2 for $18
- Down Feather Mummy Sleeping Bags (0° - 15°) $30
- U.S. Navy Wool Middys and Peacoats $10 - $30
- Full Length Raincoats & Trenchcoats $6 - $15

LOCATION: Student Union Ballroom
University of Massachusetts

DATE: December 4 thru 8 (Mon.-Fri.)

TIME: 10 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Wool Blankets, Gloves, Hats,
Scarves, & Much, Much More!

Mastercard, Visa, and American Express accepted

presented by the Army Barracks of Martha's Vineyards

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted

Issues of choice

The Supreme Court's present debate on abortion rights truly represents the United States government's dual standards concerning individual freedom of choice.

Today's issue is teenage abortion. The question: must a teenager inform her biological parents before having an abortion performed on her fetus?

Nathan Krystall

Yes, say the right-to-lifers, including President Bush. A teenager cannot make such an important decision by herself; she needs parental guidance.

No, say pro-choicers. In many cases, informing her parents is practically impossible. Often, a pregnant teenager is from a dysfunctional family. Sometimes, the potential father is also the incestuous father of the teenager. More fundamentally, a teenager has the same right to privately decide to have an abortion as an adult woman does.

The real question then arises. Does any woman have a basic right to choose to have an abortion? No, say the right-to-lifers, fervently. Last night on television, I saw a fervent right-to-lifer demanding that women be forced to see the fetus they are aborting, before and after — with the implicit reasoning that if they really knew what they were doing, women would never undergo abortions.

Ironically, many so-called right-to-lifers, including President Bush, are also pro-capital punishment and pro-U.S. "intervention' abroad. Following the aforementioned right-to-lifer's logic, Bush and U.S. legislators should be forced to look at all the prisoners in this country who are sentenced to death, before and after their executions. Accordingly, should the victims of U.S. "intervention" — the corpses of slain Salvadorian peasants, Vietnamese people with no families, Angolan villagers with no legs — be paraded in front of the white walls of Congress?

Or is there a contradiction in U.S. policy, both domestic and foreign? The U.S. government's overt policy is "everyone has a right to life." Their covert policy is "everyone has a right to life, but only on our terms." The most recent U.S. government intervention, this weekend in the Philippines, was ostensibly to save Philippine democracy from a band of Communist rebels. But read between the lines. A large percentage of Filipinos, not just the military, are discontented with what they call President Aquino's "slow process of democratization."

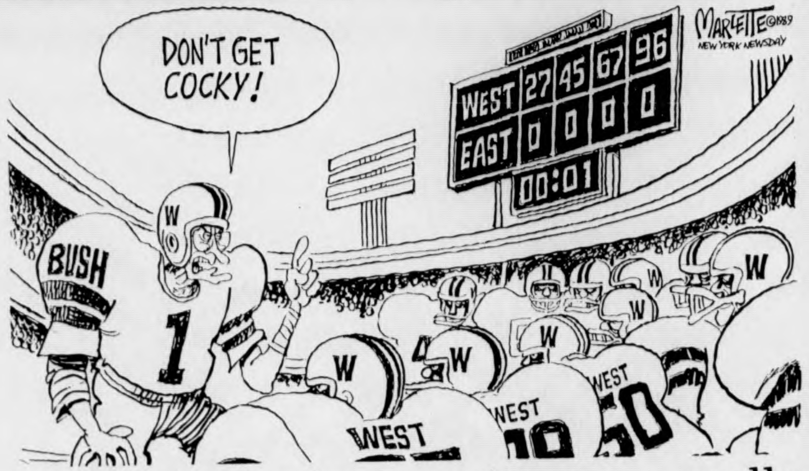
I'll admit that for certain people, namely rich White Americans including Bush, democracy does exist in the Philippines. The U.S. military can freely choose to use the Philippines as a strategic base from which to abuse their prowress. U.S.-owned multinational corporations can freely choose to exploit Filipinos for their cheap labor and their natural resources. When Bush ordered U.S. jet fighters to pin down the rebel planes, he was speaking mainly for the interests of a few wealthy Americans, not the Filipino people.

Why should a teenager be forced to bring an unwanted baby into the world? Will President Bush and the Supreme Court take responsibility for that child when, after growing up in a society that does not provide for her or his needs, she or he breaks the law? No, instead the person will be condemned to an overcrowded prison, or death. Then, the lawmakers will only be able to shake their heads, saying, "I don't understand these ingrates, even after we saved their lives when they were still fetuses, they still act in this delinquent manner."

Pregnant women should in no way be forced to uphold the "sanctity of life" by a government which upholds legislation that allows it to participate in the slaughter and oppression of human beings every single day.

Moreover, no matter what they like to think, U.S. officials do not have a moral monopoly that allows them to know if it is right or wrong for a woman to choose to terminate her pregnancy.

Nathan Krystall is a Collegian staff member



The grad school process is easy . . .really

Hey seniors! What are you going to do next year? Slapping together a beautiful resume on a laser printer and submitting it to whomever walks by with an open arm? Heading back home to the security of that McDonalds job (hey, it pays well, and living at home is free) or completing that Peace Corps application?

Alise Harfield

For a lot of you, none of these options is appealing. You've been sheltered for four years under the higher education hood — so why leave it? Especially when filling in the blanks of the resume with McDonalds just doesn't cut it for the managerial position you want at Digital.

Worst, the 'rents don't want you/your furniture home, really.

So, you take the easy way out. Apply for a graduate degree.

(Don't let anyone call you masochist. It's entirely understandable. You've been in school since kindergarten and lets face it, a 22 year-old habit is tough to break.)

But just in case you get any harassment from those wretched resume realists, and you just may, here's what you can tell them.

The graduate procedure is simple. See for yourself:

- Tests.

The first thing you have to do is write a check for $35-$70 to that computer system in Princeton — the same one that set up your SAT. Those fringe benefits are still there (stress this), you get four free reports sent anywhere, but to be on the safe side, you're applying to about a dozen schools.

So all you have to do is tack on an extra $13 per report. $13. (If they say the resume per copy is cheaper, tell them it's 13 cents. They'll buy it.)

- Preparation.

The measly four hour exam begins 8 a.m. Saturday, eight hours if you choose to be specific enough to apply to a program that requires your scores on anything but comparing columns of figures and filling in blanks of sentences. (Don't let on that you haven't taken a math course in refresher addition since 11th grade. The GRE is a test of common sense, knowledge common enough to be accumulated by every college student in the country.)

Aren't you glad you went to all your classes?

- Recommendations.

The most embarrassing moments in a student's life:

STUDENT (addressing PROFESSOR LAUREATE): H-Hi! Remember me? I sat in Row 3 of your Survey of Literature class.

PROF (face of stone): Uhuh. . .

STUDENT: It was two years ago. I came in late on Thursdays.

PROF: (face of hard stone): Uhuh. . .

STUDENT: I wore red a lot. . .

- Transcripts!

Yes, they have to be official; no you may not use white-out. Not that you would, of course. If it just weren't for that "F" in sophomore Entomology.

- Applications. Without a doubt the easiest part.

STUDENT (on phone, long distance): Can you send me an application for the English PhD program?

MERE SECRETARY WHO TRIES TO MAKE YOU FEEL INEPT: For what? The PhD? Don't you mean masters??

STUDENT: Well, yes. . .both, please.

SEC: Uhuh. Where are you?

STUDENT: Now? I'm in my kitchen. I mean, I'm in college. UMass. Amherst. Have you heard of it??

Oh, yes. The integral part of the application. The essay that will set you apart from your numbers on the GRE (hopefully 3 digit), your I.D. Number (9 digits) and your grades (letters!!):

- The Personal Statement.

The sheet of white paper on which you fill in the blank: I wanna go to grad school because. . .(it is here that you may use my words if you like) my parents don't want me/my furniture. . .

Read Alise Harfield every Monday

The Editorial Desk accepts letters and columns from the UMass and Five College area. All submissions must be typed (double-spaced) and have the writer's name, address and phone number attached.

EVERY SUBMISSION is subject to editing and automatically becomes the property of the Collegian. Letters may be no longer than 35 typed lines and columns not exceeding 65 lines.

The Editorial Desk does not accept letters written in response to other letters.

Youthful security with the future

"Forever and a day" is the literal symbol for eternity, but it appears that six years and a day means the same thing. Well, for Kevin and Tina it means wedding bells almost six years to the day that they had their first date. Marriage and the beginning of forever.

Kevin is a man that lives on my hall. Nearly two weeks ago, on a Wednesday morning, he told another hall-mate and I that he had something to show us. With a gleam in his eye, he beckoned us in to his room. Then he shut the door and produced a small beige box from his pocket and opened it. My jaw dropped.

There in the box was a diamond engagement ring.

"I think that I am going to give it to her today," Kevin said. I was still unable to reply. My hall-mate recovered quickly enough to answer, "Wow, Kev, that is fantastic. Congratulations!"

Now let me explain. It is not exactly a shock where Tina and Kevin are concerned. They have been together for over four years. Kevin is not some pie-eyed idiot running out to buy a ring after a week of disillusioned dating. This is something real, something rare, something special.

I suppose that the whole shock is the fact that Tina and Kevin are only ONE year older than me. Not exactly a generation gap, now is it?

Kevin has a next door neighbor named John, who, like myself, is a sophomore. John and his girlfriend, Sandy, have been together for over a year now. Marriage seemed such a minute possibility for any of my peers, but then the reality check from Tina and Kevin is making me ask questions about all relationships. What will the next year bring for Sandy and John? Or you? Or me?

Gayle Long

I mean, you cannot get much more mature than having a career and a family. Marriage is BIG. This is life commitment. This is sacrifice. This must definitely be love.

I look around me in this bizarre and crazy world, and to see two people so happy with themselves and with each other, that is love. To be comfortable to make this life decision amid all the scholastic and social pressure of the day, this must be real.

So, I went home over break and informed that this guy on the hall was proposing to his girlfriend. I sat around and tried to figure out if he had asked her, and what she said.

Sunday night, visiting with my neighbor, Kevin knocked on the door. He was smiling. A HUGE smile. "Tina's here. Want to come and say hello?" I raced down the hall to congratulate Tina, who sat beaming. Occasionally she would look down at the ring on her finger, and the look in her eyes said everything — I really love this guy. I want to be with him forever.

It was a fabulous thing to see them so content. They are sure about their future. They have a focus in life. As we sat around in Kevin's room, the phone rang. Kevin dashed to get it. The caller asked Kevin what he was doing, and he replied nonchalantly, "Oh, just sitting around talking to a few people from the hall and my fiance." For me, it finally hit me that this was a reality. They always want to be together and make a permanent life for themselves. Maybe I am still young too understand, it is sort of an unreal reality. But they love each other and that is real.

True love has been pondered, denied, embodied, proclaimed and written about throughout man's existence. To find it so soon in life is a stroke of luck. To keep it forever is equally so.

Congratulations, Kevin and Tina. God bless you, and your future together.

Read Gayle Long every Monday

Munchy Sale

Dec.4 - Dec.10

	Reg.	Sale
Cracklin Oat Bran 14 oz.	$3.40	$2.79
S.W.L. Water 64 oz.	.69	.55
Sunrise Marcal Paper Towels	.69	.59
Kudo's all flavors 6 pk.	2.32	1.99
Chefs Beef Ravioli 15oz.	1.20	.99
Pepsi 1 liters	1.04	.79
Ruffles	1.39	.99
Snickers	.40	3/.99

All items are available at
Franklin Munchy 7:30am-9:00pm
Hampden Munchy 8:00am-9:00pm
Worcester Munchy 8:00am-9:00pm
Weekend Hours Sat.-Sun. 12:00pm-8:00pm

Curriculum Fee Waiver

Undergraduate and Graduate applications for the curriculum fee waiver for Spring 1990 will be available in Financial Aid Services, Dec. 4, 1989.

Applicants must demonstrate a severe financial hardship to qualify for a waiver.

Application Deadline is Dec. 22, 1989

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Over 100 courses!

Almost half meet gen. ed. requirements.

University of Massachusetts at Amherst

Winter Session

Mail Registration—November 11-December 13
All mail registrations must be sent via U.S. mail and be postmarked no earlier than November 11. (Do not use campus mail.)

Walk-in Registration—
November 27-January 5
Room 615 Goodell Building

Registrations are processed in the order in which they are received, so register early!

Classes start January 3, 1990.

For more information, contact the Division of Continuing Education, Goodell Building, or call 545-2414.

Do You Need $$$$$$$$

Work all January as Inventory Auditors.

No experience necessary. Paid training provided.

RGIS INVENTORY SPECIALISTS

is the nation's largest inventory specialists with over 240 offices nationwide. January is our busiest month. Average 20 - 40 hours per week working weekdays, weeknights and weekends taking Inventory in Retail Stores.

To be considered you must have a phone, transportation, neat appearance and be dependable.

To learn more, call the RGIS office nearest your home, or interview at the Campus Center on the following dates: Wednesday, Nov. 29th, Rm 101, Thursday, Nov. 30th, Rm 917, Monday, Dec. 4th, Rm 101. Tuesday, Dec. 5th, Rm 101. Interview times are 10 AM to 4PM on the hour.

CALL	IF YOU LIVE NEAR...
800-344-9057	Worcester, Fitchburg, Athol, Framingham, Natick, Milford, Webster, Southbridge
800-696-5132	Lowell, Lawrence, Newburyport, Saugus, Medford, North Shore
617-497-4440	Boston, Allston, Cambridge, Somerville
508-559-7600	Brockton, Hanover, Taunton, Quincy, Dedham
508-746-7610	Plymouth, New Bedford, Cape Cod
800-346-3416	Springfield, Pittsfield, No. Adams, Amherst
800-752-5451	Fall River, Seekonk, Attleboro

Sponsored by Student Employment Office

ARTS & LIVING

Photo courtesy Warner Bros.

Miles Davis, one of the premier living icons of the jazz world, will play John M. Greene Hall tonight, at 7 p.m.

Not maniacal, but special

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

10,000 Maniacs
John M. Greene Hall
Thursday, Nov. 30

The name just doesn't fit. They're far from maniacs. They don't wear outlandish costumes and jump, scream and raise general havoc on stage. What 10,000 Maniacs did at John M. Greene Hall was provide a warm, personal, beautiful show on a cold winter's eve.

The evening began on a rather bland note. Utterly charming lead singer, Natalie Merchant, seemed a bit disinterested in her songs. With their song set exactly the same as it was for their summer tour, it was easy to understand why she felt this way.

Focusing on songs mostly from their two most recent albums, In My Tribe and Blind Man's Zoo, Merchant twisted and twirled less than usual. But she was her usual personable self. Before "A Campfire Song," she sat down and informed the audience, "My knees itch for some strange reason," as she proceeded to scratch away.

At the end of "Happy Puppet" she told the crowd that the puppet she usually wears during the song was back home in keyboardest Dennis Drew's garage, and that for anyone who wanted it, she said, "He lives at 14 Mulberry Lane, Faulkner, PA" (Sorry, Dennis).

But for the most part, the band was just going through the motions.

Then something wonderful happened. The energy of the crowd began to transfer to Merchant. The people wanted it to happen, and it did. At Merchant's request, one woman came up and lead everyone in "Gaudiamus," the Smith College school song. Merchant then had the audience sing "My Sister Rose," which they did until about halfway through, and led everyone in a surprisingly successful round of "Choral Bells."

It became obvious that Natalie (calling her by her last name seems so cold), was having as great a time as the fans. She just wanted to sing. Her a capellas of oldies (most notably her medley of Paper Lace's "The Night Chicago Died" and the show tune "Those Were the Days"), were worth the price of admission themselves.

By the time Natalie finished "Verdi Cries" and concluded with the gentle a capella ballad "New Jerusalem" I felt like she was a best friend.

The Black Velvet Band opened the show. Performing nine cuts from their fantastic debut album, When Justice Came, the boys from Ireland literally warmed the crowd up with songs such as "Old Man Stone." Although they are not the most exciting band to watch, and they occasionally sound a bit too much like the Waterboys, these guys could ride the Irish wave all the way to the top.

Dashing, debonair, daring Duke doesn't die, but he's different, on GH

By BETH STOLLER
Collegian Staff

GENERAL HOSPITAL — Duke escaped death when Julian's hired assassins riddled Duke's bed with bullets. Duke outfoxed them by putting pillows under the bedspread. Against doctor's orders, Duke left the hospital to protect Anna. Scott stole the diamonds out of Lucy's apartment. Scott kept some, and turned the rest over to the the cops. Emile helped Olivia escape from the mental hospital. Monica found out about Alan and Lucy's hot romance. Duke switched identities with a dead man. In other words, a new actor now plays Duke. Frisco fell victim to Eileen's charms when he tried to uncover some information about the murder. Colton decided to leave Port Charles for good after he told Felicia off. Robert chased Olivia to the roof of the hotel. Olivia hijacked Colton's helicopter and forced him to take off. The helicopter blew Robert and Kate over the edge of the roof. The pair are currently hanging on to a Marriot sign for dear life.

DAYS OF OUR LIFE — Roman vowed to find out who killed Marina even though her body disappeared. Shane didn't recognize Kimberly and Cal kissing in his own home. Rebecca and Shane went to Chicago to look for incriminating evidence against Arthur. Arthur confronted them with a loaded gun. Eve accused Kimberly of betraying Shane's memory when she found out that Kimberly and Cal got it on. Nick came out of his coma, but April hasn't told him she knows his illness is serious. Mike realized April loves Nick. Jack (Billy) told Isabella that Marina was murdered. Scott told Faith that he slept with Brooke to keep Brooke from accusing Colin of being involved in payola. Justin assured Anjelica he will prevent Victor from marrying Yvette. Scott and Colin got into a fight over Faith. Patch worried that Kayla was in danger.

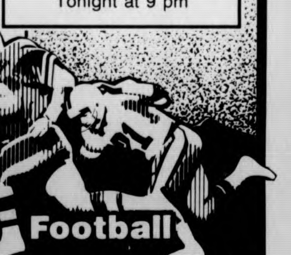
LOVING —Alex fell into Clay's trap. Jeff went berserk when Trucker accused him of killing Trisha. Trisha believed Jeff locked her away for her own protection. Gwyneth fell into Clay's arms after he wooed her with Shakespeare. Peter spied on Ava and Alex as they finally rekindled their love. Detective Hindman told Jeff that forensics could not positively say the body found in the scorched van was Tricia's, but circumstantial evidence says it was Tricia who died. Stacey still suspects that Jeff knows something about the van explosion. Trucker still believes that Tricia is alive.

TOP of the CAMPUS LOUNGE

Another TOC Extra ...
Complimentary Hot Dogs Tonight at 9

Lounge Hours:
Mon-Fri: 11:30 am-12:30 am
Sat-Sun: 5:00 pm-12:30 am

Buffalo Bills at Seattle
Tonight at 9 pm



Monday Night Football

11th Floor • Lincoln Campus Center • (413) 549-6000 ext. 7634
University of Massachusetts at Amherst

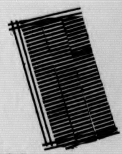
--- COMPARATIVE LITERATURE LECTURE SERIES ---

GEOFFREY HARTMAN

"Culture's Aftermath"

Thursday, December 7, 1989

8:00 PM, Campus Center, Room 163-164



PARTY!
*
PARTY!
*
PARTY!
*
PARTY!
*
PARTY!
*
PARTY!
*
PARTY!
*
PARTY!
*
PARTY!

SKI FREE!

FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS WITH VALID I.D.
GET A VOUCHER & SKI FREE ALL DAY DEC. 3rd, 1989 AT MT. ELLEN!*

PRIZES!

Grand Prize: LOOK SNOWBOARD!
Plus: Ski Accessories, Sweat Shirts, Goggles & More!
Attend the drawing from 4-6 pm!

PARTY!

4-6 PM • MUSIC! • FOOD! • CASH BAR!

PICK UP YOUR FREE VOUCHER FROM YOUR U MASS REP: PAULA 549-4291 OR AT SUGARBUSH

DECEMBER 3rd! COLLEGE DAY AT

SUGARBUSH
Ski Resort

800-53SUGAR • WARREN, VERMONT

Resident Assistant Selection Process 1990-1991

Leadership is becoming a Resident Assistant

An RA is a live-in part-time student staff member. Duties include fostering floor and cluster community, assisting with hall management, and enforcing University policies.

How to do it:

On Campus Students: go to your cluster office and pick up an application.

Off Campus Students: go to the following areas for applications–
Cance Area Office–SW South
Thoreau Area Office–SW North
Room B-30 Baker Area Office–OH/Central
Room 103 Johnson Area Office–NE/Sylvan

Become a student leader in your residence hall. Apply now for a Resident Assistant (RA) position. Applications are due between February 1-9, 1990 to the above area offices.

The University of Massachusetts at Amherst prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, sex, sexual preference, age, marital status, national origin, mental or physical handicap, political belief or affiliation, membership or non-membership in any organization, or veteran status. In any aspect of admission or treatment of students in employment.

BRITTANY MANOR

Brittany Manor Drive • (413) 256-8534

Two Bedroom Apartments
AVAILABLE NOW!

STARTING $490 PER MONTH

Rent includes heat and hot water.

ENJOY THESE FEATURES:

- Fully-Equipped Kitchen, Including Disposal
- Large Livingroom with Ceiling-to-Floor Windows
- On the UMass Bus Route
- Wall-to-Wall Carpeting
- Large Dining Area
- Oversized Bathrooms
- Wall-to-Wall Closets
- Storm Windows
- Dead-bolt Security Locks
- Cable T.V. Available
- Ample Parking
- Swimming Pool

To Greenfield
To Sunderland
Route 116 South
N. Pleasant St.
E. Pleasant Street
N
Amherst Center
Route 9
To Belchertown
Hampshire Mall
Route 116
East Hadley Rd.
BRITTANY MANOR
S. Pleasant St.
Shays Street
Pomeroy St.

Recycle this newspaper

HAPPY, Trees.

Half Of This Year's Medical School Class Got There With Our Help.

To study alone for the MCAT's is nearly impossible. To study without Stanley H. Kaplan is simply a bad career move.

Maybe it's our 50 years of experience. Our small classes and advanced teaching methods. Or a research department that reacts to test changes before most companies even know they exist.

Whatever it is, if medicine is in your future, Stanley H. Kaplan can help you start practicing right now.

For information call 800-KAP-TEST and find out more about any of our 135 centers nationwide.

STANLEY H. KAPLAN
Take Kaplan Or Take Your Chances

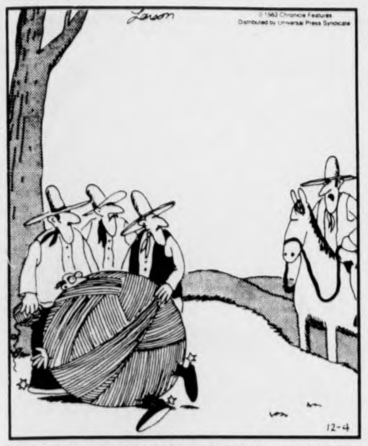
Winter Session Classes for:
LSAT,GMAT, GRE, MCAT forming
scholarship available for Financial Aid students
358 N. Pleasant St. 549-5780

AN EVENING WITH

UPC PRODUCTIONS
the The

VERSUS THE WORLD
MONDAY FEB. 5
STUDENT
UNION BALLROOM
$7 UMASS STUDENTS
$10 GENERAL PUBLIC
TICKETS ON SALE TUESDAY (12/5) AT TIX UNLIMITED/SUB, FOR THE RECORD/ FACES IN AMHERST AND MAIN ST. RECORDS IN NORTHAMPTON.

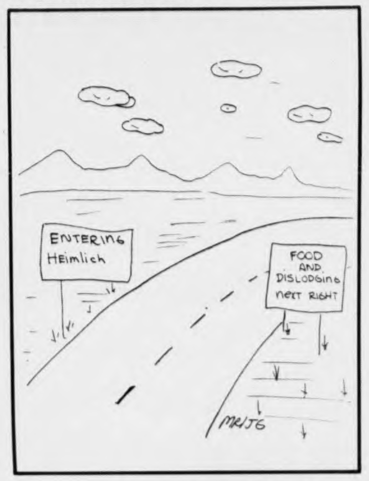
THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



Larson
© 1983 Chronicle Features Distributed by Universal Press Syndicate
12-4

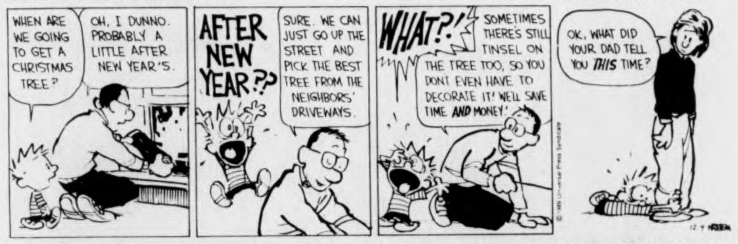
"Hang him, you idiots! Hang him! 'String him up' is a figure of speech!"

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG



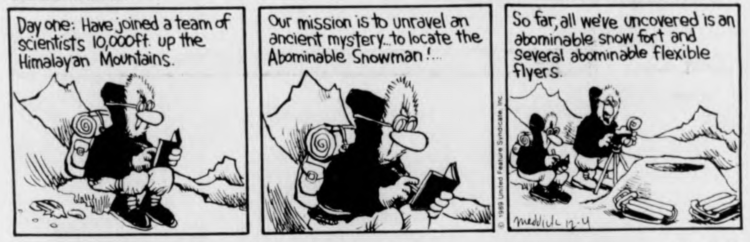
ENTERING Heimlich
FOOD AND DISLODGING NEXT RIGHT
MR/JG

CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



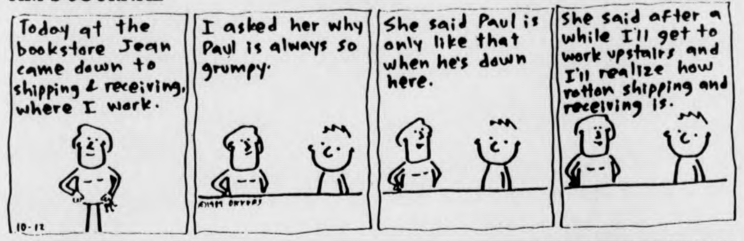
WHEN ARE WE GOING TO GET A CHRISTMAS TREE?
OH, I DUNNO. PROBABLY A LITTLE AFTER NEW YEAR'S.
AFTER NEW YEAR??
SURE. WE CAN JUST GO UP THE STREET AND PICK THE BEST TREE FROM THE NEIGHBORS' DRIVEWAYS.
WHAT?!
SOMETIMES THERE'S STILL TINSEL ON THE TREE TOO, SO YOU DONT EVEN HAVE TO DECORATE IT! WE'LL SAVE TIME AND MONEY!
OK, WHAT DID YOUR DAD TELL YOU THIS TIME?
© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate

ROBOTMAN
By JIM MEDDICK



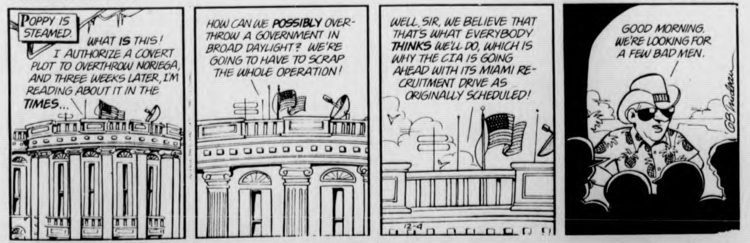
Day one: Have joined a team of scientists 10,000ft. up the Himalayan Mountains.
Our mission is to unravel an ancient mystery...to locate the Abominable Snowman!...
So far, all we've uncovered is an abominable snow fort and several abominable flexible flyers.
© 1989 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
meddick 12-4

JIM'S JOURNAL
By JIM



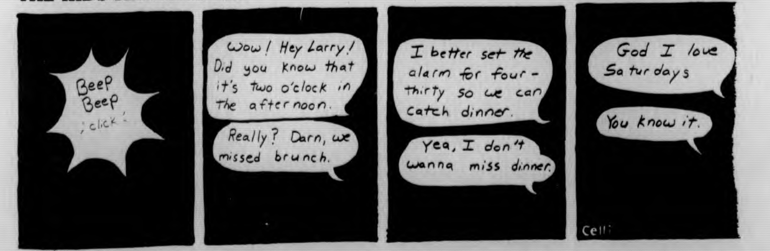
Today at the bookstore Jean came down to shipping & receiving, where I work.
I asked her why Paul is always so grumpy.
She said Paul is only like that when he's down here.
She said after a while I'll get to work upstairs and I'll realize how rotton shipping and receiving is.
10-12

DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



POPPY IS STEAMED.
WHAT IS THIS! I AUTHORIZE A COVERT PLOT TO OVERTHROW NORIEGA, AND THREE WEEKS LATER, I'M READING ABOUT IT IN THE TIMES...
HOW CAN WE POSSIBLY OVERTHROW A GOVERNMENT IN BROAD DAYLIGHT? WE'RE GOING TO HAVE TO SCRAP THE WHOLE OPERATION!
WELL, SIR, WE BELIEVE THAT THAT'S WHAT EVERYBODY THINKS WE'LL DO, WHICH IS WHY THE CIA IS GOING AHEAD WITH ITS MIAMI RECRUITMENT DRIVE AS ORIGINALLY SCHEDULED!
GOOD MORNING. WE'RE LOOKING FOR A FEW BAD MEN.
GBTrudeau
12-4

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT
By CELLI



Beep Beep ¡click!
Wow! Hey Larry! Did you know that it's two o'clock in the afternoon.
Really? Darn, we missed brunch.
I better set the alarm for four-thirty so we can catch dinner.
Yea, I don't wanna miss dinner.
God I love Saturdays
You know it.
Celli

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

ACROSS
1 Explorer Tasman
5 Lovesick
9 "— and a Woman"
13 Solitary
14 Oil support
15 Env. enclosure
16 Writer Ambler
17 Low key
18 —-date
19 Storage area
22 Actor Chaney
23 Caviar source
24 Pencil ends
26 Decorators
31 Barnyard sounds
32 Did a cobbler's job
33 Inner Hebrides island
35 Cannon of Hollywood
38 Finish
39 Computer method
42 Regret
43 Arthur of the courts
45 "Blame — Rio" 1984 film
46 Oafs
48 "Believe — Not"
50 Sensitive area
52 Soothes
55 "— clear day..."
56 Sort
57 Ethel Merman role
63 God, in Spain
65 Abated
66 Assistant
67 Poet Pound
68 Beverly of opera fame
69 Anna Sten role
70 Belafonte favorite of 1956
71 Have 'em rolling in the aisles
72 Ladies of Spain, for short

DOWN
1 A Waugh
2 Tiresome one
3 N. Oklahoma town
4 "A Small Town in Germany" author
5 Ancient France
6 Regarding
7 Silly ones
8 City official
9 Tempe coll.
10 Hotcake enhancer
11 John Jacob
12 Broadway lights
14 Man with a mike
20 Musical refrain
21 Oriental principle
25 Grass
26 Aboard ship
27 Puts on 28 Andrew Jackson
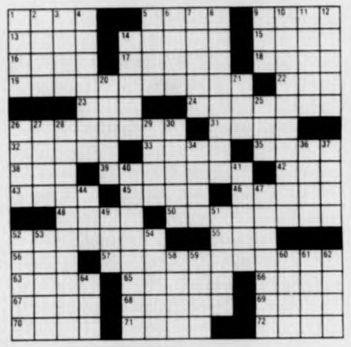
29 Split
30 Takes off by oneself
34 Pedro's son
36 Sedan
37 Tree house
40 Solidity
41 "Maria —"
44 Fraternity letter
47 Citizens of a Japanese port
49 Spanish wave
51 Crosses
52 Passed the time
53 Shaw's Miss Doolittle
54 Slowpoke
58 Cuba, e.g.
59 Slithery
60 Fabricator
61 Author Ferber
62 Affirmatives
64 — Paulo

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

R	E	A	M	■	E	R	M	A	S	■	G	A	G	E
U	C	L	A	■	M	E	A	L	Y	■	L	O	L	A
T	H	E	E	M	P	E	R	O	R	J	O	N	E	S
S	O	X	■	A	L	F	I	E	■	I	R	E	N	E
■	■	■	C	L	O	S	E	■	P	L	Y	■	■	■
S	A	F	E	L	Y	■	A	N	I	L	■	M	R	S
A	M	I	N	E	■	S	N	A	P	■	M	O	O	N
G	U	E	S	T	I	N	T	H	E	H	O	U	S	E
A	C	R	E	■	D	U	O	S	■	A	N	N	I	E
S	K	Y	■	G	I	G	I	■	R	I	T	T	E	R
■	■	■	L	E	O	■	N	O	O	N	E	■	■	■
A	T	S	E	A	■	D	E	L	T	A	■	H	U	D
T	H	E	G	R	E	A	T	S	A	N	T	I	N	I
M	I	N	T	■	A	L	T	E	R	■	A	K	I	N
E	N	D	O	■	T	E	E	N	Y	■	V	E	T	O

12/4/89



YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES(March 21-April 19): Be certain to make your deadlines; your reputation is at stake. Events behind the scenes show that you have important choices to make. A dynamic individual gives you excellent advice; follow it!

TAURUS(April 20-May 20): A partnership and your finances are top priorities. Trust your intuition. Incoming messages deserve close scrutiny. Avoid disconcerting situations this evening. Others look to you for leadership.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20): Avoid acting on impulse. Correct any slipups made recently. Showcase your talents. An authority figure will be impressed by your ideas. A close relationship responds to gentle nurturing.

CANCER(June 21-July 22): Be a comparison shopper when looking for holiday gifts. Check the newspaper ads for special sales. Catering to partner's wishes this evening will create new rapport. Be a good listener.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22): Evaluate your efficiency this week and tie up loose ends. You need to find new ways to deal with your competition. Tax matters are a priority for some; consult your accountant for answers.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22): Business agreement signed today will produce substantial gains. Expect more cooperation from romantic partner. A parent-child relationship begins to blossom, thanks to a heart-to-heart talk.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22): Making intelligent concessions to important people wins you valuable new allies. A sibling reveals a secret; keep this loved one's confidences. Tender gestures work miracles!

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21): It will be easier to complete projects than to launch them now. A confrontation may be inevitable. Meet opposition head-on and sort things out. Everything turns out better than you expected.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21): All signals are "go" today! Sign agreements only after reading the fine print. A newcomer shows you a better way to do something. Be appreciative. Love is a many splendored adventure.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19): A close friend shares a childhood experience that gives you a fresh perspective. Focus on replacing bad habits with good ones. Renew old friendships. Romance is sweeter the second time around.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18): Your ESP is a big career asset today. Recycle old ideas to reap new profits. Higher-ups applaud versatility. You are in a position to do what you want when you want; rejoice!

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20): Your independent streak works to your advantage, especially in business. Others look to you as a role model; do not let them down. You may be working late tonight. Let mate know.

MENU

LUNCH	DINNER
Chicken cutlet sandwich	Roast top round of beef
Bacon-onion quiche	Breaded veal pattie

BASICS LUNCH	BASICS DINNER
Boursin and sprout sandwich	Eggplant parmigiana
Chicken cutlet sandwich	Garbanzo vegetable stew

Minutemen knock off BU

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 12

ing 24 points (32 overall) as the Minutemen built a 42-31 intermission lead.

"McCoy obviously had a great game," said BU coach Mike Jarvis. "He basically tore us apart by himself. When he wanted to score, he did."

Coming off the 1-for-14 Lowell debacle, McCoy reclaimed the reputation he nurtured last year as a pure scorer. With Barbee and Williams out with three fouls early, and the Minutemen clinging to a 29-26 lead, the sophomore from Pittsburgh, simply put, just went off.

Two free throws, two baseline jumpers, a running bank shot, a swooping one-hander. McCoy's little five-minute show helped push the Minutemen to a 13-5 half-closing run and a cozy 11-point edge.

"The attitude I have now is, the guard who has got to watch me, has gotta watch out," McCoy said. "That's the attitude I have to take.

"[Against Lowell] I didn't come out with any enthusiasm. I was lazy," McCoy said. "This game is the way I'm going to play. I learned my lesson."

"The biggest thing, is that I can count on my guy over there [McCoy] to score," Calipari said.

Calipari found some more guys to bank some hopes on. Namely, senior guards Cary Herer and Chris Bailey, junior guard Rafer Giles and freshman forward Tommy Pace.

Giles (17 points) hit a 3-pointer and converted a Herer touchdown pass to give UM its biggest lead, 51-35 with 17:15 to play. From there, the Terriers started to attack the inside, gradually knocking Barbee and Williams out and putting Tate on ice with four fouls.

Sophomore Jason Scott ended Williams' night, and converted the front end of the 1-and-1 to bring BU within six, 61-55, with 8:36 still to play. The crowd, a weak 1,861 showing, was abuzz.

"By then I was thinking 'punt,' " Calipari said. "I kept looking at the clock and saying, 'Run.' But I didn't want to stop playing. I wanted to keep up the attack and use some time."

Herer stuck the knife in the Terrier balloon, taking the inbound after the Scott free throw, and driving all the way to the hole for a 3-point play. Pace (eight points, 12 rebounds) followed with a tip-in and a pair of free throws and — voila, back up to 13 at 68-55.

Herer, strictly a substitute his first three seasons, was forced to a starting role when it was learned that sophomore Anton Brown will be out at least 6-8 weeks with a stress fracture in his left knee. Herer contributed a career-high seven points, and also had six assists and pulled down seven rebounds.

"I've been waiting to start for four years. I had nothing to lose out there," Herer said.

The only downer for UMass, aside from Barbee and Williams, was at the free throw line. The Minutemen hit just 25-of-41 from the stripe (61 percent) and missed eight 1-and-1 chances in the final five minutes.

But with BU scoring just five points over the final 8:36, it really didn't matter.

"The same thing happens to most teams. You get behind and play like you're behind," Jarvis said. "You've got to play like you're ahead, and we didn't do that.

"UMass played very, very well. They executed their game plan and we didn't."

Uh, what was that game plan again?

"We just played real hard. Against any team, if we don't play hard, we're not going to win," Herer said.

Just play hard.

The recipe for success for the 1989-90 UMass basketball team.

R U A SECRET SANTA?

Gifts from 19¢ to 4.99

Find It at Faces

amherst / northampton
daily & sunday

Auto Glass Center
American & Foreign

- SAME DAY SERVICE
- BILLED DIRECTLY TO INSURANCE COMPANY
- WINDSHIELDS REPLACED

North Amherst Motors
78 Old Sunderland Rd
North Amherst, MA,
549-2880

Most Major Credit Cards Accepted

Open Early
Open Late

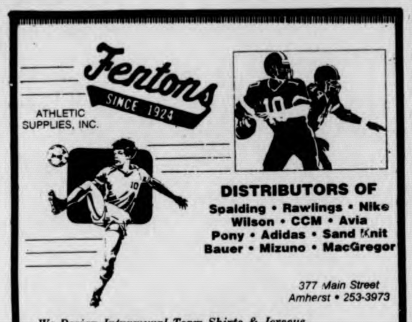
kinko's®
the copy center

220 N. Pleasant St.
253-2543

JAMMIN' ONLY THE HOTTEST MUSIC
YOUR NEW PARTY STATION

BLASTING YOUR BOX
STARTING TODAY

LISTEN...
IT'S AWESOME!!



Fentons
SINCE 1924
ATHLETIC SUPPLIES, INC.

DISTRIBUTORS OF
Spalding • Rawlings • Nike
Wilson • CCM • Avia
Pony • Adidas • Sand Knit
Bauer • Mizuno • MacGregor

377 Main Street
Amherst • 253-3973

We Design Intramural Team Shirts & Jerseys

AMHERST CINEMA

SEX, LIES & VIDEOTAPE

Rated R

Monday-Thursday
7:30 p.m.
Friday & Saturday
7 & 9 p.m.

$2.50 w/student ID

Located in downtown Amherst
30 Amity Street
253-5426

Interested in a career in merchandising?

Separating fact from fiction . . .

will help you discover the advantages of the T.J. Maxx Corporate Executive Training Program:

Fiction	Facts
Retailing isn't a "business" in the corporate sense.	In fact, retailing accounts for over $100 BILLION in sales annually. This sophisticated, exciting industry is big business and offers challenge and opportunity to talented professionals at all levels.
All buyer training programs start out in the store.	At T.J. Maxx, you'll work in our corporate Home Office. This means you'll have a chance to interact with other areas, build relationships and see how it all comes together.
Of course, a retail or marketing degree is an absolute "must."	Whatever* your major, if you're a decision maker with keen analytical and problem solving skills, you've got what it takes to succeed at T.J. Maxx.
With everybody competing for a few top spots, it takes years and years to become a buyer.	Because our Buyer Training Program is self-paced, the opportunity is there to advance through it more quickly than you could through one of our competitors' programs. And since we're so successful, there's always room for growth.

You'll find that our competitive pay, great benefits and growth opportunity aren't fiction, either. T.J. Maxx will be on campus in February. Please stop by either the Career Center or the School of Management Placement Office for more information.

T·J·maxx®

Off-price retailing is our business

An equal opportunity employer

CONVISER&DUFFY
CPA REVIEW
800-274-EXAM

Be a winner! Make the CPA Exam a once in a lifetime experience. For a copy of the May 1989 CPA Exam, with model answers, and a chance to win a free course, calculator, or mechanical pencils and pens, please fill out this form and send it to:

Conviser & Duffy CPA Review
401 Seventh Ave, Suite 62
New York, NY 10009

Check the first 1990 issue of your school newspaper, all winners will be listed.

Name ____________________
Address ____________________
School Attending ____________________
City ____________________ State ________
Zip __________ Telephone ____________________

STUDENT & FACULTY FARES

1/2 roundtrips from New York

LONDON	169
PARIS	205
ROME	245
roundtrips from New York
TOKYO	749
CARACAS	318
SAN JOSE C.R.	338

Taxes not included.restrictions apply.
One ways avaiable.
EURAIL Passes issued on the spot!!
FREE Student Travel Catalog!!

Council Travel
79 So.Pleasant Street, Amherst
413 - 256 -1261

women

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 12

Maura Rodgers)," said Hewelt.

The plan worked as Rodgers labored through a 1-6 shooting afternoon with eight turnovers.

Hoop notebook: The Minutewomen take on St. Joseph's and its All-American candidate Dale Hodges in Philadelphia tonight. The 6-foot-1 center averaged 23.4 points and 11.2 rebounds last year .

DASHING THRU THE SNOW

COMPARATIVE LITERATURE LECTURE SERIES

JUDITH MERRIL

"Gaia—Search for a World Mythology."
Monday, December 4, 1989
3 p.m. Campus Center 168

THE THIRD ANNUAL
UMASS HILLEL
MINI-MALL

In the
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
DECEMBER 4TH - 8TH, 1989

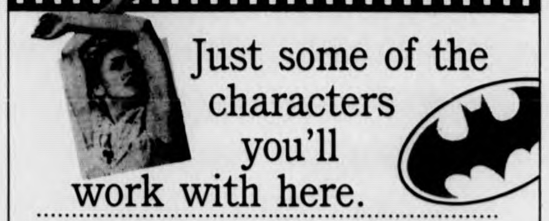
Everyday will bring something new and different!

Jewelry
Army/Navy
Leather Goods
Nacks
Clothes
Accessories
Furniture
Free Raffle (first time ever)
Sweaters
Novelties
Nicks

This year there are five fun filled days:

Mon.	Dec. 4th	11a.m. - 5p.m.
Tues.	Dec. 5th	10a.m. - 5p.m.
Wed.	Dec. 6th	11a.m. - 5p.m.
Thurs.	Dec. 7th	10a.m. - 5p.m.
Fri.	Dec. 8th	10a.m. - 4p.m.

Come shop for all your daily and holiday needs!!!!!!!!!!!



Just some of the characters you'll work with here.

You'll also be in close contact with Calvin Klein, Anne Tyler, and Mel Gibson. That's because we're 660 Corporation, the retail management professionals behind the B.U. BOOKSTORE MALL — where you'll find books, videos, clothes, computers, and more. And you can find out more about our current job opportunities by visiting our:

OPEN HOUSE
for The B.U. BOOKSTORE MALL
Kenmore Square, Boston
Tuesday, December 12, 1989
10:00am - 4:00pm
CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE

Stop by to explore a position as a cashier or stock person, and fill out an application — you could be hired immediately!

100 Positions Available During RUSH

- Full and part time temporary positions (from Christmas through late January)
- An immediate store discount of up to 30%
- Hiring "on the spot"
- A work environment with lots of character!

If you can't attend our Open House, please call (617) 236-7488 for more information.

660 Corporation

Work with the world's best.

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8:30-3:30, FRI 8:30-2:30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE. 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

MOVIE MARATHON - The French Club will show the movies "La Chevre", "Betty Blue", and 'Buffet Froid" on Thursday Dec. 7 starting at 6:00p.m. Tickets will be sold on Wed and Thurs morning in the lobby of 3rd floor Herter between 8:00 and noon. The location of the movie showings will be posted in Herter Hall during the week. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

HOLIDAY PARTY WITH TRI SIGMA see what Greek Life is like! December 4th 7-8 pm 387 North Pleasant Street 545-1224.

ASIAN AMERICAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION General Meeting Tuesday December 5, 1989 7:00pm CC804-08 Choreographer for Asian Night will be elected.

HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL WEEK COMMITTEE meets Mondays 2:30pm in SU301. Today we are discussing THEMES. All are welcome. Join us!

CRAFT FAIR on the concourse this wednesday, Thursday, Friday. Buy all your gifts. Ceramics, drums, glassblowing and more.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO JOIN THE TAE KWON DO CLUB. Check us out. MW 6-8 in the Campus Center.

ABILITIES UNLIMITED MEETING TONIGHT 7pm Learn about rights and concerns of the disabled. Brett TV Lounge. All are welcome.

ATTENTION ALL NURSING STUDENTS - The SNA meeting will be held on Wednesday, December 6, don't forget to attend.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA NEW INITIATES Meeting for nominations and elections Tues Dec 5 CC 165-169 7:00.

THE BUSH IS OPEN UMass Ski Club goes to Jamaica, Quebec, Sugarbush, Breckenridge 430 Student Union 545-3437 or concourse table.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SUGARBUSH — SKI FREE!
Suday December 3rd is College Day
at Sugarbush! Call for details on how to ski for free! Dec 5th
is the last day to take advantage of the $325 student pass rate! Call Paula at
549-4291 for more info on either offer!

GREENOUGH SNACK BAR closes this Friday. How many Subs can YOU eat in a week?

RUSSIAN CLUB MEETING MON DEC 4 at 4:30 in Herter 601 all are welcome.

VISA OR MASTERCARD! Even if bankrupt or bad credit! We guarantee you a card or double your money back.Call 1-805-682-7555 ext M-1207.

BED AND BREAKFAST
Downtown Amherst
549-5961

AUTO FOR SALE

RABBITS FOR SALE: 1978, Blue, well-maintained. New Engine, 22,000 miles. Recent Paint job. New muffler. Must sell. $1650.
1980. Grey Engine runs well. High mileage. Some rust 450 or BO. Jim, 549-6306.

1979 BUICK SKYHAWK. Great shape: New tires, and muffler. $1000 or B/O call 546-8228.

1982 VW RABBIT 4 speed hatchback - AM FM-AC New exhaust excellent condition $1600 or best offer. Call 586-9526 EVES.

SEIZED CARS, TRUCKS, 4 WHEELERS, TV's, stereos, furniture, computers by DEA, FBI, IRS, and US Customs. Available your area now. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext C-1675.

ATTENTION - Government Seized Vehicles from $100. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus buyers guide. 1-602-838-8885 ext. a-7627.

1983 CHEVROLET CAPRICE WAGON good engine high miles $700 or BO Eric eves 584-3506.

COLD???

DON'T GET LEFT OUTin the cold! Spring break trips are going fast! Choose from the Bahamas, Cancun, or South Padre Island! Great Prices! Great time! For more information call Donna at 549-8228!

ENTERTAINMENT

BILLY JOEL TICKETS 21 row floor Worcester Centrum Friday December 8 Best offer call Jodi 546-9365.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED

FOR NEXT SEMESTER! Very low rent, sunny and clean (non-smokers, please) apartment. Call Alise 256-1250, evenings. Thanks.

FOR RENT

ROOM FOR RENT large house So. Amherst on 2 bus routes big yard 250 + 256-4927.

FARMHOUSE WITH SILO SUNDERLAND Room available busstop $225 (util incld) 665-4627.

ROOM/HOUSE PRIVLEGES IN luxury condex 12 mins to UMass 350$ utilities (negotiable) fee. 665-2995.

2 BEDROOMS AVAILABLE in Puffton starting Jan. 1. 3 people needed. Rent is $165/month per person includes heat and hot water. Take over lease. Call 549-2781.

ROOM AVAILABLE IN QUIET EAST PLEASANT ST. HOUSE starting 1/1/90 for male non-smoker. 5 minute walk to campus. On Orchard Hill bus line. Full kitchen, 2 full baths, W/D. 300/mo. Call Greg 549-6270.

SUNDERLAND - large 2 bedroom apt on bus rte. in complex, lease. $400 per mo. Call 665-8946. Starts Jan.

WANTED: 1-3 females for Townehouse apt starting in Jan $182/mot. Please call 549-8026. Leave a message.

SPACIOUS SINGLE 4BD APT 235 heat/water no deposit or lease non-smoker m/f. 256-4659.

TWO BEDROOM APT. AVAILABLE IN BRITTANY beginning Jan 1 and ending June 1 $560/mo heat and hot water inc. Call 253-2303.

TAKE OVER OUR LEASE 2 bedroom swood apt new carpet, appliances, paint call 253-7085.

ONE BEDROOM APT. in Sunderland for rent. Avail Jan 1. Call 665-7353 after 4 p.m. Mon thru Friday. on bus route. Good deal to be made.

FOR SALE

SKI BOOTS 4 SALE! Black Dolemite size 7m call Chris 546-7144.

KEG COOLER AND CO2 TANK for sale call 253-0930.

QUEENSIZE FUTON AND MATTRESS both exc. cond. $85 and $45 scuba gear cheap Ken 538-3139.

NINTENDO ENTERTAINMENT SYSTEM — perfect condition $50 or BO Atari 2600 with 6 cartridges $30 leather jacket $130 Eric 546-9602.

HARTFORD TO WASH DC USAir ticket $118 from Dec 6 to Dec 10 call 549-9316.

REPOSSESSED VA & HUD HOMES available from government fro $1 without credit check. You repair. Also tax delinquent foreclosures call 1-805-682-7555 ext H-2009 for repo list your area.

SAN FRANCISCO $99 Dec 7th and 13th 253-7109 or 253-9875.

COMPUTER AMIGA 1000 1988 3 disk drives memory board mouse, amaculate condition high tech graphics, stereo sound, great for video over $1000 in disks, asking $1500 or best offer 546-6245 leave message.

SKI BOOTS SALOMON SX61 size 9. $100 or B/O call 549-5157.

---PLANE TIX 4 SALE---

One way Dec 28th Ticket Boston to Minneapolis $120 or BO Call Marshall 6-6853.

HELP WANTED

ATTENTION: EARN MONEY READING BOOKS! $32,000/year income potential. Details 1-602-838-8885 ext bk7627.

ADVERTISING SALES REP Innovative marketing program needs sales rep for UMASS market. Excellent $ opportunity. Local advertising experience necessary. Call Gary at 919-361-4646.

HOLIDAY JOBS FOR THE ENVIRONMENT
Work on progressive recycling campaign MASSPIRG is hiring bright people to help pass strongest solid waste legislation in the country. Earn 200-300/week, full and part-time jobs available. Call Mick today! 256-6434.

DIRECTOR WANTED apply w/in SGA Communications Office, 304 SU by 12/6. Ask for Kim 545-1977.

ATTENTION - hiring! Government jobs - your area. $17,840-$69,485. Call 1-602-838-8885. Ext. R7627.

CRUISESHIPS NOW HIRING for spring, Christmas and next summer breaks. Many positions. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext S-1120.

CARE FOR THE ELDERLY. Full and part-time positions available. Flexible hours. Car required. Call 253-9726 for information. AA/EOE.

BEAT THE HIGH COST OF TUITION! Earn $1,500 and up this winter break while you help in the fight against pollution and depletion of our natural resources. Train now to work over January No exp necessary call 549-7450 Clean Water Action.

LEARN TO RUN YOUR OWN BUSINESS THIS SUMMER and make big money at the same time. For the last two years our managers have averaged $9000. Call T.A.S.P. today and get in on the opportunity. 1-800-922-5579.

ADVERTISING SALES REP Innovative Marketing Program needs Sales rep for UMAss market. Excellent $$ opportunity. Local advertising experience necessary. Call Gary at 919-361-4646.

PART TIME EARN EXTRA CHRISTMAS MONEY while helping others. $5.50-$6.50 per hour. Call 586-5243.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-641-8003 ext 598.

STREET ENTERTAINMENT NEEDED FOR CHRISTMAS Season fundraiser! Earn extra money for Christmas! Call 586-5243.

I'LL EDIT YOUR PAPER

I'LL HELP WITH SPELLING, grammar, word choice, sentence structure and length. Let me take your rough draft and make it something special. $2 for pages 1-5, $1.50 for every other page. Papers in the humanities (economics, political science, journalism, etc.) preferred. Four years editing experience. Call David at 253-2455. Leave a message on my machine. Thanks.

LOST

LOST: KEYRING W/BLUE Japan medallion please call 6-5659.

66676 BACKFIRED AND 66749 doesn't seem to connect us. Please leave the wallet at the Campus Center Information Desk or take an ad out here so I can contact you. Will reimburse.

HEWLETT PACKARD 11C CALCULATOR in CC Reading room Monday. 256-8189 Reward.

LONGHAIRED ORANGE PERSIAN CAT, answers to Buckwheat, lost 11/19 Maplewood Farms Area, fluffy tail, white chin alte red male, huge reward; brokenhearted, call 256-8448 anytime.

MOTORCYCLES

YAMAHA '82 Mint cond. $600 BO. 2 Helmets 253-5018 call eve.

PERSONALS

W. JENNIFER: Oh Poetess of over-ripe vegtables! Chill pill girl. These 22 years have been "so we-ud".

ZONE OUT AT D.P. DOUGH

DIC8V I will always love you WOIF23

TO THE SEXY STUD ON SUNSET thanks for a great semester I really don't know why its lasted this long!!! But I'm glad it has love Heather.

DOTTIE V I want you back love Julio.

JACK CONDON - Happy birthday to my big brother, I'll miss you next semester! Love, Denise.

OH MY HEAD!!! It's Tracey's 18th B-Day to our favorite stress case: Now that you are 18, what are you going to do with your life?! Sign says: Stay away fools, cause love rules at the love shack! Happy birthday! Love, Step & Binky, Gal-wee and your favorite roomie.

SAMANTHA & CJ: You finally made it! Congratulations and thank you for being awesome littles. Love Penny.

CHRISTOPHER MANDY HAPPY BIRTHDAY! Hope your 21st is very drunken! Sorry I can't celebrate with you today but we will this weekend! I love you! MEOW.

QUA! Feliz Compleanos!! -Poke.

PAM I LOVE YOU WITH ALL MY MIGHT. YUJI.

LAURIE F (PREPPIE!) What a great person you are. Thank you so much for everything! I love my letters! Love, Broomy.

TO THE CAST OF UNIFNISHED WOMEN - Get psyched for opening night! Good luck to all! Love Midgey.

FINALS GOODY BAG
Order your finals goody bag
now! For yourself, a friend, a secret admirer...Dec. 4th & 5th on the
Campus Center Concourse.
SPONSORED BY ALPHA CHI OMEGA

ROOMATES WANTED

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED ASAP or Spring Semester to share fully furnished apt in brandywine call 549-8748.

SUNSET APTS - One roommate needed 165/mo call 549-3826 leave message (Across from college pizza)

FEMALE NONSMOKER ROOMMATE to share bedroom, avail Jan 1 200 + util. Puffton 549-7464.

LOOKING FOR 3-4 FEMALES to take over lease January 549-1662.

ONE FEMALE ROOMMATE FOR SPRING SEMESTER to share MILL VALLEY ESTATE APT.
- On bus route
- cheap
- new apt
- nice roommates

Call now! 256-6740.

ROOM AVAILABLE IN NEW CONDO starting Jan. 1. Female grad student preferred 253-3107 or 545-4675.

SERVICES

PIONEER RESUME. Open everyday. Professional, fast, inexpensive. 4 year disk storage. 665-8873.

HOLIDAY GIFT IDEAS - Mary Kay skin care products and nail care - Call Sue 549-6087.

SKI SUGARBUSH...

TODAY IS THE LAST DAY
to get your student pass at
SUGARBUSH for $325.00.
After today they'll be $405.00!
Call Paula immediately for info.
549-4291.

TO SUBLET

GOING AWAY FOR INTERSESSION? Two quiet females will sublet your apt. for January. Contact 546-7339.

TRAVEL

CANCUN FOR SPRING BREAK 8 days 7 night of parties people sun and no drinking age. Starting at $359 Call Chris or Amy 549-0532.

$60 WILL RESERVE YOUR TRIP to Cancun, Bahamas, Jamaica pay balance with credit cards! Lowest prices from $334 call Josee 253-9112.

TYPING

TYPING, TAPE TRANSCRIPTION. Fast, accurate. 253-WORD.

WANTED TO RENT

REWARD FOR LEASE to three bedroom apartment please call 253-3668.

SPORTS

Men's hoop team outplays Terriers, 76-60

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — Just play hard.

While Los Angeles Raiders owner Al Davis has his motto — "Just win, baby" — University of Massachusetts men's basketball coach John Calipari makes one simple request from his team each and every time it steps onto the hardwood.

Just play hard.

Ask Calipari why his team got humiliated by Division II University of Lowell in the season-opener last Tuesday, and he'll say, "They outplayed us man-for-man at every position."

So, using that lackadaisical display in front of the home crowd as a bit of incentive, the Minutemen went all-out and took it to Boston University, 76-60, Saturday night at Walter Brown Arena.

"I don't care if we win or lose," Calipari said. "I care about intensity. If we play with intensity, we're going to win the games we're supposed to win, and a few we're not supposed to."

General consensus toward the end of last week said that this game fell into that latter category. No way a team capable of playing so bad and losing to Lowell could possibly beat Boston University. No way.

After all, wasn't this the same BU team that, five nights removed, had played Michigan — the team that took the whole kit 'n' kaboodle last March — to within eight points? The same team that hadn't lost at Walter Brown's place since February, 1988, a span of 12 games?

Conversely, what about this UMass team that last season won just once on the road? And had to do it with a buzzer-beater by Anton Brown to knock off the University of New Hampshire, they of the three wins last season.

Goes to show ya what a little hard work will do. Oops, there it is again.

Just play hard.

"I'll tell you, if we win the Lowell game, we probably don't win this one," Calipari said.

Think about that for a minute. What did UMass have to gain by beating Lowell? Nada. The Minutemen were expected to win.

So they had a let-down, and they lost. If anything, it served to kick UMass off any pedestal that the team, the fans or anyone else may have built in preseason. Nothing is going to come easy this season, and the Lowell game proved that.

It didn't come easy for the Minutemen Saturday night, either. Freshman forward Tony Barbee played only 11 minutes, getting himself into a heap of foul trouble early and then exiting with 12 minutes left. Freshman Harper Williams was soon to follow. Barbee failed to score a point, as did junior center John Tate.

But there was plenty of help from other areas. Want a clue of what an effect the Lowell game had? Check out Jim McCoy, who owned the Terriers in the first-half, scor-

CONTINUED ON PAGE 10

Minutemen, 76-60

Massachusetts (76): Tony Barbee 0-2 0-0 0; Harper Williams 3-4 2-3 8; John Tate 0-6 0-3 0; Cary Herer 2-5 3-7 7; Jim McCoy 13-25 5-9 32; Tommy Pace 1-4 6-7 8; Rafer Giles 4-9 7-8 17; Chris Bailey 1-1 2-3 4; Michael Byrnes 0-0 0-0 0; Sean Nelen 0-0 0-0 0; Matt Anderson 0-0 0-1 0. Totals: 24-56 25-41 76.

Boston University (60): Bill Brigham 5-11 2-2 13; Fred Davy 1-4 1-2 3; Ron Moses 3-8 5-7 11; Reggie Stewart 0-4 1-2 1; Steven Key 5-12 5-5 15; Jason Scott 1-1 1-4 3; Mark Daly 4-10 1-1 9; Scott White 1-2 1-4 3; Mike Jarvis 0-2 2-2 2; Francis Kalitsi 0-1 0-0 0; Sotiris Manolopoulos 0-2 0-0 0; David King 0-2 0-0 0; Adam Olmsted 0-0 0-0 0. Totals: 20-59 19-29 60.

3-point goals: Massachusetts 3-8 (Giles 2-5, McCoy 1-2, Herer 0-1); Boston University 1-10 (Brigham 1-1, Daly 0-5, Stewart 0-1, Key 0-1, Manolopoulos 0-1, King 0-1).

Women's hoop pulls one out

Pytko bucket gives UM its first win, 49-47

By JOHN STEVEN MARPLE
Collegian Staff

She came on the court wearing a fashionable pair of black Air Jordans. And like Michael himself when the game was on the line, Michele Pytko took control and led the University of Massachusetts to victory.

Pytko's foul line jumper with 37 seconds left in the game gave the Minutewomen (1-2) a 49-47 win over the University of Hartford (1-3) Saturday afternoon in The Cage.

"I was looking to get it to Helen (Freeman)," said Pytko, "and when I went left I thought the defender would come up. But she didn't so I had to shoot it."

Her basket gave UMass its first lead since 2-0. Coming off a pathetic first half which saw the Minutewomen turn the ball over 25 times and trail by eight, 32-24, UMass came out and made a quick 10-6 run to set the tone for the second half in which Hartford was never able to get ahead by more than 5 points.

Keyburn McCusker (17 points, 9 rebounds) hit one free throw, missed the second, rebounded the shot and put it back in to position UMass down by one 43-42, at the 7:45 mark. Hartford's Lisa Smith then came down and hit a long jumper. Kim Kristofik hit a free throw before the Lady Hawks' Trish Slocum hit a base line runner (47-43 Hartford) with 3:55 left.

Hoops by McCusker and Helen Freeman knotted the score at the 1:32 mark, setting up Pytko's winning shot.

"We needed a win," said UMass coach Kathy Hewelt. "We needed to feel success. "The kids are getting better and they grew up a lot today."

After being badly outplayed in the first half Hewelt had to feel lucky to be only down eight at the break, 32-24. Although they shot 56 percent from the floor in the half, the turnovers limited the Minutewomen to just 16 shots.

"We weren't reading the floor well," said Hewelt. "At the half they were very embarrassed to see they had turned the ball over 25 times."

"We knew what they were going to do, but we didn't execute," said Pytko. "It was part jitters. We have a lot of freshmen and sophomores."

While their play on offense was sloppy the effort at the other end was outstanding. For the game Hartford shot 36 percent, 21 percent in the crucial second half.

"Player for player our defense was great," said Hewelt."

Especially effective was Gloria Nevarez. The freshman small forward was moved into the starting lineup for Sue Serafini.

"We wanted to put Gloria in there to guard number 11 (highly touted freshman

CONTINUED ON PAGE 11

Minutewomen, 49-47

Massachusetts (49): Keyburn McCusker 7-11 3-7 17; Gloria Nevarez 2-5 0-3 4; Helen Freeman 3-4 2-2 8; Patty Robak 2-4 2-2 6; Michele Pytko 1-3 3-5 5; Sue Serafini 0-3 0-1 0; Lisa Ireland 0-0 0-0 0; Jenny Moran 0-0 0-0 0; Lisa Hair 2-4 2-2 6; Kim Kristofik 1-2 1-3 3. Totals: 18-36 13-25 47.

Hartford (47): Maura Rodgers 1-6 0-0 2; Karen Rhyan 0-2 0-0 0; Trish Slocum 6-9 0-0 12; Betsy Andersen 4-16 1-4 11; Annette Flynn 6-14 1-2 13; Lisa Smith 3-11 1-2 7; Eva Esposito 0-3 0-0 0; Dacia DeAngelis 1-1 0-0 2; Sophia Sensley 0-2 0-0 0. Totals: 21-64 3-8 47.

3-point goals: Massachusetts 0-2 (Serafini 0-2); Hartford 2-9 (Andersen 2-5, Flynn 0-2, Smith 0-2).

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Michele Pytko's bucket gave UMass a 49-47 win.

Swim teams race to victory at Boyden

• Women edge Springfield in final event

By TAMIR LIPTON
Collegian Correspondent

When the University of Massachusetts women's swimming team looks back at the end of the season, it will undoubtedly remember the victory over Springfield College as the key to the success of the season.

Saturday in Boyden Pool, the swimmers defeated a much improved Springfield squad, 152-148. "Springfield came in to this meet really pumped up, they thought they could beat us," said UMass coach Bob Newcomb.

And they almost did. The meet came down to the final event; the 400-meter freestyle. UMass needed to take first and second place for a victory. Lori Sheehan, Wendy Frimet, Amy Bloomstein, and Michele Leary pulled out a gutty victory, that assured UMass its third win of the season.

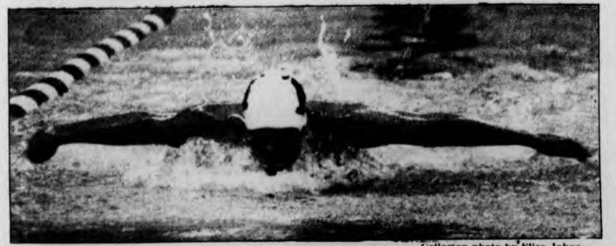
"This was a spectacular meet," Newcomb said. "It's right up there with the most exciting meets that I have ever been involved in. I'm proud of the whole team, it was a team effort. It was a real good day."

The meet saw Frimet win the 100 and 200-meter breaststroke, Denise Reimer win the 100-meter freestyle, and Leary win the 200- and 50-meter freestyles, and the 400-meter relay.

"I'm especially proud of the divers [Heather Leisman, Stephanie Tuttle, and Beth Wadick]," said Newcomb.

The win improves the Minutewomen to 3-2, but more importantly, UMass can now go into the new year on a positive note, knowing that they are an above .500 club.

"We are off until January, but now we have a real positive meet that we can build on," Newcomb said. "I'm just thrilled with this win."



Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

Jodi Schwartz and the Minutewomen edged past Springfield Saturday at Boyden Pool.

• Minutemen blast past Springfield, 185-53

By C.J. ABATI
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's swimming team moved one step closer to winning a fourth consecutive New England Championship, by defeating Springfield College by a 185-53 score, Saturday afternoon at the Boyden Pool.

The Minutemen were not only supposed to win, but win big. A big win is not what they got, they had a huge win. The Minutemen took first in every event but the 200-yard freestyle.

The meet started off with a bang for the UMass team of Curt Sawin, Pete Koback, G.T. Ladd and Brian McIver swam to a new pool record in the 200-yard medley relay. The new record, 1:38.66 smashed a full second off the existing record.

"In terms of the season as a whole, the record is not that important," said assistant coach Alan Brust. "But it is a nice thing for the guys to have. I'm real happy for them."

The Minutemen had a strong outing by everybody. The Minutemen finished first and second in eight of the 11, although coach Russ Yarworth swam people in off events.

"I swam everybody in their off event to give them some work," said Yarworth. "It gave me a good idea of how much depth we have. It was also good for the guys, it gave them a chance to have some fun."

The diving events seemed to be the Chiefs' strong point of the day. They also seemed to be the crowd pleaser. Springfield has an excellent diver in Guy Polino, but then so does UMass with Dan Chesnicka. In the one-meter dive, each pulled off one fantastic dive after another. Polino and Chesnicka had to have flawless dives to top each other. Chesnicka went on to win with an astounding combined score of 272.8.

The three-meter dive was almost identical to the one-meter event. Chesnicka won this event as well with a 244.6 score.

Several other swimmers performed exceptionally well in other events. Curt Sawin and Brian McIver both swam in the 200-yard butterfly for the first time this year, and finished with two of the year's best times in that event. Sawin won with a 2:00.08 time, just edging out McIver at 2:00.42. They also teamed up with Jim Robertson and G.T. Ladd to win the 200-yard freestyle relay.

The butterfly was not the only event that the Minutemen finished strongly in. Freshman Jim Gregg beat senior teammate Pete Koback by the skin of his teeth, winning by a margin of .11 seconds in the 50-yard freestyle sprint. Greeg won with a time of 22.72 and Koback was second with a 22.83 mark.

In other events, freshmen Jay Peluso, Tim Turpin, and Scott Reed all swam exceptionally well. Peluso won the 1000-yard freestyle, with Turpin coming in second. Turpin again took second place in the 200-yard backstroke, as Reed won the event. Junior Frank Sampson won the 400-yard IM as Reed was right behind him.

Dan Benson won the 100-yard freestyle, Greg Meymaris the 500-yard freestyle and John Gardiner took the 200-yard breststroke to round out the UMass victories.

SPECIAL

Read all about the hot holiday happenings in the Happy Valley in our handy pullout.

SPORTS

Meet the players in our men's gymnastic preview for the 1990 season. Page 20.

WOMEN'S ISSUES

Women's Caucus aims to decrease intimidation in the Undergraduate Senate. Page 15.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY TUESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1989

COLLEGIAN

Anner: El Salvador gov't terrorizes

By PAUL MORRIS
Collegian Staff

The United States-supported government of El Salvador, led by president Alfredo Cristiani, is brutally maiming and imprisoning community leaders in El Salvador to break labor unions and suppress the people, said a labor representative who was nearly killed in El Salvador five weeks ago.

Mark Anner, the right side of his head bandaged, said a union office building where he was working was bombed by the military on Oct. 31. Six people were instantly killed and four others died at the hospital later, he said.

"The blast came from the right-hand side," he said. "Two people sitting across from me were decapitated. A piece of flying metal skimmed my head, but didn't crack my skull. And I was knocked unconscious."

Anner spoke to about 35 people in the Campus Center last night, along with America Sosa, a human rights worker and leader of the Mothers of Dissapeared and Assainated of El Salvador.

Anner, who needed 140 stitches to close the gash, was hospitalized for a week and returned to the United States Nov. 8. The National Federation of Salvadoran Workers (FENASTRAS) building was also bombed in 1985, but nobody was injured, he said.

Anner, a U.S. citizen, said that on Sept. 18 the National Guard began a round-up of trade unionists. President Cristiani, one of El Salvador's leading coffee growers, wants to break unions to reduce labor costs, he said. The U.S. government contributes millions of dollars in aid to the El Salvadoran government to help them win the ongoing civil war, now in its tenth year, Anner said.

Anner said in September the El Salvadoran National Guard ransacked his apartment and arrested him and his girlfriend for having three magazines police said contained subversive material.

"They separated us and sent me to the treasury police," he said. "I was blindfolded, my clothes were removed, I was handcuffed and ordered to stay standing in the jail cell."

Collegian photo by John Woo

Mark Anner

The U.S. Embassy heard about Anner's capture and he was released in 30 hours. Anner said he was fortunate that he was not beaten like others captured. The authorities did not tell Anner the whereabouts of his girlfriend, but after numerous phone calls, he finally found out she was in prison. After paying a judge a few hundred dollars she was set free, he said.

The prison guards use tortures like electrical shocks, injecting acid into victim's veins and hanging people naked by their thumbs to abuse political prisoners, he said.

Sosa, who was speaking through a translator, said, about 200 families in El Salvador decide on what the Constitution that all Salvadorans should follow. "The government has no moral or legal right to insist that the people comply with the laws of the constitution," she said.

University may wipe out child care program

Editor's Note: Due to an error in editing, a story in last week's Collegian incorrectly reported that UMass childcare would be spared the budget cuts. The following article explains the current situation.

By ANNE RUSS
Collegian Correspondent

University Child Care is about to feel the full impact of the budget crises, as University administrators plan the possible elimination of the entire program.

Joseph Zannini, executive director of housing services, said the budget cuts have put great restrictions on how child care will be run next year.

One of the options being considered is hiring an outside vendor to run the child care program, eliminating the high cost to the University and conceivably accommodating more children, Zannini said.

Some child care administrators and parents feel that a switch to vendor care would severely decrease the quality of the program, according to Alicia Smith, director of University Child Care.

Because a vendor system is not state funded, salaries would decrease and teachers would not be of the same quality as the current teachers, Smith said.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

Taxes needed to balance rising deficit

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts must break a state of chronic political gridlock if it is to solve its fiscal crisis.

So far, although top Democratic legislative leaders and Gov. Dukakis have recommended tax increases to bring the deficit-ridden state into the black, rank-and-file House members have refused to go along.

The House also has refused to make the kind of spending cuts necessary to erase a deficit now pegged at $825 million, including both tax shortfalls and spending that was not planned for in the 1990 fiscal year budget.

The Senate is expected to act soon on a package of budget cuts and non-tax revenues that already has passed the House, but it is worth $350 million at the most.

Senate President William Bulger, D-Boston, said he hoped its version of the cuts package might be what is needed to satisfy the public's demands for reduced spending.

"It might satisfy those who are looking for some kind of an indication we are tightening up," Bulger said.

The Senate cannot start a tax bill because the Massachusetts Constitution requires all revenue-raising measures to originate in the House.

The latest setback in the House came Friday when lawmakers dealt a near-fatal blow to a $1.2 billion tax package by rejecting by a 30-vote margin a plan to raise the capital gains tax by 50 percent. The action came despite a personal plea on the House floor from Speaker George Keverian, D-Everett, who said, "I see not alternative personally to new revenues."

Keverian said House Democrats were spooked on the tax issues by an "atmosphere of fear, intimidation and rudeness" brought on by phone calls from constituents, some of them prompted by radio talk shows.

Al Frezza, a key Keverian aide, said some calls came not only from members of the usual anti-tax crowd, but also from school teachers, police officers, firefighters and union members, the traditional political base of the Democratic Party.

They are also the people who would be hurt directly if the Legislature or the governor makes additional cuts in aid to cities and towns, one of the few single big areas of the budget.

Other bug budget areas include social programs and aid to education, including public colleges and universities.

Keverian and other Democratic leaders have said balancing this year's budget by cuts alone would be impossible without hitting some of those big budget areas. Keverian suggested local aid might be an early target.

He said that would result in "wholesale layoffs, closings of schools and firing of police and fire and public safety employees." But he said there may be no choice if the House stays in an impasse on taxes.

The state is under increasing pressure from Wall Street to straighten out its budgetary act.

Prof: recognizing early effects of toxins is the best protection

Recognizing early effects of toxic chemicals on humans is the key to protecting people from hazardous substances, said Dr. Carl M. Shy, director of the Occupational Health Studies Program and Professor of Epidemiology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Shy gave a lecture titled 'Toxic Waste Sites: Assessing the Human Health Hazards,' to an audience of about 40 people yesterday in the Campus Center.

"The challenge for epidemiology is to be able to recognize not so much the endpoints of exposure to toxins, such as cancer and birth defects, but rather the early responses to exposure," Shy said.

Precursors of disease such as the presence of toxins in blood and urine, and slight mutations of the DNA must be examined, because by the time major effects show up, it's often too late to do anything, Shy said .

Shy outlined some of the major sources of toxins, such as toxic waste dumps, waste treatment plants, and industrial effluents, but noted that less area-specific problems such as global warming, acid rain, and pesticide runoff are even more important.

"Toxic waste and toxic waste treatment are relatively low on the scale of public health concerns," he said.

— MIKE WEBBER

Ex-model ties media to violence

By KERRY HERLIHY
Collegian Staff

Crowded into a large room at Amherst college last night, men and women listened to the voice of covergirl model turned radical feminsist, Ann Simonsen, graphically explain how the media perpetuates violence against women.

Simonsen's presentation, "Sex, Power and the Media: Rethinking the Myths of America's Dreamgirl" is part of an effort by the group Mediawatch which "helps people become more critical viewers of the media," Simonsen said.

Simonsen said learning to "act confident and smile through the humiliation" was a big part of her modeling days. Yet, Simonsen said she failed to connect her role in modeling with the violence against women, even after she was gang-raped in New York City during the middle of the day in 1971.

Although she said she "didn't immediately understand" the implications, she made the realization when, on the exact day of the eighth-year anniversary of the gang-rape, an advertisement of Simonsen in a bed selling sheets appeared all over the nation.

"Finally, I was willing to take my own body off the line," Simonsen said.

She now refers to herself as a radical feminist because she is "willing to go to

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN

New England's largest college daily newspaper. Daily circulation: 21,000. Founded in 1870. Published every weekday during the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts. 113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA. 01003. For more information call (413) 545-3500.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

EDITOR IN CHIEF	DAVID R. MARK
MANAGING EDITOR	COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL EDITOR	MEREDITH O'BRIEN
BUSINESS MANAGER	ROBERT J. BIKASH
PRODUCTION MANAGER	TERRY STARMER

BOARD OF EDITORS

MANAGING	COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL	MEREDITH O'BRIEN
NEWS	SARAH DEMASTER NATHAN KRYSTALL
SPORTS	JIM CLARK GEORGE AUSTIN
ARTS	AL KAUFMAN W.J. GEORGIADES
PHOTOGRAPHY	DONDI AHEARN
WOMEN'S ISSUES	DANIELLE BIONDA KATERI WALSH
MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS	SCOTT C. HILL

BUSINESS BOARD

MANAGER	ROBERT J. BIKASH
ADVÉRTISING	JENNIFER RONAN
FINANCE	MARTINA RIOS
CIRCULATION	CHRIS BAKER
SUBSCRIPTIONS	JOYA FARETRA

GRAPHICS BOARD

MANAGER	TERRY STARMER
AD MANAGER	RORY EVANS
SUPERVISORS	MIKE WESTER FLORENCIO TERRA CHRISTINE ASHE TRICIA HANLEY

SUPPORT STAFF

BUSINESS	BRIAN HARRINGTON MAUREEN MAJEROWSKI LORI BLACK
GRAPHICS	ANDREA BELANGER

TODAY'S STAFF

NIGHT EDITING ELF	YOWZA YANA
COPY EDITING ELF	LITTLE LISA
LAYOUT ELF	FLIPPIN' FLORENCIO
PHOTOGRAPHY ELF	JOLLY JOHN
PRODUCTION ELF IN CHARGE	TINY TRICIA
PRODUCTION ELVES	PRACTICAL PETE BODACIOUS BRYAN MERRY MERIAM KOOL KELLY NIFTY NESSA AWESOME AL TENACIOUS TERRY MINI MICHELLE

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

ANNOUNCEMENT — The Collegian Staff yesterday voted Maria Sacchetti as Editor In Chief for Spring 1990 by an overwhelming majority.

FOLKDANCE — Folkdance at the Bangs Community Center Amherst, MA International, Scottish, Israeli, Balkan, etc. Meets every Friday 8-10 p.m. Call 256-0188 or 256-0595 for more info.

MEETING - There will be an organizational meeting for Earthday '90 for all students and RSO's interested in working on Earthday next semester, in the MASSPIRG office, 423 Student Union, on Wednesday 12/6 at 8p.m.

MINI-MALL - On December 4th thru December 8th, Hillel will be holding its third annual Mini-mall. This event will be held in the Student Union Ballroom. This year will be extra special due to our first ever free raffle. Our operating hours will be: Tuesday, Dec.5 10a.m.-5p.m., Wednesday, Dec.6th 11a.m.-5p.m., Thursday, Dec.7 10a.m.-5p.m., Friday, Dec.8 10a.m.-4p.m.

WELCOME DINNER AND MEETING - The American Indian Student Association would like to invite all American Indian and Alaskan Native Students to attend a welcome dinner and meeting at the Dr. Josephine P. White Eagle cultural Center, Dec.6th, Wednesday at 7 p.m. The center is located in Room B1 Chadbourne House.

AMERICA GIFTS CAMPAIGN- The American Friends Service Committee is holding its fifth annual Centeral America Gifts Campaign. They will be collecting hand and masonry tools and school supplies. Contributions are also welcome. The deadline is Saturday, December 16th at the AFSC, 3 Langworthy Road, Northampton Ma. 01060. For information call: (413) 584-8975.

LANGUAGE TRAINING PROGRAM - The International Internship Programs (IIP) announces a four-week training program for university students and graduates. From June 23-July 21, 1990, participants will study Japan by experiencing it. The program includes Japanese language instruction, meetings with government and business leaders. Students are encouraged to register by December 15 in order to reserve a space in the limited enrollment program. For further details on how to apply, contact International Internship Programs, 654 Colman Building, 811 First Avenue, Seattle, WA. 98104. Or call 1-800-869-7056.

PERFORMANCE - The Hampshire College Chorus will present a staged performance of Requiem for Unbelievers by Roger Ames, on Friday, December 8, at 8 p.m., at Grace Church, on the Amherst Common. Admission is free.

WORKSHOP - PERILS ON THE PATH - A free introductory workshop providing support to people who have had painful and confusing experiences with a spiritual teacher, community, or practice. Is scheduled to be held on Friday, December 8th, 7-10 p.m., Synthesis Center, 178-A Pleasant St., Amherst. Space is limited so preregistration is preferred. Call 369-4931 or 259-1494.

WOMEN'S FORUM

TODAY, DECEMBER 5, 1989

MEETING — The Lesbian Bisexual Women's Union will be holding it's weekly meeting in the Campus Center at 8:30 p.m. for news and support. Please check the Campus Center information desk for room number.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1989

BROWN BAG LUNCH — The Women's Studies Department will present Marta Calas and Linda Smircich from the School of Management in a lecture entitled "Using the F word: Feminist Perspectives and Organization and Management," from 12:15 to 1:30 p.m. in Campus Center Room 165-169.

The event is free and open to the public. Participants are encouraged to bring their lunch, the program will provide refreshments.

MEETING — The Women's Issues Desk of the Collegian will be having a meeting at 5 p.m. in the newsroom at 113 Campus Center. All interested - writers, students and activists - are encouraged to attend and give new ideas for next semester.

LECTURE — Dr. Louise Levesque-Lopeman will be speaking on "Claiming Reality: Feminist Reasearch of Women's Experience" at 4:30 p.m. in the Thompson 6th floor lounge. Dr. Lopeman is professor of Sociology and Director of the Women's Studies Program at Regis College, and the author of the books, Claiming Reality: Phenomenology and Women's Experience, and Being Pregnant: There is More to Children Than Having a Baby.

The talk is sponsored by the Social Thought and Political Economy Program, the Women's Studies Department, and the Philosophy Department. It is free and open to the public, with a reception to follow the event.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

END OF SEMESTER OPEN HOUSE — The Women's Studies Department is holding an end of semester open house on December 14, from 11 to 2 p.m. in 208 Bartlett Hall.

All are invited to come, eat bagels, chat, and enjoy a study break on the last day of classes.

ABORTION RIGHTS VIDEOS — This week the television monitors in the Student Union and Campus Center will be showing two videos on abortion, including a new tape by the Bay Area Coalition Against Operation Rescue [BACAOR] entitled 'We Won't Go Back," which includes footage of Operation Rescue protests at abortion clinics nationwide.

Give your trash a second chance. ★★
★★★★★★★★★★★★
RECYCLE PAPER

The Foto Factory

Film in by 10 a.m.
Prints out by 4 p.m.

1 hour service available for Black & White Film
(Northampton Only)

1 hour service available for
Color Film
(Amherst & Greenfield Only)

224½ Federal Street • Greenfield, MA 01301
774-5464
257 Triangle Street • Amherst, MA 01002
549-6490
62 King Street • Northampton, MA 01060
584-2274

BRUEGGER'S
BAGEL BAKERY
Bagels • Bagel Sandwiches
Cookies • Brownies • Baked Fresh
All Day • Custom Cream Cheese
Open 7 Days
170 N. Pleasant St. • Amherst, MA
253-5713

DOVE
Business Associates, Inc.
RESUMES
• SECRETARIAL SERVICES
• Letters • Dissertations
• Thesis • Term Papers
• FAX Services
• TEMPORARY PERSONNEL
• Now interviewing for full & Part-time employment
• Flexible Hours
• Benefits
• BUSINESS MANAGEMENT SERVICES
• Bookkeeping Service
• Payroll Service
• Trouble Shooting
79 So. Pleasant St., Amherst
256-1335 • 253-7480

Two computers stolen after office break-in

Combined worth totals $6000

By LISA SHAPIRO
Collegian Staff

Two Apple computers and equipment worth $6000 were reported stolen Saturday after a main door in Marcus Hall was pried open and a master key to open the offices containing the computers was obtained from a locked desk, police said. The computers were in different offices.

In other police reports:

ACCIDENTS

- Sgt. Raymond Babb of the University of Massachusetts Police Department was transported to Cooley Dickinson Hospital after his cruiser collided with another vehicle on North Pleasant Street and Massachusetts Avenue Friday. Babb's cruiser was following another cruiser responding to an emergency.

- Pedestrian Jason Schonfeld, 18, of John Quincy Adams Residence Hall was transported to Cooley Dickinson Hospital Saturday after he was struck by an vehicle operated by Peter A. Gazda, 21, Dickinson Residence Hall. [BULLET]A man delivering pizza Saturday provided the Amherst Police Department with the license plate of a vehicle he saw back into a parked vehicle near Washington Residence Hall and leave the scene. Amherst police referred the accident to UMass police who are investigating the matter.

ANNOYING CALLS

- Threatening calls made against a student living in the Northeast Residential Area are being investigated.
- Police are investigating a series of annoying calls made to several residents in the Central Residential Area.

- A Southwest Residential Area resident reported Sunday numerous annoying calls received during the past week.

ARRESTS

- Greg K. McGinnity, 24, of Scituate, was stopped on Clark Hill Road and subsequently arrested for operating under the influence.

LARCENY

- A victim reported the theft of a dual cassette player and speakers worth $275 from her room Friday. Police interviewed an individual who the victim identified as a possible suspect. A Show Cause hearing will be sought.

- A Moore Residence Hall woman reported Friday $240 in cash stolen from her room.

- A bicycle headset was stolen from a bicycle locked in Van Meter Residence Hall basement.

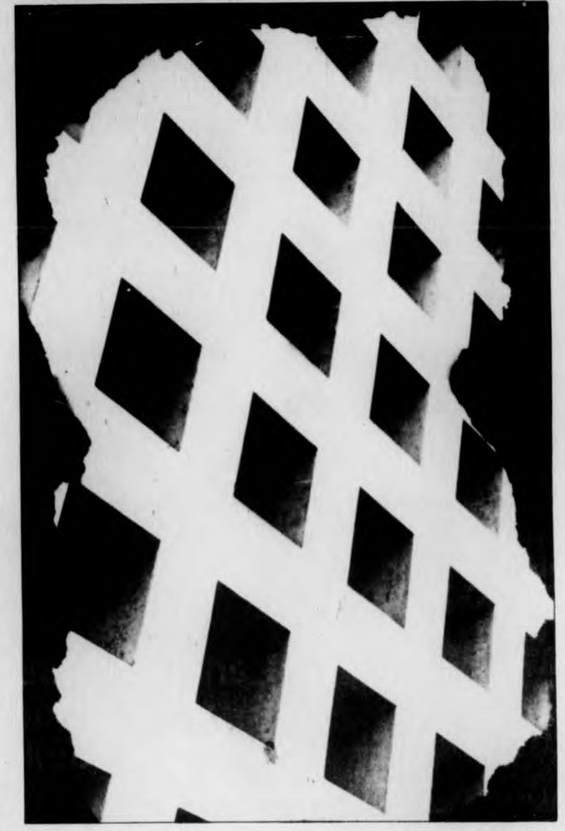
VANDALISM

- A victim reported Saturday her the left front end of her vehicle parked in Lot 65 smashed. Estimated damage: $1000.

- Two Coolidge Residence Hall students reported Saturday their 3rd floor window broken. Estimated damage: $100.

- Police found a ground floor window smashed in Goodell Library.

- A victim reported Saturday the mirror on his vehicle parked in Lot 22 was smashed. Estimated damage: $150.



Collegian photo by Dondi Ahearn

WANNA PLAY SOME CHECKERS? — The Campus Center parking garage with a funky artsy border.

Lawmakers call for more domestic spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a declaration yesterday by President Bush that he doesn't expect a "peace dividend" to result from reduced East-West tensions, many members of Congress are urging heftier spending on domestic programs as the military budget is reduced.

"We have a lot of demands at home, and there's no question about that," Bush said at a news conference in Brussels at the end of trip to a summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. "But I think it is premature to speak as some are at home about a peace dividend-take a lot of money out of defense and put it in other worthy causes."

The president said the reason there can be no such windfall was that the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law requires that he produce a budget for fiscal 1991 containing a shortfall of no more than $64 billion.

The deficit for this budget year, which ends Sept. 9th 1990.

"There just isn't a lot of, quote, excess money, unquote, floating around there," Bush told a news conference in Brussels, Belgium.

Although members of congress are split over the question, many believe it is time to impose deep cuts on the nearly $230 billion defense budget, which comprises about one-fourth of the government's $1.2 trillion annual spending.

They cite three reasons: the easing of Cold War tensions, the need to shrink the deficit and a desire to replenish domestic programs that have been hit hard by Reagan-era spending cuts.

"The more you cut from the military, the less damage you do to domestic programs to meet Gramm-Rudman targets," Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., said yesterday.

Frank has been a leader of a group of liberals pressing congressional leader of a group of liberals pressing congressional leaders to slash about $20 billion off the Pentagon's budget and redistribute most of it among health, housing education and other domestic programs.

Conservative Rep. Sonny Montgomery, D-Miss., chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, told reporters yesterday that he would like to see next year's defense spending frozen at 1990 levels and envisions savings by eventually bringing some U.S. troops home from Europe.

"If we do have these extra monies I would like for them to go into the national debt and take about half the money and use it for domestic programs in the United States," Montgomery said.

Since Frank's group made its proposals, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney has begun considering plans to shrink expected military spending rates by up to $108 billion over the next three to five years.

Since 1986, military spending has decreased by an average of 3 percent annually when inflation is taken into account, even though the actual amount of money going to the Pentagon has increased each year. Defense Department outlays, $265 billion in 1986, should reach $287 billion this year.

The cuts Cheney is examining would not literally cut defense spending. Rather, they would slow the rate by which military spending would otherwise increase. Many on Capitol Hill believe that in the end, the amount of money going to the Pentagon will remain at about $230 billion for each of the next several years.

AP photo

FREE TRAVEL — Czechoslovakians flash victory sign when crossing the border Sunday. For the first time Czechoslovakians have free passage to the West.

East German leader quits

Opposition group calls for free elections

EAST BERLIN (AP) — Premier Hans Modrow emerged today as East Germany's Communist leader after the entire party leadership quit in disgrace and told a 25-member committee to salvage what it can.

Members of the largest opposition group yesterday demanded a referendum on German reunification and urged the government to allow quick free elections. One spokesman said Communist leaders had "lost all legitimacy."

Modrow, the 61-year-old reformer and former Dresden party chief, led East Germany's delegation at the Warsaw pact summit that began in Moscow yesterday, the official ADN news agency reported.

Also attending the summit were Foreign Minister Oskar Fischer and Egon Krenz, who resigned as party chief Sunday along with the party's 10-member ruling Politburo and its enitre 163-member Central Committee.

Krenz went to the Moscow meeting in the largely ceremonial role of head of state. ADN mentioned no further role for him.

Just two months ago, the party's hierarchy enforced iron-fisted rule. Now, the former ruling elite has its back against the wall as demands grow for punishment of those who lived in style while East Germany sunk into crisis.

Modrow, elected premier Nov. 13 by a Parliament casting off fidelity to the discredited Communists, now appears in charge of day-to-day affairs and official newspapers were predicting an imminent split in the Communist Party.

Public resentment of the ruling Communists has reached a fever pitch and Modrow is seen as more acceptable than the now-ousted authoritarian leadership that had long shunned him.

Many of the party's rank-and-file are disgusted with the high life the ousted Communist elite is reported to have enjoyed.

In Sunday's housecleaning, Erich Honecker, Krenz's predecessor as party leader, and 11 other members of the hardline Old Guard were expelled from the party, three former Politburo members were arrested on corruption charges and the country's chief of trade with the West fled.

There's a PS/2 that's right for you.

IBM Financial Plan Available

	Model 25 8525-001	Model 30 286 8530-E21	Model 50 Z 8550-031	Model 55 SX 8555-061	Model 70 386 8570-E61
Memory	640Kb	1Mb	1Mb	1Mb	2Mb
Processor	8086 (8 MHz)	80286 (10 MHz)	80286 (10 MHz)	80386SX™ (16 MHz)	80386™ (16 MHz)
3.5-inch diskette drive	720Kb	1.44Mb	1.44Mb	1.44Mb	1.44Mb
Fixed disk drive	20Mb	20Mb	30Mb	60Mb	60Mb
Micro Channel™ architecture	–	–	Yes	Yes	Yes
Display	Monochrome	8513 Color	8513 Color	8513 Color	8513 Color
Mouse	Yes	Yes	Yes	Yes	Yes
Software	DOS 4.0 Microsoft® Windows/286 hDC Windows Express™	DOS 4.0 Microsoft Windows/286 Word 5.0 hDC Windows Express hDC Windows Manager™ hDC Windows Color™	DOS 4.0 Microsoft Windows/286 Word 5.0 Excel hDC Windows Express hDC Windows Manager hDC Windows Color	DOS 4.0 Microsoft Windows/386 Word 5.0 Excel hDC Windows Express hDC Windows Manager hDC Windows Color	DOS 4.0 Microsoft Windows/386 Word 5.0 Excel hDC Windows Express hDC Windows Manager hDC Windows Color

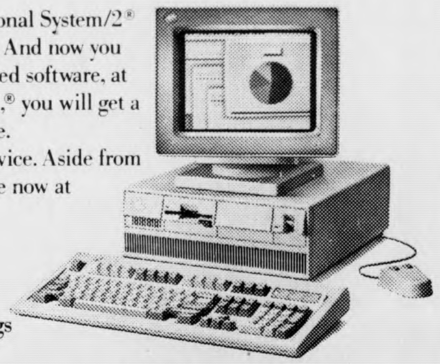
And right on the money, too.

No matter what your major (or your budget), there's an IBM Personal System/2® that can make you look great—in school, and after you graduate. And now you can choose from five complete packages of hardware and preloaded software, at special low student prices. What's more, when you buy your PS/2,® you will get a mouse pad, a 3.5-inch diskette holder, and a power strip—all free.

And you're entitled to a great low price on the PRODIGY® service. Aside from all this, three of the most popular IBM Proprinters™ are available now at special low prices.

Proprinter III w/Cable (4201/003)
Proprinter X24E w/Cable (4207/002)
Proprinter XL24E w/Cable (4208/002)

Start out the new year right. Check out all these special savings now—before it's too late!* Offer ends February 15, 1990.



How're you going to do it? PS/2 it!

IBM®

*This offer is limited to qualified students, faculty and staff who order an IBM PS/2 Model 8530-E21, 8550-031, 8555-061 or 8570-E61 through February 15, 1990. The preconfigured IBM PS/2 Model 8525-001 is available through December 31, 1989 only. Prices quoted do not include sales tax, handling and/or processing charges. Check with your institution regarding these charges. Orders are subject to availability. Prices are subject to change and IBM may withdraw the promotion at any time without written notice.
Microsoft Word and Excel are the Academic Editions.
®IBM, Personal System/2 and PS/2 are registered trademarks of International Business Machines Corporation. PRODIGY is a registered service mark and trademark of Prodigy Services Company, a partnership of IBM and Sears. Microsoft is a registered trademark of Microsoft Corporation.
™Proprinter and Micro Channel are trademarks of International Business Machines Corporation. hDC Windows Express, hDC Windows Manager and hDC Windows Color are trademarks of hDC Computer Corporation. 80386SX and 80386 are trademarks of Intel Corporation. ©IBM Corp. 1989

Collegian photo by John Woo

STUDYING FOR FINALS? – Sophomore political science major Juliana Spear takes a break between classes at the Hatch recently.

■ vogue

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

the root of the problem." Her protests include wearing 30 pounds of meat in a form of a gown, symbolically showing women's degradation in beauty pageants.

Her presentation consisted of slides which ranged from advertisements in "ordinary magazines" to pornograhpy. In her examples, she explained how women are dismembered and objectified.

"Dismembering women in advertisements makes women learn early on that it is okay to chop up themselves in pieces," Simonsen said. "The tragedy is women don't see themselves as whole."

The animosity created by the media, which can lead to actual violence, is not only between men and women, but also between women themselves, Simonsen said.

Advertisements such as a recent Esprit ad depicting a smiling women lying on a board with a man placing an iron on her stomach send out a "particularly dangerous message," according to Simonsen.

"This message is saying that a woman seems to be enjoying this torture," Simonsen said. "We are focusing on the product and not on what is really going on."

Students had similar reactions to the presentation from "powerful" to "incredibly inspirational."

Jessica Andors, a sophomore at Amherst College said, "The connection between the violence of pornography and the violence of women in 'ordinary' magazines was extremely effective."

■ childcare

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

She added that these same state funds that currently help students pay for child care would not be available, and many students with children may be forced to drop out of school. Several parents voiced concern that because many vendors are part of national chains, their primary concern is often the generation of profits, possibly at the expense of quality, according to Smith.

Although a vendor program is the primary option, administrators concede that there are inherent problems involved.

"The risk is that we could have a child care vendor come in who is not concerned with the developmental aspects of the program," Zannini said.

The current program is a developmentally focused one in which the individual needs of each child are stressed. In a vendor program, this is not necessarily the case. While such a program may be able to accommodate more children, individual attention may be sacrificed, according to Zannini.

The option favored by Smith and many parents is a downsizing of the current program in order to take their share of the cuts, rather than a complete elimination.

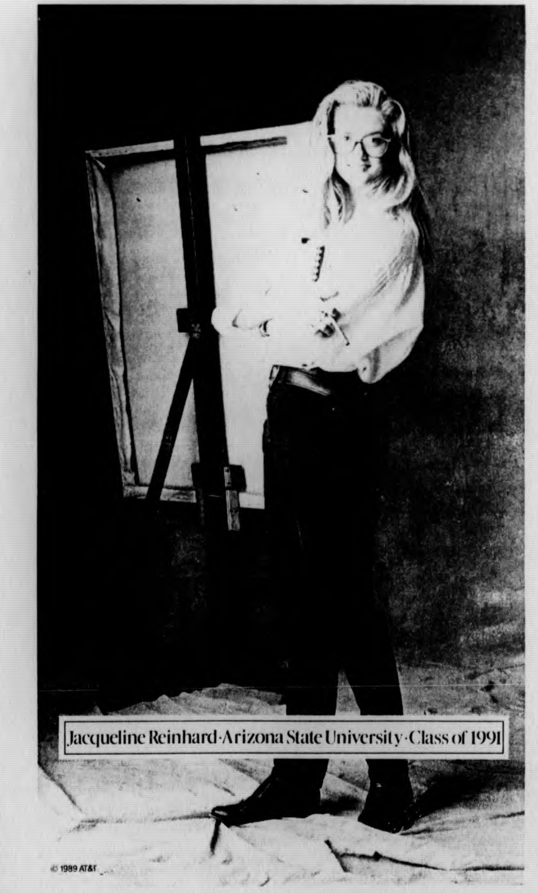
"We certainly know that we can't afford child care as it is now," Smith said, "The idea is to down-size so you maintain the foundation for quality."

"If you do away with the entire thing, it's hard to come back and build because you have to break new ground," Smith said.

Many parents are distressed because the child care dilemma is an issue affecting the entire campus community. Many students with children rely on the state-funded program to stay in school. Furthermore, if UMass doesn't have a quality day care program, it's not going to attract new faculty members, Smith said.

Neil Immerman and Susan Landau, husband and wife, are faculty members in the COINS department who have a child in the program. They said they would not have come to this University if it hadn't had a quality day care system.

"I may be an art major, but I know a little something about economics."



Jacqueline Reinhard·Arizona State University·Class of 1991
© 1989 AT&T

You've done your homework. You know where the best values are. You also know that with AT&T, it costs less than most people think to stay in touch with your family and friends.

In fact, you can make a 10-minute, coast-to-coast call any time, any day, for less than $3.00 with AT&T.* And who else can promise immediate credit for wrong numbers, the fastest connections, and the largest worldwide long distance network?

Nobody but AT&T.

If you'd like to know more about our other AT&T Long Distance products or services, including the AT&T Card, please contact your University of Massachusetts AT&T Student Campus Manager or call us at 1-800-525-7955 ext. 100.

Residence Hall students. AT&T value and quality long distance service is available to you through AT&T ACUS℠ Service. For more information on this service, call 1-800-445-6063.

*Add applicable taxes and surcharges

AT&T
The right choice.

LORD'S & LADY'S
HAIR SALONS
15 percent off all services with Student or Faculty I.D.
586-7913 Hampshire Mall
Holyoke Mall 536-4310

Main Attractions
584-9982
HAIR & TANNING SALON
Featuring:
precision cutting design perm wrapping
dimensional coloring hair weaving
tanning
Northampton

Helen's HAIR'UM
SALON

A Creative Hair Salon Specializing in:
Wave Nouveau • Leisure Curl
Care Free Curl • Weaves • Extensions
Braids • Color • Permanent Waves
Design Cuts • We have ethnic make-up
228 Triangle Street • Amherst • 549-3999
139 Dwight Street • Springfield • 734-4234
Monday thru Saturday

GOLD RING SALE
$75 OFF 18K
$50 OFF 14K
$25 OFF 10K

PURDUE
BS 85

Order your college ring NOW.
JOSTENS
AMERICA'S COLLEGE RING™

Date: Dec. 4 thru Dec.9 Time: 10-4 Deposit Required: $25
Place: UNIVERSITY STORE Located in the Campus Center
Payment Plans Available
Meet with your Jostens representative for full details. See our complete ring selection on display in your college bookstore.

Choose Excellence
THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN

"It ain't perfect but it's the only game in town. And it's an important game for students who seek careers in journalism. Experience on the Collegian is increasingly valued by the editors throughout the northeast."

Howard Ziff, UMass Professor since 1971;
Reporter & Asst. City Editor,
Chicago Daily News

Come write for the Collegian
113 Campus Center

With Macintosh you can even do this:

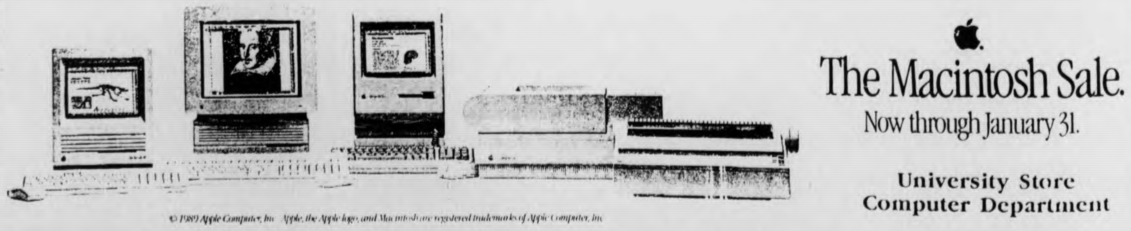
File
New ⌘N
Open... ⌘O
Close
Save ⌘$
Save As...
Print... ⌘P
Quit ⌘Q

Macintosh® computers have always been easy to use. But they've never been this easy to own. Presenting The Macintosh Sale.

Through January 31, you can save hundreds of dollars on a variety of Apple® Macintosh computers and peripherals.

So now there's no reason to settle for an ordinary PC. With The Macintosh Sale, you can wind up with much more of a computer.

Without spending a lot more money.



The Macintosh Sale.
Now through January 31.

University Store
Computer Department

© 1989 Apple Computer, Inc. Apple, the Apple logo, and Macintosh are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc.

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted

Health Services questioned

We have probably all heard horror stories about the University of Massachusetts Health Services, but it wasn't until last week that I fully realized the gravity of the situation.

Recently, one night at three a.m. my friend went to Urgent Care because she had a painful, persistent cough and was nauseous. A nurse looked her over and suggested that she take aspirin to ease her pain.

When my friend pointed out that aspirin disturbs the stomach, the nurse replied that it should be taken with milk. Again my friend corrected her remedy by saying that milk increases phlegm, and she was told to take Tylenol and was sent home.

The next morning, walking home from a class she'd left early, she sat on the ground by the Fine Arts Center for fear of passing out. She had been coughing and had a severe asthma attack such that she could hardly breathe. Two students stopped to help; one ran to Health Services to get an ambulance while the other obtained an inhaler from a passer-by.

When two police officers escorted my friend, crying, into Urgent Care, they stood waiting for a minute until two nurses at the desk finished their conversation. After she had been shown to an examining room, a doctor entered and coolly told her she would be attended to "soon". My friend, at this point breathing but still distraught, watched the doctor in the hallway talking to other members of the staff about other patients and procedures.

After half an hour, when the doctor had not yet returned to the room, my friend left in frustration. A friend drove her to a Northampton Clinic, where she was examined by a courteous, professional doctor. He listened to her lungs once and made a clear diagnosis. The UMass Health Services had sent away an asthmatic with bronchitis.

Needless to say, she was furious having been treated like a paranoid child at Health Services. Her friends and family were appalled to hear of the danger she was in and how she had been so casually dismissed by the Urgent Care staff the previous night.

I have heard other horror stories, some more serious than this, about less than adequate care and erroneous diagnoses by the staff. Even if these incidents are few and far between, they are deplorable.

Although Health Services may be understaffed, there is no reason for the quality of health care to be at its present low level. It is frightening to consider so many students, faculty, staff and others relying on the university for their health care when occurrences such as these are happening.

Budget cuts or not, this problem is too serious to go unresolved. It is imperative that people be aware of the present situation, and make an investigation of the problem.

Tara Ahmed
Central

Why so many blue uniforms?

On Nov. 28 I witnessed our basketball team's embarrassing loss to Division II University of Lowell. A more disturbing thing than our loss was the significant presence of UMass Police. Present at the game were at least nine men in blue. I have one question, why?

Do UMass basketball fans have a reputation of being particularly violent? I don't seem to recall any problems over the last couple of years, except maybe the traditional throwing of toilet paper when our team gets its first hoop.

Toilet paper throwing doesn't warrant police presence, so why are they there? When there are nine police officers at a basketball game, who is protecting the rest of the campus anyway?

Let us have fun cheering on our team without having solemn faced cops with guns standing around intimidating anyone they can!

Andrew Cantillon
Amherst

Everyone not combating racism

Early this semester, Brown University, the Ivy League school in Providence, R.I., passed a policy that went something like this:

There have been several assaults on campus recently. In all the assaults, assailants were described as Black males. For that reason, we are forcing Black fraternities to cancel their Halloween/rush parties, for fear of further assaults.

David R. Mark

— The Brown University administration

The administration's logic is classic. You can almost see them saying, "Hmmn, Black males. Where are there Black males? Ahh, Black fraternities."

Student groups at Brown protested the decision, but the policy withstood criticism, and has not since been reversed. Unfortunately, neither the New York Times or the Boston Globe addressed the administration's racism.

Could you imagine a university creating a similar policy for all-White or near all-White fraternities? Could you imagine the administration here at the University of Massachusetts proposing that racist a policy? Jonathan Leavitt and company would have a field day.

Racist attitudes at universities across the country are allowed because a perception exists that some schools are racist and others aren't.

Several southern university's student governments have, in the past, granted Black organizations a smaller percentage of student moneys than White (in the west, some student governments have in the past granted less to Asian organizations than White). However, those decisions are given credence through ignorance among the general student body. The stories do not find their ways into the national press. The result is continued racism.

Not so at our University, the University of California, the University of Michigan, and a handful of other unfortunate schools tagged by the national press as "racist hotspots." The New York Times is the easiest way for students to remind themselves how racially unaware we are, as the newspaper runs a yearly review story of racism at college campuses. Several schools are always mentioned; we are always one.

Deservedly or not, we have been cited as a racist campus, with a racially unaware administration, student body, and faculty. We are cited for our inability to attract minority students and faculty, and our inefficiency in putting an end to the racial assaults that have plagued our campus.

Journalism Professor Howard Ziff told the Associated Press something earlier this semester which I found particularly factual. He said our campus has opened our wounds to society, that we have recognized racism and are openly attempting to confront it. In our zealousness, we have appeared to the public as having more racism. In fact the problem is we admit it more openly.

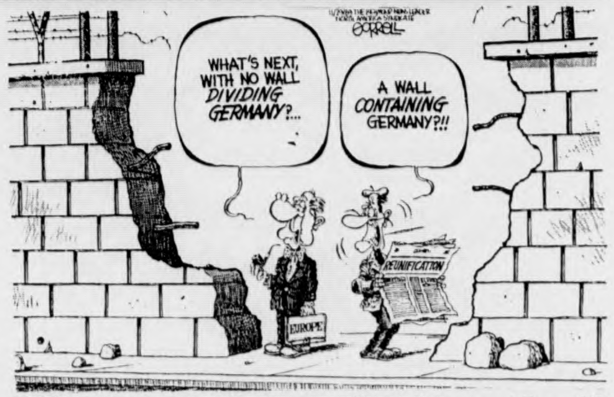
People at UMass have a tendency to criticize the media, the Collegian included. The criticism, more often than not, is that we as reporters allow racist attitudes to fester in our complacency.

I criticize the media for pointing to some forms of racism while not pointing to others. When events at Brown and others schools go uncontested, while other efforts to combat racism — even those in vain — are pointed to as an excuse to reopen old wounds, the result is a lopsided fight against racism.

None of us benefit from that.

Read David R. Mark every Tuesday

The Collegian accepts letters and columns from all members of the UMass communities. All submissions MUST be typed, letters can be no longer than 35 lines, and columns no longer than 60.
ALL SUBMISSIONS BECOME THE PROPERTY OF THE COLLEGIAN



WHAT'S NEXT, WITH NO WALL DIVIDING GERMANY?...
A WALL CONTAINING GERMANY?!!
EUROPE
REUNIFICATION
©1989 THE NEWPORT NEWS LEADER
NORTH AMERICA SYNDICATE
SORRELL

Who's to blame for 'apathy'?

A teacher's organization recently conducted a survey of 1,100 people between the ages of 15 to 24. It concluded that young Americans know nothing about our political system and don't care to know. It points to a dismal democratic future for our country.

Meredith O'Brien

Syndicated columnists like Mike Royko and Ellen Goodman have critiqued this survey and have arrived at the same conclusion: People, aged 15 to 24, are apathetic and ignorant.

Royko goes even further, devoting two columns to it. In his first column, he called the younger generation "self-centered, materialistic, pleasure-seeking and uninformed."

To remedy our hopeless plight, he suggested: "We could bring back the draft. All high school graduates or 18 year-old dropouts would be put in two years of public or military service."

Of course, we have to take this shot of sarcasm with a grain of salt. But in his latest column, Royko ran some responses that he had received from high school students regarding his evaluation of today's youth.

What he chose to run was printed "exactly as they [the high school students] wrote it." The column then proceeded to present a series of snipets from angry letters. They were filled with grammatical errors, misspellings and incoherent sentences. He held these high school students up as conclusive evidence that the survey was absolutely correct: All young people ages 15-24 are egocentric fools.

Ellen Goodman, seemingly responding to Royko in her weekly column, acknowledged that the survey results were correct but took the defense for the younger generation, blaming the present, dominant generation.

". . .But worrying about kids' values is worrying about the values we have passed along. Worrying about their ignorance is worrying about our teaching."

What this survey and these columnists fail to address was — who was this survey conducted upon? Mostly high school students with a few token college students thrown in? It seems a bit hard to swallow that the average 20 to 24 year-old knows nothing about government.

As I look around this campus, there seems to be an overabundance of political activism. My desk is constantly flooded with letters and columns on a vast multitude of political issues. How can these columnists condemn all people in the age group of 15-24?

A great chunk of this group is comprised of college students. It is my understanding that college students are full of idealistic political views — that many people are politically active in their youth. And then when these people look back in 20 years, some will probably chuckle to themselves in disbelief that their views have changed so radically.

I agree with the points made by Goodman that address the failure of the older generation to provide the younger generation with knowledge. From my own experience, I can honestly say that in my four years of high school, with an advanced placement history class, I was never taught anything about the Vietnam War. When I came here, I took two history classes that both covered the Vietnam War. I really wanted to learn about that war, so I made sure I took courses to find out about it.

But if I was asked about the war when I was in high school, I wouldn't know anything about it. It's not because I did not care about politics or our history, but because our high schools are not providing students with the information they need. They are passing people who don't know what a state legislature is, as it further crushes what scant educational sources are left.

Yes, the younger generation does have a problem — our educational system is failing us. But we are not all apathetic and uncaring about our political system. I think that 15,000 Massachusetts college students proved that in October.

Read Meredith O'Brien every Tuesday

Did politics motivate complaintants?

This is an open letter to those students who were so outraged over the cancellation of class/es during the strike that they felt it necessary to lodge complaints with Provost O'Brien.

Did you go to Boston on Oct. 18 or demand that class be held? Have you attended, without exception, every class this semester? Have you never sighed with relief when you heard that a class was cancelled whether due to illness, conferences or holidays?

It is our guess that the complaints that have been lodged are more political rather than conscientiously formed objection. We realize that the context of the complaint is that the classes were cancelled because of the strike, not any of the other "normal" reasons, but this shouldn't matter.

If you are so conscientious that you wish to play with someone's career then certainly you were conscientious enough to have complained when classes were cancelled at any other time. Weren't you?

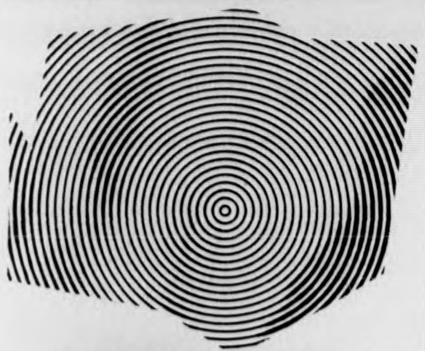
The fact that they might have been cancelled in support of the strike (read "in support of the fight against the budget cuts affecting your education") and not so you could catch an early bus home for the holiday should be irrelevant.

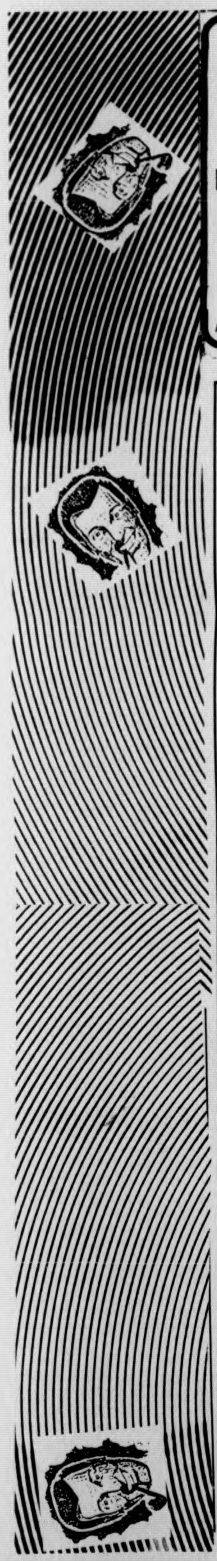
Furthermore, to the administration who must answer to these students and parents, what about your having encouraged faculty to break their contracts by going to Boston on Oct. 18?

Perhaps there are facts that make this an exception to policy. If so, we would like to know them, as well as the number of complaints received over that action.

Complaintants, your motivation is questionable. When spring break rolls around and you want to cut out early, will you feel equally obligated to complain about the professor who cancels your Friday afternoon class? We doubt it.

Melissa S. Herbert
Jeff Kuenzi
Jennifer Eichstedt
Kathleen M. Morely
Amherst





OOPS!
Now's the time to call...
North Amherst Motors
78 Old Sunderland Rd., No. Amherst
549-2880
Expert Repairs and Reconditioning
Most Major Credit Cards Accepted

For the best values and service on automotive electronics accessories, there is only one place...
Custom Car Sound!
● BLAUPUNKT
Phoenix
• 2-way anti-theft protection
• Noise reduction
• Tape search
• Bass & Treble
Installed $299
UPGRADE YOUR STOCK SOUND
ALPHASONIC, ADS
BLAUPUNKT, PYLE
AMPS & WOOFERS
PANASONIC CQ-322
• FREE speakers
Installed $259
SANYO ER-100
• FREE speakers
Installed $159
PANASONIC CQ-506
• FREE speakers
Installed $99
GREAT GIFT
Case Logic
15 CD case
ONLY $14.95
More to choose from
RADAR DETECTORS
CLIFFORD ELECTRONICS, INC.
BEL
Auto Security Installed
FROM $49
Authorized Agent
METRO MOBILE
SALES & SERVICE
CUSTOM CAR SOUND
141 DAMON RD.
NORTHAMPTON, MA.
586-5258
573 RIVERDALE ST.
W. SPRINGFIELD, MA.
734-4995

JOAN & DAVID's classic Prairie Boot in mahogany, black or natural. Luxury leather.
PALOMA's "Dangerous Liasons" shoe in black suede with ornate buckles.
DIVERTENTE's high society pumps in black or mulberry suede.
BANDOLINO's Italian calfskin Jodphur Boot in black or luggage.
At Strut you'll find leather belts, silk scarves, calfskin handbags, a huge selection of hosiery and socks, shoe bows cotton tights & jewelry.
ZODIAC's To-The-Point Cowboy Boot in black or natural sueded calf.
STRUT
SHOES FOR WOMEN
197 MAIN ST NORTHAMPTON

There's Always a Sale! 10% to 60% AT Good Night Bedding Factory Outlet Stores
CASH & CARRY SPECIALS
GREAT GIFT IDEAS
HANDCRAFTED
QUILTS & BLANKETS
40 - 50% OFF
SAVE
Full size Futon Couch $118.00
Our latest futon is really moving! Made to travel—comes nestled in its own denim bag with a wide shoulder strap for easy transport—
XMAS SPECIAL $79.00
Northampton 585-0660
The Cutlery Building
320 Riverside Dr.
(1 mi. from Smith College off Rt. 9w behind high school)
9-5 Daily Sun til Xmas 12-5
Call for directions
Amherst 549-3507
The Carriage Shops
9 E. Pleasant St.
11-5 Mon.-Sat.
INTRODUCTORY - TOP OF THE LINE MATTRESSES & FOUNDATION SETS
50 TO 65% OFF LIST PRICE
Scratch & Dent Futon Frames • Pillow & Cover Over runs • Discontinued Models • Quilting Scraps
Demo Futons • Yard Goods • Cotton Batting • Foam Pieces • All Below Retail - Best Prices Anywhere • Much More

Scott's LIQUORS
OPEN MON-SAT 8 AM-11 PM
Tel: 549-2692
6 University Drive
at Newmarket Center
Amherst, MA
diagonally across from UMass Stadium
Start your Holiday Celebrations with these specials from Scott's
Rolling Rock 12pk bottles $5.99 + Dep.
Michelob 24-12oz bottles Regular, Light, Dry $12.99 + Dep.
Peachtree Schnapps 750 ml $6.99
Captain Morgan Spiced Rum 1.75 $13.99
Jack Daniels Whiskey 750 ml $9.99
Absolut Vodka 1.75 $18.99
VISA/MASTERCARD ACCEPTED, ALSO LOCAL PERSONAL CHECKS
Every Day Low Price For Bud, Bud Light, Miller, Miller Lite, Genuine Draft, Coors, Coors Light and Extra Gold $11.99 plus Dep.
Kegs Available
WE WANT TO BE YOUR FAVORITE LIQUOR STORE

ARTS & LIVING

Welcome the fire of Winter

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

Flicking through some old Collegians, I happened upon an ad for a once upcoming show in Boston. The show was to have Johnny Winter and Janis Joplin on the same bill, with equal billing. I shall now confess my own musical naivete by saying that I only was turned on to Johnny Winter about two years ago, by my friend George, whose knowledge and taste for anything to do with the blues is beyond reproach.

So, one day George throws Johnny Winter and Live on to my rusty old turntable. At this point I exploded into a frenzy of, to put it mildly, appreciation. Never had I heard "Jumpin' Jack Flash" with such energy, such muscle power, such soul. Never.

Forget about Robert Cray, Eric Clapton even; the real successor to the throne of down and dirty, raucous, raunchy fire power geetar blues is the man pictured right.

His press release states, "Johnny Winter is an American music legend." This finally destroys my long held theory that the more hype in the P.R. the less substance in the person. Winter is a legend, and rightfully so. He's been playing for 28 years, since, at the tender age of 15, he released a single, "Schoolday Blues," with his then band "Johnny and the Jammers" (including maestro brother Edgar) on the Dart label.

It wasn't until 1968 that Winter got the national acclaim he still deserves, with a Rolling Stone cover story and a signing to Columbia Records. Thereafter came the albums that have carved out a mighty niche for his bluesy magic. These include Johnny Winter, Second Winter, Johnny Winter and, and my own near spiritual experience, Johnny Winter and Live.

In addition, Winter produced the comeback album for Muddy Waters, Hard Again, in 1977. "Working with Muddy made me feel people were finally realizing that I'm not faking and can really play the blues. I felt I'd established myself," he said.

Besides constant record releases, Guitar Slinger, Serious Business and Third Degree (Alligator records) among them, Winter has continued to tour, "at least eight to nine months a year." His latest album is Winter of 88, and while his albums do go some length toward expressing the man's raw power, as with all great artists, the music has to be seen to be believed. The albums are a fine representation of his musical genius/virtuousity, but live, Winter is a phenomenon.

And the oppurtunity is now upon us. In the last few weeks, where we all experience the hectic slipping and sliding weather wise, academic wise and otherwise, of end-of-the-semester campus blues, it's a fine idea to break free and experience intensity.

"It's like eating and sleeping — it's a necessity for me. The blues may come in and out of fashion, but I just keep playing what I love and hope others love it too." Guess who said that.

Johnny Winter will play upstairs at Pearl Street in Northampton tonight, starting at 7 p.m.

Photo courtesy of Slatus Mgt.

Johnny Winter graces Pearl St. tonight

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant
MANDARIN/SZECHUEN CUISINE
The Best Chinese Buffet
MANDARIN/SZECHUAN CUISINE
WE DELIVER IN AMHERST 5-9:30 EVERYDAY
Minimum $15 plus $2 delivery charge
NEW BUFFET & SUNDAY BRUNCH
Buffet served 5-8 p.m. Sun.-Thurs.
Brunch served Sunday 11:30 a.m.-3 p.m.
ALL YOU CAN EAT $5.99
Children under 10 - $3
1) Hot and Sour Soup
2) Chicken Fingers
3) Chicken Wings
4) Vegetable Chow Mein
5) Pan Fried Ravioli
6) Beef with Green Peppers
7) House Special Chicken
8) Sweet and Sour Chicken
9) Roast Pork Fried Rice
10) Vegetable Fried Noodle
11) Chinese BBQ Pork
12) Broccoli with Oyster Sauce
ADVOCATE BEST VALLEY 1987
TAKE-OUT SERVICE — FULL COCKTAIL MENU
10 Belchertown Rd. at Rte. 9, Amherst 256-0252

VIDEO To GO
256-1509
WE'VE MOVED FROM 40 TO 401 MAIN STREET
$2 OFF ON
Previously Viewed Movies
Prices range from
$4.99-$29.99
Offer Expires 12/24/89
FOR PARKING: Turn down driveway between Aldrich Auto Supply and the big yellow house

Great Gifts
Jewelry Natural Fiber Scarves
Blouses Skirts Dresses
Rings Bracelets Chains Mugs Earrings Chinese Shoes Sweaters Socks Leather Sole
Happy B'day Cards Hawaii Posters Indonesian Prints Candles Dresses India Print
India Print Bedspreads Area Rugs Baskets Paper Lampshades
Sale 20 to 50% off selected Clothing
Great Gifts & Cards
THE MERCANTILE
Sun 12-5
Daily 10-6
Northampton-18 Center St.
Amherst-Carriage Shops

Peter Pan
New England's Largest Bus Line Offers Daily Express Service Throughout the Northeast!
HOURLY EXPRESS SERVICE
• Boston • Springfield
• New York City
• Hartford • Worcester
Connecting Service Nationwide
America's Most Modern Fleet
Amherst to
Boston Student Fare $23.95 round-trip
NYC As Low As $39.95 round-trip
One call does it all:
Peter Pan Bus Terminal
79 South Pleasant St., Amherst
256-0431
U-Mass Hotel 545-2006

HUNAN GOURMET

京 CHINESE RESTAURANT 湘

The aroma, sound & taste of authentic Chinese cuisine prepared Hunan, Szechuan, Mandarin or Cantonese style—especially for you!

- Ample Free Parking
- Major Credit Cards Accepted
- Full Liquor License
- Open 7 Days A Week
- Take-Out Service Available
- No MSG

585-0202 261 King St., Northampton, MA

Women's Shoes, Clothing & Accessories
Zanna • 187 North Pleasant Street • Amherst
413.253.2563

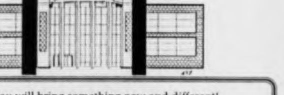
ZANNA

THE PERFECT PARTY MIX.

Silks, Taffetas and Velvets.

THE THIRD ANNUAL
UMASS HILLEL
MINI-MALL

In the
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
DECEMBER 4TH - 8TH, 1989



Everyday will bring something new and different!

Jewelry
Army/Navy
Leather Goods
Nacks
Clothes
Accessories
Furniture
Free Raffle (first time ever)
Sweaters
Novelties
Nicks

This year there are five fun filled days:

Mon. Dec. 4th 11a.m. - 5p.m.
Tues. Dec. 5th 10a.m. - 5p.m.
Wed. Dec. 6th 11a.m. - 5p.m.
Thurs. Dec. 7th 10a.m. - 5p.m.
Fri. Dec. 8th 10a.m. - 4p.m.

Come shop for all your daily and holiday needs!!!!!!!!!!

BUFFALO BILLS

GRAB ON TO A HOT DEAL!

Buy a super roast beef sandwich and get a junior roast beef sandwich FREE

Offer good thru 12/12
ONE COUPON PER CUSTOMER

50 Main Street • 253-9223
Thurs, Fri & Sat 11 a.m.-2 a.m.

Snickers Special

Dec. 4-10

3/99¢

Available at all store locations
University Store 9:00am-5:00pm
Mini Store 7:30am-10:00pm
Franklin Munchy 7:30am-9:00pm
Hampden Munchy 8:00am-9:00pm
Worcester Munchy 8:00am-9:00pm

Do You Need $$$$$$$$$

Work all January as Inventory Auditors.

No experience necessary. Paid training provided.

RGIS INVENTORY SPECIALISTS is the nation's largest inventory specialists with over 240 offices nationwide. January is our busiest month. Average 20 - 40 hours per week working weekdays, weeknights and weekends taking Inventory in Retail Stores.

To be considered you must have a phone, transportation, neat appearance and be dependable.

To learn more, call the RGIS office nearest your home, or interview at the Campus Center on the following dates: Wednesday, Nov. 29th, Rm 101, Thursday, Nov. 30th, Rm 917, Monday, Dec. 4th, Rm 101. Tuesday, Dec. 5th, Rm 101. Interview times are 10 AM to 4PM on the hour.

CALL	IF YOU LIVE NEAR...
800-344-9057	Worcester, Fitchburg, Athol, Framingham, Natick, Milford, Webster, Southbridge
800-696-5132	Lowell, Lawrence, Newburyport, Saugus, Medford, North Shore
617-497-4440	Boston, Allston, Cambridge, Somerville
508-559-7600	Brockton, Hanover, Taunton, Quincy, Dedham
508-746-7610	Plymouth, New Bedford, Cape Cod
800-346-3416	Springfield, Pittsfield, No. Adams, Amherst
800-752-5451	Fall River, Seekonk, Attleboro

Sponsored by Student Employment Office

Arts desk clean up reveals top 10 surveys galore

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

The semester, year and decade are rapidly coming to a close. It's time to do an extensive overhaul and clean up many of the loose ends around the arts desk.

First off, congrats go to Lacey Halstead, who was randomly chosen as the winner of the David Bowie Sound and Vision promotional CD.

After laboring over all the entries, we have officially tallied the top three movies, as according to your entries. They are:

1)Blue Velvet
2)Repo Man
3)Labyrinth

On to more closet cleaning. We've received many entries for people's Top 10 albums of the decade. Since our egos are huge enough that we think people care about our opinions, we thought we'd share our opinions with you also.

Will Georgiades — Collegian Co-Arts Editor;
1)The Modern Dance — Pere Ubu (Stiff Records reissue)
Floating Anarchy — Gong (Ariston)
2)Infected — The The (Epic)
3)Three Feet High and Rising — De La Soul (Tommy Boy Music)
4)Blood and Chocolate — Elvis Costello (CBS)
5)New York — Lou Reed (Sire)
6)Betty Blue soundtrack — Gabriel Yared (Virgin)
7)The Whitey Album — Ciccone Youth (Enigma). The only album to make sense out of the 80s, Madonna and rap included
8)City Down — Casselbery and Dupree (Iceberg Records)
Frenzy — Mojo Nixon/ Skid Roper (Restless)
9)John Peel Sessions —any album with those words in the title (BBC)
10)The Rent Party — The Rent Party (Fly By Night). Home is where the heart is; familiarity occasionally breeds contentment (Cassette only, out next week).

Jody Gabin —illustrious Collegian Associate Arts Editor:

These are not in any order, mind you, and reflect only what popped into my head at the time. They also don't include any sort of explanation.

1)The Gift — The Jam
2)Swordfishtrombones — Tom Waits
3)VU — The Velvet Underground
4)Brewing Up With Billy Bragg — Billy Bragg
5)The Wishing Chair — 10,000 Maniacs
6)Once in a Very Blue Moon — Nanci Griffith
7)Evol — Sonic Youth
8)Rum, Sodomy and the Lash — The Pogues
9)It Takes a Nation of Millions to Hold Us Back — Public Enemy
10)Our Beloved Revolutionary Sweetheart — Camper Van Beethoven
Diva, Betty Blue soundtracks
All Day/Everyday is Halloween (12") — Ministry

Mark Sturm — Assistant Music Director, WMUA:

Please understand that this is not claiming these are the 10 best records of the decade; any list of 10 will be somewhat incomplete, but there simply isn't room for a list of 500 in this paper. Also note that the Swans record listed below bears no resemblance, aural or visual, to the Swans records currently enjoying corporate status. Look for Vertical Records in Department stores nationwide. Peace.

1)Plague/Amerside — Rat At Rat R (Neutral)
2)Nation of Millions —Public Enemy (Def Jam)
3)Things That Play Themselves — Kingsake Roost (Aberrant)
4)Last Exit — Last Exit (Enemy)
5)Plays the Devils Music — Lubricated Goat (Black Eye)
6)The Raging Bulls — The Fringe (Ap-Gu-Ga)
7)Filth — The Swans (Neutral)
8)In The Air Tonight — Union Carbide Productions (Radium)
9)Head Kick Facsimile — Copshootcop (Supernatural Organization)
10)Two Nuns and a Pack Mule — Rapeman (Touch 'n Go)

And the fans:

Chris Stavropoulos, UMass student:

I've had enough of the world's "It's cool-to hate U2" people. All of this Bono bashing is really pathetic. It seems like when a recording artist tries to be socially aware and displays seriousness concerning their art they lose the respect they deserve. Anyway, here is my Top 10 albums of the 80s list:

1)London Calling — The Clash
2)The Joshua Tree — U2
3)The Queen is Dead — The Smiths
4)Let It Be — The Replacements
5)Low Life — New Order
6)Nothing's Shocking — Jane's Addiction
7)Daydream Nation — Sonic Youth
8)Tattoo You —The Rolling Stones
9)Birth, School, Work, Death — The Godfathers
10)Louder Than Love — Soundgarden
10)Tiny Days —Scruffy the Cat

Keita Ishiwari, UMass student:
1)Internationalists — The Style Council
2)The Specials —The Specials
3)Closer — Joy Division
4)In the Flat Field — Bauhaus
5)Signing Off — UB40
6)Life's a Riot with Spy vs. Spy — Billy Bragg
7)Yellow Magic Orchestra — Yellow Magic Orchestra
8)True — Spandau Ballet
9)Two Wheels Good — Prefab Sprout
10)Phantasmagoria — The Damned
11)Second Edition — P.I.L.

David J. Crowley, UMass student:
1)Appetite for Destruction — Guns 'n' Roses
2). . . And Justice for All — Metallica
3)1984 — Van Halen
4)Purple Rain — Prince
5)An Innocent Man — Billy Joel
6)Synchronicity — Police
7)Hysteria — Def Leppard
8)Sports — Huey Lewis and The News
9)Permanent Vacation — Aerosmith
10)Faith — George Michael

Traditional jazz from Roach, Terry and Tillis heats up FAC

By BILL ROSENBLATT
Collegian Staff
and PETER SOKOLOWSKI
Collegian Correspondent

Max Roach/Clark Terry
Fine Arts Center
Saturday, Dec. 2

Jazz giants Max Roach, Fred Tillis and Clark Terry stood tall in the Fine Arts Center concert hall last Saturday night at the annual Jazz All-Stars concert. It was an enjoyable, relaxing evening with what they call "America's classical music" — traditional jazz.

Max Roach began the evening with a set of solo pieces he has developed for the drum set as part of his crusade to draw more attention to the "Beautiful harmonies and sonorous melodies" of which the drums are capable, when played by a true master.

Roach's performance was typically precise and musical; his compositions, such as "The Drum Also Waltzes" and "The Smoke That Thunders," retain all the distinctive qualities of the jazz idiom. His tribute to Papa Jo Jones, "Mr. Hi-Hat," was a masterpiece, as he showed how much music can be played on just a foot cymbal.

It didn't seem to matter that Roach's set was essentially identical to those he has played in the recent past (even down to the stories he told between numbers). His work represents the sine qua non of jazz percussion, and it is always satisfying to enjoy this master at work and to revel in the fact that the University community has him as a resource.

As a little surprise at the end of the set, Fred Tillis joined Roach on tenor sax for a couple of improvisatory duets. Tillis, the director of the Fine Arts Center and (with Roach) co-founder of UMass' Afro-American music program, hasn't picked up his tenor in public in years; it was good to see him back on his original horn. He gave a bluesy a capella rendition of "Please Send Me Someone to Love" that left no doubt about his roots as a "Texas tenor."

Trumpeter Clark Terry played the second half of Saturday night's concert, backed by a piano trio. At age 69, he is the most significant living alumnus of the Duke Ellington Orchestra. Terry showed himself to be the consummate professional; his technique and tone are formidable as ever. He proved yet again that no matter how many precocious prodigies are gaining notoriety in the jazz world today, there is no substitute for a half century's experience.

However, his set was a bit disappointing, because the band almost never hit a groove. This was undoubtedly the fault of the cave-like concert hall, which tends to make any ensemble larger than a duo sound like a muddled mess. Nevertheless, Terry exercised impeccable taste, imagination and control over his band's music, even when playing pianissimo. The tunes, mostly slow-to-medium tempo standards, gave him plenty of soloing room, but he kept his statements remarkably concise. He brought his refined, restrained set to an end with a tongue-in-cheek reading of Eddie Vinson's blues tune, "I Want a Little Girl," on vocals and plunger-muted trumpet.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS

AT RILEY, EDUCATION IS ENERGY

WHO WE ARE: Our innovative steam generator and fuel burning power systems create energy from a variety of traditional and non-traditional fuels—from gas, oil and coal, to coffee grinds, nut hulls and municipal waste. Cities and industries are learning a lot from us—and so can you.

HOW IT WORKS: Riley is seeking Chemical, Mechanical, Civil, and Electrical Engineering Students who are interested in Design Engineering, Performance Engineering, or Development work in the Steam Generation/ Energy Industry. Our EIT Program is a six-to-nine-month training period in which the EIT gains exposure to the various facets of our Corporation—from contract design to field/performance testing to marketing and sales, our EIT's gain a bird's eye view.

And now, the energy is building— Riley Consolidated will be on campus:

December 5, 1989
8:30am-4:30pm
University
Career Center

WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU: Creating enough energy to meet the world's needs is one of the major responsibilities we face today. Here, you'll have the satisfaction of knowing your degree can make a difference. Plus, you'll enjoy real advancement potential, an excellent salary and exceptional benefits, including 401(k) and tuition reimbursement.

WHAT TO DO: Make plans now to stop by your Career Center and sign up for an interview! If you can't make it, send a letter and resume to: Employee Relations Department, Riley Corporation, P.O. Box 2040, Worcester, MA 01613-2040.

RILEY RILEY CONSOLIDATED INC
Ashland

SALE at the BAZAAR

New Holiday Hand-Crafted Gifts & hand-knit wool/cotton sweaters

All men's sweaters & clothing 20 percent off ticketed price

Men's & Women's Sneaker Clearance has been extended!

Come on in & catch other great deals only at

the BAZAAR

Mon-Sat 10:00-6:00 Sun 12:00-5:00
25 N. Pleasant St., Amherst 253-7400

• cigars • tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos •

PIPE DEN IS BACK!!

After a brief absence in your area The Pipe Den has reopened at
The Hampshire Mall
(413) 586-3237

Including an Expanded
Line of Gifts
& Collectibles

• tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos • cigars

Curriculum Fee Waiver

Undergraduate and Graduate applications for the curriculum fee waiver for Spring 1990 will be available in Financial Aid Services, Dec. 4, 1989.

Applicants must demonstrate a severe financial hardship to qualify for a waiver.

Application Deadline is Dec. 22, 1989

Are you still looking for something you haven't seen in The Collegian?

We are now having a contest where you pick the feature!!!

Choose from the following sections:

Sports Extra
Multicultural Affairs
Books
Black Affairs
Women's Issues
This Weekend
Focus
Third World Affairs
Health & Science
News
Arts/Living
Sports

Pick a feature and if your idea is selected, we will do a story on it!

Send entries or bring down to:
You Pick the Feature
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center
University of Massachusetts, Amherst MA 01003

BRITTANY MANOR
Brittany Manor Drive • (413) 256-8534

Two Bedroom Apartments
AVAILABLE NOW!

STARTING $490 PER MONTH
Rent includes heat and hot water.

ENJOY THESE FEATURES:

- Fully-Equipped Kitchen, Including Disposal
- Large Livingroom with Ceiling-to-Floor Windows
- On the UMass Bus Route
- Wall-to-Wall Carpeting
- Large Dining Area
- Oversized Bathrooms
- Wall-to-Wall Closets
- Storm Windows
- Dead-bolt Security Locks
- Cable T.V. Available
- Ample Parking
- Swimming Pool

THIRD WORLD AFFAIRS

Chair of UMass-UES Speaks on El Salvador

By ROBIN VARGHESE
Collegian Staff

On November 11, the Farabundo Marti Liberation Front (FMLN) launched a major offensive in which they, for the first time, took El Salvador's civil war into the capital of San Salvador. In San Salvador is UMass' sister school, the University of El Salvador (UES).

Nancy Rios, a graduate student in the Department of Education, is the Chairperson of the UES-UMass Committee.

Collegian: Why do you think the FMLN has launched this recent offensive, and what do you think they seek? Rios: When we talk about the FMLN, we are talking about five groups united to change the situation in El Salvador, to end the domination of El Salvador by the elite with the backing of the military. The rebels have demonstrated that they want a peace process and want to be part of the socio-economic and democratic processes of El Salvador. But they were forced into the offensive when ARENA (the ruling party) or rather Roberto D'Aubisson refused to negotiate.

Collegian: What do you think is the effect of United States military aid to El Salvador?

Rios: The U.S. provides $1.5 million daily, almost $20 per second: 35 percent goes to pay the salary of the military, 30 percent goes for weapons, and 35 percent goes for luxury for the elite. Because of the payment of the military's salary, they will back the elite.

Collegian: The Salvadoran government claims to have shot down a plane carrying arms from Nicaragua to the FMLN. Do you think the charge that the Salvadoran government is making has any validity?

Rios: It is questionable that the plane could have come from Nicaragua. The amount of arms it was supposed to be carrying could not fit in a plane that small. There were also American, as well as Soviet arms. There are facts which raise many questions. The plane can be an excuse to divert attention from the murder of the six Jesuit priests.

Collegian: What is the recent status of the UES, and what has the reaction from students been to the offensive?

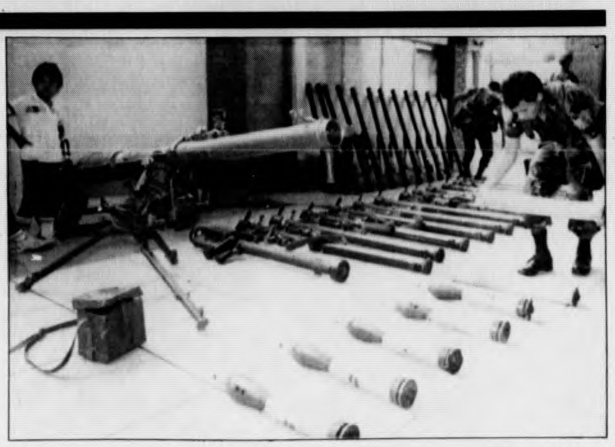
Rios: The UES is presently closed. The student body has been very active in helping the civillians with first aid. In every crisis, the university community has helped evacuate people, making sure everyone is alright, and administer first aid.

Collegian: What is your stand on the recent crisis in El Salvador?

Rios: I will not say that I am pro-FMLN or pro-government. I am pro-justice and pro-peace.

Collegian: What do you think must be done to allieviate the situation?

Rios: The only thing which will help the situation is to stop U.S. aid to the Salvadoran government. This will lead to compromise. Americans must call their Congresspeople. The U.S. will have to push ARENA to negotiate with the FMLN. The only solution is a coalition. El Salvador can no longer be dominated by one party.



AP photo

A Salvadoran soldier displays weapons claimed to be found in a plane crash. Allegedly, they were destined for the FMLN from Nicaragua.

An outsiders view of Thanksgiving

As a foreign student from the Indian subcontinent, the celebration of Thanksgiving has been of special importance to me. When the traditional land trade routes from India to Europe were cut off by the Turks, Europe began to look for a new and shorter sea route to India.

Nazmul Chaudhury

Thus Columbus, on his search for India, accidentally stumbled upon the Americas in 1492, mistakenly assuming he had reached his destination. This was a "discovery" of historical significance because this lead to two important events: one, the opening up of the "New World" to the Europeans and the other, initiation of the virtual genocide of a people.

About a century and a half later, the Pilgrims landed upon the shores of the New World. When their first harvest failed, the Pilgrims were on the brink of starvation. In a show of goodwill, the "Indians" brought over provisions such as turkey and cornbread to share with the newcomers.

This act of generosity saved the Pilgrims and also gave birth to the celebration of Thanksgiving. Unfortunately, the native population was virtually exterminated in return for their kindness.

No one should bear the sins of their forefathers, but to be ambivalent towards such a crime against humanity, especially among today's so-called educated youth, is an affront to human decency.

Where do the millions of butchered Native Americans and millions of my African brothers and sisters killed during the middle passage aboard slaveships fit into the American dream of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness? How can decent Americans celebrate Thanksgiving without ever remembering what happened to the hosts of Thanksgiving?

The oppression of native peoples by technologically advanced settlers is not a phenomenon restrained to the Americas but has manifested itself in various regions such as Palestine and South Africa. We should sympathize with our Palestinian and South African brethren who are entrenched in a struggle for independence and preservation of their cultural identity.

There is an assimilation campaign by my own government in Bangladesh against some hill tribe minorities. Bengali settlers have moved into regions adjoining the Burmese border and have slowly taken over tribal areas. I feel no shame in denouncing this insensitive action.

A nation such as the United States, which cries for freedom, democracy, and justice around the globe, should find the courage to give justice to her own oppressed people and acknowledge her sins.

Nazmul Chaudhury is a UMass student

The testimonial of an Indian Sikh

At the time of Indian independence, India was a fragmented nation of diverse cultures, and Sikhs were one of the community who had the choice but had declined the offer of a separate state. Instead, they chose to remain part of India.

Today, many doubts arise over the intelligence of their decision prompted by the tragedy that befell the Sikh community. These feelings were heightened by the desecration of Sikh sanctity, manifested firstly, in the destruction of the Golden Temple and secondly, the massacre of thousands of Sikhs, following the assassination of Indira Gandhi.

Sikhs are forcibly associated with the Khalistan movement which supposedly aspires to a separate nation of Punjab. The fight for Khalistan was never a proposition embraced by the Sikh majority. What the Sikhs truly seek is an effective economic system and preservation of their distinct culture, reflected in their declaration of separatist, which is spoken by the majority in Punjab, as the state language.

The ruling party interpreted these demands as Sikh separatist notions. But why would a community that has invested so much in the protection of India from repeated imperial conquests have separatist notions, especially since they chose to be part of India?

The government exploited these disagreements by highlighting it as a Hindu-Sikh confrontation, which it never was. This is a sad result because the communities shared so much.

Thus today, violence and terrorism envelop all of Punjab. The central government's policies, instead of seeking remedial measures, has turned Punjab into a repressive police state, violating all norms of human rights.

Arrests and torture of men and women of all ages are daily occurrences in Punjab. The youth seem to be the primary targets who, once arrested, more often than not, perish there without any semblance of a trial.

As for the 1984 anti-Sikh riots (in which more than 2000 Sikhs were killed in Delhi alone), the majority of the community had the feeling that the riots were masterminded by the ruling party at the time.

Sikh rejection of Congress(I), which they have supported historically, demonstrates the disillusionment of the Sikhs towards the party. Instead, they allied themselves with the dominant Hindu party, the Bharatiya Janata Party.

It is time for the new government to allow neutral, international human rights organizations to investigate the situation and bring the facts to light. The Sikh people, like all others, would like to live in peace and harmony but not at the expense of their dignity.

To be Indian is to celebrate and respect diversity. Those in India who would deny Sikhs and other marginalized communities their own honor and integrity are truly anti-Indian in spirit.

Puneet Sachdev is a UMass student

Local Indians react to elections

By PRATIP DASTIDAR
Collegian Correspondent

The largest exercise in electoral politics ever conducted in the world concluded last week in India. The people of India demonstrated conclusively that they cannot be taken for granted by any ruling party, be it at the national or regional level.

Rajiv Gandhi, the incumbent Prime Minister, resigned from office on Nov. 29, after his party was virtually wiped out in its traditional bastion, the Hindhi speaking plains of Northern India.

This is the second period in Indian history when the Congress party has been voted out of office, the first being a turbulent period between 1977 and 1980, when a coalition of uneasy allies called the Janata Party assumed office (after Rajiv's mother Indira attempted to gain a mandate for her decision to impose over a year of dictatorship on the nation).

The Congress party won 192 of the 525 contested seats, mainly in Southern India, where opposing parties were routed. The opposition coalition called the National Front, comprised mainly of the the People's Party or Jananta Dal, won 144 seats, and has formed a minority government with the endorsement of the right wing Hindu fundamentalist Indian People's Party (its acronym the BJP) which holds 88 seats, and the left alliance dominated by the Communist Party of India (Marxists) which holds 51 seats.

The election was marred by unprecedented violence, leading to almost 200 deaths, as well as vote rigging even in Rajiv Gandhi's home constituency.

Nonetheless, the electoral system prevailed, and the nation has a new Prime Minister, Vishwanath Pratap Singh. Mr. Singh was a former Cabinet Minister in Rajiv Gandhi's government. He left the Congress after uncovering a series of scandals focusing on corruption at the highest levels of government. He has a reputation for being and strong-willed, and it remains to be seen how he will respond to the opposing forces of a strengthened Left and resurgent Right.

Indian citizens on campus exhibited a variety of reactions. Rajesh Jha, from North India, felt that the results showed the healthy state of Indian democracy and the accountability of leaders.

Anila Cherian, from the Kerala in South India, and Sumita Dutta, from West Bengal in East India, felt that the voters delivered an anti-establishment message. They also believed that this was a turning point with violence and bloodshed in the future but also a greater empowerment of grassroots people's movements ultimately occurring. They expressed concern over the exploitation of Hindu chauvinism by the BJP.

Prashant Mahajan, form Bombay in West India, said that he was happy and satisfied by the democratic transition, as well as the awareness of issues demonstrated by the voter. He felt that the new government should focus on issues like delegating more power to the provincial governments.

Jayant Eranki, from Bangalore in South India, was disturbed by the apparent emergence of right wing forces and felt that the sharp difference between the voting trends in the Hindi-speaking regions and the rest of India pointed to to growing polarization.

HOLIDAY CARDS

☐ Traditional, Modern, Photography & Humorous

☐ Boxed and Loose

☐ Many Different Styles to Choose From

Find it at Faces

amherst/northampton
7 days

COMEDY NIGHT

TOP COMEDIANS

FROM Comedy Clubs around the country

SPONSORED BY
The Board of Governors
Program Council

APPEARING
Every Tuesday at 9:00 PM

the hatch
GROUND FLOOR STUDENT UNION

TWISTERS TAVERN
30 Boltwood Walk, Amherst, MA
253-9223

Tues. The Just George Show Dec. 5
R-Rated Comedian/Musician—Sing, Laugh, Party & Dance the Night Away—"This is a family show"
NO COVER

Wed. Reggae Night Dec. 6
NEW HORIZON

Thurs. No Cover Dec. 7
Twist N' Shout to Great Tunes

Fri. More Reggae!! Dec. 8
Equalites

Sat. Rockin Dave & Dec. 9
The Rent Party

GREAT FOOD!
ANCHOR WINGS
B.B. BLT
PRIME RIB
LOBSTER
BRUBECK REUBEN
BENNIE GOODBURGER
RHYTHM & BURGER

WHERE THE MUSIC COMES ALIVE!

AN EVENING WITH UPC PRODUCTIONS
the The

VERSUS THE WORLD
MONDAY FEB. 5
STUDENT
UNION BALLROOM
$7 UMASS STUDENTS
$10 GENERAL PUBLIC
TICKETS ON SALE TUESDAY (12/5) AT TIX UNLIMITED/SUB, FOR THE RECORD/ FACES IN AMHERST AND MAIN ST. RECORDS IN NORTHAMPTON.

WOMEN'S ISSUES

Women's group offers support

LBWU provides relaxed and social atmosphere for community women

By DANIELLE BIONDA
Collegian Staff

With strength and support running high this semester for the women's groups on campus, the Lesbian Bisexual Women's Union strives to continue as a social outlet for all women for network and support, said co-facilitator Kim Fountain. "It's a purely social group for women who share common interests," Fountain said. The LBWU is not a political group in the sense that its members must agree with a certain issue, she reported - it is a group for all women, with the only prerequisite being an open mind.

More than one year ago, Helene Mitchell, a former student and member of the Lesbian Bisexual Gay Alliance, collected some names and phone numbers of women during Gay Lesbian Bisexual Awareness Week to begin a group sensitive to the issues and needs of lesbian and bisexual women in a comfortable, social atmosphere, Fountain said.

The LBWU became, in a matter of months, an addition to the Lesbian Bisexual Gay Alliance in a move that co-facilitator, Ali Woolwich explained would keep the LBGA unified.

"Helene [Mitchell] believed that there wasn't a lot of support for women in the LBGA," Woolwich said. "The LBGA is very gay-male oriented," she said, yet the women feared they would creating a schizm because their group was women-only. "But in order to be useful and have enough strength, we need to have our own group to network and to go back out there," Woolwich said.

"[The LBGA] is supporting us 100 percent," Fountain said, adding that the LBGA has given their office space to the Lesbian Bisexual Women's Union for meetings Tuesday nights and Sundays.

Fountain said the group also provides a comfortable environment for women who share common interests and problems. "What we saw was women feeling as if they were alone," Fountain said. "We have an outlet to relax and breathe and feel comfortable . . . and you don't have to check your sexual orientation at the door," she said.

The LBWU addresses issues and concerns of lesbian and bisexual women, yet they encourage all women to attend meetings, Fountain said.

Unlike the Progressive Organization for Women's Rights [POWER] and People for Choice, two other women's issues groups on campus, the LBWU does not subscribe to a certain political stance, Fountain said.

"There are more politically oriented groups on campus," Woolwich explained, and both women stressed that the group is active with many political issues. Women from the group marched as the LBWU in the Gay Pride Marches in Northampton, Boston and New York, but Fountain said, "Anything we do together as a group is very social."

Collegian Photo By JOEL SOLOMON

Kim Fountain, co-facilitator of the Lesbian Bisexual Women's Union

Fountain said the atmosphere at the University of Massachusetts is relaxing in general and "much better than the outside world." The potential for women's groups at UMass is high, she said. "There is a lot of energy — women at this university are getting together. Since I've been here I've really seen it grow," Fountain added.

"There's a lot of women bashing in society, you see this and you want to speak and be with women," she said.

The LBWU also helps women as they "come out" [of the closet] in their situation at home as well as college. "When there is a room full of people who understand what your situation is, and they've gone through it already before you, it helps," Woolwich said, "We're there for each other."

As both women agreed about the importance and success of the LBWU, they are also stressed their concern for its future.

"We're striving to keep it going," Fountain said, "you see a trend of upperclass students starting something, they graduate, and the group falls apart."

"I felt so lucky that the group was there for me," Woolwich said, "I certainly want to keep it going . . . you can handle anything if there is a support group behind you."

Womens' Image in Film: reporter's commentary

By GEORGE LENTZ
Collegian Staff

When Glenn Close was shot by Anne Archer at the end of Adrian Lyne's Fatal Attraction, audiences exploded with cheers and applause. Problem is, this was not the reaction Lyne had wanted. "They wanted her blood," a stunned Lyne would later comment. The fact is, The Fatal Attraction we saw, was not the Fatal Attraction Lyne had initally shot.

The film's original ending had Close's character killing herself with a knife that had Michael Douglas' fingerprints on it. Douglas was tried and sentenced to life imprisonment. It painted a much different picture of who was the hero and who was the villain. But the studio didn't go for it, demanding Lyne re-write and re-shoot the ending. When Lyne refused, demanding why the ending be changed, one studio insider replied, and I quote, "People want to see this bitch get it."

The horrifying thing is, people did, and when did, they applauded. Fatal Attraction grossed $156,645,693 at the box office. That's a lot of people. The question, then, becomes: Is this what we want? Is this what turns us on?

Fatal Attraction was blatantly manipulated with, altered to focus outright hatred upon the female character. Now think about this. Douglas cheated on his wife, on his family. He had no just cause for doing so. When he was finished "using" Close, he expected her to just disappear. When she didn't, he became desperate. He didn't stop to consider her feelings or her apparent sickness. He simply labeled her a nuisance, and we backed him up. We sided with him. And when Close is ultimatetly killed we applauded. We wanted her to pay for his error in judgement.

Woody Allen powerfully captures a similar situation in his brilliant film Crimes and Misdemeanors. Martin Landau plays a successful opthamologist who, despite a secure and loving marriage, engages in a two year fling with Anjelica Huston's airline stewardess anyway. When he reneges on his promise to Huston to leave his wife, she threatens to blow the whistle on the affair. She simply wants the truth to come out so no one else gets hurt. Feeling the heat, Landau pleads with her and we bend to his side of the case. Now ask yourself who's the hero and who's the villain. Allen challenges us to vindicate Landau. Huston could ruin his life by exploding his willful crimes and yet we feel he deserves better than such a disgrace; we empathize with his dilemma. Landau's willful crimes are rewarded with audience sympathy while Huston's honesty is met with contempt.

Allen is a brilliant filmmaker, playing right up to our 80s way of thinking. He understands that we relate wealth and social power with justice and gender, regardless of any moral implications involved. Landau and Douglas blatantly manipulated the of the women they willingly involved themselves with. And yet these were the characters we sympathized with, vindicating their abuse of women.

It should be understood that Allen's Crimes and Misdemeanors is not advocating or glorifying the actions of its characters. Far from it, Crimes and Misdemeanors serves as a social document that challenges us to confront our state of social consciousness or lack thereof. But Lyne's Fatal Attraction was actually altered to glorify the objectification of women, the implications of which are inheritantly dangerous. Women are there to be used, to be manipulated by men. And, if the man is in a position of wealth and power, such behavior, such ways of thinking will be accepted by society, as shockingly evidenced by audience reaction to the film. Fatal Attraction is a dangerous film that should not be taken lightly.

"People want to see the bitch get it." Think about it.

Women's Issues needs writers come down to the campus center basement

Women's Caucus is reinstituted in senate

Women senators aim to increase voice

By KATERI WALSH
Collegian Staff

A University of Massachusetts women's caucus has been organized to fight feelings of intimidation and confrontation that often serve to suppress women's representation and quiet their voice in the Undergraduate Student Senate, according to Rua Kelly, a sophomore senator from Field who was active in organizing the caucus.

"This has been a very empowering experience," Kelly said, "Women don't totally feel comfortable yet, but they are starting to be more vocal, and I think next semester we will definately see some significant differences."

The caucus, which began meeting in early October, emerged after a group got together to discuss why women tend to be less vocal in senate meetings, Kelly said. During this initial meeting the women discovered some common experiences of intimidation that have led to women being less vocal in meetings.

"These are not meek, frightened women," she said, "These are outspoken, informed, assertive women, who for one reason or another were feeling too intimidated to speak up."

She said the group noticed that a women's caucus was provided for in the constitution, but hadn't been active for several years, and they decided reinstituting it could be an empowering experience.

Kelly said that procedures at Senate meetings are based on practices and actions that women are not conditioned to feel comfortable with.

"The whole atmosphere is just so confrontational...you really have to interrupt someone and be rude in order to be recognized," Kelly said, adding that "the senate is obviously a reflection of the larger society."

Kelly said the caucus, an apolitical group, has strived to increase women's awareness of "Robert's Rules of Order," the main policy guide for Senate meetings and procedures. They want women to become more familiar with these rules "because basically knowledge is power," she said.

She cited the groups ultimate goal as teaching women senators to be a more effective voice for women on this campus, and to be more effective as senators in general.

Most of the women senators have attended at least one of the Friday meetings, she said, and there is a solid core of about 25 women.

Kelly said some noticeable effects of the caucus are an increased awareness within the senate and the fact that women are gaining a sense of comeraderie and are becoming more vocal.

"It's all a confidence thing," she said.

Kelly cited part of the problem as being "Robert's Rules." While she stopped shy of labeling them as sexist in nature, she did say that as they originated from a male dominated society, they may be deserving of further examination.

"I don't know how much we can actually change the senate without revamping Roberts Rules of Order," she said, "If women just can't work with the system, then I think that maybe we'll have to look further into it."

The speaker of the senate, John Dunlap, said he believes the best result of the caucus will be equal participation on the senate floor. He said that while the current ratio in the senate is 38 women to 62 men, and the leadership is balanced, the ratio of senators speaking up is usually about one woman to eight men.

"The senate is obviously a male dominated culture and that is very unhealthy," he said.

Dunlap said that "the women's caucus has been putting pressure on those they see as abetting an intimidating environment."

He added, "I have enormous respect and am extremely impressed with the dedication that the women have displayed."

Sze's offers a difference

By BETH STOLLER
Collegian Staff

Tired of all the dozens of similar Chinese restaurants in the area? Well, Sze's of Northampton and Springfield has come up with an alternative. After being closed for renovation from Oct. 15 through Oct. 19, Sze's Chinese Cuisine has changed its name, its decor and most importantly, its food.

Sze's Asian Cuisine re-opened its doors on Oct. 20, offering its clientele a new menu consisting of dishes from Thailand, Indonesia, Korea, Japan, Singapore, Vietnam and other countries in Southeast Asia. Sze's is the first restaurant in our area to come up with this innovative idea.

Why did they decide to change? When Sze's first opened in Feb. 1980, it was one of only a handful of Chinese restaurants that could be found in both Northampton and Amherst. That began to change four years ago, when the area became flooded with Chinese restaurants offering dishes similar to one another. As the competition continued to grow, the management of Sze's decided to come up with an idea which would set them apart from the rest.

"We offer the best in quality, so it's best to differentiate yourself from others," says Bill Sze. After a year of extensive research, aided by experienced chefs such as Katherine Sze and others from Malaysia and Thailand, Sze's is now able to offer an exotic array of dishes.

According to Bill Sze, "The food ranges from something that will burn your mouth off to something that's very mild and creamy and anything else in between."

In other words, Sze's is offering a way to satisfy the palates of any customer who walks through their doors. A number of dishes have been created which are not as spicy as those found in Asia. The management at Sze's feel it necessary to be as authentic as possible, while still catering to the tastes of the clientele.

Aside from its unique menu, Sze's also changed its decor to complement the new cuisine. While they were closed for renovation, the floors, lamps, chairs, uniforms and the colors of the restaurant were all replaced in order to create both an elegant and authentic atmosphere.

"But the biggest change is how we operate internally," says Joong Park, one of the managers of the restaurant. "By far the most important things that have improved is the food."

Sze's also offers friendly service. Students and residents of the area are hired in order to provide feedback for what the customers are looking for. According to Bill Sze, "It is better to hire someone from the community so that you not only give something back, but you can also find out what people think." Sze's prides itself on its staff interaction with clients. They feel that a friendly staff makes for an elegant and comfortable dining experience.

So far, the comments on the "new and improved" Sze's have been positive. Clients are impressed with this innovative, fresh idea and the owners have even received letters of appreciation from local businessmen.

Sze's had a fairly large following before their renovation and now that they are offering both Chinese and Asian dishes, it appears they will expand even more. Since there are certain Chinese dishes that have been removed from the menu, special orders will be taken. "Special requests show that we care and it also requires a lot of skill to create these dishes from scratch," says Joong Park.

Humor with a message in Driving Miss Daisy

By JOHN PATRICK MUSULIN
Collegian Staff

Driving Miss Daisy
Fine Arts Center
Thursday, Nov. 30

Driving Miss Daisy is a night of sipping hot cider by the fire, staring deep into the coals. The play is a touching love story that delicately dances through the racial and ethnic realities of 1950s and '60s America.

The story politely flirts with the sticky subjects of Black versus White, Jew versus Gentile and rich versus poor. Immensely serious and volatile issues are addressed in subtle, almost light-hearted tones. The characters always obey the strictest codes of tact and social hierarchy, characteristic of the American south.

The play is set in Atlanta, Georgia and begins with Miss Daisy Werthan driving her car backwards over an embankment and landing on the roof of a garage. When the 72-year-old Daisy tells her son, "It was the car's fault," it sets the tone for the rest of the story.

Miss Daisy is portrayed superbly by Rosemary Prinz. She's witty, prickly and lovable. Starting out as the prejudiced old lady who refuses to let her son hire a black driver, she grows into the open-minded woman in her 90s who goes to benefit dinners for Martin Luther King.

Prinz ages wonderfully throughout the play. In the final scene, she's 97 and too shaky to feed herself, yet she still demands our sympathy in a heartwarming way.

Ted Lange, known to most people for his role as Isaac Washington, the bartender on the Love Boat, puts in the performance of the night as Hoke Coleburn, Miss Daisy's driver.

Hoke is humble, yet proud. He's always in control and keeps his "place" the best he can. When Miss Daisy thinks he's not capable of driving the car he says, "Miss Daisy, a gearshift is like a third arm to me. Besides, this is an automatic, any fool can run it." To which she replies, "Any fool but me, you mean," and they're off and running.

One day, as Hoke is driving Miss Daisy to the temple, they get stuck in traffic because somebody had bombed the building. Hoke implies who the perpetrators are, but Miss Daisy refuses to believe it. She says it must be a mistake, that the synagogue is reformed, not traditional or orthodox.

"A Jew is a Jew to them folks," Hokes explains, "just like a light or a dark, to them, they all a niggar."

Hoke goes on to tell a story about when he was a kid. One day he was playing horseshoes with his best friend and his dad, the next day he went back and his friend's dad was hanging from a tree next to the horseshoe pit.

The scene is characteristic of the gravity of the underlying themes in the play and the delicate way that the playwright, Alfred Uhry, deals with them. He manages to mix humor and a message into a night of wonderful theater.

Special Student & Youth Fares to EUROPE, SOUTH AMERICA, ASIA
from New York on Scheduled Airlines!

DESTINATIONS	OW	RT
LONDON	$175	$350
PARIS	215	415
BRUSSELS	195	370
ROME	275	550
STOCKHOLM/OSLO	250	460
COPENHAGEN	250	460
ZURICH	215	405
FRANKFURT	215	410
RIO	365	730
TOKYO	495	850

Add on fares from Boston, Washington, Chicago, Pittsburgh and other U.S. cities. Plus $3 dep. tax; $10 custom/immigration fee.
CALL OR WRITE FOR OUR SPECIAL FARES TO THE SO. PACIFIC AND AUSTRALIA.
Eurail and Eurail Youth Passes available immediately.

1-800-777-0112 STA
212-986-9470
WHOLE WORLD TRAVEL
17 E. 45th St., Suite 805, New York, NY 10017
Part of the worldwide STA Travel Network

MAKE A LASTING IMPRESSION

Join our dynamic young staff at The Progressive Group and help build support to protect a woman's right to privacy and to ensure a clean, safe environment for the world's children. You will be trained as a professional negotiator and will be our clients' telephone link to their donors. Upcoming PGI campaigns include:

THE PROGRESSIVE GROUP, INC.

CAMPAIGN FOR EVELYN MURPHY
PLANNED PARENTHOOD
NAT'L ABORTION RIGHTS ACTION LEAGUE OF N.Y.
MASS CHOICE
ENVIRONMENTAL DEFENSE FUND
BREAD FOR THE WORLD

Starting wage is $6.60 per hour with automatic step increases to $9.05; flexible schedule; evening and weekend hours; on bus route.

16-Hours/Week Permanant Positions
and
12-Hour/Week Temporary Positions
(2 months)

Call Personnel at 586-6600 before 5:00 p.m. weekdays or stop by PGI at Sullivan Square (across from the Academy of Music), Northampton.

Wheelchair accesible.
An Equal Opportunity Employer.

TEMPORARY WORK AVAILABLE DURING THE HOLIDAYS AND SCHOOL VACATIONS

Fine New, Used & Children's Books
European Periodicals
publishers overstocks at 40% to 80% off
special orders • out of print book searches
library appraisals • books bought

THE GLOBE BOOKSHOP

Mon-Sat 9-9, Sun 10-5 • 38 Pleasant St., Northampton • 586-5838

UMASS SKI CLUB
PRESENTS
LICENSE TO THRILL
APPROVED BY G. Plake

THE MOST EXTREME
SKI MOVIE YET FROM GREG STUMP

Date: Dec. 10, Sunday
Times: 5, 7 & 9 p.m.
Place: Campus Center 168C
ADMISSION FREE!!!

Learn German This Summer

June 24 - August 3, 1990

The Tenth Annual German Summer School of the Atlantic at the University of Rhode Island in co-operation with the Goethe Institute Boston.

German will be the sole language of communication, and German life and culture the heart of this six week residency program of intensive language study.

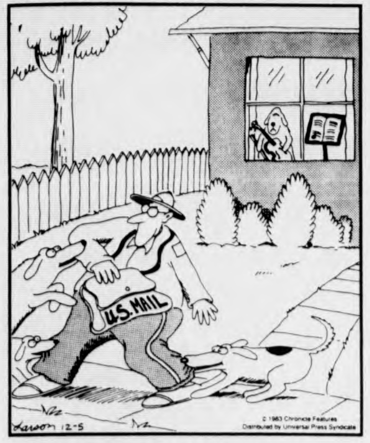
You may earn up to nine undergraduate or graduate credits while living in the beautiful surroundings of our country campus, just minutes away from Rhode Island's magnificent beaches and historic summer colonies.

This program is ideally suited for anyone wishing to enroll in beginning, intermediate, or any level of advanced German. From business people and travelers, to students planning work or study abroad. Take advantage of this rare opportunity to participate in this total German Language experience.

URI

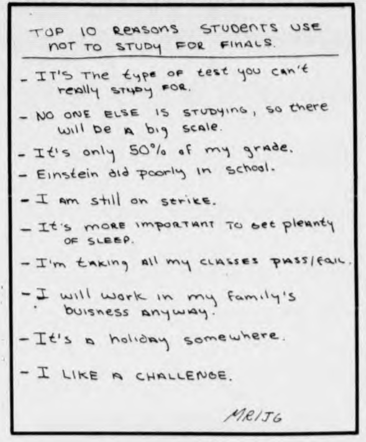
For details: Dr. John Grandin
Dr. Otto Dornberg, Co-Directors
Department of Languages
University of Rhode Island
Kingston, RI 02881 (401) 792-5911

THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



U.S. MAIL
Larson 12-5
© 1983 Chronicle Features
Distributed by Universal Press Syndicate

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG

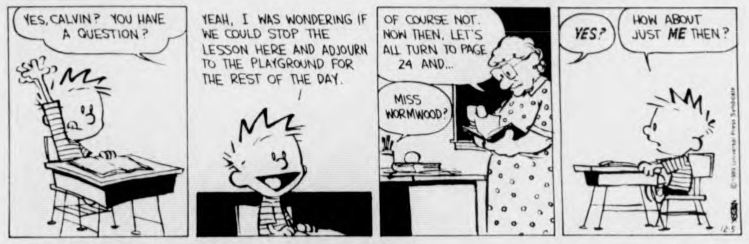


TOP 10 REASONS STUDENTS USE NOT TO STUDY FOR FINALS.

- IT'S The type of test you can't really study for.
- NO ONE ELSE IS STUDYING, so there will be a big scale.
- It's only 50% of my grade.
- Einstein did poorly in school.
- I am still on strike.
- It's more important to get pleanty of sleep.
- I'm taking all my classes pass/fail.
- I will work in my family's buisness anyway.
- It's a holiday somewhere.
- I LIKE A CHALLENGE.

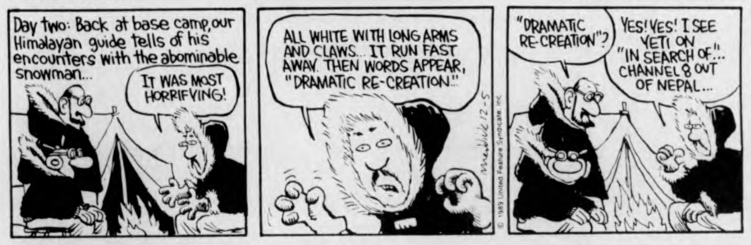
MR/JG

CALVIN AND HOBBES By BILL WATTERSON



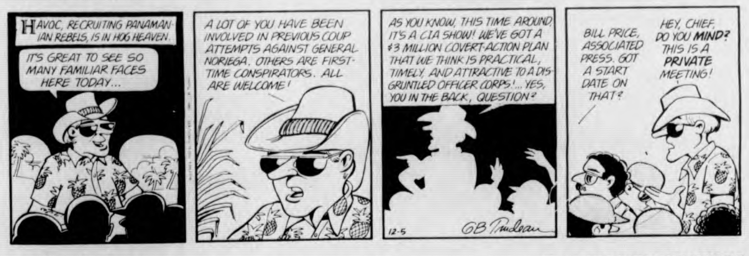
YES, CALVIN? YOU HAVE A QUESTION?
YEAH, I WAS WONDERING IF WE COULD STOP THE LESSON HERE AND ADJOURN TO THE PLAYGROUND FOR THE REST OF THE DAY.
OF COURSE NOT. NOW THEN, LET'S ALL TURN TO PAGE 24 AND...
MISS WORMWOOD?
YES?
HOW ABOUT JUST ME THEN?
© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate
12-5

ROBOTMAN By JIM MEDDICK



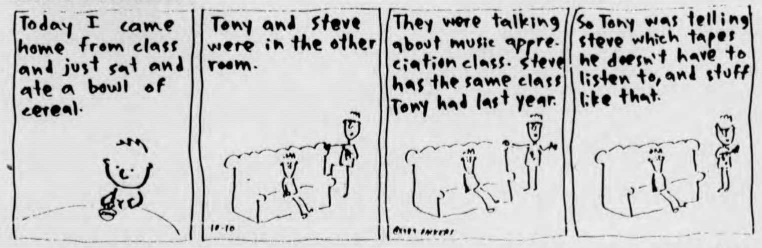
Day two: Back at base camp, our Himalayan guide tells of his encounters with the abominable snowman...
IT WAS MOST HORRIFYING!
ALL WHITE WITH LONG ARMS AND CLAWS... IT RUN FAST AWAY. THEN WORDS APPEAR, "DRAMATIC RE-CREATION."
Meddick 12-5
© 1989 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
"DRAMATIC RE-CREATION"?
YES! YES! I SEE YETI ON "IN SEARCH OF"... CHANNEL 8 OUT OF NEPAL...

DOONESBURY By GARRY TRUDEAU



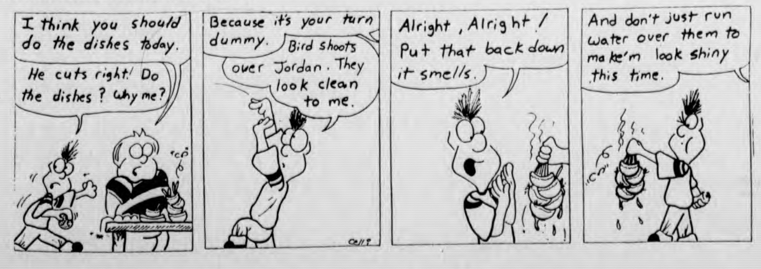
HAVOC, RECRUITING PANAMANIAN REBELS, IS IN HOG HEAVEN.
IT'S GREAT TO SEE SO MANY FAMILIAR FACES HERE TODAY...
A LOT OF YOU HAVE BEEN INVOLVED IN PREVIOUS COUP ATTEMPTS AGAINST GENERAL NORIEGA. OTHERS ARE FIRST-TIME CONSPIRATORS. ALL ARE WELCOME!
AS YOU KNOW, THIS TIME AROUND, IT'S A CIA SHOW! WE'VE GOT A $3 MILLION COVERT-ACTION PLAN THAT WE THINK IS PRACTICAL, TIMELY, AND ATTRACTIVE TO A DISGRUNTLED OFFICER CORPS!... YES, YOU IN THE BACK, QUESTION?
12-5
GB Trudeau
BILL PRICE, ASSOCIATED PRESS. GOT A START DATE ON THAT?
HEY, CHIEF, DO YOU MIND? THIS IS A PRIVATE MEETING!

JIM'S JOURNAL By SCOTT DIKKERS



Today I came home from class and just sat and ate a bowl of cereal.
Tony and Steve were in the other room.
10-10
They were talking about music appreciation class. Steve has the same class Tony had last year.
So Tony was telling Steve which tapes he doesn't have to listen to, and stuff like that.

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT By CELLI



I think you should do the dishes today.
He cuts right! Do the dishes? Why me?
Because it's your turn dummy.
Bird shoots over Jordan. They look clean to me.
Celli
Alright, Alright! Put that back down it smells.
And don't just run water over them to make'm look shiny this time.

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

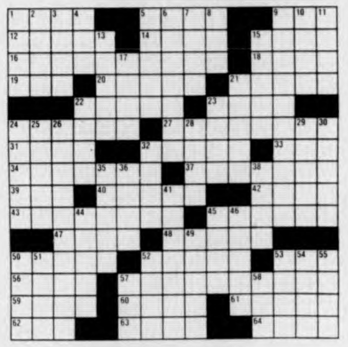
ACROSS
1 Toll road, for short
5 Stuff
9 "— walks in beauty...": Byron
12 Bullring
14 Vitamin C source
15 Tire mark
16 Part of a city silhouette
18 WWII correspondent Ernie
19 CIA's predecessor
20 Novices, along the Thames
21 Côte d'Or capital
22 Portends
23 South American rodent
24 Want
27 Penthouse adjuncts
31 Lumbering boats
32 Financial windfall
33 New Zealand parrot
34 Newborn's outfit
37 Augusta golf tournament
39 Wash., D.C. time
40 Consumers
42 Fleur-de-
43 Woo with a song
45 Jimmy or Tommy of music
47 Hebrew measure
48 Word with wall, ware or work
50 Dollops
52 Tolerated
53 New Guinea town
56 Lasso
57 Heavenly ad
59 Ripening agent
60 Nap
61 Sharp, nasal tone
62 "High —": M. Anderson play
63 Mimicked
64 Mine finds

DOWN
1 El —, Tex.
2 Nettles
3 Master and skeleton
4 USNA grad.
5 — Boothe Luce
6 Sharp retort
7 City N of Des Moines
8 Sea, in Paris
9 Air pirates
10 City on Hawaii
11 Genesis site
13 Role player
15 Star in Virgo
17 Annoy
21 Repairs socks
22 Cold, north wind of the Alps
23 Outrigger
24 Dingles
25 Rub off
26 Parachutist
28 Stately trees
29 Eldritch
30 Pert
32 Recompense
35 Airs
36 Peter or Paul
38 Grow weary
41 Make over, as a dress
44 Coal
45 A way out
46 It is said, in France
49 Hauled
50 Enfant terrible
51 Trademark
52 Jump rope
53 Pseudologist
54 "— of Green Gables"
55 Abets, with "on"
57 Resort of a sort
58 Less than a crowd

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

A	B	E	L	■	■	G	A	G	A	■	A	M	A	N
L	O	N	E	■	E	A	S	E	L	■	S	A	S	E
E	R	I	C	■	M	U	T	E	D	■	U	P	T	O
C	E	D	A	R	C	L	O	S	E	T	■	L	O	N
■	■	■	R	O	E	■	■	E	R	A	S	E	R	S
A	D	O	R	N	E	R	S	■	M	O	O	S	■	■
S	O	L	E	D	■	I	O	N	A	■	D	Y	A	N
E	N	D	■	O	F	F	L	I	N	E	■	R	U	E
A	S	H	E	■	I	T	O	N	■	L	O	U	T	S
■	■	I	T	O	R	■	S	O	R	E	S	P	O	T
B	E	C	A	L	M	S	■	■	O	N	A	■	■	■
I	L	K	■	A	N	N	I	E	O	A	K	L	E	Y
D	I	O	S	■	E	A	S	E	D	■	A	I	D	E
E	Z	R	A	■	S	I	L	L	S	■	N	A	N	A
D	A	Y	O	■	S	L	A	Y	■	■	S	R	A	S

12/5/89



YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES(March 21-April 19): Enrolling in seminars or weekend courses will boost your earning power. Self-improvement projects are worthwhile. New social contacts lead to a happier private life. Romance beckons.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20): Make plans for the rest of the week and set priorities. Tackle paperwork that has been mounting. Do not let other people's personal problems bog you down. Spend more time with your children.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20): Try a subtle approach with stubborn clients. A dynamic associate has a great impact on you, forcing you to make some tough decisions. Once a choice has been made, you feel more confident!

CANCER(June 21-July 22): Get better organized and you will function more efficiently. Meeting a deadline is your top priority. A late-afternoon phone call gives you new hope about your finances.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22): Explore a project more thoroughly before committing time and money to it. Keep close tabs on spending if you want to stay within your budget. An old friend offers sound advice; follow it.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22): Modernize your day-to-day work procedures. Regular exercise will help you keep in top shape. Avoid seeking special favors. A newcomer lets you say "goodbye" to loneliness.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22): Put yourself in a better position to promote your financial interests. Do more listening than talking if trying to solve a family problem. Spend the evening writing holiday cards.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21): Concentrate on your work, even if you feel discouraged. Higher-ups are open to suggestions. A home decoration project increases the value of your property. A phone call brings a laugh.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21): You will get your way if you know how to ask. Long-range educational plans could help increase your earning power. College students face a new challenge. A former love returns to town.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19): Career openings develop. Update your resume and look over your wardrobe. A windfall brings peace of mind. Romance could be another story. Concentrate on platonic relationships.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18): Stop being so available and those in authority will realize how valuable your talents are. You get paid for answering a businessman's questions. Prepare the documents you need.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20): You can make an excellent first impression today. Reconcile with a business associate before your disagreement affects profits. Family activities are encouraged this evening. A young person needs reassurance.

MENU

LUNCH	DINNER
Fishpuck on roll	Stir fry beef and vegies
Ravioli, tomato sauce	Roast pork
BASICS LUNCH	BASICS DINNER
Garden Sandwich	Stir fry vegies and tofu
Ravioli, tomato sauce	Cheese strata

Christmas parties welcome!
large or small groups.
Call to make reservations.

Goten OF JAPAN
Rte. 116, Sunderland, MA

COOKED AT YOUR TABLE
Tues., Wed., Thurs., SPECIALS
Two Dinners For $15
Sukiyaki Steak & Chicken Combination
Includes Soup, Salad, Vegetables, Noodles, Steamed Rice, Tea & Ice Cream

FRIDAY'S SPECIALS
Two Dinners For $18
Shrimp and Scallop Combo Dinner
Includes Soup, Salad, Vegetables, Noodles, Steamed Rice, Tea and Ice Cream

SUNDAY AFTERNOON SPECIALS
Two Dinners For $15

SUSHI
vail‹ble in lounge or dining room.

For reservations, call
(413) 665-3628

USE
YOUR STUDENT DISCOUNT
AND SAVE 10%
ON CHRISTMAS SHOPPING
• FREE GIFT WRAP
• WE MAIL ANYWHERE
• GIFT CERTIFICATES

Jeffery
Amherst
Bookshop
55 So. Pleasant St., Amherst
253-3870 • 253-3381
OPEN: WED, THURS, FRI TILL 8:00 PM
SUN 12:00 - 5:00 PM

Fedor Pontiac
Rewards December
GRADUATES
with "Collegiate Excitement" SAVINGS
'90 Sunbird — SAVE $1,100.
'90 Grand Am LE — SAVE $1,350.
'90 Grand Am SE — SAVE $1,600.
'90 Grand Prix SE — SAVE $1,600.
'89 Firebird Formula — SAVE $1,100.
PLUS: No Payments for 90 Days (College Grads Only)
PLUS: Generous Fedor
Discounts
CALL MARTY FEDOR AT 584-3544 FOR ADDL. DETAILS
FEDOR OLDSMOBILE PONTIAC
228 Northamton St. (Route 10 South)
at Academy of Music) 584-3544
Easthampton, MA
Special Restrictions Apply
See Dealer for Complete Details
PONTIAC
1st TIME BUYER
COLLEGE UNDERGRAD/GRAD
$600 TOWARD DOWN PAYMENT FOR QUALIFIED NEW CAR BUYERS!

--- COMPARATIVE LITERATURE LECTURE SERIES ---
GEOFFREY HARTMAN
"Culture's Aftermath"
Thursday, December 7, 1989
8:00 PM, Campus Center, Room 163-164

Want to live at Townhouse?
Apply Now!
Now accepting applications for Fall 1990 occupancy
(June Takeover).
2 and 3 bedroom townhouses
Townhouse of Amherst
50 Meadow Street • Amherst, MA 01002
549-0839

LSAT
GMAT
GRE
WHAT IF YOU DON'T GET INTO THE GRAD SCHOOL OF YOUR CHOICE?
Sure, there are other schools. But why settle? Kaplan prep courses help students raise their scores and their chances of being admitted into their first-choice schools. Fact is, no one has helped students score higher!
KAPLAN
STANLEY H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER LTD.
OTHER COURSES: MCAT, DAT, NCLEX, NTE, CPA, BAR REVIEW, & OTHERS
Winter Session Classes Forming
For: LSAT, GMAT, GRE, MCAT
Scholarships available for Financial Aid Students
358 No. Pleasant St. • 549-5780

Bruins hot streak attributed to stingy defense

Moog, Bourque lead the way as Boston continues to roll through NHL

BOSTON (AP) — Defense has made the Boston Bruins one of the NHL's hottest teams. With their next four games against clubs with losing records, they should keep burning up the league.

The Bruins are 11-2-1 in November and December. They have allowed just 11 goals in their last seven games and their season total of 67 is 14 fewer than the stingiest team, the Montreal Canadiens.

Goalie Andy Moog has given up just three goals in four games and is 8-0-1 in his last nine.

With all that, the Bruins are only in third place. The problem is they play in Adams Division, the league's best. The solution is the upcoming schedule, four games in eight days starting with tonight's visit to Quebec, whose 6-20-2 record is the NHL's worst.

They'll play the Nordiques with the momentum from Sunday night's 2-1 victory in Philadelphia in which Bob Gould's first goal of the season broke a 1-1 tie with 7:17 left.

"No one works any harder than Bobby Gould," Boston coach Mike Milbury said. "He deserved this goal. He was mucking around all night."

Defenseman Ray Bourque works just as hard as, and much longer than, Gould.

"You ask, 'Why are the Bruins so good defensively?' The biggest reason is Ray Bourque," Flyer coach Paul Holmgren said. "He probably played 39 minutes" Sunday night.

Another reason is Moog. Until this season, he and Reggie Lemelin shared the goalie chores almost equally. Now he has emerged as the No. 1 goaltender. Lemelin, with a 2.91 goals against average, should get some work this week.

The Bruins return from Quebec to play Hartford Thursday night and Washington Saturday night, both in Boston. They're at Pittsburgh next Tuesday night.

"It's harder this way," Lemelin said of his limited playing time. "This is not a complaint. It's just a fact."

Milbury said Moog "is in the prime of his career. He should be playing like a No. 1 goaltender.

"With Reggie, we've got a luxury. Reggie's record (4-5) may not be indicative of it but he's played well all year."

With a 16-8-2 record and 34 points, the Bruins are two points behind Montreal and six behind Buffalo in the Adams Division. But Montreal has played four more games and Buffalo two more than Boston.

Offensively, the Bruins have been led by Cam Neely's 19 goals and Bourque's 33 points. But on Sunday night, Randy Burridge and Gould got the goals.

Gould took a pass from Andy Brickley, who was on the left side, and beat Ken Wregget before the goalie could move to the other side of the net.

"I took an awful long time to shoot," Gould said. "I got a handle on the puck and took a couple of strides."

His shot gave the Bruins a victory that Milbury said was very important after they suffered a 2-1 loss at home against St. Louis Saturday night.

"It was nice to hit the road against a good team after a 2-1 loss and get a win and not get into a slide," Milbury said. "It was a real solid game for us."

■ gymnastics

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 20

"Whoever scores well in the pommel horse and in the high bar will win," Hall said.

Balocki sees a lot of positive factors for the Minutemen.

"Even though we lost some experience from last year, the new people we've got can step in and do well," Balocki said. "The ability is definitely there — a lot depends on how well we handle the competition. Even though we've got a lot of freshmen, they'll be going up against freshmen from other teams.The beginning of our season is at home, which is a big advantage. When we go on the road for the second half of the season, our routines will be a lot more refined."

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8 30-3 30,FRI 8 30-2 30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE. 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

TAKE MASSPIRG'S CLEAN AIR QUIZ TODAY on the concourse win a $20 gift certificate from Montogomery's and plant from Knowles.

CONSIDERING A CAREER in Accounting? Career Debate December 5 7:00pm Memorial Hall Lounge.

FRENCH COMEDY MOVIE MARATHON: "La Chevre", "Betty Blue", "Buffet Froid". $2 for three movies! Tickets at door. This Thursday 6:00pm Herter Auditorium.

UPC MEETING TONIGHT 6:30pm 163-164 Campus Center. The The in February!

ASIAN AMERICAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION General Meeting Tuesday December 5, 1989 7:00pm CC804-08 Choreographer for Asian Night will be elected.

CRAFT FAIR on the concourse this wednesday, Thursday, Friday. Buy all your gifts. Ceramics, drums, glassblowing and more.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA NEW INITIATES Meeting for nominations and elections Tues Dec 5 CC 165-169 7:00.

THE BUSH IS OPEN UMass Ski Club goes to Jamaica, Quebec, Sugarbush, Breckenridge 430 Student Union 545-3437 or concourse table.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SUGARBUSH — SKI FREE!
Suday December 3rd is College Day
at Sugarbush! Call for details on how to ski for free! Dec 5th
is the last day to take advantage of the $325 student pass rate! Call Paula at
549-4291 for more info on either offer!

WHAT ARE YOU DOI NG THURSDAY NIGHT? Put the books away and take some time to learn about exciting and rewarding careers with Bank of Boston. Thurs. Dec. 7 6:30pm. Campus Center 1st level room 168-70. See our display ad Wed 12/6 or Thurs 12/7 for more information.
BANK OF BOSTON BANK OF BOSTON

J.A.C. MOVIE PIZZA NITE Wed. Dec 6th Brown Lounge 7pm $3

VISA OR MASTERCARD! Even if bankrupt or bad credit! We guarantee you a card or double your money back.Call 1-805-682-7555 ext M-1207.

BED AND BREAKFAST
Downtown Amherst
549-5961

AUTO FOR SALE

1981 TOYOTA WAGON. Fine condition - You'll like it. 256-6757 (eves)

RABBITS FOR SALE: 1978, Blue, well-maintained. New Engine, 22,000 miles. Recent Paint job. New muffler. Must sell. $1650.
1980. Grey Engine runs well. High mileage. Some rust 450 or BO. Jim, 549-6306.

1979 BUICK SKYHAWK. Great shape: New tires, and muffler. $1000 or B/O call 546-8228.

1987 PONTIAC SUNBIRD GT Automatic, power brakes/steering, air, fog light, AM/FM cassette, FWD, good tires, only 33K $6,000. 256-0078. Cheryl.

1982 VW RABBIT 4 speed hatchback - AM FM-AC New exhaust excellent condition $600 or best offer. Call 586-9526 EVES.

SEIZED CARS, TRUCKS, 4 WHEELERS, TV's, stereos, furniture, computers by DEA, FBI, IRS, and US Customs. Available your area now. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext C-1675.

ATTENTION - Government Seized Vehicles from $100. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus buyers guide. 1-602-838-8885 ext. a-7627.

1983 CHEVROLET CAPRICE WAGON good engine high miles $700 or BO Eric eves 584-3506.

COLD???

DON'T GET LEFT OUTin the cold! Reserve your spring break trip now and save $25.00! Trips to Cancun and the Bahamas! Great prices! Great fun! For sun and fun call Lisa or Donna at 549-8228! Group discounts available! That's 549-8228!

ENTERTAINMENT

PERFORMANCE - A/V, DJ's, Lights, rentals, sales, service 508-922-3277.

BILLY JOEL TICKETS 21 row floor Worcester Centrum Friday December 8 Best offer call Jodi 546-9365.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED

FOR NEXT SEMESTER! Very low rent, sunny and clean (non-smokers, please) apartment. Call Alise 256-1250, evenings. Thanks.

FINANCE INVESTMENT CLUB

PRESENTS RENOWNED INVESTOR BEN BRANCH PHD to speak on investing trends and forcasting. Terrific opportunity to learn about the market from an insider 7-9pm in SBA 111 tonight. All members must attend this final meeting.

FOR RENT

TAKE OVER LEASE JAN 1 1990 2 bedroom Brandywine Apt. $720.00/month includes utilities 549-0892.

WANT TO LIVE OFF CAMPUS and still be closer than the dorms? Call 549-7919 about living at the NPSC (next door to the Newman Center)

AMHERST NICE SUNNY ROOM on bus route call Jeff 256-1588

ROOM FOR RENT AVAILABLE Dec. 15. Call Jamie or Jen 665-8662.
FEMALE WANTED TO SHARE HUGE ROOM in S. Amherst home Jan 215mo 256-0250.

ROOM FOR RENT large So Amherst on 2 bus routes big yart 250$ 256-4927.

ROOM FOR RENT large house So. Amherst on 2 bus routes big yard 250 + 256-4927.

FARMHOUSE WITH SILO SUNDERLAND Room available busstop $225 (util incld) 665-4627.

2 BEDROOMS AVAILABLE in Puffton starting Jan. 1. 3 people needed. Rent is $165/month per person includes heat and hot water. Take over lease. Call 549-2781.

ROOM AVAILABLE IN QUIET EAST PLEASANT ST. HOUSE starting 1/1/90 for male non-smoker. 5 minute walk to campus. On Orchard Hill bus line. Full kitchen, 2 full baths, W/D. 300/mo. Call Greg 549-6270.

SUNDERLAND - large 2 bedroom apt on bus rte. in complex. lease. $400 per mo. Call 665-8946. Starts Jan.

WANTED: 1-3 females for Townehouse apt starting in Jan $182/mot. Please call 549-8026. Leave a message.

SPACIOUS SINGLE 4BD APT 235 heat/water no deposit or lease non-smoker m/f. 256-4659.

TWO BEDROOM APT. AVAILABLE IN BRITTANY beginning Jan 1 and ending June 1 $560/mo heat and hot water inc. Call 253-2303.

TAKE OVER OUR LEASE 2 bedroom swood apt new carpet, appliances, paint call 253-7085.

ONE BEDROOM APT. in Sunderland for rent. Avail Jan 1. Call 665-7353 after 4 p.m. Mon thru Friday. on bus route. Good deal to be made.

FOR SALE

SCOTT RECEIVER, 200w acoustic spks both just bought new $500 546-8680.

DRUM SET - REMO 8 piece with high hat cymbals and stand, 18 inch crash cymbal with stand intermediate or bignner $200 or best offer call 256-8717.

4 track tascam ministudio with microphone, like new. $365. Wayne 545-0881, 585-5930.

SKI BOOTS SALOMON SC71 Ladies size 6 $85 or B.O. Aft 7 6-4703.

QUEEN SIZE WATERBED includes everything $200 or B.O. Call Jeff 256-1588.

SMITH CORONA PWP6 - Disk storage 14 line screen just serviced - Jeff 546-7764.

ROUND TRIP TICKET Hartford to Pheonix, AZ Leaves Bradley 12/24/89 return from Pheonix 1/6/90. $220 Call 585-0711 mornings best.

SKI BOOTS 4 SALE! Black Dolemite size 7m call Chris 546-7144.

KEG COOLER AND CO2 TANK for sale call 253-0930.

NINTENDO ENTERTAINMENT SYSTEM — perfect condition $50 or BO Atari 2600 with 6 cartridges $30 leather jacket $130 Eric 546-9602.

REPOSSESSED VA & HUD HOMES available from government fro $1 without credit check. You repair. Also tax delingquent foreclosures call 1-805-682-7555 ext H-2009 for repo list your area.

SAN FRANCISCO $99 Dec 7th and 13th 253-7109 or 253-9875.

COMPUTER AMIGA 1000 1988 3 disk drives memory board mouse, amaculate condition high tech graphics, stereo sound, great for video over $1000 in disks, asking $1500 or best offer 546-6245 leave message.

---PLANE TIX 4 SALE---

One way Dec 28th Ticket Boston to Minneapolis $120 or BO Call Marshall 6-6853.

FOUND

FOUND A KEYRING featuring a yellow No. 1, a square plastic thingybob of someplace foreign, several can tabs, and even a key or two. Turned in to Field/Grayson cluster office last tuesday.

HELP WANTED

EARN $10,000 next summer running your own franchise of Colleg Pro Painters. Info. Session Thurs 12/7 at 4:00pm in Campus Center rm 168-170.

ATTENTION: EARN MONEY READING BOOKS! $32,000/year income potential. Details 1-602-838-8885 ext bk7627.

ADVERTISING SALES REP Innovative marketing program needs sales rep for UMASS market. Excellent $ opportunity. Local advertising experience necessary. Call Gary at 919-361-4646.

HOLIDAY JOBS
FOR THE ENVIRONMENT
Work on progressive recycling campaign MASSPIRG is hiring bright people to help pass strongest solid waste legislation in the country. Earn 200-300/week, full and part-time jobs available. Call Mick today! 256-6434.

DIRECTOR WANTED apply w/in SGA Communications Office, 304 SU by 12/6. Ask for Kim 545-1977.

ATTENTION - hiring! Government jobs - your area. $17,840-$69,485. Call 1-602-838-8885. Ext. R7627.

CRUISESHIPS NOW HIRING for spring, Christmas and next summer breaks. Many positions. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext S-1120.

BEAT THE HIGH COST OF TUITION! Earn $1,500 and up this winter break while you help in the fight against pollution and depletion of our natural resources. Train now to work over January No exp necessary call 549-7450 Clean Water Action.

LEARN TO RUN YOUR OWN BUSINESS THIS SUMMER and make big money at the same time. For the last two years our managers have averaged $9000. Call T.A.S.P. today and get in on the opportunity. 1-800-922-5579.

ADVERTISING SALES REP Innovative Marketing Program needs Sales rep for UMAss market. Excellent $$ opportunity. Local advertising experience necessary. Call Gary at 919-361-4646.

PART TIME EARN EXTRA CHRISTMAS MONEY while helping others. $5.50-$6.50 per hour. Call 586-5243.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-641-8003 ext 598.

STREET ENTERTAINMENT NEEDED FOR CHRISTMAS Season fundraiser! Earn extra money for Christmas! Call 586-5243.

I'LL EDIT YOUR PAPER

I'LL HELP WITH SPELLING, grammar, word choice, sentence structure and length. Let me take your rough draft and make it something special. $2 for pages 1-5, $1.50 for every other page. Papers in the humanities (economics, political science, journalism, etc.) preferred. Four years editing experience. Call David at 253-2455. Leave a message on my machine. Thanks.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

DO YOU HAVE QUESTIONS about your rights? Do you think your civil rights have been violated? Find out! Contact the Legal Services Center, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

LOST

LOST: KEYRING W/BLUE Japan medallion please call 6-5659.

66676 BACKFIRED AND 66749 doesn't seem to connect us. Please leave the wallet at the Campus Center Information Desk or take an ad out here so I can contact you. Will reimburse.

LONGHAIRED ORANGE PERSIAN CAT, answers to Buckwheat, lost 11/19 Maplewood Farms Area, fluffy tail, white chin alte red male, huge reward; brokenhearted, call 256-8448 anytime.

MOTORCYCLES

YAMAHA '82 Mint cond. $600 BO. 2 Helmets 253-5018 call eve.

PERSONALS

HONEY BUNNY ooo ooo just reminding you I'm always thinking of you. T.

JEFF - FREE, happy b-day. Friend anytime, thanks. Mental hug. Luv Jeanne.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY MATT MALEY you're finally legal. Sounds like a special occation to me! So - Let's drink! Berg.

AMY DOWD Happy 18th birthday!! You finally made it! Luv Angie.

C—A—R—R—I—E— Thanks 4bing the "bestest" roomie ever! IOU! Happy 20th, less than ayr left! Luv, Jenn.

MY DAVO: Good luck on your finals! Hope to see you soon...I love you batsdato. TMG Next message 2/14.

AND LAST BUT NOT LEAST..............
Christine Ferullo
Happy 21st Birthday!!
No more worries, no more cares,
now you may legally drink your beers.
Congratulations
Love, your roommates.

KRG...I know it's not the same but let's get together anyway, and celebrate all the good times! Thanks for two great years, I'll never forget! Love always, Pea.

GEOFF PAYSON Happy birthday you wild and crazy guy. This former UMass student has become an unsuspecting painter by day, but at night he transforms into the funny but sometimes terrifying unmasked comedian! Here's to you. Your greatest fan.

AMY NYMAN You say it's your birthday. Welcome to the 21 club. Have a terrific day. Love you to, Gary.

ZONE OUT AT D.P. DOUGH

TO THE CAST OF UNIFNISHED WOMEN - Get psyched for opening night! Good luck to all! Love Midgey.

FINALS GOODY BAG
Order your finals goody bag
now! For yourself, a friend, a secret
admirer...Dec. 4th & 5th on the
Campus Center Concourse.
SPONSORED BY ALPHA CHI OMEGA

RIDE WANTED

RIDE NEEDED TO BILLY JOEL - Worcester Centrum - Dec 6 - Call Madeline 6-6218 or Dave 6-6231.

ITHACA, NY DEC 7 -Dec 10. Call Carrie 546-4697.

TO ORONO, MAINE - or nearby - weekend of Dec. 8. Will share expenses. Call Nicky, 6-4869.

ROOMATES WANTED

WANTED EASYGOING, NONSMOKER FEMALE to share double room with private bath at Mill Valley estates. On bus route. Available Jan 1st call 546-7959.

MALE WANTED FOR ONE BEDROOM in two bedroom apt. Bus route $250 Lee 545-3537 665-7373.

LARGE BEDROOM AVAILABLE in New 3 bedroom house. Just 8 miles to UMass in beautiful tow n of Montague. $230/month plus utilities. Large yard, garage...what a deal! Call Kateri or Bethann after 5:00 at 367-2203.

SINGLE ROOM AVAILABLE in condo non-smoking on bus route 215 Joy 253-9223.

WANTED! 1 or 2 fun females to share a 2 bedroom apartment in townhouse apts of Amherst. Privately owned apartment in brand new condition. Wall to wall microvave, VCR, answering machine, color TV, 1 and ½ baths, dishwasher and much much more! Private parking or we are also right in front of the bus stop! Don't wait! Call now for an awesome spring semester! 549-8228.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED to share room in Southwood apt. Starting Jan 1 $165 month. Please call 253-9918 leave message.

MALE ROOMMATE WANTED. January and spring. Beautiful condo. Downtown Amherst. Call 549-8150.

NON-SMOKER FEMALE NEED TO SHARE a room in presidential apts. for the spring semester. Cheap rent (155/mo$util), beautiful apt if interest please contact YVonne at 549-6628.

TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES wanted for So ND Townehouse new rugs nice place on bus route start Jan 1 call 253-2566 anytime leave message.

2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for lg room in apt in town 200 549-1677.

FEMALE NONSMOKER BEGINS Jan 1 175$ bus stops at pat. 2 miles from campus. Leave message.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED ASAP or Spring Semester to share fully furnished apt in brandywine call 549-8748.

SUNSET APTS - One roommate needed 165/mo call 549-3826 leave message (Across from college pizza)

FEMALE NONSMOKER ROOMMATE to share bedroom, avail Jan 1 200 + util. Puffton 549-7464.

LOOKING FOR 3-4 FEMALES to take over lease January 549-1662.

ONE FEMALE ROOMMATE FOR SPRING SEMESTER to share MILL VALLEY ESTATE APT.
- On bus route
- cheap
- new apt
- nice roommates

Call now! 256-6740.

ROOM AVAILABLE IN NEW CONDO starting Jan. 1. Female grad student prefered 253-3107 or 545-4675.

SERVICES

PIONEER RESUME. Open everyday. Professional, fast, inexpensive. 4 year disk storage. 665-8873.

HOLIDAY GIFT IDEAS - Mary Kay skin care products and nail care - Call Sue 549-6087.

SKI SUGARBUSH...

TODAY IS THE LAST DAY
to get your student pass at
SUGARBUSH for $325.00.
After today they'll be $405.00!
Call Paula immediately for info.
549-4291.

TO SUBLET

WANTED - subletters for 3 bedroom apt in Puffton - intersession, start Jan 1 call 549-6087. Leave message.

GOING AWAY FOR INTERSESSION? Two quiet females will sublet your apt. for January. Contact 546-7339.

TRAVEL

UMASS TO CARIBBEAN - $189 will get you r/t to the sun and sand of the Caribbean or Mexico. Call SUNHITCHem 256-4116.

UNDER 21? NO PROBLEM! Spring Break in Cancun, Nassau, Jamaica! Only $75 deposit by Dec 13th. (Daytona packages too!) Starting from $248. Karen 256-4659.

SKIERS WANTED. For trip to Killington Vt. on January 7-12. Call Scott for details. 546-9455.

WE BEAT THE COMPETITION by $30-70 on trips to Jamaica and Montego Bay. Creat deals also on Bahamas and Nassau. Save $25 if booked before 1-15-90. Michelle 546-7653.

SPRING BREAK 90' Jamaica, Acapulco, Cancun, Daytona...experienced sales rep, dependable travel service. $25 off before Jan 1 Mary & Kaern 549-8166.

CANCUN FOR SPRING BREAK 8 days 7 night of parties people sun and no drinking age. Starting at $359 Call Chris or Amy 549-0532.

TYPING

ACCURATE PROFESSIONAL TYPING. Spelling corrected. Campus pickup. Gloria, 323-5140.

FAST INEXPENSIVE TYPING spell check $1.75/pg Call Ashley at 546-6756.

WORD PERFECT - letter quality, pickup and delivery available call 549-0546.

CASES, PAPERS, THESES, ON-CAMPUS, affordable, grammar reviewed, dependable, experienced 584-7924, Nancy.

RESUMES AND PAPERS typed professionally: laserprinting, type setting , carolyn ant wordsmith 253-4564.

TYPING, TAPE TRANSCRIPTION. Fast, accurate. 253-WORD.

WANTED TO RENT

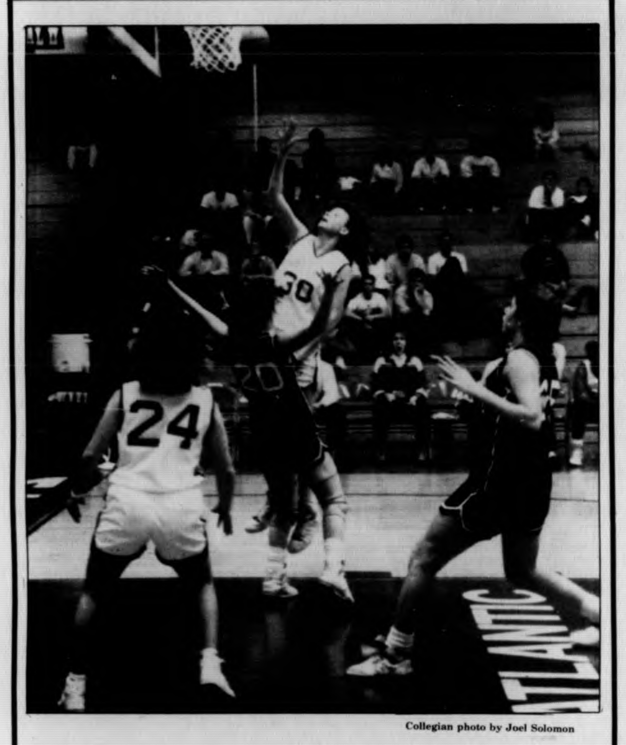
ROOMS/HOUSING NEEDED for January. Contact SBMC 256-8615 9am-5pm.

FEMALE NONSMOKER LOOKING TO RENT single room in Amherst starting Jan 1 Leave message 253-5496.

REWARD FOR LEASE to three bedroom apartment please call 253-3668.

CLAP ON,
CLAP OFF.
THE CLAPPER

SPORTS



Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Women's basketball team in action.

Loss may be very costly for Alabama

(AP) — The high tide couldn't drown out the low tide for the Alabama Crimson Tide.

High tide came when the Sugar Bowl selected Alabama, as tri-champion of the Southeastern Conference, to be the host team against second-ranked Miami.

Earlier, at low tide, Alabama saw its national championship hopes suffer a potentially fatal blow in a 30-20 loss to arch-rival Auburn.

Alabama slipped from second to seventh in the rankings while Auburn jumped from 11th to ninth.

"We were pressing, struggling to do things that normally come easily," Alabama coach Bill Curry said, aware that many of his critics will resurface after his record against Auburn fell to 0-10 — 0-7 at Georgia Tech, 0-3 at Alabama.

"I accept the blame for the loss. It starts at the top, and that's me. Now it's another 365 days before we get an opportunity to redeem ourselves, and that's a long, long time."

Alabama's first-ever visit to Auburn's Jordan-Hare Stadium — 47 of the previous 53 games had been played in Birmingham, which Auburn considers little more than an extension of Alabama's Tuscaloosa campus — ended in despair as the bloom of a 10-0 record was faded by its fourth straight loss to its cross-state rival.

"I hate to lose," Curry said. "My job is to teach people how to win in football, and I especially detest losing to a team and a coach I've never been able to beat. In this state you have to beat your intrastate rival to be a great team, and we didn't do it. We haven't done it in four years, and that gripes me."

The setback left Alabama, 10-1 overall and 6-1 in the league, as part of the second three-way tie in SEC history, along with Auburn (9-2) and No. 8 Tennessee (10-1), a hard-pressed 17-10 winner over Vanderbilt.

It also put the final pieces in the bowl picture. Tennessee goes to the Cotton Bowl to meet Southwest Conference champion Arkansas, which had to rally in the fourth quarter to beat lowly Southern Methodist, 38-24, and dropped from No. 9 to No. 10. Auburn heads for the Hall of Fame Bowl against No. 21 Ohio State.

Auburn, especially quarterback Reggie Slack, proved an ungracious host for Alabama but the Tigers had no previous experience at hosting this torrid rivalry in their own home. Slack completed 14 of 26 passes for 276 yards, including passes of 44, 58 and 60 yards.

The first two set up touchdown runs of 1 yard and 2 yards by James Joseph and the third led to one of Win Lyle's three field goals. Darrell "Lectron" Williams scored Auburn's other touchdown on a 12-yard run.

"Slack was incredible," Curry said. "He was a great, great player today. Great players rise to the occasion, and slack did that today."

Florida State, 24
Florida, 17

Peter Tom Willis passed for 319 yards and three touchdowns as Florida State won its ninth straight after an 0-2 start. Willis finished the season with a school record 3,124 yards.

Gymnastics mixes veterans with new blood

UMass prepares for 1989 season

By JASON GEORGE
Collegian Staff

The bad news for University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics coach Roy Johnson and his team is that they will have to improve their performance upon last year's performance in order to meet their goal of making the NCAA Eastern Regional finals. The good news is that a balanced mix of veterans and talented freshmen may give UMass the ability to do just that.

The Minutemen have a number of different faces from last year's 9-2 team. Four seniors were lost to graduation, but Johnson has five promising freshmen waiting in the wings to replenish his ranks. No longer with the team are 1989 MVP Tim Myers, Jay Ronayne, Roberto Weil, and Joe Fitzgerald.

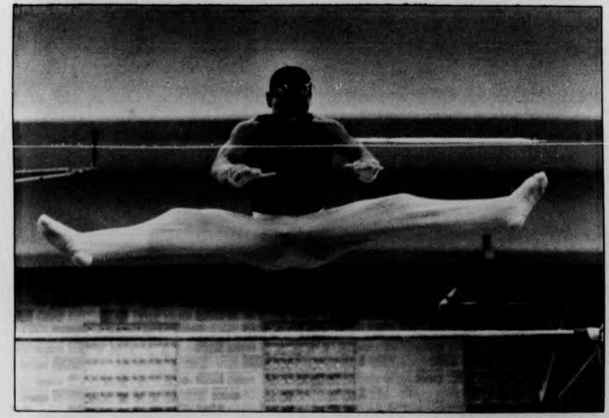
"Losing those seniors to graduation will hurt our depth. We had the ability to score very well last year," Johnson said. "We have a real boom crop of freshmen this year, however."

"We'll miss Jay Ronayne on the high bar and in vaulting," senior Rich Healey said. "Also, Joe Fitzgerald was one of our best guys on the pommel horse."

Johnson has plenty to look forward to among his returning competitors. Senior John Eggers of Stoneybrook, N.Y. was New England Champion in the still rings last year. Eggers is a strong all-around performer who excells in the high bar and still rings.

Eggers will be joined by versatile Bart Balocki and Carl Russ, who specializes in the still rings and parallel bars, and Rich Healey as the team's four seniors.

Junior Dave Dinucci and sophomore Calvin Booker will return, giving the team an experienced nucleus. Johnson rates Dinucci and Booker as outstanding vaulters, and he calls Booker perhaps the team's strongest performer on floor excercises. "These guys are a group of outstanding all-around performers," Johnson said.



Collegian photo by David Higashiguchi

Sophomore Cal Booker returns as one of the Minutemen's top all-around performers from last season.

Freshman Steve Christianson of East Brunswick, N.J., last year's New Jersey state champion, heads the list of five impressive freshmen for the Minutemen. Johnson points to Christianson as the team's best performer in the pommel horse.

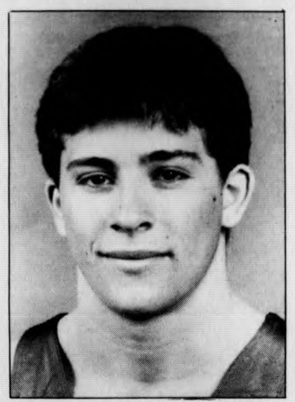
Jimmy Osborne of Arlington, was Massachusetts champion in the still rings, while finishing second in vaulting and pommel horse. Osborne also won the vault for the United States Gymnastic Federation. Jimmy Mclure of Lincoln-Sudbury, Glenn Stubbs of Burlington, and Rob Thomas of Blue Bell, Pa. will add talent and depth as members of Johnson's youth corps.

The team will also be bolstered by the return of two competitors who sat out last season due to injuries. Junior Mitch Hall returns after sitting out last year because of a knee operation. After competing all-around in six events as a freshman, Hall is unable to compete in floor excercises and vaulting because of his knee. Sophomore Bill Saymen is also back after sitting out last season.

Eggers points to the pommel horse and parallel bars as events which he needs to improve upon, which seems to be a microcosm of the team's needs. "We have a lot of so-so performers in the parallel bars," Johnson said. "Bart Balocki could be our best in that event."

"We have a lot of new blood, which could definitely help us improve in the parallel bars," Eggers said

The NCAA format has changed since last year, making it more difficult to qualify for regional competition. "This year, the NCAA basically divided the country at the Mississippi, with the top ten teams in the East going on to the Eastern Regionals," Johnson said. "We have to have a better year than last year to make Regionals-we would have been the equivalent 11th or 12th in the East last year."



Sports Information photo

Senior John Eggers will play an important role in the UMass gymnastics team's year.

Qualification for the Regional Finals is based on an average of a team's two top away meet scores and their top home meet score. UMass' first five meets are at home, and then they take to the road for the rest of the season. "As a goal for the season, we'd like to break the school record of 268.05, which we set last year," Johnson said. "I'd like to see us break into the 270's this season."

The Minutemen finished 24th in the nation last year and third in the Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League, behind powerhouse Navy and Temple. "There isn't a weak team in the league," warns Johnson. "But I really hope we can be a contender for the league title."

The Minutemen jump right into the fire for their first meet on Jan. 19, facing up against formidable Navy at home. "Winning that meet is a really big goal for us," Eggers said. "It will do a lot to tell us where we stand."

CONTINUED ON PAGE 19

Your Collegian guide to Christmas specials

For those of you looking for a release from end-of-the-semester pressures, try relaxing with some holiday specials. Once a year, the networks go crazy with these things, and for those of you who are just dying to know what evenings and and what stations will be showing your favorite yearly cartoons, tear-jerking dramas and variety shows, stay tuned. Forget about those finals, call up your friends, get plenty of hot chocolate and blankets and hover around your TV. Unfortunately, there's been no word on Santa Claus is Coming to Town and Year Without a Santa Claus (with Heat Miser). But these should be enough to carry you 'til Christmas Eve:

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 5

Emmet Otter's Jug Band Christmas, HBO. This one features Jim Henson's Muppets. One of the more worthwhile ones.

Jesye Norman's Christmas Symphony, PBS. Classical music with a holiday theme.

The Christmas Toy, Disney Channel. This also features Jim Henson's Muppets. Old toys talk to each other about what it's like to be replaced by new toys on Christmas morning.

FRIDAY, DEC. 7

A Special Christmas With Luciano Pavarotti, PBS.
Christmas opera.

SATURDAY, DEC. 8

Babar and Father Christmas, HBO. Based on the classic book by Jean de Brunhoff.

Ziggy's Gift, HBO. The cartoon and greeting card guy now has his own Christmas special.

SUNDAY, DEC. 9

A Peter, Paul and Mary Holiday Concert, PBS. Folk trio accompanied by the New York Choral Society.

The Bells of Saint Mary, TBS. Starring Bing Crosby and Ingrid Bergman. A great classic. Too bad Ted Turner colorized it.

How the Grinch Stole Christmas, TNT. The Christmas classic. Bring lots of Who-hash. Cindy-Lou Who is the cutest cartoon character of all time.

TUESDAY, DEC. 11

Dinner At Eight, TNT. Remake of the classic, starring Lauren Bacall and Harry Hamlin. Christmas in Connecticut, TNT. Starring Barbara Stanwyck. Colorized.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 12

Yogi Bear's All-Star Comedy Christmas Caper, Disney Channel. Featuring Yogi, Boo-Boo, and the rest of Hanna Barbara's creations. Not the greatest special in the world, but cute just the same.

Casper's First Christmas, Disney Channel. The return of the friendly ghost.

Ricky Van Shelton Sings Christmas, TNN. The country singer sings Christmas tunes from his new album of the same title.

THURSDAY, DEC. 13

Christmas in America: A Love Story, NBC. Starring Kenny Rogers and Kenny Rogers Jr. About four Christmases in the life of a professional photographer (Kenny Sr.) and his family (can't beat those made-for-TV movies).

The Christmas Wife, HBO. Starring Jason Robards and Julie Harris. A widow attends a "social arranger" so she doesn't have to spend Christmas alone.

A Charlie Brown Christmas, CBS. Peanuts gang classic. Christmas just wouldn't be the same without them.

Frosty the Snowman, CBS. See the snowman melt again. With Charlie Brown, it's the best one-two punch in Christmas cartoons.

Julie and Carol: Together Again, ABC. Julie Andrews and Carol Burnett reunite and perform their cheesy skits from the 70s. Probably includes some new material as well.

FRIDAY, DEC. 14

The Berenstain Bears' Christmas Tree, HBO.

SATURDAY, DEC. 15

Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, CBS. Another Christmas great. With those nifty puppet-type characters to boot. "I'm cute! I'm cute!" is the best line out of all the Christmas tales.

SUNDAY, DEC. 16

Age-Old Friends, HBO. Starring Hume Cronyn and Vincent Gardenia. About two elderly men living in a retirement home (Christmas fits in there somewhere, I'm sure).

Bob Hope's Christmas in Hawaii, NBC. Starring Bob himself, along with Rosemary Clooney and New Kids on the Block. Would you miss a chance to see New Kids on the Block (In Hawaii no less)? I'm sure Brooke Shields and other talentless people must show up there somewhere, too.

MONDAY, DEC. 17

Miracle on 34th Street, TBS. Starring Natalie Wood and Edmund Gwenn. They actually colorized this, though.

TUESDAY, DEC. 18

It's a Wonderful Life, TBS. Jimmy Stewart, Donna Reed. This one's on a million more times, I'm sure, but here's a definite date.

Christmas in Washington, NBC. Diahann Carroll, Vic Damone, James Galway.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 20

USO Celebrity Tour: Loretta Lynn Christmas, TNN. A Garfield Christmas, CBS. See the fat cat eat a lot. This is probably as boring as the cartoon strip.

A Claymation Christmas Special, CBS. That craze that began with the California Raisins now invades Christmas.

THURSDAY, DEC. 21

Twas the Night Before Christmas, CBS. About the mouse who writes the letter to Santa Claus and breaks the town clock. Not to be missed.

FRIDAY, DEC. 22

A Classical Jazz Christmas With Wynton Marsalis, PBS. He's the best trumpeter around, even if he knows it.

SATURDAY, DEC. 23

Julie Andrews: The Sound of Christmas, ABC. Cashing in on the Sound of Music theme.

SUNDAY, DEC. 24

Santa Claus: The Movie, ABC. Starring Dudley Moore as an elf (what else?), and John Lithgow as the villain.

Christmas At King's, PBS. Taped in the King's College 15th-century Gothic chapel in Cambridge, England. Featuring the King's College Choir.

A Christmas Carol, CBS. Filmed on location in England, starring George C. Scott as Scrooge. One of the best versions ever made. If you can't see the Mr. Magoo version, see this one.

— JODY GABIN
— AL KAUFMAN

1990 WELCOME '90s 1990

This Christmas if you can't guess their size, just pick a number.

$10, $25, $50. Pick up a Hampshire Mall Gift Certificate at our Information Booth. It's good at any of the 80 stores in the Mall. So, even if you don't know their size, color, or if they'd rather have an ice cream machine or an exercise bike, you can still give them exactly what they want this Christmas.

Hampshire Mall

HOLIDAY SHOPPING HOURS: DAILY 10AM-10PM. SUNDAY 12-6PM.
SOUTH MAPLE STREET, ROUTE 9, HADLEY, MA.

GIFTS

CD AND CASSETTE nylon storage and carry bags, from Case Logic. Hold up to 30 tapes. Great for gift giving from $6.96 to 19.95 depending on size.

TAVERN PUZZLES hand forged Early American replicas, are great fun to do, and are sculpturally pleasing when not in use. $12.95. As shown with stand $19.95

Find it at Faces

amherst/northampton 7 days

Local stores prepare for holiday shoppers

By PRESTON P. FORMAN
Collegian Staff

Although most college students at this point in the semester have between zero and ten dollars in the bank, the holiday season cares not. And even with the Massachusetts Dukomony on the verge of the fat lady singing before the fall, most area merchants are optimistic about the season.

"It's early, but so far it's good," said Priscilla Finn, an owner of A2Z, a shop in the Thorne's Marketplace in Northampton. "I've talked to people while placing orders and what I've found is that the farther away from Boston, the stronger the season seems to be."

A2Z, known for its huge DNA molecule structure in the showroom, specializes in unusual scientific gifts such as holograms as well as more traditional gifts like ant farms and model rockets.

Finn said that while her shop has a wide appeal from children to fathers, it is an especially good place to shop for the hard-to-shop for older male.

"My last ditch attempt for the hard to shop for is a coprolite," she said.

Coprolite? What's that?

"Fossillize turtle poop," she said. "It's for the someone who has absolutely everything."

Pliny Stebbins, owner of Dynamite Records, also in the Thorne's Marketplace, summed up his view of the season in one word, "Reasonable."

"It's really just started," he said. "But we stocked up on everything we could get our hands on and we'd be able to sell."

Stebbins said that jazz is a particularly hot item this year. "It's getting more and more exposure and there's a lot of good product being released," he said.

He said that while there is concern for the economy, he feels it will not affect his sales too much, because students always tend to have some money and they don't make up too much of his sales.

"I may see it next year but I'm not sure," he said. "I don't rely too much on students since I see a lot of professionals and staff."

But Stebbins warned that though the season look promising, "It's the last three days that determine everything."

Adrian Wilkins, owner of The Mercantile in Amherst, echoed this thought.

"It's really too early to tell," he said. "Amherst is not like Boston. Amherst shops late, they always do. It's the last week that judges the season."

Wilkins, however, believes the holiday shopping to be at about the same level as last year, although he senses much concern over the economy.

"Budget cuts at the University have definitely hurt sales," he said. "People who work for the University or depend on the University for money are being a little conservative in their spending - they are concerned."

Wilkins, who is a UMass graduate, said he felt people were cautious in their spending throughout the fall because of the uncertainty of the budget cuts.

"People now know how it is going to affect them personally," he said. "So sales have picked up from the slowness of November and October."

Wilkins said that though there are no trends this year in styles, clothing from Indonesia and warm leather soled weather socks are popular. He said unusually toys and gifts, candles, full-length posters of Albert Einstein and James Deam as well as jewelry are also selling well. The Mercantile also stocks original t-shirts by artist Rob Ranney, who is also a UMass graduate.

At the Hampshire Mall, Cliff O'Shaughnessy, manager of the Footlocker, said while sales are slightly improved over last year so far it has been slow selling.

"The other malls in the area have been very busy so I think it only a matter of time before the Hampshire Mall gets busy," he said.

O'Shaughnessy said when there is fear in the economy, sales in sneakers and clothing tend to decline.

"But Nikes have been strong this year as in past years," he said. "Clothing seems down from past years but fleece wear and spandex have been selling well."

O'Shaughnessy also said the heavily advertised Reebok pump sneaker, which sells at $170, has received many requests.

But if price is what matters, go to the third annual UMass Mini-Mall at the Student Union Ballroom, which runs from Dec. 4 to Dec. 8, sponsored by Hillel. It has a wealth of army-navy clothing, vintage clothing, bootleg tapes and jewelry.

Alice Lindholm, who runs Right to the Moon Alice with her husband Ron, said that her stock in vintage clothing in selling better than any other year.

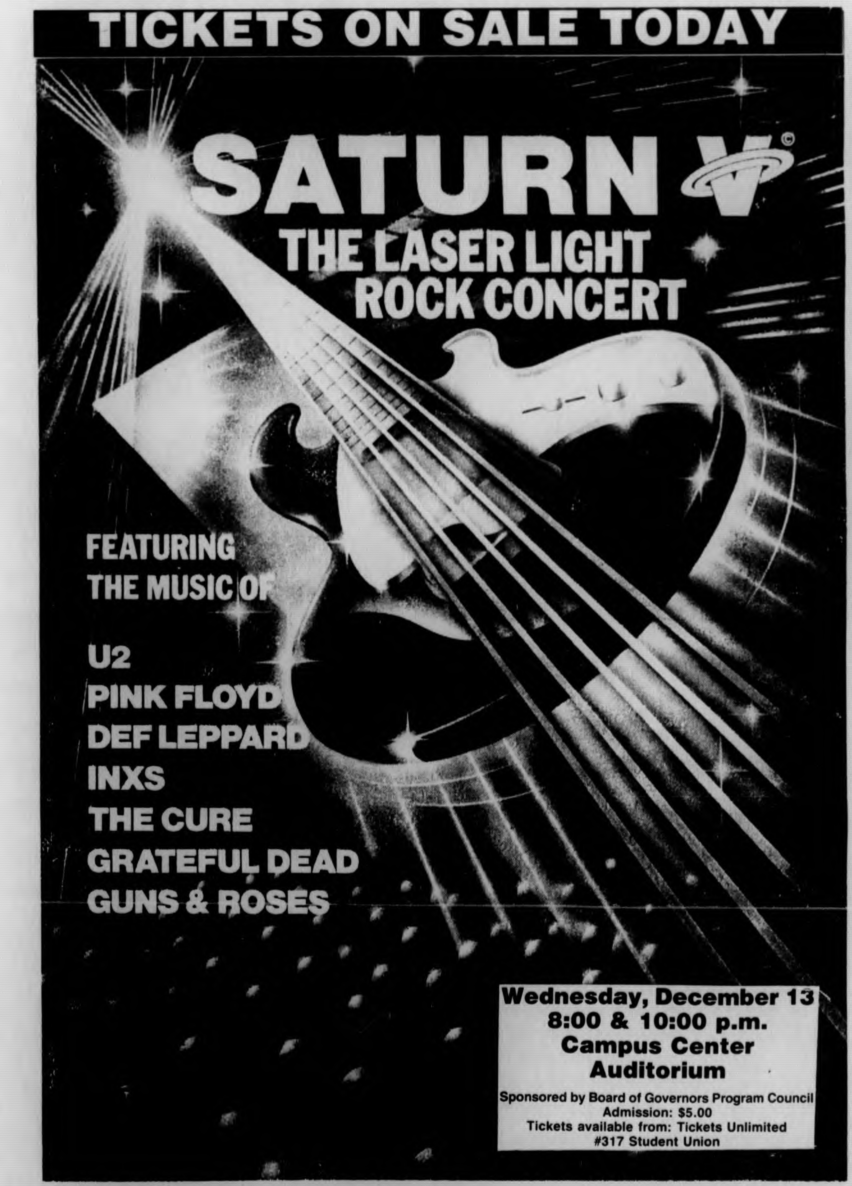
"We travel just on college campuses," she said. "And it's been a very good year for us."

She said that tuxedo jackets, anything in black and especially overcoats have been selling well.

Frank LoPilato, owner of Army Barracks, said that his store has not been affected too much by the economy because most of his sales are outside of Massachusetts.

"We're kind of oblivious to (the Massachusetts economy) because we travel," he said. "But I think retail sales throughout the country have been tempered."

He said that West German army wool pants, European overcoats and flags of all countries have been popular.



TICKETS ON SALE TODAY

SATURN V
THE LASER LIGHT ROCK CONCERT

FEATURING THE MUSIC OF U2
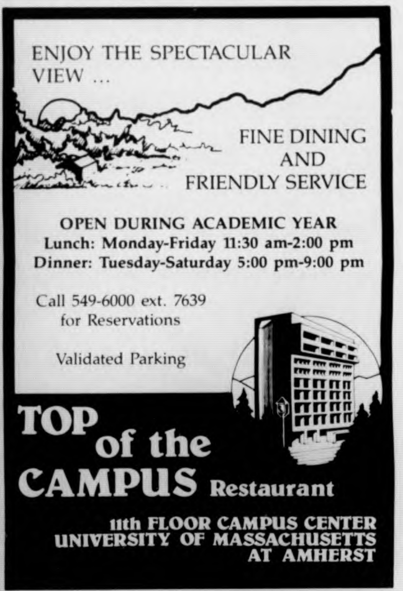
PINK FLOYD
DEF LEPPARD
INXS
THE CURE
GRATEFUL DEAD
GUNS & ROSES

Wednesday, December 13
8:00 & 10:00 p.m.
Campus Center Auditorium
Sponsored by Board of Governors Program Council
Admission: $5.00
Tickets available from: Tickets Unlimited
#317 Student Union



ENJOY THE SPECTACULAR VIEW ...

FINE DINING AND FRIENDLY SERVICE

OPEN DURING ACADEMIC YEAR
Lunch: Monday-Friday 11:30 am-2:00 pm
Dinner: Tuesday-Saturday 5:00 pm-9:00 pm

Call 549-6000 ext. 7639 for Reservations

Validated Parking

TOP of the CAMPUS Restaurant
11th FLOOR CAMPUS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

Clip & Curl Tel: 665-2629

Hours
Tues-Fri 9:00-8:00
Sat 9:00-4:00

Look Good for Santa!
Haircut with shampoo $11.50
Perms include haircut $44-48
Colors $20-25
Long hair costs slightly more

Christmas Special
With this coupon and any $11.50 haircut receive a free gift!
coupon expires 12-23-89

Gift certificates available!

located in Sunderland, Rte 116
(next to 7-11)
on bus route
walk-ins are welcome

Spuds are never duds when turned into latkes

By RICH BAILEN
Collegian Correspondent

This time of year produces a wide variety of foods not seen much during the rest of the year. The seasonal food fad is here. What home is complete without a carton of eggnog in the refrigerator?

The Jewish holiday, Hannukah, is a festival of lights. The candles of the menorah are lit over eight consecutive nights. Each night a new candle is added to the number lit the night before. The holiday commemorates the martyrs of the Maccabean War and the miracle by God. The festive nights are ushered in with song, dance and food.

One of the seasonal favorites in every Jewish home is latkes, or potato pancakes. These babies are fattening and delicious.

The recipe is:
Grate and drain 3 medium size potatoes
Add 1 tblsp. of sour cream Add 1 egg, beaten
Add 1 teaspoon salt
Add either grated onion or onion salt, to flavor
Stir well
Take the batch and cook in a frying pan over a medium-high heat. Use plenty of vegetable oil. When the pancakes are golden brown on both sides, remove and serve with applesauce or sour cream or both.

Latkes (Luht-keys) are the perfect holiday treat for two reasons. They're fattening and offer the perfect excuse to bulk up a little for the winter cold. Secondly, by the time you get sick of them, the holiday season is over.

Enjoy.

Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

PHALLIC SYMBOLS — Jack frost leaves his remnants on Wheeler dorm

Frank has reservations about bringing Amy miniature golfing.

Birdies&Bogeys

The world's largest 18-hole indoor miniature Golf Course! You have to see it to believe it. 18 holes of fairways, greens, roughs, sandtraps and fun. Or, try a world class course on the high-tech golf simulator. We'll see you on the back nine where the sun always shines.

The Family Golf Centers

HOLIDAY STUDENT SPECIAL
$1.00 off with student ID
Located on bottom level of Holyoke Mall
Next to Food Court. 536-3765

AVOID THE AUGUST RUSH!
BUY A CONDO NOW!

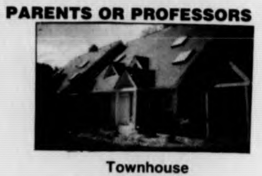
WONDERFUL INVESTMENT FOR PARENTS OR PROFESSORS

Victorian
$154,900-$144,900



Townhouse
$149.900

Freeze your housing costs for your years in Amherst.

3 bedrooms (one 2 bedroom), fireplaces, some with attached garages, skylights, washer/dryer connections, private deck.

EXCELLENT RENTAL HISTORY!

PRICE REDUCED!

Call Goggins, Whalen & Smith 256-1111 or evenings Susan 586-2370.

GOGGINS, WHALEN & SMITH
Northampton 586-7000 Amherst 256-1111

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA FELLOWSHIPS FOR GRADUATE STUDY DURING 1990-1991

Any member of Alpha Lambda Delta graduating with a cumulative avaerage of at least 3.50 is eligible to apply. Any member of ALD who has completed at least the first semester of senior year is eligible to apply.

The National Council of Alpha Lambda Delta announces that fifteen fellowships for graduate study will be awarded for use during the 1990-91 academic year. The amount of each fellowship is $3,000. Applicants will be judged on academic record, recommendations submitted, the soundness of the project proposed and its purpose and financial need.

For additional information and an application contact Cynthia George, Dean of Students Office 227 Whitmore.

Deadline is January 15, 1990

25% Off Your First Visit To DELLARIA SALONS

Dellaria Salons invites you to visit our Amherst Salon location and receive 25% off your first visit. You need only present your college ID. Save on Haircuts • Haircolor • PermWaves.
26 Main Street, Amherst 256-8331

Not valid with other promotions.

DELLARIA SALONS

BOSTON • SOHO • LOS ANGELES

Collegian photo by Susan Corneliussen

NOWHERE LAND — The recent snowstorm kept all the Valley locals behind closed doors

HOLIDAY GIFTING

Step down into a world of Holiday cheer. Come see Compliments' collection of clever gift ideas for everyone on your list.

SCENTS...
Gift items of every description in floral, fruit, spice & herbal scents—soaps, perfumes & bath oils... potpourris, pomanders & room scenters...

and ACCENTS...
Dried arrangements, wreaths & wooden flowers... notepads and delicate note cards... coasters, mugs & Holiday napkins... stow away mirrors, atomizers and so much more.

GOURMET DELICASIES & DELIGHTS...
Pralines, chocolate truffles & decadent sauces... hard candies & pastillines in collectible tins... mustards, glazes, oils & vinegars... dip mixes, soups & samplers of exotic coffees & teas... maple syrup & butters... jams, jellies & preserves... muffin, pancake & waffle mixes... cookies, crackers & shortbreads... delicious!

ORNAMENTS & TRIMMINGS...
Hand painted Austrian glass... sweet little teddies & hanging santas... cedar scented hearts, bright red apples & homespun wooden ornaments—all for the tree.

SUN./NOON-5 PM

Compliments

Creative Gift Baskets for All Occasions

WED./NOON-5 PM • THURS. & FRI./11 AM-5 PM • SAT./10 AM-5 PM
79 South Pleasant Street, lower level / Amherst / 256-1551 patagonia 20% off all men's and women's casual pants

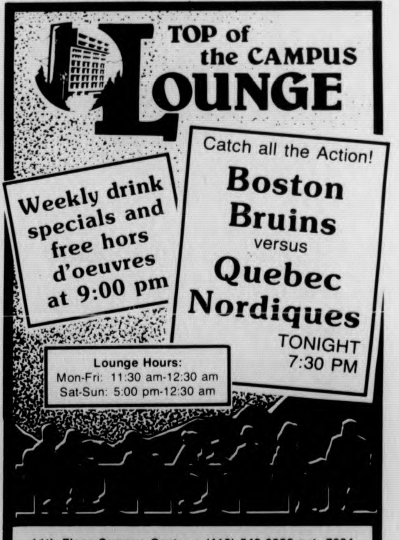
Royal Robbins

the Mountain Goat
Something For Everyone
38 Main Street • Northampton • 586-2823

Recycle this newspaper



TOP of the CAMPUS LOUNGE

Weekly drink specials and free hors d'oeuvres at 9:00 pm

Catch all the Action!
Boston Bruins versus Quebec Nordiques
TONIGHT
7:30 PM

Lounge Hours:
Mon-Fri: 11:30 am-12:30 am
Sat-Sun: 5:00 pm-12:30 am

11th Floor Campus Center • (413) 549-6000 ext. 7634
University of Massachusetts at Amherst

Talking to the fat man (men) in the red suit

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

Warning: The following article may dispel certain beliefs one has about Santa Claus. Read at your own risk.

I remember the first time I sat on Santa's lap. I was as obnoxious at age three as I am now. I sat on his lap, told him I was Jewish and didn't believe in him, and tried to pull his beard off. Santa handled it well, poor guy. He cracked a little joke, gave me a lollipop, and I'm sure he let out a huge sigh of relief as soon as I got out of there.

Last year, my friend and I had our picture taken with St. Nick. You can't help but love the old lug. In today's bleak, money hungry, fitness obsessed society, he is a rebel. Constantly happy, constantly giving, constantly fat.

Lately, Santa has been residing in the Hampshire Mall. Actually, several have been. The mall has no less than six men don the red suit and white beard.

> "I sit up there, and I really feel like Santa Claus. It's great!"
> – Harold Boyer

Paul Bergeron, a 22-year-old electrical apprentice, is one of those men.

"The feeling you get out of being Santa Claus is unexplainable," he said.

Bergeron, a confessed lover of children, has had everyone from a six-month-old baby to a 78-year-old woman on his lap. All leave with smiles glowing.

"I always get along with kids because I am a kid,'? Harold Boyer, a 20-year-old mason, was a little nervous the first time he portrayed the the jolly old fat man in the red pajamas. His only training for his first day was, "Don't promise them anything, and have fun with it."

But the nervousness soon ceased.

"After the first 20 minutes, I caught on pretty quickly. Now, I sit up there, and I really feel like Santa Claus. It's great," he said.

Terry Sullivan and her husband, who asked that his name not be used, make the long trek from Longmeadow to Hampshire Mall to spread their Christmas cheer. The grandparents of four work as a team. Terry, in her long, white, old-fashioned dress, takes the pictures and talks to the people in line. Her husband plays Santa.

Many of the Santas and photographers are couples that work together.

"You communicate a lot better when you know each other," said Sullivan. "It's more fun for the kids."

She said she liked the fact that Santa is there for everyone, even people who don't want their pictures taken. If disabled people can't make it up to see the big guy, he goes out to meet them.

"Up here in Amherst, we're really making it a personal thing," she said. "Santa spends a lot of time with each person, and kids go away saying, 'He's a great Santa!'"

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Caitlyn Anger, of South Hadley, tells Santa what she wants

Sullivan also like the fact that the red suit brings out her husband's outgoing side.

She said, "My husband's a shy guy, but he's the most talkative Santa I know."

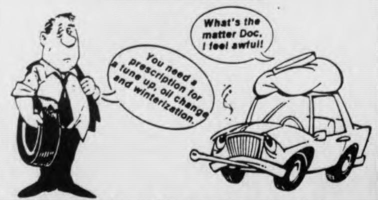
Sullivan enjoys answering the inquiries of children, such as how Santa can be on every street corner and in every mall.

"I tell them that Santa is very busy on the North Pole, but he has a lot of helpers.

But the Sullivans have the most fun with teenagers and couples, although Santa felt it when two football players plopped themselves on his lap.

Sullivan's most memorable incident involves an attractive young woman in her early twenties. "I kept looking for her child. I finally asked her if she had one and she said no, she just wanted to talk to Santa. So, after she left, I went up and asked my husband what she said, and he said, 'A boyfriend.'"

It's a hard gift to promise, but at least she didn't pull his beard.



What's the matter Doc. I feel awful!
You need a prescription for a tune up, oil change and winterization.

Practice Preventive Medicine...

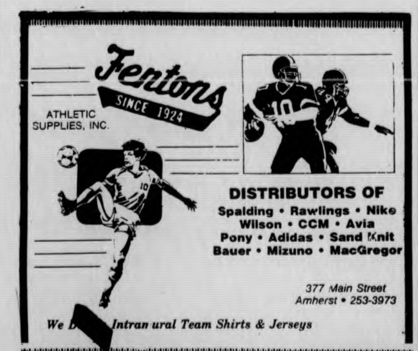
Don't Let Your Car Catch A Cold This Winter

PRESCRIPTION COUPON
1 Oil Change......$21.95
10W30, 10W40
1 Tune-Up..........$45.95
4 cyl.
1 Radiator Flush$26.95
1 gal.
Reg. $94.85
WITH PERSCRIPTION $80
SpeeDee Oil Change and You Will Save $14.95

Spee Dee
OIL CHANGE & TUNE-UP
RAPID • RELIABLE • REASONABLE
NO APPOINTMENT NEEDED
Pleasant St. Northampton (next to car wash)
586-5640

Dance Stuff
Enter, park in rear
Gifts — FOR THE DANCER, GYMNAST, FITNESS MINDED! FUN BODYWEAR! GREAT SHOES! LOTS OF EXTRAS!
220 N. Pleasant (rear) Amherst • 253-5201

RÉSUMÉS
CopyCat Print Shop
• Great Service • Great Prices
228 Triangle St./Amherst 549-3840



Fentons
SINCE 1924
ATHLETIC SUPPLIES, INC.
DISTRIBUTORS OF
Spalding • Rawlings • Nike
Wilson • CCM • Avia
Pony • Adidas • Sand Knit
Bauer • Mizuno • MacGregor
377 Main Street
Amherst • 253-3973
We [illegible] Intramural Team Shirts & Jerseys

CAFE DICARLO
Fine Italian Dining...
When where to dine is the question...we provide the classic answer.
Featuring daily luncheon and dinner specials plus an extensive list of wines from Italy and California.
Open Daily at 11:30 a.m.
71 N. PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST MA.
253-9300

Spring Break to Florida $198.00
Buy your tickets before Dec. 15
Call for full details
586-8953
Your Partners in Travel
Maplewood Shops
Northampton

AMHERST CINEMA
SEX, LIES & VIDEOTAPE
Rated R
Monday-Thursday 7:30 p.m.
Friday & Saturday 7 & 9 p.m.
$2.50 w/student ID
Located in downtown Amherst
30 Amity Street
253-5426

Here's your SECOND chance to let the world know of your tastes! Due to the overwhelming response to this survey, we decided to run it again so even more of you could express your opinions. It's the Collegian Arts (almost)All Encompassing (semi-)Mega-Survey of the 80s! This is no joke! All you have to do is fill this out, then drop it off in the Collegian offices, 113 Campus Center basement. The results will appear in this space before the end of the semester. Fill it out soon, for the 80s are almost over!!!

The Best Side

ALBUM ______
MOVIE ______
BAND ______
TV SHOW ______
COMIC STRIP ______
COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST ______
ELECTRONIC DEVICE ______
COLLEGIAN FILLER ______
POLITICIAN ______
ACTOR ______
ACTRESS ______
UMASS LIBERAL ______
UMASS CONSERVATIVE ______

The Worst Side

ALBUM ______
MOVIE ______
BAND ______
TV SHOW ______
COMIC STRIP ______
COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST ______
ELECTRONIC DEVICE ______
COLLEGIAN FILLER ______
POLITICIAN ______
ACTOR ______
ACTRESS ______
UMASS LIBERAL ______
UMASS CONSERVATIVE ______

The DEADLINE is this FRIDAY!!!

STUDENT & FACULTY FARES
1/2 roundtrips from New York
LONDON 169
PARIS 205
ROME 245
roundtrips from New York
TOKYO 749
CARACAS 318
SAN JOSE C.R. 338
Taxes not included restrictions apply. One ways available.
EURAIL Passes issued on the spot!!
FREE Student Travel Catalog!!
CouncilTravel
79 So.Pleasant Street, Amherst
413 - 256 -1261

We're Making a List...
☑ GRANDPA MILLER: Chocolate Lover's Delight Basket
☑ UNCLE CHARLIE: First Edition Lithograph (Dickens' Collectible Series)
☑ SISTER KATE: A Brunch Basket
☑ AUNT MARY: Toiletries from Woods of Windsor
☑ GRANDMA STEVENS Holiday Pantry Basket

Compliments
Creative Gift Baskets for All Occasions
Wednesday — Noon - 5 pm
Thurs. & Fri. — 11 am - 5 pm
Saturday — 10 am - 5 pm
Sunday — Noon - 5 pm
79 South Pleasant Street, lower level
Amherst / (413) 256-1551

586-6344
45 State Street
Northampton, MA
The INDIA HOUSE RESTAURANT
Where Indian Food Is Not Just Curry
• TRADITIONAL TANDORI INDIAN COOKING SEALS IN FRESH FOODS NATURAL FLAVORS
• COMPLETE VEGETARIAN MENU
• EXTENSIVE WINE LIST
• BEWITCHING BIRYANI'S
• ENTICING CURRIES
"INDIAN RESTAURANT WITH EXCELLENT FOOD & SERVICE." THE NEW ENGLAND MONTHLY.

Holiday Boxers!

J•RICH
CLOTHING FOR MEN
191 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst•253-2013

New England Medical Center Hospital: Where Nursing Comes To LIFE.

Student Nursing Internship Program
Open House

The important work of Nurses at New England Medical Center Hospitals made the pages of Life Magazine in October. It's a revealing look at the critical role our nurses play in the patient care decision-making process. Now you can join the people behind this notable method of healthcare delivery by taking advantage of our special Student Nursing Internship Program.

After a 5-week training course, you're ready for a 7-week internship with one of the areas most respected healthcare institutions. You'll get a first-hand look at the respected role of a New England Medical Center Nurse. And you'll gain valuable experience with a first-rate hospital that gets results — and gets noticed.

To explore this special program, stop by our Open House on Friday, December 15, 1989, between 10:00am – 5:30pm at Farnsworth One, Conference Room, New England Medical Center, 750 Washington Street, Box 465, Boston, MA 02111. If you need further information call Lorrie Costanza in Nurse Recruiting at (617) 956-5575. We are an equal opportunity employer, m/f/v/h.

New England Medical Center Hospitals
WE'RE DOING IMPORTANT WORK ALL THE TIME.

Northampton offers a First Night of fun

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

With the end of the year also being the end the end of the decade, do you really want to spend it getting drunk out of your head and not remembering it at all the next day? Granted, you probably do, but the Northampton Center for the Arts is offering an alternative.

First Night Northampton is now in its fifth year.

Steve Calcagnino, director of the Center for the Arts, said, "When it started five years ago, it was a much smaller version. This year, we've grown to having 25 different performances in ten different sites, on Main St."

Calcagnino expects 15,000 people for the event.

Activities range from street mimes to children's activities to dancing and classical, jazz, country, reggae and pop music. It all ends with First Night Club at the Center for the Arts.

The day begins at 2 p.m. with activities children's activities, including magician Michael Wald, folk singer Roger Tincknell, children's theater group Notable Performances and puppet shows.

The "adult fun" begins at 7 p.m., with Carribean steel drum band, Steel Wave, at the Hotel Northampton. Other shows include folk singer Judy Polan, at the Unitarian Society at 8 p.m. The Young at Heart Chorus, the nationally renowned senior citizen chorus, sing carols at the Academv of Music, also at 8 p.m. The Yankee Rhythm Band plays at the Roadhouse, at 9 p.m., and also at 9 p.m., the Academy of Music plays host to Commonwealth Opera.

The festivities culminate at 10 p.m., when the Center for the Arts hosts First Night Club. The dance party features the Latin beat of Orchestra Chevere and the reggae sounds of the Equalites.

Admission to all of the events except the Night Club is through the purchase of a button, which are $3 for children and senior citizens, and $10 for adults. These may be obtained at numerous Northampton locations, and in Amherst at Hastings, Goliard's, Albion Books and Food For Thought.

Tickets for the BYOB First Night Club are $15. Seating is reserved.

Hot Hannukah

By JODY GABIN
Collegian Staff

In celebration of the holiday season, UMass Hillel is sponsoring a pre-Hannukah party on Saturday, Dec. 9.

The event will feature food, music, and the ever-popular games Dreidle Casino and Win, Lose, or Draw.

"Dreidle Casino and Win, Lose, or Draw were extremely successful last year, so we've decided to include them again," said Scott Farber, a junior SOM major, and a member of the Hillel Social Committee.

In Previous years, the party has been quite popular with the Jewish community.

"The way we ran it last year went well. It was huge event, with a couple hundred people in attendance."

Last year, Hillel held the event in one of the larger rooms in the Campus Center. This year, it will be located at the future sight of Hillel House, at 388 N. Pleasant St.

"The atmosphere of the party," Farber said, "will be totally social. The music will include oldies and Top 40, so people can dance."

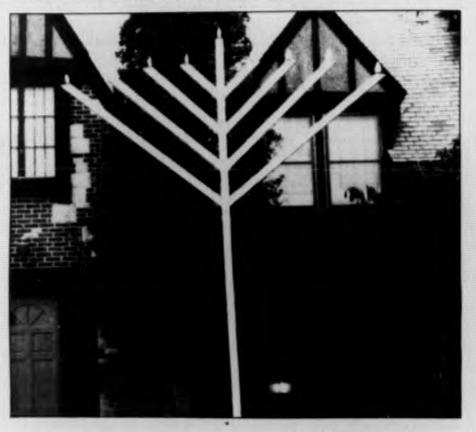
The event will also include the traditional lighting of the Hannukah menorah.

"We'll light the menorah before we start the party," Farber explained. "What the lighting entails is that you approach the menorah, and say a prayer before lighting each candle. You let the candles burn down, you don't blow them out."

The pre-Hannukah party is the only holiday-oriented event that Hillel is sponsoring, due to the fact that this year, Hannukah falls later in the season.

"Normally we'd be lighting a menorah candle each night of Hanukah on the Campus Center steps, but since Hanukah is over break this year, we won't be doing that."

Admission to Hillel's Hannukah party is free, and begins at 7:30 p.m.



Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

GETTING A JUMP ON THINGS – The Chabad house displays its Hannukah menorah. The holiday begins on the eve of Dec. 23.

Cool Christmas

By RICHARD TOOMEY
Collegian Correspondent

The traditions which accompanied the days of Christmas past live again in the 19th annual presentation of the Madrigal Dinners. Professor E. Wayne Abercrombie directs the University Madrigal Singers in their presentation of this Christmas feast.

The entire program details the holiday season of 16th century England. Numerous dancers, jesters and the like were present to create the atmosphere for the auspicious time period. The performance of the Madrigal Singers was marvelous. Their musical selections were predominately that of the 16th century, but they also performed other favorites such as "Silent Night" and "Wish You A Merry Christmas." This variation of music allowed the majority of the people in attendance to experience the unique style and talent of the University Madrigal Singers.

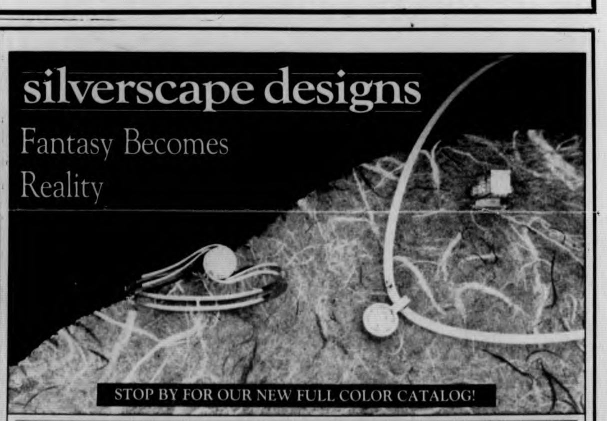
The dinners will feature such delights as the March of the Comestibles, The Boar's Head, The Sparkling Wassail Bowl, and The Flaming Plum Pudding. These traditional elements add to the incredible setting provided by the Madrigal Singers.

The dinners will be held on the weekend of December 8. The department of music and dance will sponsor the program in the Campus Center Auditorium and the doors swing open at 6 p.m.

THE UMASS MUSIC THEATRE GUILD
PRESENTS
EVITA™
A POP OPERA
by Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber
Get your tickets at F.A.C. Box Office
TODAY!
They are going fast!
$5 General Admission
$3 Students w/I.D.
DECEMBER 7, 8, 9 8:00 p.m.
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

SQUIRE VILLAGE
APARTMENTS
1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments
available for January 1.
On Bus Route
CALL 665-2203

TACO VILLA
MEXICAN RESTAURANTS
Buy any entree at regular price and get a second of equal or lesser value at 1/2 price.
Expires 12/12/89
Can't be used in combination with other specials.
Downtown Amherst and Northampton



silverscape designs
Fantasy Becomes
Reality
STOP BY FOR OUR NEW FULL COLOR CATALOG!
264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst 253-3324 □ 3 Pleasant St., Northampton 584-3324 □ Open daily, Thurs til 9, Sun 12-5

NEWS

UMass police department to host today an open house with horses. Page 3.

FOCUS

Professors and students look at the DOD-funded research at the University. Page 5.

BLACK AFFAIRS

Sen. Edward Kennedy proposes an update of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Page 11.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1989
COLLEGIAN
VOLUME CXXIII LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 63

Provost criticized in meeting

SGA committee member calls for O'Brien's resignation

By PAUL MORRIS
Collegian Staff

Provost Richard O'Brien is using his administrative power to change the University into a training ground for corporations and should resign, said a member of the Student Government Association's Public Policy Committee at its meeting last night.

Jonathan Leavitt, a committee member, asked the committee to approve a call for O'Brien's resignation, but quorum was never reached and a vote could not be taken. Academic decisions should be independent from corporate and governmental influence, he said.

When O'Brien, who was in Boston last night, was reached in his hotel room and informed of the allegations made during the meeting, he refused to comment.

Leavitt said O'Brien is cutting programs that benefit non-traditional and minority students, and keeping programs that train students for the corporate "white collar" work force. He cited recent cuts and reductions to the labor studies department, basic math program, department of African American Studies, University Without Walls and the Everywoman's Center.

"O'Brien wants to set up a university where people come in without [strong political beliefs]," he said. "He wants students to come in as 18-year-olds to be trained on how to work best for big business. In this country a white collar work force is a White work force."

Leavitt said that other administrators play a role in cutting program budgets, but said O'Brien is the ultimate authority.

O'Brien, who last spring referred to UMass students as "wards of the University," does not respect students' opinions, he said.

He said O'Brien is trying to break solidarity between students and faculty by investigating professors who worked closest to the students during the campus strike two weeks ago. O'Brien mailed letters to faculty who cancelled classes that week, notifying them of complaints he received from students and state legislators.

Because O'Brien has refused to identify who wrote the letters and how many were received, Leavitt questioned if the letters exist. However, one student told a Collegian reporter last week that he filed a complaint.

Leavitt will ask for the committee's support again at their next meeting on Tuesday. If the committee members vote to back the call for the Provost's resignation the question will go to the floor of the Student Government Association.

Trustees increase fees more than predicted; fees raised $400 for spring semester bills

The University of Massachusetts this week will start sending bills to students that include a $400 fee increase, not the earlier projected $350 increase, because of the budget crisis, according to Daniel Melley, director of the office of University Relations.

Melley said that although the Board of Trustees voted in November to increase student fees $350 next semester, they had already voted last August to increase fees $50.

The Board had not realized the full effect the budget cuts were going to have, Melley said.

Both the $50 fee and the $350 fee will be included in next semester's bill, he said.

Melley said this means the total fees for in-state students will be $933.75, in addition to the tuition of $756.

He said he did not know whether there will be an increase in out-of-state tuition. If the tuition does increase, it could be as much as $900, he said.

This increase could raise out-of-state tuition from $2,709 to $3,659, not including the $400 fees, he said.

"Students may have told their parents that fees will be going up $350," he said. "Parents may be burning up the wires in a few days."

—SARAH DEMASTER

Budget cuts will not hurt readmission

By JOHN PATRICK MUSULIN
Collegian Staff

Students applying for reinstatement to the University of Massachusetts after being put on academic suspension will not be denied because of recent budget cuts to the University.

"Assuming that the current state funding remains the same, we don't anticipate having to change our policy concerning the reinstatement of suspended students," said Norm Aitken, associate vice chancellor for Academic Affairs.

Earlier in the year, because of the financial strain exerted on UMass as a result of the state's budget crisis, the administration had reviewed various alternatives to reduce spending, of which this one.

"In the fall, under the pressure of huge budget reductions, we had considered not reinstating as many students from academic suspension as we had in the past," Aitken said. "These are difficult decisions. We try to make them in the best interests of the students and the University."

Students who are placed on academic probation and who fail to achieve or maintain good standing in any of their following semesters are put on academic suspension.

Controversy had arisen because of confusion in terminology.

Students heard rumors of the elimination of the status of academic probation and feared that one bad semester could put them out of school.

"Following Academic Suspension, requiring a semester's absence from the University," the regulation reads, "a student who files an Application for

CONTINUED ON PAGE 10

Photo by Jeff Su

FIRE AND ICE – The sun sets over the snow-dusted Windsor Dam in Belchertown.

More computers reported stolen

By LISA SHAPIRO
Collegian Staff

An additional $10,000 worth of computer equipment was reported stolen as a result of an apparent break-in at Marcus Hall last weekend, police said. A main door to the building was pried open and a master key was obtained from a locked desk, police said. The loss was initially estimated at $6,000, but is now estimated at more than $16,000. The incident is under investigation.

In other police reports:

ACCIDENTS

- A vehicle was towed Monday from E Lot after turning into the lot and hitting a snow-covered curb. The damage was estimated at $1,000.
- A man reported his vehicle, parked in Salvage Yard, was struck by an unknown vehicle. The damage was estimated at $2,000.
- The operator of a vehicle was cited Monday for following too close after it struck a vehicle stopped at a Massachusetts Avenue crosswalk for a pedestrian.

BREAKING AND ENTERING

- The door to the data processing storage area of the Goodell Building was reported kicked in and broken. Because of the Saturday break-in, inventory will be taken of the contents of the building.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 2

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN

New England's largest college daily newspaper. Daily circulation: 21,000. Founded in 1870. Published every weekday during the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts. 113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA. 01003. For more information call (413) 545-3500.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

EDITOR IN CHIEF — DAVID R. MARK
MANAGING EDITOR — COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL EDITOR — MEREDITH O'BRIEN
BUSINESS MANAGER — ROBERT J. BIKASH
PRODUCTION MANAGER — TERRY STARMER

BOARD OF EDITORS

MANAGING — COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL — MEREDITH O'BRIEN
NEWS — SARAH DEMASTER, NATHAN KRYSTALL
SPORTS — JIM CLARK, GEORGE AUSTIN
ARTS — AL KAUFMAN, W.J. GEORGIADES
PHOTOGRAPHY — DONDI AHEARN
WOMEN'S ISSUES — DANIELLE BIONDA, KATERI WALSH
MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS — SCOTT C. HILL

BUSINESS BOARD

MANAGER — ROBERT J. BIKASH
ADVERTISING — JENNIFER RONAN
FINANCE — MARTINA RIOS
CIRCULATION — CHRIS BAKER
SUBSCRIPTIONS — JOYA FARETRA

GRAPHICS BOARD

MANAGER — TERRY STARMER
AD MANAGER — RORY EVANS
SUPERVISORS — MIKE WESTER, FLORENCIO TERRA, CHRISTINE ASHE, TRICIA HANLEY

SUPPORT STAFF

BUSINESS — BRIAN HARRINGTON, MAUREEN MAJEROWSKI, LORI BLACK
GRAPHICS — ANDREA BELANGER

TODAY'S STAFF

NIGHT EDITOR — ERIN ABBEY
COPY EDITORS — DARREN GARNICK, SHARON WILKEY
LAYOUT TECHNICIAN — MIKE WESTER
PHOTOGRAPHY TECHNICIAN — K.A. BURKE
PRODUCTION SUPERVISOR — TERRY STARMER
PRODUCTION — MICHAEL WESTER, NATALIE BONNEWIT, DOUG JOHNSTON, ARNOLD SALVATI police

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

- Inventory will be taken at the Fine Arts Center after staff discovered the theft of sound equipment Saturday.

LARCENY

- A vendor reported $400 to $500 cash stolen from the Student Union Ballroom while setting up the Mini-Mall Monday.
- A knapsack containing personal property worth $35 was reported stolen Saturday from an office in the Campus Center.
- The theft of a license plate from a car parked on Fearing Street was reported Sunday.

For Your Information

For Your Information is a calendar listing of local announcements and upcoming events published daily by the Collegian as a public service. All submissions must be typed and submitted to the newsroom at least one day prior to publication. We reserve the right to edit for space.

Information for Women's Forum and the Lesbian, Bisexual and Gay Forum, which run in this space on Tuesdays and Thursdays respectively, must be submitted to the news desk at least one full day beforehand.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 6

Toys for Tots — Army ROTC cadets dressed as Santa Claus and elves will be accepting donations of toys and money for needy children in Western Massachusetts through Friday. The cadets will be located by the tunnel to the Southwest Residential Area and the Campus Pond. Santa and his elves will be making their rounds on an all-terrain vehicle.

SATURDAY, DEC. 9

Christmas Sale — Grace Church is scheduled to hold a Christmas sale from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Parish Hall, 16 Spring St., in Amherst. Baked goods and craft items will be sold. The church will also hold a quilt raffle. A luncheon will be served. For more information, call 256-6754.

What's the matter Doc. I feel awful!
You need a prescription for a tune up, oil change and winterization.

Practice Preventive Medicine...

Don't Let Your Car Catch A Cold This Winter

PRESCRIPTION COUPON
1 Oil Change......$21.95
10W30, 10W40
1 Tune-Up..........$45.95
4 cyl.
1 Radiator Flush$26.95
1 gal.
Reg. $94.85
WITH PERSCRIPTION $80
SpeeDee Oil Change and You Will Save $14.95

Spee Dee
OIL CHANGE & TUNE-UP
RAPID • RELIABLE • REASONABLE
NO APPOINTMENT NEEDED
Pleasant St. Northampton (next to car wash)
586-5640

FRIDAY DEC. 8 IS ! RICK GREENBLATT DAY

FRIENDS OF RICK SHOULD ATTEND THE CELEBRATION AT HIS APARTMENT

RESTAURANT
classé café
BAKERY

We deliver birthday cakes to the dorms!

now serving wine & beer
the Valley's best burgers
Homemade desserts
Soups & Salads

Monday - Saturday 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.
Sunday Brunch 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

168 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, MA 253-2291

Come and try that little Italian place next to the Depot in downtown Northampton. This offer is good Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights through December 13th with this coupon.

BUY ONE DINNER, GET ONE FREE!
(Of Equal or Less Price)

spaghetti freddy's

That little Italian Place next to the Depot

LOCAL

ROTC Santa seeks toy, cash donations

Staying awake until the early morning hours of Christmas in anticipation of opening gifts and being with family is a memory many share.

Unfortunately, this warm feeling is not the case for every child.

Giving this opportunity to children in Western Massachusetts is a goal for the University of Massachusetts military science department, which is collecting donations on campus for the United States Marine Corps' "Toys for Tots" program.

UMass ROTC faculty and cadets will be busy this week collecting used toys and monetary donations. The money will be used to buy new toys at a discount.

One cadet, junior Paco Marquez, is scheduled this week to dress as Santa Claus and drive an all-terrain vehicle around campus.

"Most people think it's pretty funny to see Santa on an ATV,' he said. "It's a good feeling. It's a lot of fun because you get to be obnoxious with a purpose."

Maj. Maleady, an assistant professor of military science at UMass, will also collect donations. Maleady, who owns and raises miniature horses on his farm in Amherst, will be accompanied by a miniature horse named Elizabeth.

The department hopes to raise at least $800 this season. Student response is usually very good, said Marquez, referring to past years in which the cadets have met their goals. Cadets will be located at the Southwest Residential Area tunnel as well as at the campus pond, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., until Friday.

—SARAH DEMASTER

Collegian photo by John Woo

Some of the ROTC cadets who have volunteered to collect donations for the "Toys for Tots" program pose with a miniature horse named Elizabeth.

Horseback patrol to be showcased at police open house

University of Massachusetts police officers on horseback will be at an open house today to show the police department's commitment to the mounted unit program.

The gathering, sponsored by the UMass police department, will be in the newly renovated horse stables behind Dickinson Hall from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The police department also hopes to show people their commitment to the University and to the people within the community, said police Officer Jim Turati, who has been on the UMass police staff for 18 years.

The mounted unit, which consists of two horses, was mainly implemented because a horse can reach rural and remote areas of campus that automobiles cannot, Turati said. He said he hopes this will decrease assaults on campus because "when you're walking down a path, you feel more secure when you hear the sound of hooves," and this can also act as a deterrent to the potential assailant.

"Horses are an excellent way for people to meet police officers because what usually happens is a passerby will walk by the horse and touch it or will ask questions about it and that starts a conversation going," Turati said.

Funds for the stable renovations came through fundraising efforts by selling T-shirts and recycling aluminum cans. A pamphlet was also given to Western Massachusetts businesses that asked for financial assistance.

The renovations began during the summer with the help of volunteers and was completed two weeks ago, Turati said.

The police department is hoping "students, staff and faculty come to the open house and see what the volunteer effort has accomplished," Turati said.

— WENDI LATTUCA

Sci-fi writer says humans are doomed

By THOMAS A. GEORGE
Collegian Correspondent

Science fiction writer Judith Merril is pessimistic about the future of the human race.

"There is no good scenario, we can do our best to destroy ourselves, and most certainly some life will survive," she said. "I've got my bet on cockroaches; they're the oldest species and I believe they will be the final species."

She spoke Monday to a small but capacity crowd in the Campus Center to stress the importance of finding practical means of maintaining the natural, animal life.

"'We must stop polluting the lakes,' 'We've got to end acid rain,' these are great ideas. But they don't really tell you anything. They don't leave you and me with real options,"she said.

The speech, entitled "Gaia — The Search for a World Mythology," incorporated the concept of Gaia, which stipulates that the earth is a living organism unto itself, not simply rock with living things on its surface.

"If the organism sickens and dies, we will certainly burn one day or another," she said. "My own nomination for the devil is entropy.

"What will it take to get us to move? We don't seem to know that we really have to do it. The stuff we have to do has been put in front of us," she commented.

Merril said she regards humanity as "a good housekeeping race," in that we have done rather well in keeping things from rotting.

She added, "Every time we make something that doesn't rot, we rob Gaia. Ecology is not housekeeping; it is the kind of balance that prevails when Gaia is functioning properly."

World population is an issue important to Merril, who proposes that "each couple, married for life, should not exceed 1.9 children."

Merril began writing science fiction in the wake of the atomic attack on Japan during World War II.

At the time, science fiction was an underground movement, and not too much of a concern for finger-pointing McCarthyists, she said.

Merril also said science fiction is a genre of literature.

"The classical way of setting up a story is much like setting up a scientific experiment. It also relies heavily on speculation, and was created to 'think the unthinkable," she said. "By finding a perfectly everday image and changing the background, the foreground is sharpened and the ordinary is looked upon in a totally new light."

Her work, the most notable being "That Only a Mother," has explored the mother-daughter relationship.

A citizen of Canada, Merril has worked with the Canadian Broadcasting Company and is currently a writer in residence at the "Spaced Out Library," which is the science fiction section of the Toronto Public Library.

Police investigate early morning assault

A woman slipped on the ice and fell yesterday at about 2 a.m. after she fled from an assault, according to police.

She reported a man grabbed her coat after following her as she was walking on the south side of the Fine Arts Center, police said.

She met up with a friend on North Pleasant Street and told police on patrol about the incident, police said.

Police said they are searching the area for the suspect and are investigating the matter.

— LISA SHAPIRO

Collegian photo by John Woo

STAIRWAY TO HEAVEN? — A member of the Amherst Department of Public Works has a bird's eye view of the Amherst Common late one afternoon.

WOCH radio plans comeback next fall; will program 24 hrs.

WOCH, an Orchard-Hill-based cable radio station, plans to resume operation in the fall.

The station will be broadcasting through the newly-installed telecommunications system.

Mitch Fillmore, publicity director of WOCH, said he hopes to have a 24-hour format including music and talk shows.

"Right now we're just trying to get ourselves back together," Fillmore said.

Most of the station's activities are still in the planning stage, he added.

He said the station plans to accept applications for disk jockeys at the beginning of next semester.

WOCH, along with WSYL in Sylvan, has been out of operation since 1987, when it was shut down for violations of Federal Communications Commission codes.

WOCH has had one general information meeting already, and will have more at the beginning of the semester, Fillmore said.

—MIKE WEBBER

BRITTANY MANOR
Brittany Manor Drive • (413) 256-8534

Two Bedroom Apartments
AVAILABLE NOW!
STARTING $490 PER MONTH
Rent includes heat and hot water.

ENJOY THESE FEATURES:
- Fully-Equipped Kitchen, Including Disposal
- Large Livingroom with Ceiling-to-Floor Windows
- On the UMass Bus Route
- Wall-to-Wall Carpeting
- Large Dining Area
- Oversized Bathrooms
- Wall-to-Wall Closets
- Storm Windows
- Dead-bolt Security Locks
- Cable T.V. Available
- Ample Parking
- Swimming Pool

To Greenfield
To Sunderland
Route 116 South
N. Pleasant St.
E. Pleasant Street
N
Amherst Center
Route 9
To Belchertown
Hampshire Mall
Route 116
East Hadley Rd.
BRITTANY MANOR
St.
Shays Street
Pomeroy St.
S. Pleasant

Dear Santa,
Here is my Christmas
List:
1 Condo, with indoor pool, a jacuzzi, and a bar.
5 Lift Tickets. (Sugarbush)
1 Five day Vacation from home.
200 or more new friends
2 BIG Mountains
2600 FEET (the Vertical ones)
71 snow covered Trails
7 Bars (fully packed with FUN)
2 Foosball tables
5 more than happy...happy hours
1 bottle of aspirin
1 Big Blue TOOTH
A dozen moguls of snow

OR IF SANTA CAN'T BE REACHED,
CONTACT:
UMASS Ski Club, 430 Student Union
545-3437

HOW TO ENRICH YOUR EDUCATION
BY $1,000 A MONTH

If you're a math, engineering or physical sciences major, you could be earning $1,000 a month during your junior and senior years.

This excellent opportunity is part of the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Officer Canidate Program. It's one of the most prestigious ways of entering the nuclear field—and rewarding, too. You get a $4,000 bonus upon entrance into the program, and $2,000 more when you complete your Naval studies.

You also receive a year of paid graduate-level training that's the most comprehensive in the world. And you'll acquire expertise with state-of-the-art nuclear reactor and propulsion plant technology.

As a Navy officer, you'll lead the adventure while gaining high-level experience that will make you a leader in one of the world's high-tech industries.

In addition to the professional advantages, nuclear-trained officers get unbeatable benefit packages, travel opportunities, promotions and a solid salary.

Find out more about the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Officer Canidate Program, and make your education start paying off today. Call Navy Management Programs:
1-800-444-7134.

A NAVY REPRESENTATIVE
WILL BE ON CAMPUS DECEMBER 7, 1989

NAVY OFFICER
You are Tomorrow.
You are the Navy.

THE UMASS MUSIC THEATRE GUILD
PRESENTS

EVITA™
A POP OPERA
by Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber

DECEMBER 7, 8, 9 8:00 p.m.
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
Get your tickets at F.A.C. Box Office

They are going fast!
$5 General Admission
$3 Students w/I.D.

FOCUS

DOD-funded research: Good or evil?

By NATHAN KRYSTALL
Collegian Staff

The United States government seems prepared to cut its defense spending. However, the areas in the military that are destined to be cut are troops and conventional forces. The federal government has yet to address itself to spending on research and development.

Since 1981, annual Department of Defense-funded research at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst has risen from $1.1 million to its present level of over $12 million, representing a growth from 4 percent of total research at the University to 21 percent, according to University administration figures.

Some community members say the University, for its own economic well-being and that of the nation, must initiate a program of economic conversion for its research, from military funding to alternate sources.

Some also maintain that the basic DOD-funded research carried out at the University has direct applications, the implications of which pose moral dilemmas for its members.

Basic Research at the University of Massachusetts

According to its research policy, the University does not allow classified, or non-publishable research, to be conducted on campus.

> "The only way of ending (an arms race) is for scientists to refuse to do the research."
>
> -Bruce Levin
> UMass zoology professor

Computer and electrical engineering Professor Robert McIntosh, who receives almost half of his research funding from the military, said his basic research is defined, in part, by the fact that it is unclassified.

"Basic research is research that hasn't been done before that relates to the fundamental physics of the planet," he said. "I'm able to publish everything I do, and I don't have constraints on it."

Sharon Gaddoniex, a graduate research assistant who works with McIntosh, said basic research allows her to apply and reinforce the theory that she learns in class.

"Working in a lab, you get to learn the things that aren't gone over in class very well," she said. "I learn better than just experiencing it from equations.

Professor Frank Karasz, a professor of polymer science who administers $2 million a year in research grants from the Air Force, said basic research is fundamental investigation, in his case, of the properties of polymers.

"All my research is basic research into the properties of polymers," he said, adding that UMass' polymer science department is one of four in the country, and the most highly regarded.

Department of Defense-funding

According to the 1971 Mansfield Amendment, for any DOD research funding to be approved, the research must have implications, long or short term, for the military, said Dr. Robert Ghiradelli, director of the Army Research Office's Chemical and Biological Science Division.

Many people argue that because the military receives such a large share of the federal budget — over 50 percent of the federal budget is being spent on the military — researchers are forced to solicit DOD funding.

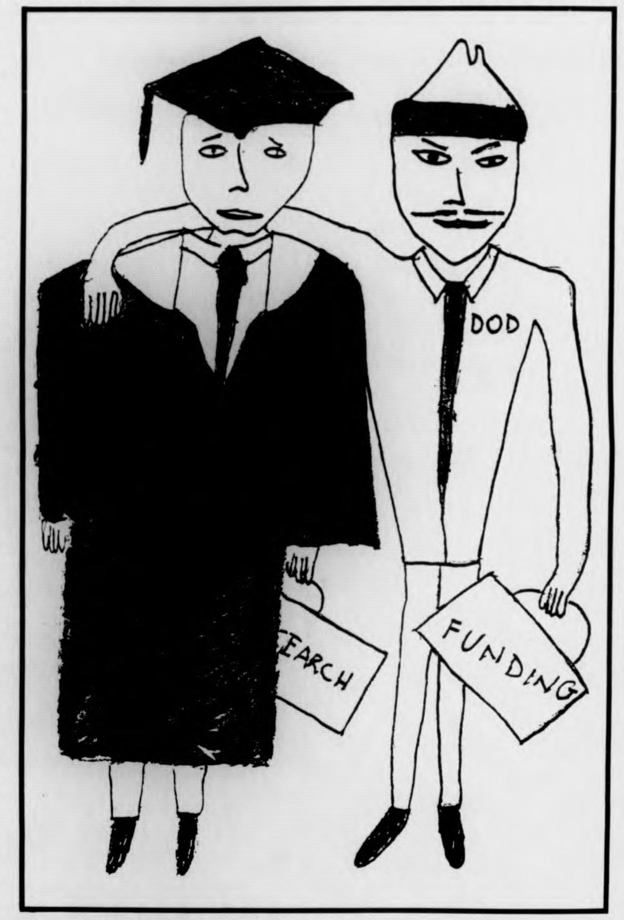
Polymer science engineering professor, David Tirrell, said that his research on thin membranes could have direct applications for the treatment of diabetes. However, the National Institute of Health turned down his grant proposals twice, he said.

But, after altering his proposal, Tirrell said he applied to various DOD agencies for funding, and the Army agreed to fund his research.

"My proposal was different," he said. "It doesn't address, in a direct way, the health implications."

Ghiradelli, who is Tirrell's contact in the military, said Tirrell's research could be used in a war to detect chemical toxins in the atmosphere.

"The military has an obsession with trying to anticipate every possible threat against it," Ghiradelli said, adding that wars have been won in the past by surprise attacks by the enemy. "The [United States] always needs a certain degree of preparedness."



Karasz, who has been working at UMass for 22 years, said he does not solicit the military for funding, but that the DOD seeks him out.

"They think I do good work," he said.

Karasz said that, although he knows the general applications for his research in the area of communications, he does not know its specific applications.

"The applications draw on the research of many, many people," he said. "It's relatively impossible to say what my contribution has been, is, or would be."

But Phil Langlois, who is a research assistant working with Professor Mcintosh in the Microwave Remote Sensing Laboratory, said he is aware that the military, which funds the research he is conducting, could use his research to improve their weapons capability.

"I'm not ashamed of what goes on here. This [research] may be used for missiles," he said.

Langlois said the military uses basic research, in part, as a screening process to see if a project is worth pursuing.

"It's the first step towards deciding if a military project is feasible," he said.

Bruce Levin, a professor of zoology, said the University should openly discuss the moral aspect of DOD-funded research. He said that last semester, during the protests against DOD-funded research, students, not faculty, brought up the moral issue.

"Students should be aware what the source of research funding is," he said.

Levin, along with two other UMass professors, recently signed a pledge to not engage in research related to biological warfare. "WE PLEDGE not to engage knowingly in research and teaching that will further the development of chemical and biological warfare agents," the pledge states.

"It's wrong to do research specifically intended to build biological weapons," he said.

Levin said arms races often ensue out of national one-upsmanhip.

"One side does it because the other side does it," he said. "The only way of ending it is for scientists to refuse to do the research."

Members of the group, People for a Socially Responsible University, which orchestrated the anti-DOD-funded research protests last semester, claim that the University's Microbiology Department is conducting research on the anthrax virus which could be applied to an anthrax weapon.

"Plans are in the making to sue the University for violating the 1972 biological weapons treaty," said a recent PSRU newsletter.

Professor Levin said it is often difficult for a researcher to know if the research he or she is doing has implications for biological warfare, but sometimes not so difficult.

"If your role is to find ways of disseminating bacteria, then you know," he said. "If your role is to study cell walls, then you don't know."

Randy Viscio, a PSRU member who has been investigating DOD-funded research at UMass for a year, said, "People, including students, have to ask themselves, 'If the research done at this university is the first step toward developing a weapon, then can I accept the responsibility for people who might be destroyed from the use of that weapon?'"

Economic Conversion

Viscio said one of PSRU's demands is the formation of a University committee to investigate the prospects of economic conversion of military-funded research to alternate sources. He described how such a committee might function.

"It would be a commission involving faculty, students, staff, community members and administrators interested in economic conversion. The commission would figure out how much faculty researchers and departments receive from the DOD, and try to match them up with alternative sources."

Viscio admitted finding alternative funding could prove difficult.

"The commission would have to look in all the nooks and crannies to find all alternative sources. That's why we'd need an active commission — people who will actively lobby for this funding."

Many researchers say the funding they are receiving from the DOD is a direct result of the large share of the federal budget that the DOD receives. Viscio said professors could work on the commission to help reverse the trend in defense research and development.

> "I'm not ashamed of what goes on here. This (research) may be used for missiles."
>
> -Phil Langlois
> graduate research assistant

But, when asked if he would work on such an economic conversion committee, Professor Karasz said, "No. There is nothing I could do that would influence the distribution of funding in the U.S. government.

Karasz also said the University ought to allow classified research, like other universities, such as the University of Pennsylvania, do.

"I have no problem with supporting the military. It's perfectly all right. Anything that adds to our defense posture is fine," he said.

Karasz said there are two sides to the issue of DOD-funded research. The other side, he said, consists of pacifists.

"I don't know what they'd do if German, Russian or Japanese paratroopers landed in Amherst," he said.

Steve Carson, a graduate research assistant who is not receiving military-funded research, said, "In today's environment, there's no money without an agenda behind it. In order to get good science done, you have to have researchers with integrity."

On May 11 last semester, during a PSRU building takeover in protest of DOD-funded research, Chancellor Duffey issued a statement to the campus community.

"At tomorrow's Faculty Senate meeting I will ask for the creation of a Campus Commission on America's Economic Future to explore those elements that threaten our society today and what can be done to build a stronger, more productive American economy . . . The kind of study I propose must inevitably focus on the question of Department of Defense-funded research."

Viscio said that, although the Ad Hoc Faculty Senate Committee on Research Issues was formed this semester, the committee has not been focussing on DOD-funded research.

"Duffey promised this commission would be do certain things that aren't being done," he said. "We were lied to."

JAMMIN' ONLY THE HOTTEST MUSIC
YOUR NEW PARTY STATION

BLASTING YOUR BOX
WITH THE BEST MIX EVERY HOUR
LISTEN...
IT'S AWESOME!!

Holiday Glow!

J•RICH
CLOTHING FOR MEN
191 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst•253-2018
22 Masonic St.
Northampton•586-6336
OPEN 7 DAYS

SQUIRE VILLAGE APARTMENTS

1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments available for January 1.

On Bus Route

CALL 665-2203

THE THIRD ANNUAL
UMASS HILLEL
MINI–MALL
in the
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
DECEMBER 4TH - 8TH, 1989

STUDENT UNION

Everyday will bring something new and different!

Jewelry
Army/Navy
Leather Goods
Nacks
Clothes
Accessories
Furniture
Free Raffle (first time ever)
Sweaters
Novelties
Nicks

This year there are five fun filled days:

Mon. Dec. 4th 11a.m. - 5p.m.
Tues. Dec. 5th 10a.m. - 5p.m.
Wed. Dec. 6th 11a.m. - 5p.m.
Thurs. Dec. 7th 10a.m. - 5p.m.
Fri. Dec. 8th 10a.m. - 4p.m.

Come shop for all your daily and holiday needs!!!!!!!!!!!

tips
idb

Student Affairs Information Services
Information Data Bank
and the
Taped Information Phone Service

Call TIPS at 545-1540

About Your End-of-Semester Concerns.

Ask for these tapes by number:

1026 Access to your Academic Records
1008 Figuring Your Grade Point Average
1027 Incompletes
2882 Math Tutoring Program
1033 Repeat Option
7000 Residence Hall Closing
2420 Transcripts
1435 Tutors and Tutorials
1325 Withdrawal and Readmission

If you have further questions call IDB at 545-1555

Information Data Bank (IDB)
Taped Information Phone Service (TIPS)

Spectrum magazine

is now accepting

SUBMISSIONS

in

Art, Poetry, Prose & Photo

for the 1990 edition.

SPECTRUM Magazine is the Arts and Literary magazine at UMASS.

Submissions may be mailed to:
Box 125, Student Activities Office, Student Union, UMASS
or brought in person to the SPECTRUM Office, 406E, Student Union.

Please include your name and phone number.

DEADLINE FEBRUARY 2, 1990

DON'T BE SHY

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted

Who to trust?

The Ohio-seven sedition trial is making headlines again. Three terrorists have been cleared of any charges.

I find this hard to accept.

For more than a decade, this trial has been postponed. Jury selection has been extremely lengthy. In order to give the defendants a fair trial, the trial was moved to Springfield.

Erin Martin

Now I haven't sat in on the entire trial, but I know that they are accused of killing a state trooper. That makes me sick.

These people seem to be very dangerous. They look harmless on television, but for two summers I worked in the U.S. federal courthouse and saw them first-hand.

The prisoners were brought in every morning at 8:30 a.m. Streets in downtown Springfield were blocked off. Drastic measures were taken each day to ensure public safety.

Round-the-clock security was positioned strategically about the building. Exits were blocked off and only one main entrance could be utilized. Every morning I was greeted by federal marshals waiting to check my bag and send me through a metal detector. It was like entering an airport.

My office was on the same floor as the courtroom. One marshal was assigned to each prisoner.

Everyone spoke of the trial, the prisoners and the charges.

Next to my phone was a photocopy of a list of noises and things to listen for in case a bomb threat came over the phone. Every phone in every office had one.

This petrified me. I couldn't believe they were preparing for a bomb scare.

I could only imagine what kind of people the defendants were who for years had been running from the authorities. They were in the building where I worked. They were being tried for terrorist acts, the kind of things you read about elsewhere in the world, not in the good old U.S. of A.

Sometimes I'd see the prisoners as ordinary people. Other days, I'd see them as people trying to overthrow the government.

So for a while, the Ohio-seven had been out of the news. It still shocks me to think back to how much security was needed to protect the public from this group of terrorists.

I saw how government officials prepared for the worst. They obviously had reason to believe they were capable of life-threatening acts.

Now, as I read the headlines and hear the news of the three being released, I can't help asking myself whether or not the jury turned out the right verdict.

Kind of makes me wonder who to trust, the judicial system, or the federal security system?

Erin Martin is a UMass student

I can be optimistic too

Some people asked me the other day why the columns I write are always so depressing. They asked me if there isn't something positive I could write about, if there isn't anything I actually like.

I have a confession to make. I really like the song "Don't Worry, Be Happy."

I also like Scruffy the Cat, playing Friday at Pearl Street in Northampton.

I like Cheez-its, dogs, and old Broadway musicals, and I think Chancellor Duffey seems like a pretty nice guy. But in spite of all that, on balance, the world is a really screwed up place.

The way I see it, life is a lot like Student Government, except people die sometimes. Some people might not consider that a very optimistic outlook, but it's okay with me.

Let me explain.

Projections made by the Budgets Committee of the Student Government Association show that within a few years there will be no money left in the yearly budget for Student Activities. It will all be spent on salaries and other rising costs of maintaining a full-time administrative staff.

Students usually get angry when they hear the money is running out, especially because it means that the Student Activities Fees will probably rise sharply. But you can't really blame the Student Government, because all employees are protected by a standard University contract. The Student Government has absolutely no control over personnel costs once somebody has been hired.

Al Arpad

Similarly, you can't blame the employees themselves. They're just regular people who work as hard as anyone else, but who should never have been hired in the first place because the money wasn't there.

And there's really no point in blaming the people who were in Student Government before, either. Every person they hired was brought in for a reason. The most common reasons were because it was too hard to find students to do the jobs, or because money was being misappropriated and had to be watched more closely, or because it seemed like the thing to do at the time.

One thing is certain, though. The people who made those decisions were elected. And most of the students who were around didn't bother to vote. And I don't blame them because nobody else would have done things much different anyway.

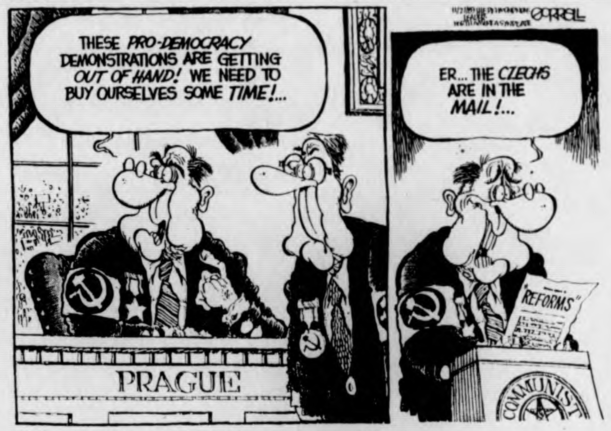
The governments of Massachusetts and the United States also bought expensive programs that they can't afford to maintain. I happen to disagree with most of them, although the things I would have done probably would have been just as expensive.

But things are the way they are because people want it that way. The majority either voted for it or didn't pay enough attention to vote against it. Vice President Quayle won fair and square, we killed some priests in El Salvador, and I can't find a parking space on campus.

Life is a lot like Student Government, except people die sometimes, but with the right attitude it can still be fun. For instance, I can't wait until Dan Quayle becomes President. The American people deserve him, and I can't wait to rub it in.

That's my idea of optimism.

Al Arpad is a UMass student



THESE PRO-DEMOCRACY DEMONSTRATIONS ARE GETTING OUT OF HAND! WE NEED TO BUY OURSELVES SOME TIME!...
ER... THE CZECHS ARE IN THE MAIL!...
CORRELL
PRAGUE REFORMS COMMUNIST

Sophian welcomes all

In the editorial, "Secret Confessions of a 'Smithie' wanna-be," (Nov. 29) copy editor Darren Garnick wrote that his request for a staff position at the Smith College Sophian was not addressed by the editor in chief. I apologize for not responding sooner. I didn't realize he would be using the application as a way to exemplify his perceived attitudes of Smith students, and to feel accepted at Smith.

The Sophian is always willing to hire staff and does not discriminate on the basis of sex, nationality, color, creed, handicap or age. I do admit that Garnick would be in the minority on the all-woman staff, but we are a diverse and accepting staff. Any qualified applicant is welcome. And Garnick would not be forced to do menial labor.

Laura Begley
Sophian editor in chief

A slice-of-life

This is in response to Jim Clark's editorial, "Comic strips are lacking in content and purpose," (Nov. 30).

I won't argue with his assertion that the comic strip Jim's Journal is hardly a barrel of laughs. However, his complaint is irrelevant because this isn't even the strip's intention. Rather, the enigmatic author Jim is simply offering a light-hearted, slice-of-life serial which I find diverting. It is difficult though, to see how Clark can simultaneously hate Journal and understand what Yeasthead was about.

I take exception to Clark's harsh criticism of Scott Adams' Dilbert. He is correct in saying that it borrows the premise of a nerdy owner and a cynical pet from Garfield, but that hardly makes it what he considers a "Garfield rip-off."

The character of Dilbert exudes a man-child quality and an endearing sense of anxiety that make him far more sensitive and appealing that Jon Arbuckle, a wimpy, nerdy imbecile. I find the strip's minimalistic style interesting and humorous the illustrious style Clark refers to as having "all of the artistic flair of a first-grader."

Oh, and Jim, to address your query concerning Dilbert's tie, I have two theories: a) Being an engineer, he only buys ties which disregard the laws of physics and gravity, or b) His dry cleaner starches it too much.

Ray Misra
Orchard Hill

In search of fair tippers

I am a circus seal begging for scraps of fish.

Chomp, chomp, chomp!

I am your pizza delivery boy smiling for nickels and dimes, dependent on tips to supplement my $3.50 an hour wage.

"Thank you ma'am, have a good night!" is my preprogrammed response, regardless of whether or not my service is rewarded with a cash bonus.

When a business like a sub shop or a newspaper offers a "free" delivery service, it means that it is free for the boss. The employee is enslaved at a peasant income level, dependent on the generosity of the customer for financial redemption.

At age 12, I delivered the Lowell Sun to my neighbors' doorsteps. I was the dependable paperboy, strapping stacks of newsprint on my three-speed bicycle for a seven cent commission. Based on that profit margin, a customer who tipped me 40 cents was the nicest person in the world.

I'm in college now — my bike has been replaced with a car — but nothing really has changed. My paycheck still depends on abstractions like the customer's mood and personality.

For those who have never experienced the trauma of pizza delivery, take this little quiz to find out if you are unknowingly contributing to an innocent driver's mental demise:

A snowstorm engulfs the Amherst community, prompting large numbers of people to cancel their plans for the evening. Swearing to avoid driving at all costs — the slick roads are gloating at any idiot who dares — these people decide they want pizza, and they want the pizza to come to them.

Darren Garnick

. . . Meanwhile at pizza headquarters, the pizza boss is drooling. Pizza orders are stacked to the ceiling and the phone is ringing nonstop. The pizza driver, however, is not psyched. (S)he does not feel it is worth risking a fatal car accident for someone's steak and onion sub. The snow-covered driver arrives 20 minutes late. How do you, the customer, react?

A) Shout "What the HELL took you so long?" B) Call the driver a wimp for exercising caution on the icy roads. C) Express gratitude for the driver's courage through a hefty tip, and thank him or her for being there in this time of dire need.

Customers follow no predictable tipping patterns. Some condescendingly tell the driver to keep a few pennies, while others go overboard and ask the driver how much he or she wants. But it is all random luck. The tip has already been determined before the driver arrives.

My adventures as a pizza driver attest that often job performance and attitude have little correlation with the tip. Once, in dreaded downtown Lowell, I braved city traffic, abandoned my car in a tow-zone, darted two blocks to the customer's office building and lunged frantically for the elevator to get to her third floor abode. The client, a well-off executive secretary, fished through her purse for EXACT change.

Harassment can evolve from the most unlikeliest of sources. That same day, a chubby 10-year-old girl lectured me on truth-in- advertising (a 30-minute delivery promise), complaining that her chicken bits were cold. Furthermore, she was outraged that I brought her the 12 ounce bag of nacho corn chips instead of the 16 ounce "Grab Bag" version. Dangling the smaller bag, she snooted, "I did not order THIS!"

Because the pizza place's image is always at stake, part of the job requires restraint with these obnoxious shnooks. Smacking them in the face would not be good for business.

Since my delivery job I have internalized the tipping ethic, making sure to never snub waitpersons, taxi drivers, maids, etc.

We are all circus seals, begging for scraps of fish.

Columnist Darren Garnick recently resigned from his pizza delivery post and has no ulterior financial motives for writing this column

Are you still looking for something you haven't seen in The Collegian?

We are now having a contest where you pick the feature!!!

Choose from the following sections:

- Sports Extra
- Multicultural Affairs
- Books
- Black Affairs
- Women's Issues
- This Weekend
- Focus
- Third World Affairs
- Health & Science
- News
- Arts/Living
- Sports

Pick a feature and if your idea is selected, we will do a story on it!

Send entries or bring down to:

You Pick the Feature
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center
University of Massachusetts, Amherst MA 01003

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA FELLOWSHIPS FOR GRADUATE STUDY DURING 1990-1991

Any member of Alpha Lambda Delta graduating with a cumulative avaerage of at least 3.50 is eligible to apply. Any member of ALD who has completed at least the first semester of senior year is eligible to apply.

The National Council of Alpha Lambda Delta announces that fifteen fellowships for graduate study will be awarded for use during the 1990-91 academic year. The amount of each fellowship is $3,000. Applicants will be judged on academic record, recommendations submitted, the soundness of the project proposed and its purpose and financial need.

For additional information and an application contact Cynthia George, Dean of Students Office 227 Whitmore.

Deadline is January 15, 1990

ΑΛΔ

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

GOLD RING SALE
$75 OFF 18K
$50 OFF 14K
$25 OFF 10K

Order your college ring NOW.
JOSTENS
AMERICA'S COLLEGE RING™

Date: Dec. 4 thru Dec.9 Time: 10-4 Deposit Required: $25

Place: UNIVERSITY STORE Located in the Campus Center

Meet with your Jostens representative for full details. See our complete ring selection on display in your college bookstore.

Student Commencement Speaker

Proposals are requested for Student Commencement Speaker

Eligibility: Graduating UM senior.

Format: Not more than three typewritten pages, double spaced, or the equivalent of 3-5 minutes speaking time.

Subject Matter: Text should concern higher education, and be relevant to the University and the individual's experience here.

Selection Process: A committee of students (majority) nominated by SGA, "Collegian" designee, faculty, and staff designees, will review entries. (Authors' names will be deleted to ensure objectivity.) Ratings will be assigned. Selected authors will be asked to "audition" before the committee. Final selection will then be made by the committee.

Deadline: Thursday, February 22, 1990.

Submit proposals to:
Robert N. Brooks, Director
Student Affairs Information Services,
229 Whitmore. 545-3480.

ARTS & LIVING

Coal for Chevy Chase

By GEORGE LENTZ
Collegian Staff

You know a movie's pretty bad when its five minute opening feature is funnier and more amusing. Attached to National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation is a short segment paying tribute to Bugs Bunny's 50th Anniversary. Consisting of snippets from some of the funniest moments from the Warner Brother's cartoons, the segment got the crowd in the mood for a good night of comedy. But when you think about it, you can't really expect Chevy Chase to upstage Bugs Bunny.

After a disasterous outing with the incredibly unfunny European Vacation, the Griswold's opt to stay home for the holidays to play host to their unusual in-laws and cousins.

Amidst all the sight gags and slapstick, writer John Hughes (The Breakfast Club, Ferris Bueller's Day Off) actually attempts to weave a story into the chaos. Chevy Chase, as irrepressible family-man Clark Griswold, has laid down a load for a family pool and is hoping his tyrannical boss comes through with his Christmas bonus. Chase's anxiety is compounded by the arrival of the in-laws and his repulsive cousin played by Randy Quaid and his filthy brood. Through all the headaches of malfunctioning Christmas lights, runaway sleds, overcooked turkey's and a rodent-infested Christmas tree, Chase is determined to make the best of it.

Christmas Vacation is essentially one long-running gag that gets off to a good start but eventually muddles its ideas.

Everything Chase does backfires one way or another, setting him up for a pratt fall or a wisecrack burn from his kids or father-in-law. The overarching problem with Hughes' script is its unbalanced treatment of the sentimentality of family and the unruliness of slapstick comedy. The film tries to bowl you over with a laugh one minute and tug at your heart the next, but it never quite gets it right. Much of the problem is Chase's character. Hughes expects us to acknowledge Chase as a hero unwilling to fold in the face of certain disaster, but we view him instead as an idiot who doesn't know when he's been beat. Despite Hughes' awkward script, Chase manages to generate some laughs based on his comic talent rather than from Hughes' material.

It's unfortunate that such a talented filmmaker as Hughes couldn't capitalize on such a concept. The gathering of family around the holidays provides for some classic comic situations, but Hughes wimps out, succumbing to too many cliches and jokes that telegraph themselves long before they're delivered. Save your money, this vacation isn't worth the trip.

The Hollywood Christmas season kicks-off this week with Danny DeVito's War of the Roses and Susan Seidelman's She-Devil. War of the Roses pits Michael Douglas and Kathleen Turner in a biting black comedy about the hellish warfare tactics of a divorced couple fighting over who gets the house. If the film is as funny as its coming attraction trailer, this one could be a classic. Seidelman's She-Devil stars Rosanne Barr as a vengeful housewife out to destroy her husband's life after he falls for romance novelist Meryl Streep.

Expected for release on Dec. 15, are Neil Jordan's We're No Angels, a comedy starring Robert DeNiro and Sean Penn as two cons posing as priests, and Sidney Lumet's Family Business, with Sean Connery, Dustin Hoffman and Matthew Broderick playing three generations of safecrackers.

Arriving in these parts on Dec. 22, is Oliver Stone's Born on the Fourth of July, starring Tom Cruise as paraplegic Vietnam vet Ron Koavic. Insiders say Cruise is a serious contender for Best Actor. Also opening is Steven Spielberg's remake of A Guy Named Joe. Called Always, the film stars Holly Hunter and Brad Johnson who, together with a resurrected Richard Dreyfuss, form an unusual love triangle.

Miles hangs in the shadows

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

Miles Davis
John M. Greene Hall
Monday Dec. 4

I was warned by folks in the know, before venturing out into the cold air of Smith College territory, that Miles Davis could come on stage and blow his nose and he'd get a standing ovation. And it's true, he did and he did. But my advisers didn't say why he gets that treatment.

Clad in the funkiest leather pants and a Joseph-like technicolor dream coat, the anticipation of the crowd erupted as the performer, looking way too, um, beautiful for a 68-year-old man, put on those shades, as the band strode out.

And the show itself? Amazing stuff. This music was transcendent, affecting, beautiful, intense. But it wasn't Davis who made the show, it was the band, introduced only by their first names written on placards that Davis would occasionally hold up.

Kenny Garrett did things to a sax that made bodies convulse madly. He was closely followed in both technical brilliance and soul, by guitarist Foley McCreary, a session man, who blows most of his more famous contempories to bits.

Then there was Kei, a total whizz on the electric organ/piano/synthesizer. John played the synthesized drums with a rare flair and rhythm, as did the man behind the beautiful Pearl set of drums, whose name I never got, who closed the show with a crash bang wollop. There was also a bassist, who seemed extremely out of place. Not musically, just in terms of style: picture a George Michael-coiffed lad playing heavy metal wild man next to Miles Davis.

REVIEW

Oh yeah, Miles Davis. Well, I guess he acts as a good springboard for up and coming musicians, since everybody in the band showed him up musically. He tooted his trumpet and pressed some buttons on a suspicious looking machine/organ, and gave the audience some looks, some gestures (not a word was said), that only a star could give. And Miles Davis is a star. This is where I got confused. Why did he let himself get upstaged? Am I missing some subtle reasoning? Forget it. Anybody who can jazz up Michael Jackson's "Human Nature," and make it a thrilling listen . . .

I went home and put on Kinda Blue afterwards. It was nothing like the show. Maybe that's why he's a star.

MONDAY DECEMBER 11
AN EVENING WITH
ARLO GUTHRIE
8 PM AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER
$6 UMass STUDENTS
$9 GENERAL PUBLIC
TICKETS ARE AVAILABLE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER
BOX OFFICE OR CALL TO CHARGE (MC/VISA) 545-2511

UPC PRODUCTIONS

Your Talent. We're banking on it.

TO AUDIT, TO ANALYZE,
TO FORECAST AND STRATEGIZE.
TO MANAGE, TO MARKET,
TO MOTIVATE AND STIMULATE.
TO PROJECT, TO PRODUCE,
TO PACKAGE AND POSTULATE.
TO CONTRIBUTE, TO CONQUER,
TO DOMINATE ... THEN – CELEBRATE !

Talk to us!

Pre-Recruit Information Session
Thursday, December 7
6:30 PM
Campus Center
1st Level
Room 168-70

Presenting Our:
Operations Management Development Program
Branch Management Development Program

If unable to attend, send your resume to: Manager, College Relations, Bank Of Boston/01-11-03, P.O. Box 1928, Boston, MA 02105-1928.
Equal Opportunity Employer M/F.

BANK OF BOSTON
Put our strength to work for you.
© 1989 First National Bank of Boston

■ probation

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Readmission [by the respective deadline] is entitled to re-enroll."

This regulation is part of a publication called "Undergraduate Rights and Responsibilities 1989-90," issued by the vice chancellor for Student Affairs and the Provost's Office. The book is free and each student is entitled to a copy. They are distributed in residence halls and in the Campus Center at the beginning of each semester.

According to the document, "Students whose cumulative average is 2.00 or above but whose semester average is less than 2.00 will be sent a warning indicating that they should consult with their academic advisor."

Flynn, Tsongas call for state budget 'summit'

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn and former U.S. Sen. Paul Tsongas called yesterday for a summit of labor, business, political and other leaders to develop a consensus to resolve the state's fiscal crisis.

Flynn, Tsongas, Ferdinand Collardo-Mansfeld, head of the Boston business group The Vault, and Bob McCarthy, an official of the Firefighters Union, met with Gov. Dukakis yesterday afternoon.

Flynn and Tsongas said they presented the summit idea to Dukakis at the meeting, where Flynn said he also warned the governor of the impact on police, fire, education and health services if state aid to cities and towns is cut.

The meeting came a day after Dukakis indicated he might withhold all or part of the $1.1 billion local aid payment due at the end of the month if the Legislature hadn't resolved the $825 million deficit the state faces.

"The governor did indicate everything was on the table in terms of the cuts necessary, including local aid," Flynn said.

"I pointed out on behalf of Boston and the cities and towns that local aid is the source of revenue that is principally responsible for fire, police, for the education of our kids, for the homeless, health care, and that it was at the local level that these critical services are delivered," Flynn said.

He said once commissions studying local aid and state government operations complete their work, "there should be a financial summit . . . a group of people coming together to review all the recommendations."

Tsongas said the idea of the summit would be to forge a consensus on a plan that could win approval in the Legislature to resolve the crisis.

"Unless you get a shared vision across the state, it will not be passed," Tsongas said.

He said a group with "board-based credibility" could develop a package that would include savings, cuts and taxes to resolve the state's financial problems once and for all.

Flynn said the group should include tax opponents, including Republicans, as well as Democratic supporters of increased taxes. Both Tsongas and Flynn have proposed the idea before, but this was the first time they and business leaders had presented the idea jointly to Dukakis.

House Ways and Means Commmittee Chairman Richard Voke, D-Chelsea, who met with Dukakis earlier, said he had no plans to report another tax package to the House until the Senate acts next week on a package of budget cuts already approved by the House.

House democratic leaders were forced to shelve a $1.2 billion tax package Friday after lawmakers, by a 30-vote margin, rejected a capital gains tax hike that was part of it.

Voke suggested that once work on the cuts package was completed and the bill was signed into law by Dukakis, a bipartisan group ought to be assembled to analyze the state's tax revenues, and a decision then made on how much of a tax increase would be needed to balance the budget.

Paul Moran, a lobbyist for the Massachusetts Municipal Association, said yesterday his group that represents local governments was taking the threat seriously.

"The indications are it's not protected," Moran said.

He predicted major layoffs if the local aid payment was not made, or even if it was cut.

An attempt by Rep. William Constantino, R-Clinton, to get the House to pass an order asking the governor to make the local aid payment got sidetracked to the House Rules Committee when Democrats, who control the House, objected to it.

Rep. John McDonough, D-Boston, opposed Constantino. "If you say hands off local aid and no new taxes, you're talking about 20 percent cuts in mental health services, elderly services."

Czechs name new government

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — One of Czechoslovakia's two republics named the first government in 41 years dominated by non-Communists, and talks began with opposition leaders on their demands for a new national government.

Leaders of the Communist-controlled labor organization took the unprecedented step of endorsing a general strike that the opposition has threatened if the national government is not changed this week.

An Interior Ministry announcement said work on dismantling fortifications on the border with Austria would begin Monday. The government said last week some of the barbed wire, watch towers and trip wires would be taken down.

About 2,000 demonstrating students chanted, "Resign! Resign!" as Ladislav Ademac, the Communist premier, met with dissident playwright Vaclav Havel on demands for a new Cabinet to replace the Communist-dominated one chosen Sunday.

Jiri Dienstbier, spokesman for Havel's opposition group, Civic Forum, said the discussions would continue Wednesday. Miroslav Pavel, who is head of state television and attended the talks, said they were "very complicated."

Oppositon groups say the general strike will take place Monday unless the 21-member Cabinet, which contains only five non-Communists, is replaced before then.

CIRRUS
NYCE
CIRRUS
XPRESS 24
CIRRUS
NYCE
EVERY ONE'S WELCOME.
BayBank
XPRESS 24
CIRRUS

Now get cash at any BayBank X-PRESS 24 with your NYCE or CIRRUS card.

BayBank®

XPRESS 24. CIRRUS. NYCE

Member FDIC

UMASS SKI CLUB
PRESENTS
LICENSE TO THRILL
APPROVED BY: G. Plake
THE MOST EXTREME
SKI MOVIE YET FROM GREG STUMP
Co-sponsored bv Ski Haus
Free giveaways!
Date: Dec. 10, Sunday
Times: 5, 7 & 9 p.m.
Place: Campus Center 168C
ADMISSION FREE!!!

BLACK AFFAIRS

Civil rights may be updated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Edward M. Kennedy is preparing a confrontation with President Bush on civil rights by proposing an update of the 1964 Civil Rights Act that the president has already said is unnecessary.

"He is not sure that more legislation is needed," Kennedy said.

"In my view, the need is obvious. A new national Civil Rights Act will send a strong message that congress does not intend to abandon our 25-year-long commitment to civil rights."

Legislation the Massachusetts Democrat says he plans to file within weeks would overturn several Supreme Court rulings handed down last June that made it easier to challenge affirmative action programs and more difficult for workers to sue their employers for racial bias.

One highly publicized decision upheld the right of several white fire fighters from Birmingham, Ala., to challenge the fire department's minority hiring plan.

Republican conservatives in the Senate say they will fight the legislation, particularly if the president sticks by his position. But Kennedy and other democrats warn that the president may be far behind public sentiment on the issue.

"Bush has been very disappointing in all of this," said U.S. Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Civil Rights. The bill, he said, "is a real testing ground," for the president.

Justice Department spokeswoman Deborah Burstion-Wade said the Bush administration is taking a "wait and see" attitude.

"We haven't come out and said absolutely no to the legislation," she said. "We don't think the legislation is absolutely necessary at this time but once it's proposed we will not sit back."

Kennedy, Edwards and other lawmakers have been working with a broad array of civil rights advocates, labor union and women's groups. Their goal is to craft a bill that can be introduced in virtually identical form in both legislative branches, according to Ralph Ness of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, a group representing several labor and civil rights organizations.

But Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee along with Kennedy, said civil rights advocates have another goal: to embarrass the president. He said the legislation is a continuation of the "dirty fight" last spring in which Senate Democrats blocked the nomination of William Lucas to be assistant attorney general for civil rights.

"If the president is committed to a veto, we can sustain a veto," Grassley said. He said Bush and his Republican colleagues should take the offensive. "It gives us the opportunity to talk about the reverse discrimination that's been practiced for the last 15 years." He said the assertions that the court cases set back the civil rights movement, are "a bunch of baloney."

The legislation is designed to redress at least four Supreme Court rulings - all but one decided by a 5-4 margin. The series of June decisions brought swift reaction from civil rights advocates.

Benjamin Hooks of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said, "Night has fallen on the court as far as civil rights are concerned." Kennedy called the decisions "a serious threat to the 35 years of progress" on civil rights.

Omega Psi Phi Frat

By SCOTT C. HILL
Collegian Staff

The Omega Psi Fraternity, Inc., was founded on Nov. 17, 1911, on the campus of Howard University.

Ω Ψ Φ

The four founding fathers Oscar John Cooper, Frank Coleman, Edgar Amos Love, and Professor Earnest Everett Just founded the organization on the principles of Manhood, Scholarship, Perseverence, and Uplift, according to Bro. Charles Wilson.

According to Bro. Ralph Watson, each principle has a significant meaning to the brothers of Omega acquired through its 78 years of existence. Manhood means taking care of your personal responsibilities, Scholarship refers to excelling in education, Perseverance represents seeing all tasks through to the end, and Uplift refers to aiding younger brothers and sisters with their lifetime goals.

"Perseverance is key. If you're up against problems that you can't solve, always remember to finish it through to the end, with your head up high," said Wilson.

The colors of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity are "Royal Purple" and "Antique Gold." Traditionally they have been referred to as the "Que-Dogs" and have been known to bark at social events.

Nationally, Omega Psi Phi has over 100,000 members with chapters throughout the United States, Europe and Asia. Through the national headquarters located in Washington, D.C., which promotes growth and expansion of the organization.

Some current national projects include The Charles Drew Blood Drive, high school talent shows for scholarship prizes, charitable Walk-a-thons, and voter registration drives.

"The brothers of Omega seriously accept their duty to uphold the cardinal principles of the organization," said Bro. Dennis Shepard.

The chapter active in our area is the University of Massachusetts chapter, Gamma Delta Delta, which was born in February of 1987. Its first pledge line consisted of 13 students. Since then, Gamma Delta Delta has been involved in several community service functions.

According to Wilson, the Omegas are focusing on academic endeavors through fraternal networking rather than social events and community service this semester. "It is through education that you can achieve excellence," said Wilson.

Currently, there are three undergraduate brothers on campus. Charles Wilson, Basileus(president) of Gamma Delta Delta, is a senior Managerial Economics major.

Senior Ralph Watson, Keeper of Records and Seals, is studying economics, and Bro. Dennis Shepard is majoring in industrial engineering.

Some prominent members of Omega Psi Phi are Dr. Charles Drew, Bill Cosby, Michael Jordan, and Jesse Jackson.

RESCHEDULING OF FINAL EXAMS ON OFFICIAL SNOW DAYS
Fall 1989

In order to reschedule final examinations in case of snow, 2 alternate snow periods have been devised. They are 6:30 p.m. and 8:45 p.m. each exam day. The use of these alternate periods in the event of closings is outlined below. In addition, the academic calendar includes Saturday, December 23, as an official snow day in the event that the University is closed December 22. This policy goes into effect ONLY if the University officially closed. The snow day "hot-line" is 545-3630. If the University is open, all exams are expected to take place as scheduled. Each faculty member should inform his or her class in the event of a snow day. All rescheduled exams will be held in the same location as published in the final exam schedule.

If the University is closed until 11:00 a.m.:

Exam Time	Change
8:00 a.m.	rescheduled to 6:30 p.m. same day
10:30 a.m.	rescheduled to 8:45 p.m. same day
1:30 p.m.	held as originally scheduled
4:00 p.m.	held as originally scheduled except Dec. 22
8:00 a.m.	rescheduled to 1:30 p.m. same day
10:30 a.m.	rescheduled to 4:00 p.m. same day

If the University is closed all afternoon and all evening:

Exam Time	Change
8:00 a.m.	held as originally scheduled
10:30 a.m.	held as originally scheduled
1:30 p.m.	rescheduled to 6:30 p.m. next exam day
4:00 p.m.	rescheduled to 8:45 p.m. next exam day

except Dec. 21:

1:30 p.m.	rescheduled to 1:30 p.m. Dec. 22
4:00 p.m.	rescheduled to 4:00 p.m. Dec. 22

If the University is closed all day but open in the evening:

Exam Time	Change
8:00 a.m.	rescheduled to 6:30 p.m. same day
10:30 a.m.	rescheduled to 8:45 p.m. same day
1:30 p.m.	rescheduled to 6:30 p.m. the next exam day
4:00 p.m.	rescheduled to 8:45 p.m. the next exam day

except:

1:30 p.m. Dec. 21	rescheduled to 1:30 p.m. Dec. 22
4:00 p.m. Dec. 21	rescheduled to 4:00 p.m. Dec. 22
8:00 a.m. Dec. 22	rescheduled to 6:30 p.m. same day
10:30 a.m. Dec. 22	rescheduled to 8:45 p.m. same day

If the University is closed all day and all evening:

Exam	Change
8:00 a.m.	rescheduled to 6:30 p.m. next exam day
10:30 a.m.	rescheduled to 8:45 p.m. next exam day
1:30 p.m.	rescheduled to 6:30 p.m. exam day after next
4:00 p.m.	rescheduled to 8:45 p.m. exam day after next

except:

8:00 a.m. Dec. 20	rescheduled to 6:30 p.m. Dec. 21
10:30 a.m. Dec. 20	rescheduled to 8:45 p.m. Dec. 21
1:30 p.m. Dec. 20	rescheduled to 1:30 p.m. Dec. 22
4:00 p.m. Dec. 20	rescheduled to 4:00 p.m. Dec. 22
8:00 a.m. Dec. 21	rescheduled to 1:30 p.m. Dec. 22
10:30 a.m. Dec. 21	rescheduled to 4:00 p.m. Dec. 22
1:30 p.m. Dec. 21	rescheduled to 6:30 p.m. Dec. 22
4:00 p.m. Dec. 21	rescheduled to 8:45 p.m. Dec. 22
8:00 a.m. Dec. 22	rescheduled to 8:00 a.m. Dec. 23
10:30 a.m. Dec. 22	rescheduled to 10:30 a.m. Dec. 23

CAMPUS SNOW POLICY

1989-1990

The major objective of snow removal activities at times of severe storms is to make it possible to hold classes and conduct all campus activities in as nearly routine a way as possible. Since a large number of faculty, staff, and students normally bring cars onto campus, it is important for all concerned to understand clearly what policies and procedures will be followed in the event of a severe snow storm that temporarily limits parking capacity on campus.

Radio Announcements

Classes and all other scheduled activities on campus will be held as usual unless specific announcements to the contrary are made beginning at 6:00 a.m. and continuing periodically throughout the day in question. Such announcements will be made on radio stations WTTT-Amherst 1430 a.m., WHMP-Northampton 1400 a.m., WMAS-Springfield 1470 a.m., WGAM-Greenfield 1520 a.m., WHAI-Greenfield 1240 a.m., WARE-Ware 1250 a.m., WCAT-Orange 1390 a.m., WHYN-Springfield 560 a.m., WFCR-Amherst 88.5 FM, WTIC-Hartford 1080 a.m., WACE-Springfield 730 a.m., WTAG-Worcester 580 a.m., WSPR-Springfield 1270 a.m., WMUA-Amherst 91.1 FM, and WGGB-TV Springfield, Channel 40, Springfield, WTSA-Brattleboro VT 1450 a.m., WRSI-Greenfield 95.3, WAQY-Springfield 102.1 FM. It is important that you stay tuned to your radio for additional information in the event of a change.

The following will be the only announcements made concerning closing the Amherst campus, and local radio stations will be asked to repeat them verbatim.

1. "The University of Massachusetts/ Amherst Campus is closed today, but the library and buses are operating."
2. "The University of Massachusetts/ Amherst Campus will delay opening until 11:00 a.m., but buses are operating."
3. "The University of Massachusetts/ Amherst Campus is closing at __p.m.. Buses are operating. The Library will close at 5:00 p.m."
4. "The University of Massachusetts/ Amherst Campus is closing at __p.m. The library is closing at 5:00 p.m.. Buses are operating and third shift should report to work."

Snow Day Hotline

As an additional convenience, a "snow day hot-line" has been installed. Taped messages will provide up-to-date information on the status of the campus and may be accessed by dialing 545-3630. This is the only campus number which should be called for such information.

Decision by 4:30 a.m.

The decision to cancel classes will be made at about 4:30 a.m., if the indications are that road travel is/will become hazardous or that insufficient parking capacity will be available. Cancellation of classes includes Continuing Education day classes as well as regular University classes.

Yellow Lights Warn of Snow Removal: An Experiment

This year, although we have not changed the Snow Policy to reflect it, the Parking Office and the Department of Public Safety have agreed, on an experimental basis, not to tow vehicles parked in Lots 62, 63, 65 between the hours 1:00 a.m. and 7:00 a.m. unless there is a prediction of measurable snow fall. Flashing yellow lights will be installed at the entrances to these lots and will be turned on as soon as a weather report is received which indicates that such a snow fall is likely. This will be a warning to those using the lots that 1:00 a.m. to 7:00 a.m. towing is in effect. If the experiment is successful and the lots can be cleared of cars for snow removal without towing, we shall rewrite the Snow Policy and expand the concept to include other lots. If the experiment is a failure, it's back to the policy as currently written.

I look forward to your cooperation and assistance.

Paul J. Page, Vice Chancellor
Administration and Finance

Don't Call Personnel Office

If circumstances make it necessary to cancel classes during the day, this information will be communicated by the Personnel Office to the offices of the Chancellor and Vice Chancellors which in turn will inform their respective schools/colleges, departments, and business offices. Departments should not call the Personnel Office concerning snow cancellations.

Bus Service

It should be assumed that bus services are operating, unless announcements are made specifically to the contrary on WTTT-AM, WMUA-FM and WHMP. For information regarding changes in bus schedules during snow storms call 545-0056.

Suggestions

In order to alleviate the problems of clearing parking lots, it is suggested that all University personnel who normally bring a car onto campus consider the following alternatives during heavy snow:

A. Make use of the bus service to the campus.

B. Pool rides with others whenever possible.

C. Walk if it is at all possible to do so.

D. Have someone drop you at work so that the car does not have to be parked on campus. This will help to facilitate snow removal during daylight hours.

E. If space is not available in your assigned lot, go to either the peripheral lot west of Physical Plant or Lot 25. Under snow emergency conditions, it is not possible to guarantee that normal lot capacity will be available.

F. Make use of the Campus Center Parking Garage (open 24 hours a day).

Snow Day Personnel

In the event that classes and all other scheduled activities are cancelled, only snow day personnel will be required to work. Heads of departments should review and update their snow day plans and notify employees who are designated as snow day personnel. Under certain circumstances (after 5:00 p.m., weekends, holiday periods, and Intersession), the Library may also be closed. Such closing will be announced over the radio stations listed in #1 above.

Delayed Opening, 11 a.m.

In the event of a major snow storm, a decision may be made to delay the opening of the University until 11:00 a.m.. The objective of this decision is to provide enough time to plow and clear roadways and sufficient parking capacity. Lots cannot be efficiently plowed if they contain parked cars.

Procedures

When the University is closed, only snow day personnel should report to work.

When the opening of the University is delayed until 11:00 a.m., snow day personnel should report at their regular time or as soon as possible; all others should report to work at 11:00 a.m.

In order that plowing may be accomplished effectively, the following procedures will be implemented at once:

A. Snow day personnel will be permitted to park only in the following lots:

- 32 and 34 (south of Whitmore SBA)
- 25 (west of Physical Plant, north of access way to the adjacent peripheral lot)
- 31 (north of Engineering, Graduate Research Center, etc.)
- 62 (south of Morrill Science)

Entrance to all other lots will be prohibited until the University is officially open for business. The Parking Garage is, of course, open for parking at all times.

Evening Classes and 2nd Shift

An announcement concerning evening classes (classes beginning after 5:00 p.m.) will be made if the decision is made to keep the University closed all day. Such announcements will be made prior to 1:00 p.m., over the same radio stations used for snow announcements. Second shift snow day personnel will also be required to park in the lots listed above (32, 34, 25, 31, 62); all other lots will be closed for plowing.

Overnight Parking Is OK Here

Parking overnight is permitted in the following areas during snow season (December 1-April 1, and other times in the event of predicted measurable snowfall).

E Lots
Lot 20
Lot 22
Lot 23
Lot 24
Lot 25 (north of roadway to E Lot only)
Lot 27
Lot 28
Lot 30
Lot 32 (West of Lincoln Avenue Only)
Lot 41
Lot 42
Lot 43 (except at meters)
Lot 44
Lot 46 (except at meters)
Lot 49
Lot 50

Thatcher Way (east side only)

No Parking Here Overnight

Overnight parking (between 1 and 7 a.m.) is not permitted in the following areas during snow season (December 1-April 1, and other times in the event of predicted measurable snowfall).

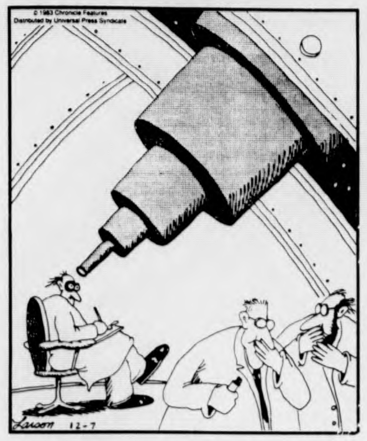
Lot 25 (south of the roadway to E-Lot)
Lot 26 (except by special permit only)
Lot 31
Lot 32 (East of Lincoln Ave. only)
Lot 33
Lot 34
Lot 40
Lot 45
Lot 62
Lot 63
Lot 64
Lot 65
Lot 66
Lot 71
Any campus roadway (including Southwest horseshoe)
Any parking meter

Appeals

If you believe you were improperly issued a ticket for violation of snow regulations, you may appeal it within 21 days of the date of issue to the Ticket Processing Office, Lot 31, Governor's Drive.

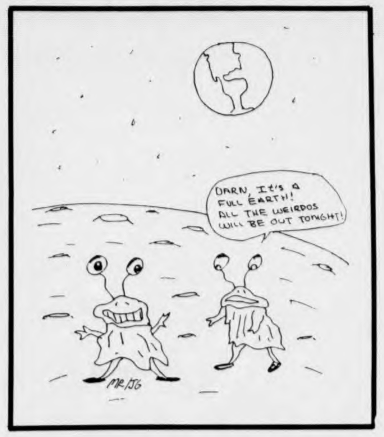
(Information on this page was compiled by the Vice Chancellory for Administration and Finance and is published by The Campus Chronicle as a service to the campus community.)

THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



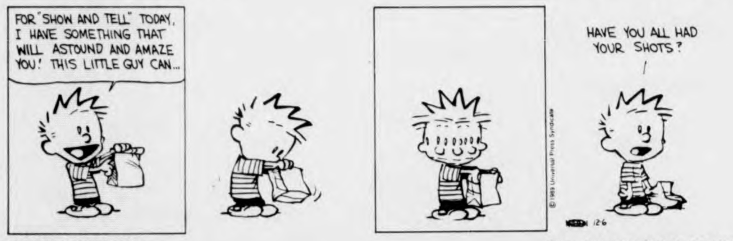
© 1989 Chronicle Features
Distributed by Universal Press Syndicate
Larson 12-7

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG



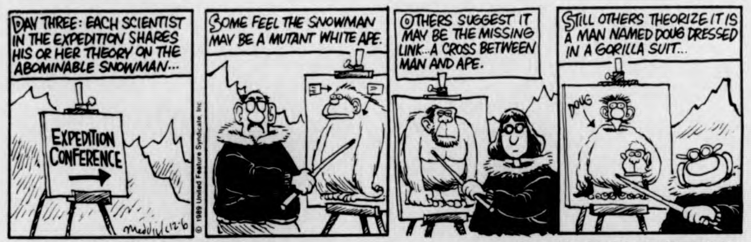
DARN, IT'S A FULL EARTH! ALL THE WEIRDOS WILL BE OUT TONIGHT!
MR/JG

CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



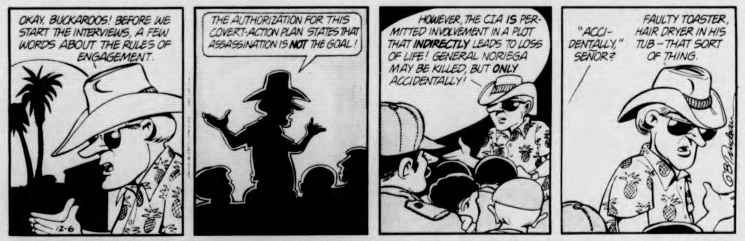
FOR "SHOW AND TELL" TODAY, I HAVE SOMETHING THAT WILL ASTOUND AND AMAZE YOU! THIS LITTLE GUY CAN...
HAVE YOU ALL HAD YOUR SHOTS?
© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate
12-6

ROBOTMAN
By JIM MEDDICK



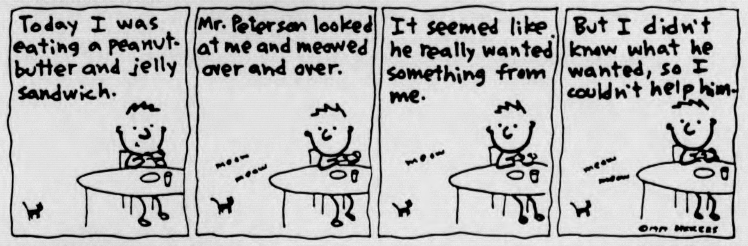
DAY THREE: EACH SCIENTIST IN THE EXPEDITION SHARES HIS OR HER THEORY ON THE ABOMINABLE SNOWMAN...
EXPEDITION CONFERENCE
Meddick 12-6
© 1989 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
SOME FEEL THE SNOWMAN MAY BE A MUTANT WHITE APE.
OTHERS SUGGEST IT MAY BE THE MISSING LINK...A CROSS BETWEEN MAN AND APE.
STILL OTHERS THEORIZE IT IS A MAN NAMED DOUG DRESSED IN A GORILLA SUIT...
DOUG

DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



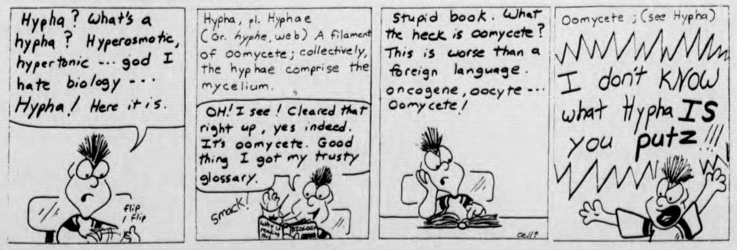
OKAY, BUCKAROOS! BEFORE WE START THE INTERVIEWS, A FEW WORDS ABOUT THE RULES OF ENGAGEMENT.
12-6
THE AUTHORIZATION FOR THIS COVERT-ACTION PLAN STATES THAT ASSASSINATION IS NOT THE GOAL!
HOWEVER, THE CIA IS PERMITTED INVOLVEMENT IN A PLOT THAT INDIRECTLY LEADS TO LOSS OF LIFE! GENERAL NORIEGA MAY BE KILLED, BUT ONLY ACCIDENTALLY!
"ACCIDENTALLY," SEÑOR?
FAULTY TOASTER, HAIR DRYER IN HIS TUB – THAT SORT OF THING.
GBTrudeau

JIM'S JOURNAL
By JIM



Today I was eating a peanut-butter and jelly sandwich.
Mr. Peterson looked at me and meowed over and over.
meow
meow
It seemed like he really wanted something from me.
meow
But I didn't know what he wanted, so I couldn't help him.
meow
meow

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT
By CELLI



Hypha? What's a hypha? Hyperosmotic, hypertonic ... god I hate biology ... Hypha! Here it is.
flip flip
Hypha, pl. Hyphae (Gr. hyphe, web) A filament of oomycete; collectively, the hyphae comprise the mycelium.
OH! I see! Cleared that right up, yes indeed. It's oomycete. Good thing I got my trusty glossary.
smack!
BIOLOGY
Stupid book. What the heck is oomycete? This is worse than a foreign language. oncogene, oocyte ... Oomycete!
Celli
Oomycete; (see Hypha)
I don't KNOW what Hypha IS you putz!!!

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

ACROSS

1 Nyborg natives
6 Flivver
10 Anglo-Saxon poet
14 Condo or coop
15 Pond life
16 Account
17 Artisan of a kind
19 Jason's craft
20 Poor Clare
21 Purpose
22 Team of horses
23 "Tristram Shandy" author
25 Rib
27 Type type
30 Saturate
33 Droop-nosed flyers, for short
36 Massenet contemporary
38 — nous
39 Attention
40 Goes for glory
42 "— Heldenleben": Strauss
43 Song of joy
45 Red giant or white dwarf
46 Planets
47 "In"
49 Mischa on violin
51 Drops a bundle
53 Think
57 Wedge, for 17 Across
59 South American, for one
62 W. in old English
63 A Chaplin
64 Supply depot for builders
66 Eden dweller
67 "The — Love Belongs..."
68 Tend
69 Nosegay
70 Baton
71 Celerity

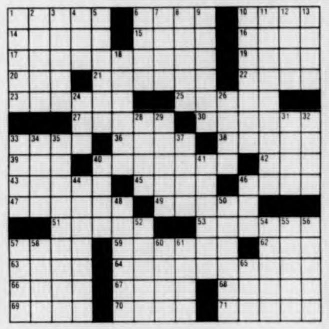
DOWN

1 Daily beginnings
2 More or less
3 Nary a soul
4 Educator's deg.
5 Mrs. Ross's claim to fame
6 "Manhattan" lyricist
7 Sommer of films
8 Intermediary
9 Split
10 Harold from Minnesota
11 See 17 Across
12 Gymnast Korbut
13 Hard worker
18 Ryan and Tatum
24 Cape
26 Aphrodite's lover
28 Gregory Hines needs these
29 Top-drawer
31 Corn holder
32 Rhode Island Reds
33 Part of a clan
34 Mosel feeder
35 Upper limits of arboreal growth
37 Verbalized
40 Clause connectors
41 Stoat in winter
44 Abnormal occurrence
46 Single
48 Cowardly
50 Dresses up
52 Health club feature
54 In the know
55 To the point
56 Over
57 Daily TV fare
58 Knight of the road
60 Feds
61 Footnote notation
65 Gary Cooper comment

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

P	I	K	E	■	■	C	R	A	M	■	■	S	H	E
A	R	E	N	A	■	L	I	M	E	■	S	K	I	D
S	K	Y	S	C	R	A	P	E	R	■	P	Y	L	E
O	S	S	■	T	I	R	O	S	■	D	I	J	O	N
■	■	■	B	O	D	E	S	■	P	A	C	A	■	■
D	E	S	I	R	E	■	T	E	R	R	A	C	E	S
A	R	K	S	■	■	M	E	L	O	N	■	K	E	A
L	A	Y	E	T	T	E	■	M	A	S	T	E	R	S
E	S	T	■	U	S	E	R	S	■	■	I	R	I	S
S	E	R	E	N	A	D	E	■	D	O	R	S	E	Y
■	■	O	M	E	R	■	S	T	O	N	E	■	■	■
B	L	O	B	S	■	S	T	O	O	D	■	L	A	E
R	O	P	E	■	S	K	Y	W	R	I	T	I	N	G
A	G	E	R	■	P	I	L	E	■	T	W	A	N	G
T	O	R	■	■	A	P	E	D	■	■	O	R	E	S

12/6/89



YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES(March 21-April 19): You are a doer and good at getting other people to work hard for your causes. Go ahead and accept a loan from a well-off family member. Athletic activities are favored today.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20): Work at a swift pace today. New leadership opportunities come into view. You get a chance to take over for someone who is unable to handle a special assignment. Romance is pleasing.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20): Certain financial goals may be unrealistic. Talk things over with loved ones. Something that looks like a bargain could be a gyp. You shine at a company meeting. Be prepared to move up!

CANCER(June 21-July 22): Versatility is the key to greater success at work. If you want to be a winner, keep your nose to the grindstone. A contest of wills could put your job in jeopardy; back off.

LEO(July 23-Aug. 22): A challenge brings out your creativity. Talk openly about a personnel problem that is affecting your work. A career move proves lucky. Follow your intuition where travel and romance are concerned.

VIRGO(Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Although get-rich-quick schemes will not work, a hobby may have commercial potential. Check it out. Do not push for a commitment if your mate is hesitant. Present a child with attractive alternatives.

LIBRA(Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Show your independence today and good things will happen. A coveted invitation is in the mail. You enjoy new peace of mind after reaching an understanding with a neighbor. Romance blossoms, too.

SCORPIO(Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Show a little more vigor but avoid acting pushy. Difficulties at home could get you down. Take immediate steps to correct a troubling situation. Admit past mistakes and vow to do better.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A happy start can lead to great things if you show delicacy. There may be upsetting forces to reckon with. Before closing any kind of financial deal, consult the family. Dine out tonight.

CAPRICORN(Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If family relationships have been seriously shaken, do everything you can to shore them up. A practical budget is a necessity. Remain wary of get-rich-quick schemes. A new pet brings great joy.

AQUARIUS(Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Household problems could delay your arrival at work or school. A new admirer boosts your ego. You cannot afford to make any assumptions regarding financial responsibility. A friend has great influence.

PISCES(Feb. 19-March 20): An amazing event gives you new appreciation for your loved ones. Go slow in introducing changes at work or home. Patience will pay big dividends. Do not rush your romantic partner.

MENU

Sorry, no menu

men's basketball

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

The backcourt did the bulk of the scoring. The starting frontline of Barbee, John Tate, and Harper Williams had just five points between them.

"We're not getting them the ball enough but then again they're not making shots," Calipari said. But what they did do along with the guards in the BU game is what won the game for UMass and is what the Minutemen must do tonight.

"We beat [BU] to loose balls. We beat them to rebounds," Calipari said. "We beat them to anything that could have gone either way. Against Lowell, anything that could go either way, we lost."

Including the game.

women's hoop notebook

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

"We really got up tight and in their faces," said Hewelt.

Onto the bench.

Hewelt got a three minute explosion from Lisa Hair and a solid performance from Kim Kristofik in the win. Hair scored six points and blocked two shots in her limited time. Kristofik scored only three points but impressed Hewelt nonetheless.

"She played exceptionally well," Hewelt said of Kristofik. "And I thought she played great defense."

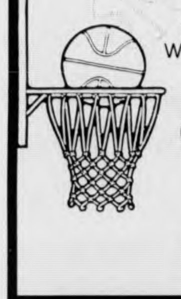
Mistake City: UMass is coughing up the ball an average of 28.5 times a game. Chief culprits are Patty Robak (5.5), Pytko (5.3) and Sue Serafini (4.8).

What's with Sue:The offensive problems of Serafini continue to mount. Her 1-for-7 game Monday night gave her a season stat line of: 5.3 ppg, 9-for-27 from the floor (.333), 3-for-12 from three-point country.

Coming into the season she was expected to put up big numbers offensively. Hewelt thinks this is the reason for the slow start.

"Opponents have such great respect for her as a shooter that she's getting a lot of defensive pressure,' Hewelt said. "Sue's not used to it.

CATCH THE TOP AT THE TOP!



7:30 PM
Wed., Dec. 6

BOSTON CELTICS
VS
N.Y. KNICKS

TOP of the CAMPUS LOUNGE

Monday-Friday
11:30 a.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Saturday & Sunday
5:00 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

11th FLOOR CAMPUS CENTER

R U A SECRET
SANTA?

Gifts from 19¢ to 4.99

Find It at Faces

amherst / northampton
daily & sunday

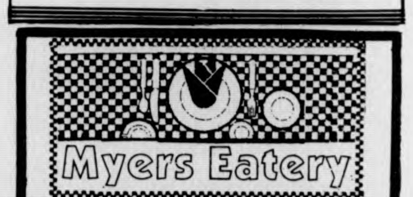
Science Store

A World of Fun

EXPERIMENT SUPPLIES
BOOKS
GAMES

TELESCOPES
MICROSCOPES
SOLAR
TOYS

174 North Pleasant St., Amherst, MA



Myers Eatery

Now Serving LATE NIGHT
Friday & Saturday 10 p.m. - 3 a.m.
Special breakfast, lunch & dinner menu
Breakfast & luncheon specials served 7 days a week 7 a.m. - 3 p.m. Thursday til 9 p.m.
Homemade
Soups • Pastries • Muffins
88 Pleasant St. Northampton
584-4145

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Over 100 courses!

Almost half meet gen. ed. requirements.

University of Massachusetts at Amherst

Winter Session

Mail Registration—November 11-December 13
All mail registrations must be sent via U.S. mail and be postmarked no earlier than November 11. (Do not use campus mail.)

Walk-in Registration—
November 27-January 5
Room 615 Goodell Building

Registrations are processed in the order in which they are received, so register early!

Classes start January 3, 1990.

For more information, contact the Division of Continuing Education, Goodell Building, or call 545-2414.

STUDENT & FACULTY FARES

1/2 roundtrips from New York

LONDON 169
PARIS 205
ROME 245
roundtrips from New York
TOKYO 749
CARACAS 318
SAN JOSE C.R. 338

Taxes not included.restrictions apply.
One ways available.
EURAIL Passes issued on the spot!!
FREE Student Travel Catalog!!

Council Travel
79 So.Pleasant Street, Amherst
413 - 256 -1261

AMHERST CINEMA

SEX, LIES & VIDEOTAPE

Rated R

Monday-Thursday
7:30 p.m.
Friday & Saturday
7 & 9 p.m.

$2.50 w/student ID

Located in downtown Amherst
30 Amity Street
253-5426

RESEARCH INFORMATION

Largest Library of information in U.S. - all subjects

Order Catalog Today with Visa/MC or COD

TOLL FREE HOT LINE 800-351-0222
in Calif. (213) 477-8226

Or, rush $2.00 to: Research Information
11322 Idaho Ave. #206 A, Los Angeles, CA 90025

Now's the time to call...

North Amherst Motors
76 Old Sunderland Rd.
No. Amherst 549-2880

Expert Repairs & Reconditioning

MAKE A LASTING IMPRESSION

Join our dynamic young staff at The Progressive Group and help build support to protect a woman's right to privacy and to ensure a clean, safe environment for the world's children. You will be trained as a professional negotiator and will be our clients' telephone link to their donors. Upcoming PGI campaigns include:

THE PROGRESSIVE GROUP, INC.

CAMPAIGN FOR EVELYN MURPHY
PLANNED PARENTHOOD
NAT'L ABORTION RIGHTS ACTION LEAGUE OF N.Y.
MASS CHOICE
ENVIRONMENTAL DEFENSE FUND
BREAD FOR THE WORLD

Starting wage is $6.60 per hour with automatic step increases to $9.05; flexible schedule; evening and weekend hours; on bus route.

16-Hours/Week Permanant Positions
and
12-Hour/Week Temporary Positions
(2 months)

Call Personnel at 586-6600 before 5:00 p.m. weekdays or stop by PGI at Sullivan Square (across from the Academy of Music), Northampton.

Wheelchair accesible.
An Equal Opportunity Employer.

TEMPORARY WORK AVAILABLE DURING THE HOLIDAYS AND SCHOOL VACATIONS

Open Early
Open Late

kinko's®
the copy center

220 N. Pleasant St.
253-2543

Worried about your thesis or dissertation? We know you'll probably be up late, and so will we - we're open from 8 am till midnight, every Mon. - Friday, and we have convenient weekend hours too Sat 9-5 & Sun 11-5
And our acid-free paper is just one penny extra!

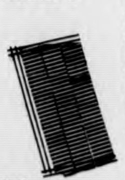
COLLECTIVE COPIES
COPIES IN A FLASH

256-6425
29 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

--- COMPARATIVE LITERATURE LECTURE SERIES ---

GEOFFREY HARTMAN

"Culture's Aftermath"



Thursday, December 7, 1989

8:00 PM, Campus Center, Room 163-164

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8 30-3 30 FRI 8 30-2 30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

TONIGHT!! HOLIDAY PARTY WITH TRI SIGMA all university women come celebrate with Tri Sigma and hear more about the Greek Life! 7-8pm 387 N. Pleasant Street. For more info call 545-1224.

ATTENTION ALPHA ZETA MEMBERS and pledges! Meeting tonight 6pm CC Mandatory!

AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL MEETING Wednesday, Dec 6th Machmer W17 at 7:30pm all are welcome.

PARTY ALL JANUARY WITH THE UMASS Ski Club at Sugarbush, Quebec Breckenridge and Jamaica contact 430 Student Union 545-3437 Love & LAGNAF

THE UMASS MUSIC THEATRE GUILD will be taking applications for director; music director; choreographer until Dec 8 fore their Spring Production The Mystery of Edwin Drood. For more information contact the Guild office at 545-0415.

FRENCH COMEDY MOVIE MARATHON: "La Chevre", "Betty Blue", "Buffet Froid". $2 for three movies! Tickets at door. This Thursday 6:00pm Herter Auditorium.

CRAFT FAIR on the concourse this wednesday, Thursday, Friday. Buy all your gifts. Ceramics, drums, glassblowing and more.

AFRICAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

GENERAL ELECTIONS
Where: Hills South room 271
When: Saturday Dec 9
Please attend!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SUGARBUSH — SKI FREE!
Suday December 3rd is College Day at Sugarbush! Call for details on how to ski for free! Dec 5th is the last day to take advantage of the $325 student pass rate! Call Paula at 549-4291 for more info on either offer!

WHAT ARE YOU DOING THURSDAY NIGHT? Put the books away and take some time to learn about exciting and rewarding careers with Bank of Boston. Thurs. Dec. 7 6:30pm. Campus Center 1st level room 168-70. See our display ad Wed 12/6 or Thurs 12/7 for more information.
BANK OF BOSTON BANK OF BOSTON

J.A.C. MOVIE PIZZA NITE Wed. Dec 6th Brown Lounge 7pm $3

VISA OR MASTERCARD! Even if bankrupt or bad credit! We guarantee you a card or double your money back.Call 1-805-682-7555 ext M-1207.

BED AND BREAKFAST
Downtown Amherst
549-5961

AUTO FOR SALE

1982 DATSUN 210. good condition, A/C, new muffler, $1200 or BO Call Nader 584-1362.

1984 FORD ESCORT WAGON 52000 miles excellent condition, air cond. Asking 1900.00 256-0933.

1981 TOYOTA WAGON. Fine condition - You'll like it. 256-6757 (eves)

1979 BUICK SKYHAWK. Great shape: New tires, and muffler. $1000 or B/O call 546-8228.

1987 PONTIAC SUNBIRD GT Automatic, power brakes/steering, air, fog light, AM/FM cassette, FWD, good tires, only 33K $6,000. 256-0078. Cheryl.

1982 VW RABBIT 4 speed hatchback - AM FM-AC New exhaust excellent condition $600 or best offer. Call 586-9526 EVES.

SEIZED CARS, TRUCKS, 4 WHEELERS, TV's, stereos, furniture, computers by DEA, FBI, IRS, and US Customs. Available your area now. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext C-1675.

ATTENTION - Government Seized Vehicles from $100. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus buyers guide. 1-602-838-8885 ext. a-7627.

COLD???

DON'T GET LEFT OUTin the cold! Reserve your spring break trip now and save $25.00! Trips to Cancun and the Bahamas! Great prices! Great fun! For sun and fun call Lisa or Donna at 549-8228! Group discounts available! That's 549-8228!

ENTERTAINMENT

PERFORMANCE - A/V, DJ's, Lights, rentals, sales, service 508-922-3277.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED

FOR NEXT SEMESTER! Very low rent, sunny and clean (non-smokers, please) apartment. Call Alise 256-1250, evenings. Thanks.

FINANCE INVESTMENT CLUB

PRESENTS RENOWNED INVESTOR BEN BRANCH PHD to speak on investing trends and forcasting. Terrific opportunity to learn about the market from an insider 7-9pm in SBA 111 tonight. All members must attend this final meeting.

FOR RENT

ROOM AVAILABLE OVER INTERSESSION in quiet East Pleasant St house. Male non-smoker preferred. 5 minute walk to campus. On Orchard Hill bus line. Full kitchen, 2 full baths, W/D. $150. Call Greg 549-6270.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for Sunset Ave apts. 165/mo call 549-3826 (across from Patterson)

AMHERST ROOMS TO RENT. Immediately. 401 Main St. $300ᵃ. Call 253-2528.

1-BEDROOM APMT, over intersession, $375/mo call 549-2845. Utilities included.

TAKE OVER LEASE JAN 1 1990 2 bedroom Brandywine Apt. $720.00/month includes utilities 549-0892.

WANT TO LIVE OFF CAMPUS and still be closer than the dorms? Call 549-7919 about living at the NPSC (next door to the Newman Center)

AMHERST NICE SUNNY ROOM on bus route call Jeff 256-1588

ROOM FOR RENT AVAILABLE Dec. 15. Call Jamie or Jen 665-8662.

FEMALE WANTED TO SHARE HUGE ROOM in S. Amherst home Jan 215mo 256-0250.

ROOM FOR RENT large house So. Amherst on 2 bus routes big yard 250+ 256-4927.

FARMHOUSE WITH SILO SUNDERLAND Room available busstop $225 (util incld) 665-4627.

2 BEDROOMS AVAILABLE in Puffton starting Jan. 1. 3 people needed. Rent is $165/month per person includes heat and hot water. Take over lease. Call 549-2781.

SUNDERLAND - large 2 bedroom apt on bus rte. in complex. lease. $400 per mo. Call 665-8946. Starts Jan.

TWO BEDROOM APT. AVAILABLE IN BRITTANY beginning Jan 1 and ending June 1 $560/mo heat and hot water inc. Call 253-2303.

ONE BEDROOM APT. in Sunderland for rent. Avail Jan 1. Call 665-7353 after 4 p.m. Mon thru Friday. on bus route. Good deal to be made.

FOR SALE

ROUND TRIP VOUCHER US AIR Best offer over $300 546-7496 Jerry.

KEEP WARM Navyblue CB Skijacket New: Name your price Call Jason 256-8028.

SCOTT RECEIVER, 200w acoustic spks both just bought new $500 546-8680.

DRUM SET - REMO 8 piece with high hat cymbals and stand, 18 inch crash cymbal with stand intermediate or bignner $200 or best offer call 256-8717.

4 track tascam ministudio with microphone, like new. $365. Wayne 545-0881, 585-5930.

SKI BOOTS SALOMON SC71 Ladies size 6 $85 or B.O. Aft 7 6-4703.

QUEEN SIZE WATERBED includes everything $200 or B.O. Call Jeff 256-1588.

SMITH CORONA PWP6 - Disk storage 14 line screen just serviced - Jeff 546-7764.

SKI BOOTS 4 SALE! Black Dolemite size 7m call Chris 546-7144.

KEG COOLER AND CO2 TANK for sale call 253-0930.

REPOSSESSED VA & HUD HOMES available from government fro $1 without credit check. You repair. Also tax delingquent foreclosures call 1-805-682-7555 ext H-2009 for repo list your area.

SAN FRANCISCO $99 Dec 7th and 13th 253-7109 or 253-9875.

---PLANE TIX 4 SALE---

One way Dec 28th Ticket Boston to Minneapolis $120 or BO Call Marshall 6-6853.

FOUND

LADIES HELBROS QUARTZ GOLD WATCH with circle face call Steve 549-4383.

FOUND A VW KEY late Friday night at corner of N. Pleasant and Main St. Call Stew at 549-2982.

FOUND A KEYRING featuring a yellow No. 1, a square plastic thingybob of someplace foreign, several can tabs, and even a key or two. Turned in to Field/Grayson cluster office last tuesday.

GIGGLEPUSS

3 YEARS HAVE GONE BY so fast! I love U 12-6-86, Kay-bee, frenchfries and gum, "Tom are U tired?", Proms, Canoeing, axe, sleepovers, cowgirls & armymen, 7-9-87, late night phonecalls, New Years, Irish, Huey, Iggy, Biff, Fishies, Capt. Yak, pms?, parking tix, computer?, broken clutch, punch on rug, Cape Cod, X-Mas Treeshop, pebbles & Bam-Bam, Nassau '90, the best is yet to come! HAPPY ANNIVERSARY - CRYBABY.

GRADUATING IN MAY?!

STUDENTS GOI NG ON EXCHANGE next semester would like to make arrangements now for taking over your lease at the end of May for the fall Semester '90. We're interested in a house or house apartment in Amherst area. Please call & leave message 546-6308.

HELP WANTED

CROSS COUNTRY SKI INSTRUCTORS wanted by Amherst Leisure Services for late January through Early March experience necessary call 256-4065.

CHRISTMAS CASH FOR RESEARCH seeking papers, research etc on quantitative analysis/probability/statistics. Call GFLD 774-5369 leave mesg. on tape.

LOCKER MANAGER NEEDED to start spring semester for the Outing Club 10-12 hours per week $4 per hour starting for more info call 545-3131 or 545-2020.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS NEED director, choreographer, musical director for next semester's "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown". Call Ellen 253-9182.

EARN UP TO $1500 this winter break. Join us in our fight for clean water and air; fight for recycling. Training provided. Part time positions into spring available. Call Clean Water Action 549-7450.

WINTER BLUES GETTING YOU DOWN? Telefund needs students to raise money for UMass now and during intersession. Earn $5 to $7/hr. Call 545-3509.

EARN $10,000 next summer running your own franchise of Colleg Pro Painters. Info. Session Thurs 12/7 at 4:00pm in Campus Center rm 168-170.

HOLIDAY JOBS FOR THE ENVIRONMENT
Work on progressive recycling campaign MASSPIRG is hiring bright people to help pass strongest solid waste legislation in the country. Earn 200-300/week, full and part-time jobs available. Call Mick today! 256-6434.

DIRECTOR WANTED apply w/in SGA Communications Office, 304 SU by 12/6. Ask for Kim 545-1977.

ATTENTION - hiring! Government jobs - your area. $17,840-$69,485. Call 1-602-838-8885. Ext. R7627.

CRUISESHIPS NOW HIRING for spring, Christmas and next summer breaks. Many positions. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext S-1120.

PART TIME EARN EXTRA CHRISTMAS MONEY while helping others. $5.50-$6.50 per hour. Call 586-5243.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-641-8003 ext 598.

STREET ENTERTAINMENT NEEDED FOR CHRISTMAS Season fundraiser! Earn extra money for Christmas! Call 586-5243.

I'LL EDIT YOUR PAPER

I'LL HELP WITH SPELLING, grammar, word choice, sentence structure and length. Let me take your rough draft and make it something special. $2 for pages 1-5, $1.50 for every other page. Papers in the humanities (economics, political science, journalism, etc.) preferred. Four years editing experience. Call David at 253-2455. Leave a message on my machine. Thanks.

JANET MEYERS

CONGRATULATIONS! you will make a great pres. Get psyched for 1990. We love you. The sisters of Delta Zeta.

LASER LIGHT ROCK CONCERT

THY BOGPC PRESENTS: Saturn V-The Laser Light Rock Concert. Wednesday December 13 at 8 and 10 pm in the Campus Center Auditorium. Tickets $5, available at tickets unlimited – 317 Student union.

LOST

LOST MANY KEYS on ring GRC to Rolling Ridge Rd $20. Reward. 549-2659.

IF ANYONE HAS FOUND Matt Rychebushes wallet please contact 546-6032 Thank you.

EYEGLASSES WITH GOLD FRAMES. Lost near campus pond Saturday Nov. 2 If found please contact Michelle: 6-5770.

LOST PASSPORT (233542). If found call Mehrdad Yarzanoeh at 549-5189.

HEARTSHAPED PIN Fri Dec. 1 Great Sentimental value. Call 6-5874.

66676 BACKFIRED AND 66749 doesn't seem to connect us. Please leave the wallet at the Campus Center Information Desk or take an ad out here so I can contact you. Will reimburse.

MOTORCYCLES

YAMAHA '82 Mint cond. $600 BO. 2 Helmets 253-5018 call eve.

PERSONALS

JULIE D OF 1 SOUTHWOOD, although this semester has been pretty uneventful concerning our "worshipping" of the team, the silliness we've had otherwise has made up for it. During the last few weeks of my college career let's: seize the moment, look for a few good men and find a place to sit!! Your roommate and partner in crime, Kirsten.

KIRSTEN H. I'll really miss you next semester. 1 Southwood was good to us. But No visiting priviledges unless you cause a good scandal this weekend. Love ya Bebeh, Julie (with the goo goo googalie eyes)

TO ALL DELTA ZETAS: I can't wait to make you proud! Get psyched for the formal! Love, Janet.

DO YOU NEED 2 EMBEZZLERS, check the bank. Looking for a liar, check a frat. Looking for a thief, contact her accomplice. Hey guys, we know who "nose"

LAURA TOSI SULLIVAN Happy birthday! Just remember there's always a front door we love you longtime. Love Vicki Alyssa Teri Julie.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, KEL. Sorry its late your loving roommates Este and Chai.

TAMMY: You're almost a true-blue Kappa. Get psyched for initiation. You're awesome! Love, your big sister, Ashley.

TIGER Thanks for an awesome month and an even better friendship I hope there are more good times ahead. Smokey.

JOHN - Thanks for coming back Saturday. I'm looking forward to this weekend. Sorry I ruined the sur prise but the concert will still be great. Love, Lynn.

DEBBIE SUE — From Indiana U.! Umass has missed your beautiful face here this semester! Hope Indiana is as much fun! (Doubt it!) We want to wish you a very Merry Christmas and luck for next year. Love your friends for life.

HAPPY 19th BIRTHDAY KAREN W! Only 2 more to go! Don't get caught in a fix love your "neighbor" BARB.

LARA DUSTONK: Gobble, chomp, nibble, gitels this some kinda freakout? Ulysses say "Happy 22, 1 day late!"

CHRISSY FROM LONGMEADOW Met you Sat Night at Zeta Psi. Didn't get a chance to say bye the way I wanted to. Would like to try again. Interested? Reply here - Dave.

HEY PLEDGES OF SIGMA KAPPA! The wait is almost over! Only three more days 'til initiation!

BJORKMAN Gordon, saw you in FAC Hall. Met you at your presentation. Would like to make third time a charm. If interested - Call me (Tonya)

NORA KIM — 4th Floor Baker - Happy 18th Birthday - Love Jak.

BUON — un'ANNO — Anniversario Kelly. Grazie per tutti E per te amo solamente te. Scotty.

JAMIE PSYCH 100 TA You're the best and the cutest TA on campus. Thanks for all your help, we appreciate it! PS We love those blue eyes.

TO THE LAST OF UNIFINISHED WOMEN — Gest psyched for opening night! Good luck to all! Love Midgey.

TO THE GUY WHO LEFT THE MESSAGE on my machine a while ago, which class? Reveal yourself. K

ZONE OUT AT D.P. DOUGH

FINALS GOODY BAG
Order your finals goody bag now! For yourself, a friend, a secret admirer...Dec. 4th & 5th on the Campus Center Concourse.
SPONSORED BY ALPHA CHI OMEGA

RIDE WANTED

TO ALBANY ON DEC 8th will pay all expenses call 546-5195.

RIDE NEEDED TO NEW LONDON CT on 12-8 or 12-9. Call Eric 253-9408.

TO NEWBURYPORT/SURROUNDING AREA: Methven, Haverhill LV Friday 12-8 will share expenses. Call 546-8555.

TO ST. PAUL MINN VIA CHICAGO on Dec 21 Call Jeff 546-4098.

RIDE NEEDED TO BILLY JOEL - Worcester Centrum - Dec 6 - Call Madeline 6-6218 or Dave 6-6231.

ROOMATES WANTED

OPEN-MINDED FEMALE WANTED to share big cozy 2 bedroom apartment with 2 males and 1 female. 10 minute ride from campus. On bus route. $150ᵃutils. Call 665-8966.

TAKE MY ROOMMATES! They're great but I'm going on exchange. One space in a double. Call 549-7864 (leave message)

2 ROOMMATES NEEDED Townehouse Apts. Male or female starting Jan/Feb call 549-3870.

WANTED EASYGOING, NONSMOKER FEMALE to share double room with private bath at Mill Valley estates. On bus route. Available Jan 1st call 546-7959.

MALE WANTED FOR ONE BEDROOM in two bedroom apt. Bus route $250 Lee 545-3537 665-7373.

LARGE BEDROOM AVAILABLE in New 3 bedroom house. Just 8 miles to UMass in beautiful tow n of Montague. $230/month plus utilities. Large yard, garage...what a deal! Call Kateri or Bethann after 5:00 at 367-2203.

SINGLE ROOM AVAILABLE in condo nonsmoking on bus route $215ᵃ Joy 253-9223.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED to share room in Southwood apt. Starting Jan 1 $165 month. Please call 253-9918 leave message.

MALE ROOMMATE WANTED. January and spring. Beautiful condo. Downtown Amherst. Call 549-8150.

TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES wanted for So ND Townehouse new rugs nice place on bus route start Jan 1 call 253-2566 anytime leave message.

2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for lg room in apt in town $200ᵃ 549-1677.

FEMALE NONSMOKER BEGINS Jan 1 175ᵃ bus stops at pat. 2 miles from campus. Leave message.

FEMALE NONSMOKER ROOMMATE to share bedroom, avail Jan 1 200 + util. Puffton 549-7464.

LOOKING FOR 3-4 FEMALES to take over lease January 549-1662.

ONE FEMALE ROOMMATE FOR SPRING SEMESTER to share MILL VALLEY ESTATE APT.
*On bus route
*cheap
*new apt
*nice roommates
Call now! 256-6740.

ROOM AVAILABLE IN NEW CONDO starting Jan. 1. Female grad student prefered 253-3107 or 545-4675.

SERVICES

VEGETARIANS IN NORTHEAST: I'll cook for you next semester 4x week 546-1003.

LEGAL QUESTIONS? The leagal services center offe4rs free legal assistance to fee-paying students. Contact us at 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

A $100 SAVINGS BOND IS YOURS if you don't qualify for financial aid using our service! Details, write: Financial Aid, Box 122, St. Cloud, MN 56302.

PIONEER RESUME. Open everyday. Professional, fast, inexpensive. 4 year disk storage. 665-8873.

TO SUBLET

TRAVEL

NASSAU SPRING BREAK '90 as low as $339 Colpitts world Travel Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235.

LOWEST PRICE ON SPRING BREAK Cancun From 385, Bahamas 334, Bermuda Jamaica and Rio too. From budget to luxury $60 dep by 12-15 saves you $30. Lay away plan availalbe. Dwayne 665-4916.

CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED! $60 cash reserves your place in Jamaica, Cancun, Bahamas pay rest with credit! Lowest prices. Josee 253-9112.

BAHAMAS - Nassau, last chance, organizeing small group for spring break best prices I could find Peter 6-8643.

LOWEST PRICES GUARANTEED Cancun, Bahamas, Bermuda, Jamaica spring break '90 Call beth or Sue 253-2321.

WE BEAT THE COMPETITION BY $30-70 on trips to Jamaica and Montego Bay. Great deals also on Bahamas and Nassau. Save $25 if booked before 1-15-90. Michelle 546-7653.

UNDER 21? NO PROBLEM! Spring Break in Cancun, Nassau, Jamaica! Only $75 deposit by Dec 12th. (Daytona packages too!) Starting from $248. Karen 256-4659.

SKIERS WANTED. For trip to Killington Vt. on January 7-12. Call Scott for details. 546-9455.

SPRING BREAK 90' Jamaica, Acapulco, Cancun, Daytona...experienced sales rep, dependable travel service. $25 off before Jan 1 Mary & Kaern 549-8166.

CANCUN FOR SPRING BREAK 8 days 7 night of parties people sun and no drinking age. Starting at $359 Call Chris or Amy 549-0532.

TYPING

ACCURATE PROFESSIONAL TYPING. Spelling corrected. Campus pickup. Gloria, 323-5140.

FAST INEXPENSIVE TYPING spell check $1.75/pg Call Ashley at 546-6756.

CASES, PAPERS, THESES, ON-CAMPUS, affordable, grammar reviewed, dependable, experienced 584-7924, Nancy.

RESUMES AND PAPERS typed professionally: laserprinting, type setting, carolyn ant wordsmith 253-4564.

TYPING, TAPE TRANSCRIPTION. Fast, accurate. 253-WORD.

WANTED TO RENT

NONSMOKIING FEMALE WANTED TO SHARE Brandywine apt - furnished, cable, call waiting, bus route. $185/mo heat hot water incl. Avail spring 549-6075.

ROOMS/HOUSING NEEDED for January. Contact SBMC 256-8615 9am-5pm.

FEMALE NONSMOKER LOOKING TO RENT single room in Amherst starting Jan 1 Leave message 253-5496.

C. McRosebud
rox yer but
-turf from NJ

SPORTS

Minutemen look for win against Yale at Cage

By GEORGE AUSTIN
Collegian Staff

When last we left the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team, the Minutemen were sneaking off the floor following an embarrassing loss to Lowell at the Curry Hicks Cage.

But UMass coach John Calipari and company were hiding out in the backstreets of Boston and along the way, jumped Boston University in a back alley.

Sophomore guard Jim McCoy pulled out his knife, sticking the Terriers in 32 different places. Junior off guard Rafer Giles pulled out his revolver, the long range sniper collecting 17 points, including two three-pointers.

Meanwhile, senior point guard Cary Herer was loading the bullets, collecting five assists in his first start of his collegiate career.

The Minutemen were a gang of bad dudes Saturday night on the road, unlike a week ago when they played more like a bunch of panzies in their own home. This time, Calipari hopes to garner the same crowd support that "Freddy" gets in the movies.

"I really appreciated the fans last game," Calipari said. "Because they sat through something that was as ugly as I've ever seen with any team I've ever been associated with."

Calipari has been with some handsome teams. Teams such as Kansas and Pittsburgh which could win games, even with a lackluster performance. UMass is not quite on that level yet.

"When good teams play bad they can win against bad or mediocre teams," Calipari said. "We're not a good team yet so when we play bad we're going to lose every single time."

BU was a good team, though the Terriers are 1-3 at the present moment. But Mike Jarvis' crew stayed almost step for step with defending national champion Michigan as Rumeal Robinson beat his mentor by just eight points last week.

The UMass defense, however, swallowed up the Terriers in their own arena after Calipari made a few minor adjustments from the Lowell game. And that was despite the fact that forwards Tony Barbee fouled out with 11:56 left and Harper Williams with 8:36 remaining in the game.

"We did some different things [in the BU game]," Calipari said. "Against Lowell, we played all man. Against BU, we played a little zone press."

But the offense also needs a little refining. Calipari has had to deal with losing his starting point guard (Anton Brown) for six weeks. Brown's replacements did the job in the BU game (his first absence). Herer, pushed the ball up the floor the whole game and Chris Bailey provided some quality minutes off the bench when Herer needed a breather.

"Cary Herer and Chris Bailey have done pretty good," Calipari said.

It was Herer's three-point play with 8:36 remaining that really drove the nail in the coffin on Sunday.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14

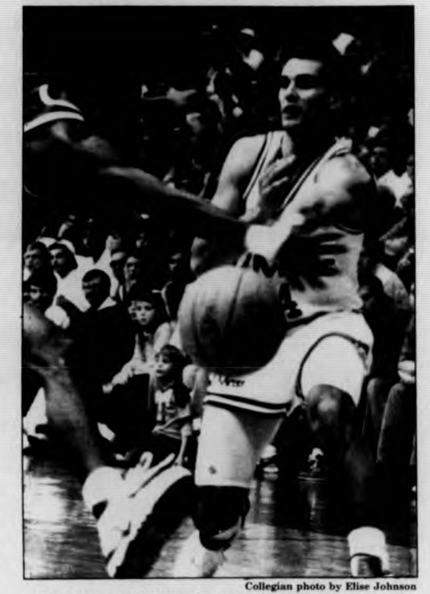
UM signs two more

The University of Massachusetts men's basketball team has signed two more recruits for the 1990-91 season, head coach John Calipari announced yesterday.

Mike Williams, a 6-foot-3-inch guard from Hartford, and Ted Cottrel, a 6-foot-9-inch frontcourt player from Annapolis, Md. signed national letters of intent on Nov. 15.

Williams was a high honorable mention All-America by Street & Smith magazine at Weaver HS, where he averaged 30 points, 6.5 rebounds and 7.5 assists last year. Williams was also a first team All-State player and a first team New Haven Register selection.

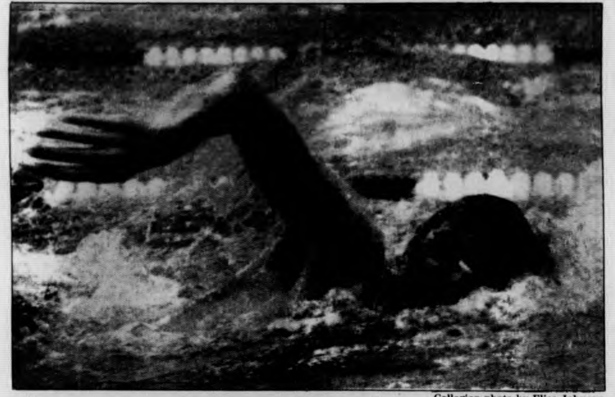
Cottrel, a second team All-County player, averaged 10.2 points, 10.4 rebounds and 2.6 blocks at Annapolis Senior HS last season.



Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

Senior guard Cary Herer slips a pass past the outstretched hands of a defender on the baseline in a 70-69 loss to the University of Lowell last Tuesday night.

Men's swimming to face tough foe in Brown



Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

Freshman Sean Clark comes up for air during the men's swimming meet against Tufts University last Wednesday.

By C.J. ABATI
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's swimming team soundly thrashed Springfield College last Saturday. Let's hope that the momentum will carry over to tomorrow night as the Minutemen travel to Providence to take on Brown University.

The Bruins are one of the weaker teams in the Ivy League, and are still looking for their first win. But that doesn't really mean anything. Unlike football, in swimming, the Ivy League is one of the strongest leagues in the nation.

Under the leadership of Ed Reed, Brown swam to a 4-6 record last season, and have lost to Dartmouth, Harvard, and Princeton so far. Those three teams comprise the toughest portion of the league. Just because the Bruins are 0-3, that doesn't mean that UMass will have a cake walk — it should be a close match.

"They're the next level above us," said UMass head coach Russ Yarworth. "We're hoping to go down there and do some damage."

Despite the lack of competition in the last few meets, the Minutemen have not been taking an easy ride. They have been preparing for this meet since the last week because Brown is the biggest date on the UMass schedule.

"We're really psyched for these guys," Yarworth said. "We really have to swim well to beat these guys, and that's what I'm planning on. It should be a real barn burner."

Two of the top swimmers for the Bruins are senior co-captains Gary Wing and John Loveless. Wing is a freestyler and Loveless swims the breaststroke.

"They're a couple of real studs," Yarworth said. "We'll be hard put to match these guys."

In order to win in Providence, the Minutemen are going to have to take the distance events and some of the shorter sprints. The team is going to have to go all out to win this one.

"We need a strong performance from everyone," said Yarworth. "There can't be any letdowns, we just can't afford it."

Minutewomen notebook

Defense and bench depth keys for UMass

By JOHN STEVEN MARPLE
Collegian Staff

St. Joseph's University's Dale Hodges was last season's Atlantic 10 Player-of-the-Year. This year she leads the conference in scoring (31.6 points per game), and entered Monday night's game as the leading rebounder (12.5) as well. Because of such extreme numbers it is expected that Hodges will be named an All-American at the end of the season.

UMass coach Kathy Hewelt is certainly riding the Hodges' All-American band wagon.

"She's gotta be an All-American." Hewelt said. "She's just a phenomenal player."

What exactly makes Hodges such a special player?

"She can shoot the jumper. She's incredibly quick . . . rebounds very well. She just goes right by people," said Hewelt.

As one might expect, St Joseph's coach Jim Foster has built his offense around the 6-foot-1 senior from Trenton, New Jersey.

"They isolate her one-on-one a lot," said Hewelt, "which makes it hard to double [on her]. She's working inside and the other four players are standing outside the three-point line."

To get a grasp on how impressive it is to score 41 points in a single game consider this: In two games this year the Minutewomen as a team have come up with point totals of 46 (against Boston University) and 49 (against Hartford). In 31 minutes of action Monday night Hodges almost topped those totals all by herself.

Keys to Victory Department: In garnering their first win last Saturday against Hartford (49-47) the Minutewomen discovered two things that had been lacking in the previous two games.

Defense and a bench.

After giving up an average of 72 points a game and allowing Vermont and BU to shoot 41 percent from the floor, UMass got down and dirty on the defensive end against Hartford. As if giving up only 47 points weren't impressive enough, the Minutewomen dogged the Lady Hawks into shooting an atrocious field goal percentage of 21 percent in the second half, 36 for the game.

More proof? UMass gave freshman Gloria Nevarez a spot start, for the sole purpose of sicking her on fellow freshman and leading scorer for Hartford, Maura Rodgers. Averaging 16 points a game, Nevarez and UMass held her to two points on just six shots.

"We had a tremendous effort defensively," said Hewelt.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14

Women's basketball loses big to St. Joe's

By JOHN STEVEN MARPLE
Collegian Staff

The day may come when the University of Massachusetts women's basketball team will contend for the Atlantic 10 championship. But Monday night's contest against St. Joseph's showed the Minutewomen are not yet ready reach that plateau. To do so they must have a franchise player. A player such as Dale Hodges.

Hodges, the Atlantic 10 Player-of-the-Year last season, scored a St. Joe's school-record 41 points in leading the Hawks (2-1 overall, 1-0 in the A-10) past UMass (1-3, 0-1) 89-59 at Temple University's McGonigle Hall Monday night. She broke Carole Polachek's 1983 record of 36 points.

Despite the final numbers UMass made it a close game for much of the first half and actually led for a while. They came out and scored the first six points of the game and led 14-10 when St. Joseph's called a timeout.

The Minutewomen were never able to cut the lead in the second half and were outscored 42-29 in the half.

NEWS

SGA irked by Student Trustee Eric Nakajima's support of Chancellor Duffey. Page 3.

EDITORIAL

Columnist Jim Clark laments missing his shot at the Big Leagues. Page 4.

THIS WEEKEND

Don't cry for her, Massachusetts; Evita is previewed in This Weekend.

THURSDAY

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1989

COLLEGIAN

VOLUME CXXIII LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 64

Legislators angered by state layoff lag

By KEVIN GALVIN
The Associated Press

The Dukakis administration yesterday defended its efforts to pare government as some lawmakers expressed dismay over the number of state employees that have been laid off.

A growing perception that the administration hasn't significantly reduced spending to deal with an estimated $825 million budget deficit has prevented the Legislature from reaching a consensus on new revenues.

The House yesterday voted 150 to one in approval of a resolution to help lawmakers get a better handle on the deficit. The resolution asks the governor to appoint a special commission to study state tax-collection projections.

Administration officials said they are confident 5,000 jobs will be eliminated before the end of January, but news that less than 500 state employees have been laid off since July angered legislators.

"It just confirms people's worst feelings about state government's efficiency — that we're lying," said Rep. Frank Hynes, D-Marshfield.

Aides to Gov. Dukakis maintained that most cabinet secretaries had moved ahead with staff reductions, but legislative and administration sources said it was clear layoffs have lagged.

The governor and Lashman promised last summer to eliminate 5,000 jobs from July 1988 levels before Jan. 31, 1990.

But administration officials said about 3,000 state positions have been eliminated since July 1988 — 2,700 through attrition and 371 by layoffs.

Several hundred layoffs are expected in the next few weeks - including 700 in Human Services. But the layoffs come too late in fiscal 1990, which is half over, to maximize savings.

Lashman defended the administration's timetable for cuts, saying notification periods are required both by civil service regulations and collective bargaining agreements.

"It takes a lot of time to do the layoffs," Lashman said.

As late as Tuesday morning, legislators were told that the 2,700 state jobs had been eliminated "the bulk through forcible reductions," Hynes said.

Dukakis — who asserted Sunday that 4,000 jobs have been eliminated in the past year — learned Tuesday of the actual reudction figures and "read the riot act" to his cabinet secretaries, according to spokeswoman Mindy Lubber.

Administration and Finance Secretary L. Edward Lashman said 1,200 employees will be laid off and 3,800 jobs will be eliminated through attrition by Jan. 31. "We will have our target," he said.

Rep. Jim Brett, D-Boston, urged the governor to provide lawmakers with a list of who's been laid off, what their job title was and how much they earned.

"I think the governor has to show the pink slips," he said. Then the public may be more amiable to new taxes to close the spending gap, Brett said.

Emerging from a meeting with the governor, Human Services Secretary Philip Johnston said he had already sent notices to 285 employees at Rutland State Hospital that the facility will be closed and they are out of work.

Another 421 pink slips are to go out Friday, Johnston said. The layoffs represent a 20 percent reduction in the agency's administrative staff.

"That's where the cuts are targeted, but there are some direct care people being cut too," Johnston said.

Despite the new questions Wednesday and last week's failure of a $1.2 billion revenue package, State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane said he still planned to issue bonds later in the month.

Crane said that he planned to issue about a $200 million long-term bond for capital projects next week and later move ahead with short-term notes to raise money for local aid.

After his meeting with Dukakis, Crane said he was surprised by the small number of layoffs, but that he believed the governor would meet the goal of 5,000.

He also said he expected the Senate to complete action on a multi-million savings package by the end of next week and hoped to see some new tax revenue by Christmas. The state's bond rating is tied for worst state in the nation with Lousiana.

"There's always that concern and that's why we're hopeful we can get that tax proposal next week," Crane said.

Associated Press Writer Daniel Beegan contributed to this story.

Collegian photo by Dondi Ahearn

LOOKING BACK — A ramshackle barn in Leverett is encompassed by fog and the skeletons of trees.

Hispanic research institute opens

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff
and The Associated Press

Professors at the University of Massachusetts yesterday lauded the opening of a new research institute at UMass/Boston to study the Hispanic population, the state's fastest growing and most socially depressed community.

The Institute for Latino Community Development and Public Policy is the first of its kind in Massachusetts, said officials at UMass/Boston.

Donald Proulx, chairman of the Latin American Studies Department at UMass, said: "It sounds like a great idea to me." "I think it's ideal for the Boston community, because they have a larger contingent of Hispanics."

However, he added, "If [a center was] present on this campus, we could probably do as good a job."

Juan C. Zamora, chairman of the UMass Spanish and Portuguese Department, said he agreed that the center is ideal for UMass/Boston.

"Here we would have to go to Springfield or Holyoke, because [UMass/Amherst] is such a small community," he said. Community leaders said Hispanics have the worst existence of any group in the Commonwealth, ranking last in employment, education, health, housing and income.

"Despite some of the gains we have made in the last few years, the Hispanic community is still at the bottom of the social and economic pyramid," said Luis Prado, head of La Alianza Hispana, the largest community agency in Boston serving Hispanics.

But their growth rate will make them the state's future workforce, and therefore,

CONTINUED ON PAGE 10

Senate denounces porn

Students call for ban on three magazines

By LISA SHAPIRO
Collegian Staff

In a legislative session that pitted First Amendment advocates against anti-pornography proponents, the Undergraduate Student Senate last night ruled by a one-vote margin to call for a campuswide ban on Penthouse, Playboy and Playgirl magazines.

The senate, which voted 31 to 30 with four abstentions in favor of the ban, engaged in heated debate for more than three hours before deciding to call upon the Board of Governors, the director of the Campus Center and the manager of the University Store to remove the magazines from the Campus Center.

Sen. Margaret Manger, (Commuters), one of the drafters of the motion, said pornography has been linked to "increased incidents of sexual harassment and violence against women."

"Pornography is not healthy and it hurts people. Allowing it does not take an active role in fighting oppression," she said. "There is no sacred right to have everything presented. The democratic decision is within our power to remove it."

The ban on the sale of the three magazines from the Campus Center was met with strong opposition from supporters of First Amendment rights.

Sen. Gretchen White, (Cance), said: "As I woman, I am offended by pornography, but as an American I am offended by this [ban].

"We can't delve into a person's moral standards or personal motivations. By doing so we are setting precedent for further restrictions of additional signs of expression," White said.

Education can solve the problem of violence on campus, but censorship cannot, White said.

Paul DelGallo, (Commuters), said opinion and literature must be available at an institute of higher education. "[This is the] banning of a book by a university. Freedom of speech hurts sometimes, but there are Constitutional rights," DelGallo said.

However, several senators contended that freedom of the press is not at risk because no one is limiting the right to print or publish this material.

Sabrini Foresi, (Grayson), said it is not consistent for the University to sell pornography for profit yet simultaneously encourage students to promote civility on campus.

"I believe our response as the government of the student body is to make sure the University is consistent on how the University stands," she said.

UMass mourns professor's death

Seth Kreisberg, 33, an assistant professor of social studies education and one of the founders of the Secondary Teacher Education Program Advising Office for education majors died suddenly yesterday after he was rushed by ambulance to Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton.

An autopsy to determine the cause of death has been performed by the Hampden County Medical Examiner's Office in Springfield, but results are incomplete at this time.

Kreisberg, who lived at 72 Pine Grove Road in Amherst, has been a faculty member at the University of Massachusetts for the past two and a half years.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

COLLEGIAN

New England's largest college daily newspaper. Daily circulation: 21,000. Founded in 1870. Published every weekday during the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts. 113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA. 01003. For more information call (413) 545-3500.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

EDITOR IN CHIEF	DAVID R. MARK
MANAGING EDITOR	COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL EDITOR	MEREDITH O'BRIEN
BUSINESS MANAGER	ROBERT J. BIKASH
PRODUCTION MANAGER	TERRY STARMER

BOARD OF EDITORS

MANAGING	COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL	MEREDITH O'BRIEN
NEWS	SARAH DEMASTER NATHAN KRYSTALL
SPORTS	JIM CLARK GEORGE AUSTIN
ARTS	AL KAUFMAN W.J. GEORGIADES
PHOTOGRAPHY	DONDI AHEARN
WOMEN'S ISSUES	DANIELLE BIONDA KATERI WALSH
MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS	SCOTT C. HILL

BUSINESS BOARD

MANAGER	ROBERT J. BIKASH
ADVERTISING	JENNIFER RONAN
FINANCE	MARTINA RIOS
CIRCULATION	CHRIS BAKER
SUBSCRIPTIONS	JOYA FARETRA

GRAPHICS BOARD

MANAGER	TERRY STARMER
AD MANAGER	RORY EVANS
SUPERVISORS	MIKE WESTER FLORENCIO TERRA CHRISTINE ASHE TRICIA HANLEY

SUPPORT STAFF

BUSINESS	BRIAN HARRINGTON MAUREEN MAJEROWSKI LORI BLACK
GRAPHICS	ANDREA BELANGER

TODAY'S STAFF

NIGHT EDITOR	MARIA SACCHETTI
COPY EDITOR	KIM FRISINO
LAYOUT TECHNICIAN	FLORENCIO TERRA
PHOTOGRAPHY TECHNICIAN	RICHARD DUCREE
PRODUCTION SUPERVISOR	TERRY STARMER
PRODUCTION	SUSAN KENT PAUL SPECHT MARGARET TRUDELL MIKE SCOTT NICOLE DUMAS ERIC SCHLOSSBERG AL KAUFMAN CHRISTINE ASHE MIKE WESTER

Lesbian Bisexual Gay Forum

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1989

Film — The Program for Lesbian, Bisexual and Gay Concerns will show "I've Heard the Mermaids Singing," at 7 p.m. in Campus Center room 804-08. The movie is free and all are welcome to attend.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1989

Coffee Social — The Lesbian, Bisexual and Gay Alliance will sponsor a coffee social from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Duke's Room of the Student Union Building. Free refreshments will be served and all are welcome.

Grad Social — The Graduate Student Group will meet from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Top of the Campus restaurant.

Grad Potluck — The Graduate Student Group will have a potluck dinner at 7 p.m. For more information, call 545-4824.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1989

Lesbian Homeshow — The 10th annual Lesbian Homeshow and crafts fair will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Northampton Center for the Arts.

Dance — The LBGA will sponsor a dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Blue Wall Cafe. A $3 donation is requested. All are welcome.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1989

Music — The Flirtations, an all-male gay acapella singing group, will perform at an AIDS benefit with proceeds going to Dignilife. There are two shows at 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. at the Iron Horse Music Hall, 20 Center Street, Northampton.

Tickets prices are $10 and $20. For tickets and information, call 584-0610.

For Your Information

For Your Information is a calendar listing of local announcements and upcoming events published daily by the Collegian as a public service. All submissions must be typed. We reserve the right to edit for space. Information for Women's Forum and the Lesbian, Bisexual and Gay Forum which runs in this space on Tuesdays and Thursdays respectively, must be submitted to the News desk at least one full day beforehand.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Auditions — The UMass Department of Theater will be holding auditions next week for the March production, "Imaginary Invalid," by Moliere, directed by David Watson.

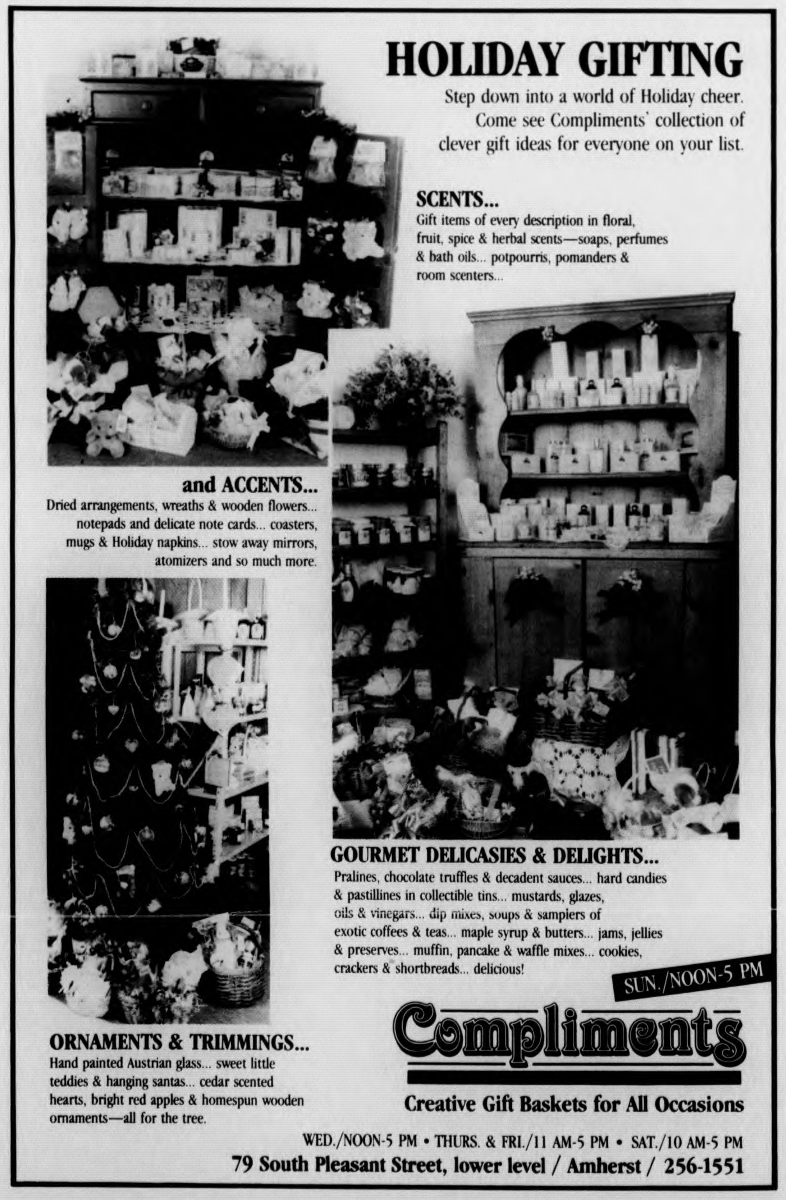
Auditions will be held Monday, Dec. 11 and Tuesday, Dec. 12, from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m., and Wednesday, Dec. 13, from 8:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. in room 204 of the Fine Arts Center.

Callbacks will be held Thursday, Dec. 14, from 8:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. in FAC room 204.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1989

Massage — Introduction to massage techniques to relieve tension and tips for stress management will begin noon in room 204 in Wilder Hall. The program will be facilitated by Joanne Totino, a certified massage therapist and accupressurist.

Register by calling the Everywoman's Center at 545-0883. Workshop is limited to the first 12 women who register.



HOLIDAY GIFTING

Step down into a world of Holiday cheer.
Come see Compliments' collection of clever gift ideas for everyone on your list.

SCENTS...
Gift items of every description in floral, fruit, spice & herbal scents—soaps, perfumes & bath oils... potpourris, pomanders & room scenters...

and ACCENTS...
Dried arrangements, wreaths & wooden flowers... notepads and delicate note cards... coasters, mugs & Holiday napkins... stow away mirrors, atomizers and so much more.

GOURMET DELICASIES & DELIGHTS...
Pralines, chocolate truffles & decadent sauces... hard candies & pastillines in collectible tins... mustards, glazes, oils & vinegars... dip mixes, soups & samplers of exotic coffees & teas... maple syrup & butters... jams, jellies & preserves... muffin, pancake & waffle mixes... cookies, crackers & shortbreads... delicious!

ORNAMENTS & TRIMMINGS...
Hand painted Austrian glass... sweet little teddies & hanging santas... cedar scented hearts, bright red apples & homespun wooden ornaments—all for the tree.

SUN./NOON-5 PM

Compliments

Creative Gift Baskets for All Occasions

WED./NOON-5 PM • THURS. & FRI./11 AM-5 PM • SAT./10 AM-5 PM
79 South Pleasant Street, lower level / Amherst / 256-1551

LOCAL

Nakajima lauds Duffey; angers student leaders

By COSMO MACERO JR.
Collegian Staff

Student Trustee Eric Nakajima said yesterday the University of Massachusetts community believes in Chancellor Duffey's leadership, but several members of the Student Government Association think Nakajima was too quick with his words.

The UMass Board of Trustees yesterday approved a resolution urging Chancellor Duffey to remain as top administrator at the University.

Duffey is one of five final candidates for the position of president at the University of Delaware. The Chancellor visited the Newark campus last month, where he was interviewed by Delaware administrators and student organizations.

Trustee Michael T. Foley last night led the Board in praising Duffey's leadership. He said the Chancellor has helped bring a great degree of prestige to the entire UMass system and added that he hoped the Board's plea would have a positive influence on Duffey's decision.

"Even with the bleak fiscal picture the state higher education system is facing, Joe Duffey continues to bring credibility and prestige to the University," Foley said.

The chairman of the Board, Gordon Oakes, said at the meeting yesterday: "Everyone I've talked to has expressed disbelief, shock and horror" at the prospect that Duffey may leave.

According to a report from the UMass News Bureau, Nakajima told the Board yesterday that, "the University wholeheartedly believes in the leadership of Chancellor Duffey."

Nakajima, who was still in Boston at press time, could not be reached for further comment.

Several undergraduate student senators expressed dismay at Nakajima's statement, claiming it was not representative of the student body.

Sen. Binky Feldman, (Commuters), said last night Nakajima has never presented the issue to the senate.

"I don't know who Eric is speaking for," she said. "He's not speaking for the University."

Many students have expressed concern that Chancellor Duffey is bailing out on the University in its most dire time of need. Duffey was in Delaware for two days during the student strike — a time when many thought he should not have been away on vacation.

"The University wholeheartedly believes in his [Duffey] lack of leadership," said Tracy Davis, SGA president.

Sen. Paul Del Gallo, (Commuters), said most students at the University are not aware of what Chancellor Duffey does, and Nakajima should consider that.

"I think he [Nakajima] spoke on his own accord," he said. "It was probably just a case of him being enthusiastic, but I don't think it was the right thing to say."

"I'd support Joe Duffey in comparison to an alternative of Provost O'Brien," said Commuter Senator Brian James Crawford. "But 'wholeheartedly' is a strong word."

Collegian photo by John Woo

OLD CHAPEL ROCK — Todd Morrison, a senior, demonstrates his musical ability at the Old Chapel recently.

Counselors help LBG community

By BEN EDER
Collegian Correspondent

For many members of the lesbian, bisexual and gay community, the process of "coming out," or coming to terms with one's sexuality and sharing it with others, is a painful and isolating experience.

For the past 12 years, student counselors in the Lesbian, Bisexual and Gay Counseling Collective have been helping community members, their families and friends deal with this process as well as with everyday prejudices and harassment.

Student Tone Nunes, a counselor for the Collective, said: "The best way to work through these issues is by talking to others who have had similar experiences, and the Counseling Collective is the most comfortable place to do this."

The Collective became a Registered Student Organization in 1984 after operating for seven years as a branch of the "People's Gay Alliance," which is now the Lesbian, Bisexual and Gay Alliance.

Felice Yeskel, director of the Program for Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Concerns, helps coordinate the training of the student counselors. She said the role of the peer counselor is one of "support and empathy."

"I'm extremely impressed with the dedication, caring and commitment demonstrated by the students who give time and energy serving as counselors," Yeskel said.

The Collective offers confidential counseling sessions on a walk-in basis Monday through Friday. Also offered is a confidential rap group meeting on Wednesdays at 8 p.m. in room 406G of the Student Union Building.

Prof issues warning on nutrition

By DAVID ALLEN FORRESTER
Collegian Correspondent

Supermarket shelves are full of food products that claim to be low in sodium, high in calcium, high in fiber, or just plain good for you.

However, Frederick J. Francis, professor of Food Science at the University of Massachusetts said people must be aware that some of these claims could be false or misleading.

"I have learned by now that if it sounds too good to be true, it isn't true," Francis said in a recent interview.

Francis alleged that several food and drug manufacturers have attempted to highlight the health benefits accompanying their products because the benefits will draw more consumers, he said.

He also claimed that several large food manufacturing companies also are trying to cash in on the cholesterol-lowering craze sweeping the United States.

The newest wrinkle in people's attempts to lower their cholesterol level is Psyllium, a tasteless food fiber from India that some

CONTINUED ON PAGE 10

Author lectures on feminism

By DANIELLE DOWLING
Collegian Staff

There was once an episode of St. Elsewhere that dealt with the effects of a miscarriage on a married couple. The husband, not knowing what it was like to experience life growing from within him, could not understand his wife's grief.

This lack of communication between the couple left the wife with no outlet in which she could release her feelings until she was able to talk with someone who had shared her experience.

This was an example used by Dr. Louise Levesque-Lopman, a sociologist, author and professor, in an attempt to explain how difficult it is for men to understand the female experience.

Levesque-Lopman spoke yesterday to a handful of students and faculty members in Thompson Hall on the theories of feminism and sociology as stated in her book: "Claiming Reality: Phenomenology and Women's Experience." The gathering was sponsored by the Philosophy, Women's Studies, and Social Thought and Political Economy departments.

She was introduced to the group by her daughter, Lisa, a UMass student and a STPEC major. Levesque-Lopman's interest in sociology started when she was a secretary in the sociology department at Brandeis

CONTINUED ON PAGE 10

Speaker describes life of Salvadoran refugees

By JULIE LIVINGSTONE
Collegian Staff

Bob Perillo remembers watching El Salvadoran refugees take over a city dump to create a home for themselves after being driven from their villages in the war-torn nation.

He recalled the passionate unity with which displaced citizens bonded together and organized temporary shelters, two of which were called "April 21" and "October 27" in commemoration of the days the refugees arrived at their "new homes."

Perillo is a member of the Interfaith Office on Accompaniment based in Washington D.C., which helps refugees to re-establish themselves. He recently returned from El Salvador with accounts and slides of refugee life, which he presented last night to a small group in the Campus Center.

"We helped these displaced persons rebuild homes and clinics destroyed by the fighting," Perillo said. "Sixty percent of the population there has no access to clean water.

"Those driven from their homes must live somewhere, so many of them retreat to the Honduran border," he added. "Many of the children in the camps were born there and have known nothing else."

Perillo said he has witnessed El Salvadoran army helicopters attacking villagers from above with machine-gun fire. He and his companions have collected spent mortar shells four inches in length and three inches in diameter fired at the people.

He blamed much of the nation's turmoil on the massive unemployment rate. "There is 60 percent unemployment in El Salvador and 20 percent over-employment," he said.

John Hannen, also a member of the Interfaith Office, accompanied Perillo on a delegation to a northeastern province of El Salvador in November.

Hannen said children in La Palma can be found painting visions of their lives on wood. The items crafted by the children were brightly-colored pictures of birds, houses, men, and women physically unharmed by the war.

But, as Perillo's slides showed, children are capable of crafting the death they see around them as well.

When children from a destroyed village were asked to draw pictures of the war, what they produced were sunlit mountains with shacks set on fire and men, women and horses lying dead.

■ professor

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

He was also involved with organizations including the Educators for Social Responsibility, which extends throughout New England, and the Peace Development Fund in Amherst.

Kreisberg was remembered yesterday for his strong commitment to "empowering" his colleagues and students through his organizations and advising program.

"He was such a vital person in our faculty," said Portia Elliott. "We are really devastated at the fact that such a young person has been taken from us."

— MARIA SACCHETTI

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted.

"Hitting" the big bucks

Next chance I get, I'm calling home.

I'm going to talk to my parents, and yell at them for letting me throw away my entire future when I was a kid.

Why, oh why, Mom and Dad, did you ever allow me to waste all that time in front of the television, watching Sesame Street or Mister Rogers' Neighborhood? Or how about all those countless hours tossed in the garbage when I was reading Dr. Seuss books?

Jim Clark

And why did you have to build that sandbox in the back yard so I could play with my Matchbox cars? Why couldn't you have had the foresight then?

Why, when I told you at age four that I wanted to drive a garbage truck when I grew up, didn't you stand me in a corner for a few hours? And then, when I had finally come to my senses, show me the light?

Why didn't you force me to become a baseball player?

Not only that. Why couldn't I be naturally left-handed, like my older brother? Baseball teams love lefties, you know. Right-handers grow on trees. Good southpaws are going the way of the apteryx and the dinosaur.

Even as life went on, you bought me my first baseball glove, and I began playing Little League at age eight, then Babe Ruth and all the way up to, finally, varsity high school ball. Fine, but you made me hit the books, too. Why couldn't you have just let me blow off that boring math homework, so I could go outside and pitch against the garage?

Life would be so easy right now if I could be a professional baseball player. Work from February to October. Maybe do a little running or weight lifting the other four months. Bring home wads of cash. Maybe afford to put my kids through a state university.

Instead, I'm just a writer. With any luck, I'll get out of this place in May, send out a few million copies of my resume, and hope to hook on to some petty job at a newspaper. Make, oh, hopefully $18,000 to $20,000 a year.

But count on this. I definitely won't be the highest-paid UMass alum. Not . . . even . . . close, bud.

No, that honor goes to a guy named Jeff Reardon, who played baseball here for four years back in the mid-70s. After his senior year, Reardon signed with the New York Mets, and has since gone on to become one of the best relief pitchers in the game.

Yesterday, Reardon signed with the Boston Red Sox — for $6.8 million over three years.

$6.8 million. Oy. Sure beats $20,000.

The point being, it sure is sad that guys with a .220 batting average can make over a million a year. Let's stick that success rate into the real world for a bit.

A guy works for Ford, and seven out of 10 Pintos he builds blow up a week later. Still a .300 average, right. Big bucks for him, right?

Or if I miss deadline more than half the time, and fill my prose with libelous statements. But just a few. I'll be guaranteed fame, fortune, and a mansion in Newport.

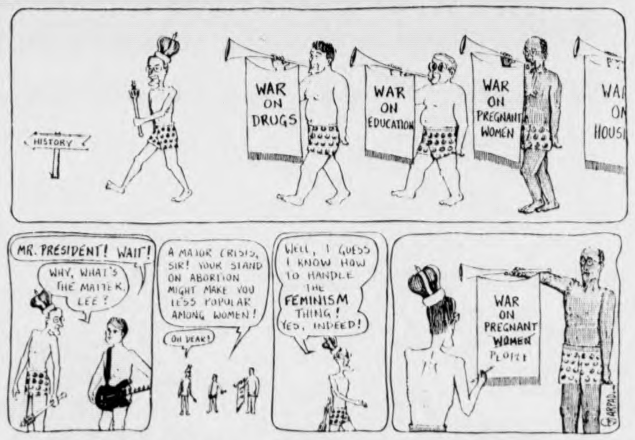
OK, maybe the analogy is a tad stale. In the competitive world of sports, no one is ever going to be perfect. Wayne Gretzky is as close as it comes. Or maybe Mike Tyson.

And not to rank on Reardon, because compared to some of these other heroes, he's worth $2.3 mill a year. But these guys are starting to make the salaries of our favorite state political folks — those wonderful people that Howie Carr hacks up every week — look like peanuts.

If they can make that kind of money, I think I deserve it, too. Hell, I work just as hard as some of these guys who never get off the bench. Hmm. A million smackers. That's roughly $1,466.28 for every word in this column.

In comparison, I think that's a pretty fair price.

Read Jim Clark every Thursday



HISTORY
WAR ON DRUGS
WAR ON EDUCATION
WAR ON PREGNANT WOMEN
WAR ON HOUSI
MR. PRESIDENT! WAIT!
WHY, WHAT'S THE MATTER, LEE?
A MAJOR CRISIS, SIR! YOUR STAND ON ABORTION MIGHT MAKE YOU LESS POPULAR AMONG WOMEN!
OH DEAR!
WELL, I GUESS I KNOW HOW TO HANDLE THE FEMINISM THING! YES, INDEED!
WAR ON PREGNANT ~~WOMEN~~ PEOPLE
ARPAD

Academic Affairs can help

Have you ever had a problem with a professor that you feel wrongly affected your grade? Have you ever left your advisor's office more confused than when you first entered? If you can answer yes to any of the above questions, and want to do something about it, the Academic Affairs Committee of the SGA can help.

Academic Affairs is an open committee of students within UMass academics that anyone can join. Its second floor office is in the Student Union. We are a direct channel to the administration.

Recently, we intervened on behalf of a student who believed a professor had a biased opinion of this student's marks. The professor regarded that particular student's grades as "suspicious" without reasonable justification. Academic Affairs members sat in with the student when the student approached the professor during office hours. We then met with that professor's superiors to resolve the difficulties of the situation. As a result of our intervention, the professor apologized to the student and a record of the incident was filed.

You need only express a grievance, and we will listen and help you in whatever way we can. Instead of complaining to your roommate about problems with UMass academics, tell us and we can do something about it.

Joe Coyne
Academic Affairs

Oppression affects all of us

Two people fall in love. They share everything together. They care for each other and feel a real bond which they have not felt with any other person.

Sounds like a typical couple, doesn't it? What if one person was White and the other person was non-White? Would it change anything because they were of different ethnicity?

Minu Sebastian

Most people would say times have changed and people are not as ignorant when it comes to issues of race, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, etc. But how much have the times really changed?

Many people claim to be open-minded and acceptant of difference, but when it comes to actual situations where people have to deal with difference, the reactions are narrow and "behind the times." Many people would say that society is to blame for such problems. Society is not ready to handle issues of difference.

When I hear such remarks, I can't help but cringe in frustration. The problem is not out in society, the problem is within us.

We are members of society! If anything is ever going to change, we have to deal with the problem within ourselves. We can't put off dealing with it by saying it is society's problem, it is our problem.

Sometimes when people hear of interracial marriages, I have heard comments such as "The people of my town couldn't handle it" or "I feel sorry for the children." These comments display apathy and ignorance of the real issue at hand.

By saying you feel sorry for a child from an interracial couple is putting the burden and blame on the child. Isolating the child only perpetrates the problem. We should feel embarrassed and ashamed that we live in a society where such oppression is still in existence.

Oppression affects all of us. Whatever the issue is, race, religion or sexual preference, we should all realize our responsibility to these groups. We should get over our own insecurities and indifference and do our part in changing the situation.

How can we just accept the injustice around us?

We can't just sit back and say "it's not my problem," because even if you are not a member of a particular "minority" group, you should feel threatened and scared. Someday it could be your particular affiliation that is being oppressed.

Oppression is wrong even in the subtlest forms. When people are stifled in any way, confusion, low-esteem and prejudice begin. As a result we all suffer.

Difference should be valued not repressed.

Individuals can make a difference. By recognizing and accepting that the problem exists in ourselves and "society" we can begin to make a change.

We are the future of society. By being responsible human beings we can help ourselves and future generations.

The imperfections of a society are not the burden of a few. As long as we allow oppression to exist, we stay oppressed ourselves.

It's time to stop the cycle.

Read Minu Sebastian every Thursday

Notes from the Campus Center basement

All week, I have had the distinct pleasure of reading the Arts editor's and associate's picks for the best of whatever for the 1980s. Well, not to be out done by a bunch of artsy-fartsy people who haven't seen the sun since September, here is my list of the best of the 1980s:

****

Best film is from my high school days, so it is a sentimental pick, it being The Breakfast Club. Now this wasn't any cinema masterpiece, but it was the first time any director took an honest look at how adults looked at teenagers, and how teenagers were forced by society to view themselves and their peers.

Honorable mentions go to The World According to Garp, Master Harold and The Boys, (an HBO cable movie), The Color Purple, and of course the save the whales flick Star Trek IV.

****

Best music group is 10,000 Maniacs. Natalie Merchant has such a soulful voice and In My Tribe, which is the best album of the 80s, was about so many of society's ills that I was blown away. "Cherry Tree" is the best song, it is about an illiterate woman, which reminds me of my grandmother who also never learned to read . . . and now I'm in college.

Honorable mentions go to REM for all their albums, Tracy Chapman, Billy Joel, Madonna for True Blue, and Barbra Streisand for her Broadway Album. (Keep an open mind, people!!!)

****

Best actor is simple for me — it has to be Matthew Broderick. His performance on stage and screen has been outstanding, he stared in Master Harold and The Boys, with two other actors who I unfortunately forget their names. The whole story happens in one room. These three actors comprise the cast of this amazing story of young White boy growing up in South Africa with two older Black men as friends. A must see.

Peter Leon

Honorable mentions go to Robin Williams for Garp and Dead Poet's Society, Michael J. Fox for Family Ties and Back To The Future, and Michael Keaton for Mr. Mom.

****

Best Actress is very hard because there wasn't one person who really stuck out, so I will just name the honorable mentions: Shirley MacLaine, Sissy Spacek, Cher, Olympia Dukakis. I guess there are just no Kate Hepburns of the 80s.

****

Best book is one I just read for David Lenson's Com-Lit class, Brave New World (plug intended). It is titled A Handmaid's Tale and is one of the really well written gripping novels of our times.

Honorable mentions go to Andrew Greeley, a Chicago Irish catholic priest who is convinced that God is a woman. He writes a series of mysteries starring Blackie Ryan, a priest who can find the murderer, while spreading Her word.

****

Now for my personal best.

Most important event was being paroled (graduating) from high school, Boston Latin fondly called Walpole State penitentiary extension.

Best event was my semester abroad in France. Nothing else can compare to saying "yeah, I went to London for the weekend." Gloat gloat.

Best thing going for me is my friends. 'Nuff said.

Best conversation I have ever had was with Big Phil McNamara in the Blue Wall, just after my father passed away. It really helped with that tough time. T.Y. Big Guy.

****

Thus 'til next week, UMass, thanks for being half of the last decade to me.

Read Peter Leon every Thursday

Justice involves caring and compassion for others

A society's sense of justice is based on its degree of compassion. If this is true then how just a people are we? We live in one of the most economically and politically powerful countries in the world. Yet, there is a disparaging difference between the haves and the have-nots in America.

The Reagan era has given rise to a generation of Young Urban Professionals. One of the distinctions of what makes one a "yuppie" is a self-centered, goal-orientated view of life. Now there is nothing wrong with wanting to be financially secure and to be as successful as one can be. The problem is that in the midst of that rise to the top, it is very easy to forget that a world of people exist outside one's myopic life.

The U.S. has a vast amount of economic resources, yet we have people starving in our own country. The homeless problem in the U.S. is appalling. Worse yet is our lack of compassion for these people. We label them drunks or bums, and in truth some are alcoholics, drug addicts and vagrants. Yet, so many others living on the streets are not.

Many factors have led to the increase of homeless people in America. Harsh economic realities have squeezed some so hard that they can no longer afford a place to live. Thousands of others have been released from mental facilities with no jobs, skills and a complete inability to cope with the outside world.

Many that do have homes are not in much better situations. Our ghettos in major urban centers are deplorable. We hear so many complaints now about welfare spending. The reality is, however, that the great majority of people receiving welfare are single mothers, the aged and the handicapped. Many of these people receive so little support that they can barely survive.

Robert S. Thompson

And what of our urban school systems? President Bush claims to be an education president, yet where are the real life, monetary commitments that are supposed to follow the drone of rhetoric?

As we move increasingly to the political right, let us look at what has happened to our social welfare programs. What about our aged? What about our children? What about the poor? We give major corporations tax breaks, the idea being that prosperity will "trickle down." Unfortunately, many people in America are so far down, that they never even get close to those last few drops.

Violent crime is increasing in this country, as is class and racial frustration. We see so much violence in the newspapers and on television. Have we all become immune and desensitized to it? Our justice system is littered with an outrageous backlog of criminal cases. Most cases are plea bargained because the courts simply cannot handle the load. Our prisons are overflowing, we cannot even send offenders to jail. Those who do go receive no rehabilitation.

Many have scoffed at the sixties, the period has been called a failure. In some ways, the goals and ideals did get clouded. But the ideas themselves were good ones, and for the most part, the caring and commitment were real. The hope and dedication of the Kennedy era was important. It was a time when it was fashionable to be committed to social causes. And you don't have to be a hippie or an "earthy crunchy," or even a hardcore liberal to care about people.

We live in what I consider to be one of the greatest countries in the world. It is a democratic nation — a nation of freedom. We strive for that elusive concept called justice. Yet justice involves caring and compassion. And that begins at an individual and personal level. After all, our institutions and political systems are made up of individuals. We should remember that the ideal of justice means justice for all people, it is not a selective term.

Robert S. Thompson is a UMass student

Rudolph's nose cannot outshine the menorah

Twas the night before Hanukkah, when all through the shull,
Not a Rabbi was happy, they were sick of the bull.
Manechevitz Concord Grape stirred in their guts,
Knowing that Christmas would soon kick their butts.

It doesn't really work does it? I tried for hours to come up with some neat Hanukkah poems, but I couldn't do it. They sounded like rip-offs of Christmas classics. I wrote one and added in parenthesis, "To be sung to the tune of Shma Yisrael," but it stunk. Let's face it, in American society, as far as popularity goes, Hanukkah takes a back seat to Christmas every time.

Ever since I was young, I was bombarded by Christmas. Growing up Jewish was more than just missing the parachute in last period gym class because I had to catch the Hebrew school bus. It all started with my teachers who chose me, a Star of David lost in a sea of crosses, to explain Hanukkah (and Passover and Purim and . . .). All I could say to my teasing classmates was to brag about the eight days of Hanukkah and how we got a present each day. Then they sang The Twelve Days of Christmas and I ran home bawling.

Commercialized Christmas has always been shoved down my throat. Take television for instance. I love those Christmas shows just as much as anyone. I cry when Frosty melts. I smile when Rudolph saves the day. I'm afraid of the Grinch. I just wish there were some cool Hanukkah shows, too. How about Mr. Magoo playing a stingy kvetch who hides all his gelt until the ghosts of Hanukkah (Elijah 1, 2, and 3) make him into a mensch. Or what about a Bob Hope goes to Israel Hanukkah Special? I'm sure Brooke Shields could learn some hymns while Loni Anderson lit the candles.

Josh Galitsky

Speaking of hymns, caroling was always a real downer. I know the words to every Christmas song (I play a mean Silent Night on the Fisher Price organ), but the only Hanukkah song I know is Dreidle, Dreidle, Dreidle. Everyone knows that dreidles don't spin in snow. Did you know that? I won't blame you if you didn't. It's just not advertised!

Probably the biggest commercial symbol of Christmas is Santa Claus. I was once asked about "Hanukkah Joe" who was supposedly equivalent to Kris Kringle, but I've never heard of him. I wonder what he'd be like. Maybe he'd have a long black beard and a yamulkuh. He'd carry a torah over his shoulder and he would fly in a plane rather than a sleigh. He'd be based in Florida instead of the North Pole and I doubt whether he'd drop down from the chimney. Would kids line the mall to get a picture with this guy?

Another symbol is the Christmas tree which is a tall, luxurious pine mixed and mingled with colorful decorations, glowing lights, and glistening tinsel. I once heard something about a Hanukkah bush, but it's probably at Hanukkah Joe's house and I haven't really heard about it since.

Christmas is everywhere. The greeting card stores are dripping with red and only if you go to the back can you find a tiny section of Hanukkah cards somewhere near the sand castle statues and the fake roses under glass. Luckily, you can still pick up the blue and white cardboard letters that spell out "Happy Chanukah." To this day, I still don't know the proper spelling of my holiday.

The only symbol of Hanukkah that everyone knows is the menorah. The menorah certainly is one cool little candelabra! I've seen some very chill menorahs in my day. All shapes and sizes, but the same kind of candles. The best I've seen is that eight-foot tall one on our own campus. That one doesn't even use candles.

I don't know what can be done to make Hanukkah more popular. It never lands at the same time, sometimes it's around Christmas, other years it seems like it falls in August. Maybe it's not that important to be popular after all. Maybe the meaning is what really matters. Well Merry X-Mas (is that correct?) and have a Happy Hanu...Chanu...Hannu...have a Happy Holiday season.

Read Josh Galitsky every Thursday

Letters to the Editor

We are a public university

Why has Provost Richard O'Brien initiated an investigation of the alleged "contract violations" of Professors Bowles, Brigham and Ferguson, following a spectacular week of campus-wide attention?

At best, this is a belated and ineffectual attempt to look decisive in the wake of equivocal conduct during the strike. At worst, it is an attempt to discredit collective resistance to the budget cuts.

Rather than taking a leadership role in the fight against fees and layoffs, the University administration groused and vacillated its way through the strike week, while continuing to make use of the ongoing fiscal crisis to advance its vision of a smaller, more expensive university.

Consider that the programs that have been targeted for the deepest cuts by Provost O'Brien — including University Without Walls, the Basic Math program, and Everywoman's Center — are precisely those which reach out to non-traditional and disadvantaged students. In other words, there has been a radical redefinition of the mission of the University: away from a public university which serves working and middle class people, towards a more exclusive and elite institution.

The administration's decision to persecute a few participants in the University-wide struggle against the budget cuts, rather than to encourage collective action to preserve public higher education, is distressing and disheartening.

This makes us suspicious of the administration's oft-stated commitment to higher stipends and better working conditions for graduate employees. It is increasingly apparent that we cannot rely on the benevolence of the powers-that-be to provide for us.

The strike demonstrated the value and potential of working together for common goals. The Graduate Employee Organization was proud to be a part of the struggles which culminated in the strike. We need to continue to stand together in opposition to the attack on recognition as a union which will stand up for the rights of graduate employees.

Cynthia Kaufman
Mike Parkhurst
G.E.O. Coordinating Committee

Business is being cut, too

I am writing to express my personal indignation and outrage at the actions and statements of Jonathan Leavitt in his calls for the resignation of Provost Richard O'Brien ("Provost criticized in meeting," Dec. 6).

This university is not becoming a corporate training ground. Leavitt speaks of cuts to labor studies, basic math, African-American studies, University Without Walls and Every Women's Center. He should also recognize that management, accounting and many other "corporate oriented" departments are being cut.

The fact is, we are all being hurt, and calling for a man to give up his job will not improve the situation. If anything, it will increase tensions between the administration and the student body.

I am also revolted at the notion of his attempts to turn this into a racial issue. It is a cheap ploy at raising passions. The racial situation on this campus is far from perfect, and having read about any racial incidents here, makes me wonder how much progress has really been made. But throwing around accusations that this school is racist is nothing more than fluff.

We, the students, faculty and especially administration, must come together and try to save our university. Calling for resignations and trying to draw racism battle lines will not help anyone.

Joseph L. MacDonough
Orchard Hill

UCC reporting inaccurate

I was dismayed with Anne Russ' article, "Child Care: No Cuts" (Nov. 29). The portion of the article focusing on the budget is full of omissions, and subsequently offers a misleading representation of the state of the University Child Care program.

The UCC program is actually in a state of confusion and frustration concerning its future. Vice Chancellor Dennis Madson and Provost Richard O'Brien are pushing to send out a referral for proposals (RFP) in order to gather bids from vendor day care (otherwise known as McDay Care).

While Russ paints a rosy picture of the UCC future, the teachers do not know if they will have jobs next year and the parents are worried that an educational pre-school will be turned into a babysitting service.

The teachers, understanding the state of financial affairs, have proposed large budget cuts despite union discouragement. However, it is not certain whether Madson or O'Brien will even read the proposal that they are sending out to the RFP.

It is not known whether the information in Russ' article is out of date, ignorant, or intentionally misleading. It is apparent to the individuals involved that Madson and O'Brien wish to make any UCC charges as quiet as possible, as evidenced by the lack of information communicated to the UCC staff concerning their own livelihoods.

I would encourage Russ and the Collegian to examine further the UCC program and report on the true state of affairs.

Jeff Ives
Department of Exercise Science

The truth about a culture

I'm psyched! Congrats to our lesbian, gay and bisexual community in this big step forward to freedom (with the new Gay Rights Bill). Since 1985, and with the initial beginning of the first Gay Awareness Week, I became quite curious in acquiring knowledge and awareness about the gay community.

I'd check daily in the Collegian for up-to-date news, events and happenings. I wanted to write a comment several times pertaining to my opinion on homophobia. But I never did. I just wasn't sure what I really knew.

Back then, I was confused and a little in awe of how it was that individuals wanted to let the world know about their sex lives. I thought to myself, why would anyone on earth want to march down the street with signs screaming (indirectly) "give me the right to make love with the same sex partner." Shouldn't that be a private matter?

I never was homophobic, since I have a relative and close friends that are gay. But I really thought that the issue was all about preference until I found myself questioning so much that my curiosity landed me inside of a Judy Grahn book and suddenly I saw a light.

I now understood (or was beginning to). I'm even able to say the word lesbian without it sounding uncomfortable.

Throughout the years, I've read opinions and comments about homophobia, protecting one's rights, rallies and gay bashing, etc. But it was only recently (Nov. 27) when it made me happy to read Adam Stein's comment on the gay community as being a culture.

Yes folks, that's it. Gay is not preference, but culture. Like any culture, it has its own roots, its own historical background, language, art and customs. Read and learn. Everyone has the right to fight in maintaining their cultural identity.

Linda Cote
Amherst

EXPERIENCE COUNTS

DAVID ROSS MARK

EDUCATION:	University of Massachusetts at Amherst Bachelor of Arts degree anticipated May, 1990 Major: Economics Minor: Political Science
EXPERIENCE:
May - August, 1989, 1988 January, 1989	The Asbury Park Press, Neptune, N.J. STAFF WRITER Handled all the responsibilities of a staff writer on the Sunday staff. Wrote more than 80 news stories and features, as well as features for the Press' Education, Business, Health and Fitness, Religion, Panorama, Impact and Television sections. Also aided Sunday edition night editor.
May 1989 - present	The Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Amherst, MA. EDITOR IN CHIEF Oversaw the daily operations of the newspaper's three departments (editorial, business, graphics). Acted as a liaison to the community. Ran weekly Executive Board meetings.
Dec. 1988 - May 1989	NEWS EDITOR Assigned and edited news stories, worked with a paid staff of three, and more than 20 volunteer staff members and correspondents. Sat on the Collegian's board of editors, recruited new writers, and acted as a liaison to the community.
May - Dec. 1988	EDITORIAL EDITOR Wrote a weekly column, as well as editing columns, writing headlines, and creating a daily layout for the editorial page. Worked with a paid staff of two, and more than 10 columnists. Wrote policy editorials, sat on the Collegian's executive board and board of editors, and acted as a liaison to the community.
Sept. - Dec. 1987	WOMEN'S ISSUES EDITOR Wrote articles regarding women's issues, gay and lesbian issues and social issues. Worked with a volunteer staff of 10, and acted as a liaison to the community.
OTHER COLLEGIAN POSITIONS:	Night Editor, Copy Editor, Associate Editorial Editor, Layout Technician, Columnist
Feb. 1989 - present	Associated Press, Springfield, MA STRINGER Helped write several University of Massachusetts-related stories for the Springfield bureau.
Fall 1988	FREELANCE WRITER Helped write full-length play/musical on AIDS. Wrote two sketches and aided in the writing and production of several other sketches.
REFERENCES:	Available upon request

DAVID ROSS MARK

EDUCATION:	University of Massachusetts at Amherst Bachelor of Arts degree anticipated May, 1990 Major: Economics Minor: Political Science
EXPERIENCE:
Dec. 1986 - June 1987	Student Coalition for Soviet JewryRALLY COORDINATOR Coordinated Massachusetts Soviet Jewry Day, encompassing several separate rallies at colleges and universities in Massachusetts. Worked as liaison to Springfield, Mass., and Boston television and radio news, and area newspapers.
Sept. 1986 - May 1988	Shofar — The Five College Jewish Magazine, Amherst, MA. STAFF WRITER Wrote several articles on world Jewish affairs, the relationship between Judaism and different foreign governments.
Jan. 1988 - May 1988	LAYOUT TECHNICIAN Helped create layout design for Spring 1988 issue. Worked with night staff to put together Spring 1988 issue.
	FREELANCE WRITER Helped write full-length play/musical on AIDS. Wrote two sketches and aided in the writing and production of several other sketches.
REFERENCES:	Available upon request

Which would you rather submit to a prospective employer?

THE COLLEGIAN - WE BUILD CAREERS.

For more information,
come down to the Collegian
and speak to an editor or a manager today.
113 Campus Center
UMass, Amherst 545-3500

ARTS & LIVING

Conservatism runs rampant in jazz in the 80s

By BILL ROSENBLATT
Collegian Staff

First in a two-part series on jazz in the 1980s.

It seems as though the jazz world at large has spent the last two decades trying to figure out what to do about the 60s. By that time, the notion of a jazz tradition was firmly established, and the "free" musicians were accused of leaving it behind. Fusion attempted to undo the so-called avant-garde's inaccessibility, but it too was perceived as a break from the tradition.

Thus, by the 70s, jazz was in disarray. Coltrane was dead, Miles went into convalescent retirement, and many proclaimed the music's death. Many fusion stars didn't care what anyone called their music so long as it sold, so they continued to align it with Black popular music trends. Free musicians were even more disaffected — not only from the tradition, but also from gigs and recording contracts.

If the watchword of the 70s was "confusion," then the watchword of the 80s has been "conservatism" — just as it was in politics. Conservatism in jazz manifested itself in three ways in the past decade.

First was the tidal wave of digitally-remastered CD reissues of classic albums that flooded the market with older music, usually at prices that undercut those of albums by current artists. These releases were motivated by the CD boom and the lucrative, "art"-conscious yuppie market. Being acknowledged classics, the discs were sure to sell. This was great for the music in general, although it tended to starve the new artists out.

Valley Jazz

Second was a return by current musicians to the verities of pre-1960s styles. A whole crop of young virtuosos, tutored by Art Blakey and spearheaded by Wynton Marsalis, took a reactionary, traditional stance: they "just said no" to fusion and free. They produced music whose artistic merit depended on standards similar to those used to judge European classical music.

One of these standards is the notion of a "standard repertoire," which leads to the third kind of conservatism: the repertory group. The 80s saw a proliferation of bands with sanctimonious names like the Jazz Legacy Ensemble and the American Jazz Orchestra, groups dedicated to performing the works of specific past masters such as Charles Mingus (Mingus Dynasty), Thelonious Monk (Sphere) and Tadd Dameron (Dameronia), and well-known big bands continuing under their leaders' names after the latter had died.

All of this served to make jazz more acceptable in terms of "Eurocentric" criteria for judging the seriousness of music. Not surprisingly, this notion of "serious" does not take 60s and 70s innovations into account (analogously, one hears little recently-composed classical music at Symphony Hall or Lincoln Center). Thus many avant-garde musicians, anxious to have their music legitimized, proceeded to explicitly reconcile their experimentations with older styles of African-American music.

All of a sudden, Archie Shepp played spirituals, blues and Charlie Parker; Anthony Braxton played Monk; Sun Ra's Arkestra played old big-band tunes. In general, most of the so-called "free" musicians reverted to playing standards (make no mistake, though: many of these albums are excellent). More recently, this "retro" trend took more questionable forms as other former free players (Lester Bowie, the Art Ensemble of Chicago and the World Saxophone Quartet) began playing rhythm-and-blues oldies. These curious efforts are surely destined to become footnotes in the careers of the respective musicians.

I will admit that the backlash from the developments of the 60s has been necessary, in order to reestablish the continuum of jazz through the decades. However, the industry has only acted upon the backlash selectively, i.e., in areas where they feel they can make money.

Thus, the industry supports the three kinds of conservatism mentioned above under the rubric of "traditional jazz," but they do not support the "realignment" efforts of avant-garde musicians — most of the latter albums are on import labels. They also support "contemporary jazz" (fusion), whose musicians have made comparatively little effort to link up with the tradition but which rakes in the cash. The result is a wide schism between traditional and contemporary that leaves the truly vital artists out in the cold. Billboard magazine made the schism official in the mid-80s when they split their jazz charts up into "traditional" and "contemporary."

The industry has got to curb their paranoid need for control via pigeonholing artists into categories, support the musicians who don't happen to fit the categories, and stop worrying about what is jazz and what isn't. They should have some faith in the musicians and just let their developments happen as they may. Then — and only then — will the question of what to do about the 60s resolve itself.

Photo by Tim Eagan
The visual growl

Johnny go, go, go's; jammin' some life into the blues

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

Johnny Winter
Pearl St.
Tues., Dec. 5

It's hard to describe a Johnny Winter show without falling into the metaphors for chemical stimulants and sexuality. However, with the conservative stance of the arts desk, such language would be more than inappropriate; suffice to say that the word "peak" would do justice, with an adverb like "sustained" tacked on for good measure.

"He's the living God of Blues," said one particularly psyched member of the crowd. And Johnny immediately carved out a niche for that position, striding onstage to the best audience I've seen in a month of moons. He launched straight in, burning up the crowd with his individual guitar virtuosity, honed by 28 or so years of playing. He was backed by some way funky jazz progressions by the bassist, and the thundering power of some talented soul behind the phenomenal drum equipment (both names I failed to get, no disrespect intentended). He used a Lazer for most of the show, turning to his trusty reversed Gibson Firebird for some tunes in the middle of the performance.

How else to describe it, aside from using a lot of thunder and lightning, fire and brimstone endlessly praising adjectives? I don't know, other than to insert a small criticism of the short amount of time he played. If you know of Winter's truly amazing interpretation of the Blues, then you know that his show was as consistently solid, as consistently great, brilliant, near spiritual, as most all his live shows are. That little Lazer *expletive*s you dry. Who else can that be said of?

Something else: I had the pleasure of moving some of Johnny's equipment before and after the show, and I learned two things worth filling up space with. I am out of shape (surprise) and Johnny Winter uses a lot of equipment (a truckfull). And both his roadie and his sound man (both for around the last 8 months) suggested that the man who would not grant an interview was "reclusive," "shy," and "a genius." The third comment is a definite, and the rest doesn't really matter because the man's music speaks, sings, and plays for itself.

Young Neil and the Vipers opened the night with some strong, faithful blues, as Young Neil played the guitar hero to the hilt with a battered old Fender (behind the back, with teeth et. al.). A good four piece out of Providence, they will have their first release out on the Atlantic label soon.

CASH IN
On Intersession

Earn money for January fun and second semester. ABT ASSOCIATES INC. needs Research Interviewers to work on a variety of public policy and market research studies.

- Start at $5.00 per hour with paid training and quickly move up to $5.50 (Weekends earn 10% more)
- Flexible day and evening hours
- Work from 20 hours part-time, up to 40 hours.
- Choose your own schedule every week from shifts 5pm-10pm every night except Saturday, 11am-5pm. Also weekdays 9am-5pm.
- Gain valuable experience in an interesting environment.
- Conveniently located at the Mountain Farms Mall (free bus service)

Call between 9am and 5pm, Monday through Friday at 586-8635.

Abt Associates Inc.

Abt Associates Inc.
Telephone Research Center
Mountain Farms Mall, Rt. 9, Hadley, MA 01035

An Equal Opportunity Employer

RESEARCH INFORMATION

Largest Library of information in U.S. - all subjects

Order Catalog Today with Visa/MC or COD

TOLL FREE HOT LINE 800-351-0222
in Calif. (213) 477-8226

Or, rush $2.00 to: Research Information
11322 Idaho Ave. #206 A, Los Angeles, CA 90025

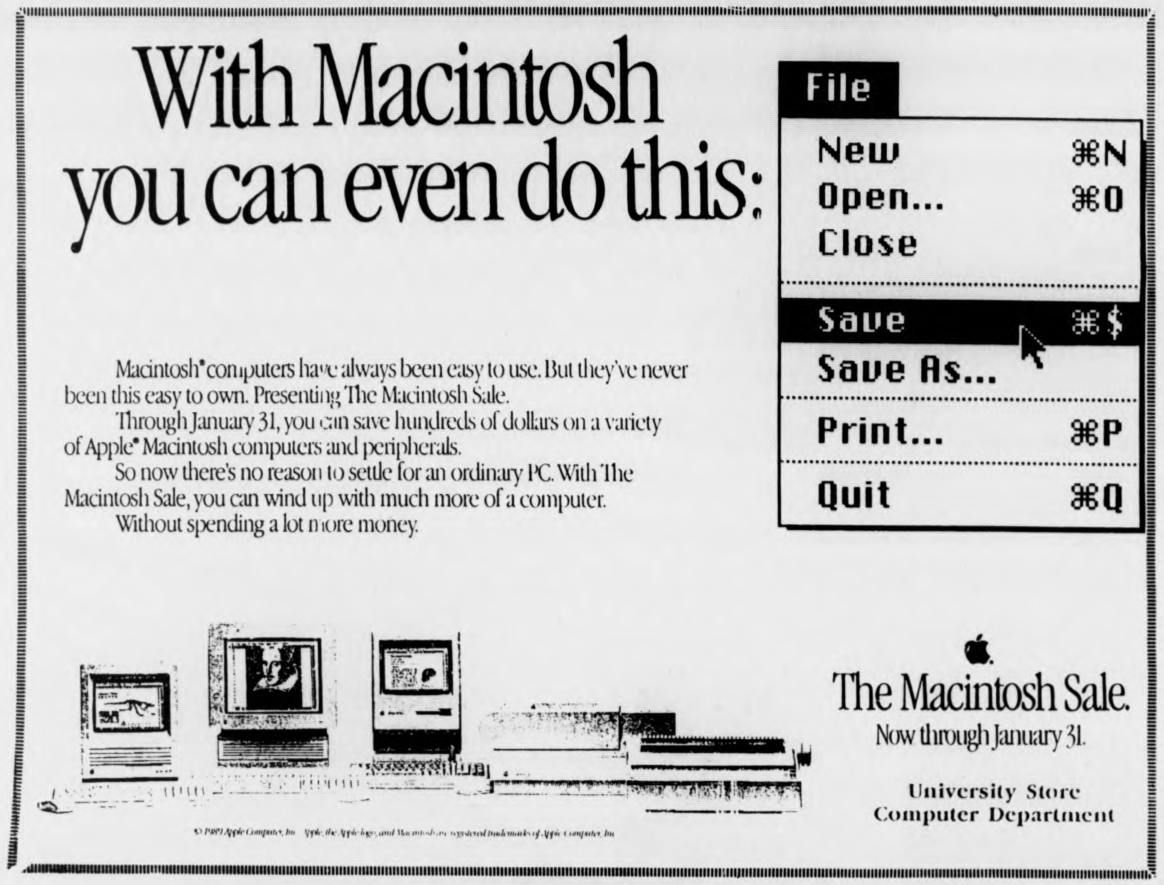
R+P
LIQUOR STORE
We've moved to our new location
505 West St. Rte. 116
close to Brittany & Riverdale
1 mile south on 116
Bring us your empties

Main St
RECORDS

HUGE VINYL SALE

All Albums and Singles
All Imports and Domestics
All Major Labels & Independent Labels
All New and Used
Now thru December 9—10% Off

New Hours: Sun. 12-5 Mon.
213 Main St., Northampton 586-5726



Macintosh® computers have always been easy to use. But they've never been this easy to own. Presenting The Macintosh Sale.

Through January 31, you can save hundreds of dollars on a variety of Apple® Macintosh computers and peripherals.

So now there's no reason to settle for an ordinary PC. With The Macintosh Sale, you can wind up with much more of a computer.

Without spending a lot more money.

The Macintosh Sale.
Now through January 31.

University Store
Computer Department

© 1989 Apple Computer, Inc. Apple, the Apple logo, and Macintosh are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc.

OFF-CAMPUS RESIDENTS

If you are thinking about returning to the Residence Halls for the Spring 1990 semester, NOW IS THE TIME TO APPLY. Applications for residence hall space are available in the Housing Assignment Office, 235 Whitmore, and space will be guaranteed if applications are received January 5, 1990.

Questions? Call the Housing Assignment Office at (413) 545-2100, Monday through Friday, 8:30 am to 5:00 pm. Thank you!

Climbing the beanstalk with They Might Be Giants

By FLORENCIO TERRA
and MICHAEL WESTER
Collegian Staff

They Might Be Giants
Iron Horse
Tuesday, Dec. 5

Perhaps some of you are not familiar with They Might Be Giants, the duo that shook the balcony of the usually subdued Iron Horse Cafe Tueday night.

They Might Be Giants, or more specifically, John Flansburgh and John Linnell, are local boys from Lincoln, Massachusetts that have been teetering on the edge of stardom since 1986. The first time they played at the Iron Horse, they played for 30 people — a far smaller crowd than the one that turned out this time around. The fact that they were able to draw a near-capacity crowd on a freezing cold weeknight during the second-to-last week of classes tells you that these guys have some devoted fans.

A lot can be said about a band that sells decorative, marbelized Fezzes along with the standard fare of tour t-shirts at their merchandise table.

REVIEW

The Giants demonstrated their unique songwriting and performing skills during their set, drawing material from their two full-length LPs and three EPs, as well as material from their upcoming major label debut, due out Jan. 15.

They Might Be Giants are masters of the short but strange tune. The band's lineup consists of John Flansburgh on lead guitar, bass drum, fuzz box and metronome, and John Linnell on accordion and saxaphone. On stage, the two Johns cut impressive figures.

Flansburgh took the stage armed with his guitar and Clark Kent glasses, wearing black pants and a t-shirt from the television show, 'Nickelodeon.' His stage prescence was reminiscient of a pot-bellied Elvis Costello suffering from fits.

John Linnell, whose lanky, turtlenecked body often seemed to be strapped on to his accordion rather than vice-versa, sang, played and joked with an uneasy intensity that appeared to be more part of the act than a case of stagefright.

The band's performance was accompanied by prerecorded tapes, consisting of rythym tracks, backup vocals and assorted oddities. Taken together, these elements create the enitity that is They Might Be Giants.

A glimpse at the song titles they ripped through gives you an idea of what this band is all about. "I Lost My Lucky Ball and Chain," "Purple Toupee," "I'll Sink Manhattan," "Birdhouse in Your Soul" and "Shoehorn with Teeth" all reveal an obsession with the bizarre. Of course, it's not all just hot air - some of their songs deal with important topics, as in the tune "You and Your Racist Friend:" "This is where the party ends/I'll just sit here wondering/ how you can stand by your racist friend/ I know politics bore you/ but I feel like a hypocrite talking to you/ You and your racist friend."

The two Johns, who are now based in New York, had a few words to say about the "jaded" Northampton crowd.

"It's a lot different from Brooklyn. Everyone's so bitter and cynical here."

They Might Be Giants. They do exactly what they want, when they want - and entertain us all in the process.

Put your hand inside the Flansburgh head

By FLORENCIO TERRA
and MICHAEL WESTER
Collegian Staff

When we caught up with John Flansburgh of They Might Be Giants, he was busy fending off a retinue of the types of fans you'd expect to see at a vintage Beatles show.

Later we sat down with Flansburgh as he and his roadies packed up their equipment.

Flansburgh and his partner, John Linnell, went to high school together in Linclon, Massachusetts, but did not form They Might Be Giants until after a brief stint at college. Flansburgh spent two years at Antioch College in Ohio, and Linnell spent a year at UMass-Amherst.

Flansburgh describes Linnell as the "musical genius" of the group, while he himself didn't learn to play an instrument until he went to college.

"Being his friend was really intimidating," he said, as he tore out the inner lining of a carrying case in order to fit more of his equipment.

Flansburgh was influenced by his "folkie" parents, and, of course, The Beatles.

"We were completely innundated by The Beatles. I think everyone from our generation was. They were totally omnipresent from age 5 to age 14."

Flansburgh also confessed to worshipping Neneh Cherry, Paula Abdul, and even Joan Jett: "I've got a picture of her on my fridge at home. It says: To John: Rock Hard, Joan."

After their college experiences, John and John reunited and moved to New York. There they began to incorporate electronics into the band rather than add members.

"We lived in a small apartment with elderly neighbors. There wasn't much room for a drum set," he said.

The band made up for this by using tape mixes as backup. Then something happened that changed the group for good.

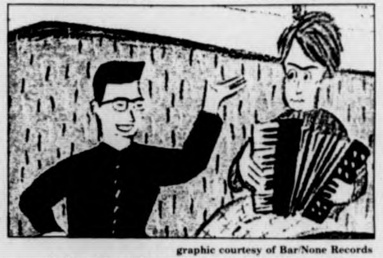
"We were living in this apartment about a block from Bed-Stuy and one day had everything - I mean everything, even my clothes - stolen, except for the four-track tape recorder. That same week, [John] Linnell broke his wrist in a bike accident," he said.

This didn't leave them much to work with. To promote their music, they created a new performance forum on their answering machine - The They Might Be Giants dial-a-song service (718-387-6962).

"At the time, we weren't even sure if it was legal," Flansburgh said, "but it's still going strong."

Eventually, their hard work brought them to the position they're in today. The group recently signed with Elecktra records, and will soon leave for Europe. Flansburgh says that the band did not have to commercialize their sound for their major-label debut.

"Elecktra just gave us a whole ton of money, and then never even called us."



graphic courtesy of Bar/None Records

John Flansburgh and John Linnell

Before taking up music full time, Flansburgh worked as a graphic designer for 'Self' magazine. "It's the kind of magazine that has one article about the dangers of tanning, and another about how to get one," he said.

Working closely with Linnell has been a great experience for Flansburgh. "Nothing lasts forever, though," he said. "The public is really fickle. Maybe two years down the road, they'll think we're a bag of shit.

"I feel real lucky to be a musician, though. I've had real jobs. They suck."

tips idb

Student Affairs Information Services
Information Data Bank
and the
Taped Information Phone Service

TAKE A LOOK AHEAD TO SPRING BEFORE YOU LEAVE FOR VACATION

Call TIPS at 545-1540 and ask for these tapes by number:

1307 Changing Your Mailing Address
1014 Delayed Tuition Payment System
2412 Financial Aid
2174 Finding an Apartment
1303 Graduate Tuition and Fees
2460 Meal Plan Options
1304 Paying Your Semester Bill and Lab Fees
1700 Public Information and Privacy requests
1321 Undergraduate fees

If you have further questions call IDB at 545-1555

Information Data Bank (IDB)
Taped Information Phone Service (TIPS)

Your Talent. We're banking on it.

TO AUDIT, TO ANALYZE, TO FORECAST AND STRATEGIZE. TO MANAGE, TO MARKET, TO MOTIVATE AND STIMULATE. TO PROJECT, TO PRODUCE, TO PACKAGE AND POSTULATE. TO CONTRIBUTE, TO CONQUER, TO DOMINATE ... THEN – CELEBRATE!

Talk to us!

Pre-Recruit
Information Session

Presenting Our:

Operations Management Development Program

Branch Management Development Program

Thursday, December 7
6:30 PM
Campus Center
1st Level
Room 168-70

If unable to attend, send your resume to: Manager, College Relations, Bank Of Boston / 01-11-03, P.O. Box 1928, Boston, MA 02105-1928.
Equal Opportunity Employer M/F.

BANK OF BOSTON
Put our strength to work for you.

© 1989 First National Bank of Boston

UMass Boston

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

valuable to the planning for Massachusetts, say the institute's founders.

"The economic recovery that occurred in this state, and which is obviously over, left us largely untouched," said Jose Duran, executive director of the Hispanic Office of Planning and Evaluation.

Community leaders claim that local and state politicians have not dealt with the plight of Hispanics, and have failed at properly documenting their communities' situations.

The state Department of Public Health went for years without listing a separate category for Hispanic when recording vital statistics, including infant mortality. Infant mortality is considered a strong determinant of a community's health.

Prado said the institute will search for ways to solve the problems of Hispanics.

He and other leaders say more than 40 percent of the Hispanic families of four in Boston live below the federal poverty line. More than half across the state fail to finish high school. And Hispanics have the highest unemployment rate.

The Institute is funded in part by a $225,000 legislative appropriation.

lecture

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

University, where she decided to pursue her masters and Ph.D. in sociology.

Presently, she is a professor and head of Women's Studies at Regis College in Weston. She has authored an additional book titled: "Being Pregnant: There is More to Childbirth Than Having a Baby," as well as numerous articles and essays.

"What I primarily was interested in was a critique of a male definition of female experience, particularly bodily experiences that men do not have," she said, describing the purpose for her latest book.

Levesque-Lopman applied phenomenological sociology, the study of individual experience, to women's research.

She called for traditional sociology to move from its present all-encompassing approach to research to a more individualized approach, especially in reference to women. "There's an image of uniformity that is derived from narrow scientific conceptions of a woman's reality through the perception male observers. They derive their conclusions from what they guess it is like to be a woman," she said.

nutrition

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

claim decreases cholesterol production.

Cereal manufacturers Kellogg Co. and General Mills have marketed products with Psyllium and are seeking permission from the Food and Drug Administration to advertise that the fiber lowers the risk of heart disease, Francis said.

However, Francis said there is not enough convincing evidence to prove that Psyllium reduces cholesterol levels, noting that only one study has been published on the issue.

"I have no problems with the safety of the product in small quantities," he said. But, he added that researchers have not conducted a study regarding the possible effects of consuming large doses of Psyllium.

Francis said he is afraid that many food manufacturers products will now add Psyllium to their products, causing people to consume large amounts of a substance which has not been fully investigated.

ENJOY THE SPECTACULAR VIEW ...
FINE DINING AND FRIENDLY SERVICE
OPEN DURING ACADEMIC YEAR
Lunch: Monday-Friday 11:30 am-2:00 pm
Dinner: Tuesday-Saturday 5:00 pm-9:00 pm
Call 549-6000 ext. 7639 for Reservations
Validated Parking
TOP of the CAMPUS Restaurant
11th FLOOR CAMPUS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

Holiday Magic!

J•RICH
CLOTHING FOR MEN

El Greco Pizza
Isle of MYKONOS
Greek Restaurant
Since 1981
Authentic Greek Cuisine
Whole Wheat Pizza
Fresh broccoli, spinach, garlic & pesto toppings
Mon.-Sat. 11:00-10 pm
Sun. 4:00-10 pm
Close to Brittany Manor Southwood & Riverglade 1 mile south on Rt. 116 next to R&P Liquors
Reservations 253-9239
Pick-Up 256-4196
Beer - Wine

Open Early Open Late
kinko's
the copy center
220 N. Pleasant St.
253-2543

Curriculum Fee Waiver

Undergraduate and Graduate applications for the curriculum fee waiver for Spring 1990 will be available in Financial Aid Services, Dec. 4, 1989.

Applicants must demonstrate a severe financial hardship to qualify for a waiver.

Application Deadline is Dec. 22, 1989

SAME DAY FILM PROCESSING
FILM IN BY 10 AM / PRINTS BY 4 PM
1-HOUR SERVICE ALSO AVAILABLE
A Different Money-Saving Special Every Day . . .
MON: 2nd set of prints only 8¢ per print
TUE: Super Prints 35¢ each
WED: 2 Prints for the price of
THU: 25% off film and albums
FRI: Large savings on reprints
EVERY DAY: A SECOND SET OF PRINTS AT A SUBSTANTIAL DISCOUNT
The Foto Factory
257 TRIANGLE ST. / AMHERST

R U A SECRET
SANTA?

Gifts from 19¢ to 4.99
Find It at Faces
amherst / northampton
daily & sunday

• cigars • tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos •
PIPE DEN IS BACK!!
After a brief absence in your area The Pipe Den has reopened at
The Hampshire Mall
(413) 586-3237
Including an Expanded Line of Gifts & Collectibles
• tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos • cigars • tobaccos • cigars

Beer Specials
Bud & Bud Light 24 12oz. cans..........$10.99
Old Milwaukee 24 12oz. cans..........$8.99
Molson Golden 24 12oz. bottles..........$12.99
Budweiser

Sapporo Dry 16oz $1.69
Bass Ale 6 pk $4.99
Michelob 12 pk 12oz cans $6.99
Becks 12 pk 12oz. bottles $8.99
Misc. Specials
Bacardi "Dole Combo Kit"......$9.99
Gordon's Vodka 1.75L..........$10.99
Cuervo Gold 750ml..........$7.50
CHEERS CHEERS CHEERS
FOUR SEASONS
"NOT JUST ANOTHER LIQUOR STORE"
MC/VISA
ROUTE 9, HADLEY • 584-8174
Just Beyond Burger King—Open 9 a.m-11 p.m. Mon.-Sat.

Spirit Haus Liquor Store
Discover the Lost Secret of the Amazon
This Saturday from noon untill 5pm
Xingu Brazilian Black Beer $1.95 750ml
Sambuca Romana 750ml $12.99
Miller Genuine Draft 12oz bottle 12 pack $5.99
Smirnoff Vodka 80º 1.75L $12.99
Rolling Rock 12oz bottle 12 pack $5.99
Captain Morgan Spiced Rum 1.0L $8.79
Warsteiner Premium German Pilsener $3.99
Leroux Applemint Schnapps 750ml $4.99
Spirit Haus
338 College St. (Rt. 9) Amherst 253-5384

MONDAY DECEMBER 11
AN EVENING WITH
ARLO GUTHRIE
8 PM AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER
$6 UMass STUDENTS
$9 GENERAL PUBLIC
TICKETS ARE AVAILABLE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER BOX OFFICE OR CALL TO CHARGE (MC/VISA) 545-2511

UPC PRODUCTIONS

--- COMPARATIVE LITERATURE LECTURE SERIES ---

GEOFFREY HARTMAN

"Culture's Aftermath"

Thursday, December 7, 1989

8:00 PM, Campus Center, Room 163-164

UMASS SKI CLUB

PRESENTS

LICENSE TO THRILL

APPROVED BY G. Plake

THE MOST EXTREME
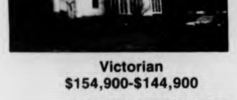
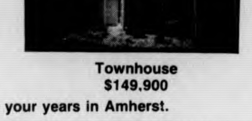
SKI MOVIE YET FROM GREG STUMP
Co-sponsored by Ski Haus
Free giveaways!
Date: Dec. 10, Sunday
Times: 5, 7 & 9 p.m.
Place: Campus Center 168C

ADMISSION FREE!!!



Victorian
$154,900-$144,900



Townhouse
$149,900

AVOID THE AUGUST RUSH!
BUY A CONDO NOW!

WONDERFUL INVESTMENT FOR PARENTS OR PROFESSORS

Freeze your housing costs for your years in Amherst.

3 bedrooms (one 2 bedroom), fireplaces, some with attached garages, skylights, washer/dryer connections, private deck.

EXCELLENT RENTAL HISTORY!

PRICE REDUCED!

Call Goggins, Whalen & Smith 256-1111 or evenings Susan 586-2370.

GOGGINS, WHALEN & SMITH
Northampton 586-7000 Amherst 256-1111

STEINBECK COLLISION REPAIR & AUTOBODY

53 So. Prospect — Amherst Center
256-8157 256-1385

- Accepted by all insurance companies for collision repair or glass replacement
- Imports & other unibody vehicles are our specialty

REMEMBER it's your car and your choice of repair facilities

Pearl Street
10 PEARL ST. NORTHAMPTON, MA
413 584 7771

Thurs. Dec. 7 - 6:00pm
21 + TONIGHT!
MAX CREEK

Fri. Dec. 8 - 8:30pm
18 +
SCRUFFY THE CAT
THE VESTRYMEN

Sat. Dec. 9 - 10pm
GEORGE GRITZBACH BAND

Sun. Dec. 10 - 7pm
DIRTY DOZEN BRASS BAND
LUCKY 7

Thurs. Dec. 14 - 8:30pm
BIM SKALA BIM
18 +
THE EQUALITIES

Fri. Dec. 15 - 8:30pm
BULLET LAVOLTA
18 +

Sat. Dec. 16 - 10:00pm
DUKE ROBILLARD

Thurs. Dec. 28 - 8:00pm
BEAU SOLEIL

ADV. TIX. FROM: FOR THE RECORD IN AMHERST AND ALL TICKETRON OUTLETS 1-800-382-8080 RAPCITY IN BRATTLEBORO, COUNTRY COMFORT STRAWBERRIES
10 Pearl St., Northampton 413-584-7771

STUDENT & FACULTY FARES

1/2 roundtrips from New York

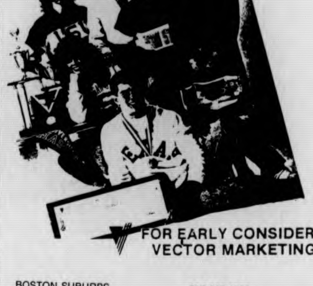
LONDON	169
PARIS	205
ROME	245
roundtrips from New York
TOKYO	749
CARACAS	318
SAN JOSE C.R.	338

Taxes not included.restrictions apply.
One ways available.
EURAIL Passes issued on the spot!!
FREE Student Travel Catalog!!

Council Travel
79 So.Pleasant Street, Amherst
413 - 256 -1261

A HEALTHY COMPLEXION AND BODY
begins with a deep pore cleansing treatment and a full body massage. improves how you look and feel- relaxing • refreshing • revitalizing
Also lash and brow tinting and hair waxing.

AESTHETICS
THERAPEUTIC SKIN CARE AND MASSAGE
AMHERST ★ 253-9879



AS SEEN IN NEWSWEEK ON CAMPUS

VECTOR MARKETING CORPORATION

The Difference Between an Ordinary Job and "The Vector Opportunity"

$11^05 ENTRY LEVEL PAY RATE

- NATIONAL FIRM HAS IMMEDIATE OPENINGS DURING SEMESTER BREAK
- INTERVIEW NOW - BEGIN AFTER EXAMS
- GAIN VALUABLE BUSINESS EXPERIENCE FOR RESUME
- BUILD COMMUNICATION SKILLS
- SPECIAL 2-4 WEEK PROGRAM
- INTERNSHIPS & SCHOLARSHIPS POSSIBLE FOR NEXT SEMESTER
- FUTURE MANAGEMENT POSITIONS AVAILABLE
- ALL MAJORS MAY APPLY
- DETAILS COVERED AT INTERVIEW

FOR EARLY CONSIDERATION CALL NOW
VECTOR MARKETING CORPORATION

BOSTON SUBURBS	617-449-4362	WAKEFIELD,MA/NORTH SHORE AREA	617-246-5308
WORCESTER COUNTY	508-852-1680	SOUTHEAST MASS. AREA	508-947-1006

HELAINE

Congratulations
and
Best of Luck

We love you and will miss you
16 Edgehill Place won't be the same without you!

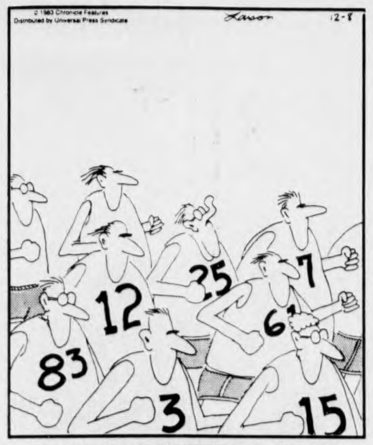
love always,
Melissa, Aimee, Sue, Dana & Sheryl

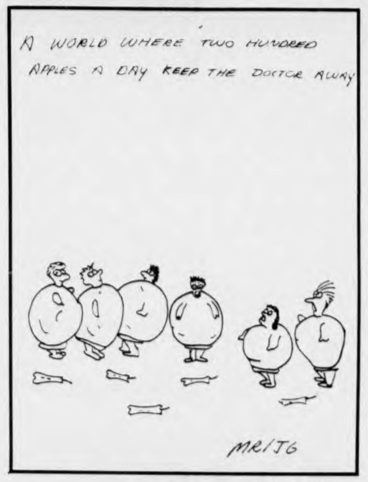
THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



© 1983 Chronicle Features
Distributed by Universal Press Syndicate
Larson
12-8
12
25
7
6
83
3
15

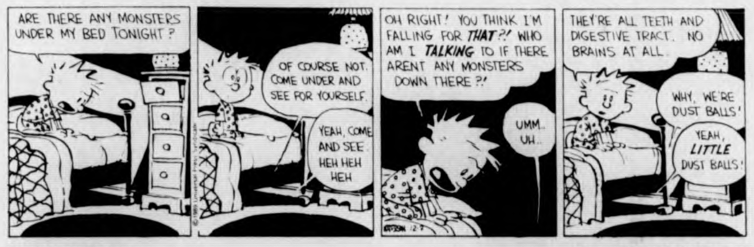
Suddenly, only a mile into the race, Ernie gets a nose cramp.

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG



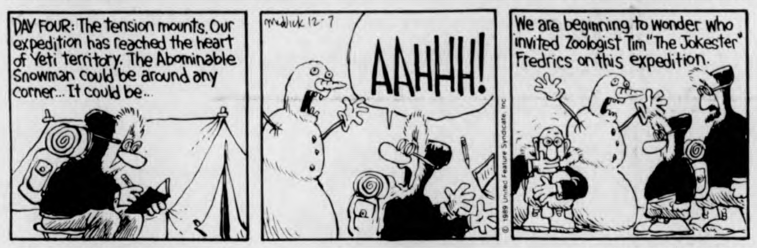
A WORLD WHERE TWO HUNDRED APPLES A DAY KEEP THE DOCTOR AWAY
MR/JG

CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



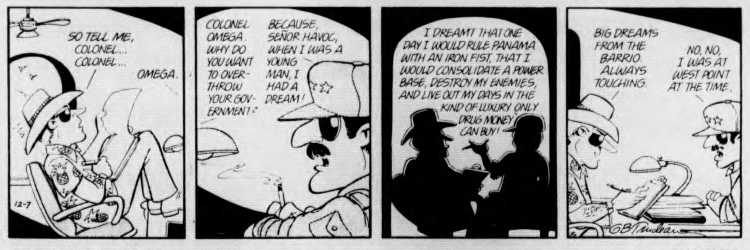
ARE THERE ANY MONSTERS UNDER MY BED TONIGHT?
OF COURSE NOT. COME UNDER AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.
YEAH, COME AND SEE. HEH HEH HEH
OH RIGHT! YOU THINK I'M FALLING FOR THAT?! WHO AM I TALKING TO IF THERE AREN'T ANY MONSTERS DOWN THERE?!
UMM.. UH..
THEY'RE ALL TEETH AND DIGESTIVE TRACT. NO BRAINS AT ALL.
WHY, WE'RE DUST BALLS!
YEAH, LITTLE DUST BALLS!

ROBOTMAN
By JIM MEDDICK



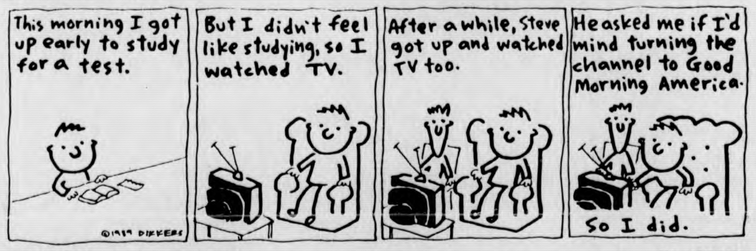
DAY FOUR: The tension mounts. Our expedition has reached the heart of Yeti territory. The Abominable Snowman could be around any corner... It could be...
Meddick 12-7
AAHHH!
© 1989 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
We are beginning to wonder who invited Zoologist Tim "The Jokester" Fredrics on this expedition.

DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



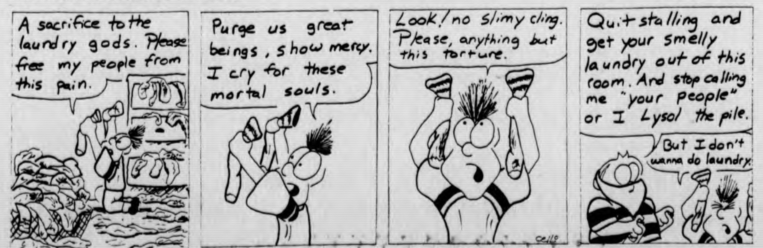
SO TELL ME, COLONEL... COLONEL...
OMEGA.
12-7
COLONEL OMEGA. WHY DO YOU WANT TO OVERTHROW YOUR GOVERNMENT?
BECAUSE, SEÑOR HAVOC, WHEN I WAS A YOUNG MAN, I HAD A DREAM!
I DREAMT THAT ONE DAY I WOULD RULE PANAMA WITH AN IRON FIST, THAT I WOULD CONSOLIDATE A POWER BASE, DESTROY MY ENEMIES, AND LIVE OUT MY DAYS IN THE KIND OF LUXURY ONLY DRUG MONEY CAN BUY!
BIG DREAMS FROM THE BARRIO. ALWAYS TOUCHING.
NO, NO, I WAS AT WEST POINT AT THE TIME.
GBTrudeau

JIM'S JOURNAL
By JIM



This morning I got up early to study for a test.
©1989 DIKKERS
But I didn't feel like studying, so I watched TV.
After a while, Steve got up and watched TV too.
He asked me if I'd mind turning the channel to Good Morning America.
So I did.

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT
By CELLI



A sacrifice to the laundry gods. Please free my people from this pain.
Purge us great beings, show mercy. I cry for these mortal souls.
Look! no slimy cling. Please, anything but this torture.
Celli
Quit stalling and get your smelly laundry out of this room. And stop calling me "your people" or I Lysol the pile.
But I don't wanna do laundry!

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

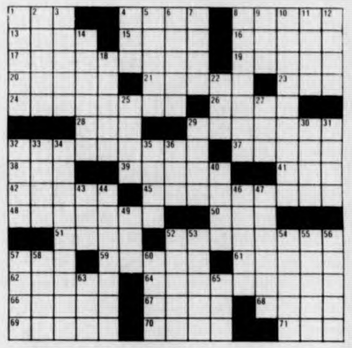
ACROSS
1 "Peck's — Boy"
4 Wanes
8 Or else, in music
13 Sacred bull
15 Road lead-in
16 Article of food
17 Creature that lives a "shelltered" life
19 Ruy Diaz de Bivar
20 Iroquoian Indians
21 Less modern
23 Nautical miles: Abbr.
24 "The Crock of Gold" author James
26 Actor Guinness
28 Buddy
29 Bored
32 Withdrawn
37 Act theatrically
38 Before mode
39 "What's in —?"
41 Calendar abbr.
42 Original
45 Apprentice's state
48 Pudding ingredient
50 Actress Grant
51 To be: Fr.
52 Star-shaped
57 Likely
59 Former Asian treaty org.
61 Delaware seaport
62 Browning's Ben Ezra
64 Gasoline containers
66 Mild cigar
67 See 58 Down
68 Balata or banyan
69 Wrestler Hulk —
70 Symbol of slimness
71 Visitors from Mars, for short

DOWN
1 Zaharias and Ruth
2 To the left, nautically
3 The South
4 Drop a fly
5 Majorette's need
6 Invoices
7 Rosebud, e.g.
8 Stifle, in a way
9 Part of RSVP
10 Mourner's garb
11 Monogram part: Abbr.
12 States further
14 Treeless plain
18 Hindu goddess of dawn
22 Corn unit
25 Literary lioness
27 Shade tree
29 Township of ancient Attica
30 Needlecase
31 Profound
32 Float
33 Director-writer Kazan
34 Old-fashioned traveling pouch
35 Ancient Peruvian
36 Worth: Abbr.
40 First name in mystery
43 Pose
44 Turning stress
46 Gene or green
47 Choose
49 Average grade
52 Engraved pillar
53 Rich cake
54 On to
55 Doctrine
56 Curves
57 St. Louis landmark
58 Menlo Park neighbor, with 67 Across
60 Slightly open
63 Lingerie item
65 Shaft

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

D	A	N	E	S	■	H	E	A	P	■	S	C	O	P
A	B	O	D	E	■	A	L	G	A	■	T	A	L	E
W	O	O	D	W	O	R	K	E	R	■	A	R	G	O
N	U	N	■	I	N	T	E	N	T	■	S	P	A	N
S	T	E	R	N	E	■	■	T	E	A	S	E	■	■
■	■	■	A	G	A	T	E	■	D	R	E	N	C	H
S	S	T	S	■	L	A	L	O	■	E	N	T	R	E
E	A	R	■	A	S	P	I	R	E	S	■	E	I	N
P	A	E	A	N	■	S	T	A	R	■	O	R	B	S
T	R	E	N	D	Y	■	E	L	M	A	N	■	■	■
■	■	L	O	S	E	S	■	■	I	D	E	A	T	E
S	H	I	M	■	L	A	T	I	N	O	■	W	E	N
O	O	N	A	■	L	U	M	B	E	R	Y	A	R	D
A	B	E	L	■	O	N	E	I	■	N	U	R	S	E
P	O	S	Y	■	W	A	N	D	■	S	P	E	E	D

12/7/89



1989 Los Angeles Times Syndicate 12/7/8

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES (March 21-April 19): There is a thin line between friendship and love now. Good financial news relieves anxiety. Working conditions should improve. Change your spending habits. Give romance a second chance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A good day for bargain-hunting. Avoid being rushed into romance if you do not feel ready. A new acquaintance could be the key to making a career change. Conferences and interviews should go well.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A family business that is in trouble can be salvaged. Be prepared to accept new responsibilities. Once things settle down, your relationship with a sibling will improve. Romance brings happiness.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Give a family member the benefit of the doubt. Spend money on household comforts. Your loved ones are delighted by your romantic choice. A child needs greater freedom and privacy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Financial backing is within your grasp. Obey your conscience; greed will bring regrets. Loved one could give you a taste of your own medicine. Own up to your mistakes. Give a child a goal.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A new personal alliance will bring you luck. Protect your home and valuables when you travel. Think about joining a neighborhood watch group. Romance pursues those who appear aloof. Avoid acting too eager.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A timely phone call opens important career doors. Those in medicine enjoy special success. If a job offer is made today, take it. Observe all safety precautions when working with your hands.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): New acquaintances can help your business and finances. A recent retiree is learning to adjust to a new phase in life. A phone call will help you protect yourself in a legal matter.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A full financial disclosure will pull the family together. Be guarded when discussing the situation with outsiders. Get promises in writing. See friends tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Use tact with family, especially when certain you are right. There is no reason to make unnecessary purchases; discuss large items with your mate. A home computer could change your lifestyle.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are too possessive for your own good. Do not let jealousy stand between you and true love. A child needs immediate attention. You made a mistake if you ignore the situation.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Swallow your pride and admit a mistake. People will respect your courage. Someone takes a casual romantic remark seriously. Watch your step. Extra money is available when you need it the most.

MENU

F O
O D

Reardon coming home to Massachusetts

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

later that season. Reardon has never started a game in his 11-year major league career.

During the 1980s, Reardon had 264 saves with the Expos and Twins. He is the only pitcher to have 40-save seasons in each league, with 41 in 1985 for Montreal and 42 for Minnesota in 1988.

Reardon joins Lee Smith and Rob Murphy as the Red Sox' closers.

"He adds tremendous depth to our bullpen," Gorman said. "Jeff is a great competitor and it's a case where the Red Sox were his first choice."

Reardon will be paid $1.9 million in 1990, $2.4 million in 1991 and $2.5 million in 1992. He also would get a $100,000 bonus for winning the American League Cy Young Award and a $100,000 bonus for winning the Rolaids Award as the sport's top reliever.

Reardon, a right-hander, was traded by the Mets in 1981 to Montreal and acquired by the Twins in 1987. In 1987, he helped Minnesota win a World Series title with 31 regular-season saves, plus a victory and two saves in the playoffs and a save in the final game of the Series against St. Louis.

In three seasons with the Twins, Reardon had 104 saves. He has a career record of 57-62 with 266 saves and a 3.03 ERA.

"We're sorry to lose Jeff," Twins vice president Andy MacPhail said. "But he liked the Red Sox offer and he likes the area."

The Red Sox lost free agent first baseman Nick Esasky to Atlanta and are looking for a hitter and a starting pitcher.

"It gives us some leeway," Boston manager Joe Morgan said. "But we have three guys who will usually come in and end the game."

Reardon had his ups and downs for the Twins last season, recording his 31 saves in 42 opportunities. Smith was 25 of 31 for the Red Sox.

"Reardon wanted to come here and I'm happy to have him," Morgan said.

Having lost Reardon, the Twins turned their full attention to re-signing first baseman Kent Hrbek.

"I'm hopeful at this point and I expect something to happen soon," MacPhail said.

The Red Sox, who are looking to replace Esasky, also have had talks with Hrbek.

"We're not finished," Gorman said. "But I can't say if something will happen by the time the meetings end."

Carter goes to Padres

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Joe Carter reached agreement with San Diego on a three-year contract yesterday, clearing the way for the Padres to complete a multi-player trade that will send Sandy Alomar Jr. to the Cleveland Indians, the Associated Press learned.

Sources said the deal was to be announced before 5 p.m. EST at baseball's winter meetings.

Cleveland and the Padres reached agreement late Monday night on Carter, one of baseball's biggest sluggers.

The trade could not be finished until San Diego signed Carter, who would have been eligible for free agency after the 1990 season. The teams had until 2 p.m. local time to reach agreement or the deal was off, although they could have extended the time limit if necessary.

Carter and the Padres concluded negotiations about 15 minutes before the deadline.

"I'm definitely relieved that it has finally happened," Carter said from his home in Kansas.

We're Making a List...
☑ GRANDPA MILLER: Chocolate Lover's Delight Basket
☑ UNCLE CHARLIE: First Edition Lithograph (Dickens' Collectible Series)
☑ SISTER KATE: A Brunch Basket
☑ AUNT MARY: Toiletries from Woods of Windsor
☑ GRANDMA STEVENS: Holiday Pantry Basket

Compliments

Creative Gift Baskets for All Occasions

Wednesday — Noon - 5 pm
Thurs. & Fri. — 11 am - 5 pm
Saturday — 10 am - 5 pm
Sunday — Noon - 5 pm

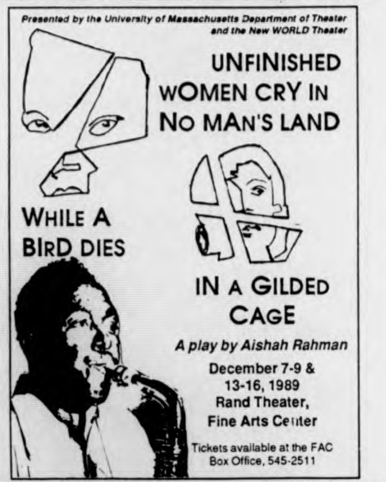
79 South Pleasant Street, lower level
Amherst / (413) 256-1551

Fine New, Used & Children's Books
European Periodicals
publishers overstocks at 40% to 80% off
special orders • out of print book searches
library appraisals • books bought

THE GLOBE BOOKSHOP

Mon-Sat 9-9, Sun 10-5 • 38 Pleasant St., Northampton • 586-5838

Presented by the University of Massachusetts Department of Theater and the New WORLD Theater



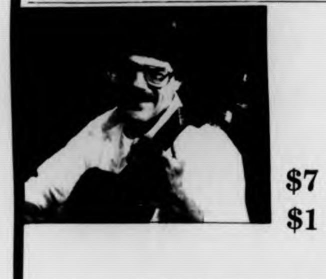
UNFINISHED WOMEN CRY IN NO MAN'S LAND WHILE A BIRD DIES IN A GILDED CAGE

A play by Aishah Rahman

December 7-9 &
13-16, 1989
Rand Theater,
Fine Arts Center

Tickets available at the FAC Box Office, 545-2511

Amherst College Presents
Gordon Bok



Sunday, Dec 10
8:00 pm

$7 General Public
$1 Amherst College

in the Campus Center Frontroom

SQUIRE VILLAGE APARTMENTS

1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments available for January 1.

On Bus Route

CALL 665-2203

BRECKENRIDGE
GENUINE COLORADO

$599

NEW DATE!
NEW PRICE!
JAN. 8 — 15

Trip Includes
- Round trip airfare
- Round trip transfers
- 7 Nights condo lodging
- 5 Days of lifts
- Services of on site staff
- All taxes and gratuities

SIGN UP NOW

UMASS SKI CLUB

TACO VILLA

MEXICAN RESTAURANTS

Great mexican food served quickly and inexpensively in a friendly & casual atmosphere... Try it! You'll like it!

Downtown Amherst and Northampton

Class of 1994

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

he averaged 10.2 points, 10.4 boards and 2.6 blocks a game last year. He attended the Nike All-America Camp this summer, and was sought by Xavier, Colorado, Fordham, St. Joseph's and Rhode Island.

"He's a good defender, a runner and a shot blocker," Calipari said. "But he needs to improve his offense."

Meyer, from Wausau, Wisc. doesn't appear to be the second coming of Kareem, but with the old adage saying that "you can't teach size," he'll be a welcome addition.

The other signee is Johnson, who was Co-Mr. Basketball in the state of Connecticut last year with current UMass freshman Harper Williams. Both starred at Bassick High School in Bridgeport, but Johnson is spending this year prepping at Maine Central Institute.

"I don't know if either one will have an immediate impact," Calipari said of Meyer and Johnson.

Johnson was named Connecticut Player-of-the-Year by USA Today, and is a Street and Smith All-American. He was also recruited by Virginia Tech, Boston University and Rhode Island.

The key for Johnson, Calipari feels, is reuniting him and Williams next season. "It helps any time you get two kids from the same high school," he said.

"It should work out fine," said Williams. "We're used to each other. We'll bring more of a nucleus to the team."

Another key is Calipari establishing himself in Connecticut as far as recruiting goes, beating out other big schools include the in-stater, UConn, for players like Harper Williams, Johnson and now Mike Williams.

"For us to be able to go into Connecticut and get the best players is very important," he said.

Calipari is terming Meyer "a project," as is the case with many players that size.

"We're not recruiting kids who are going to come in and be complete players," Calipari said. "The thing about big kids is that they develop slower than guards. It's hard for a kid to step in from high school to college."

Meyer, who averaged 10 points, eight rebounds and four blocks per game as a junior, was recruited by Loyola (Chicago), Old Dominion and Princeton.

UMass wins, 75-69

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

Last night's struggle may not have been the best the Minutemen have played this year after just three games, but there is a long season to go and even after the lackluster effort, Calipari is still optimistic.

"If we have a maximum effort, we can win most games," Calipari said.

Most of the games will be tougher than last night's however. The Minutemen will take to the road this Saturday when they travel to Northeastern for what should be a much tougher game.

"Hopefully, we can keep it going," Barbee said.

UMass may need a better effort from more than two of the nine players that registered minutes last night.

women's track

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

6¼ inches.

Placing first in the 4 x 160-meter relay was the team of Beyers, D. Smith, Ambrose and L. Johnson, with a time of 1:25.9. UMass took first and third in the 4 x 400-meter relay with times of 4:18.3 and 4:30.4, respectively. Team 'A' consisted of D. Smith, Muccini, L. Johnson and Ambrose; team 'B' comprised of B. Johnson, Michelle St. Laurent, McFadyen and Beyers.

Other UMass results: 55-meter hurdles finals — Anderson (3rd); 55-meter dash finals — Beyers (4th); 400-meter — McFadyen (3rd); 600-meter — Muccini (2nd) and L. Johnson (5th); 3000-meter — LaVallee (2nd); triple jump — Piccioli (2nd); shot put — Anderson (2nd); 20-pound weight — Castriotta (2nd); and high jump — Anderson (5th).

The Harvard Invitational has a penchant for attracting some of the finest athletes in the region, including future and former Olympians. Competing in the meet are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Providence College, City College of New York, Manhattan College, Boston University, Boston College, Northeastern and Harvard. New England track clubs also compete, including Boston International, Boston Bullets and Liberty.

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8:30-3:30 FRI 8:30-2:30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE. 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

YOUR LAST CHANCE TO participate in a true shabbat experience at Chabad House: Friday 6:00, Saturday 10:00.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA MEMBERS Take a pizza Study break Thurs Dec 7th 6-7:300 1634 Grad Tower.

FIRST ANNUAL 1990 Student Film/Video Festival Sponsored by Club Communication and The Union Video Center applications available in Machmer 417.

THE UMASS MUSIC THEATRE GUILD will be taking applications for director; music director; choreographer until Dec 8 fore their Spring Production The Mystery of Edwin Drood. For more information contact the Guild office at 545-0415.

FRENCH COMEDY MOVIE MARATHON: "La Chevre", "Betty Blue", "Buffet Froid". $2 for three movies! Tickets at door. This Thursday 6:00pm Herter Auditorium.

CRAFT FAIR on the concourse this wednesday. Thursday. Friday. Buy all your gifts. Ceramics, drums, glassblowing and more.

AFRICAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

GENERAL ELECTIONS
Where: Hills South room 271
When: Saturday Dec 9
Please attend!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

REMEMBER "SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK"? Watch the UVC television in the Student Union tomorrow morning from 10:15 to 11 am. Trust me.

J.A.C. MOVIE PIZZA NITE Wed. Dec 6th Brown Lounge 7pm $3

VISA OR MASTERCARD! Even if bankrupt or bad credit! We guarantee you a card or double your money back.Call 1-805-682-7555 ext M-1207.

BED AND BREAKFAST
Downtown Amherst
549-5961

AUTO FOR SALE

$500 OR BEST OFFER! 1976 Ford Granada in excellent shape needs a home. Great reliable car, nice interior, dependable in all kinds of weather. Perfect for driving around campus and/or for long trips! Call 549-2862. Aren't you tired of having to take the bus everywhere?!

1983 RENAULT ALL.5-speed reliable air am/fm 64000 miles good condition call 256-8397 evenings only 800 or B.O.

1982 DATSUN 210. good condition, A/C, new muffler, $1200 or BO Call Nader 584-1362.

1981 TOYOTA WAGON. Fine condition - You'll like it. 256-6757 (eves)

1979 BUICK SKYHAWK. Great shape: New tires, and muffler. $1000 or B/O call 546-8228.

SEIZED CARS, TRUCKS, 4 WHEELERS, TV's, stereos, furniture, computers by DEA, FBI, IRS, and US Customs. Available your area now. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext C-1675.

ATTENTION - Government Seized Vehicles 'from $100. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus buyers guide. 1-602-838-8885 ext. a-7627.

COLD???

DON'T GET LEFT OUTin the cold! Reserve your spring break trip now and save $25.00! Trips to Cancun and the Bahamas! Great prices! Great fun! For sun and fun call Lisa or Donna at 549-8228! Group discounts available! That's 549-8228!

ENTERTAINMENT

PERFORMANCE - A/V, DJ's, Lights, rentals, sales, service 508-922-3277.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED

FOR NEXT SEMESTER! Very low rent, sunny and clean (non-smokers, please) apartment. Call Alise 256-1250, evenings. Thanks.

FINANCE INVESTMENT CLUB

PRESENTS RENOWNED INVESTOR BEN BRANCH PHD to speak on investing trends and forcasting. Terrific opportunity to learn about the market from an insider 7-9pm in SBA 111 tonight. All members must attend this final meeting.

FOR RENT

QUESTIONS BOUT YOUR LEASE/SECURITY deposit deductions? Questions about subletting/assigning leases? Questions about the conditions of your new house or apartment? Contact the legal services center, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

ROOM ON BUSROUTE IN AMHERST HOUSE, ask for Rick, 256-1588.

NEED A PLACE TO STAY FOR WINTERSESSION? Rooms for rent. Friendly atmosphere. Utilities, electricity, cable included. For more info call: Adam 549-5790, Mike 549-8019.

SINGLE ASK FOR MATT after 7pm 549-0071.

TAKE OVER OUR LEASE 1-1-90 3 bdrm 1 bath lg kit fireplace 5min walk to campus $650mo 549-0011.

ROOMS FOR RENT OVER INTERSESSION very inexpensive! Contact Chrisk or JohnB 549-3831.

ROOM AVAILABLE OVER INTERSESSION in quiet East Pleasant St house. Male non-smoker preferred. 5 minute walk to campus. On Orchard Hill bus line. Full kitchen, 2 full baths, W/D. $150. Call Greg 549-6270.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for Sunset Ave apts. 165/mo call 549-3826 (across from Patterson)

AMHERST ROOMS TO RENT. Immediately. 401 Main St. 300. Call 253-2528.

1-BEDROOM APMT, over intersession, $375/mo call 549-2845. Utilities included.

TAKE OVER LEASE JAN 1 1990 2 bedroom Brandywine Apt. $720.00/month includes utilities 549-0892.

WANT TO LIVE OFF CAMPUS and still be closer than the dorms? Call 549-7919 about living at the NPSC (next door to the Newman Center)

AMHERST NICE SUNNY ROOM on bus route call Jeff 256-1588

ROOM FOR RENT AVAILABLE Dec. 15. Call Jamie or Jen 665-8662.
FEMALE WANTED TO SHARE HUGE ROOM in S. Amherst home Jan 215mo 256-0250.

FARMHOUSE WITH SILO SUNDERLAND Room available busstop $225 (util incld) 665-4627.

2 BEDROOMS AVAILABLE in Puffton starting Jan. 1. 3 people needed. Rent is $165/month per person includes heat and hot water. Take over lease. Call 549-2781.

SUNDERLAND - large 2 bedroom apt on bus rte. in complex. lease. $400 per mo. Call 665-8946. Starts Jan.

TWO BEDROOM APT. AVAILABLE IN BRITTANY beginning Jan 1 and ending June 1 $560/mo heat and hot water inc. Call 253-2303.

ONE BEDROOM APT. in Sunderland for rent. Avail Jan 1. Call 665-7353 after 4 p.m. Mon thru Friday. on bus route. Good deal to be made.

FOR SALE

IBM PC2 360K 2-5 ¼floppy panasonic printer supplies $1200 or B.O. Call Tim 534-4321.

FURNITURE FOR ONE ROOM$DR table couch lamps rugs Gayle 256-1250.

DIAMOND SOLITAIRE AND MATCHING WEDDING BAND: White gold, one-fifth carat, women's size 6. Call Beth 256-8625 $200 the set.

NICE MURRY 10SPEED New Dr. peppar presentation model $60 or B.O. Call 6-4166.

SKI BOOTS SALOMON SX71 Ladies size 6 $85 or B.O. Aft 7 6-4701.

SOLOMON SX61 Womens ski boots very good condition, size 9-10 asking $80 call 6-4166.

SKIS FOR SALE. Olin VI 205cm slalom w/Tyrolia 360D bindings. $90 call Howard 549-8487.

ROUND TRIP VOUCHER US AIR Best offer over $300 546-7496 Jerry.

KEEP WARM Navyblue CB Skijacket New: Name your price Call Jason 256-8028.

SCOTT RECEIVER, 200w acoustic spks both just bought new $500 546-8680.

DRUM SET - REMO 8 piece with high hat cymbals and stand, 18 inch crash cymbal with stand intermediate or bignner $200 or best offer call 256-8717.

4 track tascam ministudio with microphone, like new. $365. Wayne 545-0881, 585-5930.

QUEEN SIZE WATERBED includes everything $200 or B.O. Call Jeff 256-1588.

SMITH CORONA PWP6 - Disk storage 14 line screen just serviced - Jeff 546-7764.

SKI BOOTS 4 SALE! Black Dolemite size 7m call Chris 546-7144.

KEG COOLER AND CO2 TANK for sale call 253-0930.

REPOSSESSED VA & HUD HOMES available from government fro $1 without credit check. You repair. Also tax delingquent foreclosures call 1-805-682-7555 ext H-2009 for repo list your area.

SAN FRANCISCO $99 Dec 7th and 13th 253-7109 or 253-9875.

---PLANE TIX 4 SALE---

One way Dec 28th Ticket Boston to Minneapolis $120 or BO Call Marshall 6-6853.

FOUND

FOUND - One long coat - at saturday's beach party. Call Jeff 549-1047 and describe.

LADIES HELBROS QUARTZ GOLD WATCH with circle face call Steve 549-4383.

FOUND A VW KEY late Friday night at corner of N. Pleasant and Main St. Call Stew at 549-2982.

GRADUATING IN MAY?!

STUDENTS GOING ON EXCHANGE next semester would like to make arrangements now for taking over your lease at the end of May for the fall Semester '90. We're interested in a house or house apartment in Amherst area. Please call & leave message 546-6308.

HELP WANTED

HELP YOURSELF AND HELP UMASS!! Telefund needs great communicators to raise money for UMass. Earn $5 to $7/hr. Call 545-3509.

WINTERSESSION IN AMHERST? Telefund is looking for students to raise money for UMass. Earn $5 to $7/hr. Call 545-3509.

EVEN THE NIGHTS ARE BETTER Telefund! Make $5 to $7/hr raising money for UMass! Call 545-3509.

TELEFUND NEEDS YOU OVER INTERSESSION! Make $5 to $7/hr raising money for UMass!! Call 545-3509.

PAY OFF THOSE HOLIDAY DEBTS over intersession and spring semester! Telefund needs students to raise money for UMass! Make $5 to $7/hr. Call 545-3509.

DESPERATLY NEED TUTORING! For Coins 121 will pay well $$ Call 549-1756.

CROSS COUNTRY SKI INSTRUCTORS wanted by Amherst Leisure Services for late January through Early March experience necessary call 256-4065.

CHRISTMAS CASH FOR RESEARCH seeking papers, research etc on quantitative analysis/probability/statistics. Call GFLD 774-5369 leave mesg. on tape.

LOCKER MANAGER NEEDED to start spring semester for the Outing Club 10-12 hours per week $4 per hour starting for more info call 545-3131 or 545-2020.

EARN UP TO $1500 this winter break. Join us in our fight for clean water and air, fight for recycling. Training provided. Part time positions into spring available. Call Clean Water Action 549-7450.

EARN $10,000 next summer running your own franchise of Colleg Pro Painters. Info. Session Thurs 12/7 at 4:00pm in Campus Center rm 168-170.

ATTENTION - hiring! Government jobs - your area. $17,840-$69,485. Call 1-602-838-8885. Ext. R7627.

CRUISESHIPS NOW HIRING for spring, Christmas and next summer breaks. Many positions. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext S-1120.

PART TIME EARN EXTRA CHRISTMAS MONEY while helping others. $5.50-$6.50 per hour. Call 586-5243.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-641-8003 ext 598.

STREET ENTERTAINMENT NEEDED FOR CHRISTMAS Season fundraiser! Earn extra money for Christmas! Call 586-5243.

I'LL EDIT YOUR PAPER

I'LL HELP WITH SPELLING, grammar, word choice, sentence structure and length. Let me take your rough draft and make it something special. $2 for pages 1-5, $1.50 for every other page. Papers in the humanities (economics, political science, journalism, etc.) preferred. Four years editing experience. Call David at 253-2455. Leave a message on my machine. Thanks.

LASER LIGHT ROCK CONCERT

THY BOGPC PRESENTS: Saturn V-The Laser Light Rock Concert. Wednesday December 13 at 8 and 10 pm in the Campus Center Auditorium. Tickets $5, available at tickets unlimited -- 317 Student union.

LOST

LOST STERLING SILVER HOOP earrings, please call 253-7980.

PULSAR WATCH GOLD CHECKERBOARD FACE BROWNLEATHER STRAP around E-Lot or Totman please call 546-8055.

LOST MANY KEYS on ring GRC to Rolling Ridge Rd $20. Reward. 549-2659.

IF ANYONE HAS FOUND Matt Rychebushes wallet please contact 546-6032 Thank you.

EYEGLASSES WITH GOLD FRAMES. Lost near campus pond Saturday Nov. 2 If found please contact Michelle: 6-5770.

LOST PASSPORT (233542). If found call Mehrdad Yarzanoeh at 549-5189.

HEARTSHAPED PIN Fri Dec. 1 Great Sentimental value. Call 6-5874.

66676 BACKFIRED AND 66749 doesn't seem to connect us. Please leave the wallet at the Campus Center Information Desk or take an ad out here so I can contact you. Will reimburse.

MOTORCYCLES

YAMAHA '82 Mint cond. $600 BO. 2 Helmets 253-5018 call eve.

PERSONALS

SCOTT L. AND JOHN 1000's thanx for Monday Night!! Love ya Kelli.

DOC... I'm going to really miss U I'm glad we are still friends I luv U!

GREN WIESBERG Happy 19th (belated) to my tres cool buddy and future roomie! ULKU!!! Love ya Carolyn.

GBS - 1-Your mother must have been a theif because she stole all the stars from the sky and put them in your eyes. 2-Do you go to UMass? 3-Aren't these people "jerks"?

HEY UMASS TOMORROW IS RICK G. DAY. Help us celebrate at his apartment tommorow hight. Come on, show up, do it for little Ricky. Enjoy the live music by Peter Gabriel. It's going to be one hell of a party.

ANGELA YIPPIE, you're an RA! Congratulations! You'll do great next semester. I'll miss you, ya know. Love, your roomie.

KATY KREIGER
Congratulations! You have made DZ and GE very proud! Good luck! Love, Sharon.

PAUL - Congratulations on finishing your last semester - I will miss you every minute. I love you very much, Amanda.

STEVEN BOWERS - Good luck in the real world. You'll do great. I will really miss you, Brock! Love, Ari Vais.

EVITA CAST - You're all the best! I love my first show! Break a leg tonight and good luck! Make it bigger and not so junin. Love you all Michael.

TRACY, KIM, LEIGH, PATSY AND ANNE, thanks for an outstanding birthday! I love you guys! Kirstin.

HAPPY 19TH BIRTHDAY PATRICE! "Pat" no line tonight. Lachium! Love J & A.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE NEWEST SISTERS of Tri Sigma - Deb, Kim, Susan, Lisa, Robin, Tracie, Julie, Kelly, and Jen. You're the best! Love you Tri Sigma Sister.s.

AI BONITA, Happy birthday. EJ. How's that for short and sweet?

DAMON K No more worries. I love you most. Pythias.

ANDY YACHT, MD I hope you are enjoying your hell week.

K2 Happy birthday! Welcome to...adulthood! Love, Kim & Bekah P.S. you're a pisser.

TO THE WILD WOMAN LISA ROGERS happy 21st birthday. She'll be at the pub tonight so all you wild and crazy men buy her a shot and really wish her a happy birthday! Love Jenna, Steph, Katie Rachel & Cheryl.

HEY GABS, GET A CLUE! A,E,I,O but not U!! Guess who??

WIKKED SIKK PHROG AND FRIENDS: Good luck on finals...better than a 9 in bugs! Creeping death!!! -Mikey.

TO THE PLEDGES OF SIGMA KAPPA! As initiation approaches remember all that you've done - what you've worked for is almost there!

ERIKA AND JEN thanx for being the greatest friends! Love Poopy.

TO JEN HINGSTON - HI From Jim.

TOM FOERSTER HAPPY 20th BIRTHDAY. Love ya Kelly.

JENNIFER CARDELLO Happy birthday from Corey and Adam and all of 2 floor Cance.

HEY NINETEEN That's Patrice Comeau! Have a hoot of a birthday, Fartwad-no plastic men on cakes need apply. And hey everybody get a clue - stop calling her Pat. -Love Jen.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO TONY PROCACINO! I'd tell you in person but I can't find ya! Give me a call! Sharon.

MELANIE MOORE Happy, happy happy 21st. Congratulations - now we are both psyched! Next semester will be fun! Have a great birthday! Love, Laura.

CHRISSY FROM LONGMEADOW Met you Sat Night at Zeta Psi. Didn't get a chance to say bye the way I wanted to. Would like to try again. Interested? Reply here - Dave.

BJORKMAN Gordon, saw you in FAC Hall. Met you at your presentation. Would like to make third time a charm. If interested - Call me (Tonya)

ZONE OUT AT D.P. DOUGH

FINALS GOODY BAG
Order your finals goody bag now! For yourself, a friend, a secret admirer...Dec. 4th & 5th on the Campus Center Concourse.
SPONSORED BY ALPHA CHI OMEGA

R-R-R-RING

HI! I'M JIM COVENO YOUR AT&T STUDENT CAMPUS MANAGER here at UMass. I would like to tell you how AT&T can help lower your lo9ng distance bills. I can also answer any of your long distance questions. The best time to reach me is 3pm-5pm Mon-Fri but you can call anytime 546-4747.

SERVICES

A $100 SAVINGS BOND IS YOURS if you don't qualify for financial aid using our service! Details, write: Financial Aid, Box 122, St. Cloud, MN 56302.

PIONEER RESUME. Open everyday. Professional, fast, inexpensive. 4 year disk storage. 665-8873.

SPRING BREAK 90's

COLD?? Don't get left out in the cold, order spring break trips now and save $$$ or even better, you can charge your tripp on a major credit card!! For fun in the sun choose Bahamas or Cancun. Great prices! Great fun. Call Lisa or Donna now. 549-8228.

TOY FOR TOTS

SGT. LEE FORESTER, USMCR out of Westover AFB wishes to thank the Army and Air force ROTC for their help with this years toys for tots campaign on cmapus and asks that all students help to contribute so that the less fortunate children in our community will have a brighter holiday.

TRAVEL

ESCAPE UMASS TO Venezuela and Jamaica spring break '90 from $439 Call Beth or Sue 253-2321.

ROUND TRIP TICKET FOR SALE, flies to LA from Logan, Dec 29-Jan 8, only $325 call Jon at 256-1623.

BRADLEY AIRPORT SHUTTLE Christmas special!! $15 fare call noew limited seating. Valley Transporter 256-8484.

NASSAU SPRING BREAK '90 as low as $339 Colpitts world Travel Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235.

LOWEST PRICES GUARANTEED Cancun, Bahamas, Bermuda, Jamaica spring break '90 Call beth or Sue 253-2321.

WE BEAT THE COMPETITION BY $30-70 on trips to Jamaica and Montego Bay. Great deals also on Bahamas and Nassau. Save $25 if booked before 1-15-90. Michelle 546-7653.

UNDER 21? NO PROBLEM! Spring Break in Cancun, Nassau, Jamaica! Only $75 deposit by Dec 12th. (Daytona packages too!) Starting from $248. Karen 256-4659.

SPRING BREAK 90' Jamaica, Acapulco, Cancun, Daytona...experienced sales rep, dependable travel service. $25 off before Jan 1 Mary & Kaern 549-8166.

CANCUN FOR SPRING BREAK 8 days 7 night of parties people sun and no drinking age. Starting at $359 Call Chris or Amy 549-0532.

TYPING

RESUMES LASERPRINTED OVERNIGHT. Experienced, friendly, helpful. Dirt cheap resumes. Lisa 665-2831.

CASES, PAPERS, THESES, ON-CAMPUS, affordable, grammar reviewed, dependable, experienced 584-7924, Nancy.

RESUMES AND PAPERS typed professionally: laserprinting, type setting , carolyn ant wordsmith 253-4564.

TYPING, TAPE TRANSCRIPTION. Fast, accurate. 253-WORD.

WANTED TO RENT

ROOM FOR WINTER SESSION NEEDED call Jeff 546-7764 non smoker.

LOOKING FOR 1-2 BEDROOM for next spring - to rent or take over lease. Please leave message for Jonathan at 549-6605.

ROOMS/HOUSING NEEDED for January. Contact SBMC 256-8615 9am-5pm.

FEMALE NONSMOKER LOOKING TO RENT single room in Amherst starting Jan 1 Leave message 253-5496.

Congrats, Jug!

SPORTS

UMass works OT to beat Yale

Minutemen hang on for second straight win, 75-69

By GEORGE AUSTIN
Collegian Staff

After last night's 75-69 overtime win over Yale last night at the Curry Hicks Cage, the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team has won its last two games after an opening night loss to Lowell. Still though, UMass coach John Calipari insists:

"We're not that good yet. When you have a good team, that means everybody comes to play. We got two good performances today."

Those two good efforts came from senior point guard Cary Herer, (eight assists, five steals and five rebounds) and freshman forward Tony Barbee (22 points on 7 of 12 shooting).

"I was really determined after the way I played Saturday (when he fouled out with 11:56 left and no points)," Barbee said. But why aren't the Minutemen that good yet? According to Calipari, the answer seem to be threefold. First, there is the psychological factor, which doomed the Minutemen when they played Lowell and almost doomed them last night.

"Sometimes, we just think the other team is not as good, and we don't have to play hard to win," Calipari said.

The Minutemen had to struggle to win against a team last night that they probably should have stuffed. But "Downtown" David Brown's leaning three-pointer fell through the cords with no time left in regulation to send the game into OT for Yale, 64-apiece.

UMass did not shoot quite as well, just 23-of-64 from the field. That may be the second reason why the Minutemen are not that good yet.

"We've got to be the worst shooting team in the country," Calipari said. "How can we shoot 35 percent?"

Still though, the Minutemen scored the first seven points of the OT. Sophomore guard Jim McCoy had four of those points, two on a little jumper from the right side of the basket and two free throws.

But the Minutemen as a whole, suffered from the field. McCoy was just 5-of-18. And a usually-pinpoint Rafer Giles was 1-of-14.

To make matters worse though, freshman forward Harper Williams fouled out of the game with still 10:24 in regulation. Williams was not that much of a force anyhow, grabbing just two rebounds in 15 minutes. That is the third problem.

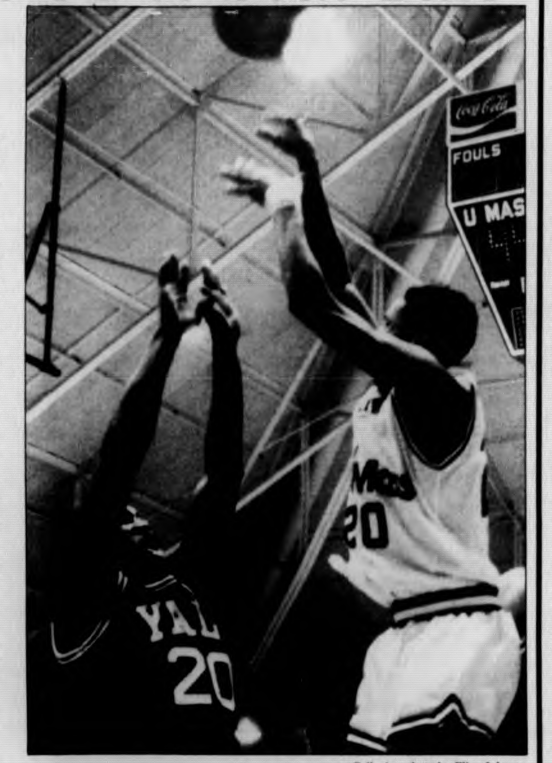
On the opposite side of the spectrum, Yale's Stuart Davies had eight rebounds and eight points.

"We can't get outrebounded by teams this bad," Calipari said.

All is not that bad though. If you take Calipari's assessment of the Bulldogs, the Minutemen have improved greatly since they lost 70-69 to Lowell last Tuesday.

"This team (Yale) is about 25 points better than Lowell," Calipari said.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15



Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

Sophomore guard Jim McCoy scored six of his 21 points in overtime to lead the Minutemen to a 75-69 win over Yale at the Cage.

Minutemen, 75-69

Massachusetts (75): Tony Barbee 7-12 5-7 22; Harper Williams 1-3 0-0 2; John Tate 5-8 3-4 13; Cary Herer 1-2 0-0 2; Jim McCoy 5-18 11-11 21; Chris Bailey 1-1 0-0 2; Tommy Pace 2-6 1-3 5; Rafer Giles 1-14 6-8 8; Matt Anderson 0-0 0-0 0. Totals: 23-64 26-33 75.

Yale (69): Travis McCready 6-11 1-4 14; Stuart Davies 2-2 4-6 8; Casey Cammann 2-7 1-1 5; Ed Petersen 3-8 3-4 10; Dean Campbell 9-13 3-3 22; David Brown 4-8 0-0 10; Steve Keller 0-0 0-0 0; Todd Trimmer 0-2 0-0 0; John Brodsky 0-0 0-0 0; Rob Connolly 0-0 0-0 0. Totals: 26-51 12-18 69.

3-point goals: Massachusetts 3-14 (Barbee 3-6, McCoy 0-1, Giles 0-7); Yale (Brown 2-4, McCready 1-1, Campbell 1-1, Petersen 1-3).

UMass inks four

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

Here it is, early December, and the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team has already completed its recruiting for the 1990-91 season.

Tuesday, UMass coach John Calipari announced the signing of two more high school players for next season, bringing the total for the November early-signing period to four.

Mike Williams, a 6-foot-3 point guard from Hartford who is regarded as one of the best players in Connecticut, and Ted Cottrel, a 6-9 defensive specialist from Annapolis, Md., join the already-signed Jeff Meyer and Jerome Johnson to form the UMass hoop Class of 1994.

"Both are pretty good players, and good kids. Both will help us," Calipari said of Williams and Cottrel, who both signed national letters-of-intent on Nov. 15, but held off returning the letters while contemplating their futures.

"There are two areas we need help. One is at guard and one is inside," Calipari said.

Williams can help out immediately at guard. The All-State player from Weaver HS averaged 30.0 points, 6.5 rebounds and 7.5 assists last season. Calipari bumped off some heavy competition, including North Carolina State, Pittsburgh, Virginia and Connecticut, to get Williams.

"He's a scoring point guard, but different from Anton [Brown]," Calipari said. ""This guy is a steadier player, who can come in and reverse dunk on you. He's not physical, though, and he's got to improve his shot."

Cottrel is a second-team All-County player at Annapolis Senior HS, where

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

Track prepares for Harvard

Minutewomen coming off record-setting meet at UNH

By ADRIENNE MATT
Collegian Staff

After another successful meet at the New Hampshire Invitational, the University of Massachusetts women's indoor track team is eager to concentrate on tough competition this Saturday at the Harvard Invitational at 9 a.m.

"We've trained really hard all fall and we've got the security of two successful meets under our belts," said head coach Julie LaFreniere. "We're very proud of them.

"These previous meets gave them the confidence to perform well," she said. "It was also a thorough workout."

Some harriers got a more intense workout than others, but the results were nothing short of dazzling. In Durham, NH, fourteen personal first places were awarded: 55-meter hurdles trials — Jen Piccioli (1st heat) and Colleen Anderson (2nd heat); 55-meter hurdles finals — Piccioli [New England qualifying time]; 55-meter dash trials — Sue McFadyen (1st heat), Aleta Beyers (2nd heat) and LeeAnn Ambrose (3rd heat) [NE time]; 55-meter dash finals — Ambrose [NE time]; 600-meter run — Dana Smith; 800-meter — Becky Johnson [NE time]; 1500-meter — Laura LaVallee; long jump — Beyers; triple jump — Lennice Johnson [NE time and school record]; shot put — Rachel Castriotta; 20-pound weight — Tina White [NE time and personal record].

The UMass school record for the triple jump was set by Julie Muccini in 1986 at 35 feet 10 inches. On Saturday, Lennice Johnson cleared 36 feet exactly. White's personal record throw for the 20-pound weight was placed at 43 feet. The New England Standard for this event is 38 feet

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

Reardon heading for home

Former UMass star signs three-year contract with Red Sox

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff
and the Associated Press

Jeff Reardon, the major-league save leader during the 1980s, is coming home.

Reardon, a free agent, signed a three-year deal with the Boston Red Sox yesterday for $6.8 million, it was announced at the Major League winter meetings in Nashville, Tenn.

"We're delighted to get him," Boston General Manager Lou Gorman said. "We now have one of the best bullpens in baseball."

Reardon, who had 31 saves for Minnesota last season, struck out 234 batters in 251.1 innings while pitching for the University of Massachusetts from 1974-77, to break current Toronto Blue Jays lefty Mike Flanagan's school record for career strikeouts. That total includes 21 K's in a no-hitter in 1976.

"His wife is from Boston and Jeff wanted to come back to the area," Gorman said.

Reardon, 34, was born in Pittsfield and graduated from Wahconah High School in Dalton. He was drafted by the Montreal Expos in the 23th round of the 1973 amateur draft, but passed up the offer to attend UMass.

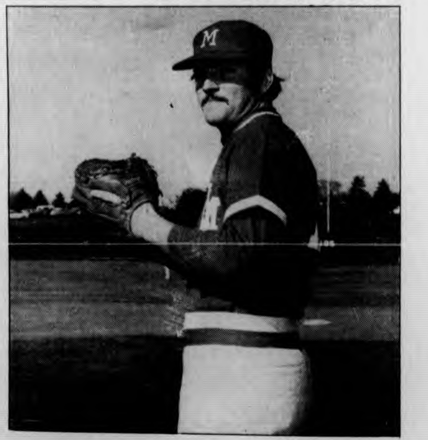
During his four-year career with the Minutemen, Reardon only compiled a record of 15-17 and a 3.76 earned run average. He was not drafted after his senior year, and chose to pitch in a semipro league in New Brunswick.

"He was up there playing when a scout called and said the Mets need a pitcher in Lynchburg," said Dick Bergquist, who coached the Minutemen while Reardon was here. "He jumped at the chance, and went down there and played well."

Reardon was 8-3 for Lynchburg in '77, with a 3.30 ERA and a Carolina League-leading three shutouts. The next season he was promoted to Double-A Jackson, where he was 17-4 with a 2.54 ERA.

To that point Reardon was still a starter, as he had been at UMass. But in 1979, he was converted to a reliever at Triple-A Tidewater, and made his major league debut

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14



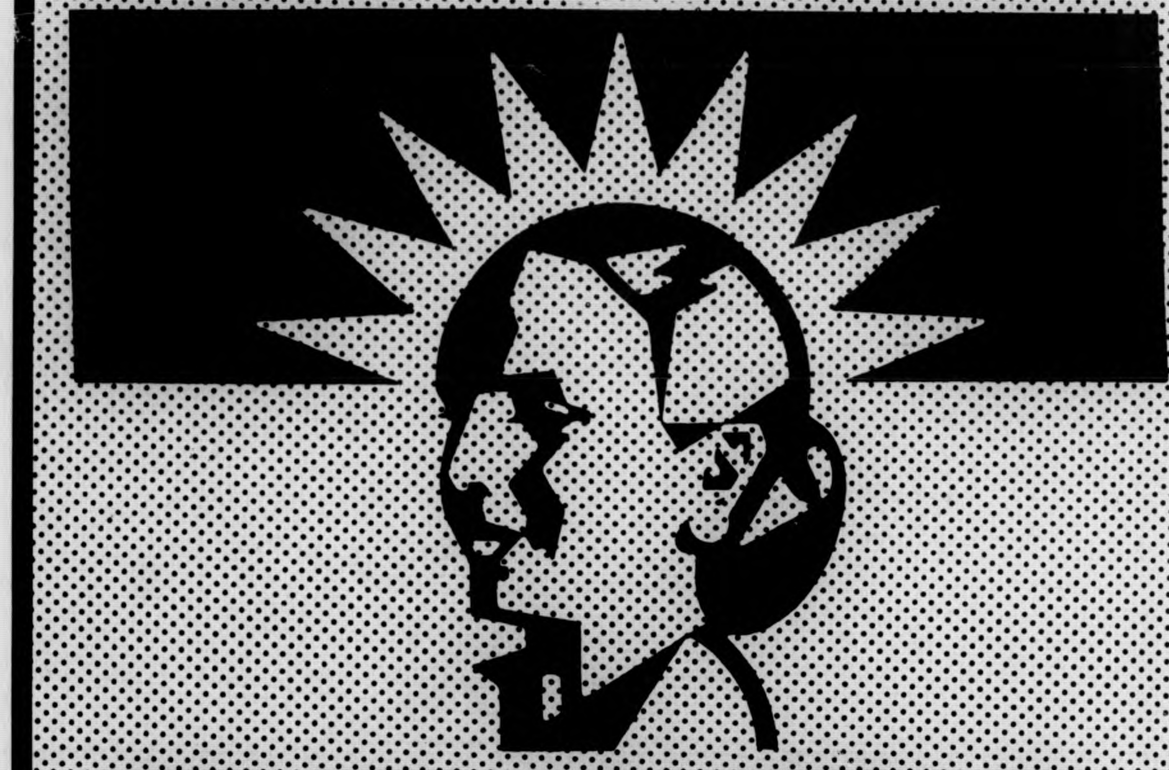
Sports Information photo

Relief ace Jeff Reardon, shown here with UMass in the mid-70s, signed with the Boston Red Sox yesterday.

Clarification

An article published in yesterday's Collegian about the men's basketball team was not intended to draw racial or sexual stereotypes. The Collegian and the writer are sorry for the mistake.

THIS WEEKEND



EVITA™

By HEATHER RONOVECH
Collegian Correspondent

How many of us remember Patti Lupone singing, "Don't Cry for Me, Argentina," on the commercial for Evita when we were 10-years-old? The musical, Evita, is an energetic and powerful Tim Rice/Lloyd Webber Production and winner of the 1980 Tony Award for Best Musical. It will be presented by the UMass Music Theatre Guild tonight, tomorrow and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall.

Evita is an exciting rock opera, in the same genre as the musical, Tommy, of the '70s. It is also a story told entirely through song, with no spoken lines, as Les Miserables. It is no ordinary show. Evita is a spectacular smash hit, that should not be missed.

Spanning the years 1934-1952, Evita is based on the life of Eva Peron, the wife of Argentine dictator Juan Peron. Eva had as much, if not more, power in the government as her husband. Some considered her a Savior of the masses, while others saw her as a ruthless authoritarian. The musical Evita neither glorifies her nor condemns her as a political figure.

Just as important as Eva is the character of Che. Che is both an observer and a narrator of the actions in the musical.

Sheila Cushing, a cast member, said, "Che is often used as a device of actively confronting Eva about her actions."

One very interesting aspect of the show is its innovative use of computerized synthesizers in the pit orchestra. Jonathan Smith, the music director, will operate a Macintosh to orchestrate the entire score of 25 instruments. Assisting Smith will be a percussionist, a trumpeter, and a saxophonist.

The UMass Music Theatre Guild is a student-run organization which was started in 1936. They have had recent successes with Little Shop of Horrors, and Godspell, performed in Bowker Auditorium in 1988. Last spring, West Side Story nearly sold out the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. The cast features Melissa Benton as Eva, Marc Clermont as Che, Scott Davidson as Peron, Raphael Weil as Migaldi, and Suzanne Chiasson as the Mistress. There is also a chorus of about 25 people.

Evita is directed by Bill Stewich, and choreographed by Kris Golembewski.

Tickets are on sale at $3 for students and $5 for the general public, and are available at the Fine Arts Center Box Office or at the door.

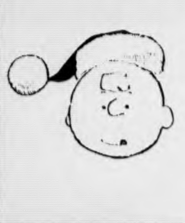
Kathe Libbon

Esoteric Astrology

Amherst Ma. (413) 548-9681

LORD'S & LADY'S
HAIR SALONS
15 percent off all services with Student or Faculty I.D.
586-7913 Hampshire Mall
Holyoke Mall 536-4310

BOOK BARGAINS
THOUSANDS OF RECENT AND CURRENT BOOKS AT 40-80% OFF NEW LIST PRICE — OVER 40,000 IN STOCK. Bargain Editions • Remainders • Pub. Overstock • Used • First Editions • Playing Cards.
VALLEY BOOKS
199 N. Pleasant Street
Amherst, Mass.
M-F 10:30-5:30 256-1508
Sat. 10-5, Sun. 12-5 VISA/MC



Wow! The selection and the prices are better...at Liquors 44.

BEER WINE LIQUORS

Prices do not include deposit

COORS, COORS LIGHT & COORS GOLD two 12 pks. 12 oz. bottles $9.79 + DEP.
PIELS REAL DRAFT case of 24-12 oz. cans $6.99 + DEP.
KIRIN DRY case of 24-12 oz. bottles $9.99 + DEP AFTER REBATE SALE $15.99 MAIL-IN REBATE $6.00
FOSTER'S LAGER case of 24-12 oz. bottles $14.99 + DEP.
Grolsch $9.99 + DEP. SALE $14.99 MAIL-IN REBATE $5.00 AFTER REBATE

INGLENOOK WINES blush, chablis, burgundy, french columbard, chenin blanc SALE $3.69 MAIL-IN REBATE $1.00 $2.69 AFTER REBATE
NAPA RIDGE WHITE ZINFANDEL $2.99 750 ml
BLUE NUN 750 ml $3.49
FRANZIA BAG-IN-A-BOX 5.0 liter SALE $5.99 MAIL-IN REBATE $1.00 $4.99 AFTER REBATE
SUN COUNTRY STRAWBERRY BLUSH WINE COOLER 2.0 liter SALE $2.55 MAIL-IN REBATE $2.00 55¢ AFTER REBATE

CUERVO GOLD TEQUILA 750 ml $8.69
SEAGRAMS GIN 1.75L SALE $9.99 MAIL-IN REBATE $3.00 $6.99 AFTER REBATE
YUKON JACK 750 ml SALE $7.99 MAIL-IN REBATE $2.00 $5.99 AFTER REBATE
FLESCHMANNS PREFERRED WHISKEY 1.75L $10.99
FAMOUS GROUSE SCOTCH 750 ml $11.79

not responsible for typographical errors

LIQUORS 44

SALE PRICES THUR. 12/7/89 THRU WED. 12/15/89

9am to 11pm Monday thru Saturday
HADLEY Campus Plaza/Route 9 253-9344
◄ TWO ► LOCATIONS
HOLYOKE 30 Lincoln St. 534-4555
VISA master charge TeleCheck

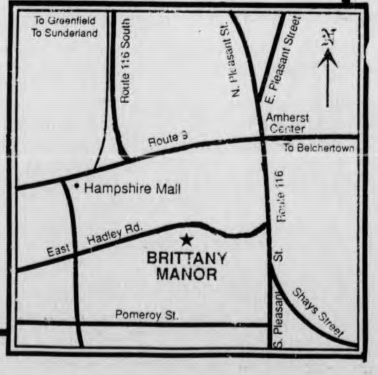
RENT A WRECK
New & Used Cars
Trucks & Vans Also Available
North Amherst Rent-A-Wreck
Rt. 63 No. Amherst
549-RENT

AMHERST CINEMA
SEX, LIES & VIDEOTAPE
Rated R
Monday-Thursday 7:30 p.m.
Friday & Saturday 7 & 9 p.m.
$2.50 w/student ID
Located in downtown Amherst
30 Amity Street
253-5426

BRITTANY MANOR
Brittany Manor Drive • (413) 256-8534

Two Bedroom Apartments
AVAILABLE NOW!
STARTING $490 PER MONTH
Rent includes heat and hot water.

ENJOY THESE FEATURES:
- Fully-Equipped Kitchen, Including Disposal
- Large Livingroom with Ceiling-to-Floor Windows
- On the UMass Bus Route
- Wall-to-Wall Carpeting
- Large Dining Area
- Oversized Bathrooms
- Wall-to-Wall Closets
- Storm Windows
- Dead-bolt Security Locks
- Cable T.V. Available
- Ample Parking
- Swimming Pool



GIFTS
BATH TIME gifts for young & old — fragrant soaps, shampoos, bubble baths, lotions, and oils create a soothing tubful of good clean fun.
MUGS MUGS and more mugs. Many gift-boxed; for every occasion, and for every body. Choose from functional, funky, formal, casual, from $1.49 to $10.95. Most around $7.00
Find it at Faces
amherst/northampton 7 days
WORK IS HELL

Band on a journey to success

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff
and RICHARD J. TOOMEY
Collegian Correspondent

"Once we got flown in to play a private party for the director of Lloyd's (a prestigious British bank). We had a reputation . . . still do, as one of the most lively bands on the European circuit."

That's Mark Herschler speaking, not bragging, after a little prodding about his musical past, especially concerning the still-existing Lost Wandering Jazz and Blues Band, based across the Atlantic. One example of their power is that both John Lord and David Gilmour were inspired to sit in with the band that features two female vocalists and a full horn section.

Herschler recently left because, "I wanted to play more modern, original material. I wanted to play with my own band."

This leads us to the Valley area, where Herschler went to school (Amherst College) and where identical twin brother/local musician Matt continues to live. Mark initially teamed up with local favorites The Rent Party as lead guitarist, after choosing to settle here for a while in July of this year. More recently, he's started playing with Matt and a couple other local musicians.

And that brings us up to today, or more specifically to Saturday night at Sheehan's, when Mark Herschler and the Journeymen play the treasured weekend time slot.

Featuring Mark on guitar, Matt on bass, Doug Raneri on drums and Tom Santoriello on slide guitar and mandolin, the band, and many in the local area, have that feeling of anticipation that something good's going to happen come Saturday night. All the band members have more than paid their musical dues, and their coming together is a melting pot of varied experience.

"Santoriello just came and sat in one day (at the Wednesday night open mike at Ye Olde Watering Hole) and we just clicked," Mark said. "He's got a great ear, and he's a great guitarist."

The sentiment is shared for Mark, whose guitar playing has received raves throughout the Valley, as both a solo performer and a Rent Party person. "I think he's one of the best guitarists in the Valley," Brian Harrington, a local drummer with a strong reputation, said.

"Matt Herschler is really a piano man, but he's recently picked up the bass because that's what we need in the band," said his brother.

Both siblings do the bulk of the songwriting; some of it combined, some independent of each other.

Doug Raneri has been in the area for a while, becoming a well known, respected drummer. He's been in Band of Crows with Joe Keenan, F.C. Pohaqu and most recently, Spunk. "I'm just a friend of (Matt's) and we started to rehearse and . . ."

And what does all of this come to? Why the buzz around town? What's this music like, anyway?

"Simply put it's funk-folk with rock elements and a jazzy-blues influence. I'm always trying to come up with ways to describe it, but I can't really," Mark said.

"It's an original thing, crossing over a lot of borders. there's a lot of elements, it can be kind of angular," said Doug.

"I'll call it rock in folk with blues and jazz undertones, but I'll feel free to change my mind tomorrow," said Mark in an attempt to clarify. Whatever they are, chances are that you'll feel like you spent $4 wisely when you leave Sheehan's Saturday night.

Opening the show will be singer/songwriter Jo Thomas, who will be performing along with Amy Fairchild. Thomas, who has been writing her own music for over seven years, injects touching personal emotion into her lyrics, as heard in songs such as "The River" and "The Divine Mother Eats Lowfat Cottage Cheese."

"My music is like a symbol of my thoughts, Thomas said. "I write the music to better understand and expand upon them."

The band that bathes together, stays together

Photo by Tobey

Special Student & Youth Fares to EUROPE, SOUTH AMERICA, ASIA
from New York on Scheduled Airlines!

DESTINATIONS	OW	RT
LONDON	$175	$350
PARIS	215	415
BRUSSELS	195	370
ROME	275	550
STOCKHOLM/OSLO	250	460
COPENHAGEN	250	460
ZURICH	215	405
FRANKFURT	215	410
RIO	365	730
TOKYO	495	850

Add on fares from Boston, Washington, Chicago, Pittsburgh and other U.S. cities. Plus $3 dep. tax $10 custom/immigration fee
CALL OR WRITE FOR OUR SPECIAL FARES TO THE SO. PACIFIC AND AUSTRALIA
Eurail and Eurail Youth Passes available immediately
1-800-777-0112 STA
212-986-9470
WHOLE WORLD TRAVEL
17 E. 45th St., Suite 805, New York, NY 10017
Part of the worldwide STA Travel Network

JACKSON'S FLEA MARKET
EVERY SUNDAY
Indoors - 6:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M.
Where THOUSANDS of people shop every Sunday for Antiques, New & Used items, Baseball Cards, Furniture, Crafts, etc. In fact "If you can't find it at Jackson's you probably don't need it."
MT. FARMS MALL RT.9 HADLEY, MA
Deal info. (413) 584-2300
(On Northampton Bus Route)

Screenprinting...
Tee Shirts. Sweatshirts. Jackets. Bumperstickers. Decals. Athletic Jerseys. Hats.
For your Group, Company or Organization
YOU NAME IT- WE SCREEN IT!
RUSH ORDERS OUR SPECIALTY
Complete Art and Design Department
E-S SPORTS
screenprint specialists
47 Jackson Street. Box 771
Holyoke MA 01041
In Mass. 413-534-5634

Scott's LIQUORS
OPEN MON-SAT 8 AM-11 PM
Tel: 549-2692
6 University Drive at Newmarket Center Amherst, MA
diagonally across from UMass Stadium

Start your Holiday Celebrations with these specials from Scott's

Rolling Rock 12pk bottles $5.99 + Dep.
Michelob 24-12oz bottles Regular, Light, Dry $12.99 + Dep.
Peachtree Schnapps 750 ml $6.99
Captain Morgan Spiced Rum 1.75 $13.99
Jack Daniels Whiskey 750 ml $9.99
Absolut Vodka 1.75 $18.99

VISA/MASTERCARD ACCEPTED, ALSO LOCAL PERSONAL CHECKS
Every Day Low Price For Bud, Bud Light, Miller, Miller Lite, Genuine Draft, Coors, Coors Light and Extra Gold $11.99 plus Dep.
Kegs Available
WE WANT TO BE YOUR FAVORITE LIQUOR STORE

ATTENTION!!!

Date: December 7, 1989
From: National Student Exchange
To: The University
Re: Celebration of a year on exchange at a far place within the U.S.

Dear Undergraduate Students:

Today is your last chance to apply for a restricted school in Hawaii, Florida, California or the Virgin Islands via the National Student Exchange Program. Participation in the program will widen your educational horizons and enhance your undergraduate experiences. Attend our information session today at Campus Center Room 101 at 4 PM to obtain more information. BE There!!!

Banging around with Kyruss

By DANIELLE DOWLING
Collegian Staff

Let's face it, Western Massachusetts isn't exactly the capital of heavy metal on this side of the globe. And Katina's is definitely not the mecca for bashing, thrashing, or even posing forms of life.

Considering this, it's quite impressive that local metal band Kyruss, consisting of vocalist Jeff Morace, guitarists Mike Ryan and Mike Gworek, bassist Sean Ricker, and drummer Jason Elliott, have made it so far in 9 months. After opening for Plastic X on several occasions and their most recent opening gig for Manowar, Kyruss has now won the coveted prize of becoming a headlining act.

One can only imagine how the band members feel about this opportunity. "It's about time," Gworek said, "we're not really prepared for it though."

"Before we were playing for people who weren't there to see us," Elliott added, "but now people are coming to see us. It's definitely a big step."

But this is only the first of many steps for the group if they plan to make this their career. So where will they go from here?

"I think it's about time we head away from this area," Ryan replied.

"Here things are stagnant, unlike in the city where people are always picking up on the latest groups," Ricker said. "Here the kids are always asking us to do covers of Metallica or Megadeth when we would prefer to do our originals."

Besides their inactive surroundings, the group also faces the problem of balancing academia with the pursuit of musicianship.

"We can't be dedicated to our music and going to school at the same time. We have such conflicting schedules," Ricker claimed, "and our practice space in Springfield isn't exactly right down the road. If we took 6 months off and pursued our music, we'd become what we should be."

Morace added, "It hard for us to be taken seriously right now. I think we have the talent, but not the dedication. If we take some time to give our all to our music we could be up there with bands that have recording contracts. We realize we will have to make a choice, either school or music."

Kyruss headlines Katina's on Sunday, Dec. 10 with Excathedra and Threshold opening. Tickets cost $3 for 21-year-olds and over, and $5 for 18 to 20-year-olds. Show starts at 9:30 p.m.

Photo by Danielle Dowling

Kyruss headlines Katina's on Sunday

BUFFALO BILLS
A Cool Place for HOT ROAST BEEF
(and of course, much, much more!)
50 Main Street • 253-9223
Hours: Sun. Noon-11 p.m. • Mon., Tues., Wed. 11 a.m.-11 p.m. • Thurs., Fri. & Sat. 11-2

Frank has reservations about bringing Amy miniature golfing.
Birdies&Bogeys
The world's largest 18-hole indoor miniature Golf Course! You have to see it to believe it. 18 holes of fairways, greens, roughs, sandtraps and fun. Or, try a world class course on the high-tech golf simulator. We'll see you on the back nine where the sun always shines.
The Family Golf Centers
HOLIDAY STUDENT SPECIAL
$1.00 off with student ID
Located on bottom level of Holyoke Mall
Next to Food Court. 536-3765

NOW DOMINO'S redeems almost all local Pizza Competitor's coupons.
Domino's Pizza. Nobody Delivers Better.
Amherst, Hadley
256-8911
Hours
Mon.-Thurs. 4pm-2am
Fri. 4pm-3am
Sat. 11am-3am
Sun. 11am-2am
EACH STORE INDIVIDUALLY OWNED AND OPERATED
ONLY $5.99 For a 12 inch Cheese Pan Pizza. Extra Toppings ONLY $1.00 each. Expires 12/30/89. One Coupon per pizza
ONLY $11.99 For 2 Large Cheese Pizzas. Extra Topping $1.50 Per Item Per Pizza. Not good with any other offer. one coupon per pizza. EXPIRES 12-30-89
ONLY $6.99 For a Large Cheese Pizza. Extra Toppings ONLY $1.50 each. Expires 12/30/89. One coupon per pizza
ONLY $10.95 For 2 12" Pan or Original 1 Item Pizzas. Extra Topping $1.00 Per Item Per Pizza. Not good with any other offer. one coupon per pizza. EXPIRES 12-30-89
ONLY $4.99 For a 12 inch Traditional Cheese Pizza. Extra Toppings ONLY $1.00 each. Expires 12/30/89. One coupon per pizza
FREE PIZZA SAVE $6.50 Buy Any Large Three or More Item Pizza and Get a Small One Item Pizza Free. Not good with any other offer. one coupon per pizza. EXPIRES 12-30-89

THE UMASS MUSIC THEATRE GUILD PRESENTS
EVITA™
A POP OPERA
by Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber
Get your tickets at F.A.C. Box Office TODAY!
They are going fast!
$5 General Admission
$3 Students w/I.D.
DECEMBER 7, 8, 9 8:00 p.m.
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

THE THIRD ANNUAL UMASS HILLEL MINI-MALL
in the STUDENT UNION BALLROOM UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS DECEMBER 4TH - 8TH, 1989
Everyday will bring something new and different!
Jewelry, Clothes, Sweaters, Army/Navy, Accessories, Novelties, Leather Goods, Furniture, Nicks, Nacks, Free Raffle (first time ever)
This year there are five fun filled days:
Mon. Dec. 4th 11a.m. - 5p.m.
Tues. Dec. 5th 10a.m. - 5p.m.
Wed. Dec. 6th 11a.m. - 5p.m.
Thurs. Dec. 7th 10a.m. - 5p.m.
Fri. Dec. 8th 10a.m. - 4p.m.
Come shop for all your daily and holiday needs!!!!!!!!!!!

Guthrie gives you anything you want without so much as an ounce of flaunt

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

It's not too far after Thanksgiving, so somewhere in the back of your mind, your head is probably still replaying "Alice's Restaurant Massacree" over and over again.

Forget about football, it's not really Thanksgiving unless you hear Arlo Guthrie's 20-and-some-odd minute song about how Arlo was not moral enough to join the army and kill people, all because he was arrested by Obie the cop for littering on Turkey Day.

The song is 22-years-old, older than many of the people who will catch him this Monday night at UMass Fine Arts Center. Since that time, the son of the folk God, Woody Guthrie, has starred in a movie version of Alice's Restaurant, and released 13 records, scoring hits with "Coming Into Los Angeles" and "City of New Orleans."

Guthrie was born in Brooklyn, New York. His father was constantly bringing home such legends as Leadbelly and Pete Seeger, filling young Arlo's world with the sounds of socially conscious music. But Arlo was more concerned with just making noise.

"My father notes that I screamed a lot and that I also banged on things," he writes in My Oughtabiography. "It became a mission in my life."

But by the time Arlo was 13, he was performing live. He signed with Warner Brothers, and in the 1967 Newport Folk Festival, he unleashed "Alice's Restaurant Massacree" upon the world. the song helped spark the anti-draft movement, and Arlo became known for his unique, biting, comical stories.

Now living on a farm in the Berkshires with his wife Jackie, and their four children, Arlo has since left Warner Brothers and formed his own record company and mail-order business, called Rising Son Records. His most recent album is called Someday.

Even though he has yet to equal the success of his earlier albums, his concerts are still timeless. Not only does he perform all his classics (including an updated "Alice's"), but he also does justice to his father's tunes. That says a lot when you consider those songs include "This Land Is Your Land" (possibly the greatest folk song of all time), and "Bound For Glory."

His show is so much more. His stories are always biting, satirical and, most importantly, hilarious. His talents on the guitar, piano, banjo and harmonica are just as brilliant. And although he occasionally shows signs of being stuck in the 60s, his songs now include subjects as modern as Tiennamen Square and, everyone's favorite punching bag, Dan Quayle. These songs won't start a movement, but they make it worth your while to extend your weekend one more day and catch this folk icon Monday night at the UPC produced show.

photo courtesy of Variety Artists

Arlo Guthrie plays the FAC on Monday

COME CLEAN WITH US!
Campus Coin Op
107 Sunderland Road, North Amherst
Open 7 a.m.-10 p.m.
SPEEDWASH
11 Pray St., Amherst
NOW OPEN 24 HOURS!
South Towne Commons Laundromat
479 West St., South Amherst
Open 7 a.m.-10 p.m.

Shoes on a Shoestring
Our sale includes these fabulous designer names and many more.
JOAN & DAVID
BANDOLINO
UNISA
WHATS WHAT NICKELS
JAZZ
PALOMA
VIA SPIGA
SAM & LIBBY
ZODIAC
7 STAR
ABSTRAX
BELLINI
DIVERTENTE
TIMBERLAND
SAVE 25%-40% off original prices
AT OUR SEMI-ANNUAL SHOE SALE
SALE ON NOW
STRUT
SHOES FOR WOMEN
197 MAIN ST NORTHAMPTON

Clip & Curl Tel: 665-2629
Hours Tues-Fri 9:00-8:00 Sat 9:00-4:00
Look Good for Santa!
Haircut with shampoo $11.50
Perms include haircut $44-48
Colors $20-25
Long hair costs slightly more
Christmas Special With this coupon and any $11.50 haircut receive a free gift!
coupon expires 12-23-89
Gift certificates available!
located in Sunderland, Rte 116 (next to 7-11) on bus route
walk-ins are welcome

TOP of the CAMPUS LOUNGE
Weekly drink specials and free hors d'oeuvres at 9:00 pm
Catch all the Action! Boston Bruins versus Hartford Whalers TONIGHT 7:30 PM
Lounge Hours:
Mon-Fri: 11:30 am-12:30 am
Sat-Sun: 5:00 pm-12:30 am
11th Floor Campus Center • (413) 549-6000 ext. 7634
University of Massachusetts at Amherst

Where can you go for quick, convenient walk-in service for car insurance?
Amherst Insurance Agency
253-5555
A Division Of THE NATHAN AGENCIES
Amherst Insurance Agency, Inc.
Amherst Real Estate Agency, Inc.
Amherst Financial Services Agency
• Auto • Home • Renters • Life • Health
for personal and business
Is your VCR Insured?
20 GATEHOUSE ROAD, AMHERST, MA

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!
Buy $30 or more of gift certificate and receive $5 gift certificate for yourself.
點心 Good from 12/7 — 12/24
This is not valid with any other coupons or specials
Szes Asian Cuisine
50 Main Street, Northampton 586-5708

New World Theater celebrates ten years

Photos courtesy of New World Theater

Jude Narita (above) in "Song For a Sansei. Robin Goodman (left) and Rebecca Earnestine Miller in "Unfinished Women Cry In No Man's Land While a Bird Lies in a Gilded Cage."

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

New World Theater can finally call itself a perfect 10.

For 10 years, New World Theater has been bringing the best in multicultural theater to UMass, but never to the extent that it is this weekend, in celebration of its 10th anniversary. No less than four productions will grace the UMass stages.

Tomorrow night, the Puerto Rican Traveling Theater presents Richard Irizarry's Ariano. The play examines the racial tensions of light and dark skinned Puerto Ricans. When the show opened last year in New York, it took everyone by surprise, as the Puerto Rican community came out in droves to see the hard-hitting play. It was held over.

"It's a brutal play," said Roberta Uno Thelwell, Director of New World Theater. "It takes racism a step further. It probes into how racism can affect people among their own community."

The play centers on Ariano, a light-skinned, upper-class Puerto Rican who has assimilated himself into the American society. The focus is on his personal biases towards dark skinned Puerto Ricans, including his son.

"Ultimately, the play has an uplifting point of view for the Puerto Rican community," assured Thelwell.

Saturday also promises to be special, as Jude Narita performs Coming Into Passion/Song for a Sensei. Also written by Narita, the production is a series of vignettes that examines the stereotypes and realities of Asian women.

"It was something she created after becoming tired of the types of parts for Asian actresses," Thelwell said. "Asian women, in TV and movies, are either depicted as dragon women, ornaments or prostitutes."

Narita examines the prostitute stereotype in "Good Job." The vignette takes place in a Vietnam bar, in which the prostitute justifies her means of income. Equally as powerful is "Mail-Order Bride," which re-enacts a potential "wife" candidate doing a video tape interview.

Narita proves to also be adept in evoking laughs, especially in her skit about a Japanese-American valley girl. Ultimately, the production triggers virtually every emotion.

Also on Saturday, Spiderwoman Theater, a Native American feminist troupe, performs Winnetou's Snake-Oil Show From Wigwam-City, a show ranging from traditional original to hilarious parodies of fake initiations performed by "wanna-be" Indians.

On Sunday afternoon, the festivities end with an original production of Aishah Rahman's Unfinished Women Cry in No Man's Land While a Bird Dies in a Gilded Cage. The play juxtaposes the story of jazz legend Charlie Parker's death with that of five teenage women in a home for unwed mothers deciding if they want to keep their babies. The moving piece features some incredible saxophone.

Thelwell recently said she began New World Theater to work toward a new world. Teaching people about the cultures and practices of others through the arts is a perfect way to bring this change about.

Happy anniversary, New World Theater. May your productions keep opening new eyes.

Dear Santa,

Here is my Christmas List:

1 Condo, with indoor pool, a jacuzzi, and a bar.
5 Lift Tickets. (Sugarbush)
1 Five day Vacation from home.
200 or more new friends
2 BIG Mountains
2600 FEET (the Vertical ones)
71 snow covered Trails
7 Bars (fully packed with FUN)
2 Foosball tables
5 more than happy... happy hours
1 bottle of aspirin
1 Big Blue TOOTH
A dozen moguls of snow

OR IF SANTA CAN'T BE REACHED, CONTACT:
UMASS Ski Club, 430 Student Union
545-3437

AN EVENING WITH UPC PRODUCTIONS
the The
VERSUS THE WORLD
MONDAY FEB. 5
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
$7 UMASS STUDENTS
$10 GENERAL PUBLIC
TICKETS ON SALE AT TIX UNLIMITED/ SUB, FOR THE RECORD/FACES IN AMHERST AND MAIN ST. RECORDS.

Alternatives to Academics

THURSDAY

Evita, Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice's musical about Argentina's controversial First Lady Eva Peron, is performed by the Music Theater Guild, at the UMass Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. $5 general public, $3 students. 8 p.m. Also Friday and Saturday.

Evita

Unfinished Women Cry in No Man's Land While a Bird Dies in a Gilded Cage, an underground theater classic by Aishah Rahman, set on the day jazz great Charlie Parker died, is performed by New World Theater in UMass Rand Theater. $5 general public, $3 students and senior citizens. 8 p.m. Also Friday and Saturday.

Max Creek, the east coast's version of the Grateful Dead, play Pearl Street.

Feed the Cat make the crowd chant "uma" at Sheehan's.

Sheila Jordan/Harvey Swartz Trio bring their distinctive jazz sounds to the Iron Horse. $9. 7 p.m.

Susan Jahoda, Amherst artist, presents a chronology of her work and discusses her use of images to reconstruct ideological representations at the Arts Council of Franklin County. Free. 7 p.m.

The Search For Emily, a play about poet Emily Dickinson, written by Brian Marsh, is performed at the Hope United Methodist Church in Belchertown. $5. 8 p.m. Also Friday.

Five College Faculty Dance Concert, under the artistic direction of Wendy Woodson, perform ballet and modern dance at Amherst College Kirby Theater. $5 general public, $2 students and senior citizens. Also Friday and Saturday.

Five College Faculty Dance

Amherst College Jazz Ensemble, featuring Amherst graduate, Freddie Bryant, performs at Amherst College Buckley Recital Hall. 8:15 p.m.

Born in the R.S.A., theater by Barney Simon and performed by the original cast of the Market Theater in Johannesberg, explores the images of South Africa. It is performed at Hampshire College Emily Dickinson Hall Studio Theater. $3 general public, $2 students. 8 p.m. Also Friday and Saturday.

FRIDAY

Love Story, a movie based on Eric Segal's tearjerker about the two Harvard students, is screened at Mt. Holyoke College Gamble Auditorium. $2. 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Ariano, Richard Irizarry's hard-hitting play about Puerto Ricans' struggles for acceptance, is performed by the Puerto Rican Travelling Theater in UMass Bowker Auditorium. 8 p.m.

Equalites, local reggae favorites, play Twister's. $2.

Being a Person of Colour in Theater, Television and Film is a lecture given by Do the Right Thing star, Giancarlo Esposito in Amherst College Campus Center Frontroom. Free. 8 p.m.

Schooner Fare bring their Connecticut River sounds to the Iron Horse. $12.50. 7 p.m.

The Better I Look, Keishya Salko's and Angelique von Halle's work that celebrates women, is performed at Smith College Hallie Flanagan Studio Theater. Proceeds benefit an AIDS organization. 8 p.m.

Scruffy the Cat, Boston's best garage rock band, who attained critical acclaim with their album Moons of Jupiter, play an 18 and over show at Pearl Street. The Vestrymen open the show. $8 and $6. 8:30 p.m.

Scruffy the Cat

Time Bandits, Terry Gilliam's comedy about time travel, is screened at Hampshire College Franklin Patterson Main Lecture Hall. $1. 7 p.m.

Au Revoir Les Enfants, Louis Malle's classic French film, is screened at Amherst College Campus Center Theater. $1.50. 7:30 p.m. and 10 p.m.

SATURDAY

Pre-Hannukah Party is hosted at the future sight of Hillel House in Amherst. 7:30 p.m.

WMUA Polkathon, 18 hours of your favorite (?) polka music, is aired as the conclusion of their annual telethon. 6 a.m.

Winnetou's Snake-Oil Show From Wigwam City, cabaret theater by Spider Woman's Theater, is performed at UMass Hampden Theater. $5 general public, $3 students. 3 p.m.

Bobcat Goldthwait whines, moans and tells a few jokes at the Paramount in Springfield. 8 p.m.

Coming into Passion — Song for a Sansei, written and performed by Jude Narita, explores the depiction of Asian women. It is held in UMass Bowker Auditorium. 8 p.m.

Blue Plate Special, play everything from Patsy Cline to Chuck Berry, at the Iron Horse. $6. 7 p.m.

Regency, a five-man a capella group, performs and dances to everything from Motown to swing to Top 40 at Amherst College Campus Center Frontroom. $5. 9 p.m.

The Rent Party get things shaking at Twister's. $2.

Mark Herschler and the Journeymen/Jo Thomas bring their John Hiatt-influenced sound to Sheehan's.

The Nutcracker, a Christmas favorite, is performed by the Pioneer Valley Ballet at the Academy of Music. $8-$12. 8 p.m. Also Sunday, 12 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Monty Python's Meaning of Life, a hilarious movie from England's favorite comedy troupe is shown at Mt. Holyoke College Gamble Auditorium. $2. 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

SUNDAY

Woody Allen Film Festival, sponsored by the Mt. Holyoke College Jewish Student Union, and including a "Bagel bar," takes place in Hooker Auditorium. $4. 1 p.m.-8 p.m.

Kyruss, local heavy metal favorites, play Katina's. Excathedra and Threshold oen the head banging night. $3, $5 for 18 and over. 9:30 p.m.

Gordon Bok performs his ballads of the Maritimes as part of the Amherst College Sundays at Eight Series, in the Campus Center Frontroom. $7 general public, $1 Amherst College students. 8 p.m.

Garnet Rogers/Bob Franke sing songs of love and God at the Iron Horse. Cans of food are collected to help the Western Mass Food Bank. $9. 7 p.m.

Tom Chapin performs his Moonboat Concert in kicking off the Fine Arts Center's "Sunday at the Center" series. UMass FAC Concert Hall. $5. 2 p.m.

Hugh Maskala, world renowned South African jazz trumpeter, plays the Iron Horse. $12.50. 9:30 p.m.

Michelle Richter holds a cello recital at Amherst College Buckley Recital Hall. 3 p.m.

Massachusetts Chamber Players perform at the Amherst College Buckley Recital Hall. 8 p.m.

The Dirty Dozen Brass Band, a good-time band with a unique horn sound, play Pearl Street. $11 and $13. 8 p.m.

The Dirty Dozen

University Chorale Winter Concert, including selections from Handel and Hadyn, is at UMass Bowker Auditorium. 3 p.m.

HUNAN GOURMET
京 CHINESE RESTAURANT 湘
The aroma, sound & taste of authentic Chinese cuisine prepared Hunan, Szechuan, Mandarin or Cantonese style—especially for you!
- Ample Free Parking
- Major Credit Cards Accepted
- Full Liquor License
- Open 7 Days A Week
- Take-Out Service Available
- No MSG

585-0202 261 King St., Northampton, MA

the CameraShops
WRAP ONE UP FOR THE HOLIDAYS
WIN... Win 2 PamAm Airline tickets to anywhere they fly! PARIS? RIO? ROME? Enter at any of THE CAMERA SHOPS 16 locations thru Dec. 18th. Drawing to be held Dec. 20th. No purchase necessary. Details available at all CAMERA SHOPS.

PENTAX K1000 $179.95
It's simple, basic, complete · The perfect camera for the serious photographer · Includes Pentax 1 year limited USA warranty

CANON EOS 750 $369.95 -35.00 $334.95
EOS Auto-focus system · Pop-up flash · Fast, Accurate, and Quiet · Includes Canon USA 1 yr limited warranty

MINOLTA 3000i $289.95
Fully automatic film handling · Intelligent autofocus system · Auto multiprogram selection · Includes Minolta 2 year USA limited warranty

OLYMPUS INFINITY TWIN $189.95
Unique twin lens design with 35 and 70mm Auto Focus lenses · Weatherproof · Totally automatic · Includes Olympus USA 1 yr limited warranty

OLYMPUS PROMASTER ZOOM $239.95
35-70 Zoom lens · Auto focus · Built-in Zoom flash · Includes Olympus USA 1 year limited warranty

MINOLTA 7X35 Binoculars $89.95
Extra wide angle of view · Water resistant housing · Multi coated optics · Complete with Minolta USA 25 year limited warranty

Stuff your stocking with a Kodak Pre-recorded Video Tape photography
travel
sports
children
$69.95

KODAK 3 PACKS
GA 35mm $9.99
GB 35mm $10.99

KODAK S300
Start taking great 35mm pictures at a great price · The Kodak S300 is easy to load, easy to use and priced just right for you
KODAK S100 $39.95

FUJI DISCOVERY 800 $289.95
40-80mm Fujinon power zoom · Drop-in film loading · 3 Mode flash · Includes Fuji extended warranty

FUJI DISCOVERY 60 $109.95
Infrared autofocus for clear shots · Drop-in film loading · Auto-firing flash · Includes Fuji extended warranty

FUJI DISCOVERY 160 tele $149.95
35mm/55mm tele one touch · Drop-in film loading · Auto-firing flash · Includes Fuji extended warranty

FUJI DL400 $229.95
Tele with 70mm and 35mm normal angle lens · Tele wide auto flash · Convenient auto-focus · Includes Fuji extended warranty

POLAROID IMPULSE FF $39.95

Radio Controlled Car
Off-Road Land Cruiser or Rally Runner only $39.95 with purchase of any 35mm camera
Realistic off-road tires
2 speed gear selection
Operates up to approx 150 ft
Sale Price $49.95
Limited Quantities

POLAROID SPECTRA $89.95

SALE ENDS DEC 24
CT CROMWELL Cromwell Square FAIRFIELD 2189 Black Rock Tpke HARTFORD The Pavilion at State House Sq NEW BRITAIN 65 Main St NEWTOWN 47 Main St NEW HAVEN 1215 Chapel St SIMSBURY 1226 Hopmeadow St STAMFORD 1 Landmark Square VERNON Tri City Plaza WATERBURY Naugatuck Valley Mall WESTFARMS Farmington WETHERSFIELD 526 Silas Deane Hwy WINDSOR 87 Poquonock Ave MA AMHERST 98 Pleasant St NORTHAMPTON 219 Main St SPRINGFIELD Baystate West

GOLD RING SALE
$75 OFF 18K
$50 OFF 14K
$25 OFF 10K

Order your college ring NOW.
JOSTENS
AMERICA'S COLLEGE RING™
Date: Dec. 4 thru Dec.9 Time: 10-4 Deposit Required: $25
Place: UNIVERSITY STORE Located in the Campus Center
Meet with your Jostens representative for full details. See our complete ring selection on display in your college bookstore.

Spectrum magazine
is now accepting SUBMISSIONS
in
Art, Poetry, Prose & Photo
for the 1990 edition.
SPECTRUM Magazine is the Arts and Literary magazine at UMASS.
Submissions may be mailed to:
Box 125, Student Activities Office, Student Union, UMASS
or
brought in person to the SPECTRUM Office, 406E, Student Union.
Please include your name and phone number.
DEADLINE FEBRUARY 2, 1990
DON'T BE SHY

NEWS

UMass joins 99 campuses in finding the next generation of teachers. Page 3.

ARTS/LIVING

The Disc Junkie reviews a new album not just for cha-cha-chas. Page 7.

MONDAY

Can UM men's hoop win their 3rd straight and 2nd on the road? Find out in Sports.

FRIDAY

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1989
COLLEGIAN
VOLUME CXXIII LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 65

Student kills 14 women in U. Montreal rampage

By MEG DENNISON
The Associated Press

MONTREAL — Flags flew at half-staff and legislators observed a minute of silence today after a man who said feminists "spoiled my life" stormed into the University of Montreal engineering school and shot 14 women to death.

The man, identified only as "Marc," turned the gun on himself after the worst massacre in Canadian history. Nine women and four men were injured, and two were in critical condition. Most of the victims were female engineering students.

"You're all a bunch of feminists," he screamed before opening fire on the young women who remained.

The Montreal police department's public relations officer arrived on the scene and found the body of his daughter, a student, among the dead.

Police said the man left a three-page letter in which he blamed women for his failures and said he was going to kill some in revenge.

It was signed only "Marc," and was found on the gunman's body.

Police would not give the exact working of the statement or release a copy to reporters but they displayed the gunman's weapon — a .223-caliber semiautomatic rifle with bloody fingerprints on the stock.

Police director Andre Tessier told a news conference yesterday that the letter contained a passing reference to Canadian Forces Cpl. Denis Lortie, who killed three people May 8, 1984, with a submachine gun in the Quebec legislature. He said the letter was dated Wednesday.

Police investigator Jacques Duschemeau said the gunman identified himself as a student. He said 35 to 37 shots were fired. Authorities also said the man carried a buck knife.

"All of Quebec is in mourning," Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa told the provincial legislature today before it observes a minute of silence. Bourassa declared a three-day period of official mourning during which flags on all government buildings will fly at half-staff.

Monique Gagnon-Tremblay, the Quebec minister who was responsible for the status of women until October,

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

Killings shock UMass

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Students and faculty at the University of Massachusetts reacted with shock and anger last night following the brutal shooting Wednesday of 14 female engineering students at the University of Montreal.

Arlene Avakian, a lecturer in the Women's Studies department, said people are reluctant to look at why the male student known as "Marc" had such anger toward women.

"It is our patriarchal system that produces people who hate women," she said. "He obviously wanted to kill women.

"If it can happen in Canada where it is much less violent than in the United States, it can happen here," she said.

Susan Parent, a civil engineering major, was one of several students who suggested there was a dangerous link between "Marc's" fear of women in a traditionally male-dominated major and a hatred of feminism.

She said the murders "really hit home," saying that she is a minority in her male-dominated engineering classes.

"We are starting to take our place," Parent said. "We have definitely become part of the feminist movement."

Pamela Haddad, an electrical engineering major, said that she didn't understand why engineering was linked with feminism.

"We're trying hard to get women engineering," she said. "From the outside, the engineering department is considered male, but on the inside there is no gender division."

Joanne Murphy, an electrical engineering major, said it scared her to think "he was so threatened by women entering into the engineering field that he would kill."

UMass pornography ban scheduled for BOG vote

By PAUL MORRIS
Collegian Staff

A Board of Governors member introduced a motion last night to reaffirm a 1984 decision against banning Playboy, Penthouse and Playgirl from the University Store.

"[The ban] is clearly a violation of first amendment rights," said Gov. William Hewitt, sponsor of the motion that will be voted on next Thursday. "The board should not decide for students what they can or cannot buy."

The Student Govenment Association, which called for campuswide ban of the three magazines Wednesday, has no power to make decisions in the Campus Center/Student Union complex and overstepped its juristiction in calling for the ban, he said.

"They shouldn't have dealt with the issue," he said. "I would like to reaffirm the 1984 decision and show the Senate that we have dealt with it [ban on pornography] before."

The Board of Governors is the student governing body of the Student Union/Campus Center complex. The University Stores in the Campus Center and Student Union are the only places on the University of Massachusetts campus where pornographic magazines are sold. The store carrys Playboy, Penthouse and Playgirl, said Ashoke Ganguli, director of auxiliary services.

Gov. Susan Gordon agreed with the SGA's decision because she said it increases social awareness on the campus.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

Senate unveils savings plan

By KEVIN GALVIN
The Associated Press

BOSTON — The Senate Ways and Means Committee unveiled a $349 million savings and reductions package yesterday that lays the groundwork for controlling "budget busters" such as Medicaid and public transportation.

The proposal includes $105 million in cuts to specific state agencies and programs and $132 million in new non-tax revenues. It would save $16.5 million through overhauls in Medicaid and group insurance for state employees.

Long-term proposals include merging the state, capitol and registry police departments and eliminating four cabinet secretaries.

Committee chairwoman Sen. Patricia McGovern, D-Lawrence, said the plan obviously was not the complete answer to the state's estimated $825 million budget deficit but the first step toward long-term reform in state spending.

"We'll be back doing taxes every other year if we don't do something about these budget busters," she said.

The committee reported the bill out favorably on a voice vote, with all present members promising to later amend the measure either to remove provisions or increase cuts.

"We're taking this opportunity to attempt to deal with some of the sacred cows" of state government, said Sen. Louis Bertonazzi, D-Milford. "This is the time for us to begin to address the issues of reform."

The package was the Senate's version of a House-approved savings plan. Committee staff members said the House and Senate line-item cuts differed greatly and that the House version was actually worth about $300 million. The House has claimed its package was worth $365 million.

McGovern said the proposal would go before the full Senate early next week.

In the current fiscal year, the Senate proposal would gain $11.5 million in savings by giving the Department of Public Welfare rate setting powers, and tightening Medicaid certification. It would generate $5 million in savings through repeal of of a 1980 rollback in group insurance rates.

The committee agreed with $89 million in line item cuts targeted by the Dukakis' administration, added $6 million in cuts of its own and asked the governor to trim an additional $34 million from the budget.

It also called for "maximizing the comptroller's ability to collect revenues" for a $60 million boost. That general provision also was included in the House-passed plan.

It also called for the state to collect unclaimed bottle deposits, which it said could earn $6 million in fiscal 1990 and $24 million each following year. The House, which passed a separate bill Wednesday to collect bottle money, put a $12 million value on it for fiscal 1990.

New Czech premier named; E. Germany says free elections now

By GIRARD C. STEICHEN and CAROL J. WILLIAMS
The Associated Press

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — Communist Premier Ladislav Adamec resigned yesterday after failing to form a coalition government acceptable to opposition groups. He was replaced by the deputy premier.

Adamec quit after meeting with leaders of allied non-Communist parties to discuss changes in the government, according to Bohuslav Kucera, head of one of those parties, the Socialists.

Meanwhile, East Germnay's Communist Party published a new program yesterday that calls for free elections as soon as possible and broad cooperation with the opposition in an effort to salvage its diminishing power.

The program was announced as representatives of the Commuists and opposition groups opened talks on the country's future.

Kucera said in an interview that Adamec wanted a new person to head the next coalition government and to reach the compromises necessary to carry out reforms being sought by the tumultuous pro-democracy movement.

Several hours later, Czechoslovakian President Gustav Husak asked Deputy Premier Marian Calfa to replace Adamec, the state news agency CTK reported.

Calfa, who was promoted to the deputy premiership from minister without portfolio on Sunday, participated in most of Adamec's talks with the opposition on forming a new government to resolved Czechoslovakia's political crisis.

Adamec had negotiated with opposition leaders in recent weeks and on Sunday introduced a new 21-member Cabinet that included only five non-Communists and left Communists in control of key ministries.

The opposition demanded more power for non-Communists and another new government by Dec. 10.

Similar calls for more power for non-Communists were made in East Germany, where the Communists held a monopoly on power for 40 years. On Wednesday, however, former poarty leader Egon Krenz stepped down from his last official post, the presidency, and was replaced by a non-communist, Manfred Gerlach, for the first time in the country's 40-year history. Gerlach will be president until Parliament chooses a permanent replacement.

Krenzs Politburo and Central Committee resigned Sunday and were replaced by a 25-member panel of party reformers, who drew up the new program to be discussed at an emergency party congress Friday.

"We support free and secret elections as early as possible, at a time to be set jointly by all political forces," said the party program, published by the official ADN news agency. No election date has yet been set.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN

New England's largest college daily newspaper. Daily circulation: 21,000. Founded in 1870. Published every weekday during the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts. 113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA. 01003. For more information call (413) 545-3500.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

EDITOR IN CHIEF	DAVID R. MARK
MANAGING EDITOR	COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL EDITOR	MEREDITH O'BRIEN
BUSINESS MANAGER	ROBERT J. BIKASH
PRODUCTION MANAGER	TERRY STARMER

BOARD OF EDITORS

MANAGING	COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL	MEREDITH O'BRIEN
NEWS	SARAH DEMASTER
SPORTS	JIM CLARK GEORGE AUSTIN
ARTS	AL KAUFMAN W.J. GEORGIADES
PHOTOGRAPHY	DONDI AHEARN
WOMEN'S ISSUES	DANIELLE BIONDA KATERI WALSH
MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS	SCOTT C. HILL

BUSINESS BOARD

MANAGER	ROBERT J. BIKASH
ADVERTISING	JENNIFER RONAN
FINANCE	MARTINA RIOS
CIRCULATION	CHRIS BAKER
SUBSCRIPTIONS	JOYA FARETRA

GRAPHICS BOARD

MANAGER	TERRY STARMER
AD MANAGER	rory EVANS
SUPERVISORS	MICHAEL WESTER FLORENCIO TERRA CHRISTINE ASHE TRICIA HANLEY

SUPPORT STAFF

BUSINESS	BRIAN HARRINGTON MAUREEN MAJEROWSKI LORI BLACK
GRAPHICS	ANDREA BELANGER

TODAY'S STAFF

NIGHT EDITOR	DAVID R. MARK
COPY EDITOR	GEORGE AUSTIN
LAYOUT TECHNICIAN	PETER LEON
PHOTOGRAPHY TECHNICIAN	DONDI AHEARN
PRODUCTION SUPERVISOR	MICHAEL WESTER
PRODUCTION	rory EVANS KAREN FALLOWES MICHELLE GEMME DANIELLE DOWLING JULIE ROGERS JOE AMON

For Your Information

Springfield Symphony Orchestra — Looking for a different night out? Complimentary tickets to this Saturday's performance at the Springfiels Symphony Orchestra are available to UMass students. Great Performers series, Sat. Dec. 9 at 8:00 p.m. Court Street, Springfield. Limited number of tickets available. If interested, leave a message in Box 73 in the Student Activities Office in the Student Union by Friday, Dec. 8.

Winter Concert — The UMass Chorale presents the annual Winter Concert on Sunday, Dec. 10 at 3 p.m. at Bowker Auditorium at UMass. Program includes choruses from : Handel's "The Messiah" and Haydn's "Missa brevis St. Joannis de Deo." Free admission.

Graduate Students — There will be a Graduate Students Coffee Hour on Sunday Dec. 10 from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Campus Center Auditorium. Enter raffle for one free month of AT&T long distance service. The event is sponsored by AT&T.

Mike Wester•Michelle Gemme•Karen Fallowes
Julie Rogers•ror Evans
230am
ET45044
SIDE 1
LATE NIGHT WITH COLLEGIAN

Save More Every Day!
All Specials In Store Cash Only

750 ml $8.99 ROTHCHILD COGNAC
Duboeuf $5.50 Beaujolais Villages Nouveau
12 new 1988 GERMAN WINES great vintage wonderful prices
$3.99 6 pk. DOS EQUIS XX
MOUTON-CADET gift set $10.99
PABST $8.99 suitcase
COKE & DIET COKE 12 pk. $3.99 + DEP.
GORDON'S VODKA $11.99 1.75L

We Deliver
C&C Liquors
Charge it!
61 Main Street, Amherst
Next to Town Hall
253-3091
Lots of Parking Behind Store (after 5 weekdays all day Saturday.)

BRECKENRIDGE
GENUINE COLORADO
$599
NEW DATE!
NEW PRICE!
JAN. 8 — 15
Trip Includes
- Round trip airfare
- Round trip transfers
- 7 Nights condo lodging
- 5 Days of lifts
- Services of on site staff
- All taxes and gratuities

SIGN UP NOW
UMASS SKI CLUB

SQUIRE VILLAGE APARTMENTS
1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments available for January 1.
On Bus Route
CALL 665-2203

Carbur's
Famous Sunday Brunch Buffet
$9.95
All You Can Eat
- Fresh Belgian Waffles
- Omletts To Order
- Pasta Primavera
- Marinated Vegetables
- Tossed Salad
- Roast Stuff Pork Loin
- Seafood Alfredo
- Baked Mastacelli
- Carved Roastbeef
- Chocolate Mousse
- Fruit Tarts
- Danish Croissants
- Famous Bloody Marys
- And much more

Buy 3
Get 1 Free with this ad
Offer good on Sundays 12/10, 17
CARBUR'S
Rt. 9, Hadley
586-1978

LOCAL

Fee waiver provides 'safety net'

By JIM COHEN
Collegian Staff

In response to a recent increase in students' curriculum fees the University of Massachusetts is offering a fee waiver through Financial Aid Services to all undergraduate and graduate students "who demonstrate a severe financial hardship."

The curriculum fee is scheduled to be increased $400 next semester, from $115 to $515.

"We want to make sure students are not denied a second semester," said Dr. Arthur Jackson, director of Financial Aid Services. "We don't want to prevent any student from coming back."

The plan to create the fee waiver was conceived by the Chancellor's Office in conjunction with the vice-chancellor's offices as a "safety net," said Vice-Chancellor for Administration and Finance Paul Page. The idea was later approved by the Board of Trustees.

A similar fee waiver was adopted last semester when fees were raised $50. This semester because of the amount of the increase there has been a stronger campaign for the waiver, administration officials said.

Any student may apply for the waiver except non-matriculated students, continuing education students and graduate students on program fee. Part-time students are eligible to apply. Students must have a Financial Aid Form on file.

The waiver is scheduled to affect the increased portion of the curriculum fee; students still will be expected to assume responsibility for the initial amount of $115. Money from the curriculum fees collected will be used to finance the fund from which the waiver money will be taken.

Jackson said he expects many people to apply for the fee waiver, and Financial Aid Services will "have to look at the entire pool in order to determine which students will be exempt." In determining who will receive the waiver, the student's income, household size and other factors used in figuring out financial aid awards will be considered, he said.

Students may go to Financial Aid Services for information. Applications for the fee waiver are available at Financial Aid Services and are due by Dec. 22.

Students protest bank reps

More than 20 students last night protested Bank of Boston representatives on campus. The representatives were recruiting University of Massachusetts School of Management majors.

Holding a sign that read, "Give Us The $$$ and Nobody Gets Hurt," and posting a banner that said, "BB Pays No Taxes, Red Lines, Launders Drugs," the protesters demanded a formal question and answer period following Bank of Boston's video presentation.

When their request was denied, the protesters began chanting, "Hey ho, hey ho, the Bank of Boston has got to go."

One of the organizers, UMass graduate student Richard Page, said, "The Bank of Boston is not putting money into the system. They just want the benefits.

"It's not right," he said. "They should pay they're fair share."

He alleged that although the Bank of Boston made a profit of $200 million in 1987, they paid no taxes.

Representatives from the Bank refused to comment, instead issuing a statement by Ira Stepanian, chairman and chief executive officer of the Bank of Boston.

"Bank of Boston firmly believes in its obligation to pay our full share of taxes as prescribed by law," he said. Alluding to allegations that the bank paid no taxes in 1987, he said, "Indeed Bank of Boston recorded a pre-tax loss of $44.9 million in 1987."

He added, "The First National Bank of Boston accordingly paid no Massachusetts income taxes that year, but Bank of Boston Corporation and its other subsidiaries djd pay $2.9 million in Massachusetts income taxes in 1987."

—PAUL D'AGOSTINO
and SARAH DEMASTER

Collegian photo by Dondi Ahearn

CAPTIVE — Willie Voltaire of Holbrook is unable to find his way out of the University of Massachusetts maze.

■ Canada mourns

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

called the killings an isolated incident carried out by somebody who was "obviously disturbed." The rifle used in the shooting is illegal in Canada.

Police and witnesses said the gunman, believed to be in his 20's entered the school about 4:30 p.m. EST as the building was crowded with students on the last day of classes before exams.

He walked into the first-floor cafeteria and fatally shot three women, Montreal Police director Claude St. Laurent said.

He then went to the second floor and at about 5:20 p.m. walked into a classroom containing 60 students, ordering the men into one corner and the women into another, police said.

He told the men to leave, then screamed in French before opening fire on the women: "You're all a bunch of feminists," St. Laurent said. Six women died in the classroom.

"He told them, 'You're women, you're going to be engineers. You're all a bunch of feminists. I hate feminists!,'" said engineering student Robert Leclerc, 23. "My friend Nathalie said, 'No, it's not true. We're not feminists.' He fired into the group."

"He came in quietly," said student Eric Chavarie, "Then he fired a shot, right by my ear."

■ possible porn ban

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Many people believe that because pornographic magazines are not restricted in the United States they are all right, she said.

"The magazines hurt women by making them feel badly about themselves and also make men think that women like violent and abusive behavior," Gordon said.

BOG President Charlotte Carter said the magazines deride women. She said people can educate others on issues, but should not try to make decisions for them.

"I believe in freedom of choice," she said. "If you don't believe in a product don't buy it. If you don't like beef don't try to ban it just don't buy it."

UM to help fight teacher shortage

By LISA SHAPIRO
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts is scheduled to join 99 campuses across the United States to help recruit top students not majoring in education for target areas of need within the field.

Teach For America is a non-profit organization aiming to place graduating students from different ethnic and academic backgrounds into teaching positions in inner-cities and rural areas suffering teacher shortages.

The UMass chapter of Teach For America will promote an interest in teaching for students that would not have necessarily have chosen the teaching profession, said UMass student Scott Thompson, who was contacted through the Office of Third World Affairs.

"There are a lot of talented individuals here that would be helpful as teachers of America's youth," Thompson said. This weekend Thompson attended a Teach For America conference at Princeton University, the birthplace of the thesis, written by recent Princeton graduate Wendy Kopp, who developed the idea for the organization.

Teach For America will target the niche of people with the most career opportunities that may not believe they are needed as teachers or that teaching opportunities exist for them, Kopp said. Thompson said, "There is no 'model' person to be a teacher. They are not born, not bred. They are molded," he said.

Currently in its first year, Teach For America will hold a training program this summer for no more than 500 potential teachers recruited from campuses nationwide. They will be required to hold two-year teaching positions in areas where teachers are needed.

At the conference, Thompson said students brainstormed for methods to achieve successful recruiting for responsive teachers. Administrators and teachers spoke of the importance of getting the American educational system "back on it's feet."

"We are failing our own citizens out of life by graduating students that can't read and write," Thompson said.

The United States is being beaten by other countries in terms of educational advances, he said. Understanding students' needs and promoting an interest in learning were some suggestions for potential teachers at the conference.

Many teachers have different backgrounds and come from different environments than their students, he said.

"There are two opposing forces. Most innercity teachers have no background as to how to deal with these kids," Thompson said.

If teachers cannot effectively deal with their students, they may be rejected by students who will not learn, he said.

BU sex discrimination decision upheld

BOSTON (AP) — In a decision that may set a national precedent, a U.S. appeals court has upheld a federal judge's 1987 ruling that Boston University pay $215,000 in damages and grant tenure to a female professor who sued the university for sex discrimination.

The case was believed to be the first time a woman sued under the federal anti-discrimination law was reinstated with tenure by an appeals court. Also, it was believed to be the first time an appellate court ruled that the academic reasons a university cited in denying tenure were a smokescreen for sex discrimination.

Julia Prewitt Brown, 41, was a member of BU's English Department from 1974 until she was denied tenure in 1981. At one point, university president John Silber termed the department "a damn matriarchy" though only six out of 20 members of the department at the time were female, according to court testimony.

In a 68-page decision, the 1st Circuit Court of Appeals unanimously agreed with a jury verdict and subsequent judgment by Judge Walter J. Skinner after a three-week trial in July 1987. The ruling was issued Dec. 1 but Brown's attorney said she chose not to publicize it until yesterday.

BU spokesman Thomas Cashman said that the university will ask the court for a rehearing.

"Boston University does not discriminate against anyone. . ." Cashman said in a prepared statement.

Railroad SALVAGE Stores
SALE ENDS DEC 14TH

WEST HAVEN 203-933-5468
GROTON 203-445-8581
EAST WINDSOR 203-623-3358
BERLIN 203-828-9889
CHICOPEE 413-594-2925
TURNERS FALLS 413-863-4343
HADLEY 413-586-7248

SEIKO WATCHES
RUBIE BOUGHT 1000's
THESE ARE GENUINE SEIKO WATCHES IN GIFT BOXES
3 YEAR WARRANTY BY SEIKO
STARTING FROM $49.99 SELECTION VARIES STORE-TO-STORE
ORIGINAL PRICES $100.00 TO $250.00

CHRISTMAS CHARACTERS
24 INCH TO 28 INCH
MUSICAL ANIMATED ILLUMINATED
OTHER STYLES AVAILABLE VARY AT EACH LOCATION
USE IT WITH BATTERIES OR PLUG IT IN Value $89.95 TO $99.99
NOW $37.88 EACH

MAKE HIM DANCE PRANCE & WALK
DANCING MARIONETTE TAPPER™
Make TAPPER™ Come Alive With The Flick of Your Wrist
Push Button on Handle for Music and Flashing Lights. Hand movement makes his strings dance. Made of Foam and Non-Allergenic Feathers. Recommended for Children 5 and Up.
VALUE $29.95 NOW $8.88

40,000 PACKAGES CLOSET SAVERS™
83% OFF
NATIONALLY ADVERTISED AT $19.95 SET
NOW $1.66 SET OF 5 FOR 25 GARMENTS
You may choose to hang the CLOSET SAVER™ on a closet rod and insert all five hangers. Look how neatly garments are hung! Or . . .
If closet is too full, hook one end of CLOSET SAVER™ onto rod and insert hangers while hooking the other end outward.
Release on hook and let CLOSET SAVER™ hang vertically. Clothes rest neatly. LOOK at all the space it saves!

75% OFF
STANLEY ELECTRONIC TAPE MEASURE
IDEAL FOR: • DO-IT-YOURSELFERS • CARPET & FLOORING SALESPERSONS • INSURANCE ADJUSTERS • HOME REMODELERS • DECORATORS • PAINTERS • REALTORS
JUST POINT IT TOWARD A WALL AND IT MEASURES UP TO 30 FEET
VALUE $39 NOW $9.99 EACH

CHRISTMAS CANDY BUY-OUT
Rubie Bought 40,000 Pounds! BRACH's AND ANDIES.
A grocery chain received a double shipment and Rubie bought it all to sell and half the normal prices.
JUST A FEW EXAMPLES
NORMALLY $1.39 TO $2.99 PER PACKAGE
NOW 59¢ TO $1.79

TURCO SWINGSETS 50% OFF
NYLOBOND 10 10 YEAR WARRANTY
YOUR CHOICE #735 OR $736
VALUE $299.99 $148 WHILE 200 LAST

8'x12' STORAGE BUILDING FRAMING KIT
VALUE $159 NOW $38.88
HEAVY DUTY ALL-STEEL KIT HOT-DIPPED GALVANIZED FRAME YOU NEED FINISHING MATERIAL
GAMBREL STYLE ROOF

VINYL PETIT POINT TABLECLOTHS
EMBOSSED LACE LOOK WITH FLORAL PRINT OR CHRISTMAS DESIGN
54"x72"
WIPES CLEAN WITH A DAMP CLOTH
VALUE $7.95 NOW $4.00

CHECK OUT LARGE SELECTION OF CHRISTMAS TREES
ARTIFICIAL READY-TO-ASSEMBLE FROM 2 FEET TALL TO 7½ FEET TALL
VALUES $5.99 TO $229.95 NOW $3.99 TO $88.88
DELUXE CHRISTMAS TREES
6½ FOOT • 2012 TIPS FROSTED KING BLUE SPRUCE
7½ FOOT • 2416 TIPS CANADIAN PINE
VALUES TO $216 TO $229
YOUR CHOICE NOW $88.88 EACH
COMPLETE WITH STAND

CHRISTMAS ORNAMENTS
REG 39¢
PICK & MIX
• FOIL POM POMS
• FOIL & CLOTH BOXES
• WOOD FIGURES
• 40 MM HEARTS
NOW 4 FOR $1.00
BAG OF 10 SATIN BALLS ORNAMENTS
ASSORTED COLORS & DESIGNS
IF PERFECT VALUE $2.49 NOW 88¢ A BAG
BOX OF 6 MINI ORNAMENTS
FOR PACKAGES AND TREES FOIL STARS, BOXES & POM POMS PEARLIZED BALLS
OUR REG $1.49 NOW $1.00 EACH
24 INCH DECORATED CHRISTMAS TREE
COMPLETE WITH MINIATURE ORNAMENTS AND STAND. SATIN BALLS, CANDY CANES, CHRISTMAS CHARACTERS.
VALUE $11.95 NOW $6.50

35 MINIATURE LIGHTS
50 MINIATURE LIGHTS
100 MINIATURE LIGHTS
35 LIGHT/2 WAY FLASHER NOW $2.48
50 LIGHT 3 WAY FLASHING VALUE $6.95 NOW $3.48
100 LIGHT 5 WAY FLASHING VALUE $9.95 NOW $5.48

GARLAND
1"x9' MINI GARLAND ASSORTED COLORS
COMPARE $1.00 NOW 2 FOR $1.00
2 PLY x 18 FT. GOLD & SILVER ONLY REG $1.90 NOW $1.00 EA.
6 PLY x 15 FT. EXTRA FANCY REGULAR $2.50 - $3.50 NOW $1.80 EA.

POINSETTIA • HOLLY SILK BUSHES
SOLID COLOR OR ASSORTMENTS VALUE $2.99 NOW 99¢

TREE SKIRTS
48 INCH TREE SKIRT CAN BE USED AS TABLE COVER FRINGED WHITE EDGE
COMPARE AT $6.99 NOW $4.50

COLORING BOOKS
JUMBO PAPERBACK CHRISTMAS AND EVERYDAY DESIGNS
VALUE $4.95 NOW 88¢ EA.
HARD COVER CHRISTMAS STORIES
• THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS • THE HONEY BEARS CHRISTMAS • SNOOPY • 12 DAYS OF CHRISTMAS & MORE
VALUE $5.95 75% OFF NOW $1.50 EACH
LIGHTED CHRISTMAS CERAMICS
SNOWHOUSE • REINDEER PANDA • MADONNA • COTTAGE
CATALOG VALUES $9.90 TO $11.90 NOW $4.88

CANDLE GUARDS
4 PER PKG. REG. 99¢
SAFE WAY TO HOLD HOLIDAY CANDOLIERS IN PLACE ON WINDOWSILLS
2 PKGS FOR 88¢

HOLIDAY GIFT BOXES FOR TIES GLOVES SCARVES 5 FOR $1.00
CHRISTMAS TAGS
VALUES 89¢ TO 99¢ EA.
• Glitter • Self-Stick • Etched • Fancy
YOUR CHOICE 2 FOR 88¢
CHRISTMAS SCENES IN TWO SIZES

Value $2.00 NOW 98¢
30 SQUARE FEET JUMBO ROLL HOLIDAY WRAP
50 SQ. FT. ROLL VALUE $2.50 NOW $1.48 #76062
100 SQ. FT. ROLL VALUE $3.00 NOW $1.88

ASGARD CHRISTMAS FLANNEL BACK TABLECLOTHS
SIZES: 52"x52" 52"x70" 52"x90" 60" ROUND
YOUR CHOICE NOW $2.88

CHRISTMAS DESIGN REUSEABLE PLASTIC CONTAINERS
JUST ONE EXAMPLE COOKIE/GIFT CONTAINER
VALUE $2.29 NOW $1.28 EACH

VINYL CHRISTMAS NOVELTY PLACEMATS
CONTEMPORARY & TRADITIONAL DESIGNS
REG VAL $1.29 NOW 65¢ EA.

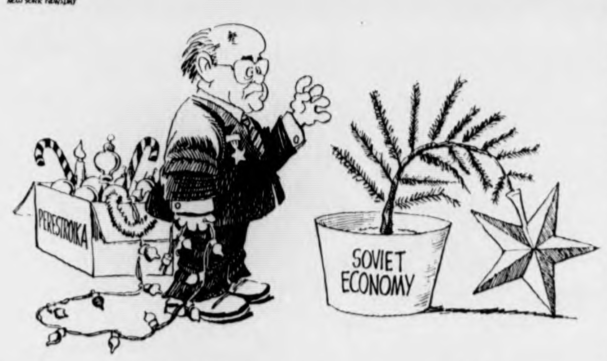
J.P. STEVENS SNOOPY DESIGN OVEN MITT
White Terry w/ Red Piping Center Thumb for Right or Lefthand Use.
VALUE $4.99 NOW $1.48

CHRISTMAS PRINT
52"x90" or 52"x108" LIGHTWEIGHT PLASTIC TABLECLOTH
WIPES CLEAN WITH DAMP CLOTH
REG $2.69 TO $2.99 NOW $1.50 EACH

DELUXE HANDMADE HOLIDAY BOWS HANDCRAFTED IN U.S.A.
VALUES $1.49-$2.99
SINGLE FABRIC BOWS PLAID • STRIPES OR GLITTER 48¢
MEDIUM CRAFT BOWS SOLID COLOR KRINKLE CRAFT 68¢
LARGE SIZE HOLLY PRINT • PLAID GOLD • SILVER KRINKLE CRAFT 88¢
10 PACK BOWS RED VELVET 88¢

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted



Beware of fascist proclamations

In the interest of decency I will put aside the fact that the article entitled "Who to Trust" in last Wednesday's Collegian contained very little in the way of coherent argument, and substituted dramatics for content.

Instead, I will focus on what I gather to be the theme of that editorial which, when separated from the surrounding histrionics, is appalling.

The overriding message that the article puts forth seems to be that because the security for the Ohio-seven sedition trial was so tight, and because the defendants had tried to avoid being arrested, it is safe to assume that said defendants are dangerous threats to society. Such a train of thought leaves us ripe for — I know the word is loaded — fascism.

The U.S. government charged the Ohio-seven with seditious conspiracy, it is safe to assume that the same government wanted to convict them on this charge. Whether or not the federal government actually believed the defendants to be guilty is, for these purposes, a moot point.

What is important, however, is that in order to get the conviction it wanted the prosecution had to treat the defendants as if they were guilty.

"Who to Trust" documents that the prosecution went to elaborate ends to keep up these appearances. I do not know whether or not these precautions were warranted, or even if they were anything beyond on elaborate hoax.

I do know, however, that they were politically necessary, and also that their presence in-and-of-itself sheds no light onto the guilt or innocence of the defendants.

If we were to believe that it did we would be allowing the government to be police, judge, and jury and that, my friends, is fascism.

Laura Cresta
Amherst

Stay active to save yourself

I am in bed, sleeping peacefully, tranquil in my REM state. Hmmm? Wait . . . there is a disturbing presence. Oh, my God, it's Mike Dukakis.

What? He's apologizing . . . he's apologizing for the state's financial crisis . . . and the lack of funds available for public education. "Cuts, cuts, cuts!"

Wendy S. Noah

"I believe," he says, "that education cannot be a top priority. In this post-Reagan era the upper class must continue to grow and prosper . . ."

What're you doing in my bedroom, Governor?

". . . while the average middle-class citizen must fight for a decent living, good jobs at good wages, which would include access to a decent education."

I must be still dreaming.

"But we must protect investments for the affluent. This country must also maintain a reasonable allocation of funds toward the military. That is the only international influence we have left. Therefore, funds to the state universities must be cut."

I am dreaming.

He disappears.

Now I am standing by the pond at UMass. I hesitantly inspect the campus.

I sigh with relief. Everything is the way I remember it. I mean, we're too big and powerful to be truly affected by the Duke's threats, aren't we?

Wait . . . what's that noise? I abruptly turn my head toward the racket, and am fixed in shock. The tower library is shrinking. It's shrinking . . . it's gone! Are my eyes deceiving me?

I better have been dreaming. How can 26 stories just evaporate? Wait a minute, if that's the case, how can 26,000 students continue their degrees without those resources, or the faculty for that matter . . .or the departments?

Oh no! Duke wasted no time! Please, somebody pinch me. This is no dream. This is a nightmare.

My alarm shrieks. I'm awake . . . I think. I scramble out of bed, jump in my car, and zoom to UMass. Whew! The library is still standing tall and proud . . . Hey! So are 2,000 protesters, right in front of me. They are objecting to the drastic budget cuts and the ominous future of our education.

I decide to join in, wondering if this is a continuation of my nightmare. But it's not. It's real.

But so was my dream. The library has shrunk. It shrunk in its study hours, its number of subscriptions and its research materials. It might still be visible physically, but don't be taken in by appearances.

I am burdened by an overwhelming sadness. Even though I graduate in December, when I think about how UMass has provided me with a superb education — be it intellectually, socially and culturally. I can't help but fear for those who will still be battling this lethargic bureaucracy. I can't help but wonder if my degree will be devalued over time.

I urge everyone and anyone to join the fight for the future of public education . . . for the University of Massachusetts. Fight for its future and pray for its success in dealing with the budget cuts. Every student, alumni, faculty member, and administrative staff member must continue the fight.

The end is not yet in sight. We have only begun to feel the impact. Do not turn your head so quickly, by transferring or finding another teaching position. Instead, hold that head high. Stay active. Stay concerned. Make a difference!

I'm sure if UMass could actually speak for itself, it would say the same thing, "Save me!" . . . and by doing so, save yourselves.

Wendy S. Noah is a UMass student

Comic's bad image

The comics page of the Collegian has frequent comings and goings of comic strips of varying quality and taste. This letter addresses one of the more offensive comics in your paper, namely Calvin and Hobbes. We have noticed several aspects of this comic strip that are setting a bad example for both young children and adults.

The most evident example of such questionable content is Calvin's frequent "tripping out" in the comic strip — growing to the size of galaxy and floating about in space. One ought to examine a comic strip which makes light of such drug related trances. How can one expect today's young people to say "No to drugs" when the comics strips they read condone the activity?

Calvin's psychological state of mind also is an area of concern. He has schizophrenic traits which should not be treated lightly but dealt with in a mature manner. These alter egos are unhealthy.

The idea that a child of school age spends the majority of his time with an anthropomorhic tiger causes us to wonder why he must continually escape reality. Is this how today's young people are explected to deal with their problems?

Another area of concern is Calvin's lack of respect for the educational system. The content of many strips concerns itself with Calvin's antics in the classroom. Once again, the example Calvin sets for young people is negative, indicating that disruptive behavior is funny and to be admired.

His expectation of an "A" for a paper with a fancy plastic cover is a sad commentary on the quality and effort that goes into the work of most people today. Perhaps too many state legislators have been reading Calvin and Hobbes.

Finally, Calvin's lack of respect for both his parents is to be frowned upon. One reason for the confusion of today's children is the lack of good role models in the home. When good role models exist, as they do in Calvin's parents, they are ridiculed and the behavior of disrespectful children exalted.

We suggest that you reconsider the publishing of Calvin and Hobbes in the Collegian. Portrayal of such behavior on the comics page where one used to be able to find refuge from the evil in the world is despicable.

Tom Dowling
Matt Jahl
Dwight Tshudy
Jeff Seeley
Amherst

Collegian fails to print feminist views

Getting printed in the Editorial Section of the Collegian requires membership to the exclusive NewsBoy's Club. To become a member, one must laud the failures of women. There is an unspoken (but completely understood) agreement among members to misinterpret, misrepresent, invalidate and objectify women at every opportunity.

Elizabeth Rensenbrink

Last month, Josh Galitsky proved his membership by plotting to kill his step-mother because she couldn't cook and clean for him properly. Three weeks ago, it was Darren Garnick whining because women didn't show proper benevolence for his pontifications on the abortion issue. Two weeks ago, it was Paul Morris assuaging his bruised ego by attacking a woman who very rightfully questioned his chauvinism.

Last week it was Darren Garnick once again. Only this time he couldn't stomach feeling unimportant because he is one of only a few men taking classes at Smith College, so he asserts that Smith must become co-ed. Membership also includes Peter Leon and David R. Mark, but I will not bore you with the sordid details of their indiscretions.

So what about women who write for the Editorial section? The NewsBoy's Club needs a few token women as a front for their activities. If there are a few women on staff, the Club cannot be accused of being sexist. The stipulation is that these women cannot write about women's issues with any sort of feminist slant.

I know this because one month ago I submitted a feminist editorial in an attempt to offset the onslaught of misogynistic articles I had been reading.

It has yet to be printed.

I have valiantly gone down to the Collegian many times to assert my right to be printed. Each time, I am reminded of my lack of membership to the NewsBoy's Club. Only, that is not what I am told. I am politely reminded that though they would like to print my editorial, the excessive amount of weekly columnists (like Josh Galitsky, Darren Garnick, Peter Leon and David R. Mark) makes it hard to fit in non-memb — excuse me, non-columnists.

This is simply not true. Since I submitted my article, non-weekly columnists like Paul Morris and Nathan Krystall have had articles in the Editorial section about sexism and women's oppression. Why is my column not printed? Is it because these two men are reporters for the Collegian? Is it because the Collegian balks at printed feminist material?

It is time for a change. My solitary attempt at making the Editorial section print the feminist side of women's issues has been thwarted. We need to inundate the Collegian with women's voices. UMass women — write editorials, demand that they be printed. It is the only way to dismember this Boy's Club and make the Editorial section print all sides of the issues.

Elizabeth Rensenbrink is a UMass student

We need Chancellor Duffey's leadership

Comments printed by the University's news bureau did not accurately reflect comments that I made at the Board of Trustees meeting on Wednesday.

In my comments I made it clear that there are many people, myself included, who disagree with decisions that the Chancellor makes.

The question for students on campus is, what are the alternatives to Dr. Joseph Duffey?

Many people have told me that they are concerned about Provost Richard O'Brien's ability to support the total needs of the University.

Others have worried about the vacancy in leadership and direction that would naturally follow the Chancellor's departure.

I share these concerns, and I also do feel that the Chancellor makes an excellent effort to understand and support the varied goals of the University.

I do have many criticisms of the Chancellor (for instance, I do not want our child care system privatized), but these complaints should be understood within context.

I would like the Chancellor to decide against the University of Delaware job, and stay at the University.

Having done that, I share President Tracy Davis' concern that Dr. Joe Duffey also exert the kind of visible leadership that this campus needs, and that we have lacked over the past few weeks.

Eric Nakajima
Student Trustee

The Editorial Desk is currently staffed by Meredith O'Brien, Minu Sebastian and Alise Harfield.

Due to the constraints of space and large number of submissions (about 15 a day), it is not possible to print all of the submissions.

Letters and columns are selected to run on the basis of line length, clarity, space and quality of writing.

RÉSUMÉS
CopyCat Print Shop
• Great Service • Great Prices
228 Triangle St./Amherst 549-3840

RENT A WRECK
New & Used Cars
Trucks & Vans Also Available
North Amherst Rent-A-Wreck
Rt. 63 No. Amherst
549-RENT

Great Gifts
Jewelry Natural Fiber Scarves
Blouses Skirts Dresses
Rings Bracelets Chains Mugs Earrings Chinese Shoes Sweaters Socks Leather Sole
Happy B'day Cards Hawaii Posters Indonesian Prints Candles Dresses India Print
India Print Bedspreads Area Rugs Baskets Paper Lampshades
Sale 20 to 50% off selected Clothing
Great Gifts & Cards
THE MERCANTILE
Sun 12-5
Daily 10-6
Northampton-18 Center St.
Amherst-Carriage Shops

ROYAL CRANE ORIENTAL FOOD MARKET
360 College St., Amherst
253-5658
with a large variety of
AUTHENTIC ORIENTAL & INDIAN
• Produce • Sauces & Spices • Noodles • Frozen & Canned Goods • Cooking Implements & Supplies • Homemade take-out food
Sun-Fri 10:00-8:00
Sat 9:00-8:00

Open Early
Open Late
kinko's
the copy center
220 N. Pleasant St.
253-2543

R U A SECRET
SANTA?
Gifts from 19¢ to 4.99
Find It at Faces
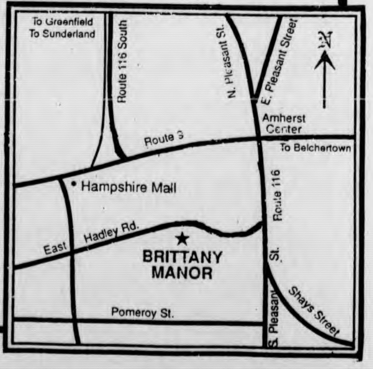
amherst / northampton
daily & sunday

586-6344
45 State Street
Northampton, MA
The INDIA HOUSE RESTAURANT
Where Indian Food Is Not Just Curry
• TRADITIONAL TANDORI INDIAN COOKING SEALS IN FRESH FOODS NATURAL FLAVORS
• COMPLETE VEGETARIAN MENU
• EXTENSIVE WINE LIST
• BEWITCHING BIRYANIS
• ENTICING CURRIES
"INDIAN RESTAURANT WITH EXCELLENT FOOD & SERVICE." THE NEW ENGLAND MONTHLY.

MONDAY DECEMBER 11
AN EVENING WITH
ARLO GUTHRIE
8 PM AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER
$6 UMass STUDENTS
$9 GENERAL PUBLIC
TICKETS ARE AVAILABLE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER
BOX OFFICE OR CALL TO CHARGE (MC/VISA) 545-2511

UPC PRODUCTIONS

BRITTANY MANOR
Brittany Manor Drive • (413) 256-8534
Two Bedroom Apartments
AVAILABLE NOW!
STARTING $490 PER MONTH
Rent includes heat and hot water.
ENJOY THESE FEATURES:
• Fully-Equipped Kitchen, Including Disposal
• Large Livingroom with Ceiling-to-Floor Windows
• On the UMass Bus Route
• Wall-to-Wall Carpeting
• Large Dining Area
• Oversized Bathrooms
• Wall-to-Wall Closets
• Storm Windows
• Dead-bolt Security Locks
• Cable T.V. Available
• Ample Parking
• Swimming Pool



ARTS & LIVING

Junkie delivers one hit from the body (music)

By JON DRUKMAN
Collegian Correspondent

Although primarily a dance genre, the best examples of Electronic Body Music contain plenty to hold your interest when you're off the dance floor. Whether it's chainsaw lyrics or an assault of samples, the performers of this kind of music try to keep your ears overstimulated, so even when your feet are on hold, you'll still be dazed by the array of sound. This week, we'll take a look at two new compilation albums which should whet the appetite of those interested in seriously hard music. Following hot on the heels of Funky Alternative One, Two and Three, we have Funky Alternatives Four, compilation from Concrete Productions filled with intricate rhythms, dark bass lines and vocal samples. The operating principle of a lot of these bands is to make some sort of statement about modern society simply by giving you a slice of information overload and letting your brain sort it out. Some of the more outstanding tracks in this vein are "You and Me and Everything," by the Shamen, which is a marvelous psychedelic groove, and "Peace" by Greater Than One, which is a throbbing blast of funky noise, heavily laced with samples from TV and radio. Most of the songs on the album are exclusive remixes or simply unavailable elsewhere, so even if you already know about the bands featured, chances are, there are songs here that you haven't heard before. Overall, the music is excellent, although Federal State's "Deeper In Love" is a pretty lame attempt at deep house. But ignoring that one song, the a;bum is highly worth your while.

DISC JUNKIE

Moving on to dance music, we here in the United States seem to be about a year behind the rest of the world in this department. Polygram Records, in particular, is making a habit of releasing compilations of dance tunes long after they've been big in Europe. This time around, they've given us a compilation called This is the New Beat showcasing (what else?) the New Beat phenomenon from Belgium. Culled from import compilations called New Beat Take One – Four, this domestic version will give you an overview of what the Belgians have been getting down to for the past year.

The main driving force behind New Beat music has always been the subsonic bass line, incredibly heavy and grungy. In a club, the noise just rattles your entire nervous system. At home, you might find the record somewhat disappointing, but those of you with decent stereos will be able to get a convincing facsimile. The tune with the heaviest bass line out of all those on the album, and consequently our personal favorite, is Lords of Acid's "I Sit On Acid." It starts off with a little girl's voice singing some filthy lyrics and proceeds to pummel your eardrums into shape. Lots of suggestive samples and lyrics abound. New Beat, for some reason, is inordinately preoccupied with sex, so there's a lot of innuendo to be heard on the disc. It's a pretty complete introduction to New Beat and it showcases the famous production team of Morton, Sherman and Belluci, so if you're at all interested, it's worth checking out. Plus, the compact disc contains four bonus tracks that push its length up to about 70 minutes. Definitely value for your money here.

CATCH THE TOP AT THE TOP!
7:30 PM
Fri., Dec. 8
BOSTON CELTICS
VS
DENVER NUGGETS
Sunday Night Football at 8 PM:
New England at Miami
TOP of the CAMPUS LOUNGE
Monday-Friday
11:30 a.m. to 12:30 a.m.
Saturday & Sunday
5:00 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.
11th FLOOR CAMPUS CENTER

Clip & Curl Tel: 665-2629
Hours
Tues-Fri 9:00-8:00
Sat 9:00-4:00
Look Good for Santa!
Haircut with shampoo $11.50
Perms include haircut $44-48
Colors $20-25
Long hair costs slightly more
Christmas Special
With this coupon and any $11.50 haircut receive a free gift!
coupon expires 12-23-89
Gift certificates available!
located in Sunderland, Rte 116
(next to 7-11)
on bus route
walk-ins are welcome

Start your Holiday Celebrations with these specials from Scott's
Scott's LIQUORS
OPEN MON-SAT 8 AM-11 PM
Tel: 549-2692
6 University Drive
at Newmarket Center
Amherst, MA
diagonally across from UMass Stadium
Rolling Rock 12pk bottles $5.99 +Dep.
Michelob 24-12oz bottles Regular, Light, Dry $12.99 +Dep.
Peachtree Schnapps 750 ml $6.99
Captain Morgan Spiced Rum 1.75 $13.99
Jack Daniels Whiskey 750 ml $9.99
Absolut Vodka 1.75 $18.99
VISA/MASTERCARD ACCEPTED,
ALSO LOCAL PERSONAL CHECKS
Every Day Low Price For Bud, Bud Light, Miller, Miller Lite, Genuine Draft, Coors, Coors Light and Extra Gold $11.99 plus Dep.
Kegs Available
WE WANT TO BE YOUR FAVORITE LIQUOR STORE

amc THEATRES
$3.00 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING
MT. FARMS 4 MT FARMS MALL 584-9153
CHRISTMAS VACATION
Fri at (4:45@3.00)7:30,10:15
Sat at 12:00,2:15(4:45@3.00)7:30,10:15
Sun at 12:15,2:30(6:00@3.00)8:30
PG13 Mon-Thurs at (6:00@3.00)8:30
It reaffirms life!
Steel Magnolias
Fri at (4:30@3.00)7:15,10:00
Sat at 11:45,2:00(4:30@3.00)8:30
Sun at 12:00,2:30(5:45@3.00)7:15,10:00
PG13 Mon-Thurs at(5:45@3.00)8:15
JOHN TRAVOLTA · KIRSTIE ALLEY
LOOK WHO'S TALKING
Fri at(4:45@3.00)7:45,10:15
Sat at 12:00,2:15(4:45@3.00)7:45,10:15
Sun at 12:15,2:45(6:15@3.00)8:30
PG13 Mon-Thurs at(6:15@3.00)8:30
Kathleen Turner Michael Douglass
War of the Roses
Fri at(4:30@3.00)7:00,10:00
Sat at 11:45,2:00(4:30@3.00)7:00,10:00
Sun at 12:00,2:15(5:45@3.00)8:15
Mon-Thurs at(5:45@3.00)8:15
SpecialEngagement,No Passes/Coupons Accepted
HAMPSHIRE 6 MALL 584-7550
She-Devil
Fri at(5:00@3.00)7:45,10:15
Sat at 12:00,2:30(5:00@3.00)7:45,10:15
Sun at 12:00,2:30(6:00@3.00)8:45
PG13 Mon-Thurs at(6:00@3.00)8:45
SpecialEngagement,No Passes/Coupons
The greatest man Dad
Fri at 7:30,10:00
Sat at(4:45@3.00)7:30,10:00
Sun at(5:45@3.00)8:15
Mon-Thurs at 8:15
They're up to something big.
HARLEM NIGHTS
Fri at(4:45@3.00)7:30,10:00
Sat at 11:45,2:15(4:45@3.00)7:30,10:00
Sun at 11:45,2:15(5:45@3.00)8:15
R Mon-Thurs at(5:45@3.00)8:15
BACK TO THE FUTURE PART II
Fri at(4:45@3.00)7:45,10:15
Sat at 11:45,2:15(4:45@3.00)7:45,10:15
Sun at 11:45,2:15(6:00@3.00)8:30
PG Mon-Thurs at (5:45@3.00)8:30
THE LITTLE MERMAID
Fri at(5:45@3.00)8:00,10:00
Sat at 11:45,1:45,3:45(5:30@3.00)8:00,10:00
Sun at 11:45,1:45,3:45(6:15@3.00)8:45
G Mon-Thurs at(6:15@3.00)8:45
Crimes and Misdemeanors
Fri at(5:00@3.00)7:45,10:15
Sat at 12:00,2:30(5:00@3.00)8:30
Sun at 12:00,2:30(6:00@3.00)8:30
R Mon-Thurs at(6:00@3.00)8:30
All Dogs Go To Heaven
Fri at(5:15@3.00)
Sat at 12:15,2:30
Sun at 12:15,2:30
G Mon-Thurs at(6:15@3.00)
Entertainment is the perfect Gift
Gift certificate coupons are available at our box office

KATINA'S
18, 19 & 20 year olds welcome
PREMIER SHOWCASE NIGHTCLUB
THURSDAY DEC. 7
miNibUS SAndwITch
FRIDAY DEC. 8

THE STOMPERS
SPECIAL GUEST D.J. ALF
TAKING YOUR REQUESTS
SATURDAY DEC. 9

JOHN BUTCHER
SPECIAL GUEST D.J. ALF
TAKING YOUR REQUESTS
SUNDAY DEC. 10
KYRUSS
Rockin'
Heavy Metal Band
UPCOMING CONCERTS
DEC. 15: CULT BROTHERS
DEC. 16: THE FOOLS
DEC. 22: FRANK SANTOS AND CLIFF MYERS
NEW YEAR'S EVE
STAY TUNED
TICKETS AVAILABLE AT TICKETRON, STRAWBERRIES RECORDS & TAPES, + KATINA'S BOX OFFICE.
ROUTE 9, HADLEY, MA
(413) 586-4463

■ track

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 12

who managed a third place finish (4:23.5).

This week, the opportunity for each athlete to test themselves against high caliber competition will hopefully pay dividends when the team comes together again after a two-week holiday break.

"It's a good chance for our athletes to take advantage of a great facility and competition," said O'Brien. "It's a showcase of national talent. Hopefully some of our athletes will be ready to register good performances against it."

■ men's basketball

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 10

year the Minutemen also prevailed, 79-69 at the Cage.

But that game came early in the season, when UMass still had the services of David Brown and Duane Chase, who were later arrested for burglary and subsequently suspended from the team.

"We were just starting to come together as a team with those guys, too," Calipari said.

The second-year coach can only hope that, before long, this group of guys will come together and show everyone what the 1989-90 version of the Minutemen is really all about.

BOOK BARGAINS
THOUSANDS OF RECENT AND CURRENT BOOKS AT 40-80% OFF NEW LIST PRICE — OVER 40,000 IN STOCK.
Bargain Editions • Remainders • Pub. Overstock • Used • First Editions • Playing Cards.
VALLEY BOOKS
199 N. Pleasant Street
Amherst, Mass.
M-F 10:30-5:30 256-1508
Sat. 10-5, Sun. 12-5 VISA/MC

BRUEGGER'S BAGEL BAKERY
Bagels • Bagel Sandwiches
Cookies • Brownies • Baked Fresh
All Day • Custom Cream Cheese
Open 7 Days
170 N. Pleasant St. • Amherst, MA
253-5713

AS SEEN IN NEWSWEEK ON CAMPUS
VECTOR MARKETING CORPORATION
The Difference Between an Ordinary Job and "The Vector Opportunity"
$11⁰⁵ ENTRY LEVEL PAY RATE
- NATIONAL FIRM HAS IMMEDIATE OPENINGS DURING SEMESTER BREAK
- INTERVIEW NOW - BEGIN AFTER EXAMS
- GAIN VALUABLE BUSINESS EXPERIENCE FOR RESUME
- BUILD COMMUNICATION SKILLS
- SPECIAL 2-4 WEEK PROGRAM
- INTERNSHIPS & SCHOLARSHIPS POSSIBLE FOR NEXT SEMESTER
- FUTURE MANAGEMENT POSITIONS AVAILABLE
- ALL MAJORS MAY APPLY
- DETAILS COVERED AT INTERVIEW

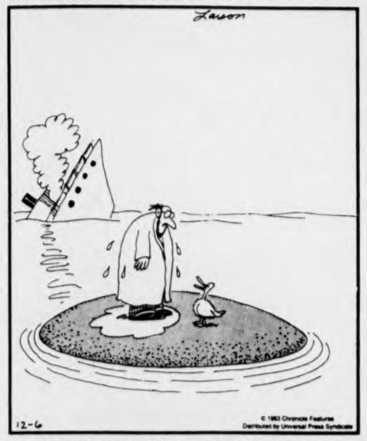
FOR EARLY CONSIDERATION CALL NOW
VECTOR MARKETING CORPORATION
BOSTON SUBURBS 617-449-4362
WORCESTER COUNTY 508-852-1680
WAKEFIELD,MA/NORTH SHORE AREA 617-246-5308
SOUTHEAST MASS. AREA 508-947-1006

GIFTS
TRIED 'N TRUE for those toys and games that are always appropriate: Yoyos, Silly Putty, Mr. and Mrs. Potato Head, Slinky, Magic 8 Balls, Magic Bubbles.
STUFFED bears, dogs, cows, birds, jungle and woodland animals. Opus Bill the Cat, Babar, Tasmanian Devil, Grimm, Snoopy, Fido Dido; by Gund, Dakin, Ganz Bros., Special Effects, Applause.
Find it at FACES
amherst/northampton 7 days

RUSSELL'S
DISCOUNT LIQUORS DISCOUNT
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441
Specializing in Imported Beers at Domestic Pricing
Super Import Buys
Foster's Lager, bots. .... still only $3.99 6/pk; $14.95 case
Beck's .... $7.99 12/pk; bots. always
SPATEN German Reg. or Dark $4.99 6/pk
YES! We have all your Domestic Favorites at Similar Savings Ex:
Miller Genuine draft $5.99 12/pk bots.
Flavored Schnapps Leroux Cranberry, Apple, Banana, Strawberry, Raspberry, Pina Colada $3.99 750 ml.
KAHLUA.............................always only $14.49 full liter
BACARDI "Silver Rum"..........Was $7.99; Now $6.99 750 ml
Seagrams Imported Vodka 80° ...... was $9.99 now $6.49 liter
Jack Daniels "The Best" .... was $10.99 now $9.99 750 ml
Don't Forget Your Secret Person - Stocking Stuffers
Exam: Applemint, Banana Strawberry, Cranberry Apple Schnapps 200 ml. 99¢ each.
Great Selection of Miniatures
SPECTACULAR WINE BUYS
Glenn Ellen Cab. Sauvignon & Chardonnay, or White Zinfandel .... $3.99 bot.; 3 bots. for $10.99
Champagnes and Sparkling Wines for your Formals starting at $1.99 bot.
Many, many more wines and beers at similiar savings.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION
Over 100 courses!
Almost half meet gen. ed. requirements.
University of Massachusetts at Amherst
Winter Session
Mail Registration—November 11-December 13
All mail registrations must be sent via U.S. mail and be postmarked no earlier than November 11. (Do not use campus mail.)
Walk-in Registration—
November 27-January 5
Room 615 Goodell Building
Registrations are processed in the order in which they are received, so register early!
Classes start January 3, 1990.
For more information, contact the Division of Continuing Education, Goodell Building, or call 545-2414.

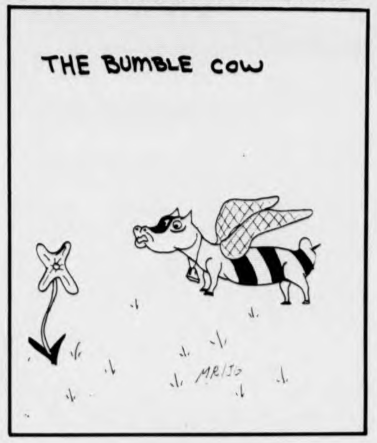
THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



Larson
12-6
© 1983 Chronicle Features
Distributed by Universal Press Syndicate

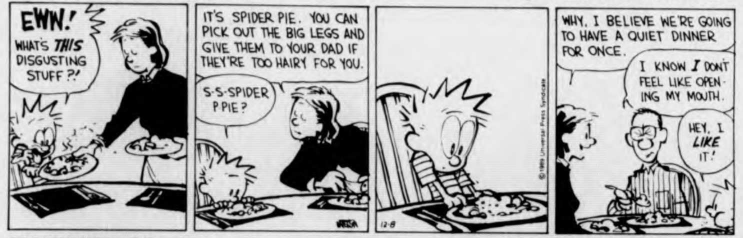
"So, Professor Jenkins! . . . My old nemesis! . . . We meet again, but this time the advantage is mine! Ha! Ha! Ha!"

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG



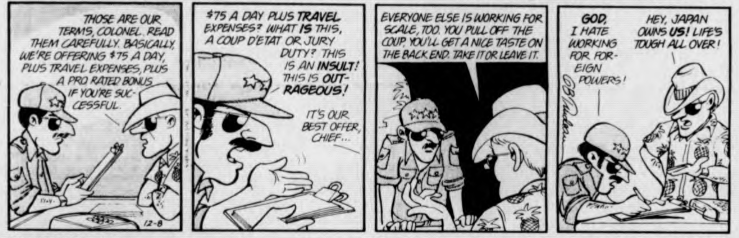
THE BUMBLE COW
MR/JG

CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



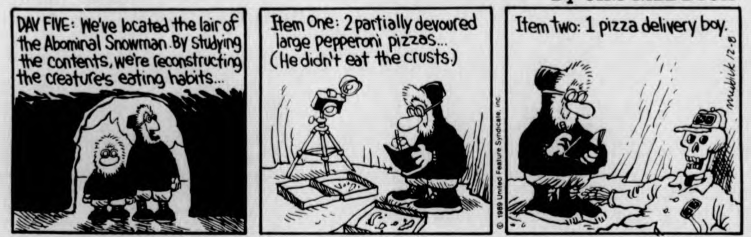
EWW! WHAT'S THIS DISGUSTING STUFF ?!
IT'S SPIDER PIE. YOU CAN PICK OUT THE BIG LEGS AND GIVE THEM TO YOUR DAD IF THEY'RE TOO HAIRY FOR YOU.
S-S-SPIDER P-PIE?
© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate
12-8
WHY, I BELIEVE WE'RE GOING TO HAVE A QUIET DINNER FOR ONCE.
I KNOW I DON'T FEEL LIKE OPENING MY MOUTH.
HEY, I LIKE IT!

DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



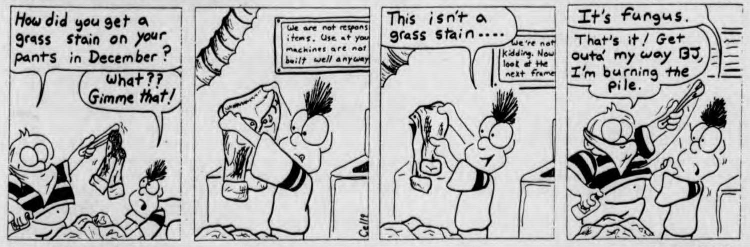
THOSE ARE OUR TERMS, COLONEL. READ THEM CAREFULLY. BASICALLY, WE'RE OFFERING $75 A DAY, PLUS TRAVEL EXPENSES, PLUS A PRO RATED BONUS IF YOU'RE SUCCESSFUL.
12-8
$75 A DAY PLUS TRAVEL EXPENSES? WHAT IS THIS, A COUP D'ETAT OR JURY DUTY? THIS IS AN INSULT! THIS IS OUTRAGEOUS!
IT'S OUR BEST OFFER, CHIEF...
EVERYONE ELSE IS WORKING FOR SCALE, TOO. YOU PULL OFF THE COUP, YOU'LL GET A NICE TASTE ON THE BACK END. TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT.
GOD, I HATE WORKING FOR FOREIGN POWERS!
HEY, JAPAN OWNS US! LIFE'S TOUGH ALL OVER!
GBTrudeau

ROBOTMAN
By JIM MEDDICK



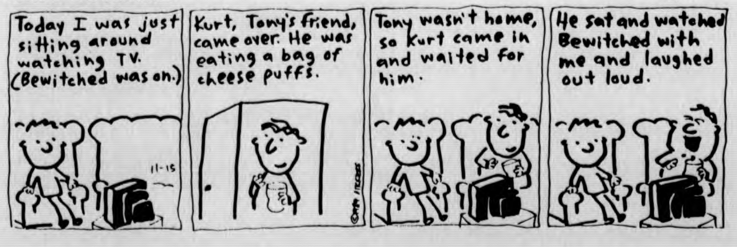
DAY FIVE: We've located the lair of the Abominal Snowman. By studying the contents, we're reconstructing the creature's eating habits...
Item One: 2 partially devoured large pepperoni pizzas... (He didn't eat the crusts.)
© 1989 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
Item two: 1 pizza delivery boy.
meddick 12-8

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT
By CELLI



How did you get a grass stain on your pants in December?
What?? Gimme that!
We are not respons items. Use at you machines are not built well anyway
Celli
This isn't a grass stain....
We're not kidding. Now look at the next frame
It's fungus.
That's it! Get outa' my way BJ, I'm burning the pile.

JIM'S JOURNAL
By JIM



Today I was just sitting around watching TV. (Bewitched was on.)
11-15
Kurt, Tony's friend, came over. He was eating a bag of cheese puffs.
Tony wasn't home, so Kurt came in and waited for him.
He sat and watched Bewitched with me and laughed out loud.

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

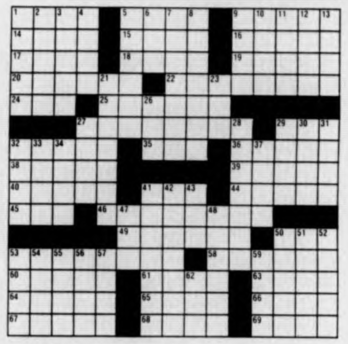
ACROSS
1 Spring happening
5 Arroyo's relative
9 Golfing name of fame
14 Lasso
15 Lendl of tennis
16 Liquid measure, in Leeds
17 Nimbus
18 Money in Milano
19 Once more
20 Sounds like: gymnastics equipment
22 Sounds like: every evening
24 Capp's "— Abner"
25 More inquisitive
27 High-five
29 Alias, for short
32 Wall hanging
35 Bashful
36 Relish
38 Collar attachment
39 Between
40 A tenth part
41 Coterie
44 Jargon
45 United
46 Bears
49 Evening event
50 Top notch
53 Sounds like: horse laughs
58 Sounds like: prerogative
60 Greek colony, of old
61 Robe for Cato
63 Webster
64 North, in Nuevo Laredo
65 Hessian river
66 Peter, Paul and Mary, e.g.
67 Get ready to propose
68 Act
69 Scullers' needs

DOWN
1 Setline
2 Lovely woman
3 Eliot's "cruelest month"
4 Free from
5 The 28th President
6 St. Thomas, St. Croix etc., for short
7 Somewhat gloomy
8 Vapidly
9 Cinder
10 Almost
11 "L'—, c'est moi"
12 Seed cover
13 Contradict
21 Grinds the teeth
23 Savings acct.
26 Sixties political org.
27 Yesterday's roast today
28 Hymnal's relative
29 Name for three English rivers
30 King —
31 Transportation for Jason
32 Counter tenor
33 Check
34 Classify
37 "Lucky Jim" author
41 Wore
42 Part of a soap
43 Rocky hill
47 Applicability
48 Prize
50 Greek market place
51 Rocker
52 Community standard
53 Twist
54 High time of day
55 Concerning
56 Quote
57 Movie critic Pauline —
59 "— each life..."
62 "— whiz!"

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

B	A	D	■	■	E	B	B	S	■	O	S	S	I	A
A	P	I	S	■	R	A	I	L	■	V	I	A	N	D
B	O	X	T	U	R	T	L	E	■	E	L	C	I	D
E	R	I	E	S	■	O	L	D	E	R	■	K	T	S
S	T	E	P	H	E	N	S	■	A	L	E	C	■	■
■	■	■	P	A	L	■	■	D	R	I	L	L	E	D
R	E	C	E	S	S	I	V	E	■	E	M	O	T	E
A	L	A	■	■	A	N	A	M	E	■	■	T	U	E
F	I	R	S	T	■	C	L	E	R	K	S	H	I	P
T	A	P	I	O	C	A	■	■	L	E	E	■	■	■
■	■	E	T	R	E	■	S	T	E	L	L	A	T	E
A	P	T	■	S	E	A	T	O	■	L	E	W	E	S
R	A	B	B	I	■	J	E	R	R	Y	C	A	N	S
C	L	A	R	O	■	A	L	T	O	■	T	R	E	E
H	O	G	A	N	■	R	E	E	D	■	■	E	T	S

12/8/89



© 1989 Los Angeles Times Syndicate 12/8/89

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Slow down. Contracts should be negotiated with great care. Use the evening hours to patch up a disagreement with your mate. Trips are best postponed. Stick to home base.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Partnerships and alliances are in the spotlight. Improve your work environment and your productivity will rise. An impromptu party gives you the opportunity to meet exciting new people.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You could be the center of attention today. The best relationships are those that are intellectually stimulating, Joe. Find ways to please your loved ones. Pursue romance with someone abroad.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Children should not be let off the hook when it comes to household chores. Set some ground rules. A student receives a happy surprise. Keep diet or exercise resolutions. A long distance romance deepens.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Behind-the scenes maneuvers are not worth the risk. Stick to tried-and-true methods. An inheritance or windfall will be larger than you ever imagined. Spend the evening relaxing with friends, Jon.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your knowledge makes a favorable impression on influential people, putting you in line for a promition. Several relationships could be developing. Certain financial sacrifices may be necessary.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): New ideas are welcomed at your place of employment. Be assertive and others will fall into line. Complete current projects before starting new ones. A phone call averts a serious misunderstanding.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A new roommate could be using you. Academic success has you walking on air! Be more gracious with your loved ones. Understand their need to play a larger role in your life, even from the Nation's capital.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): This is no time to gamble. Adopt a realistic approach to any business or financial problems. A career move may require additional training. Romance is in full bloom.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Business and credit expansion are favored now. Avoid stepping on other people's toes. Bargains abound for Christmas shoppers. Give an overly friendly stranger a wide berth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You have an unusual task to perform. Your inventive mind will see you through. Spare no expense to help a loved one who has a medical problem. Partner shares a wonderful secret.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20)Be cautious about what you eat and drink today. You tend to go to extremes. An important letter or telephone call demands your prompt attention. Sign papers and return them immediately.

MENU

Look for your favorite yummy comestibles to appear in this box in an accurate,easy-to-read, reliable, daily format for the rest of the semester. As for today, well, we are unable to provide an accurate listing. But rest assured - both Basics and the regular D.C.s are serving edible, nutritious, and - yes - even delicious food items today.

We're Making a List...

☑ GRANDPA MILLER: Chocolate Lover's Delight Basket
☑ UNCLE CHARLIE: First Edition Lithograph (Dickens' Collectible Series)
☑ SISTER KATE: A Brunch Basket
☑ AUNT MARY: Toiletries from Woods of Windsor
☑ GRANDMA STEVENS Holiday Pantry Basket

Compliments
Creative Gift Baskets for All Occasions
79 South Pleasant Street, lower level
Amherst / (413) 256-1551

Wednesday — Noon - 5 pm
Thurs. & Fri. — 11 am - 5 pm
Saturday — 10 am - 5 pm
Sunday — Noon - 5 pm

AMHERST CINEMA

The Bear PG

7 & 9:00
Fri Sat & Sun

7:30 Mon-Thurs
$2.50 w/student ID

253-5426
30 Amity Street
Amherst, MA

men's basketball

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 12

loss like the Lowell debacle to break any kind of lethargic attitude that might exist coming into a game.

"They [the players] have already forgotten about the Lowell game," Calipari said. "But I haven't forgotten it."

Winning tends to breed complacency, but Calipari is trying to shield against sub-par performances.

"We can't have guys with goose eggs [no points], and we can't have guys fouling out with 10 minutes to play," Calipari said.

Of particular concern has been freshman forward Harper Williams, who has been prone to the quick foul in the last two games. Williams went down with 8:36 to play at BU, and then checked out (after only two points and three boards) with over 10 minutes left the other night.

"We're ironing out the kinks, now we have to learn how to play," Calipari said.

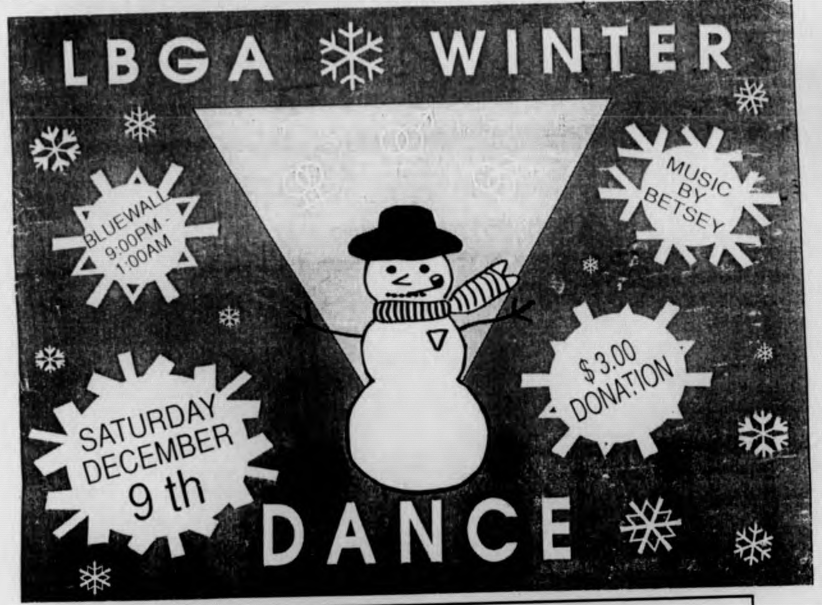
Northeastern is the very type of team that worries Calipari at this point in the season. Quicker, more athletic and bigger, a brand of play that can really take advantage of a team that isn't clicking at 120 percent.

"This is the kind of team that can really hurt us now," Calipari said. "They're the best team we'll play so far."

The Huskies lost their leading scorer from last season, Derrick Lewis, but have gotten plenty of pick-up from senior guard George Yuille, who in four games is averaging 23.0 points per. Junior forward Steve Carney averages 13 points and 5.5 rebounds a game, while junior forward Marcellus Anderson rips down a team-high 5.8 caroms a game. Center Barry Abercrombie, forward Ron Lacey and guard Dexter Jenkins are also players to watch.

UMass leads the overall series, 31-15, and has won the last two meetings. In 1987, guard Lorenzo Sutton's buzzer-beater upset the Huskies at Matthews, while last

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8



Helen's HAIR'UM SALON

A Creative Hair Salon Specializing in:
Wave Nouveau • Leisure Curl
Care Free Curl • Weaves • Extensions
Braids • Color • Permanent Waves
Design Cuts • We have ethnic make-up
228 Triangle Street • Amherst • 549-3999
139 Dwight Street • Springfield • 734-4234
Monday thru Saturday

ALLIED HEALTH & NURSING STUDENTS

THE MOST IMPORTANT RESEARCH PROJECT OF YOUR LIFE BEGINS SATURDAY, JANUARY 6

Baystate Medical Center Student Reception and Brunch
Saturday, January 6, 10 am - 2 pm
Administration Building

Close your books. Forget about exams. Take 2 minutes to mark January 6, 1990 on your calendar. Baystate Medical Center's Student Reception and Brunch is the start of the most important research project of your life. In just a few hours you will find out all about Baystate Medical Center, in Springfield—an 800-bed regional medical center that is redefining health care in New England. And, most of all you'll find out how you can help us shape the future as one of the leading medical centers in the nation.

As the Western Campus of Tufts University School of Medicine, Baystate Medical Center offers you a learning, growth-oriented career environment. Our progressive management has created new excitement. Our financial stability has created an atmosphere where you can feel the energy. Come tour our impressive facility. Explore the opportunities and advantages of working with us. Brunch with Baystate, Saturday, January 6—it's a research project you'll enjoy.

It is easy to get here: From the North, take exit 11 off Route 91. From exit follow blue "H" signs to hospital. From the South, take exit 10 (Main Street) off Route 91. Hospital will be directly in front of you, two blocks away as you go down the ramp. Follow the "Career Day" signs to the Administration Building entrance, and we will be there to greet you.

For more information call 1-800-777-1477. An equal opportunity employer.

Baystate Medical Center
THE WESTERN CAMPUS OF TUFTS UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

BRADLEY AIRPORT SHUTTLE
Christmas Special
$15 FARE
CALL NOW Limited Seating
VALLEY TRANSPORTER
256-8484

ACADEMY of MUSIC Opera House
NORTHAMPTON 584-8435
4th Week—Ends Dec. 14th at 7:00 & 9:00
Note: NO SHOWING THIS SATURDAY!!
"TWO VERY ENTHUSIASTIC THUMBS UP. ONE OF THE YEAR'S BEST FILMS...A GREAT MOVIE." SISKEL AND EBERT
"EXTRAORDINARY. EVERY MINUTE OF 'DRUGSTORE COWBOY' IS VITAL AND ALIVE." NEWSWEEK
"★★★½" —Jay Carr, BOSTON GLOBE
MATT DILLON KELLY LYNCH
"★★★½ HIGHLY ORIGINAL."
DRUGSTORE COWBOY
R
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

College Break Escape 1990
SKI YOUR WAY TO $1000

Get happy, get lucky - get yourself to Sunday River in January for a great week of skiing. Call now and reserve your College Break Package listed below and you'll get a lift ticket, lodging, live bands, pizza parties, zany races, swimming, saunas and lots more for one low price. During each one of our College Break Ski Weeks, one lucky skier will win a $1000 scholarship.

Break #1 4 Days/4 Nights January 1-5, 1990 $199*
Break #2 5 Days/5 Nights January 7-12, 1990 $249*
Break #3 4 Days/4 Nights January 15-19, 1990 $199*

*Lodging based on per person quad occupancy. Prices do not include taxes & gratuity.

Midweek Special: Monday-Thursday non-holiday:
1 day skiing, 1 night lodging: $45

For Reservations, Call 1-800-543-2 SKI

Sunday river MAINE Veryfine

Presented by the University of Massachusetts Department of Theater and the New WORLD Theater
UNFINISHED WOMEN CRY IN NO MAN'S LAND
WHILE A BIRD DIES
IN A GILDED CAGE
A play by Aishah Rahman
December 7-9 &
13-16, 1989
Rand Theater,
Fine Arts Center
Tickets available at the FAC Box Office, 545-2511

STUDENT & FACULTY FARES

1/2 roundtrips from New York
LONDON 169
PARIS 205
ROME 245
roundtrips from New York
TOKYO 749
CARACAS 318
SAN JOSE C.R. 338

Taxes not included.restrictions apply.
One ways available.
EURAIL Passes issued on the spot!!
FREE Student Travel Catalog!!

Council Travel
79 So.Pleasant Street, Amherst
413 - 256 -1261

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON - THURS 8:30-3:30 FRI 8:30-2:30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

JOIN AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL in expressing your feelings on human rights. Come to the writing on the Wall project 12/12.

CELEBRATE YULE THIS SUNDAY with the Pagan Student Organization, 7pm CC. For more info, call Cady 6-6234 or dial 586-0347.

FIRST ANNUAL 1990 STUDENT film/video festival. Sponsored by Club Communication and the Union Video Center applications available in Machmer 417.

ABILITIES UNLIMITED MEETING monday 7pm. Learn about rights and concerns of the disabled. Brett TV lounge. All are welcome.

CRAFT FAIR on the concourse this wednesday. Thursday, Friday. Buy all your gifts. Ceramics, drums, glassblowing and more.

AFRICAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

GENERAL ELECTIONS
Where: Hills South room 271
When: Saturday Dec 9
Please attend!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$
$ THE GOLD EXCHANGE $
$will pay immediate cash $
$ for your gold in any form. $
$ 256-0842 $
$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$

VISA OR MASTERCARD! Even if bankrupt or bad credit! We guarantee you a card or double your money back.Call 1-805-682-7555 ext M-1207.

BED AND BREAKFAST
Downtown Amherst
549-5961

AUTO FOR SALE

1987 PONTIAC SUNBIRD GT Automatic, power brakes/steering, air, fog light, am/fm cassette, fwd. Good tires, only 33K, $6,000. 256-0078 Cheryl.

$500 OR BEST OFFER! 1976 Ford Granada in excellent shape needs a home. Great reliable car, nice interior, dependable in all kinds of weather. Perfect for driving around campus and/or for long trips! Call 549-2862. Aren't you tired of having to take the bus everywhere?!

1983 RENAULT ALL.5-speed reliable air am/fm 64000 miles good condition call 256-8397 evenings only 800 or B.O.

1982 DATSUN 210. good condition, A/C, new muffler, $1200 or BO Call Nader 584-1362.

1981 TOYOTA WAGON. Fine condition - You'll like it. 256-6757 (eves)

1979 BUICK SKYHAWK. Great shape: New tires, and muffler. $1000 or B/O call 546-8228.

SEIZED CARS, TRUCKS, 4 WHEELERS, TV's, stereos, furniture, computers by DEA, FBI, IRS, and US Customs. Available your area now. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext C-1675.

ATTENTION - Government Seized Vehicles from $100. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus buyers guide. 1-602-838-8885 ext. a-7627.

BETTY P.

I CAN'T BELIEVE YOU'RE LEAVING SOON. Now next semester I'll have no one to sit through 2½hr classes with. Wathc out Frenchmen Betty is on her way. Don't let the natives cut your hair. Keep me up to date on what happens. Terri.

CELESTE P.

I CAN'T BELIEVE THIS SEMESTER IS ALMOST OVER. You're California bound. I can't wait to hear about all your adventures, I'm sure there will be many. Don't hang around with any men named Vincent from South America. I hope the Californian sun is kinder to your skin than Florida's sun was. Keep in touch, Terri.

COLD???

DON'T GET LEFT OUTin the cold! Reserve your spring break trip now and save $25.00! Trips to Cancun and the Bahamas! Great prices! Great fun! For sun and fun call Lisa or Donna at 549-8228! Group discounts available! That's 549-8228!

ENTERTAINMENT

PERFORMANCE - A/V, DJ's, Lights, rentals, sales, service 508-922-3277.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED

FOR NEXT SEMESTER! Very low rent, sunny and clean (non-smokers, please) apartment. Call Alise 256-1250, evenings. Thanks.

FINANCE INVESTMENT CLUB

PRESENTS RENOWNED INVESTOR BEN BRANCH PHD to speak on investing trends and forcasting. Terrific opportunity to learn about the market from an insider 7-9pm in SBA 111 tonight. All members must attend this final meeting.

FOR RENT

SINGLE ON HOBART LANE avail for next semester begin Jan 1 or Feb 1 Gilwreath Mannor is only a 5 min walk to campus and on bus route. Contact Frank at either 549-8230 or 546-6229.

STUDIO IN AMHERST, beautiful and quiet, bus rte $350/mo, must see to appreciate 253-7456 after 10:00pm.

TAKE OVER LEASE Southwood 2br new rug, paint, appl. must see 253-7085.

3 BEDROOM APT IN ECHOHILL in Amherst $950/mo. + util. or separate rooms for $325 each. 2 car garage on bus route Heather 584-9845.

LARGE, SUNNY ROOM IN NORTHAMPTON Available for XMas vacation only. Tel 586-4308.

PUFFTON ONE LARGE BEDROOM for two or one nonsmoker take over lease Jan 1 call after five 549-0224 ask for Elana or Heather.

ROOM ON BUSROUTE IN AMHERST HOUSE, ask for Rick, 256-1588.

NEED A PLACE TO STAY FOR WINTERSESSION? Rooms for rent. Friendly atmosphere. Utilities, electricity, cable included. For more info call: Adam 549-5790, Mike 549-8019.

SINGLE ASK FOR MATT after 7pm 549-0071.

TAKE OVER OUR LEASE 1-1-90 3 bdrm 1 bath lg kit fireplace 5min walk to campus $650mo 549-0011.

ROOMS FOR RENT OVER INTERSESSION very inexpensive! Contact Chrisk or JohnB 549-3831.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for Sunset Ave apts. 165/mo call 549-3826 (across from Patterson)

AMHERST ROOMS TO RENT. Immediately. 401 Main St. 300. Call 253-2528.

1-BEDROOM APMT, over intersession, $375/mo call 549-2845. Utilities included.

TAKE OVER LEASE JAN 1 1990 2 bedroom Brandywine Apt. $720.00/month includes utilities 549-0892.

WANT TO LIVE OFF CAMPUS and still be closer than the dorms? Call 549-7919 about living at the NPSC (next door to the Newman Center)

AMHERST NICE SUNNY ROOM on bus route call Jeff 256-1588

ROOM FOR RENT AVAILABLE Dec. 15. Call Jamie or Jen 665-8662.
FARMHOUSE WITH SILO SUNDERLAND Room available busstop $225 (util incld) 665-4627.

SUNDERLAND - large 2 bedroom apt on bus rte. in complex. lease. $400 per mo. Call 665-8946. Starts Jan.

ONE BEDROOM APT. in Sunderland for rent. Avail Jan 1. Call 665-7353 after 4 p.m. Mon thru Friday. on bus route. Good deal to be made.

FOR SALE

T-SHIRTS TOP TEN REASONS to skip a final send one to a friend for secret santa gift call 549-5046.

14K & STERLING CHAINS 4sale 6-6876 after 7 and 1.

ATOMIC ARX 180 perfect condition selling due to injury $135 call 6-9652.

IBM PC2 360K 2-5 ¼floppy panasonic printer supplies $1200 or B.O. Call Tim 534-4321.

FURNITURE FOR ONE ROOM+DR table couch lamps rugs Gayle 256-1250.

DIAMOND SOLITAIRE AND MATCHING WEDDING BAND: White gold, one-fifth carat, women's size 6. Call Beth 256-8625 $200 the set.

SKI BOOTS SALOMON SX71 Ladies size 6 $85 or B.O. Aft 7 6-4701.

SKIS FOR SALE. Olin VI 205cm slalom w/Tyrolia 360D bindings. $90 call Howard 549-8487.

KEEP WARM Navyblue CB Skijacket New: Name your price Call Jason 256-8028.

SCOTT RECEIVER, 200w acoustic spks both just bought new $500 546-8680.

DRUM SET - REMO 8 piece with high hat cymbals and stand, 18 inch crash cymbal with stand intermediate or bignner $200 or best offer call 256-8717.

4 track tascam ministudio with microphone, like new. $365. Wayne 545-0881, 585-5930.

SKI BOOTS 4 SALE! Black Dolemite size 7m call Chris 546-7144.

KEG COOLER AND CO2 TANK for sale call 253-0930.

REPOSSESSED VA & HUD HOMES available from government fro $1 without credit check. You repair. Also tax delingquent foreclosures call 1-805-682-7555 ext H-2009 for repo list your area.

SAN FRANCISCO $99 Dec 7th and 13th 253-7109 or 253-9875.

---PLANE TIX 4 SALE---

One way Dec 28th Ticket Boston to Minneapolis $120 or BO Call Marshall 6-6853.

FOUND

MULTI COLORED (gray/black) cat with a ripped ear found 12/4 around amherst college. Call 549-2970.

FOUND - One long coat - at saturday's beach party. Call Jeff 549-1047 and describe.

GRADUATING IN MAY?!

STUDENTS GOING ON EXCHANGE next semester would like to make arrangements now for taking over your lease at the end of May for the fall Semester '90. We're interested in a house or house apartment in Amherst area. Please call & leave message 546-6308

HELP WANTED

EVEN THE NIGHTS ARE BETTER Telefund! Make $5 to $7/hr raising money for UMass! Call 545-3509.

TELEFUND NEEDS YOU OVER INTERSESSION! Make $5 to $7/hr raising money for UMass!! Call 545-3509.

PAY OFF THOSE HOLIDAY DEBTS over intersession and spring semester! Telefund needs students to raise money for UMass! Make $5 to $7/hr. Call 545-3509.

DESPERATLY NEED TUTORING! For Coins 121 will pay well $$ Call 549-1756.

CROSS COUNTRY SKI INSTRUCTORS wanted by Amherst Leisure Services for late January through Early March experience necessary call 256-4065.

CHRISTMAS CASH FOR RESEARCH seeking papers, research etc on quantitative analysis/probability/statistics. Call GFLD 774-5369 leave mesg. on tape.

LOCKER MANAGER NEEDED to start spring semester for the Outing Club 10-12 hours per week $4 per hour starting for more info call 545-3131 or 545-2020.

EARN UP TO $1500 this winter break. Join us in our fight for clean water and air; fight for recycling. Training provided. Part time positions into spring available. Call Clean Water Action 549-7450.

ATTENTION - hiring! Government jobs - your area. $17,840-$69,485. Call 1-602-838-8885. Ext. R7627.

CRUISESHIPS NOW HIRING for spring, Christmas and next summer breaks. Many positions. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext S-1120.

PART TIME EARN EXTRA CHRISTMAS MONEY while helping others. $5.50-$6.50 per hour. Call 586-5243.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-641-8003 ext 598.

STREET ENTERTAINMENT NEEDED FOR CHRISTMAS Season fundraiser! Earn extra money for Christmas! Call 586-5243.

PERSONALS

HUNGRY LEE!! Sure hope you get a load tonight!! Love Chach & Coutter.

MARGIE F. Heard your news through the grapevine. So sorry. I would love to comfort you. D.

BOBBY B Roses are Red Your B---s are blue Happy 21st birthday from all of us to you. Love 'The fags' Bucky, Tasha, APW, Chris, Mike, Bill and Mark.

WENDY (RIDER) - I'm no match for your creativity but can do lists:
-You're wonderful all the time
-You make me happy
-You're the most amazing person
-Love always Chad (pilot)

MICHAEL P FROM EVITA - Break a leg! Smile - T.M.B.

JOAD THE PSYCHO SLUT TOAD FROM HECK Happy 18th birthday! Love, Eleen and Michelle.

SHARON MELLO you can finally stop the countdown! The day is finally here! Have a happy 21st birthday. Love ya Liz.

CONGRATULATIONS TO ALL THE NEW sisters of Delta Zeta. I am so happy for all of you. Get psyched for the formal tonight! Love, Sharon.

BETH COLLAMORE - Happy 21st birthday and good luck on that test - MATT.

CONGRATULATIONS LEE on becoming a Delta Zeta! Love your big sis Sharon.

PLEDGES OF SIGMA KAPPA tonight marks the final night of pledging, get psyched for tomorrow's initiation.

JILL B. HAPPY 20th BDAY Our time together has been great! Can't wait for more. Love Josh.

SCOTT A, Get psyched for Delta Zeta formal, tonight! I love you!! Ilyssa.

ILYSSA CONGRATULATIONS...on your new exec position in DZ. Let's have a great time tonight at the formal. (We only have one this time!)

PLEDGES OF SIGMA DELTA TAU - Look forward to becoming sisters soon. Get psyched!

JUST REMEMBER MR. "ACTION-JACKSON" — we'll always love each other and you can never change that.

TO JENNY C YOU BIG BIMBO FROM HELL Happy birthday! Can't wait to go boozing! But not with Ronny! We love you Carolanne, Cydney and Deb.

MAME It's been 1 year already and I love you more and more everyday. Love always big guy.

BAKER - MB: $600 leather- I'm sorry we fought; friends?? Will ICU after work?? Big Google Eyes.

M DEMERS - Can't stop thinkin about you.

BEV AND RACHEL — my coffee break buddies here's a personal especially for you - because you're worth it! Thanks for making another semester bearable. Wendy.

TO SCOTT V. IN 1013 JQA Your SS wants to wish you a very Merry Christmas.

JOHN JOHN JOHN JOHN JP! You bozo! You are a great guy and the best friend I could have. I should have listeded to you more in the past but...oh well - lets go bowling BIF.

THERE ONCE WAS A BOY WHO ATE A pcikle the size of a dog. He's still burping it up after four years. I smu you norm.

IT'S A LITTLE KNOWN FACT that ah it's ah Al C's 21st B-Day on Sunday...Happy B-Day-now we can go to some real bars! Love, Bren, Joan & Lynn.

CHRISTINE — Happy birthday (tomorrow) You're the greatest. Love, Nancy.

HEY COMET AND VIXEN. It's the rent party at Twisters Tavern tommorrow night. Put on your Jingle Bells and dance you party animals.

HEY BOYS phone home we miss you love Mom & Tato.

DICKY, DUCKY, TOM, & TIM - Our favorite pledges! Hang in there - the weeks almost over things just aren't the same here without you can't wait for the reopening of the late night lounge. Love 3rd floor Brett.

HOLY COW!! It's Sue's birthday! Have a great one! Love, Jenn & Ade.

HAPPY 19th BIRTHDAY NANCY KANE. Get psyched for Sat. Night at 12:00pm. I hope you get what you want in history. I luv you so much. Luv Susan.

THOMAS MATTHEW B. Hang in there, only two weeks left. Can't wait till Sat! Love you Jennifer.

EVITA (Melissa B.) OOOh Chips; break a leg hon! I heart you. Jennifer.

PAUL - Congratulations on finishing your last semester - I will miss you every minute. I love you very much, Amanda.

WIKKED SIKK PHROG AND FRIENDS: Good luck on finals...better than a 9 in bugs! Creeping death!!! -Mikey.

I'LL EDIT YOUR PAPER

I'LL HELP WITH SPELLING, grammar, word choice, sentence structure and length. Let me take your rough draft and make it something special. $2 for pages 1-5, $1.50 for every other page. Papers in the humanities (economics, political science, journalism, etc.) preferred. Four years editing experience. Call David at 253-2455. Leave a message on my machine. Thanks.

LASER LIGHT ROCK CONCERT

THY BOGPC PRESENTS: Saturn V-The Laser Light Rock Concert. Wednesday December 13 at 8 and 10 pm in the Campus Center Auditorium. Tickets $5, available at tickets unlimited – 317 Student union.

LOST

LOST STERLING SILVER HOOP earrings, please call 253-7980.

LOST MANY KEYS on ring GRC to Rolling Ridge Rd $20. Reward. 549-2659.

LOST PASSPORT (233542). If found call Mehrdad Yarzanoeh at 549-5189.

MOTORCYCLES

YAMAHA '82 Mint cond. $600 BO. 2 Helmets 253-5018 call eve.

ZONE OUT AT D.P. DOUGH

RIDE WANTED

COULD YOU GIVE ME A RIDE TO LONG ISLAND on December 19 or 20? Please call Robin 6-1193. Will pay for gas.

RIDERS WANTED TO ST. PAUL MINN VIA CHICAGO on December 21 call Jeff 546-4098.

HELP! Ride needed anywhere upstate NY especially Syracuse, Ithaca(Fri 12/8 Please call 6-1130 leave message.

RIDE NEEDED TO NEW LONDON CT on 12-8 or 12-9. Call Eric 253-9408.

TO ST. PAUL MINN Via Chicago on Dec 21 Call Jeff 546-4098.

ROOMMATES NEEDED

NONSMOKING FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED for two bedroom apartment. Call 253-2341.

NEEDED: 2 NON-SMOKING PERSONS to share a room in Puffton 3 bedroom apt $150 each heat included. Call 549-4736 or 546-6928.

1 or 2 PEOPLE WANTED TO SHARE a two bedroom apt in Townhouse. Call Matt at 549-5805, leave message.

FEMALE WANTED TO SHARE huge room in beautiful S. Amherst home - skylights 215mo Melissa 256-0250.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for Sunset Avenue Apts. 165/mo Call 549-3826 (across from Patterson.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED, furnished, on bus route, $140/month inclouding utilities call 256-8475.

LOOKING FOR A NONSMOKER to share bedroom in Condo 2 miles from campus, bus stops at door 175 3 fun roommates. 253-2582 leave message.

TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES WANTED for So ND Townehouse new rugs nice place on bus route start Jan 1 call 253-2566 anytime leave message.

LARGE BEDROOM AVAILABLE in New 3 bedroom house. Just 8 miles to UMass in beautiful town of Montague. $230/month plus utilities. Large yard, garage...what a deal! Call Kateri or Bethann after 5:00 at 367-2203.

SERVICES

A $100 SAVINGS BOND IS YOURS if you don't qualify for financial aid using our service! Details, write: Financial Aid, Box 122, St. Cloud, MN 56302.

PIONEER RESUME. Open everyday. Professional, fast, inexpensive. 4 year disk storage. 665-8873.

SNUGGLECOOKIE

DEAR DEBBIE, Here it is, 3 years and we're stronger than ever. I feel so happy we are together. I love you so very much. Happy 3rd year anniversary, Carissimma. "Goin" to the temple, and we're going to get married!" Love and forever, Eric.

SPRING BREAK 90's

COLD?? Don't get left out in the cold, order spring break trips now and save $$$ or even better, you can charge your tripp on a major credit card!! For fun in the sun choose Bahamas or Cancun. Great prices! Great fun. Call Lisa or Donna now. 549-8228.

TO SUBLET

1 BDRM APT IN CLIFFSIDE. Available Jan or Feb 1. Great for 2 people. $235 each includes everything even cable! Please call or leave message 665-2984.

TOY FOR TOTS

SGT. LEE FORESTER, USMCR out of Westover AFB wishes to thank the Army and Air force ROTC for their help with this years toys for tots campaign on cmapus and asks that all students help to contribute so that the less fortunate children in our community will have a brighter holiday.

TRAVEL

PUERTO RICO — Plane ticket Boston - San Juan for sale. Leave Jan 15, return Jan 29 only $250 round trip! Andreas 546-1493.

UMASS TO CARIBBEAN — $189 for Winter Break. Why hang around and freeze when you can be stretched out on the sand of the Caribbean or Mexico for only $189 r/t. Flights from Logan, JFK, Philly, Call Sunhitchem 256-4116.

ROUND TRIP TICKET FOR SALE, flies to LA from Logan, Dec 29-Jan 8, only $325 call Jon at 256-1623.

BRADLEY AIRPORT SHUTTLE Christmas special!! $15 fare call noew limited seating. Valley Transporter 256-8484.

NASSAU SPRING BREAK '90 as low as $339 Colpitts world Travel Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235.

LOWEST PRICES GUARANTEED Cancun, Bahamas, Bermuda, Jamaica spring break '90 Call beth or Sue 253-2321.

UNDER 21? NO PROBLEM! Spring Break in Cancun, Nassau, Jamaica! Only $75 deposit by Dec 12th. (Daytona packages too!) Starting from $248. Karen 256-4659.

SPRING BREAK 90' Jamaica, Acapulco, Cancun, Daytona...experienced sales rep, dependable travel service. $25 off before Jan 1 Mary & Karen 549-8166.

CANCUN FOR SPRING BREAK 8 days 7 night of parties people sun and no drinking age. Starting at $359 Call Chris or Amy 549-0532.

TYPING

FAST INEXPENSIVE TYPING spell check $1.75/pg call Ashley at 546-6756.

ACCURATE PROFESSIONAL TYPING. Spelling corrected. Campus pickup. Gloria, 323-5140.

WORD PROCESSING, laser printing-dissertation, theses, reports call Rosemary 259-1628, after Dec 13th 259-1786.

RESUMES LASERPRINTED OVERNIGHT. Experienced, friendly, helpful. Dirt cheap resumes. Lisa 665-2831.

CASES, PAPERS, THESES, ON-CAMPUS, affordable, grammar reviewed, dependable, experienced 584-7924, Nancy.

RESUMES AND PAPERS typed professionally: laserprinting, type setting , carolyn ant wordsmith 253-4564.

TYPING, TAPE TRANSCRIPTION. Fast, accurate. 253-WORD.

WANTED

UMASS ABSOLUTE PARTY XL call 6-5818 or Co-Ed Naked ski/crew shirts.

ENGINE FOR VW BUG call Bob 546-7731.

WANTED TO RENT

ROOM FOR WINTER SESSION NEEDED call Jeff 546-7764 non smoker.

LOOKING FOR 1-2 BEDROOM for next spring - to rent or take over lease. Please leave message for Jonathan at 549-6605.

ROOMS/HOUSING NEEDED for January. Contact SBMC 256-8615 9am-5pm.

SPORTS

Another weekend in Boston for Minutemen

Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

The University of Massachusetts men's basketball team takes its show to Matthews Arena this weekend when the Minutemen play Northeastern.

UMass at NU tomorrow

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

As of today, a measles quarantine that has crippled the campus of Northeastern University will be lifted, meaning that fans will be able to show up for tomorrow's men's basketball game against the University of Massachusetts.

UMass coach John Calipari can only hope that his team will do the same.

Last Saturday, the Minutemen (2-1) came into the Hub reeling from an embarrassing loss to the University of Lowell, and took out their frustrations on Boston University to the tune of a 76-60 spanking.

So understand this. There are a few more folks in Boston who have their eyes open to the Minutemen than there were at this time last week.

Some of them may be watching when UMass tips off with the Huskies from Matthews Arena at 4:30 p.m. (WHMP-1400 AM, WMUA-91.1 FM, NESN). Whether they will witness the team that ripped through BU last week, or the one that has been less-than-inspiring in splitting a pair of home games, remains to be seen.

Also understand this. The Minutemen are definitely going to need a performance more like the one at BU, if they entertain any hopes of knocking off Northeastern (1-3).

"Hopefully we'll be firing on five or six cylinders," UMass coach John Calipari said. "Eventually for us, as the season goes on, we're going to have to have a total team effort. We're not able to rely on two or three guys all the time."

With the exception of the Lowell game, where nobody stood out, UMass has gotten that odd good game from somebody, enough to yank the thing out of the fire. Against BU, it was Jim McCoy's inhuman first-half effort and some gutty play from Rafer Giles and Tommy Pace.

In a 75-69 overtime victory over Yale at the Cage Wednesday night, a new cast stepped forward. Freshman forward Tony Barbee, who disappeared quickly against BU, had a game-high 22 against the Elis, while senior guard Cary Herer continued his steady play from the point. Herer had a career-high eight assists against Yale, and is averaging 6.3 a game so far.

Most every player has had his moment or two this year, but Calipari is waiting for the day that his whole team sucks it up and shows up together. He can only hope it doesn't take too long.

But while this team is still in the learning stages, Calipari thinks that it may take another boot-in-the-pants

CONTINUED ON PAGE 10

Women's hoop hopes for different result tonight

By RICK SETO
Collegian Staff

Looking up at the scoreboard, the University of Massachusetts women's basketball team has seen two very different types of final scores. The Minutewomen have seen a two- and a three-point game, but have also found themselves on the losing end of 26- and 30-point blowouts.

One of the reasons for such extremes is that the level of competition has been a little over the Minutewomen's heads — take for example St. Joseph's Monday night. All-America candidate Dale Hodges scored 41 points from her center spot as the 20th-ranked Hawks spanked a young UMass 89-59.

Fortunately, the Minutewomen (1-3) will get a chance to face someone closer to earth as they will square off against the University of New Hampshire on the road Saturday (2 p.m).

The Wildcats have also seen some tough times, sporting a 1-4 record. Their only victory has come at the hands of another Atlantic-10 foe, Rhode Island, in a 67-56 road win. UNH is led by forwards Laura Seiden and Deb Dorsch in the scoring column (15.6 and 14.6 points per game, respectively). Sue Ryan and Karyn McCoy are the Wildcats' top rebounders with 7.0 and 5.6 per game, respectively.

"They're a young team, fairly quick, and play extremely well as a team," Hewelt said in her assessment. "When they're jelling together this early in the season, that spells trouble. We haven't quite reached that point yet, but we really started to come together in the St. Joe's game. The score did not indicate at all what kind of game it was."

UMass sprinted out to a 8-0 lead before a surprised St. Joe's club caught up and then caught on fire with a 21-6 run before the half. Though one could not tell by looking at the boxscore that the Minutewomen defense was present, UMass managed to hold everybody but Hodges below their season scoring average.

"We were really pleased with the way we played," Hewelt said. "We got compliments from the St. Joe's coach [Jim Foster] and the Temple coach [Linda MacDonald] on how intense our kids played and how they went after the ball."

Though UMass has been holding their own on the defensive end, it is on the offensive end where the Minutewomen's problems lie. Turnovers have plagued the rhythm of the offense, which has turned the ball over at an average of 28.5 times a night.

"In the Hartford game [a 49-47 UM win], we turned the ball over 37 times and only shot it 36 times," Hewelt said. "When you turn the ball over one more time than you shoot it, your offense is going to be trouble."

Hewelt feels that UMass will have an advantage with center Helen Freeman and power forward Keyburn McCusker, but they'll need the help of Michele Pytko, Patty Robak and Sue Serafini from the outside to offset some of the defensive pressure.

Hewelt feels that UMass is readying to turn their losing record around, and it'll depend on an improved team and individual effort. "We're going to have to come out with all cylinders firing and I think we're just about to turn the corner to get all those cylinders working together," Hewelt said. "It's just a question of each individual player getting better and better."

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

The University of Massachusetts women's basketball team travels to New Hampshire tomorrow to take on the Wildcats in a 2 p.m. contest.

Men's track to head to Harvard Inv.

By JON REIDEL
Collegian Staff

The Harvard Invitational annually attracts some 30 college and club indoor track teams as well as T.A.C. (Track Athletic Congress) and Olympic caliber athletes.

For the University of Massachusetts men's indoor track team it will be a chance for each individual to work on their own specific events in a meet that features no team scores, excellent competition and perhaps the fastest track in the East.

Although the Minutemen (23 points last weekend) finished third to the University of Connecticut (94 pts.) and Rhode Island (57 pts.), the best two teams in New England a year ago, coach Ken O'Brien liked what he saw from his young squad.

"Although we came up short competitively," said O'Brien. "I saw a lot of impressive performances especially from the freshman and sophomore classes. I left the meet with a very optimistic feeling."

Perhaps the main reasons for O'Brien's optimism were the first and second place finishes of 60-yard speedsters Mike Grey and Kevin Walters. Both posted tough early-season times of 6.4 and 6.5 respectively.

The only other first place finish for the Minutemen came from Steve Brown, who came from 15 yards back to tie for first in the 500 meters in a time of 1:05.1. The mile and two-mile relays each finished second.

400-meter specialist Garfield Vaughn continued his winning ways from last year with a third place 51.7 finish. Closing out the UMass scoring was last year's Mass. high school mile state champion Matt Simon,

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8

Unbeaten men's swimming heads to S. Connecticut after big victory

By C.J. ABATI
Collegian Staff

As swim meets go, this was a big one. In fact, it probably was the biggest date on the schedule. Not only was it the biggest date, but it also was the first test against any real competition.

Wednesday night the UMass men's swimming team traveled to Providence, R.I. to take on Brown University of the highly competitive Ivy League. The result . . . a stunning 136-107 upset victory for the Minutemen.

"We swam great," said coach Russ Yarworth. "I was really pleased with the way the meet went. I'm really proud of these guys."

The Minutemen are back in action this Saturday against Southern Connecticut. With a victory, UMass will extend its unbeaten streek to five meets. So. Connecticut, like UMass has a very successful program, and is also undefeated at 3-0. Over the last six years, they are 58-5. The meet is scheduled for a 1 p.m. start in New Haven. The meet should prove to be exciting.

Speaking of exciting, Wednesday's meet was definetly a barn- burner. Despite the large margin of victory, the score did not relate how close the meet really was. The lead changed hands five times, and it often looked as if the Bruins were not going to relinquish it.

But it just seemed to be a matter of who wanted it more. The Minutemen could not claim the victory as their own until the 500-yard freestyle, the tenth event of the evening. Jim Robertson came through with a gutsy performance, winning in a quick 4:47.91. The win gave UMass a six point, 97-91 lead.

"That was the toughest race of the meet," said Yarworth. "He got a win when we really needed it."

With a close lead, and only three events remaining, the Minutemen moved into high gear and cruised to the finish. Dan Chesnicka continued to thrill everyone this season, as he won the three-meter dive with a score of 282.52. "Dan put on a real show," said Yarworth. "He was sharper than ever out there."

Jay Peluso added his name to UMass history as he swam a 2:10.96 in the 200-yard breaststroke. The time was a new freshman and varsity record. The meet ended with the 400 freestyle relay. The Minutemen won with a 3:11.00 time.

"This was probably the most satisfying win in my coaching career," said Yarworth. "Everybody was up for the meet. They swam their hearts out. I couldn't have asked for more."

The meet started off slow for the Minutemen. Brown took off winning the first three events. The 400 medley relay, the 1000-yard freestyle, and the 200 freestyle were all W's for Brown. This gave the Bruins a 32-23 lead.

"We dug ourselves into a hole by that point," said Yarworth. "We knew when we left Amherst that it was going to be a tough meet."

As quickly as they dug the hole, they pulled themselves right back out. The Minutemen took first and second in the 50 -yard freestyle sprint. Brian McIver won with G.T. Ladd close behind to tie the score at 37 a piece.

Peluso won the 200 Intermediate to increase the lead, but that didn't last too long as Brown won the one meter and the 200 butterfly to take a 68-63 lead.

McIver and Ladd again finished one, two , this time in the 100 freestyle. McIver finished at 47.43 and Ladd at 48.11, to regain the lead, 77-73. Brown pulled within one as they took the 200 backstroke.

"It was a complete team effort ," said Yarworth. "Everybody got into the action. I couldn't be happier."

MONDAY

NEWS

AFSC drive hopes to aid the children and the poor in war-torn Nicaragua. Page 3.

ARTS

UMass residence halls are decked out with lights and holiday cheer. Page 12.

EDITORIAL

Award-winning Collegian columnist Bob Bobala is "hearing things." Page 7.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY MONDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1989

COLLEGIAN

VOLUME CXXIII LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 66

Vigil marks shooting death of 14 women

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

A crowd of approximately 200 women and men gathered in the bitter cold at Smith College Friday night for a candlelight vigil to mourn the killing of 14 women at the University of Montreal.

On Wednesday night, Marc Lepine walked into Ecole Polytechnique, an engineering building, and shot 27 people, mostly women.

Continuing to randomly shoot women as he walked through the building, Lepine entered an engineering class and ordered the male students to leave.

He opened fire on the remaining group of female students yelling: "You are all women, you are going to be engineers. You are all feminists. I hate feminists."

Lepine then fatally shot himself.

Rachel Broudy, vigil organizer and member of the women's center, Necessities/Necesidades, said: "These killings have blown the myth about violence against women. This is a war against women."

Saying Lepine was not an isolated "madman" but a "generic product" of our society, Broudy said, "It is the unusual man who does not abuse women. [Lepine] just made it public.

"The murderer claims that feminists spoiled his life and that was what prompted him to kill the women," she said. "'Feminism did not prompt a man to kill 14 women. Hatred did."

Many of the mourners wore red armbands printed with the word "Feminist," challenging Lepine's alleged fear of feminists. The armbands were donated by the University of Massachusetts' Everywoman's Center.

Lepine reportedly left a three-page suicide note blaming feminists for ruining his life.

Jean Grossholtz, a Mount Holyoke women's studies professor, asked the crowd, "Why are men not marching in the streets? Why are they sitting there carrying out a campaign against women?

"Let this sisterhood of pain demand of this world that they let us walk once without fear wondering whether someone walking down the street will finally get us," she said.

Janet Aalfs, Valley Women's martial arts instructor, said, "I hope that this one vigil gives us support in the struggle for survival."

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Students hold candles during a vigil held Friday at Smith College for the 14 women killed in Montreal.

Protesters, unions, call for reforms

From the Associated Press

EAST BERLIN — Tens of thousands of demonstrators demanded more democratic reforms in East Germany on Sunday, and a state-run labor union urged workers to defy a 40-year-old policy that forbids them to strike.

Gregor Gysi, East Germany's new Communist Party chief, said he wants a clear separation of party and government functions, a radical concept in a country where the party has been all powerful for 40 years.

In another development, the four World War II Allies — France, Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union — announced they would meet Monday to discuss the role of Berlin in East-West affairs.

Tens of thousands of East Germans took to the streets in protests in Rostock, Erfurt and other cities, the official news agency ADN said. Most were demanding human rights and democratic changes, the report said.

In the southern city of Plauen, 15,000 demonstrators turned out for a pro-democracy rally called by the New Forum opposition group.

Several hundred people in East Berlin demonstrated in favor of human rights against what they see as a growing intolerance of foreigners. About 15,000 people demonstrated in favor of human rights in the city of Ilmenau, ADN said.

Leaders of the 160,000 member scientists' union, meeting on Saturday in Leipzig, issued the call for recognition of the right to strike, ADN said.

The scientists' union is one of 16 unions belonging to the state-run labor federation Freier Deutsche

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

'Taxachusetts' label unfair

From the Associated Press

BOSTON — The proposal to increase the sales tax from 5 percent to 7 percent was one of the more unpopular measures contained in the $1.2 billion revenue package that failed to muster enough votes in the House recently.

News Analysis

But even though the state is nicknamed "Taxachusetts," the label may not be entirely fair.

Residents here pay proportionately less sales tax than all but two of the 45 states that have a sales tax, according to state officials.

In Massachusetts, everything except food, clothing and medicine is subject to the sales tax unless otherwise exempted, according to Betsy Houghteling, spokeswoman for the state Department of Finance and Administration.

But there are plenty of exemptions. If you buy Sidney Sheldon's latest paperback, for instance, you pay a sales tax. If you buy the Bible, you don't.

Some of the more obscure exemptions: cement mixers, livestock and poultry feed and the boats, tools, fuel and machinery used by commercial fisherman. Also not taxed: comic books, magazines and newspapers.

Many services are also exempt. Dry cleaners, legal fee, beauty salons, auto repair and funeral costs are not taxed. Other professional services such a public relations, advertising and computer-related services are also exempt from the sales tax.

In recent days, state legislators grappling with the state's $850 million budget deficit have been considering revenue-raising it.

According to a state budget report, Massachusetts could gain $1.24 billion

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

Porn linked to violence

'Women are not pieces of meat,' prof says

By KEN MAGUIRE
Collegian Staff

NORTHAMPTON — A professor of sociology and women's studies at Wheelock College said Friday there is a direct link between pornography and violence directed toward women.

Speaking to a packed auditorium in Wright Hall at Smith College Friday night, Professor Gail Dines attacked the issue of pornography in a lecture titled, "Pornography: The Propaganda of Misogyny."

"Women are not pieces of meat," said Dines, to an often cheering crowd of more than 400 people, most of whom were women.

"There is no question whatsoever that men will somehow be changed by looking at pornography," Dines said. "Just look at what happened in Montreal. We should be surprised that this is not going on every single day," she said, referring to the murder last Wednesday night of 14 women at the University of Montreal by Marc Lepine, who later fatally shot himself.

Dines said pornography is a $10 billion a year industry. Child pornography brings in approximately $2 billion a year, she said.

She added that there are four times as many pornographic book stores than McDonalds restaurants in the United States.

"When men rape and kill women, they usually repeat what they have seen in documentation," Dines said.

Dines said Hustler magazine is a major influence on teenage boys because, unlike Playboy and Penthouse, Hustler has no limits imposed by its advertisers. Dines said this material is not going "to go away by itself.

"When you take on pornography, you take on corporate America," she said.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN
New England's largest college daily newspaper. Daily circulation: 21,000. Founded in 1870. Published every weekday during the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts. 113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA. 01003. For more information call (413) 545-3500.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

EDITOR IN CHIEF DAVID R. MARK
MANAGING EDITOR COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL EDITOR MEREDITH O'BRIEN
BUSINESS MANAGER ROBERT J. BIKASH
PRODUCTION MANAGER TERRY STARMER

BOARD OF EDITORS

MANAGING COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL MEREDITH O'BRIEN
NEWS SARAH DEMASTER, NATHAN KRYSTALL
SPORTS JIM CLARK, GEORGE AUSTIN
ARTS AL KAUFMAN, W.J. GEORGIADES
PHOTOGRAPHY DONDI AHEARN
WOMEN'S ISSUES DANIELLE BIONDA, KATERI WALSH
MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS SCOTT C. HILL

BUSINESS BOARD

MANAGER ROBERT J. BIKASH
ADVERTISING JENNIFER RONAN
FINANCE MARTINA RIOS
CIRCULATION CHRIS BAKER
SUBSCRIPTIONS JOYA FARETRA

GRAPHICS BOARD

MANAGER TERRY STARMER
AD MANAGER RORY EVANS
SUPERVISORS MIKE WESTER, FLORENCIO TERRA, CHRISTINE ASHE, TRICIA HANLEY

SUPPORT STAFF

BUSINESS BRIAN HARRINGTON, MAUREEN MAJEROWSKI, LORI BLACK
GRAPHICS ANDREA BELANGER

TODAY'S STAFF

NIGHT EDITOR Maria Sacchetti
COPY EDITOR " " "
LAYOUT TECHNICIAN Terry Starmer
PHOTOGRAPHY TECHNICIAN JOEL SOLOMON
PRODUCTION SUPERVISOR Ashes
PRODUCTION Kim Frisino
Mike [illegible]
Renee Smith
Nicole M. DeMartino
ror

For Your Information

For Your Information is a calendar listing of local announcements and upcoming events published daily by the Collegian as a public services. All submissions must be typed. We reserve the right to edit for space.

Information for women's Forum and the Lesbian, Bisexual, and Gay forum which runs in this space on Tuesdays and Thursdays, respectively, must be submitted to the news desk at least one full day beforehand.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1989

Blood Drive — A Blood Drive sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha will be held today and on Dec. 12 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Campus Center.us Center Concourse.

Auditions — The UMass Dept. of Theater presents The Imaginary Invalid by Moliere. Audition Dates: Monday, Dec. 11 7 to 11 p.m. in room 204 of the Fine Arts Center, Tuesday, Dec. 12 7-11 p.m. at FAC 204, Wednesday, Dec. 13 8:30-11 p.m. at FAC 204.

Callbacks: Thursday, Dec. 14 8:30-11 p.m. at FAC 204. There are parts for 5 women (one 9 to 16 year old), and 8 men.

Scripts are available on a 2 hour sign-out basis from the Theater Department Office, Room 112 FAC. Audition sign-up sheets are posted on Callboard outside the office. Audition sign-ups taken by phone, 545-3490. Performances : March 1-3, 7-10. For further information, contact the Dept. of Theater, 545-3490. All Five College students and community members encouraged to audition.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1989

Writing On The Wall — Amnesty International is presenting The Writing On The Wall. Come and cover the wall with thoughts, quotes, and pictures expressing your feelings toward human rights. It will be in the Campus Center concourse all day.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1989

Joe Gorin — Human Rights and Labor Activist, Joe Gorin, speaking on Guatemala: Low Intensity War, Low Intensity Democracy at 7:30 p.m. in Campus Center, room 163. Gorin recently returned from two years working with the Guatemalan Popular Movement. The talk is free and is sponsored by Faculty and Staff for Peace in Central America (FSPCA). For more information, call 256-4685.

Open House — Strung out from Studying? Then take a break at the Women's Studies End of Semester Open House from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Women's Studies Office in 208 Bartlett Hall. Stop by for bagels, tea, and a chat on the last day of classes. Snack and conversation. Food and company. All are welcome.

R U A SECRET
SANTA?
Gifts from 19¢ to 4.99
Find It at Faces
amherst / northampton
daily & sunday

Dance Stuff
Enter, park in rear
Gifts — FOR THE DANCER, GYMNAST, FITNESS MINDED! FUN BODYWEAR! GREAT SHOES! LOTS OF EXTRAS!
220 N. Pleasant (rear) Amherst • 253-5201

AIM HIGH
GET AN EDUCATION IN SCHOLARSHIPS WITH AIR FORCE ROTC.
Your college education represents one of your most important career decisions. Join Air Force ROTC, and you may be eligible for different scholarship programs that can help pay for that education.
But you'll learn something else, too: that Air Force ROTC opens opportunities for you to take your college degree higher, faster and further than you ever realized. Imagine your status as an Air Force officer, and get an education in opportunity – call
CAPT JOHN STEELE
413-545-2537
AIR FORCE ROTC
Leadership Excellence Starts Here

BRECKENRIDGE
GENUINE COLORADO
$599 for Jan 8-15
or $634 for Jan15-22
Trip Includes:
* Round Trip Airfare
* Round trip Transfers
* 7 Nights Condo Lodging
* 5 Days of Lifts
* Services of on site staff
* all taxes and gratuities
SIGN UP NOW
UMASS SKI CLUB
Contact:
U MASS SKI CLUB
430 STUDENT UNION
545-3437

LOCAL

AFSC drive to aid poor in Nicaragua

By JULIA SEREBRINSKY
Collegian Correspondent

To aid the children and the poor in Nicaragua, the American Friends Service Committee in Northampton is sponsoring the collection of school supplies, hand tools, and toys.

Until Dec. 16, the committee will be holding its annual "Gifts for Central America Campaign" in an effort to partially compensate for the economic stress placed upon Nicaragua as a result of U.S. foreign policy toward Central America, according to Lois Ahrens, co-coordinator of the campaign.

"The government in Nicaragua is in a bad financial shape because of the war and the U.S. trade embargo," Ahrens said. "Some of the people who are suffering most from the war and embargo are the children.

"This is why we collect toys and school supplies," she said. "We want to make their lives better and to alleviate the suffering that our Government is creating."

School supply items, particularly Spanish language books, are constantly in short supply in Nicaragua. Sending those supplies from the United States is a way of supporting literacy and education in Central America, said Susan Triolo, a co-coordinator of the campaign.

The hand tools are distributed to the poor people in the countryside for construction. Like the school supplies, these items are not readily available in Nicaragua, Ahrens said.

The American Friends Service Committee, a Quaker organization affiliated with The Society of Friends, provides political education about U.S. foreign policy and collects humanitarian aid for the war-ridden countries in Central America, Ahrens said.

Although this year's primary recipient will be Nicaragua, the AFSC has also supplied aid to El Salvador, Honduras, and Guatemalan refugees in Mexico.

Ahrens said the items being collected this year will be shipped to Nicaragua through another country, possibly Mexico, due to the U.S. trade embargo. In Nicaragua, the items will be distributed to the country-side peasants and children by the CEPAD, a Protestant church-based organization involved in development work throughout Nicaragua, she said.

The ability to deliver and distribute the collected items depends on the willingness of the government of a particular country to receive it, she said.

According to Ahrens, the Sandinista government in Nicaragua encourages and welcomes humanitarian aid coming from the United States as well as other countries.

"The government of Nicaragua wants the people to people contact," Ahrens said. "Through that, the people of the United States understand what is going on. People can see with their own eyes what is happening and what is not happening."

Although the government of Nicaragua is willing to receive items collected by the AFSC, the extent of its participation in distributing the material is limited, Ahrens said.

She said that although CEPAD works with the Sandinista government "to improve peoples' lives," it is an independent humanitarian organization.

FLOWER show ends

Homeshow draws artists from across the state

By LAUREN MCDADE
Collegian Correspondent

NORTHAMPTON — The For Love of Women Economic Resources Foundation geared up for its spring awarding of grants this weekend with the 10th annual Lesbian Homeshow in which lesbian craftswomen from across the state displayed their wares at the Northampton Center for the Arts.

FLOWER, a non-profit organization designed to financially support the arts, culture, talent, resources, and ideas of the lesbian community, raises money each year to offer grants to lesbians for projects that celebrate their community, said Sue Krause, an organizer.

Krause said area theater groups, workshops, and various support groups for lesbians have all benefited from FLOWER's grants.

The homeshow, which continued until late last night, is a celebration of the lesbian community and its culture through art. It included a performance by local singer and songwriter Erica Wheeler. Local lesbian author, Leslea Newman had a table where women could purchase autographed copies of her book, Heather Has Two Mommies, and an anthology of Jewish lesbian poetry which she edited titled, Bubbe Melsehs by Shaynah Maidela.

Goods and services at the show ranged from jewelry, wood carvings, and silk-screened t-shirts to massage therapy and tarot readings.

Krause said FLOWER is trying to raise money to establish a Lesbian Community Center in order to provide a focus for the diverse needs of the lesbian community.

"Lesbians in the area identified as one of their main needs a community center where we could all come together," Krause said. "It's important to have a place to go to end the isolation we all feel in our daily lives as lesbians."

She added that FLOWER wants to focus lesbian political energies and their concerns for the community into a center that would be accessible to all lesbians.

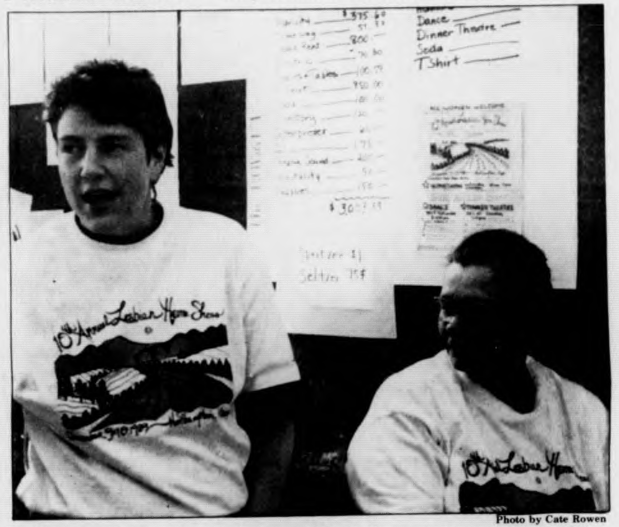

Photo by Cate Rowen

"Womaning" (as opposed to manning) the entrance at the lesbian homeshow this weekend at the Northampton Center for the Arts are two volunteers.

Student hit by car while crossing North Pleasant St.

By MARIA SACCHETTI
Collegian Staff

A University of Massachusetts junior suffered head and knee injuries after she was struck by a car while attempting to cross North Pleasant St. Friday.

Amherst police said Wanda Sanchez, 20, of 304 McNamara, was crossing in front of Hasbrouck Laboratories at 5:49 p.m. when she was struck by a Honda Civic traveling northbound.

Sanchez was taken by ambulance to University Health Services where she was admitted and held overnight for observation.

The driver, Robert A. Coler, 61, of Pines St. in Amherst and a professor at the University, was cited for failing to yield the right of way to a pedestrian at a crosswalk and for operating with an expired license.

■ vigil

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"This battle is for life," she said.

Broudy called for a moment of silence in memory of the 14 slain women.

Women in the crowd asked why they were all being silent when they should be shouting in anger.

"Perhaps we're not a gentle woman when we're angry," some shouted.

People sang and chanted, "The only solution, women's revolution," as they placed their candles in the snow.

■ East Germany

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Gewerskschaftsbund.

The scientists' call amounts to a demand for the federation leadership to recognize the right to strike embodied in the East German Constitution.

The federation has been rocked by a growing financial scandal, and a new leadership took over Saturday to make it more independent.

The prospect of strikes clearly alarmed Gysi, 41, who took over as party chief only on Saturday. In an interview broadcast late Saturday night on West Germany's ADR television network, he said that given the country's current political instability strikes would be "irresponsible."

Gysi spent Sunday preparing for next weekend's continuation of the emergency party congress that is expected to give the party a new name.

BOG revises vending policy

By PAUL MORRIS
Collegian Staff

Vendors not affiliated with the University of Massachusetts will now have to pay higher fees and will be prohibited from selling family-supplied goods on the Campus Center Concourse, the Board of Governors ruled Thursday.

Beginning next semester, Registered Student Organizations and graduate organizations will receive $15 a day more in fees from the vendors they sponsor.

However, student organizations who sponsor vendors regularly may lose money because the revised policy limits the vendor-sponsor relationship to 10 selling days. As a result, the student groups may have to spend more to recruit other sellers.

Many student organizations sponsor vendors who are not affiliated with UMass. The relationship raises money for the student group and decreases the vending fee for the seller.

The process to revamp the vending policy began in September when Ashoke Ganguli, director of Auxiliary Services, wrote a letter to the board which said vending space was being misused for individual gain by people not affiliated with the University.

He was also concerned about money being diverted from the campus by people with established businesses who have relatives at the University. He claimed businesses secured tables through relatives who are students because the latter are exempt from vending fees.

Ganguli said profits from the University retail stores and cafes go into the Auxiliary Services account which helps to pay for the Campus Center/Student Union maintenance costs.

But despite his recommendation that the BOG prohibit sales of goods that are directly competitive with the University's, like sweatshirts, the board did not add restrictions to the policy concerning what could be sold.

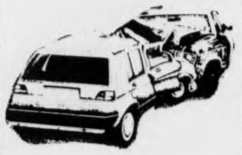
Ganguli claimed that more money could be added to the Auxiliary Services account if the board prohibited direct competition.

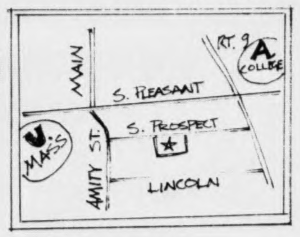
But Bruce Ledoux, the UMass vending coordinator who helped formulate the policy, said: "We [vending coordinators] want to foster low prices and diverse goods. If we included a rule restricting direct competition, then the administration would be telling us that everything sold is in direct competition."

The vending program was created about 15 years ago to present an educationally and culturally diverse atmosphere in the Campus Center by allowing members of the University community to sell handmade goods on the concourse, Ganguli said.

Other policy changes include:

- Vendors not affiliated with UMass may be sponsored by no more than two student organizations each semester.
- A fee increase, from $60 to $75, to be paid by the vendor to the student organization that sponsors them. If gross sales for the day exceed $300, the vendor must pay 25 percent of sales in lieu of the $75 fee, which amounts to a five percent increase.
- An increase in the fee, from $75 to $90, paid by non-affiliated vendors to the second sponsoring group.
- A $25 increase to the fee, to $125, for vendors not affiliated with UMass and not sponsored by a student group.
- A sponsor may contract with only one vendor at a time.





STEINBECK COLLISION REPAIR & AUTOBODY

53 So. Prospect – Amherst Center
256-8157 256-1385

- Imports & other unibody vehicles are our specialty
- State of art equipment for precision frame and unibody straightening (²½mm)
- Over 90 years staff experience
- Accepted by all insurance companies for collision repair or glass replacement
- Advanced European Technology Painting and Refinishing Systems

REMEMBER it's your car and your choice of repair facilities

To Thank-you for your Patronage

and

To help keep you awake during finals

HAMPDEN SNACK BAR
in Southwest

is offering a large or small cup of tea or coffee for ½ the price.
Come in after 8PM
from Sun Dec. 10th to Fri. Dec. 22nd
Show us a UMASS ID
and get a cup of caffeine for ½ the price.

Good luck ▪ Happy Holidays.
See you next year!

WMUA HOLIDAY SALE

Monday thru Wednesday
9:00 am to 5:00 pm
Student Union Ballroom
Clothing, Arts, Crafts, Tapes, and MORE!
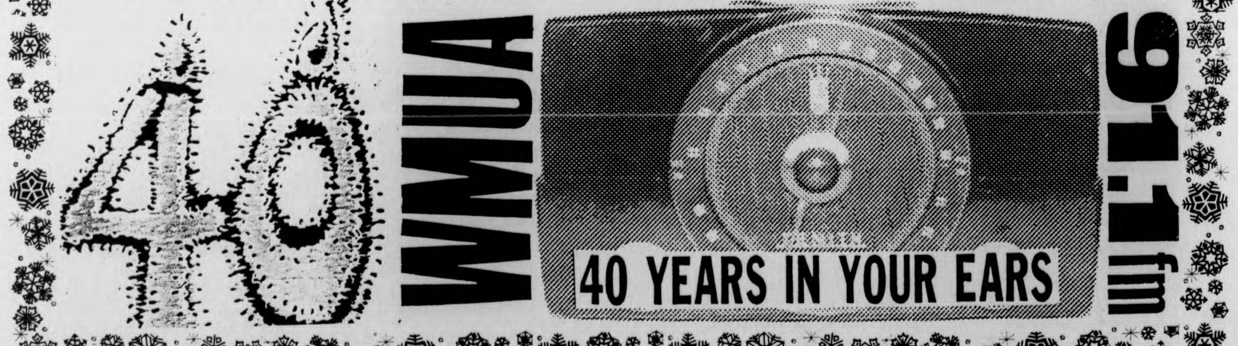
P.S. Listen to UMass basketball on 'MUA 91.1



---

sales tax

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

a year in new revenue by broadening the sales tax to include all professional services.

The majority of the revenue would be brought in from public relations and consulting firms, architectural and engineering services and accounting services.

Supporters of the sales tax-broadening plan say it is not likely to affect legal, medical or advertising services.

According to the sales tax statute enacted in 1966, restaurant food, clothing over $175 per item, furniture, appliances and cosmetics are among the major items taxed.

The biggest ticket item to carry a sales tax is a car.

Anti-apartheid leaders strategize

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) – Anti-apartheid leaders yesterday announced a militant strategy of civil disobedience and political pressure and urged South African Whites to join them for the "final onslaught on apartheid."

The plans were adopted late Saturday at a closed session of the largest anti-apartheid conference ever held in South Africa. It was attended by 4,662 Black, White, Indian and mixed race delegates from 2,128 organizations.

Several major Black organization to the left and right of mainstream anti-apartheid groups either boycotted the conference or were not invited.

But Murphy Morobe, one of the organizers, said the conference for a Democratic Future was a "roaring success."

"Business was concluded in a spirit of unity unprecedented in any gathering in the past with such a disparate array of organizations," he said at a news conference.

One resolutions urged Whites "to break decisively with all apartheid forces and side with the majority." It urged them to conduct solidarity marches into Black townships and proposed a campaign to create new municipalities by merging White cities and their adjoining Black ghettos.

pornography

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Dines urged people who denounce pornography to let their feelings known.

"Your silence tells me that you consent to what they are doing. You must use direct action, harass them, do what you can," she said.

Dines is a member of the Cambridge-based organization, Challenging Media Images of Women, a group designed to call attention to the unjust treatment of women in the mass media.

JOBS AVAILABLE

The Collegian is now accepting applications for night graphics. We also need an Office Manager for the newsroom. All positions are for next semester. Get a job now and you won't need to worry.

The Collegian is an EOE.

Come down to Campus Center and see Terry, Mike or Peter.

Auto Glass Center
American & Foreign

- SAME DAY SERVICE
- BILLED DIRECTLY TO INSURANCE COMPANY
- WINDSHIELDS REPLACED

North Amherst Motors
78 Old Sunderland Rd
North Amherst, MA,
549-2880
Most Major Credit Cards Accepted

TICKETS ON SALE TODAY

SATURN V
THE LASER LIGHT ROCK CONCERT

FEATURING THE MUSIC OF U2
PINK FLOYD
DEF LEPPARD
INXS
THE CURE
GRATEFUL DEAD
GUNS & ROSES

Wednesday, December 13
8:00 & 10:00 p.m.
Campus Center
Auditorium
Sponsored by Board of Governors Program Council
Admission: $5.00
Tickets available from: Tickets Unlimited
#317 Student Union

ATTENTION FRESHMEN

All freshmen must complete English 112 in their first two semesters at the University. If you are a freshman and have not taken the Writing Program Placement Test, you must do so on January 8 or 9, 2:00 PM or 3:30 PM, Campus Center 168.

UNIVERSITY WRITING PROGRAM
5-0610

SALE

at

the BAZAAR

New Holiday Hand-Crafted Gifts
& hand-knit wool/cotton sweaters

All men's sweaters & clothing
20 percent off ticketed price

Men's & Women's Sneaker Clearance has been extended!

Come on in & catch other great deals only
at

the BAZAAR

Mon-Sat 10:00-6:00 Sun 12:00-5:00
25 N. Pleasant St., Amherst 253-7400

Spectrum magazine

is now accepting

SUBMISSIONS

in

Art, Poetry, Prose & Photo

for the 1990 edition.

SPECTRUM Magazine is the Arts and Literary magazine at UMASS.

Submissions may be mailed to:
Box 125, Student Activities Office,
Student Union, UMASS
or
brought in person to the SPECTRUM Office, 406E, Student Union.

Please include your name and phone number.

DEADLINE FEBRUARY 2, 1990

DON'T BE SHY

Resident Assistant Selection Process 1990-1991

Leadership is becoming a Resident Assistant

An RA is a live-in part-time student staff member. Duties include fostering floor and cluster community, assisting with hall management, and enforcing University policies.

How to do it:

On Campus Students: go to your cluster office and pick up an application.

Off Campus Students: go to the following areas for applications–
Cance Area Office–SW South
Thoreau Area Office–SW North
Room B-30 Baker Area Office–OH/Central
Room 103 Johnson Area Office–NE/Sylvan

Become a student leader in your residence hall. Apply now for a Resident Assistant (RA) position. Applications are due between February 1-9, 1990 to the above area offices.

The University of Massachusetts at Amherst prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, sex, sexual preference, age, marital status, national origin, mental or physical handicap, political belief or affiliation, membership or non-membership in any organization, or veteran status. In any aspect of admission or treatment of students in employment.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Over 100 courses!

Almost half meet gen. ed. requirements.

University of Massachusetts at Amherst

Winter Session

Mail Registration—November 11-December 13
All mail registrations must be sent via U.S. mail and be postmarked no earlier than November 11. (Do not use campus mail.)

Walk-in Registration—
November 27-January 5
Room 615 Goodell Building

Registrations are processed in the order in which they are received, so register early!

Classes start January 3, 1990.

For more information, contact the Division of Continuing Education, Goodell Building, or call 545-2414.

Are you still looking for something you haven't seen in The Collegian?

We are now having a contest where you pick the feature!!!

Choose from the following sections:

Sports Extra
Multicultural Affairs
Books
Black Affairs
Women's Issues
This Weekend
Focus
Third World Affairs
Health & Science
News
Arts/Living
Sports

Pick a feature and if your idea is selected, we will do a story on it!

Send entries or bring down to:

You Pick the Feature
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center
University of Massachusetts, Amherst MA 01003

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted

Message to a special friend

To a very special friend,

Ever since I met you, you have been an influence in my life. Your energy and enthusiasm have been an inspiration. I truly value your opinion, and take your advice to heart. Your caring and concerned disposition has helped me through many a troubled time, for which I am eternally grateful.

Gayle Long

There are many things you have learned from your parents. They have instilled a sense of pride in you that shows in your work. You push to excel and make yourself, if not the best, then the hardest worker of the bunch. Working brings you a distinct pleasure, something that you will sacrifice all else for. It is indeed an admirable quality. Your self-motivation and desire to be the best is a large part of who you are.

I am told that background is a large part of each of us. It makes us an individual. It shapes our lives. I can see your background in you, but sometimes you try to spurn it.

You try hard to forget the tradition in which you were brought up in. You want to conform to those around you, all who appear to have similar backgrounds. Please, I beg you, relish the tradition that you have known your entire life. Don't lose sight of who you are and what you want, simply because you feel different. Your differences are a part of you which I find charismatic and interesting.

It is easy to want to be another number, not to stick out, not to be different. But you should apply what you have learned from your family to how you live the rest of your life. I know that your family seem far away, out of touch and perhaps don't understand your desire to mix in. They seemingly put much emphasis on your success. And maybe because you want to mix in, you do not give what you do all of your energy.

But you have learned to have the energy to be the best — use it. Being the best does not separate you from others. Rather, others will be drawn to you, wanting to understand how you accomplish so much, with such ease. They will be attracted to the person that you are.

Be proud of yourself. Use all that energy to remain the person that your friends have grown to love and admire. If you conform to society's bland, mediocre standards, you will never aspire to the greatness that you are capable of. You know that you have the power and intellect to do everything that you want. You have friends to help you along the way.

If you get down, remember not who you want to be, but rather who has given you the ability to be who you already are: your family. The pride, energy and personality they have helped form in you will bring you a very long way. Once that you see that they want the best for you, you will receive the strength you need to carry on and succeed.

Don't be afraid of who you really are. If you become too influenced by other views of life, you could lose your ability to influence others. You have influenced those around you. You are someone who your friends enjoy.

They are there to influence you as well, yes, but conforming to who they are will take away from what you have learned before.

What I guess it comes down to is that your culture, tradition, and family is who you are. I do not want you to live in a world where if you want more, or want something else, but to lose sight of your background, means sacrificing your uniqueness.

Treasure your youth and the forming of your ideals. Don't shut out new ideas, but remember who and what is most important to you. As your friend, you are important to me, and I would hate to see you lose sight of the success and prosperity that is your due.

Your early ideals will bring you great happiness and serenity, if you just keep them in sight.

Gayle Long is a Collegian columnist

Mocking Hanukkah's meaning

We feel that Josh Galitsky's article, "Rudolph's nose cannot outshine the menorah,"(Dec. 7) was in poor taste.

He mocked Hanukkah (no one should have trouble spelling it), as well as the whole Jewish religion.

A comparison should not be made between the two holidays, Hanukkah and Christmas, just because they fall around the same time of the year, and especially since they hold different meanings.

If you were maybe more knowledgable of your religion, you would be proud, and not so envious of other religions.

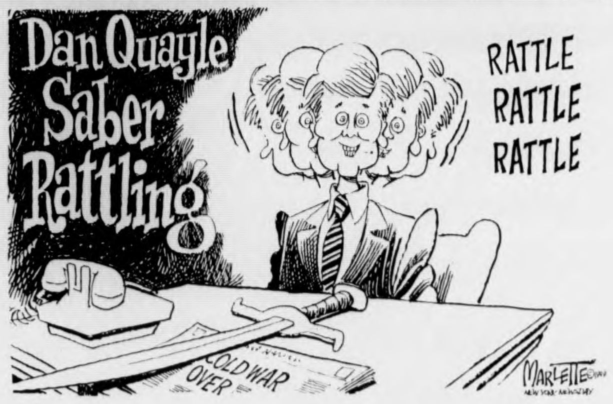
And if you had to miss the parachute in your last period gym class to attend Hebrew school, why haven't you gotten more out of it?

Stacy Corin
Celeste Krochak
Southwest

The Editorial Desk is now accepting applications for two associate editor positions.

The position requires much time, effort and willingness to learn. Associates are responsible for helping the editor with layout, headline writing, selection of submissions and editing.

Applications are available at the Editorial Desk. Deadline for applications will be 4:00 p.m. Wednesday.



My readers: thanks for the fun

I always feel terribly guilty around this time of year.

You see, it has been three long weeks since Thanksgiving, and I have yet to give thanks to those who have made my semester meaningful.

Alise Harfield

I am so ashamed.

But, belated thanks are better than none. So with Christmas just around the bend, I feel it necessary to purchase suggested gifts to those I've neglected to thank all semester long.

If you see your name (or better yet, your affiliation) on the list, come down to the office and get your gift.

Oh yes, and a Merry Christmas to the following favorites:

- The Ultra-Ultra-(Paranoid)-Feminists who deem the Collegian editorial page exclusively male writers — one that only prints editorials by men, with only men's slanted views and a majority of male columnists.

First, what the heck am I? Chopped liver? I have, along with 5 other females, expressed my views weekly this semester. Having worked on the page with two other females, I much resent the accusation.

You make me feel if I don't write a feminist column, as a female, that I have done wrong by some readers.

NEWS FLASH INTERRUPTION: Being a female does NOT mean you are a feminist with such views.

For this reason, I have decided to buy you all a subscription to Showtime. Now there's something worthy of your impulsive criticism.

- The Minuteman, that Non-partisan journal of opinion who gave me admission into that elite group that will no doubt go down in UMass history, for appearing in your non-partisan "Jeers" section.

Hey! It made my day! And just for that, I have decided to purchase each and every staffer a Beginning Dictionary. You can find "non-partisan," "journal," and "opinion" all there.

Good luck, W. and friends!

- To the scores of protesters who took over the office last September, (calling us a racist publication) — two of whom I see in the office regularly — was the 24 or so hours of protest too much for you? Hey, it was exhausting for me too.

But I'm still here writing. Where are you?

For those who feel the protest stronger than the pen, I have for you a year's supply of Papermates and tact.

- To those who yelled a few weeks ago while running around buildings in circles (perhaps you were dizzy) "Get off your ass, save UMass." Did it help any?

We're facing a fee increase, one that may prevent some of us from returning, or at least make life very difficult over winter break — but hey! You got to miss classes. In retrospect I don't see the logic. I'm glad I didn't skip school.

But for those who did, I understand you must still be dizzy. Where have you been lately? For y'all I have Dramamine.

Gee, I guess that's it. The list isn't as long as I thought. I feel a lot better — gratitude can do that to a person, I hear.

Happy Holidays, everyone.

Bye.

Alise Harfield is a Collegian columnist, in debt for buying all these gifts.

What are your voices saying?

The voices come every year about this time. Bouncing around inside my head. Actually, they're always there. They just pick up momentum at the end of the year.

Some of them sound attractive: The holidays are here. It's almost time to relax. But most of them just sound like an old roommate of mine: Another semester gone. Another year over.

I'm not sure how I feel about these brain voices. All I know is this year they're louder than ever. After all, the decade is coming to a close and I'm nearing graduation.

The 90s are almost here.

There they go. I usually just talk back to them. Like this: Thinking about the year 1990 doesn't bother me. Thinking about the year 1980 does, however. Why? Because I can't remember it. Sometimes I wonder if I was really alive in 1980. I don't fear the 90s though. I fear the 2000s. What do you call the first decade of the next century? The 10s? That's the decade that will be a problem for me.

As the 80s come closer to an end, so do you.

Me? You mean, as in my life is coming closer to an end? Now, that's a nice thing to say. My only comment is this: When I came in as a freshmen, the thought of death wasn't something that really bothered me. You could say I had one if those the-sooner-it's-over-the-better attitudes about life. So, if I fear death now, does it mean I'm being irrational, or enjoying life more?

You'll be graduated in less than six months.

So? (The voices really get aggravated when I pretend to be apathetic.)

So, what will you do?

Bob Bobala

Pursue happiness. (Vagueness aggravates the voices almost as much as apathy.) Way back when, my father told me I was the only senior in high school who didn't know what he wanted to do. Thank god I finally figured it all out. Pursue happiness. No, not debauchery, drunkenness, and sloth. Happiness.

Happiness is unreasonable.

True, you can't program it into your computer. You can't use it in economic combat against Japan and West Germany. It won't motivate you to work 14 hours a day, seven days a week. Happiness isn't productive.

This is just an excuse because you really don't know what you want to do.

I just told you what I want to do.

Be more specific.

But if I were specific, I wouldn't be happy. I'd be bored. Will I be an engineer? No. Will I make my way to Wall Street? No. Will I spend the next eight years preparing to be a doctor, a dentist, or a podiatrist? No. Not to say these professions are devoid of happiness. I wouldn't want 24 podiatrists wrapping at my door with a sledgehammer saying I'm closed-minded.

It's difficult to understand, I know. But Emerson wrote about me in 1841: "He walks abreast with his days, and feels no shame in not 'studying a profession,' for he does not postpone life, but lives already" (Self-Reliance, if you're wondering).

So, where will you go to "walk abreast?"

I don't know. There's a graduate program that kind of interests me in Iowa.

Iowa? What's in Iowa?

I keep asking that same question. Just proves that the more you learn, the more you realize you don't know anything. I don't know a thing about Iowa. But if I get lucky and go to school there maybe I'll learn a few things.

You're becoming too optimistic.

Are you kidding? The Berlin Wall is down, but Massachusetts is still in the hole $800 million and the public higher education system is being trashed. I've got a grip on reality. The world will never be happy, just me.

So stop shouting so loud, you lousy brain voices.

Bob Bobala is a Collegian columnist

A new magical sound for Rush on Presto

By JIM COHEN
Collegian Staff
and BRETT JENKINS
Collegian Correspondent

Presto
Rush
Atlantic Records

Rush is a band that is constantly evolving, and their new album, Presto, is a continuation of that.

Presto, as the name implies, is an album of change. Rupert Hine (who has also worked with the Fixx), was added to the production department, and gives Presto more equity to its sound — no instrument dominates another; and the guitar plays a more integral and prominent role than on recent albums.

RECORD REVIEW

The first release, "Show Don't Tell," is a prime example. Filled with a strong melody and guitar riffs with big sound, "Show Don't Tell," is a high-charged song which becomes a forum for drummer/lyricist Neil Peart to reflect upon faith in relationships: "Who can you believe?/It's hard to play it safe/but apart from a few good friends/we don't take anything on faith."

Peart's lyrical style, keeping in pace with the band's musical progress, has advanced as well, and combines his own style with current literary influences.

One such influence appears to be Dylan Thomas, as the lyrics in the song "Red Tide" suggest. "Let us not go gently into the endless winter night." "Red Tide" also exemplifies the diversity of musical styles on the album with its piano parts, which have been uncharacteristic for Rush as of late.

Another departure from recent albums is the acoustic guitar on the title track. The music for the song is formed around the style of acoustic folk, reminiscent of '75s "Making Memories," from Fly By Night.

"Hand Over Fist" displays Rush's ability to create songs with integrity without the need for complex time changes. It is not unusual for Rush to go through many complex time changes. However, "Hand Over Fist" maintains a steady rock-driven dance beat throughout the song.

As an album, Presto is different from past Rush efforts and each song is so distinct that Rush shows no sign of compromise. The album is filled with enough hooks, clever lyrics and good melodies that one can both enjoy and respect it. You couldn't ask for much more.

TOP of the CAMPUS LOUNGE

Another TOC Extra ...
Complimentary Hot Dogs Tonight at 9

Lounge Hours:
Mon-Fri: 11:30 am-12:30 am
Sat-Sun: 5:00 pm-12:30 am

San Francisco at L.A. Rams
Tonight at 9 pm

Monday Night Football

11th Floor • Lincoln Campus Center • (413) 549-6000 ext. 7634
University of Massachusetts at Amherst

...WHERE THE BEARS ARE!
$3. to $7.

Compliments
Creative Gift Baskets for All Occasions
79 South Pleasant Street, lower level
Amherst / (413) 256-1551
10-5pm
Tues.-Sat.
Open Sun.

BOOK BARGAINS
THOUSANDS OF RECENT AND CURRENT BOOKS AT 40-80% OFF NEW LIST PRICE — OVER 40,000 IN STOCK.
Bargain Editions • Remainders • Pub. Overstock • Used • First Editions • Playing Cards.
VALLEY BOOKS
199 N. Pleasant Street
Amherst, Mass.
M-F 10:30-5:30 256-1508
Sat. 10-5, Sun. 12-5 VISA/MC

Open Early
Open Late
kinko's
the copy center
220 N. Pleasant St.
253-2543

BRITTANY MANOR
Brittany Manor Drive • (413) 256-8534

Two Bedroom Apartments
AVAILABLE NOW!
STARTING $490 PER MONTH
Rent includes heat and hot water.

ENJOY THESE FEATURES:
- Fully-Equipped Kitchen, Including Disposal
- Large Livingroom with Ceiling-to-Floor Windows
- On the UMass Bus Route
- Wall-to-Wall Carpeting
- Large Dining Area
- Oversized Bathrooms
- Wall-to-Wall Closets
- Storm Windows
- Dead-bolt Security Locks
- Cable T.V. Available
- Ample Parking
- Swimming Pool

To Greenfield
To Sunderland
Route 116 South
N. Pleasant St.
E. Pleasant Street
N
Amherst Center
Route 9
To Belchertown
Hampshire Mall
Route 116
East Hadley Rd.
BRITTANY MANOR
S. Pleasant St.
Shays Street
Pomeroy St.

Women's Shoes, Clothing & Accessories
Zanna • 187 North Pleasant Street • Amherst
413.253.2563
ZANNA
OH, OH, OH!

Holiday Glow!
J•RICH
CLOTHING FOR MEN
191 N. Pleasant St. Amherst•253-2013
22 Masonic St. Northampton•586-6336
OPEN 7 DAYS

ARTS & LIVING

photo courtesy of UMass Music Theatre Guild

Tango singer, Augustin Magaldi (Rafael Weil) is the first of a long line of men to sleep with Eva Peron (Melissa Benton) in the UMass Music Theatre Guild's production of Evita.

Evita: A college production that's as good as the pros'

By HEATHER M. RONOVECH
Collegian Correspondent

Evita
Fine Arts Center
Sat., Dec. 8

If you didn't see Evita at the FAC Concert Hall this weekend, you should have. With spectaculor, professional performances, a talented chorus and exquisite costumes by Laura Sweet, "Evita" was a fabulous show.

Melissa Benton played Eva Peron. From her small stature and very young looks, you might wonder if she could pull off playing a bitchy, unrelenting icon like Evita. But Benton did do it — her range went from an alto to a high soprano with ease, and she could belt out songs like "Rainbow High" and "Don't Cry For Me Argentina," as well as any actress I have seen.

Benton also gave a strong acting performance. She was just as convincing as a young woman who slept her way to the top of the acting profession as later, when she displayed no convictions in pushing Peron to take the presidency ("A New Argentina"). Throughout the show, Benton never lost her composure or steadfastness as the woman intensively driven by ambition. In addition, Marc Clermont as Che gave an incredible performance. Especially well done was his narration in the song, "Rainbow Tour," when he had to go through several European accents.

Raphael Weil, his hips swaying, his shirt open, and his eyebrows constantly turning upwards in a flirtatious manner, was excellent as Migaldi, the sleazy, small town singer who brings Eva to Buenos Aires. Women swooned over him, and Weil lapped it up. He has a strong stage presence.

Suzanne Chiasson played Peron's mistress. Her haunting and clear voice in the solo number, "Another Suitcase in Another Hall," was a highlight of the show. She also had the perfect forlorn look on her face when Eva threw her out.

THEATER

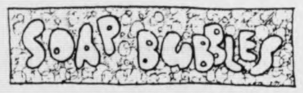
As choruses go, this one was a very equally talented bunch. During numbers like "A New Argentina," they had to represent the masses of Argentina who support Peron. They gave a realistic display of what the people might have been like during a parade or rally for Peron in Buenos Aires.

On the whole, "Evita" was a stellar performance, especially for a college production. The UMass Music Theater Guild has definitely improved in the past few years. "Evita" was superior to last year's production of "West Side Story." Hopefully, we will get to see these talented students in other shows in the future.

Robert pops the question to Kate from the rooftop, on GH

By BETH STOLLER
Collegian Staff

GENERAL HOSPITAL — Frisco and Felicia arrived on the hotel roof just in time to save Robert and Kate, who were stranded on top of the letters of the hotel sign. While hanging from the roof, Robert proposed marriage to Kate, who accepted. Olivia caused Colton to crash the helicopter when he tried to take a gun away from her. Colton and Olivia survived the crash, but were stranded in the wilderness together. Iona was rushed to the hospital after she fell down the stairs. Monica told Kate that Iona has an inoperable heart condition. The conditions to Edward's will found in his fishing tackle box, stated that ELQ was to be divided equally between Tracy and Alan, but Ned is to control the finances. Jimmy persuaded David to tell him how he murdered the WSB agent, while he recorded the whole conversation. Unfortunately, Jimmy left the case to the recorder in David's apartment and when he returned, he overheard David say that if Jimmy went to the police he would have him murdered.



DAYS OF OUR LIVES — After Arthur threatened to kill Shane and Rebecca, Renfro shot and killed Arthur. Renfro revealed to Shane that he is an SEC agent and had been working undercover to nail Arthur. Shane didn't tell Renfro that he has amnesia. Victor's thugs threw Jack and Isabella into a padded cell at the psychiatric hospital, but they later escaped. Jack called Patch for help but got Kayla, who arrived to help Jack just as a hospital orderly got the drop on them. Patch, who doesn't know that Roman is working undercover, is upset that Roman doesn't seem to be trying to get the goods on Victor.

SANTA BARBARA — Kelly helped Robert run away from the hospital, then hid him at the Capwell guesthouse. After Eden found Robert, he told her that Tonell's hitman is after him. Eden and Robert hid in an old theater that he owns. Soon after she started working for Ethan. Phyllis snooped through the files then called Jeff Nugent, who claimed to be a witness to Leo Mitchell's murder.

Half Of This Year's Medical School Class Got There With Our Help.

To study alone for the MCAT's is nearly impossible. To study without Stanley H. Kaplan is simply a bad career move.

Maybe it's our 50 years of experience. Our small classes and advanced teaching methods. Or a research department that reacts to test changes before most companies even know they exist.

Whatever it is, if medicine is in your future, Stanley H. Kaplan can help you start practicing right now.

For information call 800-KAP-TEST and find out more about any of our 135 centers nationwide.

STANLEY H. KAPLAN
Take Kaplan Or Take Your Chances

Winter Session Classes for:
LSAT,GMAT, GRE, MCAT forming
scholarship available for Financial Aid students
358 N. Pleasant St. 549-5780

25 % OFF All Hair Accessories
Dec. 11- Dec. 17
herself... at times
Jewelry & Accessories
7 E. Pleasant St.
(In front of the Carriage Shops
between Peloton Bike and Bank of N. Eng.)

to U. MASS
N. Pleasant
Triangle
E. Pleasant
Peloton Bike
Carriage Shops
Bank of N.E.

For directions call:
549-6693

ATTENTION STUDENTS OF COLOR

All seniors (2.8 GPA), Juniors (2.5 GPA), Asian American, Black, Hispanic, American Indian or Pacific Islanders who are US citizens or have a resident alien status may qualify for the Career Expo 1990 Scholarship. There will be a number of $1,000 scholarships available. The deadline for applications is December 18, 1989. Applications are available at BCP, CCEBMS, and MEP.

Collegian photo by Dondi Ahearn

HANGING AROUND – A dummy is tied to a flagpole on Rte. 116 in Leverett recently.

Dalai Lama wins Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway (AP) – The Dalai Lama accepted the Nobel Peace Prize Sunday and said that despite Chinese rebuffs, he remained committed to non-violence in seeking an end to China's 40-year occupation of his Himalayan homeland, Tibet.

"I accept the prize with profound graditude on behalf of the oppressed everywhere and for all those who struggle for freedom and work for peace," he said at a ceremony attended by King Olav V and government officials.

At a white-tie ceremony in Stockholm, Sweden, King Carl XVI Gustaf awarded gold Nobel medallions to nine laureates who won the prizes for literature, chemistry, physics, medicine and economic sciences. Six were Americans.

The Dalai Lama said China's rejection of his 1987 peace plan was forcing him to rethink his approach and that he might withdraw his proposal.

But, he added: "our struggle must remain non-violent and free of hatred."

The Dalai Lama, born Tenzin Gyastso, was chosen at age 5 as the reincarnation of Tibet's god-king, making him religious and political head of the isolated mountain nation. He fled into exile in India after a failed uprising in 1959.

The Dalai Lama, 54, has called for Tibetan autonomy over domestic matters, with China retaining control over military and diplomatic affairs. Beijing has rejected the formula.

On Sunday, The Dalai Lama urged discussions based "on the principle of equality, respect, trust and mutual benefit."

He cited a treaty in the year 823 that said, "Tibetans will live happily in the great land of Tibet and the Chinese will live happpily in the great land of China."

At a news conference later he declined to discuss new peace initiatives he might be considering, saying the situation in Tibet was too delicate.

The Dalai Lama said the Chinese had "become even more repressive" since the announcement in October that he was receiving the award. He said several Tibetans were sentenced to up to 19 years in prison last week, "possibly . . . to intimidate the population before today's event."

In Beijing, the Communist Party's official newspaper, People's Daily, sharply criticized the Dalai Lama and the Norwegian Nobel committee for awarding him the Nobel Prize.

It said China was investing $350 million to build up highways, expand the airport in the Tibetan capital of Lhasa and carry out urban renovations.

Chinese Foreign spokesman Jin Guihua said the prize served only to undermine the unity of the nation and was a "gross interference in China's internal affairs."

In what was seen as a protest, China's ambassador to Norway, LiBaocheng, left the ceremony as the Dalai Lama arrived.

The Dalai Lama, dressed in the scarlet robes of a Buddhist monk, began his acceptance speech with a brief Buddhist chant and a few remarks in his own language before switching to English.

"I am no one special. But I believe the prize is a recognition of the true value of altruism, love, compassion and non-violence, which I try to practice," he said.

He had been nominated three successive years for the Peace Prize, and was the 70th recipient since the first prizes were awarded in 1901 from the state of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite.

Spanish writer Camilo Jose Cela received the prize for literature. Americans J. Michael Bishop and Harold E. Varmus won for medience; Americans Norman F. Ramsey and Hans G. Dehmelt and Wolfgang Pual of West Germany for physics; Americans Sidney Altman and Thomas R. Cech for chemistry; and Trygve Haavelmo of Norway for economics.

AS SEEN IN NEWSWEEK ON CAMPUS

VECTOR MARKETING CORPORATION

The Difference Between an Ordinary Job and "The Vector Opportunity"

$11.05 ENTRY LEVEL PAY RATE

- NATIONAL FIRM HAS IMMEDIATE OPENINGS DURING SEMESTER BREAK
- INTERVIEW NOW • BEGIN AFTER EXAMS
- GAIN VALUABLE BUSINESS EXPERIENCE FOR RESUME
- BUILD COMMUNICATION SKILLS
- SPECIAL 2-4 WEEK PROGRAM
- INTERNSHIPS & SCHOLARSHIPS POSSIBLE FOR NEXT SEMESTER
- FUTURE MANAGEMENT POSITIONS AVAILABLE
- ALL MAJORS MAY APPLY
- DETAILS COVERED AT INTERVIEW

FOR EARLY CONSIDERATION CALL NOW
VECTOR MARKETING CORPORATION

BOSTON SUBURBS 617-449-4362
WORCESTER COUNTY 508-852-1680
WAKEFIELD,MA/NORTH SHORE AREA 617-246-5308
SOUTHEAST MASS. AREA 508-947-1006

ROCK BOTTOM PRICES

Model 8088 10MHZ CPU system includes
- 640k RAM on board
- 4.77 & 10 MHZ Speeds hardware and software selectable
- Slimline case
- 360K or 720K floppy drive
- 200 Watt Power supply
- MS-DOS 3.3
- Phoenix Bios

We carry a complete line of IBM compatible systems custom configuration available, Please call for free catalogue!

ALTERNATIVE CHOICE COMPUTER
(413) 625-8153
PO BOX 355 Shelburne Falls, Ma 01370

CASH IN
On Intersession

Earn money for January fun and second semester. ABT ASSOCIATES INC. needs Research Interviewers to work on a variety of public policy and market research studies.

- Start at $5.00 per hour with paid training and quickly move up to $5.50 (Weekends earn 10% more)
- Flexible day and evening hours
- Work from 20 hours part-time, up to 40 hours.
- Choose your own schedule every week from shifts 5pm-10pm every night except Saturday, 11am-5pm. Also weekdays 9am-5pm.
- Gain valuable experience in an interesting environment.
- Conveniently located at the Mountain Farms Mall (free bus service)

Call between 9am and 5pm, Monday through Friday at 586-8635.

Abt Associates Inc.

Abt Associates Inc.
Telephone Research Center
Mountain Farms Mall, Rt. 9, Hadley, MA 01035

An Equal Opportunity Employer

Want to live at Townhouse? Apply Now!

Now accepting applications for Fall 1990 occupancy (June Takeover).

2 and 3 bedroom townhouses

Townhouse of Amherst
50 Meadow Street • Amherst, MA 01002
549-0839

Dead: Built for top 40; Caboose: On right track

RICK BOMBARDIER
Collegian Correspondent

Grateful Dead
Built to last
Arista Records

***

New Potato Caboose
Promising Traveller
Rykodisk

***

Two years ago, the Grateful Dead left many of its listeners fumbling with their record, In The Dark. They certainly sent me for a spin with their latest, most atypical record, Built to Last. Althougl many of today's Top 40 DJs laud the album as "great new music," I'd rather have "Good ol' Grateful Dead!"

RECORD REVIEW

A lot of Dead fans, including me, wanted to know if this would be the album that would save the Grateful Dead from the reputation that they are becoming more and more commercialized, but it is not and, all that aside, the album does have some good points.

Surprisingly, the group intended this, their newest recording, to be an experiment for the performance of what could be called non-traditional Dead music.

Usually, the band's songs are co-written by either the team of poet Robert Hunter and lead guitarist Jerry Garcia, or lyricist Keith Barlow and rhythm guitarist Bob Weir. Only three of the album's songs are composed by Hunter-Garcia, ranging from a pop-sounding "Foolish Heart" (the album's first single), to a protest song about the evils of progress, called "Standing on the Moon."

In the past, the Dead called upon keyboardist Brent Mydland for "filler songs" on their studio albums; however, Built to Last is proof of Mydland's ability to be a capable songwriter. Brent joined the band in 1979, and was given his first shot at songwriting in 1981, with "Far from Me (Go to Heaven)." He tried again on In the Dark, with a more successful song called "Tons of Steel."

Four of the nine songs on the new album are composed by Mydland-Barlow, and Brent sings lead vocals on all the selections. Mydland's gravel-throated voice, which sounds at times like the man on the Carvel ice cream commercials, is both powerful and articulate. Perhaps the best song on the record is "Blow Away," where Brent is accompanied by a strong guitar performance from Garcia. Mydland even tries his hand at a protest song (which the Dead usually don't do) with "We Can Run."

Even further from the typical Dead recording is the absence of rhythm guitarist Bob Weir on lead vocals. Usually, Weir sings most of the band's tunes, but not so on the latest. Bob writes-performs only one song, "Picasso Moon," where the Dead sound more like the Statler Brothers than the Grateful Dead.

The first thing that I read about New Potato Caboose was that the band had been trying to shed their "Dead" image. They certainly are on a fast track away from the Grateful Dead with their newest album, Promising Traveller.

Most of the songs performed by the Caboose have the basic bluegrass guitar line and multi-member chorus related to songs that fuse country and rock. Although the Dead may have cultivated many bluegrass-type songs, such as "Katie May," and the album Old in the Way (Garcia), New Potato Caboose pushes much further toward the sound of the Charlie Daniel's Band or Alabama.

The selections are varied on Promising Traveller, ranging from a strained anti-nuclear protest called, "Rust in Peace" to the only Deadish sounding song, "Psychedelia."

They give the Van Morrison hit "Brown-Eyed Girl" a rocking southern twist, but fall short on what seems to be southern reggae on "By-O."

Overall, the album shows the talents of New Potato Caboose that could make them a future force in southern rock. their powerful guitar section, headed by Rich Della Porta (lead guitar), and backed by Doug Prichett (acoustic guitar) and Don Laux (rhythm guitar), gives the band a sense of depth and spices up their music.

Their music is much livelier than the Grateful Dead's; however it lacks the percussion strength provided by Dead drummers Mickey Hart and Bill "Fairplay" Kreutzmann.

Certainly, Promising Traveller proves New Potato Caboose to be a talented southern rock band that can function without having to do Dead cover tunes. They command an audience different from the average "Deadhead."

One helpful hint to gain that audience: change the band's name.

Starting a new church

By COLIN SEARS
Collegian Correspondent

Rhyme
Marty Willson-Piper
Rykodisc

Having been a big fan of the Church since I was born, I doled out the cake to purchase the solo albums their members released last year after the success of the album Starfish. As one might expect, these discs were eclectic and unfocused with few songs worth listening to more than once. On his second solo LP, Marty Willson-Piper, the lead guitarist from the Church, finds a sound which follows logically from his work with the Church. On the whole the album is very ethereal, soothing and strong enough to stand on its own.

The use of mostly acoustic instruments gives the bulk of the songs a folksy feel, and M.W.P.'s song writing gives the songs plenty of space to give the album the overall psychedelic feel. The opening song, "St. Germain" has all the eloquence and charm that made "Under the Milky Way" a hit. The accordian and piano placed so prominently in the foreground give the song an ambiance rarely heard in this digital age.

In "Melody of the Rain" a twelve string acoustic guitar is picked while a catchy vocal melody is carried. In the middle of the song a set of bagpipes enter to put the listener into a dreamlike trance.

"Questions Without Answers" and "Time is Imaginary" are simple folk songs highly reminiscent of Bob Dylan, musically and lyrically. There are also innocent sounding straight forward pop songs such as "Melancholy Girl" and "Cascade," yet the lyrics and simple yet clear production set these miles above REM's droning and overdone sound. Songs like "Forever" and "To Where I Am Now" have all the intensity and stylings of the best 70s rock ballads, including strings, provoking images of David Bowie and E.L.O.

Rhyme is a strong album, calm and pleasant but rarely dull. Marty Willson-Piper's slightly raspy voice and acoustic guitar paired with clarinets, bagpipes and cellos, creates a mood which even Tom Waits might enjoy. The album is very mellow, perfect for going to sleep to, while also being too good to waste on sleep. Most of the album has the atmosphere and feel of the Church's best work, particularly the Blurred Crusade album, and should not fall short of a fan's expectations. However, it should not be understated that the album stands on its own as a great work which more closely resembles the classic folk psychedelia of the band Love than the music of the Church.

Photo courtesy of Ryko

Marty Willson-Piper sits on top of the world with his new album.

USE
YOUR STUDENT DISCOUNT
AND SAVE 10%
ON CHRISTMAS SHOPPING
- FREE GIFT WRAP
- WE MAIL ANYWHERE
- GIFT CERTIFICATES

Jeffery
Amherst
Bookshop
55 So. Pleasant St., Amherst
253-3870 • 253-3381

OPEN: WED, THURS, FRI TILL 8:00 PM
SUN 12:00 - 5:00 PM

Just some of the characters you'll work with here.

You'll also be in close contact with Calvin Klein, Anne Tyler, and Mel Gibson. That's because we're 660 Corporation, the retail management professionals behind the B.U. BOOKSTORE MALL — where you'll find books, videos, clothes, computers, and more. And you can find out more about our current job opportunities by visiting our:

OPEN HOUSE
for The B.U.
BOOKSTORE MALL
Kenmore Square, Boston

Tuesday, December 12, 1989
10:00am - 4:00pm
CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE

Stop by to explore a position as a cashier or stock person, and fill out an application — you could be hired immediately!

100 Positions Available During RUSH
- Full and part time temporary positions (from Christmas through late January)
- An immediate store discount of up to 30%
- Hiring "on the spot"
- A work environment with lots of character!

If you can't attend our Open House, please call (617) 236-7488 for more information.

660 Corporation

Work with the world's best.

Decking the dorm with holiday cheer

By DIANE HICKS
Collegian Correspondent

With final exams around the corner and limited budgets prevailing, students sometimes push the spirit of Christmas aside. However, many students have testified that this year their spirit isn't lacking.

Christmas lights, especially blinking ones, have long been an eye-catching, popular tradition in dormitories, lining windows from Sylvan to Southwest.

Shannon Martin, of Thatcher dorm, and Kate Olson of Patterson, are just two of the many students who have decorated this way, adding Christmas atmosphere outside as well as inside.

John Zielinski, a resident of McKimmie said he was, "very much in the spirit of Christmas." Zielinski decorated his window with colorful lights and hung a Merry Christmas sign on his door to greet passers-by.

Renee Ambrose has brought spirit to her Coolidge room with a full-size decorated tree. Her room is also festively decorated with mistletoe.

Sheri Sasumwa, Area Residence Director of Coolidge, pointed out that only non-combustible decorations are allowed, meaning no live or metal trees or other flammable decorations, including un-approved lighting or paper decor. Candles are also heavily restricted, as they could easily set off disaster in the dormitories.

Off campus students aren't as limited, although some apartment complexes don't allow live trees.

Leslie Stuart, a UMass student, remarked, "I love Christmas; decorating can be fun, easy and inexpensive."

Stuart hung paper snowflakes from the ceiling of her Hadley apartment, which are festive, and make for interesting conversation. Her full-size live tree is decorated with paper snowflakes and candy canes resting among garlands and gold bells. One battered Coca Cola can hangs from a limb, off-setting the other ornaments. Atop the tree, is a mask with silver icicles for hair and a red beret.

"I'm on a limited budget, but my decorations were cheap and easy," Stuart said. "Candy canes are practical because you can eat them when you want one."

Christmas decorating doesn't have to be expensive or time-consuming. Colored ribbons can brighten up tree, and homemade decorations from snowflakes to signs can bring good cheer. Mistletoe can be particularly fun.

Don't let school stifle your spirit, put on some Christmas music and do a little decorating.

The Puerto Rican Travelling Theater succeeds with thoughtful Ariano

By NICK OSTIS
Collegian Correspondent

Ariano, written by Richard Irizarry and performed by the Puerto Rican Travelling Theater, is a contemporary story of a 30-ish barrio bookie who parlays his neighborhood collections into a fortune, which is further multiplied by revenue earned from a number of laundromats he owns. His goal of the good life is a three bedroom home in Connecticut where he can once and for all "sanitize" himself. He is so obsessed with wanting to be White that for $10,000 he hires Crystal, a Caucasian blond, to deliver him a White baby.

REVIEW

His absolutely devoted wife, Dolores, who knows nothing of Crystal, provides a cozy nest for their son, Scrafin. In spite of her pep talks and warnings, his liberated, sassy friend, Clara cannot awaken Dolores from her slumber as the all-accepting traditional Puerto Rican wife. One night at dinner Ariano explodes into a violent rage when he sees himself depicted as Black in Serafin's harmless family portrait drawing. Ariano smacks Dolores out of the way, breaks in half Seraphin's black, brown, gray and red crayons, and marches his terrified son before a mirror (actually the audience), where he convinces the boy and himself he's White.

In a fruitless effort to find peace of mind, he visits Crystal who is burning incense and is stoned on pot. They argue, she points out that she's not submissive like Dolores, and declares this witty pun: "I can only take you in spurts.'

Soldier, a street-wise money collector for Ariano (and a constant reminder of everything Ariano wants to escape) visits and secretly stashes some requested cocaine under Crystal's pillow.

Ariano and Soldier have words over Soldier's attitude, which culminates in Soldier's putting a knife to the much larger Ariano's throat.

At home, Ariano's gossiping grandmother tells Dolores about Crystal. Just minutes before, Clara had tried to convince her to leave Ariano after she hears about the crayon incident. Clara confronts Ariano in the hallway and threatens to have him arrested if he ever gets violent with his family again. Pointing a finger in his face, she humiliates him by saying, "Laying down with Barbie won't make you Ken."

While the lovers make up, Ariano receives a visit from an uncharacteristically somber Soldier, who explains that "Chris" has been rushed to the hospital. Believing Chris is a male business associate, Dolores encourages Ariano to rush to his rescue. On the way out the door, a callous Ariano says to Dolores, jubilant that Crystal is dead, "I'll be back to celebrate."

With Crystal seemingly out of the way, we find Dolores and Clara sipping wine on the couch. Dolores remarks blithley, "Ever since his friend died last week, he's been so romantic."

Charming and revitalized, Ariano enters the room in a tuxedo, shocks Clara by kissing her on the cheek, and announces to Dolores that he has hired a limosine for a night on the town.

Clara takes Serafin to her house for the evening, leaving the couple dancing intimately in the living room.

Happy ending? Hardly.

Crystal resurrects screaming at the door, disrupting the brief domestic bliss. "I did my eight months, I want my money," she demands. Loyal to the end, Dolores stands by Ariano, lying to Crystal that he had told her everything about them. However, Crystal drives one final spike into Dolores' heart by divulging a $10,000 check is in Ariano's wallet and tells Dolores what it's for.

In the final scenes, Dolores hugs Serafin before the mirror and explains, "We are people of color who live in a world of color. You are all those colors. That's the beauty of being Puerto Rican."

Then Ariano has his tearful moment of awakening before the mirror. He says, "I am not White, Black, Red or Yellow. I am the new Puerto Rican and whoever doesn't like it can go straight to hell."

A powerful drama spliced with moments of humor, Ariano earned a partial standing ovation, largely from the mostly Latin audience (fact is, the cast drew the biggest laughs and most vocal responses when they spoke in Spanish). With its pungent, relevant dialogue, action-packed paced and diverse, outspoken characters, Ariano is gripping, mind-opening theater.

Fentons
SINCE 1924
ATHLETIC SUPPLIES, INC.
DISTRIBUTORS OF
Spalding • Rawlings • Nike
Wilson • CCM • Avia
Pony • Adidas • Sand Knit
Bauer • Mizuno • MacGregor
377 Main Street
Amherst • 253-3973
We Design Intramural Team Shirts & Jerseys

AMHERST CINEMA
The Bear PG
7 & 9:00
Fri Sat & Sun
7:30 Mon-Thurs
$2.50 w/student ID
253-5426
30 Amity Street
Amherst, MA

STUDENT & FACULTY FARES
1/2 roundtrips from New York
LONDON 169
PARIS 205
ROME 245
roundtrips from New York
TOKYO 749
CARACAS 318
SAN JOSE C.R. 338
Taxes not included.restrictions apply.
One ways available.
EURAIL Passes issued on the spot!!
FREE Student Travel Catalog!!
Council Travel
79 So.Pleasant Street, Amherst
413 - 256 -1261

EAT, DRINK AND BE MERRY
ALL YOU CAN EAT
BUFFET $5.99
Monday-Thursday 5-8 p.m.
Wednesday December 13 8:30 PM
COMEDY OPEN STAGE
Think you're funny? Sign up by 8:15 to perform
$2.00 admission to non performers
COMEDY ZONE
Every Friday & Saturday 8:30 PM
2nd semester
FREE
BANQUET — PARTY ROOM plan now
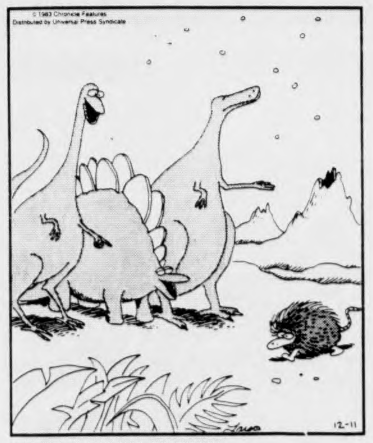
Sun. - Thurs Call for info 585-8615 or 586-1202
PEKING GARDEN
A MANDARIN & SZECHUAN RESTAURANT
on Route 9, Hadley 北京園 next to Hadley Subaru

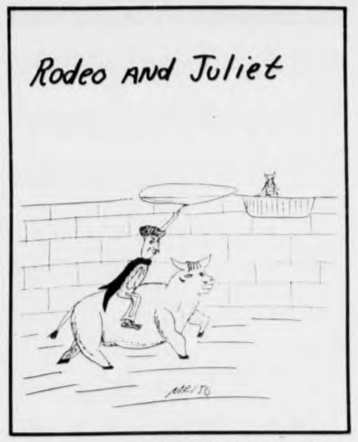
BRECKENRIDGE
GENUINE COLORADO
$599
NEW DATE!
NEW PRICE!
JAN. 8 — 15
Trip Includes
- Round trip airfare
- Round trip transfers
- 7 Nights condo lodging
- 5 Days of lifts
- Services of on site staff
- All taxes and gratuities
SIGN UP NOW
UMASS SKI CLUB

SQUIRE VILLAGE APARTMENTS
1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments available for January 1.
On Bus Route
CALL 665-2203

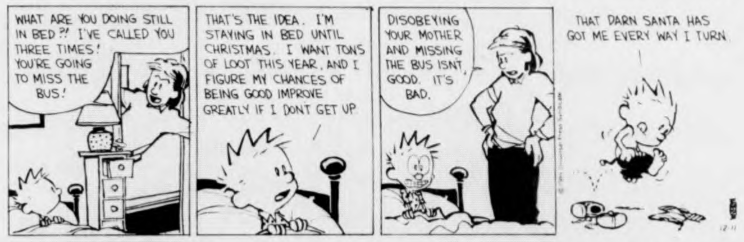
THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG

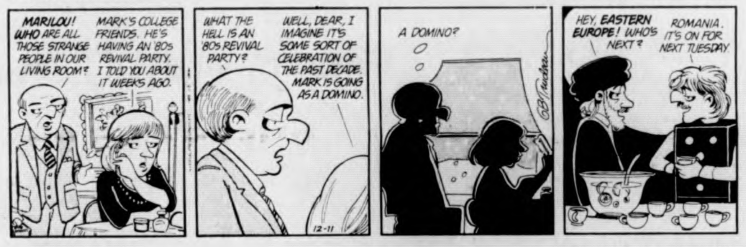


CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



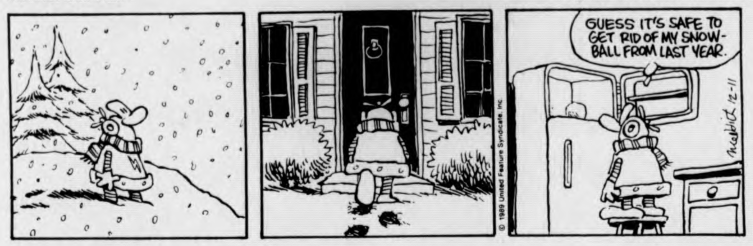
WHAT ARE YOU DOING STILL IN BED?! I'VE CALLED YOU THREE TIMES! YOU'RE GOING TO MISS THE BUS!
THAT'S THE IDEA. I'M STAYING IN BED UNTIL CHRISTMAS. I WANT TONS OF LOOT THIS YEAR, AND I FIGURE MY CHANCES OF BEING GOOD IMPROVE GREATLY IF I DON'T GET UP.
DISOBEYING YOUR MOTHER AND MISSING THE BUS ISN'T GOOD. IT'S BAD.
THAT DARN SANTA HAS GOT ME EVERY WAY I TURN.

DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



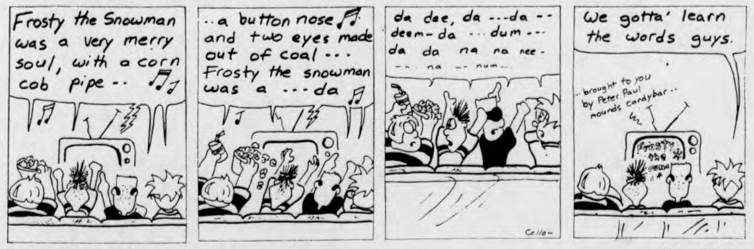
MARILOU! WHO ARE ALL THOSE STRANGE PEOPLE IN OUR LIVING ROOM?
MARK'S COLLEGE FRIENDS. HE'S HAVING AN '80s REVIVAL PARTY. I TOLD YOU ABOUT IT WEEKS AGO.
WHAT THE HELL IS AN '80s REVIVAL PARTY?
WELL, DEAR, I IMAGINE IT'S SOME SORT OF CELEBRATION OF THE PAST DECADE. MARK IS GOING AS A DOMINO.
A DOMINO?
HEY, EASTERN EUROPE! WHO'S NEXT?
ROMANIA. IT'S ON FOR NEXT TUESDAY.

ROBOTMAN
By JIM MEDDICK



GUESS IT'S SAFE TO GET RID OF MY SNOWBALL FROM LAST YEAR.

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT
By CELLI



Frosty the Snowman was a very merry soul, with a corn cob pipe --
..a button nose and two eyes made out of coal ... Frosty the snowman was a ---da da dee, da ---da -- deem-da ... dum --- da da na na nee -
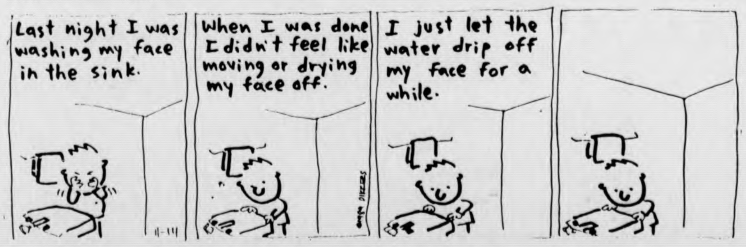
We gotta' learn the words guys.
.. brought to you by Peter Paul mounds candybar --

JIM'S JOURNAL
By JIM



Last night I was washing my face in the sink.
When I was done I didn't feel like moving or drying my face off.
I just let the water drip off my face for a while.

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

ACROSS

1 Actor Rip
5 French valley
10 Winged victory
14 Flute's neighbor
15 Pillow filler
16 Saharan
17 Sport site
20 Former Spanish queen
21 Grimm beginning
22 "Swell!"
23 "— boy!"
24 Gait
26 Lillian Hellman play: 1941
33 Cornhusker city
34 Rioja, e.g.
35 Zip
36 Upward slope
37 Book part
39 Gooden's goals
40 Concorde, for short
41 Rigging holder
42 Muddled
43 Bizet opera: 1863
47 Budget factor
48 Partaking
49 Show patience
52 Moreover
53 Acquire
56 Brief acting role for a star
60 Currier's partner
61 Rigid
62 Sunken fence
63 Bucky of baseball
64 Old hat
65 Jot

DOWN

1 — or not...
2 Scottish seaside resort
3 Dickens' Miss Dartle
4 Formerly called
5 Shed
6 Hurler Boyd
7 At liberty
8 Embarrassed
9 Lincoln's "Cap 'n —"
10 Hall-of-Fame QB
11 Unyielding
12 Loving
13 MacDonald's co-star
18 Former S.A. official
19 Venerate
23 Long for 24 Reedy
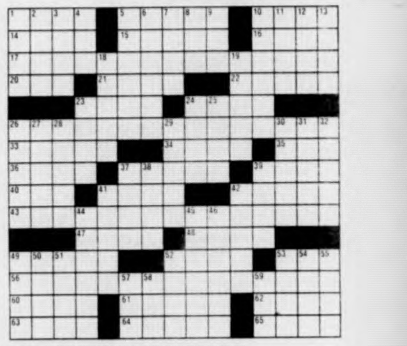
25 Lacoste
26 Defeat
27 Mennonite
28 Savor
29 Spin
30 Activated
31 Saltpeter
32 Martinelli and Lanchester
37 Bridge
38 Segment
39 Galba's successor
41 Tend
42 "The Maltese Falcon" star
44 Member of the clergy
45 Manicurists at times
46 Wild
49 Bitter
50 Salute
51 Sunday closing
52 Mirrors
53 Annoyance
54 Iterate
55 Group
57 One of Orphan Annie's protectors
58 School org.
59 "Gotcha!"

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

R	O	C	S	■	E	M	U	S	■	P	H	A	S	E
I	P	O	H	■	C	A	R	L	■	E	A	G	E	R
N	E	N	A	■	A	R	E	O	■	A	N	O	D	E
G	R	A	M	E	R	C	Y	P	A	R	K	■	■	■
S	A	N	E	S	T	■	S	E	L	L	■	L	A	S
■	■	■	■	T	E	A	■	■	T	Y	R	A	N	T
S	H	A	R	E	■	L	A	M	E	■	O	D	E	A
C	E	N	T	R	A	L	P	A	R	K	W	E	S	T
A	L	I	E	■	D	Y	E	R	■	R	E	N	T	E
M	I	S	S	A	L	■	■	U	S	O	■	■	■	■
P	O	E	■	D	E	S	K	■	K	N	A	V	E	S
■	■	■	C	A	R	N	E	G	I	E	H	I	L	L
S	T	O	O	P	■	A	R	U	M	■	E	L	L	A
O	R	B	I	T	■	K	E	L	P	■	A	L	E	C
P	A	I	N	S	■	E	S	P	Y	■	D	A	N	K

12/11/89



YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Surprises that come from out of the blue thrill you. Romance, finance and housing matters enjoy favorable influences. If you have an inventive mind, use it. Suggest ways to reduce overhead costs.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): It is not enough to make plans. Take prompt action to see that your intentions are carried out. Stress safety. A former link should be restored. A cash bonus is a real possibility.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Having key associates willing to pull in the same direction is a major asset. Point out the financial rewards of teamwork. Call home regularly when traveling. Reassure your loved ones.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): An aggressive approach wins the approval of a co-worker who shares your ideals. Consolidate bills and seek help in paying them off. The peace of mind will be wonderful. A child reveals a secret.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You and a newcomer make an effective team. An opponent may attempt to interject a note of fear into negotiations. Ignore all threats. The facts are on your side. Romantic ties deepen.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your powers of persuasion let you reach a business goal sooner than you thought possible. Pay closer attention to your savings. Romance is very much a part of your evening plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be quick to recognize a golden opportunity when it appears. A once-in-a-lifetime offer is featured. A modest start may presage a fine ending. Delays can be turned to your advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The necessity of taking a more serious approach is pointed out to you. Whenever possible, extend the olive branch at home. A phone call or visit plants a seed that will blossom into something wonderful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Physical prowess will win you extra benefits today. A spontaneous decision works out fine. Encourage a new love. Your dry wit saves a romantic encounter from disaster. Play it cool.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Keep your distance until the boss has all the facts regarding a sensitive office matter. Restore an old relationship. A cash bonus is possible. Be totally honest with a loved one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do not allow even a good friend to exploit you. Your words carry great weight with a young follower. Romance looks promising. Entertaining is delightful when you invite fun guests.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A new friendship will be long-lived. You could lose money unless something that has been lost is recovered. Handle business and financial documents with great care to protect company secrets.

MENU

LUNCH	DINNER
Meatball grinder Monte cristo sandwich	Cajun style scrod Pan shish kebab
BASICS LUNCH	BASICS DINNER
Turkey swiss sandwich Falafel pocket sandwich	Polynesian vegetables Cajun style scrod

■ men's basketball

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

The Huskies broke out to an 18-8 lead, and looked like they were going to run out of this antiquated gym. Calipari had feared that NU would use its athletic ability to bury the Minutemen, and that was a distinct possibility early on.

"We didn't come to play early in the game," Calipari said.

But UMass slowly but surely threw a rope around the running Huskies, staying within striking distance at 23-16 when George Yuille could hit only 1-of-2 free throws.

"We wanted to run the whole game, because we're not that big. It helps us," said NU coach Karl Fogel. "I don't know why we stopped.

When the Huskies stopped running, they stopped scoring as well. What followed was a 13-point UMass barrage that swung the momentum. Freshman forward Tony Barbee's three-pointer, one of four he hit on the game, gave UMass a 24-23 lead. Barbee led all scorers with 22 points, clicking on 9-of-13 shooting from the floor.

"Tony Barbee played pretty well, but we can't only put three players on the floor," Calipari said.

Sensing trouble, NU went to the back-up plan — pound the inside. Barry Abercrombie pushed his way around for the final six minutes and scored seven points, including a two-handed exclamation point of a dunk that gave the hosts a 36-35 halftime lead.

Abercrombie was just one of several Huskies who had their way in the lane. Of NU's 31 field goals in the game, not one came from beyond 15 feet, and only six were arguably outside the paint. Kind of makes you shudder when you realize Temple will be here in a couple of months.

The Minutemen allowed NU another one of its spurts to start the second half, the Huskies looking more like Greyhounds at nearby Wonderland. Abercrombie tipped home a rebound, Steve Carney (19 points, 10 caroms) broke away for a reverse jam and Anthony McBride finished an embarrassing 3-on-none break, making it 42-35 barely a minute into the second half.

But UMass went on a 21-7 spurt, with Barbee and fellow freshman Harper Williams (16 points) doing most of the damage. After NU rallied to take a 60-58 lead with 8:01 left, the game remained a taffy pull until Anderson's back-breaking tip-in.

Of more serious ramifications, McCoy reinjured his knee late in the game, but still played out the final minutes. Calipari noticed that his game suffered, but stuck with him.

"I probably should have left him out," Calipari said. "It was my mistake."

With nothing on the line tonight, don't be surpised if No. 20 doesn't get much PT. The same holds true for Pace, who also was injured late last week and had his worst game of his short collegiate career.

Thursday night, New Hampshire invades the Cage for a real one, and you can bet UMass will be looking to improve before then. Tonight's clash will be a good guinea pig of a contest for Calipari to try some things, use some players and get the Minutemen geared up to head into intersession on an up note.

■ women's basketball

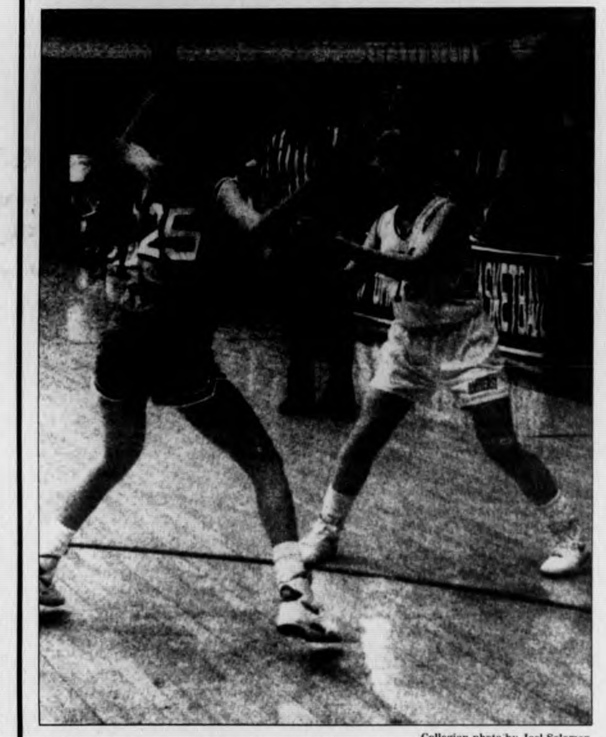
CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

One bright spot out of the loss was the Minutewomen's handling of the press, which has plagued them in the early goings of this year. "We played with more composure, especially the frontline people," Hewelt said.

Because they minimized the full-court pressure, UMass managed to turn the ball over 16 times — not bad compared to the 37 times they forked the ball over to Hartford.

"The better we see and read the pressure, the better we'll play it," Hewelt said.

They're learning.



Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

The women's hoop team dropped to 1-3 Saturday with a 66-60 loss at the University of New Hampshire..

Bears out, Vikings in as leaders in NFC Central

By the Associated Press

The Minnesota Vikings moved within one victory of their first NFC Central Division title since 1980 by beating Atlanta 43-17 yesterday, and the Chicago Bears moved over.

Keith Millard and Tim Newton returned third-quarter fumbles — both forced by Chris Doleman — for touchdowns in Minnesota's victory. The Vikings are 9-5, one game ahead of Green Bay (8-6), which lost 21-3 at home to Kansas City.

The Bears, meanwhile, lost to Detroit in Chicago, 27-17, ending their sputtering attempt at a sixth straight division title and eliminating them from playoff contention at 6-8.

"It's not the end of the world," Bears coach Mike Ditka said. ". . . It's definitely my fault. I think we can put a period after that and quote marks and make a lot of you people happy."

Chiefs 21, Packers 3

Steve DeBerg passed for two touchdowns, and the Chiefs kept alive their playoff hopes for 7-6-1. The Chiefs scored 14 points in the final minute of the first half for a 21-3 lead, then shut the Packers out in the second half.

Kansas City sacked Packers quarterback Don Majkowski four times, intercepted him once and held Green Bay to four second-half first downs.

The victory was the Chiefs' third straight. Green Bay (8-6) had won three in a row.

Lions 27, Bears 17

Rookie Barry Sanders ran for 120 yards and two touchdowns against the NFC's top-rated rushing defense as the Lions formally eliminated Chicago from playoff contention. Detroit (5-9) won its third straight game, matching its longest winning streak since it won the first four games of the 1978 season.

Chicago has lost four in a row for the first time since 1981.

Eagles 20, Cowboys 10

Randall Cunningham passed for 170 yards and a touchdown, keeping the Eagles (10-4) atop the NFC East. NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue was at the game because of allegations the last time these two teams met that Eagles coach Buddy Ryan had offered a bounty for roughing up Cowboys players.

There were five infractions for unnecessary roughness in the game, played two days after Tagliabue dismissed Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson's protest.

The Eagles led 17-3 at halftime and increased their lead to 20-3 on Roger Ruzek's 46-yard field goal 3:11 into the third period.

Saints 22, Bills 19

John Fourcade made his first NFL start, aside from 1987 strike games, and threw two touchdown passes as New Orleans (7-7) used ball control to beat Buffalo (8-6). Fourcade, who had completed just seven passes this season, replaced a benched Bobby Hebert and completed 15 of 27 passes for 302 yards, helping the Saints snap a two-gae losing streak.

Buffalo has lost two in a row in its battle to stay atop the AFC East. An interception of Jim Kelly in the fourth quarter led to the Saints' winning score, a 22-yard field goal by Morten Anderson with less than two minutes left.

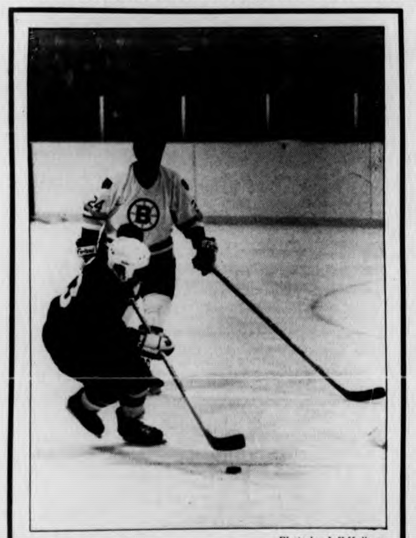


Photo by Jeff Hollano

Former Bruins player and coach Terry O'Reilly was in town yesterday, as the Bruins alumni faced off with a team of Amherst HS alums at Orr Rink to benefit the Green B. Williams Youth Hockey Award.

Snow, Broncos can't slow Giants

By the Associated Press

Dave Meggett tiptoed 57 yards through the snow with a screen pass, and the Giants defense made a 14-0 halftime lead stand up for a 14-7 win over Denver, which already has clinched the AFC West with a 10-4 record.

Meggett's run came midway through the second quarter and gave New York a 14-0 lead. Earlier, Ottis Anderson scored from 3 yards out on New York's first possession. New York's defense then beat back every Broncos thrust but one, which ended with a 32-yard TD pass from John Elway to Michael Young.

Raiders 16, Cardinals 14

Marcus Allen scored on a 1-yard dive with 40 seconds left, keeping the Raiders solidly entrenched in the playoff race with an 8-6 mark. The Cardinals had taken a 14-9 lead on a 2-yard touchdown pass from Gary Hogeboom to Jay Novacek with 5:10 remaining.

The Raiders have won three straight. The loss was the fourth in a row for the Cardinals (5-9).

Colts 23, Browns 17

Mike Prior returned a pass interception 58 yards for a touchdown to give Indianapolis the victory over Cleveland, whose kicker Matt Bahr missed two chances to win the game.

Indianapolis (7-7) got into overtime after Keith Taylor's 77-yard interception return set up the tying touchdown with 1:56 remaining in regulation.

Bahr, who also missed a potential game-winning kick of 39 yards with 25 seconds left in regulation, blew his sudden-death opportunity from 35 yards with 6:05 to go in overtime.

Cleveland (7-6-1) lost its third straight game.

Steelers 13, Jets 0

Pittsburgh's defense, led by linebacker Greg Lloyd, got its first shutout in more than four years.

Tim Worley score on a 35-yard run on the opening drive, then the Steelers turned to defense. Lloyd intercepted one pass and had a sack. The last shutout for Pittsburgh was against Houston on Sept. 22, 1985. The Jets last were blanked in a non-strike game two weeks earlier by the Raiders.

Oilers 20, Buccaneers 17

Warren Moon threw two touchdown passes, and Houston's defense batted down two punts, intercepted a pass, recovered a fumble and held off Tampa Bay's late charge. Houston is 9-5 and on top of the AFC Central, while Tampa Bay fell to 5-9.

Moon threw for touchdowns of 12 yards to Drew Hill and 16 yards to Curtis Duncan for a 20-3 halftime lead.

The key defensive play came with 1:18 to play when safety Bubba McDowell recovered a fumble by Tampa's James Wilder at the Houston 21.

Seahawks 24, Bengals 17

Dave Krieg lobbed a 1-yard touchdown pass to Curt Warner with 3:51 to play for the winning touchdown, dropping Cincinnati to 7-7 and two games back of Houston in the AFC Central.

Krieg's second touchdown pass of the game followed a disputed call. Seattle (6-8) appeared to be stopped when Warner failed to score on third-and-goal from the 1. But the play was blown dead for illegal motion, giving Seattle another chance, even though the referee later decided there was no motion on the play.

Redskins 26, Chargers 21

Mark Rypien threw two touchdown passes, and Chip Lohmiller kicked four field goals as the Redskins (8-6) gave Joe Gibbs his 100th win as an NFL head coach.

The winning score came on a fourth-and-3 play when Rypien lofted a 33-yard touchdown pass to Gary Clark with 7:27 left, giving Washington a 23-21 lead.

AP honors Ryan as best pitcher of the decade

By the Associated Press

Jack Morris got more victories, Roger Clemens got more Cy Young Awards, Orel Hershiser got more money.

But no pitcher in the decade of the '80s got more attention than Nolan Ryan.

From his record fifth no-hitter in 1981 to his record 5,000th strikeout in 1989, Ryan attracted the most fans — and fanned the most batters — in baseball.

And, he did a lot better than most folks figure.

Quickie quiz: Of the pitchers with at least 1,500 innings this decade, which had the best earned run average?

Fernando Valenzuela? He was second. Bob Welch? Good guess, but also wrong. Rick Reuschel, Jerry Reuss and Charlie Hough were contenders, not champions.

Nope, it was ol' Nolan. His 3.14 ERA — albeit helped by all of those years in Houston — was best of all. And he did it while pitching more than 2,000 innings. Of course, he lost something over the years; at age 42, his fastball is now down to around 98 mph.

He won, too. A lot more than all those people who always claimed he was no more than a strikeout pitcher. Ryan was 122-104 for a fine .540 winning percentage as the Associated Press Pitcher of the Decade.

Morris' 162 victories (with a 3.67 ERA) were the most in the decade, but he had the luxury of playing for the team with the second-best winning percentage in the period. He also was in the American League where pitchers get more decisions and in Morris' case, Detroit usually won. Last season, the Tigers dipped well below .500 and so did Morris.

For strikeouts, no one came close to Ryan.

The all-time leader added 2,182 victim in the 1980s. Morris was a distant second with 1,629. There never was a comparison.

For all he accomplished, Ryan never won the Cy Young Award.

Ryan's best year might have been 1981, but the split strike season tainted it, even despite his last no-hitter, Sept. 26, on national television against Los Angeles.

There was 1987, when he led the National League with a 2.76 ERA and 270 strikeouts. That year, he became the first pitcher not to win the Cy Young after leading in both categories, denied because of his misleading 8-16 record.

During the decade, Ryan did not pitch in the World Series and he didn't win any of four playoff starts. He did pitch six scoreless innings in three All-Star games, but those don't count.

Still, when people think of pitchers in the last decade, one picture is clearer than the rest. The image of Nolan Ryan throwing his fastball.

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8 30-3 30,FRI 8 30-2 30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE. 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

HOLIDAY STUDY BREAK Join us for seasonal movies at the Newman Center Monday - Tuesday 7pm. Free!!!

GREENS FROM BRAZIL will speak on economics, politics and ecology tonight 7:30 Campus Center 101, free!

BLOOD DRIVE on Dec 11-12 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Campus Center Concourse sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha.

HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL COMMITTEE - Mondays 2:30pm SU 301 Today we are discussing the Commemoration Service. All are welcome.

ABILITIES UNLIMITED MEETING TONIGHT 7pm learn about rights and concerns of the disabled. Brett TV lounge. All are welcome.

FIRST ANNUAL 1990 Student Film/Video festival sponsored by Club Communication and The Union Video Center applications available in Machmer 417.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS MEETING tonight Dec 11 at 6:30 in CC 801 Bring your credit card apps!!

CHAMPION SWEATSHIRTS. High quality at discount prices assorted color and schools support UMass Volleyball Campus Center Dec 13.

THE BUSH IS OPEN Umass Ski Club goes to Jamaica, Quebec Sugarbush, Breckenridge 430 Student Union 545-3437 or concourse table.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

*KERAMOS HOLIDAY POTTERY SALE Turs &Fri Dec 14 & 15 10-5 at Munson Annex ceramic studio for more info call: 545-2750 ***

$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$
$ THE GOLD EXCHANGE $
$ $will pay immediate cash $
$ for your gold in any form. $
$ 256-0842 $
$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$

VISA OR MASTERCARD! Even if bankrupt or bad credit! We guarantee you a card or double your money back.Call 1-805-682-7555 ext M-1207.

BED AND BREAKFAST
Downtown Amherst
549-5961

AUTO FOR SALE

1982 VW RABBIT 4 SPEED hatchback am-fm ac new exhaust excellent condition $1600 or best offer call 586-9526 evenings.

1987 PONTIAC SUNBIRD GT Automatic, power brakes/steering, air, fog light, am/fm cassette, fwd. Good tires, only 33K, $6,000. 256-0078 Cheryl.

$500 OR BEST OFFER! 1976 Ford Granada in excellent shape needs a home. Great reliable car, nice interior, dependable in all kinds of weather. Perfect for driving around campus and/or for long trips! Call 549-2862. Aren't you tired of having to take the bus everywhere?!

1982 DATSUN 210. good condition, A/C, new muffler, $1200 or BO Call Nader 584-1362.

1979 BUICK SKYHAWK. Great shape: New tires, and muffler. $1000 or B/O call 546-8228.

SEIZED CARS, TRUCKS, 4 WHEELERS, TV's, stereos, furniture, computers by DEA, FBI, IRS, and US Customs. Available your area now. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext C-1675.

ATTENTION - Government Seized Vehicles from $100. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus buyers guide. 1-602-838-8885 ext. a-7627.

CHRISTOPHER VYCE

MERRY CHRISTMAS! To the most loved and cherished employee at the Amherst Deli see you monday night -- Your Secret Santa!

ENTERTAINMENT

PERFORMANCE - A/V, DJ's, Lights, rentals, sales, service 508-922-3277.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED

FOR NEXT SEMESTER! Very low rent, sunny and clean (non-smokers, please) apartment. Call Alise 256-1250, evenings. Thanks.

FINANCE INVESTMENT CLUB

PRESENTS RENOWNED INVESTOR BEN BRANCH PHD to speak on investing trends and forcasting. Terrific opportunity to learn about the market from an insider 7-9pm in SBA 111 tonight. All members must attend this final meeting.

FOR RENT

ONE FEMALE NEEDED to share beautiful Brandywine apt. Great roommates, free heat $180/mo. Call 549-8319 or 549-0561.

2 BEDROOM 560/month includes cable, hot water, heat lease ends in June 253-0930.

1 BEDROOM APT IN COLONIAL VLG start Jan 1 call Gong 256-1658.

STUDIO IN AMHERST, beautiful and quiet, bus rte $350/mo, must see to appreciate 253-7456 after 10:00pm.

TAKE OVER LEASE Southwood 2br new rug, paint, appl. must see 253-7085.

3 BEDROOM APT IN ECHOHILL in Amherst $950/mo. $ util. or separate rooms for $325 each. 2 car garage on bus route Heather 584-9845.

LARGE, SUNNY ROOM IN NORTHAMPTON Available for XMas vacation only. Tel 586-4308.

PUFFTON ONE LARGE BEDROOM for two or one nonsmoker take over lease Jan 1 call after five 549-0224 ask for Elana or Heather.

ROOM ON BUSROUTE IN AMHERST HOUSE, ask for Rick, 256-1588.

NEED A PLACE TO STAY FOR WINTERSESSION? Rooms for rent. Friendly atmosphere. Utilities, electricity, cable included. For more info call: Adam 549-5790, Mike 549-8019.

SINGLE ASK FOR MATT after 7pm 549-0071.

TAKE OVER OUR LEASE 1-1-90 3 bdrm 1 bath lg kit fireplace 5min walk to campus $650mo 549-0011.

ROOMS FOR RENT OVER INTERSESSION very inexpensive! Contact Chrisk or JohnB 549-3831.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for Sunset Ave apts. 165/mo call 549-3826 (across from Patterson).

AMHERST ROOMS TO RENT. Immediately. 401 Main St. 300. Call 253-2528.

AMHERST NICE SUNNY ROOM on bus route call Jeff 256-1588.

ROOM FOR RENT AVAILABLE Dec. 15. Call Jamie or Jen 665-8662.

ONE BEDROOM APT. in Sunderland for rent. Avail Jan 1. Call 665-7353 after 4 p.m. Mon thru Friday. on bus route. Good deal to be made.

3 BEDROOM APARTMENT available starting Jan 1, take over lease, 10 minute walk to campus, on bus route, $950 per month, don't pass up this happening hot spot on Hobart Lane. Call ASAP 549-0446.

FOR SALE

BED AND BOXSPRING - Twin. Excellent condition. 256-0201 leave message.

AMIGA 500 W/COLOR MONITOR and printer $800 527-8408 before 9pm.

CANON AI CAMERA 2 zoom lenses, professional flash, motor drive, equipment bag, tripod, all top quality and condition. Paid over $1100 new, yours for $400. Wayne 549-7999.

1982 TOYOTA FOR SALE : Blue, excellent conditions, must sell! Call 549-4263.

PLANE TIX FOR SALE MPLS to Boston Jan 15 100.00 or BO 253-0844 or 256-6801 lv message - Margi.

14K & STERLING CHAINS 4sale 6-6876 after 7 and 1.

ATOMIC ARX 180 perfect condition selling due to injury $135 call 6-9652.

FURNITURE FOR ONE ROOM$DR table couch lamps rugs Gayle 256-1250.

DIAMOND SOLITAIRE AND MATCHING WEDDING BAND: White gold, one-fifth carat, women's size 6. Call Beth 256-8625 $200 the set.

SKI BOOTS SALOMON SX71 Ladies size 6 $85 or B.O. Aft 7 6-4701.

SKIS FOR SALE. Olin VI 205cm slalom w/Tyrolia 360D bindings. $90 call Howard 549-8487.

KEEP WARM Navyblue CB Skijacket New: Name your price Call Jason 256-8028.

4 track tascam ministudio with microphone, like new. $365. Wayne 545-0881, 585-5930.

KEG COOLER AND CO2 TANK for sale call 253-0930.

REPOSSESSED VA & HUD HOMES available from government fro $1 without credit check. You repair. Also tax delinquent foreclosures call 1-805-682-7555 ext H-2009 for repo list your area.

SAN FRANCISCO $99 Dec 7th and 13th 253-7109 or 253-9875.

---PLANE TIX 4 SALE---

One way Dec 28th Ticket Boston to Minneapolis $120 or BO Call Marshall 6-6853.

FOUND

MULTI COLORED (gray/black) cat with a ripped ear found 12/4 around amherst college. Call 549-2970.

GRADUATING IN MAY?!

STUDENTS GOING ON EXCHANGE next semester would like to make arrangements now for taking over your lease at the end of May for the fall Semester '90. We're interested in a house or house apartment in Amherst area. Please call & leave message 546-6308.

HELP WANTED

MOVERS WANTED Help move furniture in Easthampton on Dec. 16. $7.50/hr, 4 hrs (508) 937-3609.

ATTENTION: EARN MONEY READING BOOKS! $32,000/year income potential Details 1-602-838-8885 ext. BL 7627.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-641-8003 ext 598.

EVEN THE NIGHTS ARE BETTER Telefund! Make $5 to $7/hr raising money for UMass! Call 545-3509.

TELEFUND NEEDS YOU OVER INTERSESSION! Make $5 to $7/hr raising money for UMass!! Call 545-3509.

PAY OFF THOSE HOLIDAY DEBTS over intersession and spring semester! Telefund needs students to raise money for UMass! Make $5 to $7/hr. Call 545-3509.

DESPERATLY NEED TUTORING! For Coins 121 will pay well $$ Call 549-1756.

CROSS COUNTRY SKI INSTRUCTORS wanted by Amherst Leisure Services for late January through Early March experience necessary call 256-4065.

LOCKER MANAGER NEEDED to start spring semester for the Outing Club 10-12 hours per week $4 per hour starting for more info call 545-3131 or 545-2020.

ATTENTION - hiring! Government jobs - your area. $17,840-$69,485. Call 1-602-838-8885. Ext. R7627.

CRUISESHIPS NOW HIRING for spring, Christmas and next summer breaks. Many positions. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext S-1120.

PART TIME EARN EXTRA CHRISTMAS MONEY while helping others. $5.50-$6.50 per hour. Call 586-5243.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-641-8003 ext 598.

STREET ENTERTAINMENT NEEDED FOR CHRISTMAS Season fundraiser! Earn extra money for Christmas! Call 586-5243.

I'LL EDIT YOUR PAPER

I'LL HELP WITH SPELLING, grammar, word choice, sentence structure and length. Let me take your rough draft and make it something special. $2 for pages 1-5, $1.50 for every other page. Papers in the humanities (economics, political science, journalism, etc.) preferred. Four years editing experience. Call David at 253-2455. Leave a message on my machine. Thanks.

LASER LIGHT ROCK CONCERT

THY BOGPC PRESENTS: Saturn V-The Laser Light Rock Concert. Wednesday December 13 at 8 and 10 pm in the Campus Center Auditorium. Tickets $5, available at tickets unlimited -- 317 Student union.

LOST

LOST LIGHT RUBY RING/GOLD Tues Dec 4 library 5th bath.

LOST PASSPORT (233542) if found please call Mehrdad Varzandeh at 549-5189.

MICHAEL

ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME that I wrote you a personal. It only took me the entire semester. I can not wait until X-Mas! Good luck on finals! I have "faith" in you, you'll do great! Love, Jenny.

MOTORCYCLES

80 HONDA CX500 reliable yet cheap 506-4429.

YAMAHA '82 Mint cond. $600 BO. 2 Helmets 253-5018 call eve.

PERSONALS

SHYNO! Buy spandex now! The mines are running low and a shortage is inevitable. Happy birthday. Sorry it's late.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY KRISTIN BRATT! Love always, Lisa (311 M.L.)

HAPPY 18th HOLLACE! It's about time! Jailbait? Not anymore! Best buddies forever! We luv ya! Kimba, Trace, and Nise.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE NEWEST SISTERS OF SIGMA KAPPA: Beth, Kristin, Valerie, Dee, Joanne, Robin, Laura, Melissa, Rachel, Jennifer, Robyn, and Stephanie!! You girls are great!!

CONGRATULATIONS TO Dawn, Maria, Mary, and Julie! We are going to miss you! Good luck in everything you do! The Sisters of Sigma Kappa.

KAREN HAPPY BIRTHDAY to the best roomie! Have a great day just remember - the bible is a crock! Love Jenifa.

HEY SALLY HAPPY BIRTHDAY smile youre finally 21! Love Jones.

LAINSTER, HAPPY B—DAY to the best tomato that we know! Love always Jen and Hollie.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY STEVIE D!! Love your Emerson bumba bunny.

KRPA DEVI: NAMASKAR! Will you marry me today? Tomorrow too? Congratulations on all your special personal achievements, you are quite a woman. Love always, Manojit.

PAM WAITING FOR YOU AT 7pm before Amherst Cinema from 12/7/89 on. Yuji.

SC TO MY CLOSEST FRIEND. Good luck next week! Love you always. HS.

KAREN, YOU HOPPING PHILLY YOU, drink til you toss your cookies! Happy 21st, love, DA KAHUNA.

LOWEST PRICES GUARANTEED we beat the competition open minded and corruptable call Brenden and Jeff Hoe, Hoe, Hoe.

PAM REFRAIN FROM HEARSAYS. No more worries. Love, Yuji.

KAREN IN CASHIN — Christmas comes but once a year and Cashin dorm is in high gear. Beginning a short time from now, Secret Santa you'll see, I vow.

JON FOX — Happy belated! Hey, you're a birthday soulmate - celebrate the big day! Love supportive commuter (ask Elise)

KAREN KLAIBER Happy 21st birthday! Dude -- the bars will never be the same. Ha ha ha ha ha. Love from, Ror.

RIDE WANTED

NYC ANYTIME SOON. Piet 586-4429.

COULD YOU GIVE ME A RIDE TO LONG ISLAND on December 19 or 20? Please call Robin 6-1193. Will pay for gas.

RIDERS WANTED TO ST. PAUL MINN VIA CHICAGO on December 21 call Jeff 546-4098.

HELP! Ride needed anywhere upstate NY especially Syracuse, Ithaca(Fri 12/8 Please call 6-1130 leave message.

RIDE NEEDED TO NEW LONDON CT on 12-8 or 12-9. Call Eric 253-9408.

TO ST. PAUL MINN Via Chicago on Dec 21 Call Jeff 546-4098.

ROOM FOR RENT

NICE ROOM AVAILABLE starting Jan 1 or Feb 1. In sunny house near town and campus. Please call evenings Marie 549-6202.

ROOMMATES NEEDED

ONE FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED for single room in Townehouse the apt is fully furnished w/cable call anytime 549-4152.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED, furnished, on bus route, $140 month with utilities call 256-8475.

FEMALE NONSMOKING ROOMAMTE NEEDED, on bus route, $181.25. Call A.S.A.P. 253-2211.

HELP OUR ROOMMATE'S LEAVING and so's her share of the rent! Share 1 rm in a 2 bdrm, 2 bath luxury style apt starting Jan 1 non smoking and considerate pls call 253-5314 lv message on busline 200 mo inclusive in Amherst.

FEMALE SMOKER TO FILL half of large double. Big farm house Sunderland $220 util incl. 665-8472.

2 SINGLES CLOSE TO CAMPUS for intersession and spring. $220 a month and utilities. Call Dan 549-0386.

WANTED ONE FEMALE TO SHARE large doub le in Puffton start Jan 1 $144 inc ht and hw. Call 549-9963.

LOOKING FOR A NONSMOKER to share bedroom in condo 2 miles from campus. Bus stops at door 175 3 fun roommates. 253-2582 leave message.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED, FURNISHED, ON BUS ROUTE, $140/month including utilities call 256-8475.

ONE OR TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES WANTED FOR Southwood Townehouse. new rugs, nice place on bus route. Start Jan 1 call 253-2566 Anytime Leave message.

2 ROOMMATES NEEDED Townehouse apts. Male or female starting Jan/Feb Call 549-3870.

OPEN-MINDED FEMALE wanted to share big cozy 2 bedroom apartment with 2 males and 1 female. 10 minute ride from campus On bus route. $150 $ utils: call 665-8966.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED TO SHARE ROOM in Southwood Apt. Starting Jan 1 $165 month. Please call 253-9918 leave message.

2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for lg room in apt in town 200 549-1677.

MALE WANTED FOR ONE BEDROOM in two bedroom apt. Bus route $250 Lee 545-3537 665-7373.

FEMALE NONSMOKER ROOMMATE ¢to share bedroom, avail Jan. 1 200 $ util Puffton 549-7464.

LOOKING FOR 3-4 FEMALES to take over lease January 549-1662.

ONE FEMALE ROOMMATE FOR spring semester to share Mill Valley Estate Apt.
*On bus route
*cheap
*new apt.
*nice roommates
Call Now! 256-6740.

ROOM AVAILABLE IN NEW CONDO starting Jan. 1. Female grad student preferred. 253-3107 or 545-4675.

2 SINGLES CLOSE TO CAMPUS for intersession and spri ng. $220 a month $ utilities. Call Dan 549-0386.

FEMLAE TO SHARE SPACIOUS AND CHEAP room next semester ($115/month$). Non-smokers please call Alise, evenings. Please leave your number and I'll call you back! Thanks.

WANTED FEMALE NONSMOKING ROOMMATE for Southwood Apts rent $181.25. Call 253-2211.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Puffton Village one female non-smoker to share double room starting Jan 1 $150 per month inc. heat and water call 549-0768.

WANTED - 1 fun female to share 1$ rm in a 2 bedroom 2 bath luxury style apt on bus line in Amherst starting Jan 1. Must be non smoker please call 253-5314 lv ms, 200 mo inclusive.

1 FEMALE NEEDED to share beautiful Brandywine apt great roommates, free heat - $180/mo. Call 549-8319 or 549-0561.

TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES wanted for So. Nd townehouse new rugs nice place on bus route start Jan 1 call 253-2566 anytime leave message.

LARGE BEDROOM AVAILABLE IN NEW 3 BEDROOM HOUSE. Just 8 miles to UMass in beautiful town of Montague. $230/month plus utilities. Large yard, garage...what a deal! Call Kateri or Bethann after 5:00 at 367-2203.

NONSMOKING FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED for two bedroom apartment. Call 253-2341.

NEEDED: 2 NON-SMOKING PERSONS to share a room in Puffton 3 bedroom apt $150 each heat included. Call 549-4736 or 546-6928.

1 or 2 PEOPLE WANTED TO SHARE a two bedroom apt in Townhouse. Call Matt at 549-5805, leave message.

FEMALE WANTED TO SHARE huge room in beautiful S. Amherst home - skylights 215mo Melissa 256-0250.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for Sunset Avenue Apts. 165/mo Call 549-3826 (across from Patterson).

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED, furnished, on bus route, $140/month inclouding utilities call 256-8475.

LOOKING FOR A NONSMOKER to share bedroom in Condo 2 miles from campus, bus stops at door 175 3 fun roommates. 253-2582 leave message.

TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES WANTED for So ND Townehouse new rugs nice place on bus route start Jan 1 call 253-2566 anytime leave message.

LARGE BEDROOM AVAILABLE in New 3 bedroom house. Just 8 miles to UMass in beautiful town of Montague. $230/month plus utilities. Large yard, garage...what a deal! Call Kateri or Bethann after 5:00 at 367-2203.

SERVICES

HAVE YOU BEEN RIPPED-OFF by a retailer? Contact the Legal Services Center regarding your rights as a consumer. 922 Campus Center 545-1995.

PIONEER RESUME. Open everyday. Professional, fast, inexpensive. 4 year disk storage. 665-8873.

SPRING BREAK 90's

COLD?? Don't get left out in the cold, order spring break trips now and save $$$ or even better, you can charge your tripp on a major credit card!! For fun in the sun choose Bahamas or Cancun. Great prices! Great fun. Call Lisa or Donna now. 549-8228.

TO SUBLET

1 BDRM APT IN CLIFFSIDE. Available Jan or Feb 1. Great for 2 people. $235 each includes everything even cable! Please call or leave message 665-2984.

TOY FOR TOTS

SGT. LEE FORESTER, USMCR out of Westover AFB wishes to thank the Army and Air force ROTC for their help with this years toys for tots campaign on cmapus and asks that all students help to contribute so that the less fortunate children in our community will have a brighter holiday.

TRAVEL

WE BEAT THE COMPETITION BY $30-70 on trips to Jamaica and Montego Bay. Great deals also on Bahamas and Nassau. Save $25 if booked before 1-15-90. Michelle 546-7653.

BRADLEY AIRPORT SHUTTLE Christmas special!! $15 fare call noew limited seating. Valley Transporter 256-8484.

NASSAU SPRING BREAK '90 as low as $339 Colpitts world Travel Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235.

LOWEST PRICES GUARANTEED Cancun, Bahamas, Bermuda, Jamaica spring break '90 Call beth or Sue 253-2321.

UNDER 21? NO PROBLEM! Spring Break in Cancun, Nassau, Jamaica! Only $75 deposit by Dec 12th. (Daytona packages too!) Starting from $248. Karen 256-4659.

SPRING BREAK 90' Jamaica, Acapulco, Cancun, Daytona...experienced sales rep, dependable travel service. $25 off before Jan 1 Mary & Karen 549-8166.

CANCUN FOR SPRING BREAK 8 days 7 night of parties people sun and no drinking age. Starting at $359 Call Chris or Amy 549-0532.

TYPING

DON'T PANIC. Let me type your paper. No Typing As Usual. 548-9436.

PAPERS TYPED GAYLE 256-1250.

WORD PROCESSING, laser printing-dissertation, theses, reports call Rosemary 259-1628, after Dec 13th 259-1786.

RESUMES LASERPRINTED OVERNIGHT. Experienced, friendly, helpful. Dirt cheap resumes. Lisa 665-2831.

CASES, PAPERS, THESES, ON-CAMPUS, affordable, grammar reviewed, dependable, experienced 584-7924, Nancy.

RESUMES AND PAPERS typed professionally: laserprinting, type setting , carolyn ant wordsmith 253-4564.

TYPING, TAPE TRANSCRIPTION. Fast, accurate. 253-WORD.

WANTED

UMASS ABSOLUTE PARTY XL call 6-5818 or Co-Ed Naked ski/crew shirts.

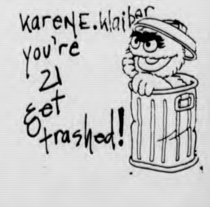
WANTED TO RENT

FEMALE NONSMOKER LOOKING to rent single room in Amherst starting Jan 1 leave message 253-5496.

ROOM FOR WINTER SESSION NEEDED call Jeff 546-7764 non smoker.

LOOKING FOR 1-2 BEDROOM for next spring - to rent or take over lease. Please leave message for Jonathan at 549-6605.

ROOMS/HOUSING NEEDED for January. Contact SBMC 256-8615 9am-5pm.



SPORTS

Huskies outgun young Minutemen, 79-73

Rebounding costly down the stretch for UM

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — Yep, that measles epidemic at Northeastern University was supposed to be over. But that couldn't prevent anyone from the University of Massachusetts from leaving Saturday without a deep, sick feeling in the gut.

This was a Maalox special almost from the get-go, the third of the Minutemen's four games to be decided in the final minute. But youth and inexperienced prevailed, and UMass fumbled away its chances and fell to the Huskies, 79-73 at Matthews Arena.

Marathon Oil, a traveling exhibition squad, visits Curry Hicks Cage tonight at 7:30. UMass will use this game to iron out some kinks, cure some ills and just to generally see what this team is made of. No pressures of winning.

But Saturday, the pressure seemed to get to the Minutemen, who were trying to win their third straight game after a season-opening loss.

"I think in the second half we were just playing to win on the road," said UMass coach John Calipari.

By doing that, the Minutemen deserted their game plan, and the Huskies took it to them.

How did thee lose this one? Let us count the ways.

Let it be said here that the immediate area of the basket saw more traffic in 40 minutes than Copley Square will see this whole holiday season. Anything Northeastern wanted to do, it did. As long as it was inside.

Pick your favorite cliche. They played like Picasso. Their best player was Sherman Williams. Whatever.

Bottom line — Northeastern owned the paint.

"We got beat on offensive rebounds, and the last four minutes we let guys penetrate the gaps," Calipari said. "That killed us. They beat us on the backboard."

Is is concrete, conclusive evidence you want? OK. Northeastern rips down 47 bounds, to just 31 for the Minutemen.

Case closed.

And of those 47, no one was more critical to the outcome than a Marcellus Anderson tip-in of a missed free throw with 38 seconds left. A killer, indeed.

UMass had just frittered one of several opportunities to do something in the final minute, as junior center John Tate missed a pair of free throws with 47 seconds left that would have tied it. NU ripped down the bound and point guard George Robinson was fouled and forced to the line.

Robinson missed the 1-and-1 chance, but Anderson stepped around freshman forward Tommy Pace for the tip-in, boosting NU to a 75-71 edge.

Sophomore guard Jim McCoy (16 points) sliced through the lane for a final bucket with 25 ticks left, but the Huskies made good on their remaining free throw chances, dashing any comeback hopes the visitors may have had.

"I'm disappointed, that was a game we could have won," Calipari said. "We don't get the chance to win many road games, and that was one."

UMass led by as much as seven in the second half, as a pair of McCoy free throws made it 56-49 with 12:06 left. The Minutemen played well in the middle of each half, but Northeastern was dominany at the beginning and the end of each session.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14

Northeastern, 79-73

Massachusetts (73): Tony Barbee 9-13 0-0 22; Harper Williams 6-12 4-4 16; John Tate 4-6 1-4 9; Cary Herer 1-7 0-0 2; Jim McCoy 7-20 2-4 16; Chris Bailey 1-1 0-0 2; Rafer Giles 2-8 1-2 6; Tom Pace 0-3 0-0 0; Sean Nelen 0-0 0-0 0. Totals: 30-70 8-14 73.

Northeastern (79): Steve Carney 8-10 3-4 19; Marcellus Anderson 7-8 1-3 15; Barry Abercrombie 3-6 3-4 9; George Yuille 4-9 6-8 14; George Robinson 1-5 2-3 4; Dexter Jenkins 2-9 0-0 4; Lamont Hough 2-8 2-2 6; Maurice Brighthaupt 3-5 0-0 6; Anthony McBride 1-4 0-0 2; Terence Alexander 0-1 0-0 0. Totals: 31-65 17-24 79.

3-point goals: Massachusetts 5-14 (Barbee 4-7, Giles 1-5, Herer 0-2); Northeastern 0-8 (Hough 0-3, Yuille 0-2, Robinson 0-1, Jenkins 0-1, McBride 0-1).

Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

Despite Tony Barbee's game-high 22 points, the Minutemen fell to Northeastern, 79-73 Saturday in Boston.

Foul line woes cost Minutewomen, 66-60

By RICK SETO
Collegian Staff

Believe or not, sometimes teams have to learn how to win ball games.

The University of Massachusetts women's basketball team is such a team.

The Minutewomen will have to learn that shooting 12-for-29 from the free throw line will not win many ball games. It certainly didn't produce a win against the University of New Hampshire Saturday in a 66-60 loss.

"I think it was a very winnable game," UMass coach Kathy Hewelt said. "It just comes down to doing the little things consistently."

Like hitting free throws.

The Wildcats came out and did their job, hitting 13-for-18 from the line to help overcome a 32-25 UMass lead at halftime. The Minutewomen worked hard to regain the lead, but their poor shooting from the charity stripe hampered any comeback efforts.

"We went to the line late in the game and missed many front ends of one-and-ones," Hewelt said. "If we hit those free throws, it's a different line."

Among the culprits was center Helen Freeman. On her way to scoring a team-high 17 points, Freeman actually shot better from the field (6-for-10) than from the line (5-for-14).

How are the Minutewomen going to solve their foul shooting woes?

"It's going to have to be a mental adjustment," Hewelt said. "They haven't moved the line anywhere from where it is in practice, and we have to deal with the pressures of the game."

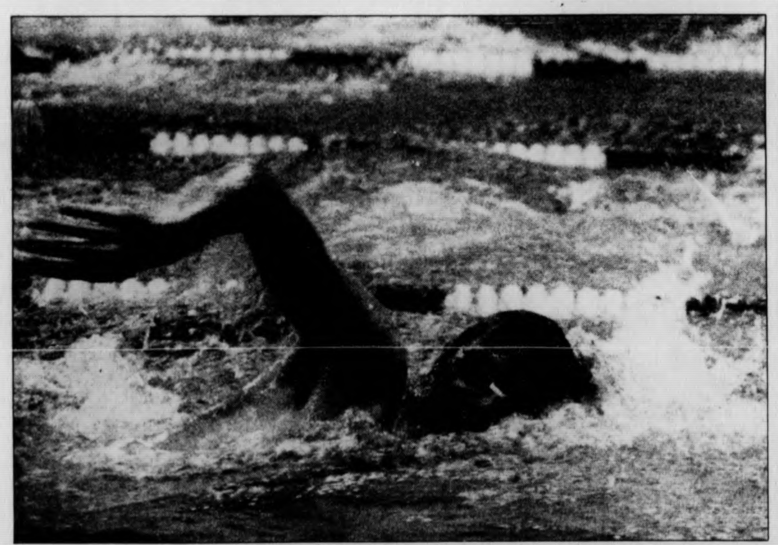
Compounding the UMass foul shooting problem is the number of minutes that the starting five has had to play. When three of your starters play 38 of the 40 minutes and the other two played 35 and 27 minutes apiece, then your team is going to be huffing and puffing a bit in the second half.

The bench has been handled by Hewelt delicately, since they are such a young group consisting mainly of freshmen. They have been providing defensive help, but offensively they are nowhere to be found.

"We're looking for stability from them," Hewelt said "They're doing well, but it's going to take time for them to mature. The young kids are starting to get more time and it takes a while to react to Division I play and pressure defenses."

During the first half, when the starters were fresh, the Minutewomen held two- and four-point leads during the seesaw-like game. UMass pulled away with a Michele Pytko (16 points) three-pointer near the end, and established a 32-25 lead before halftime.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14



Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

The men's swimming team remained unbeaten with a solid 146-97 win over Southern Connecticut Saturday in New Haven, Conn. Read tomorrow's Collegian for results.

New Hampshire, 66-60

Massachusetts (60): Patty Robak 2-10 0-0 4; Keyburn McCusker 7-14 1-3 15; Michele Pytko 5-9 5-6 16; Sue Serafini 3-6 0-0 7; Helen Freeman 6-10 5-14 17; Gloria Nevarez 0-0 1-2 1; Kim Kristofik 0-0 0-0 0; Jennyfer Moran 0-0 0-0 0. Totals: 23-49 12-29 60.

New Hampshire (66): Julie Donlan 4-8 4-7 12; Deb Dorsch 8-14 2-3 18; Laura Seiden 3-8 4-6 10; Shelley Fitz 3-13 0-1 6; Sue Ryan 2-4 2-2 6; Michelle Bresseau 1-3 0-2 2; Karyn McCoy 3-4 2-2 8; Jen Casey 0-3 2-2 2; Rita McCarroll 1-2 0-0 2; Karri Reynolds 0-1 0-0 0. Totals: 25-62 16-25 66.

3-point goals: Massachusetts 2-8 (Robak 0-3, Pytko 1-2, Serafini 1-3); New Hampshire 0-4 (Donlan 0-2, Dorsch 0-1, Reynolds 0-1).

TUESDAY

State high court rules lie detector tests inadmissible in criminal trials. Page 3.

UMass professor battles evil with words, as Troy gathers its poetry. Page 15.

A look at the recent Ohio 7 sedition trial in Springfield. Read all about it in Focus.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY TUESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1989

COLLEGIAN

VOLUME CXXIII LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 67

Collegian photo by John Woo

HAPPY HOLIDAYS TO ALL — A Christmas tree lights up the Connecticut River under the light of the moon recently.

Lawmakers plan to close state deficit

From the Associated Press

BOSTON — The Massachusetts Senate took up action yesterday on a $349 million savings and spending reduction package designed to partially close the $825 million gap in the state budget. The proposal includes $105 million for specific state agencies and programs and $132 million in new non-tax revenues. It would save $16.5 million through overhauls in Medicaid and group insurance for state employees.

Sen. President William Bulger, D-Boston, indicated debate would run late into the night, and other Senate officials said the bill could receive final action before the chamber recessed.

The Republican party promised to offer an additional $250 million in cuts to avoid further taxes, but senators from the minority party did not make their plan public prior to debate.

Early in the day, Sen. David Locke, the minority leader from Sherborn, urged Bulger to pass over all other items on the Senate calendar and deal only with the budget reform bill.

Bulger responded with a characteristic caustic wit.

"This matter will be before the Senate before the six o'clock news and in plenty of time for the minority leader to go outside in the corridor and do his posturing (for the camera) and come back in," Bulger said.

The Senate voted 34-2 to suspend its rules and take up the matter out-of-order shortly after 5 p.m.

The cost saving measure contained several controversial measures, many of which addressed long-term spending on the state's "budget busters" five mandated

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4

Out-of-state tuition may not go up as much as expected

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

Although out-of-state tuition for students at the University of Massachusetts will definitely be raised next semester, it may not be raised as much as the projected $3,000, said Chancellor Joseph Duffey in a telephone interview last night.

Duffey said he did not want to make estimates about the final tuition hike until the Board of Regents announces its decision sometime today.

He said he has spent the last several days speaking to legislators in the Statehouse about the proposed increase.

"I feel very strongly about [a tuition hike]," he said. "It's a mistake to look at this as a way to get major revenue."

However, he said the response has not been as positive as he would have liked.

"I think [the legislators] begin to understand the long-term effect to out-of-state students, but not as many as I had hoped," he said.

The UMass Out-of-State Student Coalition has done some lobbying of its own, with a petition sent out last week to Gov. Dukakis, House Speaker George Keverian, Senate President William Bulger, Chairman of the Board of Regents Paul Tsongas,

CONTINUED ON PAGE 6

'Summit' proposed to help deficit

BOSTON (AP) - Former U.S. Sen. Paul E. Tsongas, Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn and several of his counterparts have come up with proposals that might help restore some credibility to Massachusetts government's battles to end and its fiscal crisis.

Tsongas and Flynn are advocating an 'economic summit" of business, political, academic and other leaders to thrash out a solution to the deficit the Dukakis administration estimates at more than $800 million.

Several mayors, including Mary Hurley of Springfield, have advocated bringing in an outside accounting firm to review the state's books and examine tax collection projections.

The idea, while new to Massachusetts, already is being used in another New England state hit with financial difficulties, albeit at a smaller scale than Bay State.

In Maine, where Republican John McKernen is governor but Democrats control the Legislature, the accounting firm of Peat Marwick is scheduled to examine that state's books and to try to provide an accurate fix on tax collections.

The idea was proposed by Democratic legislative leaders, but was endorsed by McKernan, who hired the firm recommended by the Democrats. Tsgonas-Flynn initially proposed the idea to Dukakis earlier in the week in a private meeting also attended by business and labor leaders.

Mindy S. Lubber, Dukakis' chief spokeswoman, has said the governor has no problems with either the summit or the idea of having independent accountants go over the state's books.

The ideas are not mutually exclusive.

The accounting firm would deal primarily with the accuracy of the state's reports of spending and possibly would also examine the validity of tax collection projections.

The summit would go further, developing possible solutions, something a firm of certified public accountants probably would avoid because it would be a policy, rather than a bookkeeping question.

Hurley, who advocated having independent accountants go over the books, said she was speaking from personal experience in dealing with budget problems in Springfield.

"What I did in my community was to open up the doors and open up the books," she said.

Hurley said the public responded once they were sure of where the money was going.

"People are upset when money is taken from them and they don't know where it goes," she said.

The possiblity of a quick fix to a fiscal crisis became less likely Dec. 1 when House Speaker George Keverian, D-Everett, was forced to shelve a $1.2 billion tax bill after representatives rejected one of its major parts, a captial gains tax increase.

Lawmakers said they were flooded with calls, some of them hostile, from citizens adamantly opposed to any tax increase.

Part of the reason, legislators say, is a perception by the public that state government is still marbled with fat political hacks, programs that are too expensive or don't work and duplicated services.

There also are doubts about the size of the deficit itself.

AP photo

IRON CURTAIN OPENED (AGAIN) — A member of the Czechoslovak border patrol cuts the barbed wire fence yesterday at the Berg crossing near Bratislava.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN
New England's largest college daily newspaper. Daily circulation: 21,000. Founded in 1870. Published every weekday during the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts. 113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA. 01003. For more information call (413) 545-3500.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

EDITOR IN CHIEF — DAVID R. MARK
MANAGING EDITOR — COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL EDITOR — MEREDITH O'BRIEN
BUSINESS MANAGER — ROBERT J. BIKASH
PRODUCTION MANAGER — TERRY STARMER

BOARD OF EDITORS

MANAGING — COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL — MEREDITH O'BRIEN
NEWS — SARAH DEMASTER, NATHAN KRYSTALL
SPORTS — JIM CLARK, GEORGE AUSTIN
ARTS — AL KAUFMAN, W.J. GEORGIADES
PHOTOGRAPHY — DONDI AHEARN
WOMEN'S ISSUES — DANIELLE BIONDA, KATERI WALSH
MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS — SCOTT C. HILL

BUSINESS BOARD

MANAGER — ROBERT J. BIKASH
ADVERTISING — JENNIFER RONAN
FINANCE — MARTINA RIOS
CIRCULATION — CHRIS BAKER
SUBSCRIPTIONS — JOYA FARETRA

GRAPHICS BOARD

MANAGER — TERRY STARMER
AD MANAGER — RORY EVANS
SUPERVISORS — MIKE WESTER, FLORENCIO TERRA, CHRISTINE ASHE, TRICIA HANLEY

SUPPORT STAFF

BUSINESS — BRIAN HARRINGTON, MAUREEN MAJEROWSKI, LORI BLACK
GRAPHICS — ANDREA BELANGER

LATE NIGHT AT THE COLLEGIAN
TOP 10 REASONS
TO WORK AT THE COLLEGIAN

YANA DLUGY
LISA SHAPIRO
FLORENCIO TERRA
JOHN WOO
TRICIA HANLEY
PETER LEON
BRYAN LONG
MIRIAM PIERCE
KELLY CRONIN
rory EVANS

Tricia Hanley
mlm
Kelly Cronin

HAPPY HOLIDAYS FROM THE MONDAY NIGHT CREW

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

For Your Information is a calendar listing of local announcements and upcoming events published daily by the Collegian as a public services. All submissions must be typed. We reserve the right to edit for space.

Information for women's Forum and the Lesbian, Bisexual, and Gay forum which runs in this space on Tuesdays and Thursdays, respectively, must be submitted to the news desk at least one full day beforehand.

Tuesday,DECEMBER 12 1989

Blood Drive — A blood Drive sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha will be held today from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Campus Center.us Center Concourse.

Auditions — The UMass Dept. of Theater presents The Imaginary Invalid by Moliere. Audition Dates: Today, 7-11 p.m. at FAC 204, Wednesday, Dec. 13 8:30-11 p.m. at FAC 204.

Callbacks: Thursday, Dec. 14 8:30-11 p.m. at FAC 204. There are parts for 5 women (one 9 to 16 year old), and 8 men.

Scripts are available on a 2 hour sign-out basis from the Theater Department Office, Room 112 FAC. Audition sign-up sheets are posted on Callboard outside the office. Audition sign-ups taken by phone, 545-3490. Performances : March 1-3, 7-10. For further information, contact the Dept. of Theater, 545-3490. All Five College students and community members encouraged to audition.

Writing On The Wall — Amnesty International is presenting The Writing On The Wall. Come and cover the wall with thoughts, quotes, and pictures expressing your feelings toward human rights. It will be in the Campus Center concourse all day.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1989

Joe Gorin — Human Rights and Labor Activist, Joe Gorin, speaking on Guatemala: Low Intensity War, Low Intensity Democracy at 7:30 p.m. in Campus Center, room 163. Gorin recently returned from two years working with the Guatemalan Popular Movement. The talk is free and is sponsored by Faculty and Staff for Peace in Central America (FSPCA). For more information, call 256-4685.

Open House — Strung out from Studying? Then take a break at the Women's Studies End of Semester Open House from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Women's Studies Office in 208 Bartlett Hall. Stop by for bagels, tea, and a chat on the last day of classes. Snack and conversation. Food and company. All are welcome.

Women's Studies — Thursday, December 14, 1989 from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Women's Studies Office, 208 Bartlett

Dance — Contradance with "Applejack" at the Munson Library in South Amherst on Saturday December 16. The dance starts at 8:30 and all are welcome, no experience is necessary. Please bring a second pair of clean soft soled shoes.

Alzheimer's Support Group — There will be a meeting of an ongoing Alzheimer's support Group December 12, 1989 at 7 p.m. in the Gallery of the Amherst Senior Citizens's Center at the Bang's Center, Boltwood Walk, Amherst. For more information please contact Kathy Ramsey at Homemaker's Services of Hampshire County (413) 586-3886.

Wintersession Parking — Wintersession parking regulations will be in effect from December 23, 1989 to January 26, 1990. Any valid University of Massachusetts decal will be honorewd in the following lots: E,22,25,26,33,44,49 and 50. A limited number of spaces for other lots will be sold at the Campus Parking Office, Lot 31 Trailer Complex starting Wednesday, December 20, 1989 for a monthly fee. Call the Parking Office at 545-0065 or stop in the Parking Office for further details.

Training For Nature Walk Leaders — Arcadia Nature Center and Wildlife Sanctuary will hold a three week class in January to train volunteers to lead nature walks for elementary school children. The course will be held Thursdays, January 11,18,25 from 9 a.m. to noon at Arcadia. Those interested should call the school program coordinator at Arcadia at 584-3009 to pre-register.

Speaker on Guatemala — Joe Gorin, Human Rights and Labor Activist, speaking on Guatemala: Low Intensity War, Low Intensity Democracy. Thurs. Dec.14th, 7:30 p.m., UMass Campus Center, Rm. 163. Mr. Gorin recently returned from two years working with the Guatemalan Popular Movement. Free talk sponsored by Faculty and Staff for Peace in Central America(FSPCA) Information: 256-4685 Weekdays.

ALL STAFF
GRAPHICS—BUSINESS—NEWSROOM
THE SEMESTERLY STAFF PHOTO
WILL BE TAKEN
WEDNESDAY AT 4 p.m.
Be there or be the angle of an arc
(and if you don't show up you'll hurt Dondi's feelings!!!)

To assure our consistent high level of quality
in processing your photos, we are the only on-premises lab in the area using
KODAK PAPER
1 Hr. Color Service Available
Same Day Service
FILM IN BY 10:00 A.M. / PRINTS OUT BY 4:00 P.M.
1-HOUR SERVICE ALSO AVAILABLE
The Foto Factory
257 TRIANGLE STREET IN AMHERST
549-6490

HAPPY HOLIDAYS
FROM THE ENTIRE STAFF OF THE
COLLEGIAN

RÉSUMÉS
CopyCat Print Shop
• Great Service • Great Prices
228 Triangle St./Amherst 549-3840

LOCAL

UM allocates money for fundraising effort

From the Associated Press

Faced with shrinking state dollars, University of Massachusetts officials have launched a concerted fundraising campaign to boost their tiny endowment.

"I think private fund raising will become more and more important to the university, particularly as we see successes from our current development effort," said Gordon N. Oakes, chairman of the UMass board of trustees.

The trustees, like most of their counterparts at public universities in the Northeast, had traditionally left fundraising to the region's private colleges. But this year as public funds have dwindled, UMass officials have allocated $750,000 to its development campaigns.

"Five years ago, the need wasn't quite as apparent as it is today," said trustee William Bowman.

"In the Midwest this is done all the time. You just expect to give to the University of Wisconsin or wherever you went to school," Bowman said. "Here you're expected to give to private institutions only."

UMass, with an endowment of $22 million, placed 298th this year among the 315 colleges and universities ranked by endowment by the Chronicle of Higher Education.

"Our alumni aren't any less loyal than other schools and certainly do well in the world, but they haven't been acculturated to giving in the same way as private school graduates," said Ruth Green, director of the university's office of alumni affairs.

Some other public universities have had considerable success despite their late entrance into the field. Over the past six years Pennsylvania State University, which had a $9.2 million endowment, or $137 for each of its 70,000 students, has been able to boost its endowment to $55.2 million, or $785 per student.

Like UMass, Penn State had traditionally stayed away from private fundraising, according to Roger Williams, assistant vice president for university relations.

The bulk of Penn State's money has been used to finance faculty chairs, which have risen from 19 to 107, Williams said. But he warned the university's success did not come cheap. Penn State's fundraising budget is $7.2 million.

UMass President David Knapp conceeded UMass is "on the horns of a dilemma" because state cutbacks have forced it to curtail its fundraising as well as other operations.

At the Amherst campus, the alumni office has lost two of its four staffers, funds for telephone solicitation have been reduced and newsletters will be mailed to about 25,000 alumni, instead of 80,000.

"Fundraising succeeds in direct proportion to the number of people you have to make calls," said John Raimo, the university's director of development.

Collegian photo by John Woo

NICE BELT – A fashionable and friendly Newswatch TV man eyes a Collegian photographer.

"Greens" raise concerns about the enviroment

By JULIE LIVINGSTONE
Collegian Staff

"Neither left nor right, but in front."

This is the motto of the German organization of Greens, a world-wide political party that attempts to bring environmental abuses into the public's eye and force people to deal with these abuses.

Two founding members from the Greens party in Brazil discussed political and environmental issues facing that country with a group of 20 people last night in the Campus Center.

"We seek answers to social questions within the ecological," said Domingos Fernandes, a founding member of the Brazilian party of Greens, who spoke through a translator, Maria Thereza Alves, also a founding member of the party.

The reason for the duo's visit to the United States is to exchange ideas of the Third World and the so-called first world, Fernandes said.

"In Brazil, Greens began in the 1970's as a people's response to grandiose schemes for political power," Fernandes said.

He said they were not thought of as a military threat in the beginning because they were not officially recognized, and they were able to thrive.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

Bicycle rescue ends in arrests

By LISA SHAPIRO
Collegian Staff

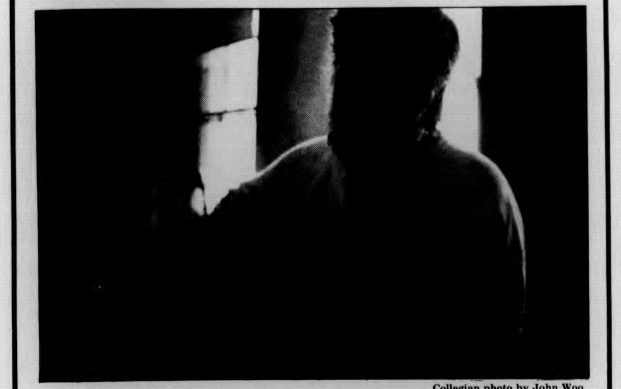
Eric C. Cedargren, 18, and Carrie L. Tooker, 18, both of McNamara Residence Hall, were arrested Thursday for wilful and malicious damage over $250 after police responded to a report of two people cutting down a tree in order to retrieve a bicycle, police said.

In other police reports:

ARRESTS

- Police arrested David I. Soble, 18, Wheeler Residence Hall for operating under the influence after police investigated a report of a vehicle hitting a pole in Lot 49.
- Alex Rodberg, 20, of Sunderland, was arrested Friday on a default warrant for traffic offenses.
- Brian M. McCarthy, 22, Huntington, NY, was arrested Sunday for operating under the influence after he was stopped for speeding on Commonwealth Ave.
- Edward Hynds,18, of Newton, was arrested Sunday for operating under the influence after receiving a wrong way violation.
- Sean P. Pierce, 22, of Amherst, was arrested Sunday for operating under the influence after receiving a marked lane violation.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5



Collegian photo by John Woo

IS IT TUNED? – Tim Tunstall, class of '78 graduate, now a designer of golf clubs, works on his guitar chops at the Fretted Instrument workshop.

Court says no to lie-detector test

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Supreme Court ruled yesterday that lie-detector test results cannot be admitted in criminal trials, even when requested by defendants to corroborate their testimony.

The 4-1 decision, with Chief Justice Paul Liacos dissenting, came in the case of two men accused in Middlesex Superior Court of raping a child.

The ruling overturn's a state Supreme Court decision that allowed the introduction of lie-detector results in limited circumstances when a defendant requested the admission of the results.

Under the old rule, the lie-detector results were admissible "only if the defendant testifies and then only for corroboration or impeachment," the court said.

But in yesterday's ruling, the court, in a decision written by Justice Francis P. O'Connor, ruled out even that limited admission of polygraph results.

"Persuaded both by the failure of the basic theory of polygraph to have gained general acceptance among physiological

CONTINUED ON PAGE 6

Dukakis hopeful of greater weapons control nationwide

BOSTON (AP) — A ban on assault weapons in Boston will not solve the city's drug and gang problems, but it marks an important step in stemming violence, Police Commissioner Francis Roache says.

"It's going to be a long and painful process until we fully come to the realization that we're the most violent society in the world and we have an attitude problem," Roache said. "So we begin like this, one city changing laws and changing attitudes."

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis signed the law Saturday, saying he'd like to see greater gun control across the nation.

"Semi-automatic assault-style weapons are designed for one purpose and one purpose only," Dukakis said. "They are designed to kill other human beings as fast as possible."

The ban prohibits the sale of six specific military-style weapons and requires anyone who already legally owns one to register with the police commissioner.

The new law also gives the commissioner power to place any firearm on the list of proscribed weapons for 30 days while a board, provided for in the legislation, decides whether to add the gun to the list.

"This is a message to drug dealers and gangs bent on violence that we simply will not tolerate these weapons or the violence or destruction that they bring," the governor said.

The measure began as a home-rule petition passed in the spring by the Boston City Council. It received required approval from the governor after lengthy debate in the Legislature.

Michael Yacino, president of the Gun Owners Action League, described it as the toughest firearms regulation in the state, but maintains it will do nothing to stop the gang-related violence it targets.

Gang and druge-related slayings are rarely committed by licensed gun owners, Yacino argued, and more homicides are committed with handguns than assault weapons.

Proponents, however, said Boston police have in the last 18 months confiscated about 35 assault rifles, which can be devastating in the hands of gang members.

"This is the most meaningful gun legislation to pass in the last decade because no other (restrictive gun bill) has passed the Legislature in the last decade," said Rep. Jim Brett, D-Boston, a sponsor of the measure.

Much legislative debate centered on mass killings in California and Kentucky by assailants using assault rifles, as well as escalating violence in Boston where some 100 people have been killed this year.

The signing ceremony at a police station in the city's Mattapan neighborhood came four days after a gunman killed 14 women with a .223 caliber semiautomatic rifle in Montreal. Canada already has tough gun control regulations.

When the proposal reached Beacon Hill, it was predicted it would be defeated 3-1, but Roache and Mayor Raymond L. Flynn said tapping the community's outrage over violence turned the tide.

committee

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

programs that make up $1.2 billion dollars of the $12 billion budget.

Ways and Means Committee Chairwoman Sen. Patricia McGovern, D-Lawrence, said it was unclear how many amendments would be offered once the measure came up for debate.

The bill was reported out of committee in a voice vote Thursday, and will have to be reconciled with a House-approved savings plan Senate analysts said was worth about $300 million.

Sen. Francis Doris, D-Revere, said he would try to strike out a provision requiring all state employees to pick up at least 3 percent of their health insurance costs.

The Ways and Means proposal would gain $11.5 million in fiscal 1990 by giving the Department of Public Welfare rate-setting powers, and tightening Medicaid certification. It would generate $5 million in savings through repeal of a 1980 rollback in group insurance rates.

The committee agreed with $89 million in line item cuts targeted by the Dukakis administration, added $16 million in outs of its own and asked the governor to trim an additional $34 million from the budget.

It also called for "maximizing the comptrollers ability to collect revenues" for a $60 million boost. That general provision also was included in the House passed plan.

It also called for the state to collect unclaimed bottle deposits, which it said could earn $6 million in fiscal 1990 and $24 million, each following year. The House, which passed a separate bill Wednesday to collect the bottle money, put a $12 million value on it for fiscal 1990.

CASH IN
On Intersession

Earn money for January fun and second semester. ABT ASSOCIATES INC. needs Research Interviewers to work on a variety of public policy and market research studies

■ Start at $5.00 per hour with paid training and quickly move up to $5.50 (Weekends earn 10% more)
■ Flexible day and evening hours
■ Work from 20 hours part-time, up to 40 hours.
■ Choose your own schedule every week from shifts 5pm-10pm every night except Saturday, 11am-5pm. Also weekdays 9am-5pm.
■ Gain valuable experience in an interesting environment.
■ Conveniently located at the Mountain Farms Mall (free bus service)

Call between 9am and 5pm, Monday through Friday at 586-8635.

Abt Associates Inc.

Abt Associates Inc.
Telephone Research Center
Mountain Farms Mall, Rt. 9, Hadley, MA 01035

An Equal Opportunity Employer

to U. MASS
N. Pleasant
E. Pleasant
Triangle
Peloton Bike
Carriage Shops
Bank of N.E.

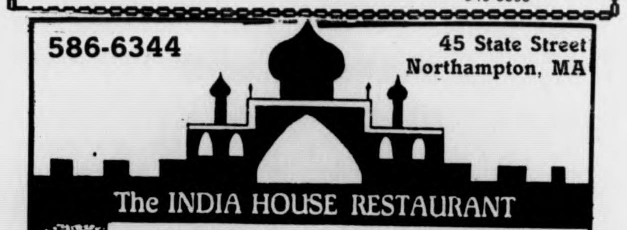
25% OFF All Hair Accessories

Dec. 11- Dec. 17

herself... at times
Jewelry & Accessories

7 E. Pleasant St.
(In front of the Carriage Shops between Peloton Bike and Bank of N. Eng.)

For directions call: 549-6693



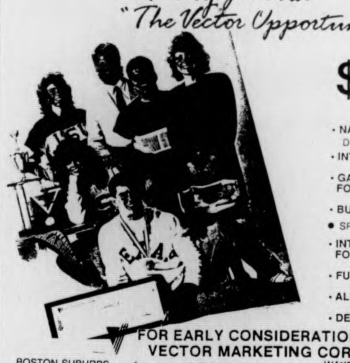
586-6344
45 State Street
Northampton, MA

The INDIA HOUSE RESTAURANT

Where Indian Food Is Not Just Curry

- TRADITIONAL TANDORI INDIAN COOKING SEALS IN FRESH FOODS NATURAL FLAVORS
- COMPLETE VEGETARIAN MENU
- EXTENSIVE WINE LIST
- BEWITCHING BIRYAN'
- ENTICING CURRIES

"INDIAN RESTAURANT WITH EXCELLENT FOOD & SERVICE." THE NEW ENGLAND MONTHLY.



AS SEEN IN NEWSWEEK ON CAMPUS

VECTOR MARKETING CORPORATION

The Difference Between an Ordinary Job and "The Vector Opportunity"

$11.05 ENTRY LEVEL PAY RATE

- NATIONAL FIRM HAS IMMEDIATE OPENINGS DURING SEMESTER BREAK
- INTERVIEW NOW - BEGIN AFTER EXAMS
- GAIN VALUABLE BUSINESS EXPERIENCE FOR RESUME
- BUILD COMMUNICATION SKILLS
- SPECIAL 2-4 WEEK PROGRAM
- INTERNSHIPS & SCHOLARSHIPS POSSIBLE FOR NEXT SEMESTER
- FUTURE MANAGEMENT POSITIONS AVAILABLE
- ALL MAJORS MAY APPLY
- DETAILS COVERED AT INTERVIEW

FOR EARLY CONSIDERATION CALL NOW
VECTOR MARKETING CORPORATION

BOSTON SUBURBS 617-449-4362
WORCESTER COUNTY 508-852-1680
WAKEFIELD, MA/NORTH SHORE AREA 617-246-5308
SOUTHEAST MASS. AREA 508-947-1006

Are you still looking for something you haven't seen in The Collegian?

We are now having a contest where you pick the feature!!!

Choose from the following sections:

Sports Extra
Multicultural Affairs
Books
Black Affairs
Women's Issues
This Weekend
Focus
Third World Affairs
Health & Science
News
Arts/Living
Sports

Pick a feature and if your idea is selected, we will do a story on it!

Send entries or bring down to:

You Pick the Feature
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center
University of Massachusetts, Amherst MA 01003

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant
MANDARIN/SZECHUEN CUISINE

The Best Chinese Buffet

MANDARIN/SZECHUAN CUISINE
WE DELIVER IN AMHERST 5-9:30 EVERYDAY
Minimum $15 plus $2 delivery charge

NEW
BUFFET & SUNDAY BRUNCH
Buffet served 5-8 p.m. Sun.-Thurs.
Brunch served Sunday 11:30 a.m.-3 p.m.
ALL YOU CAN EAT $5.99
Children under 10 - $3

1) Hot and Sour Soup
2) Chicken Fingers
3) Chicken Wings
4) Vegetable Chow Mein
5) Pan Fried Ravioli
6) Beef with Green Peppers
7) House Special Chicken
8) Sweet and Sour Chicken
9) Roast Pork Fried Rice
10) Vegetable Fried Noodle
11) Chinese BBQ Pork
12) Broccoli with Oyster Sauce

ADVOCATE BEST OF THE VALLEY 1987

TAKE-OUT SERVICE — FULL COCKTAIL MENU
10 Belchertown Rd. at Rte. 9, Amherst 256-0252

---

environment

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

Alves said, "Our primary goal is to bring attention to the environmental issues, not to sway people's thinking. We don't allow criticism without solution, we only do actions with solutions."

"There is a move in the country for agragarian reform," Alves said. "But the military has entered into the peasant's land and pushed them towards the Amazon River where the soil is no more fertile than where they came from."

The primary focus of driving the farmers from their land was to construct a highway through the Amazon River Valley, Alves said. "The military killed the peasant leaders and opened a 'steam valve,'" she said.

The farmers have two options — to move to other geographic areas or become cheap labor, Alves said.

Brazil's national debt is one of the highest in the world, Fernandes said. Greens supports an idea called, "Debt for nature."

Fernandes explained the idea: the World Bank holds the Brazilian debt. In turn, there are companies that hold bonds in the World Bank. These companies need the resources that Brazil has to offer and so they negotiate for resources to be a dividend on the bond. Brazil then lowers its debt without inflation.

The event was sponsored by many campus groups including the Economics department of UMass Graduate Student, UMass Rainforest Action Group, UMass Greens, and the UMass Political Science department.

cops

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

LARCENY

- A man reported the theft of a radar detector from his vehicle parked in Lot 32 Saturday. Both door locks had been pulled and an attempt had been made to pull the ignition.
- A victim reported a door lock had been pulled from his vehicle parked in Lot 44 Sunday and the theft of a stereo. The loss was estimated to be more than $700.
- A woman reported the theft of her leather jacket from a table at the Mini Mall in the Student Union Wednesday. The loss was estimated at $230.
- A man reported the theft of a stereo and speakers from his vehicle parked in Fraternity/Sorority Park Lot Thursday.
- A woman reported the theft of her clothes from a dryer in Grayson Residence Hall. The loss was estimated at $250.
- A victim reported the theft of a mountain bike chained to a rack at Moore Residence Hall. The loss was estimated at $300.

VANDALISM

- Smashed lights and furniture knocked over was reported in the 20th floor lounge in Washington Residence Hall Saturday.
- The lights in a hallway on the 15th floor in Coolidge Residence Hall were reported smashed on Sunday.
- A resident of the Northeast area reported his stereo thrown out of the window after returning to his room following an alleged dispute with his roommate, police said.

AIM HIGH

TECHNOLOGY MAJORS – COMPUTE YOUR FUTURE WITH AIR FORCE ROTC.

Add up the advantages of Air Force ROTC as you prepare to study science or engineering – and you'll make some exciting discoveries. You'll see how you can apply for two- or four-year scholarship programs to help pay for that college degree. You'll discover that you can graduate with a commission as an Air Force officer, ready to take your skills into laser, satellite or other technologies.

Call

CAPT JOHN STEELE
413-545-2437

AIR FORCE ROTC
Leadership Excellence Starts Here

ATTENTION FRESHMEN

All freshmen must complete English 112 in their first two semesters at the University. If you are a freshman and have not taken the Writing Program Placement Test, you must do so on January 8 or 9, 2:00 PM or 3:30 PM, Campus Center 168.

UNIVERSITY WRITING PROGRAM
5-0610

DOVE
Business Associates, Inc.
RESUMES

- SECRETARIAL SERVICES
  - Letters
  - Thesis
  - Dissertations
  - Term Papers
  - FAX Services
- TEMPORARY PERSONNEL
  - Now interviewing for full & Part-time employment
  - Flexible Hours
  - Benefits
- BUSINESS MANAGEMENT SERVICES
  - Bookkeeping Service
  - Payroll Service
  - Trouble Shooting

79 So. Pleasant St., Amherst
256-1335 • 253-7480

25% Off Your First Visit To DELLARIA SALONS

Dellaria Salons invites you to visit our Amherst Salon location and receive 25% off your first visit. You need only present your college ID. Save on Haircuts • Haircolor • PermWaves.
26 Main Street, Amherst 256-8331

Not valid with other promotions.

DELLARIA SALONS
BOSTON • SOHO • LOS ANGELES

BRITTANY MANOR
Brittany Manor Drive • (413) 256-8534

Two Bedroom Apartments
AVAILABLE NOW!
STARTING $490 PER MONTH
Rent includes heat and hot water.

ENJOY THESE FEATURES:

- Fully-Equipped Kitchen, Including Disposal
- Large Livingroom with Ceiling-to-Floor Windows
- On the UMass Bus Route
- Wall-to-Wall Carpeting
- Large Dining Area
- Oversized Bathrooms
- Wall-to-Wall Closets
- Storm Windows
- Dead-bolt Security Locks
- Cable T.V. Available
- Ample Parking
- Swimming Pool

To Greenfield
To Sunderland
Route 116 South
N. Pleasant St.
E. Pleasant Street
N
Amherst Center
Route 9
To Belchertown
Hampshire Mall
Route 116
East Hadley Rd.
BRITTANY MANOR
S. Pleasant St.
Shays Street
Pomeroy St.

■ tuition

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

and Duffey.

Aaron Pearlman, a UMass sophomore from Oregon, and a member of the coalition, said the coalition received positive support from Duffey last week.

"We feel good about our meeting with him," he said. However, he added, "We feel that a lot of work still needs to be put in."

Another coalition member, UMass sophomore Gwenn Morreale, from New York, said it is sad that the Board of Regents will make the ultimate decision about the tuition hike.

"They're not on campus to see the contributions of out-of-state students," she said.

UMass junior and coalition member Leigh Annknope, from Michigan, said she agreed with Morreale.

"[The Board of Regents] doesn't understand the consequences of the action," she said.

The University will not only lose the diversity out-of-state students bring to UMass, but they will lose the $9,000 they're already getting from out-of-state tuition, in addition to the $3,000 they want to gain, she said.

Morreale said, "We'd like the University and the Statehouse to realize that we are people with lives, not just sources of revenue."

■ lie detector

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

and psychological authorities and by the nearly unanimous rejection of such evidence by courts throughout the United States, at least in the absence of stipulation, we conclude that polygraphic evidence is inadmissible in criminal trials in this commonwealth either as substantive proof of guilt or innocence or as corroboration or impeachment of testimony," the court's majority wrote.

In the case that reached the court, Benjamin Mendes, one of the two defendants, asked for a lie-detector test and also asked that the results of a previous court-ordered polygraph be admitted into evidence.

The trial judge, Paul A. Chernoff, after four days of hearings, ruled in favor of admitting the test results, but only if extensive examination of the defendant and the polygraph operator were allowed.

Chernoff said that process could be so time-consuming that an appellate court might, on policy grounds, "decide it is not worth the price."

The Supreme Court majority said that, even 15 years after its initial ruling allowing limited admission of lie-detector test results, "there remains no consensus among experts as to the accuracy of polygraph testing to detect deceit."

The court said while some scientific tests show an over-all success rate of 95 percent for polygraphy, another study concluded an average 84 percent accuracy rate for guilty subjects and 53 percent for innocent subjects.

"Such a record gives the polygraph examiner only a slightly better chance of correctly identifying an innocent subject by using his machine than he would have by flipping a coin," the court said.

Learn German This Summer

June 24 -
August 3, 1990

The Tenth Annual German Summer School of the Atlantic at the University of Rhode Island in co-operation with the Goethe Institute Boston.

German will be the sole language of communication, and German life and culture the heart of this six week residency program of intensive language study.

You may earn up to nine undergraduate or graduate credits while living in the beautiful surroundings of our country campus, just minutes away from Rhode Island's magnificent beaches and historic summer colonies.

This program is ideally suited for anyone wishing to enroll in beginning, intermediate, or any level of advanced German. From business people and travelers, to students planning work or study abroad. Take advantage of this rare opportunity to participate in this total German Language experience.

URI

For details: Dr. John Grandin
Dr. Otto Dornberg, Co-Directors
Department of Languages
University of Rhode Island
Kingston, RI 02881 (401) 792-5911

College Break Escape 1990

SKI YOUR WAY TO $1000

Get happy, get lucky - get yourself to Sunday River in January for a great week of skiing. Call now and reserve your College Break Package listed below and you'll get a lift ticket, lodging, live bands, pizza parties, zany races, swimming, saunas and lots more for one low price. During each one of our College Break Ski Weeks, one lucky skier will win a $1000 scholarship.

Break #1 4 Days/4 Nights January 1-5, 1990 $199*
Break #2 5 Days/5 Nights January 7-12, 1990 $249*
Break #3 4 Days/4 Nights January 15-19, 1990 $199*

*Lodging based on per person quad occupancy. Prices do not include taxes & gratuity.

Midweek Special: Monday-Thursday non-holiday:
1 day skiing, 1 night lodging: $45

For Reservations, Call 1-800-543-2 SKI

Sunday river MAINE Veryfine

AN EVENING WITH
UPC PRODUCTIONS

VERSUS THE WORLD

MONDAY FEB. 5
STUDENT
UNION BALLROOM
$7 UMASS STUDENTS
$10 GENERAL PUBLIC
TICKETS ON SALE AT TIX UNLIMITED/
SUB, FOR THE RECORD/FACES IN
AMHERST AND MAIN ST. RECORDS.

Resident Assistant Selection Process 1990-1991

Leadership is becoming a Resident Assistant

An RA is a live-in part-time student staff member. Duties include fostering floor and cluster community, assisting with hall management, and enforcing University policies.

How to do it:
On Campus Students: go to your cluster office and pick up an application.

Off Campus Students: go to the following areas for applications–
Cance Area Office–SW South
Thoreau Area Office–SW North
Room B-30 Baker Area Office–OH/Central
Room 103 Johnson Area Office–NE/Sylvan

Become a student leader in your residence hall. Apply now for a Resident Assistant (RA) position. Applications are due between February 1-9, 1990 to the above area offices.

The University of Massachusetts at Amherst prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, sex, sexual preference, age, marital status, national origin, mental or physical handicap, political belief or affiliation, membership or non-membership in any organization, or veteran status. In any aspect of admission or treatment of students in employment.

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted.

Porn ban no solution

On Dec. 7, the Student Government Association decided, by a 31-30 vote, to endorse a campus-wide ban on Penthouse, Playboy and Playgirl magazines.

Advocates of the ban claimed that pornography leads to increased sexual harassment, violence against women, oppression and objectification of women and an unhealthy atmosphere for women on campus.

We do not condone pornography or its portrayal of women and men. Instead we suggest education to curtail its negative effects on society, as opposed to banning pornographic material.

The freedom of the press allows pornography to exist. If we start trying to ban what we don't like, or what we believe to be immoral, society will be left with a majority forcing their viewpoints on everyone.

The First Amendment does not just protect freedom of speech for those publications, actions, or beliefs that we agree with. It allows for dissent. It allows for controversy and critical thinking. It allows for viewpoints that we do not like to be expressed freely.

The First Amendment does not allow us to pick and choose what is or is not acceptable for publication.

The banning of publications is a very dangerous precedent to set. If we begin to endanger our rights to express ourselves freely, we will be no better than the repressive societies that are now struggling for democratic freedoms.

Unsigned editorials reflect the majority opinion of the Collegian board of editors

Judging the right to die

When Mary got home from a long day of work, she kicked off her shoes and stretched out on the couch.

"I really don't feel like cooking tonight," she said to her husband Tom. "Do you?"

He shook his head, "No, I'm beat. Want to order pizza?"

Meredith O'Brien

"Yeah! Let's have it delivered," she said.

Just as Tom reached for the phone, it rang.

"That was quick," he laughed, picking up the receiver.

Tom's face quickly lost its color and his hands began to tremble. Mary, sensing his anxiety, put her arm around him.

"Where . . . well, well, what do you mean?" he asked urgently. When he hung up the phone, his whole body stiffened.

"Sue's been in a car accident," he said numbly. "The doctor said that she slipped into a coma."

***

Mary and Tom arrived at the emergency desk with red, tear-stained faces.

"Which room is Sue Wilson in?" Mary asked urgently.

"624," the nurse answered plainly.

After consulting with the doctor for nearly an hour and a half, they both sat at Sue's bedside, just looking at her.

"My baby," Mary sobbed. "She's so lifeless."

Tom fiercely held on to Mary's hand, "Don't worry, she will snap out of it! Sue's a tough cookie."

***

Sue's face was puffy and red. She was now breathing on her own, but needed food and fluids pumped into her body by a noisy machine. Her hands were stiff and turned inward so that her nails were cutting her arm. She could not communicate with anyone.

Mary and Tom were sitting on either side of her bed.

Tom was gently stroking her hair as Mary read Cyrano de Bergerac, Sue's favorite play, aloud to her.

They had been there for three hours — two hours longer than they usually stayed visiting her. Today was a special day for Sue. It marked the six-year anniversary of her auto accident, the one that had confined her to lie motionless in a hospital bed.

The doctor rapped on the window and motioned for Mary and Tom to come over to him. They talked with him for 45 minutes, stealing glances at Sue every once and awhile.

"All right," Mary said, clearing her throat and wiping the tears from her eyes. "All right."

Tom nodded his head in agreement, "She'd want it this way."

"I'm sorry," the doctor said futilely, "I really wish there was something else I could do."

***

Mary and Tom were woken from their sound slumber at 8:35 a.m. by the phone. (They had once been early risers, the first ones to work, always ready to go. But neither of them had been putting many hours into work lately, or for the last six years.)

Tom sleepily grabbed the phone, "Hello?"

Mary, half-asleep and still very groggy, turned over to try to listen to the conversation.

"What?!" Tom screamed. "Take us to court?. . . They have no right to!" He threw the phone to the ground, "They're taking us to court! They won't let us allow our daughter to die in peace."

He clenched his fists, but then began to cry, "We both love her. We don't want her to die! We want her to live! But she has not been living! "Sue" does not exist anymore! Her body is being kept alive, while her spirit, her fire is trapped inside! . . .Damn it, I wish they would just let her die. . ."

[The Supreme Court is now hearing a case which will decide whether a family has the right to allow another family member, who is in a coma or being sustained by some sort of life support system, to die. It is reported that nearly 10,000 families will be affected by this decision.]

Meredith O'Brien is a Collegian columnist

The Editorial Desk is now accepting applications for two associate editor positions.

Experience is not necessary. We encourage all who are interested to apply.

Applications are available at the Editorial Desk. Deadline for applications will be 4:00 p.m. Wednesday. Submit applications to Minu Sebastian, next semester's Editorial editor.

My position as a hypocrite

As editor in chief of the Collegian, I've heard readers complain of our writer's lack of ability, style, tact, etc. I feel the need to inform you of how we hire our writers.

You see, not everyone can write for the Collegian. In fact, it takes a certain type of person. For example:

David R. Mark

STUDENT: I'd like to write for the Collegian.

EDITOR: Well, what are your qualifications?

STUDENT: I've written for the New York Times, Washington Post, Boston Globe and Chicago Tribune. I've also written four best-sellers on journalism.

EDITOR: Well, we'll get back to you.

(Later. . .)

STUDENT No.2: Uhh, yeah. Uhh.

EDITOR: You want to write for the paper?

STUDENT No.2: Uhh, yeah. Uhh.

EDITOR: Great!!! Here, cover this very important meeting.

STUDENT No.2: Uhh, yeah. Uhh.

EDITOR: Just go out that door — with your pad and pencil — and get that story.

STUDENT No.2: Uhh, yeah. Uhh.

(Later. . .)

STUDENT No.3: Yeah, I want to write for the paper.

EDITOR: Good. What do you want to cover?

STUDENT No.3: Well, I'm racist and sexist. My goal is to misinform other students so they will also become, unknowingly, racist and sexist.

EDITOR: Well, here's a good story. This women's organization is having a candlelight vigil tonight.

STUDENT No.3: Great. Hey, can I bring some of my friends who hate these kinds of vigils and then quote them extensively?

EDITOR: Sure! Remember, you can always claim you're trying to be fair even if you're being one-sided!

David explains

You see, to write for this paper, you have to be naive. You have to show us that you will embarrass communities on campus. Sometimes, a well-written story slips by. However, my job as an editor is to make sure these stories are few and far between.

EDITOR No.1: What are you doing?

EDITOR No.2: I'm trying to come up with ways to oppress minority students through blatant media stereotypes.

EDITOR No.1: Can I help?

(Later. . .)

EDITOR No.1: Now what are you doing?

EDITOR No.2: I'm taking stories for tomorrow's page one and inserting inaccuracies. I'm also changing sentences to include fragments.

EDITOR No.1: Don't forget the four spelling error quota.

EDITOR No.2: Geez, I almost forgot. Thanks for reminding me.

EDITOR No.1: Well, that's how I earn my inflated salary.

Do you get it?

I hope that gives many of you a greater insight into how things are run here at the largest college daily in New England. We are hypocrites although we do not admit it openly. Our main goals as reporters are to misinform the public, and to hurt as many people as we can in the process.

Want to join our fun?

MINI-EDITORIAL No.1: We have a women's issues section that has pleaded for support from the community. Among the people who could write for the section was a column writer who claimed our editorial page was male-dominated and sexist. Don't help save the women's issues page; instead, attack the rest of the paper.

MINI-EDITORIAL No.2: About the loonies among the left: one letter writer said I could not write about women, another said I should stop writing on racism. Maybe I should write only about what I am, a Jewish college-age male from the Northeast.

My conclusion: Some people are afraid a White male can't write about issues of oppression. They balk at whatever is written, claiming it is bad no matter what it is. The unfortunate result is a lot of screaming on behalf of the oppressed, with the oppressed gaining nothing. No one needs that kind of support.

Of course, the above are better than the loonies among the right, who have trouble saying "racism" without throwing up.

Read David R. Mark, if you dare, next semester

"THIS JUST IN! . . . NO, HOLD IT . . . THIS JUST IN. . . . FORGET THAT . . . THIS JUST IN . . . !"

Quality daycare essential

As students, faculty and staff whose children depend upon the excellent daycare now available at the University Child Care centers, or as other concerned members of the University community, we protest plans to institute a vendor system.

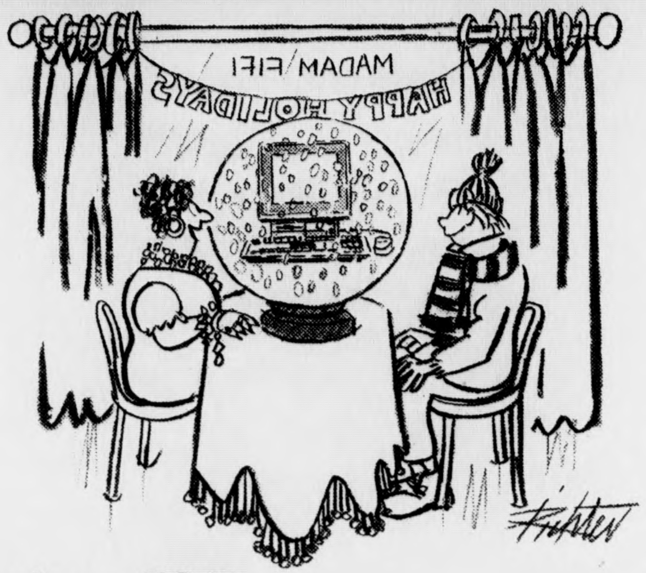
Affordable, high-quality, education-based daycare is a necessity for an institution which wishes to recruit and retain students and employees. We need dedicated teachers who have the time and training to help individual children succeed in their learning and development.

We must provide an environment which fosters cultural diversity and tolerance, and which allows parents to pursue educational systems which provide only custodial care, operate on the profit motive, pay their employees at minimum wage, and experience astronomical rates of staff turnover are unlikely to meet the needs of our children.

The financial crisis which has staggered the University need not doom the Child Care centers. If the administration demonstrates good faith and commitment to daycare, we can preserve the wonderful centers we now enjoy. We appeal to the administration to work with us to find ways to avoid changing to a vendor system. We insist upon a role in determining the future of child care on campus.

Eric L. Bittman
Associate professor of Zoology

(Editor's note: One hundred and ninety-four other people signed this letter.)



"Your future in school looks bright… very, very bright."

Now's the time to buy a PS/2.

The IBM Personal System/2® helps you meet the future with added confidence. With it, you can organize your notes, write and revise your papers, and create smart-looking graphics. And that's only part of the story.

Now you can get special student prices on select models of PS/2's® already loaded with easy-to-use software. What's more, when you buy a PS/2, you will get a mouse pad, a 3.5-inch diskette holder, and a power strip—all free. You're also entitled to a special low price on the PRODIGY® service. Right now there are special savings on three of the most popular IBM Proprinters,™ too.

But time's running out—check it out today.* Offer ends February 15, 1990.

PS/2 Model 25—640Kb memory, 8086 (8 MHz) processor, one 3.5-inch diskette drive (720Kb), 20Mb fixed disk drive, IBM Mouse, monochrome display, DOS 4.0, Microsoft® Windows/286 and hDC Windows Express.™

PS/2 Model 30 286—1Mb memory, 80286 (10 MHz) processor, one 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44Mb), 20Mb fixed disk drive, IBM Mouse, Microsoft Windows/286, Word 5.0 and hDC Windows Express, hDC Windows Manager™ and hDC Windows Color.™

Model 25 Package not available after 12/31/89

IBM Financing Plan Available

How're you going to do it? PS/2 it!

UNIVERSITY STORE OPEN M-F 9-5

IBM®

*This offer is limited to qualified students, faculty and staff who order an IBM PS/2 Model 8530-E21 through February 15, 1990. The preconfigured IBM PS/2 Model 8525-001 is available through December 31, 1989 only. Prices quoted do not include sales tax, handling and/or processing charges. Check with your institution regarding these charges. Orders are subject to availability. Prices are subject to change and IBM may withdraw this promotion at any time without written notice.

Microsoft Word is the Academic Edition.

®IBM, Personal System/2 and PS/2 are registered trademarks of International Business Machines Corporation. PRODIGY is a registered service mark and trademark of Prodigy Services Company, a partnership of IBM and Sears. Microsoft is a registered trademark of Microsoft Corporation.

™Proprinter is a trademark of International Business Machines Corporation. hDC Windows Express, hDC Windows Manager and hDC Windows Color are trademarks of hDC Computer Corporation. ©IBM Corp. 1989.

Two countries discuss environmental issues

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) – Canadians and Americans met yesterday to examine environmental threats to the Gulf of Maine and come up with joint strategies to deal with them.

Because the gulf touches on three states and two provinces, officials must work together on a regional basis to preserve its ecological integrity and confront problems that transcend geographic boundaries, a three-day conference was told.

"The public is not prepared to accept the excuse 'lack of jurisdiction,'" said Jim Vollmershausen, director general of Environment Canada.

The conference drew more than 200 biologists, policy planners and resource managers from the provinces of New Burnswick and Nova Scotia and the states of Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

The conference, which continues through today, is expected to result in an agreement for a Gulf of Maine Action Plan to coordinate environmental monitoring and develop programs to preserve the ecological integrity of the waters that stretch from the Bay of Fundy to Cape Cod Bay.

Richard Silkman, director of the Maine State Planning Office, said the gulf as a whole is in good condition but officials must pay heed to warning signs in order to avert the kind of environmental degradation that overtook Chesapeake Bay.

"To be truly effective, these efforts must be managed cooperatively, on an ecosystem basis," he said.

Speakers focused on pollution, global warming and other environmental threats and did not deal specifically with fisheries management issues, an area that has divided the two nations for centuries.

Charles Colgan of the University of Southern Maine suggested that a cooperative effort in dealing with environmental problems could set a precedent that might allow Canadians and Americans to eventually resolve their differences over fisheries.

"I raise the issue because I don't know if we can," Colgan said. Maine Commissioner of Marine Resources William Brennan described the gulf as the backbone of his state's economy and emphasized the need to assure that it "will continue in its role as a provider of great wealth."

Experts noted that while the gulf supports 20,000 fishermen in both countries and yields some $500 million worth of fish and shellfish each year, some popular species such as haddock have dwindled to record-low levels.

John Leefe, minister of the Nova Scotia Department of the Environment, noted that foreign fleets traditionally had been blamed for over exploitation of the fish stocks of the Georges Bank, but with approval of the 200-mile limit a decade ago it's no longer possible to pin the blame on outsiders.

"The focus is on us," he said.

Virginia Tippie of the U.S. National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said the events of recent summers, when dead fish and closed beaches brought home to the public the declining health of America'a coastal waters, have underscored the need for a swift response.

"We must recognize, that we do not have all the answers, but we cannot afford to wait. We must take action now," Ms. Tippie said.

But Douglas Foy, executive director of the Conservation Law Foundation, blamed a lack of will by politicians for the inavailability to halt the gulf's environmental degradation.

OPPORTUNITIES IN INFORMATION SYSTEMS MANAGEMENT

Get With The Program.

If you're looking for a fast-track career in Information Systems Management, get with the program. The Travelers ACCENT training program.

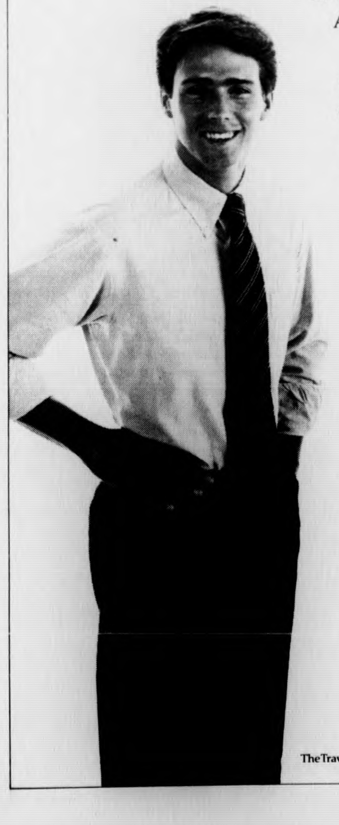
A 5-year introduction to one of corporate America's most sophisticated IS environments, ACCENT provides a complete commitment to the development of the business, managerial and technical skills you need to assume a leadership role.

Through our rotational assignments, much like in-house consulting experiences, you'll gain hands-on exposure to our businesses, our technology and our people. You'll make a direct impact on our ability to make IS technology perform as an effective business tool. And you'll be well rewarded for your contributions.

ACCENT isn't easy and it isn't for everyone. To qualify, you'll need an outstanding record of academic achievement in Computer Science, Information Systems, Electrical Engineering, MIS or a related subject. Excellent communications and organizational skills, and relevant work experience, are also essential.

So get with the program. Sign up for an interview with our ACCENT recruiter. We'll be on campus November 21st. To schedule an interview, you must sign up by Monday, October 23rd. Or, send your resume and transcript to:

John S. Breckenridge, College Relations –
ACCENT, The Travelers Companies,
One Tower Square, 1-30-CR, Hartford,
CT 06183-7060.



TheTravelers
You're better off under the Umbrella®

The Travelers Companies, Hartford, Connecticut 06183.

An Equal Opportunity Employer

Personal Growth... the PSE Program

There have been many aspects of being a peer sexuality educator that I enjoy. The class has done a lot for me, not only educationally but emotionally also. I have learned to be more honest with myself and other peers through the workshops. I have also learned factual information that can be related not only to the workshops, but also to my own life.

When I first started taking this course last semester my friends and the people on my floor (I live in the residence halls) were all amused. Sexuality is not something that is openly discussed. My textbook for the class was a new "toy". I must admit that my book was read by more people than I ever imagined.

As the semester progressed I was used as a resource by many of my friends. Slowly but surely people, mainly my friends, became more comfortable coming to me with questions about things such as contraception and prevention of STDs. As a PSE I know when I just "don't know the answer" and on many occasions I have referred people to Health Services. I know that as a PSE I am not a doctor, or even a professional and I convey this message to people. However, in the same respect there are a lot of ways in which I can help.

I suppose the best thing that ever happened to me as a PSE was this semester. A person who I did not know came to my room and asked me for a condom. I did not ask him why, and gave it to him. I did, however, ask how he knew to come to me. His reply was, "everyone knows that you are a peer sex educator, and that you must have some condoms floating around. I just figured I'd rather be safe and not risk it. Someone told me your room number and here I am." This was such a compliment not only to me, but to the program for being so successful "outside" of the classroom. To say the least, I was truly amazed. The best part of the program for me is the fact that I reach so many more people than I could ever realize.

Becky Bryant

The Health Reach Program "Making Family Housing...Family"

Standing, left to right: Norma Gonzalez; Min Lin
Seated: Maria Elsa Correal, Marija Popstefanija

The Health Reach Program is designed to assist the residents of family housing, many of whom are foreign students, with their health concerns and needs. Health Reach workers serve as liaisons between UHS and the residents of family housing. They visit every newcomer, and provide them with information about taking care of themselves and their families. They also help put residents in touch with the right person or agency and take care of minor emergencies. Programs are also offered throughout the year in the three family housing complexes (University Apartments, Lincoln Apartments and North Village) on topics of interest. Some of the most popular programs have been Child Safety, Women's Health, Family Planning, Nutrition, Children's Dental Health, First Aid for Families, Fire Safety and Parenting.

Health Reach Workers also help with feelings of homesickness and loneliness. This is possible because each housing complex has their own Health Reach Worker who tries to get to know all the residents.

Our goal is to continue to provide, as best as we can, service for the people of family housing, helping to make it a good place to live.

Marija Popstefanija

"Not Ready for Bedtime Players"

The "Not Ready for Bedtime Players" perform "Everything You Thought You Knew About Sex and Much More". Peer Sexuality Educators and drama students perform pieces which address attitudes about AIDS, sexually transmitted diseases, drugs and relationships. Through humor, innuendo, and serious drama the troupe stimulates the audience to address these painful, joyous and humorous issues in their own lives.

To book a performance or join the troupe, contact Gretchen Krull 549-2671 ext. 181.

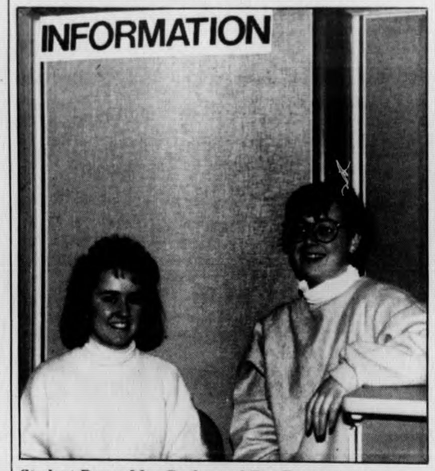
The PSE Experience... More Than Just A Grade

My name is Fredrich G. Kleiman and I am a Peer Sex Educator here at UMASS. Being a Peer Sex Educator has been the most rewarding experience I have had at school. I have learned about contraception, condoms, AIDS, homosexuality, heterosexuality, bisexuality, acting, guts, love, other people and myself.

I have admiration and respect for people in the class. Through our time together we have become close and I think I would do anything for anyone in the class. I guess they would do the same for me.

I was ignorant before this class and in facilitating workshops I realize how other people have misconceptions about a lot of sexual topics. I try to give others information which will benefit them in life.

"UHS - User Friendly" Thanks To New Student Reps



Student Reps: Meg Gurley and Sue Brogan

Hi! I'm a student representative at University Health Services. The main purpose of my job is to see that your visit to Health Services goes smoothly. If there's any information you need about Health Services whether it's: who to go to see to pay a bill, what to do with your health waiver form, where to go to get your eyes tested, when is the best time to be seen in Urgent Care, or why can't you see the doctor of your choice at 5:30 on the Friday before Christmas, our job is to be friendly and help you.

It's Been 20 Years!

EDITORIAL

Peer Education Programs go back to 1969-1970 with the development of a pilot program called Peer Sexuality Education. Twenty years later this program is alive and well along with the Peer Alcohol and Drug Education Program, the Peer Health Promotion Program and Health Reach. There's also the Student Health Advisory Board and Student Representative Program.

1969 was a year when tie-dyed tee shirts were popular. It was also a year when it was important to do "relevant" work. Hence students signed up for the new peer program. This innovative class prepared students to lead workshops in "dormitories" (Residence Halls, today) as representatives of the "infirmary" (UHS, today).

Over the years, the programs at the University have grown and so has national recognition for them. For example, a large grant by the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism helped support the alcohol peer educators in the mid 1970's. Many colleges and universities still contact UMass for advice on starting peer programs, Peers are "in" in the 90's. It's funny, so are tie-dyed tee shirts!

In all seriousness, the UHS is proud of our long tradition of peer education and we thank our peers for their service and their insights. What follows in this centerfold is what students say about health and their experiences as peer educators.

1989 Peer Alcohol and Drug Educators

Sober Socializing...Changes of A Peer Alcohol Educator

I had hoped that my participation in the Peer Alcohol and Drug Education Program would change something. Either I could help improve the program or maybe I could help to change someone's view on something. But what my participation did was to bring about a change in me.

When I began the course, my main objective was to gain experience that could help me in my quest to become a teacher. The idea of three credits didn't sound so bad either. I approached it all with a very business-like attitude. Initially, all the information we received seemed to blow me away. I could never absorb all this for my own exam, never mind absorb enough to present to other people at a workshop! I didn't have confidence in myself or in the material I was learning. I was continually frustrated.

Well, as the semester rolled on, a change seemed to come over my attitude and over my now superficial understanding of all of it. I found myself answering questions or giving advice or holding intelligent conversations with family and friends. I paid attention to television, the newspaper, magazines and anything that related to alcohol or drugs. This seemed to be the turning point for me. Now my involvement went deeper than just the two hours on a Wednesday afternoon. It spilled over into my everyday life.

I questioned my own reasons for drinking and I looked hard at my drinking habits. I realized that when I went out, what I enjoyed most was the social aspect of it all, not just the drinking. But this was a conclusion that I had to come to on my own and I think that the course helped me to discover this.

In one respect, though, I remain somewhat of a hypocrite. I know of a person who was once very close to me but who has a serious drinking problem. I came to a point when I could no longer handle the fact that he became a different person when he drank. Since I was so close to him, I was the one most hurt by his actions. I have been taught information on who to help and when and how and yet I found it so hard to deal with. I guess that I realized that you can be taught loads of information, but in order to put it to any use, you have to be aware of your own limits.

The initial trauma of running workshops has subsided. I've begun to work on adding a little bit of Tracy to them by softening the edges with smiling and laughing. I know that I will not reach everyone that I want to; that a lot of my words might fall on deaf ears. But I've become content with the fact that I will effect someone to some extent. At the very least, I've become more content with myself.

Tracy Corriveau

PEER HEALTH PROMOTION PROGRAM
LEAVE THE PACK

Peer Health Promoters Promoting The Great American Smokeout

"LIfe...After Being A Peer Educator."

As a business major, I was surprised to learn that I could earn three management credits as an intern with the Health Education Division of UHS. Applying classroom knowledge to a work situation was an opportunity that many business students are forced to wait for until after graduation. My early start is not only giving me a valuable experience, but is giving me the confidence that I need to be an effective manager.

Organizational and managerial skills, are the skills I am developing most. My responsibilities as an intern are to supervise current peer health promoters while they lead workshops and to evaluate them using performance appraisals. I also help coordinate workshops. I was chosen to do this after being a peer health promoter myself last year. Therefore I am familiar with the workshop outline and can relate to the initial anxieties of new peer educators. Both as a class member and as in intern, I find that the Peer Programs provide an excellent opportunity to learn; through personal experience...even, and especially, for a business major!

Beth Patterson

"Lights, Cameras, Action" ...PHP'S On Video

Here's what Peer Health Promoters (PHP's) said in a video made by a "graduate" Peer Health Promoter for his independent study project for Communications/Public Health.

- "Public Health 216 is definitely one of the best classes I've ever taken. As far as an overall rating, I would definitely give it a 10. You feel like you're getting something out of it, you're putting stuff into it. It's not an incredible amount of work but all the work that you do has a point and it's worthwhile so that you can use it in your life. This is so different from most classes that you take here at the University. So I would definitely recommend this class to anyone. If you have three credits that you want to do something with this is one of the most beneficial things that you can do with those three credits."
- "Compared to my other classes I feel that Peer Health has been one of my more beneficial classes. It has improved my communication skills. It also makes me feel better reaching out to the student population at the University of Massachusetts."
- "By being a Peer Health Promoter I not only get self-satisfaction knowing that I'm doing something to better myself, I also get a certain satisfaction knowing that I'm able to help others who maybe don't know things that should be known about general health."
- "I feel that being a Peer Health Promoter does affect the University. I can see that students really are affected by it. They ask a lot of questions, and they seem to enjoy the displays that we put on " (in the Campus Center).
- "Anyone can become a Peer Health Promoter. All you have to do is sign up for Public Health 216. It's in the course selection book that everyone uses. You don't have to have any specific major to do it, you just have to have the desire to want to help people and have some interest in taking a course that's worthwhile and worth your time."

"We're Looking For A Few Good Peers"

If you are interested in the University Peer Education Training Programs (3-6 credits) or the Student Health Advisory Board (voluntary) or the Student Rep Program ($$$), call 549-2671, ext. 181.

SHAB: An Organization On The Wheels of Change

We were established in 1971 as an organization for student involvement in University Health Services and the student population. Currently the board consists of many active members all of whom are interested in ensuring the highest possible quality health care to all University of Massachusetts/Amherst students. SHAB, short for the Student Health Advisory Board, headed by co-chairs Scott Aronson and Asim Rasvi, represents the student body in important program and policy decisions. The Board provides input into the recruitment of health professionals, reviews and makes recommendations regarding the Student Health Trust Fund and the supplemental health benefits program and serves as a liaison to other student governance organizations.

Currently, as the budget cuts are affecting many areas of the university, the health services is having problems of its own. SHAB has been submitting ideas and suggestions for possible solutions and will continue to do so with the interest of all students in mind.

One special project has been working towards the goals of improving accessibility to the UHS. Many ideas and suggestions have been compiled in conjunction with other transportation organizations and hopefully in the near future we will see a means of transportation to and from the UHS.

SHAB is a great opportunity for any student interested in the health issues of this campus. You get hands on involvement in policy decisions concerning health care. Also a very valuable benefit is the opportunity it provides to interact with health care professionals. This is an especial plus for those wishing to go on in the medical field.

Scott Aronson

HEALTH POWER

HEALTHPOWER is a publication of the University Health Services. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and do not necessarily reflect UHS policy.

Executive Director: David Kraft, M.D.
Director of Health Education: Pamela Gonyer
Editors: Rita Hirsch, Ron Mazur
Graphic Artist: Lynne Thompson
Production: Phyllis Richardson, Suzan Young

New World Theater celebrates with style

• Sensei: Meaningful and magical

By NICK OSTIS
Collegian Correspondent

Coming Into Passion: Song for a Sansei
Bowker Auditorium
Saturday, Dec. 9

Sometimes you have to take things into your own hands. The entertainment industry's lack of meaningful and fulfilling roles for Asian women became a catalyst for Jude Narita to create and perform her own material. In her perceptive, one-woman show Coming Into Passion: Song for a Sansei (Sansei is a third generation Japanese-American), Narita presents a pupu platter of sharply drawn, distinct characters with consummate thespian skill in 10-minute vignettes.

THEATER

Her first character, Judith, mostly naive, unsure and apolitical, gives way in "Good Job," to a mini-skirted, go-go dancing Vietnamese prostitute in Saigon during the war. She wants for nothing, and even sends money to the members of her family who haven't been murdered in the war. Her cheerfulness is almost surreal as she loses herself in the beat of the Stones' "Let's Spend the Night Together."

In a total about face, we meet a seated Filipina mail order bride who answers questions asked by an unseen interviewer. "Lita" is adorable but nervous, all she wants is America, the "promised land." Narita's timing and gesticulations are masterful as she occasionally hedges in responses to the mildly chastising interviewer who coerces his reluctant prospect to promise to always accede to all of her husband's demands, sex included.

"Little Boy," the nickname for the bomb dropped on Hiroshima, is presented fairy tale style by a little girl amidst the rubble of the city, in a scene inspired by letters written by children who survived the bomb. The image speaks for itself.

In "Nisei Day" and "Karate and Bamboo," Narita excavates her Japanese heritage to portray two diverse females — a childhood victim of a World War II relocation camp, and a know-it-all teenager. Noboku, a nice soft-spoken Nisei, finally garners the courage to confront a man who continually proposistions her. With emotion and conviction, she verbally blasts him, only to wish him a nice day a second later.

The big crowd pleaser was "Karate and Bamboo" in which a beligerant, trouble-making teenager in a leather jacket, miniskirt, high sneakers, gloves, shades and blue bangs, snaps staccato accounts of her alienation. However, her karate teacher and gardening grandfather are able to impress upon her the "coolness" of her ethnicity.

I don't think this role required as mush of a stretch as some of the others, but the wise-cracking teen's reenactment of her encounters with her new and unlikely role models are hilarious.

Narita completes the tapestry by bringing out Judith again, who, having witnessed the challenges of her contemporaries, fosters a fresh racial pride and visualize a future of hope and promise.

Jude Narita is a gifted writer and passionate comedic and dramatic performer of profound depth and versatility.

• Women: Poignant and poetic

By NICK OSTIS
Collegian Correspondent

Unfinished Women Cry in No Man's Land While a Bird Dies in a Gilded Cage
Rand Theater
Sunday, Dec. 10

To a small but ever-burgeoning group of music lovers, be bop saxophonist Charlie "Bird" Parker, Jr. is God. "Bird Lives" is still a popular refrain. Playwright Aishah Rahman's Unfinished Women Cry in No Man's Land While a Bird Dies in a Gilded Cage is a galvanizing one act play bursting with rhythmic poetry and pain, bubbling from some infinite reservoir.

The time is 1955 and the simultaneous settings are the Hide-A-Wee Home for Unwed Mothers and Pasha's Boudoir, as suavely announced by gravelly-voiced Charlie Chan, played by the debonaire James E. Roberts II.

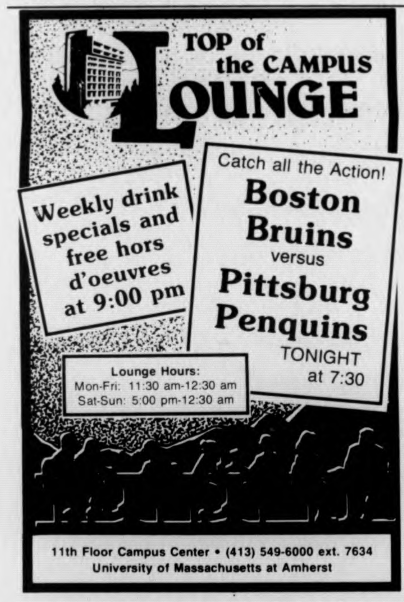
Five pregnant teenage women — three Black, one Puerto Rican and one White — are sent to have their babies away from the cruel glare of their communities. Head nurse Jacobs, fiercely biblical in demeanor and deed, hypocritically monitors their actions like a warden. Teresa Williams, using an accurate Caribbean accent, is tremendous as Jacobs.

Equally as fine are the five teens — Leah McGowen, Rebecca Miller, Liza Tuckler, Janet Muhammed and Robin Goodman — who each step forward to purge themselves of their burdens. One of them say in a gripping ensemble scene, of which there are many, "Bed is the great equalizer. Black

CONTINUED ON PAGE 16

Photo by Gene Bagnato

BENEFIT FOR AIDS PATIENTS — The Flirtations, from left, Aurelio Font, TJ Myers, Mike Callen, Cliff Townsend and Jon Arterton, a breathtaking a capella group, whose songs vary from "Biko" to "My Boyfriend's Back," play the Iron Horse tonight at 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. Tickets are $10 and $20. Proceeds go to Western Mass organizations providing AIDS care.



TOP of the CAMPUS LOUNGE
Weekly drink specials and free hors d'oeuvres at 9:00 pm
Catch all the Action! Boston Bruins versus Pittsburg Penquins TONIGHT at 7:30
Lounge Hours:
Mon-Fri: 11:30 am-12:30 am
Sat-Sun: 5:00 pm-12:30 am
11th Floor Campus Center • (413) 549-6000 ext. 7634
University of Massachusetts at Amherst

AMHERST CINEMA
The Bear PG
7 & 9:00
Fri Sat & Sun
7:30 Mon-Thurs
$2.50 w/student ID
253-5426
30 Amity Street
Amherst, MA

Open Early
Open Late
kinko's®
the copy center
220 N. Pleasant St.
253-2543

Now's the time to call...
North Amherst Motors
76 Old Sunderland Rd.
No. Amherst 549-2880
Expert Repairs & Reconditioning

BOOK BARGAINS
THOUSANDS OF RECENT AND CURRENT BOOKS AT 40-80% OFF NEW LIST PRICE — OVER 40,000 IN STOCK.
Bargain Editions • Remainders • Pub. Overstock • Used • First Editions • Playing Cards.
VALLEY BOOKS
199 N. Pleasant Street
Amherst, Mass.
M-F 10:30-5:30 256-1508
Sat. 10-5, Sun. 12-5 VISA/MC

JOBS AVAILABLE
The Collegian is now accepting applications for night graphics. We also need an Office Manager for the newsroom. All positions are for next semester. Get a job now and you won't need to worry.
The Collegian is an EOE.
Come down to Campus Center and see Terry, Mike or Peter.

Special Student & Youth Fares to EUROPE, SOUTH AMERICA, ASIA
from New York on Scheduled Airlines!

DESTINATIONS	OW	RT
LONDON	$175	$350
PARIS	215	415
BRUSSELS	195	370
ROME	275	550
STOCKHOLM/OSLO	250	460
COPENHAGEN	250	460
ZURICH	215	405
FRANKFURT	215	410
RIO	365	730
TOKYO	495	850

Add on fares from Boston, Washington, Chicago, Pittsburgh and other U.S. cities. Plus $3 dep. tax; $10 custom/immigration fee.
CALL OR WRITE FOR OUR SPECIAL FARES TO THE SO. PACIFIC AND AUSTRALIA.
Eurail and Eurail Youth Passes available immediately.
1-800-777-0112 STA
212-986-9470
WHOLE WORLD TRAVEL
17 E. 45th St., Suite 805, New York, NY 10017
Part of the worldwide STA Travel Network

STUDENT & FACULTY FARES
1/2 roundtrips from New York

LONDON	169
PARIS	205
ROME	245
roundtrips from New York
TOKYO	749
CARACAS	318
SAN JOSE C.R.	338

Taxes not included, restrictions apply.
One ways available.
EURAIL Passes issued on the spot!!
FREE Student Travel Catalog!!
CouncilTravel
79 So. Pleasant Street, Amherst
413 - 256 - 1261

ARTS & LIVING

Official results of the Mega-Suvey of the '80s

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

What's that you say? You haven't yet had your fill of all of the Collegian's "Best of the Decade" stories? Well sit back and enjoy, as we offer you the results of our Collegian Arts All Encompassing Mega-Survey of the 80s, as filled out by about 100 UMass students who had nothing better to do while sitting in their classes. Also, my ever-expanding ego has allowed me to share my personal choices with you. Just act like you care and everything will be all right.

The first category is for best album. The surprising winner, barely edging U2's The Joshua Tree, is INXS, for Kick. The worst album is Appetite for Destruction, by Guns 'n' Roses. It's great to see that the popularity of a group as slimy as GnR is finally waning, and I agree with the choice. But poppy INXS isn't even close. While I was originally going to choose Suzanne Vega's self-titled debut album, friends have recently turned me on to the gutteral, alcohol-induced sounds of Tom Waits. His album, Raindogs is nothing short of amazing, by far the best album I've heard this decade.

Best movie fell victim to ballot stuffing (it's easy to guess by whom), as Wall Street won best and Torch Song Trilogy, a poignant, satirical and important movie, took the worst honors, edging out Grease II. For me, the best movies are the cult classics Repo Man and This Is Spinal Tap, with a special mention going to the movie that exposed high school Barbies with big hair and jocks that never exhale, Heathers. There is a veritable truck load of horrendous movies out there, but for me, the jingoistic Top Gun, starring Tom "It's easy for me to play a macho asshole because I am one" Cruise, has got to be the worst. It literally scares me when so many people like such a shallow, war-glorifying movie.

In TV, Cheers edged out my personal favorite, Married With Children. Forget about the Cosbys, the Bundys are the best family on the tube. And I couldn't have been more delighted when thirtysomething, about a bunch of rich Yuppies who cry a lot, won the worst.

In comics, Calvin and Hobbes, about a little boy with a big imagination and stuffed tiger, took top honors over my personal favorite, the comic that began and ended in the 80s, Bloom County. The Collegian's own The Kids Are Alright, with jokes about farts, snots and other pre-pubescent humor, won for the worst. I couldn't agree more.

Now we come to the category that hits close to home: Collegian columnist. The witty and thought-provoking Bob Bobala beat out my personal favorite, Jim Clark. Alise Harfield, whose name appeared on almost every ballot that wrote Torch Song Trilogy for worst movie, won worst columnist. Because I have no backbone, and do not need anymore people down here hating me than already do, I refuse to divulge my least favorite columnist. You're lucky, Peter Leon.

ART ATTACK

The Compact Disc Player, which has almost perfected the sound of music and made the record obsolete, won for best electronic device. It is precisely for those reasons why I picked it as the worst. My favorite device, even though it's made me a very poor boy, is the Automatic Teller Machine. The Epilady, which I honestly never heard of before, won for the worst.

It was quite clear that most people have no clue what Collegian filler is. It's all those celery and recycle things that infest the paper when we have nothing else to fit in those places. Anyway, celery won in both categories, although for worst, David R. Mark got two votes and the front page received one. If you care, Bob (the guy with the pipe) is my favorite, while Madonna is the one I hate the most.

Ronald Reagan won for best politician (is it becoming clear who stuffed the ballot box?), while in a landslide victory, our beloved Michael Dukakis won worst. Duke deserves it, Reagan doesn't. I choose Mikhail Gorbachev for modernizing the Soviet Union and truly wanting worldwide peace.

Jack Nicholson won for best actor (Ronald Reagan received two votes), while the musclebound mumbler, Sylvester Stallone, won for worst. Two fine choices that I agree with.

I've got many problems in the actress department. Meryl Streep, who is fine with accents but always looks constipated, won for the best, while Cher took the worst honors. Cher may not be a great singer, but she won Best Actress for Moonstruck and was nominated for her work in Silkwood. She is a tremendous actress, while Molly "The Moper" Ringwald, my choice, is not. My best actress award goes to Winona Ryder. She was nothing less than sensational in Heathers and Beetlejuice, and she even made clunkers like 1969 and Great Balls of Fire worth watching. And, oddities of oddities, she is currently working with Cher on a new movie called Mermaids.

On to UMass politics. John Dunlop took the best honors for UMass liberal, while Jason Rabinowitz took worst. W. Greg Rothman took best and worst for UMass conservative. Personally, I hate UMass politics and don't really care about this category.

That's it. Thank you for reading this far. I promise that may possibly be the last Best of the 80s column you will read in our humble newspaper, but it probably won't be.

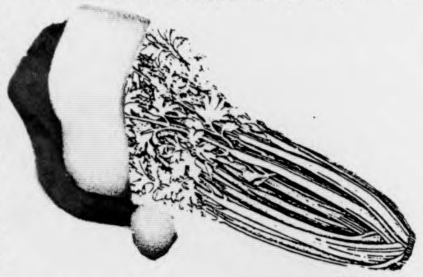

Photo by Diblo

Celery took the best and worst filler category

WMUA HOLIDAY SALE
Monday thru Wednesday
9:00 am to 5:00 pm
Student Union Ballroom
Clothing, Arts, Crafts, Tapes, and MORE!
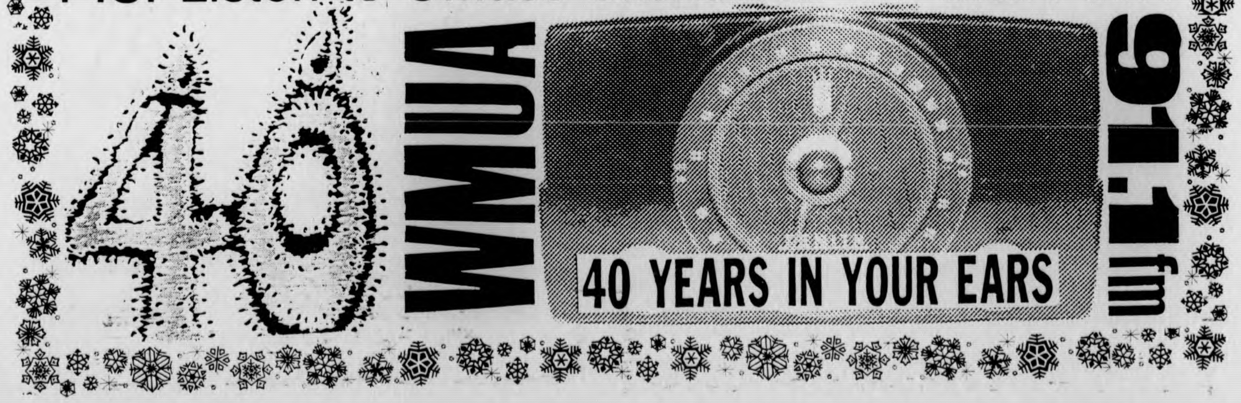
P.S. Listen to UMass basketball on 'MUA 91.1



Batman • Far Side • Mickey • Opus • Escher • Flying Fish •
Smile • Off the Leash • Russian • Artist Cows • Tasmanian Devil SHIRTS
amherst/
northampton
Find it at
FACES
Smile • Off the Leash • Russian • Artist Cows • Tasmanian Devil

Army/Navy Store

The Amherst Drop Zone

(behind Bart's, next to Panda East)
256-0039

Open 7 days a week
Mon-Sat 10-6 p.m.
Sunday 12-5

Flight
Jackets
$54.95—$89.95
30% below
Competitors
price!

Photo-Buck Stewart 549-5454

CHECK US OUT!

"Our Information Systems Professionals come from all walks of life. That's why we hire all kinds of majors for our PACE training program."

It's not uncommon to hear that kind of comment from our managers who visit college campuses each year. After all, they know The Travelers PACE program is the fast track to success for all kinds of graduates. Whether you hold a computer science degree or if you majored in another discipline but have some computer knowledge.

You see, PACE offers flexible training, tailored to varying levels of computer experience. Here's how it works. The program training can range anywhere from 4 to 12 weeks depending upon your skill level. First, we assess your technical skills. Then, the curriculum you take will include one or more of the following modules: COBOL, programming in an IBM environment, and Travelers' programming standards.

After PACE, you'll sharpen your technical skills through continued DP training – we offer over 60 in-house courses. And gain valuable business experience as you work with various business units.

PACE is a rigorous training program in one of the most sophisticated IBM mainframe environments in the insurance and financial services industry. And, as a PACE employee you'll have opportunities for advancement within other business areas of The Travelers down the line.

So, if you're ready for a challenge, don't let your major hold you back. Make PACE your first major career choice. Sign up for an interview with our PACE recruiter. We'll be on campus February 7th. To schedule an interview, you must sign up by Saturday, December 23rd. Or, send your resume and transcript to: Jane MacCarthy, Manager, College Relations – PACE, The Travelers Companies, One Tower Square, 3-MN, Hartford, CT 06183-7043.

TheTravelers
You're better off under the Umbrella.®

The Travelers Companies, Hartford, Connecticut 06183.

An Equal Opportunity Employer.

BOOKS

Exposing the roots of evil for good

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

The Psychology department is a funny place to the uninitiated. Clocks tick backwards, the first floor is really the fourth and everyone gives you funny looks, I think. The realm of dissected neuosis has never attracted me; I've always held a theory close to my heart that Marx, Einstein and Freud have contributed more misery to our age than anyone or anything else.

But that's just first appearences, tempered by a mental bias. I was seeking out something far removed from biases: I was looking for Ervin Staub, UMass professor of psychology by day, and the author of the recently published "The Roots of Evil" (Cambridge University Press) by night. The book, while rooted in psychological recearch, is essentially a moral one, a highly readable moral one, that exposes not only the reasons behind genocide, but also expresses an optimism: a Utopian ideal of how we can break out of the patterns that have caused, and continue to cause, society's atrocities.

You've said this book took you "six to eight years to write, and the world changed between drafts." Why?

"I was trained as a careful scientist and I wanted to be really sure that I knew what I wanted to talk about. I spent a good amount of time revising the book to make it accessible to people. A part of the purpose was to provide an understanding — to see what can lead to evil and what can lead to good."

While the book does grapple with fundamental, massive questions (good and evil in society) it is also highly readable, unlike most works by scholars.

"Any literate undergraduate should be able to read it. I made a definite effort to make this book as accessible and readable as possible."

As to the bulk of the interview: the questions and answers presented are done so out of sequence, as concerns the actual interview, to provide some semblance of clarity, that I was unable to provide at the time.

"The first part of the book is about cultural and societal group violence, the last two chapters being about what we can do to create a more caring society," Staub said in an attempt to summarize "The Roots of Evil." The bulk of the book, given this beginning and ending, concerns itself with the perpetrators, the victims, and, especially, the bystanders of genocide and potential genocide, exploring the Holocaust, the Armenian massacres, the "autogenocide" in Cambodia and the "disappearences" in Argentina.

"We have an access to a whole range of emotions,"he said. "I was looking at the way to [get at] emotional and moral change, and I focused on the tremendous power and importance of the bystanders. It is the passivity of the bystanders that allows that progression along a continuum of destruction . . . causing increasingly greater harm . . . It gives firstly implicit approval to the perpetrators and secondly it changes the bystanders.

"What I'm saying is that you don't have to be a revolutionary to be [politically] active, you just need the courage to speak out. We are all bystanders to a million events, such as the US funding of El Salvador, and, domestically, with racism and homelessness. The first basic task is to create a climate where we feel we can take responsibility [to voice our opinions]."

So how do you mobilise?

"We need to develop some kind of ideals," he said.

How do you feel about the recent strike and the rally in Boston earlier this semester as examples?

"That was a great example of bystanders taking [their lives] into their own hands. They were all disciplined and responsible. The group in Boston [at which Staub was present] was orderly and responsible. And what the media did [concentrating on some trampled flowers instead of on the issue at hand] was indicative of the way the media distorts the truth."

One major issue here seems to be one of change . . .

"Yes, the perpetrators find it easier to hurt people after a while; it's learning through action.

"I believe . . . when [the bystanders] get involved, they themselves change. They're more committed to a cause, to human welfare, in general. Change can be achieved domestically, with issues such as the homeless and education [re. the strike] . . . And it can be done internationally, with business men doing projects with other nations, so the "us — them" differation [is ended]. I think we should have a mutual discourse, not unilateral, but mutual.

On to the more negative aspects . . .

"Cultural factors are important; difficult life conditions, such as the economy, play an important role. Things give rise to intense social needs in people, like a defence of one's self concept, like the concept of reality in the midst of an upheaval, and the need to feel connected with others. This is where the devaluation of people as subgroups occurs. You have a very strong respect for authority, along with a certain societal self-concept and a group begins to fulfill it's needs . . .

. . .But where do you distinguish between the society that's becoming more caring, finding the government to be a scape-goat, and the society that's persecuting a sub-group?

There is a distinction between abstract ideologies. When, in the name of abstract ideals, it is possible to hurt people [then the line is drawn]. In contrast when you genuinely try to improve the world, there's a concern for human welfare [that would, ideally, prevent one from hurting another].

"A crucial tragedy of genocide and mass killings is that in the name of so called higher ideals, usually as part of an ideology, certain groups of people become victimised . . .where people can be killed in order to fulfill the higher good.

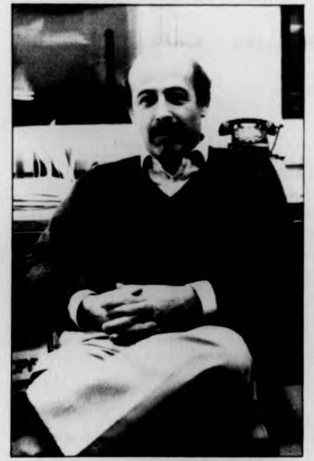
"The last part of the puzzle is the role of the bystanders. We need to develop in this world, all of us, a critical consciousness and a critical loyalty.

"The critical consciousness means that we have to have independent judgement, to not take whatever we are told without question.

"The critical loyalty is [very important]. People need to form independant judgement of what is best for the group, not just accepting what the leaders say. You're still loyal to the society as a whole, but this loyalty can be expressed by opposing the powers that be, as with the protesting of the war in Viet Nam. The main of the group discourages this, even though it is for it's own good to listen to it's discrepant voices."

Staub also stressed that while the subject matter at hand deserves a written treatment that is accessible to "literate undergraduates," his work in this book "has a research base, as well as a powerful manifestation in real life."

The book deserves all the critical raves it is currently receiving. Taking the roots of evil and exposing them, and from that reaping an optimistic (even Utopian) thesis, is more than speaking one's mind; it is a suggestion towards our own. As Staub says, "just by expressing our ideals and expressing our convictions by action, we can affect people." This book is Ervin Staub's way of affecting people. Hopefully it will touch many, but it all starts with you.



Collegian photo by Dondi Ahearn
Professor and author Ervin Staub

Mediocrity and poetry

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

"Even though there are numerous student publications on campus, none fully involves both faculty and student elements to present a coherent compilation of student creativity as Troy publications does," wrote Linda Woods, co-Editor of the journal, in an effort to describe it's importance.

I'll go further, to say that Troy is the best representation of undergraduate student poetry and prose available to UMass, and it's lack of support is a near crime, to put it mildly. I was hoping to give the news that the magazine's second issue is out now, as planned. Unfortunately it is not so, due to financial problems.

Chris Wysocki, the co-President and founder of the UMass Poetry Society, said that, although $1200 is currently on hand, to get the presses rolling a figure of $2300 is needed. Therefore the publication will not be available until the first week of Febuary next year. Roger Weingarten will have three poems included, along with work by Rebecca Wolff and Joe Pernice. Damian Roskill and Connoly Ryan, who were also included in the first issue (put out last Spring and still available), will also have newer work included, along with several other emerging UMass writers.

"Financially, it's unfortunate," Wysocki said. "The dean of humanities sent a nice letter, but no money [as they did last semester]. We're re-petitioning through the SGA and the dean of students . . .We realize how difficult it is to give out money, but we're a cheap, no frills operation. We put out a good publication, that's where all the money goes."

When I mentioned the Brave Mannequin publication, put out primarily by and for MFA students, Wysocki had a couple of things to say: "That was sad. It looked like a fun grab bag, instead of a real effort. Who's going to want to read something like that?

"I think it's great that students want to write, but it's unfortunate that there's little help. Cliques and gurus pop up, making themselves unattainable. And that's the opposite of what writing, and what Troy, is about. We need to destroy elitism."

Reminds me of, "When power narrows the areas of man's concern, poetry reminds him of the richness and diversity of his existence. When power corrupts, poetry cleanses."

— John F. Kennedy, speech, Oct. 26, 1963.

Troy is a necessity on this campus, if only because now, as much as ever, that cleansing is absolutely mandatory to wipe away the stink of the bulls in the preverbial china shop.

For all activists: a guide to Movement building

By JAY ALLAIN
Collegian Correspondent

Powerful Peacemaking:
A Strategy for a Living Revolution
George Lakey
New Society Publishers
246 pages, $12.95 paper

Rarely do I come upon a work that both insists upon being reread and makes a claim to the most central issues of my life. For activists who are serious, these two qualities in "Powerful Peacemaking" should be readily experienced by them as well.

But is it really possible, I hear some asking, that a single book can address the complexity and mecurial properties of social change movements? And aren't most attempts at exploring the dynamics of movements relegated to the theoretical plane where the turbid nature of movements becomes sanitized? Both concerns are indeed valid, yet Lakey, in highly accessible language, shows that during his 25 years in the Movement he has been analyzing factors which impede or foster the strength of direct action groups - not simply protesting.

The meat of Lakey's book identifies five areas on which movements rise or fall; they are cultural preparation, organizational building , propeganda of the deed, mass noncooperation and parallel institutions. The author can also be erudite without being pompous as he cites numerous historical examples ranging from Ghandi to Chavez to a Quaker Action Group which transported medicine to Haiphong during the Vietnam War. One can hardly be unimpressed by the concern and intelligence with which the author forges a blueprint for "a living revolution."

Yet while acknowledging his skill as a strategist, Lakey's sensitivity and support for the hard work of movement building resonated most powerfully in me. The author frequently cites various obstructions to movements without being either cavalier or defeatist. For example, he writes:

"Because politicizing the people is so sensitively linked to the cultural pattern, revolutionary agitation is extremely difficult. The agitators tend to be alienated not only from the power institutions but from the people as well . . . For today's young radicals the gap remains painfully wide between their lifestyle and that of middle America."

This remark alone shows that Lakey is operating from the inside of the movement. On every page the depth of his commitment glows.

A fascinating appendix also appears at the end of the book wherein he poses key questions for discussion in each of the five areas of movement building mentioned earlier. For stringers, in his second stage, "Organizational Building," some of the questions he asks include:

"In your strategy, what forms of organization make sense?" "What experiments in the forms of organization can be made now, in the light of feminist and other perspectives?" "How can honest and reliable relationships be built between the revolutionaries and non-revolutionarary organizations so each can help the other?" These questions are not generated to overwhelm the change agent with the magnitude of his or her task; rather they are posed as guidlines to nurture dialogue and effective strategizing. A true master, Lakey simultaneously challenges and guides.

As the contradictions of the Organized System became increasingly obvious in the months ahead, and as pollution and violence and mediocrity becomes less palatable, we would be most wise to allow Lakey's book to help us through the maelstrom. A new world waits to be born.

New Society Publishers can be contacted through Box 582, Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

■ Unfinished Women

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 12

and White men hand out the same shit."

Meanwhile, the immensely wealthy Pasha, potrayed with regal frustration by Anna Ryan begs Bird to love, to give her a baby. In desperation, between gulps of gin and snorts of cocaine, she moans to Bird, "I am rich and wallowing in poverty."

Bird's goal is beyond that. He seeks "one perfect note, too perfect for human ears." Pasha's desires are merely distractions for a burning Bird who says, in spits of detractors, " In none of the secret places inside myself have I condemmed myself. Sometimes I wish I was a thought, a sound, anything but flesh."

Bird look-alike Gregory Dean Smith embodies his spirit and plays him like a soul just waiting for release from his mortal cage.

The play culminates in a mass of almost gospel exorcism. Ron Freshley's saxophone, an effective and apropos soundtrack throughout the play, barks and squeals and squwaks as the entire cast wails and screams in a hellish, diabolical cacophony. Someone at the end notes, "Babies cries are like Bird's musical notes that hang in the air forever."

Aishah Rahman's script is an actor's dream, a continuous flow of volcanic lava interwoven with moments of divine inspiration. Ms. Rahman is a national treasure.

Jeffery Fiala's black and gray triple-tiered stage is one of the most creative and outstanding scenic designs I've ever seen for a University production.

Unfinished Women continues Dec. 13-16 at the Rand Theater.

R U A SECRET
SANTA?

Gifts from 19¢ to 4.99

Find It at Faces

amnerst / northampton
daily & sunday

ATTENTION!!!

Date: December 12, 1989
From: National Student Exchange
To: The University
Re: Going on Exchange in the 90's

Dear Undergraduate Students:

If you wish to be at a different place to widen your educational horizons in the nineties, today is the last day. Today is the last day to apply for exchange at a school in Hawaii, Florida, California or the Virgin Islands via the National Student Exchange Program. Attend the last information session at Campus Center Room 171 at 4 p.m. tc start making plans for the nineties. BE THERE!

Curriculum Fee Waiver

Undergraduate and Graduate applications for the curriculum fee waiver for Spring 1990 will be available in Financial Aid Services, Dec. 4, 1989.

Applicants must demonstrate a severe financial hardship to qualify for a waiver.

Foreign Students may pick up applications at Clark International House.

Application Deadline is Dec. 22, 1989

BRECKENRIDGE
GENUINE COLORADO

$599

NEW DATE!
NEW PRICE!
JAN. 8 — 15

Trip Includes
- Round trip airfare
- Round trip transfers
- 7 Nights condo lodging
- 5 Days of lifts
- Services of on site staff
- All taxes and gratuities

SIGN UP NOW
UMASS SKI CLUB

ROCK BOTTOM PRICES

Model 8088 10MHZ CPU system includes
- 640k RAM on board
- 4.77 & 10 MHZ Speeds hardware and software selectable
- Slimline case
- 360K or 720K floppy drive
- 200 Watt Power supply
- MS-DOS 3.3
- Phoenix Bios

We carry a complete line of IBM compatible systems custom configuration available, Please call for free catalogue!

ALTERNATIVE CHOICE COMPUTER
(413) 625-8153
PO BOX 355 Shelburne Falls, Ma 01370

ATTENTION STUDENTS OF COLOR

All seniors (2.8 GPA), Juniors (2.5 GPA), Asian American, Black, Hispanic, American Indian or Pacific Islanders who are US citizens or have a resident alien status may qualify for the Career Expo 1990 Scholarship. There will be a number of $1,000 scholarships available. The deadline for applications is December 18, 1989. Applications are available at BCP, CCEBMS, and MEP.

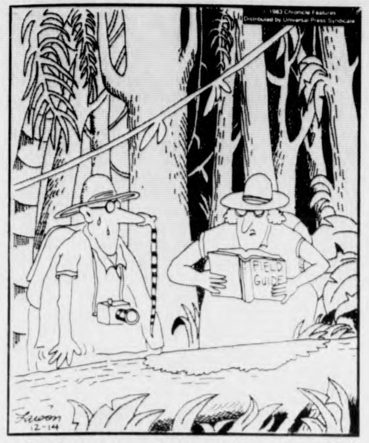
SQUIRE VILLAGE
APARTMENTS

1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments
available for January 1.

On Bus Route

CALL 665-2203

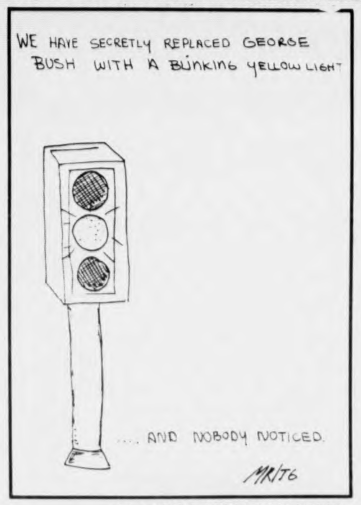
THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



© 1983 Chronicle Features
Distributed by Universal Press Syndicate
FIELD GUIDE
Larson 12-14

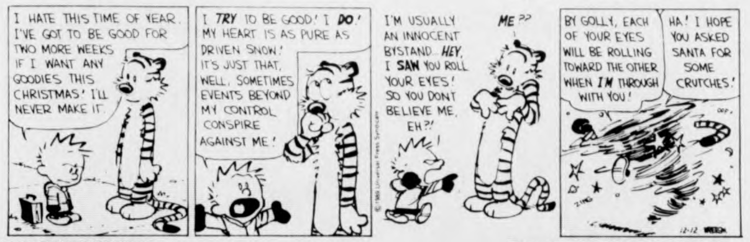
"'This dangerous viper, known for its peculiar habit of tenaciously hanging from one's nose, is vividly colored.' . . . Oh! Murray! Look! . . . Here's a picture of it!"

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG



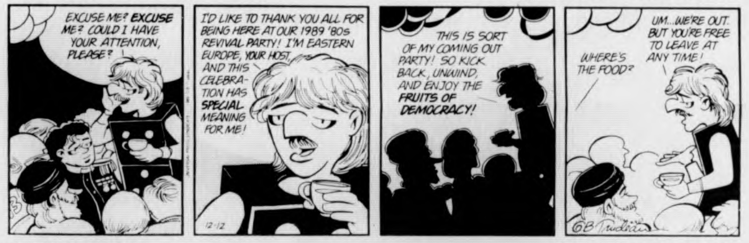
WE HAVE SECRETLY REPLACED GEORGE BUSH WITH A BLINKING YELLOW LIGHT
.... AND NOBODY NOTICED.
MR/JG

CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



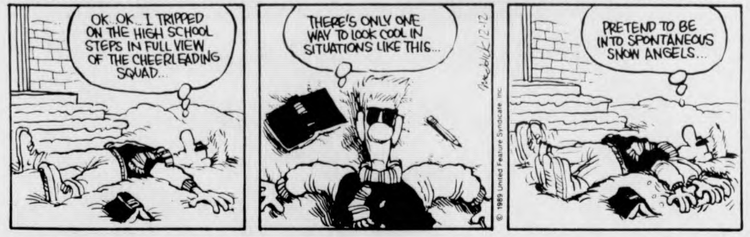
I HATE THIS TIME OF YEAR. I'VE GOT TO BE GOOD FOR TWO MORE WEEKS IF I WANT ANY GOODIES THIS CHRISTMAS! I'LL NEVER MAKE IT.
I TRY TO BE GOOD! I DO! MY HEART IS AS PURE AS DRIVEN SNOW! IT'S JUST THAT, WELL, SOMETIMES EVENTS BEYOND MY CONTROL CONSPIRE AGAINST ME!
I'M USUALLY AN INNOCENT BYSTAND.. HEY, I SAW YOU ROLL YOUR EYES! SO YOU DONT BELIEVE ME, EH?!
ME??
BY GOLLY, EACH OF YOUR EYES WILL BE ROLLING TOWARD THE OTHER WHEN I'M THROUGH WITH YOU!
HA! I HOPE YOU ASKED SANTA FOR SOME CRUTCHES!
12-12 WATSON

DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



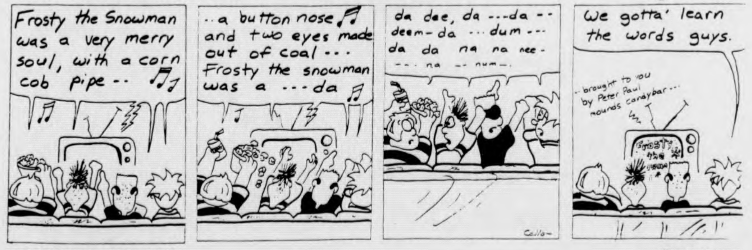
EXCUSE ME? EXCUSE ME? COULD I HAVE YOUR ATTENTION, PLEASE?
I'D LIKE TO THANK YOU ALL FOR BEING HERE AT OUR 1989 '80s REVIVAL PARTY! I'M EASTERN EUROPE, YOUR HOST, AND THIS CELEBRATION HAS SPECIAL MEANING FOR ME!
THIS IS SORT OF MY COMING OUT PARTY! SO KICK BACK, UNWIND, AND ENJOY THE FRUITS OF DEMOCRACY!
WHERE'S THE FOOD?
UM.. WE'RE OUT. BUT YOU'RE FREE TO LEAVE AT ANY TIME!
12-12
GBTrudeau

ROBOTMAN
By JIM MEDDICK



OK..OK.. I TRIPPED ON THE HIGH SCHOOL STEPS IN FULL VIEW OF THE CHEERLEADING SQUAD...
THERE'S ONLY ONE WAY TO LOOK COOL IN SITUATIONS LIKE THIS...
PRETEND TO BE INTO SPONTANEOUS SNOW ANGELS...
© 1989 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
Meddick 12-12

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT
By CELLI



Frosty the Snowman was a very merry soul, with a corn cob pipe --
.. a button nose and two eyes made out of coal --- Frosty the snowman was a ---da da dee, da ---da -- deem-da ... dum --- da da na na nee - --- na -- num--
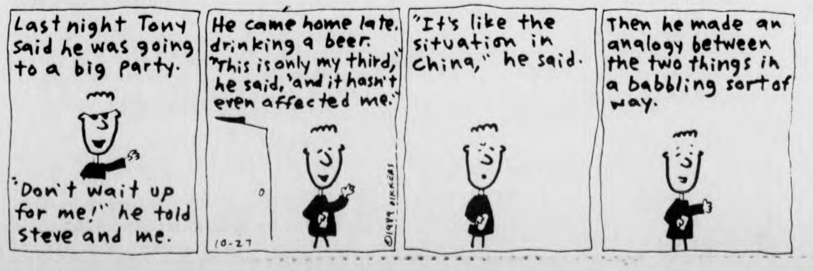
We gotta' learn the words guys.
.. brought to you by Peter Paul mounds candybar ...
Frosty the Snow
Celli

JIM'S JOURNAL
By JIM



Last night Tony said he was going to a big party.
"Don't wait up for me!" he told Steve and me.
He came home late, drinking a beer. "This is only my third," he said, "and it hasn't even affected me."
"It's like the situation in China," he said.
Then he made an analogy between the two things in a babbling sort of way.
10-27
©1989 DIRKERS

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

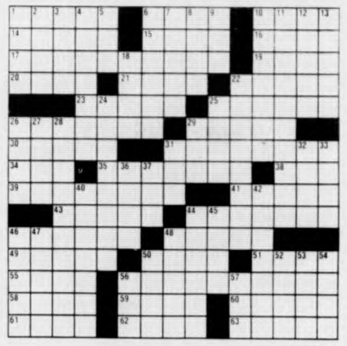
ACROSS
1 Gradation
6 Side dish
10 Elec. values
14 Rocky slope
15 Swift creature
16 "Winnie-the-—"
17 Unlucky
19 Pretense
20 Source
21 Sharp turns
22 Perfume
23 Without a sou
25 Engraver
26 Gain
29 Tribute
30 Fanatic
31 Gave a smile of sorts
34 Collection of memorable sayings
35 Leg bones
38 Wire serv.
39 Informant
41 Indy 500 vehicle
43 Outdo
44 Carved ornament on a gable
46 Encloses
48 Wading bird
49 Relaxed
50 Prejudice
51 Constant
55 Short distance
56 Unimaginative
58 Shelter
59 Formerly
60 Upset
61 Music and dance
62 Cauterize
63 Look after

DOWN
1 Rouse
2 Symbolic ring
3 Telephone answer
4 British container of a kind
5 Schedule abbr.
6 Predatory bird
7 Comprehensive
8 Greek god
9 Join
10 Satisfy
11 Cher's Academy Award winner: 1987
12 Sheriff's group
13 Absolute
18 Sea of —, USSR
22 Outmoded companion?
24 Embarrassed
25 Robin Cook book
26 At a distance
27 Movies, in Cannes
28 Providential
29 Sesame
31 Big — Calif.
32 Dueler's weapon
33 Gossip
36 Reunion et Martinique, e.g.
37 — canto (singing style)
40 Omits
42 Solvent
44 Volcano feature
45 Headstrong
46 Holiday, in Madrid
47 Nibbler
48 About
50 Distressful matter
52 Boorish
53 Fixed amount
54 Taro
56 Goddess of dawn
57 Tourist transport

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

T	O	R	N	■	L	O	I	R	E	■	N	I	K	E
O	B	O	E	■	E	I	D	E	R	■	A	R	I	D
B	A	S	E	B	A	L	L	D	I	A	M	O	N	D
E	N	A	■	O	N	C	E	■	■	D	A	N	D	Y
■	■	■	A	T	T	A	■	T	R	O	T	■	■	■
W	A	T	C	H	O	N	T	H	E	R	H	I	N	E
O	M	A	H	A	■	■	W	I	N	E	■	N	I	L
R	I	S	E	■	S	P	I	N	E	■	O	U	T	S
S	S	T	■	S	P	A	R	■	■	A	T	S	E	A
T	H	E	P	E	A	R	L	F	I	S	H	E	R	S
■	■	■	R	E	N	T	■	I	N	T	O	■	■	■
A	W	A	I	T	■	■	A	L	S	O	■	G	E	T
C	A	M	E	O	A	P	P	E	A	R	A	N	C	E
I	V	E	S	■	S	T	E	R	N	■	H	A	H	A
D	E	N	T	■	P	A	S	S	E	■	A	T	O	M

12/12/89



1989 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES(March 21-April 19): You will receive strong support from many quarters today. Go ahead and speak out! A financial venture brings a better return than you anticipated. Take steps to protect your valuables. Build savings.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20): Follow your intuition - even if you must defy convention. You are a survivor! Working hard now will mean fewer financial pressures in the future. Retirees can look ahead to brighter days.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20): You have better luck juggling your financial responsibilites now. Romance intensifies. Someone who is steady will make you a good partner. You ponder making a commitment. Do nothing in haste.

CANCER(June 21-July 22): Harboring a grudge will drag you down. Accept an apology and get on with your life. A romantic separation ends. You could meet someone at lunch who will be helpful to your career.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22): Complete an assignment early and you can pick up some extra cash. Those who work in broadcasting, retailing and the arts enjoy especially good luck. Romantic partner may be getting ready to bow out.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22): It is important to follow your instincts now. Do not give in to peer pressure. Be independent without being abrasive. Students get a happy surprise. A financial crisis can be easily averted.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22): Someone wants to test your mettle. You emerge in a much stronger position. Translate your hard work into a better post or more generous contract. A risky job deserves extra pay.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21): Join your neighbors in organizing a response to a proposal that will affect your community. New alliances bring surprising developments. Write down your ideas so as not to forget them.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21): You profit from someone else's mistake. A member of the opposite sex is trying to confuse you. Change is in the wind. Keep expenses down. You adapt quickly to new surroundings.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19): Do not let minor upsets cause you to lose momentum. Your ambitions are fired by a phone call from a former employer or colleague. Go after a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. Romance blossoms.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18): Duck phone calls until you have more answers. Your financial security is enhanced by a loved one's actions. A friendship could suddenly turn romantic. Both of you are surprised.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20): Personality counts more than training when applying for a job today. Educators receive grants and other support. You learn from observing those around you. Expand your social circle by joining new groups.

MENU

LUNCH	DINNER
Tacos Boston burger	Manicotti Pork chops
BASICS LUNCH	BASICS DINNER
Vegetable Taco Boston burger	Manicotti Split pea vegie soup

Men's swimming team keeps rolling along

Minutemen splash Southern Connecticut 146-97 to up record to 5-0

By C.J. ABATI
Collegian Staff

After most big games, teams will usually suffer an emotional letdown, and lose the next time out. Fortunately, the University of Massachusetts men's swimming team didn't succumb to the mental pressures as they increased their record to 5-0 with a 146-97 victory over Southern Connecticut, Saturday afternoon.

Southern Connecticut knew that the Minutemen were mentally drained, and came into the meet shaved thinking that they might possibly be able to steal this one. UMass proved that they are still made of the stuff that gave them three consecutive New England Championships, by winning nine of the 13 events.

"It was a little tough to prepare for the meet after Brown," said coach Russ Yarworth. "Sothern Connecticut was shaved and ready to roll, but we rose to the occasion. I was pleased with our aggressiveness."

As usual, the Minutemen jumped out on top, as the team of Curt Sawin, Jay Peluso, Evan Gwilliam and Brian McIver won the 400-yard medley relay with a time of 3:37.26. UMass increased it's lead as Jim Robertson swam away with the 1000-yard freestyle in 10:02.83. Frank Sampson finished second with a time of 10:10.35.

The 50-yard freestyle was probably the closest race of the day, as five swimmers finished within .87 seconds of one another. G.T. Ladd won with an impressive time of 22.03 seconds.

Jay Peluso took two individual events, as well as contributing to the relay, continuing his outstanding season. Peluso won the 200-yard intermediate in 1:58.98, as well as the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:13.04.

Peluso wasn't the only Minuteman to win more than one individual event. Dan Chesnicka put on a superb show on both the 1-meter and 3-meter diving boards. Chesnicka scored 273.90 on the 1-meter board and 278.40 on the 3-meter board.

"His diving keeps getting better as the season progresses," said Yarworth. "He is very consistent up there. That's something we really need."

The most surprising event of the day was the 100-yard freestyle. Brian McIver, who is one of the best sprinters in New England, lost to his counterpart from Southern Connecticut. McIver finished .07 seconds behind the leader at :46.61.

"Sportini is a good swimmer, and was shaved for the meet," said Yarworth. "Brian knows what's important for the team. Besides, Brian will show him a thing or two when it really counts — in the New Englands."

Curt Sawin and Mike Yunker also won events to help the UMass cause. Sawin won the 200-yard backstroke in 2:02.43. Yunker easily won the 500-yard freestyle in 4:49.57.

"We're 5-0 and right on course," said Yarworth. "I'm pleased with where were at, and where were headed."

Swimming Notebook: The Minutemen continue to be relatively injury free. . . Evan Gwilliam and Chris Barrett are both suffering from sore shoulders. Scott Reed has been suffering from a severe case of the flu. . . The university's budget crisis has hit the swim team: sophomore Mike Yunker will not be returning to the team next semester. . . As most sports fans will be glued to the television watching Notre Dame and Colorado go at it in the Orange Bowl, the swim team will be having a little fun in the sun, as they travel to West Palm Beach, Fla. to compete in the Collegiate Mile Swim.

Intramural notice

Rosters are still be accepting at the intramural office for basketball in the spring. There are openings in all leagues, including men's, women's and co-ed.

For more information on basketball and any other sport concerning specific times and dates call 545-0022 or drop by the intramural office in 215 Boyden.

EAT, DRINK AND BE MERRY
ALL YOU CAN EAT
BUFFET $5.99
Monday-Thursday 5-8 p.m.
Wednesday December 13 8:30 PM
COMEDY
OPEN STAGE
Think you're funny? Sign up by 8:15 to perform
$2.00 admission to non performers
COMEDY ZONE
Every Friday & Saturday 8:30 PM
2nd semester FREE plan now
BANQUET — PARTY
ROOM
Sun. - Thurs Call for info 585-8615 or 586-1202
PEKING GARDEN
A MANDARIN & SZECHUAN RESTAURANT
on Route 9, Hadley 北京園 next to Hadley Subaru

Half Of This Year's
Medical School
Class Got There
With Our Help.

To study alone for the MCAT's is nearly impossible. To study without Stanley H. Kaplan is simply a bad career move.

Maybe it's our 50 years of experience. Our small classes and advanced teaching methods. Or a research department that reacts to test changes before most companies even know they exist.

Whatever it is, if medicine is in your future, Stanley H. Kaplan can help you start practicing right now.

For information call 800-KAP-TEST and find out more about any of our 135 centers nationwide.

STANLEY H. KAPLAN
Take Kaplan Or Take Your Chances

Winter Session Classes for:
LSAT,GMAT, GRE, MCAT forming
scholarship available for Financial Aid students
358 N. Pleasant St. 549-5780

Practice Preventive
Medicine...

What's the matter Doc, I feel awful!
You need a prescription for a tune up, oil change and winterization.

Don't Let Your Car Catch
A Cold This Winter
PRESCRIPTION COUPON
1 Oil Change......$21.95
10W30, 10W40
1 Tune-Up..........$45.95
4 cyl.
1 Radiator Flush$26.95
1 gal.
Reg. $94.85
WITH PERSCRIPTION $80
SpeeDee Oil Change
and You Will Save $14.95
Spee Dee
OIL CHANGE & TUNE-UP
RAPID • RELIABLE • REASONABLE
NO APPOINTMENT NEEDED
Pleasant St. Northampton (next to car wash)
586-5640

Spring Break
to Florida
$198.00

Buy your tickets
before Dec. 15
Call for full details
586-8953
Your Partners
in Travel
Maplewood Shops
Northampton

UMass Arts Council
GRANT PROPOSAL
DEADLINE

The next deadline for submission of grant proposals for arts-related projects and events:

Wednesday, February 5

Guidelines and application forms are available at the Arts Council office and the Student Activities Office

Umass Arts Council
125 Herter Hall, 545-0202

Main Attractions
584-9982
HAIR & TANNING SALON
Featuring:
precision cutting design perm wrapping
dimensional coloring hair weaving
tanning
Northampton

Celts

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 20

rebounds, providing just about all of the team's offense. Bird, however, shot an ugly 9-23 and committed 7 turnovers. Number 33 has shown flashes of his old greatness, and may regain his timing on a more consistent basis, but his three-pointers are missing too often and his crowd-pleasing passes are delivered to people in the stands almost as often as to teammates.

Despite the scoring ability of the frontcourt, defense remains a problem at times. Bird may score 30 points, but when the likes of Ricky Pierce and Chuck Person exploit him with embarrassing regularity, his help to the team diminishes greatly. Kevin McHale has responded to reduced minutes with rebounding more like that of someone 6'7' than 6'11'. Ed Pinckney, a rugged defensive player, is either too ineffective on offense or has too many fouls to make a consistent contribution.

Thoughts of the Boston backcourt matching up against Magic Johnson and Byron Scott are not pleasant ones for Celtic's faithful. Dennis Johnson has become quieter and quieter on offense, and his patented poke-check steals seem to result in a whistle nine times out of 10. Johnson can still contribute (14 pts. and 13 assists against the Knicks in Boston) and he's a tough competitor who can never be counted out.

The rest of the Boston backcourt is in tough shape: Jim Paxson is not the same player who's put up 10,000 career points, and Kelvin Upshaw and Kevin Gamble are good athletes whose moves would be a lot more effective in the CBA than the NBA. Charles Smith, who made the team by the skin of his teeth, has shown the kind of tenacious defense and flashy passing that may allow him to become an legitimate NBA player. Smith needs several years, however, before he can become a reliable backup point guard. Although Brian Shaw wouldn't help the team's outside shooting woes too much, his passing and rebounding would provide a welcome addition to the 1989-'90 Celtics.

Hope springs eternal, however, especially if you are a sports fan in New England. Despite all of the negatives, Boston is only 1 1/2 games out of first place in the Atlantic Division. Reggie Lewis has been hurt, and his return to form will help the team.

The return of John Bagley may help to shore up the backcourt, and the Celtics cannot play any worse than they already have.

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8 30-3 30, FRI 8 30-2 30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

CONFUSED ABOUT EASTERN EUROPE? Find out what changes mean Robert Pfaltzcraff Institute for Foreign Policy Analysis December 13 7:30pm CC165-69.

FIRST ANNUAL 1990 STUDENT FILM/VIDEO FESTIVAL Sponsored by Club Communication and The Union Video Center applications available in Machmer 417.

CHAMPION SWEATSHIRTS. High quality at discount prices assorted color and schools support UMass Volleyball Campus Center Dec 13.

THE BUSH IS OPEN Umass Ski Club goes to Jamaica, Quebec Sugarbush, Breckenridge 430 Student Union 545-3437 or concourse table.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

*KERAMOS HOLIDAY POTTERY SALE Turs &Fri Dec 14 & 15 10-5 at Munson Annex ceramic studio for more info call: 545-2750 ***

VISA OR MASTERCARD! Even if bankrupt or bad credit! We guarantee you a card or double your money back.Call 1-805-682-7555 ext M-1207.

BED AND BREAKFAST
Downtown Amherst
549-5961

AUTO FOR SALE

PURCHASING A USED CAR? Having your car repaired? Do you know your rights? Contact the Legal Services Center, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

1982 VW RABBIT 4 SPEED hatchback am-fm ac new exhaust excellent condition $1600 or best offer call 586-9526 evenings.

$500 OR BEST OFFER! 1976 Ford Granada in excellent shape needs a home. Great reliable car, nice interior, dependable in all kinds of weather. Perfect for driving around campus and/or for long trips! Call 549-2862. Aren't you tired of having to take the bus everywhere?!

1982 DATSUN 210. good condition, A/C, new muffler, $1200 or BO Call Nader 584-1362.

1979 BUICK SKYHAWK. Great shape. New tires, and muffler. $1000 or B/O call 546-8228.

SEIZED CARS, TRUCKS, 4 WHEELERS, TV's, stereos, furniture, computers by DEA, FBI, IRS, and US Customs. Available your area now. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext C-1675.

ATTENTION - Government Seized Vehicles from $100. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus buyers guide. 1-602-838-8885 ext. a-7627.

CUT YOUR PHONE BILL IN HALF

JOIN THE FONE HOME CLUB. Free signup- for your phone bill. Save $30.00. Offer valid until XMas. 549-3737.

ENTERTAINMENT

PERFORMANCE - A/V, DJ's, Lights, rentals, sales, service 508-922-3277.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED

FOR NEXT SEMESTER! Very low rent, sunny and clean (non-smokers, please) apartment. Call Alise 256-1250, evenings. Thanks.

FINANCE INVESTMENT CLUB

PRESENTS RENOWNED INVESTOR BEN BRANCH PHD to speak on investing trends and forcasting. Terrific opportunity to learn about the market from an insider 7-9pm in SBA 111 tonight. All members must attend this final meeting.

FOR RENT

TAKE OVER OUR LEASE in Puffton...one bedroom free heat free furniture take over Jan 24 1990 call 549-6736.

ONE ROOM TO RENT CHEAP. Very short walk to campus. Call 549-8294.

ONE FEMALE NEEDED to share beautiful Brandywine apt. Great roommates, free heat $180/mo. Call 549-8319 or 549-0561.

2 BEDROOM 560/month includes cable, hot water, heat lease ends in June 253-0930.

1 BEDROOM APT IN COLONIAL VLG start Jan 1 call Gong 256-1658.

STUDIO IN AMHERST, beautiful and quiet, bus rte $350/mo, must see to appreciate 253-7456 after 10:00pm.

TAKE OVER LEASE Southwood 2br new rug, paint, appl. must see 253-7085.

3 BEDROOM APT IN ECHOHILL in Amherst $950/mo. $ util. or separate rooms for $325 each. 2 car garage on bus route Heather 584-9845.

PUFFTON ONE LARGE BEDROOM for two or one nonsmoker take over lease Jan 1 call after five 549-0224 ask for Elana or Heather.

ROOM ON BUSROUTE IN AMHERST HOUSE, ask for Rick, 256-1588.

NEED A PLACE TO STAY FOR WINTERSESSION? Rooms for rent. Friendly atmosphere. Utilities, electricity, cable included. For more info call: Adam 549-5790, Mike 549-8019.

SINGLE ASK FOR MATT after 7pm 549-0071.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for Sunset Ave apts. 165/mo call 549-3826 (across from Patterson)

AMHERST ROOMS TO RENT. Immediately. 401 Main St. 300. Call 253-2528.

ROOM FOR RENT AVAILABLE Dec. 15. Call Jamie or Jen 665-8662.

FOR SALE

BEDROOM FURNITURE SET - Bed, Bureau, nighttable, mirror. Jen 549-1856.

DANISH CONTEMPORARY STYLE WATCHES silver quartz great for a XMas gift! Call if interested 549-8793 and ask for Britt.

ROUND TRIP TICKET HARTFORD to Pheonix, Az. Leaves Bradley 12/24/89 return from Pheonix 1/6/90. $220 call 585-0711 mornings best.

BED AND BOXSPRING - Twin. Excellent condition. 256-0201 leave message.

AMIGA 500 W/COLOR MONITOR and printer $800 527-8408 before 9pm.

CANON AI CAMERA 2 zoom lenses, professional flash, motor drive, equipment bag, tripod, all top quality and condition. Paid over $1100 new, yours for $400. Wayne 549-7999.

1982 TOYOTA FOR SALE : Blue, excellent conditions, must sell! Call 549-4263.

PLANE TIX FOR SALE MPLS to Boston Jan 15 100.00 or BO 253-0844 or 256-6801 lv message - Margi.

ATOMIC ARX 180 perfect condition selling due to injury $135 call 6-9652.

DIAMOND SOLITAIRE AND MATCHING WEDDING BAND: White gold, one-fifth carat, women's size 6. Call Beth 256-8625 $200 the set.

SKI BOOTS SALOMON SX71 Ladies size 6 $85 or B.O. Aft 7 6-4701.

SKIS FOR SALE. Olin VI 205cm slalom w/Tyrolia 360D bindings. $90 call Howard 549-8487.

KEEP WARM Navyblue CB Skijacket New: Name your price Call Jason 256-8028.

REPOSSESSED VA & HUD HOMES available from government fro $1 without credit check. You repair. Also tax delingquent foreclosures call 1-805-682-7555 ext H-2009 for repo list your area.

SAN FRANCISCO $99 Dec 7th and 13th 253-7109 or 253-9875.

---PLANE TIX 4 SALE---

One way Dec 28th Ticket Boston to Minneapolis $120 or BO Call Marshall 6-6853.

FOUND

GOLD WATCH IN HAMDEN MUNCHIES Call Denise 546-8079

CHRISTINE WALLY Photo album found at the collegian.

RECTANGULAR, HAND-CRAFTED EARRING in front of Machmer on 12/8. Pick up at Campus Center info desk.

GRADUATING IN MAY?!

STUDENTS GOING ON EXCHANGE next semester would like to make arrangements now for taking over your lease at the end of May for the fall Semester '90. We're interested in a house or house apartment in Amherst area. Please call & leave message 546-6308.

HELP WANTED

EARN UP TO $1500 this winter break. Join us in our fight for clean air and water; Fight for recycling. Positions in Amherst, Boston. Training provided part time positions availalbe into spring. Call Clean Water Action 549-7450.

NEED A JOB FOR WINTERSESSION and Spring sememster? The Commuter Gov't is searching for an office manager 6-10 hours/week $4.25/hour. Pick up applications at room 404 in the Student Union.

MOVERS WANTED Help move furniture in Easthampton on Dec. 16. $7.50/hr, 4 hrs. (508) 937-3609.

ATTENTION: EARN MONEY READING BOOKS! $32,000/year income potential. Details 1-602-838-8885 ext. BL 7627.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-641-8003 ext 598.

EVEN THE NIGHTS ARE BETTER Telefund! Make $5 to $7/hr raising money for UMass! Call 545-3509.

TELEFUND NEEDS YOU OVER INTERSESSION! Make $5 to $7/hr raising money for UMass!! Call 545-3509.

PAY OFF THOSE HOLIDAY DEBTS over intersession and spring semester! Telefund needs students to raise money for UMass! Make $5 to $7/hr. Call 545-3509.

DESPERATLY NEED TUTORING! For Coins 121 will pay well $$ Call 549-1756.

CROSS COUNTRY SKI INSTRUCTORS wanted by Amherst Leisure Services for late January through Early March experience necessary call 256-4065.

ATTENTION - hiring! Government jobs - your area. $17,840-$69,485. Call 1-602-838-8885. Ext. R7627.

CRUISESHIPS NOW HIRING for spring, Christmas and next summer breaks. Many positions. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext S-1120.

PART TIME EARN EXTRA CHRISTMAS MONEY while helping others. $5.50-$6.50 per hour. Call 586-5243.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-641-8003 ext 598.

STREET ENTERTAINMENT NEEDED FOR CHRISTMAS Season fundraiser! Earn extra money for Christmas! Call 586-5243.

I'LL EDIT YOUR PAPER

I'LL HELP WITH SPELLING, grammar, word choice, sentence structure and length. Let me take your rough draft and make it something special. $2 for pages 1-5, $1.50 for every other page. Papers in the humanities (economics, political science, journalism, etc.) preferred. Four years editing experience. Call David at 253-2455. Leave a message on my machine. Thanks.

LASER LIGHT ROCK CONCERT

THY BOGPC PRESENTS: Saturn V-The Laser Light Rock Concert. Wednesday December 13 at 8 and 10 pm in the Campus Center Auditorium. Tickets $5, available at tickets unlimited -- 317 Student union.

LOST

LOST PASSPORT (233542) if found please call Mehrdad Varzandeh at 549-5189.

MARY MARGARET

TO THE MEGGER, or is it the Pegger? Well maybe we'll call you M.M. or Maggie, or Peggy? Hmm...how bout, Just plain Mary Margaret, gret, gret. Have a groovin time in Paris...try to squeeze as much cash out of the folks! And to you we wish you season's greetings, holidays, peace, joy to the world etc. xoxoxoxoxoxoxoxo Paule Stone.

MICHAEL

ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME that I wrote you a personal. It only took me the entire semester. I can not wait until X-Mas! Good luck on finals! I have "faith" in you, you'll do great! Love, Jenny.

MOTORCYCLES

80 HONDA CX500 reliable yet cheap 506-4429.

YAMAHA '82 Mint cond. $600 BO. 2 Helmets 253-5018 call eve.

PAUL V. SPECHT

AS YOU SLEEP, I can only think about how lucky I am to have someone that is so beautiful next to me. Your Charm is only matched by your humor. You're the most beautiful, vibrant, sexy man I have ever met, or ever will meet. 8 months! All my love and admiration Tyger. P.S. Into a frenzy.

PERSONALS

MATT — I'M SO GLAD I MET YOU at the Pub Thurs. night. I'd been watching you all semester. Thanks for the "ride" home and the frozen roses! Love, Rhonda.

SCOTT Here's your personal. Thanks for making class fun and for showing me the value of graphs. Love Kathy.

TO JEN AND LESLIE ON THE 9th FLOOR of Kennedy - Kwitcherbellyaching already. If I had to run a personal to everyone do you realize how long it would be? Then the Collegian would be really really upset with me and then they would put me in charge of the soap opera review or something. So relax, huh -Jim.

KAREN K. Have an awesome 21st birthday! Go up town and get trashed. You deserve it! Lots of love, you hot babe! Anner.

WEW, IT'S A TOWEL RACK not a bra holder!! Luff Onchel.

LILY - I LOVE YOU - Willy.

TO MS. TERRY STARMER, Ms. Susan Kent and Ms. Christine Ashe, you have got to be the most sexiest co-workers anyone has ever had. Wednesday nights have been the most emjoyable nights ever experienced by a member of the collegian staff. Love always your Wednesday Crew.

TO THE ONE WHO MAKES MY EVERYDAY...you know who you are, Tyger...I will tell you something that you already know, and that is that I love you much, always and forever. For you alone, you are the everything. Peace and always your Loverman.

TO PAUL E. Wog and Tyger, let's get into a frenzy at the love shack, o.k., babes? Love, Nutmeg.

ANDREA - Did I hear somebody say LOVESHACK?

MIM, GOOD LUCK next semester and all that Jazz! Love, your roomies.

ERIC — Good luck in the real world McDonalds will be happy to have you. This is irresponsible graduating on your part. We'll miss you. Love Erin and Laurie.

ERIC W — How about some fun in the snow? Got some time? P.

TO EMILY MACNAMARA AKA GOOPGOBBLER - Happy 21st birthday clown! Will you come home tonight? Luv Helmut, Dickie, Spulick, stroker, and Todd Macdermott.

WHO CANT STOP THINKING ABOUT ME? M.D.

FYG SURPRISE! Oh my god a personal I just wanted to say hi hi I love you very much hunny bunny pahouston.

NANCY HAPPY 19th BIRTHDAY Many more good times to come...We love you!! Melissa, Marcy, Amy, Stacey, & Wax.

RIDE WANTED

NYC ANYTIME SOON. Piet 586-4429.

HELP! Ride needed anywhere upstate NY especially Syracuse, Ithaca(Fri 12/8 Please call 6-1130 leave message.

RIDE NEEDED TO NEW LONDON CT on 12-8 or 12-9. Call Eric 253-9408.

TO ST. PAUL MINN Via Chicago on Dec 21 Call Jeff 546-4098.

ROOM FOR RENT

NICE ROOM AVAILABLE starting Jan 1 or Feb 1. In sunny house near town and campus. Please call evenings Marie 549-6202.

ROOMMATES WANTED

LOOKING FOR 2-3 ROOMMATES to share town house Jan 1 549-1662.

ONE OR TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES wanted for southwood townehouse, new rugs, nice place, on bus route. Start Jan 1 Call 253-2566 anytime. Leave message.

2 ROOMS IN HOUSE $211 fireplace & deck call Kevin at 256-8629.

NEEDED 3 PEOPLE TO SHARE spacious house in S. AMherst 1 dble and 1 sin $150 or $200 beg Jan 1 253-7873.

OPENMINDED FEMALE WANTED to snare Lrg. cozy apt in Sunderland asap 2 bdrms. With 1 female, 2 males. 150 + on bus route call 665-8966 now.

ONE FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED for single room in Townehouse the apt is fully furnished w/cable call anytime 549-4152.

FEMALE NONSMOKING ROOMAMTE NEEDED, on bus route, $181.25. Call A.S.A.P. 253-2211.

HELP OUR ROOMMATE'S LEAVING and so's her share of the rent! Share 1 rm in a 2 bdrm, 2 bath luxury style apt starting Jan 1 non smoking and considerate pls call 253-5314 lv message on busline 200 mo inclusive in Amherst.

FEMALE SMOKER TO FILL half of large double. Big farm house Sunderland $220 util incl. 665-8472.

WANTED ONE FEMALE TO SHARE large doub le in Puffton start Jan 1 $144 inc ht and hw. Call 549-9963.

LOOKING FOR A NONSMOKER to share bedroom in condo 2 miles from campus. Bus stops at door 175 3 fun roommates. 253-2582 leave message.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED, FURNISHED, ON BUS ROUTE, $140/month including utilities call 256-8475.

ONE OR TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES WANTED FOR Southwood Townehouse, new rugs, nice place on bus route. Start Jan. 1 call 253-2566 Anytime Leave message.

2 ROOMMATES NEEDED Townehouse apts. Male or female starting Jan/Feb Call 549-3870.

OPEN-MINDED FEMALE wanted to share big cozy 2 bedroom apartment with 2 males and 1 female. 10 minute ride from campus. On bus route. $150 $ utils: call 665-8966.

SINGLE ROOM AVAILABLE- $210 a month, 10 minute walk to campus, available January or February 1, Call ASAP 549-0446.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED TO SHARE ROOM in Southwood Apt. Starting Jan 1 $165 month. Please call 253-9918 leave message.

2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for lg room in apt in town 200 549-1677.

MALE WANTED FOR ONE BEDROOM in two bedroom apt. Bus route $250 Lee 545-3537 665-7373.

FEMALE NONSMOKER ROOMMATE ¢to share bedroom, avail Jan. 1 200 $ util Puffton 549-7464.

LOOKING FOR 3-4 FEMALES to take over lease January 549-1662.

ONE FEMALE ROOMMATE FOR spring semester to share Mill Valley Estate Apt.
*On bus route
*cheap
*new apt.
*nice roommates
Call Now! 256-6740.

ROOM AVAILABLE IN NEW CONDO starting Jan. 1. Female grad student preferred. 253-3107 or 545-4675.

FEMALE TO SHARE SPACIOUS AND CHEAP room next semester ($115/month$). Non-smokers please call Alise, evenings. Please leave your number and I'll call you back! Thanks.

WANTED FEMALE NONSMOKING ROOMMATE for Southwood Apts rent $181.25. Call 253-2211.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Puffton Village one female non-smoker to share double room starting Jan 1 $150 per month inc heat and water call 549-0768.

WANTED - 1 fun female to share 1$ rm in a 2 bedroom 2 bath luxury style apt on bus line in Amherst starting Jan 1. Must be non smoker please call 253-5314 lv ms, 200 mo inclusive.

1 FEMALE NEEDED to share beautiful Brandywine apt great roommates, free heat - $180/mo. Call 549-8319 or 549-0561.

TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES wanted for So. Nd townehouse new rugs nice place on bus route start Jan 1 call 253-2566 anytime leave message.

LARGE BEDROOM AVAILABLE IN NEW 3 BEDROOM HOUSE. Just 8 miles to UMass in beautiful town of Montague. $230/month plus utilities. Large yard, garage...what a deal! Call Kateri or Bethann after 5:00 at 367-2203.

NONSMOKING FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED for two bedroom apartment. Call 253-2341.

1 or 2 PEOPLE WANTED TO SHARE a two bedroom apt in Townhouse. Call Matt at 549-5805, leave message.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for Sunset Avenue Apts. 165/mo Call 549-3826 (across from Patterson.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED, furnished, on bus route, $140/month inclouding utilities call 256-8475.

LOOKING FOR A NONSMOKER to share bedroom in Condo 2 miles from campus, bus stops at door 175 3 fun roommates. 253-2582 leave message.

TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES WANTED for So ND Townehouse new rugs nice place on bus route start Jan 1 call 253-2566 anytime leave message.

LARGE BEDROOM AVAILABLE in New 3 bedroom house. Just 8 miles to UMass in beautiful town of Montague. $230/month plus utilities. Large yard, garage...what a deal! Call Kateri or Bethann after 5:00 at 367-2203.

SERVICES

PIONEER RESUME. Open everyday. Professional, fast, inexpensive. 4 year disk storage. 665-8873.

SPRING BREAK 90's

COLD?? Don't get left out in the cold, order spring break trips now and save $$$ or even better, you can charge your tripp on a major credit card!! For fun in the sun choose Bahamas or Cancun. Great prices! Great fun. Call Lisa or Donna now. 549-8228.

TO SUBLET

SUBLET SINGLE ROOM Jan 1st (neg.) in 4 bdrm 2 bath apt on bus route stacey 549-8210.

1 BDRM APT IN CLIFFSIDE. Available Jan or Feb 1. Great for 2 people. $235 each includes everything even cable! Please call or leave message 665-2984.

TOY FOR TOTS

SGT. LEE FORESTER, USMCR out of Westover AFB wishes to thank the Army and Air force ROTC for their help with this years toys for tots campaign on campus and asks that all students help to contribute so that the less fortunate children in our community will have a brighter holiday.

TRAVEL

FLORIDA TICKET $100.00 One way to Sarasota call 665-1244 after 5pm.

UMASS TO CARIBBEAN - $189 will get you R/T to the sun and sand of the Caribbean or Mexico. Call SUNHITCHem 256-4116.

WE BEAT THE COMPETITION BY $30-70 on trips to Jamaica and Montego Bay. Great deals also on Bahamas and Nassau. Save $25 if booked before 1-15-90. Michelle 546-7653.

BRADLEY AIRPORT SHUTTLE Christmas special!! $15 fare call noew limited seating. Valley Transporter 256-8484.

NASSAU SPRING BREAK '90 as low as $339 Colpitts world Travel Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235.

LOWEST PRICES GUARANTEED Cancun, Bahamas, Bermuda, Jamaica spring break '90 Call beth or Sue 253-2321.

UNDER 21? NO PROBLEM! Spring Break in Cancun, Nassau, Jamaica! Only $75 deposit by Dec 12th. (Daytona packages too!) Starting from $248. Karen 256-4659.

SPRING BREAK 90' Jamaica, Acapulco, Cancun, Daytona...experienced sales rep, dependable travel service. $25 off before Jan 1 Mary & Karen 549-8166.

CANCUN FOR SPRING BREAK 8 days 7 night of parties people sun and no drinking age. Starting at $359 Call Chris or Amy 549-0532.

TYPING

ACCURATE PROFESSIONAL TYPING. Spelling corrected. Campus pickup. Gloria, 323-5140.

FAST INEXPENSIVE TYPING spell check $1.75 page. Call Ashley at 546-6756.

DON'T PANIC. Let me type your paper. No Typing As Usual. 548-9436.

CASES, PAPERS, THESES, ON-CAMPUS, affordable, grammar reviewed, dependable, experienced 584-7924, Nancy.

WANTED

HELP! Sentimentally attached goldfish owners looking for a caring fishsitter while we're on exchange next semester! (these fish are immortal—they've survived over a year in a six inch bowl!) Please leave a message at 546-9760.

WANTED TO RENT

FEMALE NONSMOKER LOOKING to rent single room in Amherst starting Jan 1 leave message 253-5496.

LOOKING FOR 1-2 BEDROOM for next spring - to rent or take over lease. Please leave message for Jonathan at 549-6605.

ROOMS/HOUSING NEEDED for January. Contact SBMC 256-8615 9am-5pm.

WEEN JOHNSON

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!! LOVE PUPS.

WICKED MINSTREL

HEY, MY WICKED MINSTREL, your evil mistress is thinking of you!! xoxo Me.

SPORTS

Men's hoop too slick for Marathon Oil

Six players hit double figures as Minutemen roll in exhibition,

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

Quick – get the number for Ripley. No way he's gonna believe this one. But he shouldn't feel too bad; he's probably in pretty good company this morning.

The University of Massachusetts men's basketball team came into Curry Hicks Cage last night, ready to play the role as heavy underdogs to a traveling band known as Marathon Oil. Or, that's what everyone thought was going to happen.

Surprise. The Minutemen, acting as if they were having some kind of strange out-of-body experience, sent Marathon Oil away a sad and humbled group of campers, after an astounding 108-71 display before 1,258 baffled fans.

Don't be fooled by the name. This isn't a bunch of guys wearing soiled blue overalls and Ford hats with greasy rags hanging out of their back pockets. The Oilmen were supposedly a powerful group of college graduates.

After all, didn't this very team play Arizona – one of the top teams in the nation – to a 10-point game Saturday night? And lose to Providence by only four?

Chances are, Lute Olson's choking on his Corn Flakes today.

"How can we beat anybody by 40?" said UMass coach John Calipari, as perplexed by the developments as anyone. "We can't put together any team on this campus and beat them by 40."

Somehow they did, and explaining how they did it is gonna be tough, but here goes.

This was just another day at the office for the first seven minutes or so. Then jumpers by Jim McCoy (game-high 21 points) and Rafer Giles put the Minutemen ahead to stay at 16-13, and following a lay-up by Connecticut alum Eric Turner, the Oilmen would never get as close again.

Over the remaining 12:14 of the half, UMass would outscore the Oilmen 38-20, opening it up to a 54-35 laugher at the break. McCoy turned on the jets to end the half with 17 points, and the rest of the team was scrapping, hustling, stealing and just causing absolute mayhem on the floor.

"We beat them to every loose ball and to every rebound," Calipari said. "We didn't do that against Northeastern [a 79-73 loss Saturday]."

Right from the outset of this season, Calipari knew that his troops would have to play with the type of intensity they had last night if they wanted to win consistently.

"This was a great lesson that if we come to play, we can play with anybody," Calipari said.

Even if the score were closer, it was just an exhibition game, and Calipari planned on using his bench in the second half to see what it could do. All the subs proved is that, with the same kind of fire in the gut, they could blow out the opposition as well.

Calipari kept his starters in for the start of the second half, long enough for them to put the game completely beyond reach. The killer was a 15-point run, capped by a McCoy foul line jumper, which pushed it to 78-45 with 12:17 left.

Soon thereafter, the bench emptied and UMass didn't lose a beat. Senior Michael Byrnes (15 points) kept the crowd alive by throwing in treys, while senior Sean Nelen's behind-the-back fast break pass to Byrnes hit the Richter scale as the best play of the young season so far.

Six players hit double figures for the Minutemen, including John Tate (17), co-Atlantic 10 Freshman-of-the-Week Tony Barbee and Rafer Giles (15 each), and freshman forward Harper Williams (13). Barbee also had a leaping one-handed dunk reminiscent of the legendary guy whose number hangs in the rafters of the Cage (that's Julius Erving, in case you were wondering).

UMass gets back to serious business Thursday night, when white-hot New Hampshire visits the Cage. Meanwhile, Marathon leaves here to play top-ranked Syracuse tomorrow night.

"I think we were the down game for them," Calipari said. "They played Arizona and then they play Syracuse. But our guys were fearful of them. They came to play."

Then Calipari, using the ol' Slippery Rock argument, put last night's performance in perspective.

"If Syracuse doesn't beat them by 37, I guess we're the best team in the country," he said.

Hey, if the Minutemen keep playing like they did last night, anything's possible. Believe it . . . or not.

Massachusetts (108): Tony Barbee 6-9 0-0 15; Harper Williams 6-13 1-2 13; John Tate 7-13 3-4 17; Cary Herer 1-2 0-0 2; Jim McCoy 7-13 7-9 21; Rafer Giles 5-15 0-0 12; Chris Bailey 1-2 2-2 4; Sean Nelen 2-3 0-0 5; Matt Anderson 1-4 0-1 2; Michael Byrnes 5-7 2-2 15; Tommy Pace 1-2 0-2 2. Totals: 42-83 15-22 108.

Marathon Oil (71): Jim Less 1-6 2-2 5; Darren Fowlkes 3-8 3-4 11; Eric Turner 8-11 0-2 16; Darrin Houston 1-10 0-0 2; Grady Mateen 3-5 4-5 10; Tony Lehman 0-3 4-4 4; Sam Foggin 4-10 2-2 10; Ken Miller 5-8 3-11 13. Totals: 25-61 18-30 71.

3-point goals: Massachusetts 9-21 (Barbee 3-5, Byrnes 3-4, Giles 2-8, Nelen 1-2, Herer 0-1, McCoy 0-1); Marathon Oil 3-19 (Fowlkes 2-5, Less 1-4, Houston 0-6, Turner 0-3, Foggin 0-1).

Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

The University of Massachusetts thumped a talented Marathon Oil club, 108-71, at the Curry Hicks Cage last night.

Smith edged in the stretch by former U.S. star

By JON REIDEL
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's indoor track team finished up the pre-christmas section of their schedule on Saturday at the Harvard Invitational in Cambridge with an impressive number of high placements in a non-team scoring meet that included some of the nations finest athletes.

Perhaps the most talent filled event of the day was the 3,000 meters. Featured in this race was former U.S. world cross country team member Dan Dillon as well as a pair of nationally ranked runners from Boston University.

UMass entered cross country star Art Smith who managed to pull off a very respectable fifth place finish. Smith was actully ahead of Dillon until he was passed with around 110 yards left to finish in a blistering 8:27.(The equivilant of back-to-back 4:32 miles).

In another heat of the same distance UMass sophomore Tim Campbell, who seems to have fully recovered from a ten month lay-off due to a nasty ankle injury, surprised everyone with a third place 8:38 finish.

'I didn't expect Tim to run that kind of time until the end of the season," said Umass coach Ken O'Brien. "With Art establishing himself as one of New England's premiere distance runners and Tim running the way he did, we now have some real new-found strength in our distance events."

On the other end of the spectrum and as equally impressive for the Minutemen are their speed events.

Although disqualified due to a false start, Kevin Walters managed to qualify for the finals of the 60 meters with a 6.5 second semi-final victory.

"Obviously, the false start was unfortuanate," said O'Brien. "But I still think that Kevin could have finished among the top sprinters in that group."

That's not bad considering that four of last years New England Championship finalists were represented in that race.

The Minutemen's deepest event this year appears to be the 400 meters.

On Saturday, UMass placed three runners in the finals, highlighted by Steve Brown's 4th place finish in a tough 49.7 seconds. Not to far behind was Garfield Vaughn, who took ninth place overall in 50.1, and Mike Grey in 51.4.

"Brown's got the speed going," said O'Brien. "He took two seconds off his time from just last week. He's in good position to be one of the best in New England."

One other bright spot for the Minutemen was the performance of it's mile relay team.

Comprised of Brown, Vaughn, and promising freshmen Joe Bell and Mike Fornierre, the Minutemen managed a solid fifth place finish in a time of 3:24. That time was five seconds faster than last years performnce at the same meet.

The Minutemen will not have another meet until January 13th when they travel to New Haven, Conn. for the Yale Invitational.

"We'll take a few weeks off and then hopefully get a solid two weeks of training in before we compete again," said O'Brien.

Celts missing ingredients

Despite increased frontcourt depth and scoring power, the Boston Celtics have several gaping holes to fill if they hope to become contenders for an NBA title. Larry Bird, Kevin McHale, and Robert Parish have conjured up memories of past championship seasons on some nights, but with the three of them over 32, they can't carry the team every night. The Celts backcourt, however, is the real problem: Dennis

JASON GEORGE

Johnson has lost several steps on defense and his never-smooth shooting touch has deteriorated rapidly.

The Celts disappointing 103-102 loss at home to Denver provides an excellent example of the team's problems. Bird, Parish, and McHale combined for 82 points and 36 rebounds, providing just

CONTINUED ON PAGE 19

Johnson qualifies for New Englands

Finishes fourth in 800-meters at Harvard Invitational

By ADRIENNE MATT
Collegian Staff

Impressive and improved times were produced by the University of Massachusetts women's indoor track team Saturday at the Harvard Invitational. Facing up to some of the toughest competition in New England, the harriers endured the intense competition at Harvard's non-scoring meet.

"There were some outstanding athletes at Harvard," said head coach Julie LaFreniere. "We had a really strong performance."

Becky Johnson placed fourth in the 800-meter run with a time of 2:13.8 which qualified her for New Englands as well as the much sought after ECACs. Johnson was racing against the 1989 outdoor track national champion for that event, Meredith Rainey of Harvard. Rainey completed the event with an impressive time of 2:02.9.

"The quality of the competition made her step up to the challenge of beating her previous times," said LaFreniere. "I was very happy with her."

Setting a new school record for the triple jump with a distance of 36 fet 4 inches was Lennice Johnson. With that performance she qualified for New Englands. The previous school record was held by Julie Muccini at 35 feet 10 inches, set in 1986.

"I saw some outstanding performances," LaFreniere said. "We look to get kids to qualify as early in the season as possible. It's great to see it happen at a meet like Harvard."

Rachel Castriotta and Tina White both qualified for New Englands in the 20-pound weight event. Castriotta placed fourth with a throw of 43 feet 11½ inches, as White threw 43 feet 9 1/2 inches, placing fifth. White succeeded again in putting the shot 37 feet 5¼ inches, setting a personal record, qualifying for New Englands and placing seventh.

"They've both had a nice series, a lot of good throws," LaFreniere said of White's and Castriotta's performances. "In those events you look for consistency and we've repeatedly seen it."

LeeAnn Ambrose also qualified for New Englands in the 55-meter dash with a time of 7.2. Relay teams in both the 4 x 440-meter and 4 x 880-meter qualified and placed third and second, respectively. Completing with a time of 4:01 was the 440 team of Dana Smith, Muccini, Ambrose and Lennice Johnson. Starting the 880 relay was Becky Johnson with a "nice lead" (2:19), followed by Maureen Meldrim (3:5), Shana Smith (2:24.5) and Michelle St. Laurent (2:29). The team finished with a time of 9:43.

Competing at Harvard were Yale and Providence College, two of the more prominent cross-country teams. Providence placed tenth nationally at the end of this past season. Needless to say, competition in long-distance events was intense.

Setting her career high indoor record for the 3000-meter event was Meldrim with a time of 10:38. Shana Smith completed the event with a time of 10:29.

"Their running was average. Some days are on, some days are off," LaFreniere said. "Some of the distance runners may be getting tired, but they keep plugging away.

NEWS

Students TEAM up to tutor others for whom English is a new language. Page 3.

FOCUS

The Ohio 7 sedition trial ends, but the commentary begins to unfold. Page 5.

MULTICULTURAL

The Zeta Phi Beta sorority and the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity are highlighted. Page 9.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1989
COLLEGIAN
VOLUME CXXIII LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 68

Collegian photo by K.A. Burke

VIGIL – People gathered yesterday around 14 candles in the Cape Cod Lounge to mourn the 14 women shot to death at the University of Montreal.

State Regents establish hiring freeze

WELLESLEY (AP) – Facing pressure to cut nearly $50 million from state university and college budgets, the state Board of Regents of Higher Education Tuesday approved an immediate hiring freeze on non-teaching positions and spring tuition increases for non-resident students.

Chancellor Franklyn G. Jenifer warned that financial aid cuts and across-the-board tuition hikes of 8 percent or more would probably also be necessary to meet state budget-cutting demands, and while he declared the state scholarship fund off-limits to budget-slashing, he didn't rule out closing some colleges as a last resort.

"I won't sacrifice quality for the number of institutions," Jenifer said. "We haven't reached that point yet. But we're getting awfully close."

Jenifer said while come campuses had already instituted hiring freezes, the system-wide move was necessary to show that "accountability has been centralized."

But he admitted that most of the year's hiring had already been done, and said it was unclear how much money would be saved through the freeze. The tuition hikes will generate about $3.1 million in additional revenue this spring.

The increase means undergraduate students at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and UMass-Boston will pay $485 more for spring tuition than they did this fall while students at smaller campuses and community colleges will pay about $385 more.

Graduate student tuition will also increase about $485.

With an anticipated $825 million state budget deficit, Massachusetts' 29 colleges and universities have faced pressure for several months to cut funds and lay off staff.

The higher education system has absorbed a $25 million cut in its already reduced $714 million fiscal 1990 budget, and predictions show an additional $48 million will have to be slashed for fiscal 1991.

This fall, Administration and Finance Secretary L. Edward Lashman demanded that colleges lay off 700 people, and a spokeswoman for Gov. Dukakis last week charged that higher education was only one-sixth of the way toward layoff targets.

Both Dukakis and Lashman have said they expect more than 5,000 state jobs to be eliminated by the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

At the Regents meeting at the Massachusetts Bay Community College, Jenifer said: "That's how we've survived. But they're not always going to be able to do that."

Nicholas Boraski, the lone regent of the 12 present to vote against the hiring freeze, said it wrongly centralized the regents' control of state colleges. He also said the tuition hikes would prevent many minority students from attending college in Massachusetts.

Parents to stage picnic protest

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

Parents of children enrolled in University of Massachusetts child care are calling for a "lunch-in" today to protest the recent proposal that UMass child care be replaced with a private vendor because of budget cuts, according to Joanne Levenson, a member of the UMass Leadership Coalition.

The lunch-in, sponsored by the coalition, is scheduled for noon today in the lobby of Whitmore Administration Building. People will assemble outside Whitmore, carrying signs and balloons and distributing fact sheets about the proposed cuts to child care, Levenson said.

"The administration has said that bringing in a private vendor would decrease the quality of child care on campus. This is unacceptable to us." said John Dunlap, speaker of the Student Government Association.

Levenson said, "We want to make sure that the quality of care [at UMass] is maintained, and that care is based on education, not just custodial care."

She said that switching to a private vendor would mean the displacement of 20 teachers, two administrators, and two clerical workers.

Non-traditional students would also be especially hard-hit, because 68 percent of children enrolled in University day care are children of students, she said.

Looking at the statistics in another light, minority students would be also be especially hurt as well because their children make up 54 percent of University day care enrollment, according to Levenson.

Inside the building, University day care children will eat lunch, then present Provost Richard O'Brien and Dean of Student Affairs Dennis Madson with a scroll covered with the children's handprints that reads, "Please save our children," she said.

Exchange student dies from poisoning

A 26-year-old University of Massachusetts exchange student was found dead Monday after ingesting poison, according to Trooper Jay Bowman of the Crime Prevention and Control unit in Northampton.

Christian Bremicker, a doctoral candidate in cellular and molecular biology who was on exchange from Dortmund, West Germany, injested poison, Bowman said. Bremicker's body was found at 8:05 a.m. Monday by an employee in Morrill Science Center.

An autopsy was performed Monday by Dr. Thomas Smith at the Springfield Municipal Hospital, Bowman said. Although the cause of death has been determined as poison, a toxicology test will be completed at the State Police Laboratory in Boston to determine the actual substance, Bowman said.

CPAC, the investigative branch of the District Attorney's office in Northampton, is investigating the case.

– LISA SHAPIRO

UMass Amnesty International commemorates Human Rights Day

Graffiti 'wall' protests the torture of political prisoners

By JULIE LIVINGSTONE
Collegian Staff

A white sheet hung on a wall yesterday in the Campus Center concourse, covered with quotations and lyrics expressing people's concerns and hopes regarding human rights abuses, in commemoration of Human Rights Day on Sunday.

Named "Writing on the Wall," the sheet hung as a reminder of abuses that include the wrongful imprisonment of prisoners of conscience and barbaric torture of political prisoners, said Wendy Reiser, co-coordinator of the University of Massachusetts Amnesty International group, which sponsored the event.

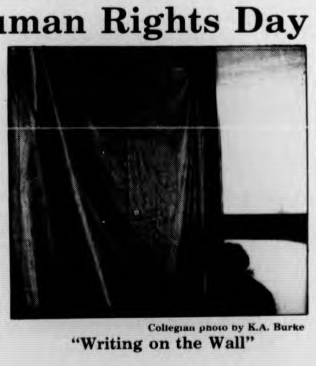
In the middle of the sheet is a lighted candle wrapped with barbed wire, the symbol of all political prisoners of conscience and their hope of survival and freedom. Under it is inscribed a phrase from song-writer Peter Gabriel's song "Biko:" "You can blow out a candle, but you can't blow out a fire, once the flame begin to catch, the wind will blow it higher."

A quotation from Mahatma Ghandi declared, "An eye for an eye will just make the whole world blind."

Peter Benenson began Amnesty International in 1961. Egon Larsen in his book A Flame in Barbed Wire said Benenson was a London lawyer who had made "law reform and cases of injustice his special concern

The idea for an international action group was spurred by an article Benenson read while going to work one November morning in 1961. Some Portuguese students had been arrested and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment for toasting to freedom. Benenson decided a world-wide barrage of protests was needed. Simultaneous appeals for the students' release appeared in a Sunday British publication and the French Le Monde.

In 1962 Amnesty International took root and began a mass, intensive letter writing campaign to let governments know prisoners are not forgotten.



Collegian photo by K.A. Burke

"Writing on the Wall"

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN
New England's largest college daily newspaper. Daily circulation: 21,000. Founded in 1870. Published every weekday during the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts. 113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA. 01003. For more information call (413) 545-3500.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

EDITOR IN CHIEF	DAVID R. MARK
MANAGING EDITOR	COSMO MACERO Jr.
EDITORIAL EDITOR	MEREDITH O'BRIEN
BUSINESS MANAGER	ROBERT J. BIKASH
PRODUCTION MANAGER	TERRY STARMER

BOARD OF EDITORS

MANAGING	COSMO MACERO Jr
EDITORIAL	MEREDITH O'BRIEN
NEWS	SARAH DEMASTER
SPORTS	JIM CLARK GEORGE AUSTIN
ARTS	AL KAUFMAN W.J. GEORGIADES
PHOTOGRAPHY	DONDI AHEARN
WOMEN'S ISSUES	DANIELLE BIONDA KATERI WALSH
MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS	SCOTT C. HILL

BUSINESS BOARD

MANAGER	ROBERT J. BIKASH
ADVERTISING	JENNIFER RONAN
FINANCE	MARTINA RIOS
CIRCULATION	CHRIS BAKER
SUBSCRIPTIONS	JOYA FARETRA

GRAPHICS BOARD

MANAGER	TERRY STARMER
AD MANAGER	RORY EVANS
SUPERVISORS	MIKE WESTER FLORENCIO TERRA CHRISTINE ASHE TRICIA HANLEY

SUPPORT STAFF

BUSINESS	BRIAN HARRINGTON MAUREEN MAJEROWSKI LORI BLACK
GRAPHICS	ANDREA BELANGER

TODAY'S STAFF

NIGHT EDITOR	ERIN ABBEY
COPY EDITORS	DARREN GARNICK SHARON WILKEY
LAYOUT TECHNICIAN	MICHAEL WESTER
PHOTOGRAPHY TECHNICIAN	K.A. BURKE
PRODUCTION SUPERVISOR	FLORENCIO TERRA
PRODUCTION	MICHAEL WESTER NATALIE BONNEWIT DOUG JOHNSTON ARNOLD SALVATI

For Your Information

For Your Information is a calendar listing of local announcements and upcoming events published daily by the Collegian as a public service. All submissions must be typed. We reserve the right to edit for space.

Information for Women's Forum and the Lesbian, Bisexual, and Gay forum which runs in this space on Tuesdays and Thursdays, respectively, must be submitted to the news desk at least one full day beforehand.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 13, 1989

Recycling Workshop — A recycling workshop will be held in Dickinson Dormitory at 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Recycling Runners of UMass. Find out what you can do to help decrease waste at UMass.

Auditions — The UMass Dept. of Theater presents The Imaginary Invalid by Moliere. Auditions will be held from 8:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. in Room 204 of the Fine Arts Center. There are parts for 5 women (one 9 to 16 year old), and 8 men.

Scripts are available on a 2-hour sign-out basis from the theater department office, Room 112 FAC. Audition sign-up sheets are posted on callboard outside the office, and audition sign-ups will also be taken by phone, 545-3490.

Performances are scheduled for March 1-3 and 7-10. For more information, call the dept. of theater, 545-3490. All Five College students and community members encouraged to audition.

Writing On The Wall — Amnesty International is presenting "The Writing On The Wall." Come and cover the wall with thoughts, quotes, and pictures expressing your feelings toward human rights. It will be in the Campus Center concourse all day.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1989

Callbacks — Callbacks from Wednesday's auditions for The Imaginary Invalid will be from 8:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. in FAC 204.

Joe Gorin — Human Rights and Labor Activist, Joe Gorin, is scheduled to speak about Guatemala ("Low Intensity War, Low Intensity Democracy") at 7:30 p.m. in Campus Center Room 163. Gorin recently returned from two years working with the Guatemalan Popular Movement. The talk is free and is sponsored by Faculty and Staff for Peace in Central America (FSPCA). For more information, call 256-4685.

Open House — Strung out from studying? Take a break at the Women's Studies "End of Semester Open House" from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Women's Studies Office, 208 Bartlett Hall. Stop by for bagels, tea, and a chat on the last day of classes. All welcome.

COLLEGIAN — The following were appointed this week to Collegian editorial positions for the spring semester: George Austin, managing editor; Lisa Shapiro, news editor; and Minu Sebastian, editorial editor.

There's Always a Sale! 10% to 60%
AT
Good Night Bedding
Factory
Outlet Stores
CASH & CARRY SPECIALS
GREAT GIFT IDEAS
HANDCRAFTED
QUILTS & BLANKETS
40 - 50% OFF
SAVE
Full size
Futon Couch $118⁰⁰
Our latest futon is really moving! Made to travel—comes nestled in its own denim bag with a wide shoulder strap for easy transport—
XMAS SPECIAL
$79.00
Northampton 585-0660
The Cutlery Building
320 Riverside Dr.
(1 mi. from Smith College off Rt. 9w behind high school)
9-5 Daily Sun til Xmas 12-5
Call for directions
Amherst 549-3507
The Carriage Shops
9 E. Pleasant St.
11-5 Mon.-Sat.
INTRODUCTORY - TOP OF THE LINE MATTRESSES & FOUNDATION SETS
50 TO 65% OFF LIST PRICE
Scratch & Dent Futon Frames • Pillow & Cover Over runs • Discontinued Models • Quilting Scraps
Demo Futons • Yard Goods • Cotton Batting • Foam Pieces • All Below Retail - Best Prices Anywhere • Much More

Scott's LIQUORS
OPEN
MON-SAT 8 AM-11 PM
Tel: 549-2692
6 University Drive
at Newmarket Center
Amherst, Mass.
diagonally across from UMASS Stadium
Happy Holidays from Scotts Liquors!
Schaefer or Red, White & Blue
12 oz. 12 pack cans
$3.99 + dep.
Codorniu Champagne
750 ml
$4.99
Inglenook White Zinfandel
1.5 $5.99
Michelob Reg., Light & Dry
6 pack cans 12 oz.
$3.49 + dep.
Smirnoff Vodka
750 ml
$6.99
Kahlua
750 ml
$10.99
VISA/MASTERCARD ACCEPTED,
ALSO LOCAL PERSONAL CHECKS
Every Day Low Price For Bud, Bud Light, Miller, Miller Lite, Genuine Draft
Coors, Coors Light and Extra Gold $11.99 plus Dep.
Kegs Available
WE WANT TO BE YOUR FAVORITE LIQUOR STORE

LOCAL

Student tutors 'TEAM' up to teach English

By ALEXANDER NGUYEN
Collegian Staff

Collegian photo by Richard DuCree

Members of the University of Massachusetts Tutoring Enrichment and Assistance with Schools project tutor children at local schools.

"This class is not about people who are high achievers, it's about people who aim to achieve highly," said Professor Robert Maloy, director of the Tutoring Enrichment and Assistance Models with Schools project.

For the past five years, some 200 University of Massachusetts students, spanning more than 50 academic majors, have given more than 10,000 hours of tutoring to students for whom English is a new language.

TEAMS, which operates through a three-credit class offered by the School of Education and the Division of Continuing Education, provides an opportunity for University students to share learning experiences with younger students in area public secondary schools.

"This is not just a unique class, it's a unique experience," said tutor Kathy Tomena, who has been involved with the project for three years.

"Tutoring students from diverse cultural backgrounds challenges one's personal, social, and political beliefs and raises awareness of racism and prejudiced attitudes towards minority groups," Tomena said.

Currently, 40 University students spend four to six hours per week tutoring in Amherst, Northampton, Easthampton, Chicopee, Greenfield, and Holyoke public schools.

Tutors provide one-on-one and small group assistance and in-school and after-school help to Asian, African, Latin American, and other immigrant and refugee students.

"This class is an excellent opportunity for people of different cultures to interact," said tutor Laura Tino.

In addition to academic assistance, tutors help students to understand the new social and cultural environment they are experiencing in the United States.

Tutor Jay Watson said the project gives language-minority students a fair chance at education.

"They mostly need to get over the language barrier to adjust to our culture and to begin learning," Watson said. "We tell the students that there is more beyond high school."

The tutors say the class, an "action and engagement" project, has helped them to apply their strengths and skills, improve their weaknesses, and discover new abilities.

"As you tutor students they are educating you about the world, something different happens every time I tutor, the students are great!" said tutor Anne Sobolewski.

Maloy said teaching has helped students "change their outlook on the world.

"For University students the class provides opportunities to take charge of your own education, to put it into new experiences, new settings, new expectations, and new challenges," Maloy said. "It's a powerful lasting learning experience for University students."

The tutors credit TEAMS' success to its adaptability to the changing needs of students.

In the future, project organizers hope to expand the program to 60 tutors and to increase participation from students in the Five College area.

The project also hopes to reach more secondary school sites and possibly also include primary schools, Maloy said.

Collegian photo by John Woo

COUNTING THE DAYS — Smith College sophomore Susan Dang admires a Northampton Christmas tree.

Ready to rally?

SGA considers statewide advocacy group

By PAUL MORRIS
Collegian Staff

The Student Government Association's Public Policy Committee decided last night to take the first step in creating a statewide student advocacy group to unite students in the battle against budget cuts to higher education.

"One of the reasons students' concerns are not addressed on Beacon Hill is because students do not have an organized political voice," said Lisa Nelson, the committee chair. "Students have to start viewing themselves as a part of the whole state education system, and not just a part of one campus."

Students, who cannot afford to make large political contributions, must influence state legislators with organized voting and campaign support, she said. More than 100,000 students attend the 29 Massachusetts public colleges.

In January, committee members will send all state college student governments a letter that will outline the proposed group's mission and request suggestions.

In the last three years the $714 million Massachusetts higher education budget has been slashed by a total of $96 million. As a result, a $115 curriculum fee was added to UMass students' bills last year and that fee was increased to $165 this semester. Next semester students will pay $885 more in tuition and fees.

Kenneth Parker, who introduced the motion, said the group's plans include forming a system to rate state representatives, lobbying the Legislature, and registering students to vote.

In another matter, Jonathan Leavitt, a committee member who asked for Provost Richard O'Brien's resignation at the Dec. 5 meeting, said he is part of a team investigating O'Brien's history.

The committee could not vote last week because quorum was never reached. Leavitt said he will ask the committee to call for O'Brien's resignation during the first meeting of next semester.

MASSPIRG recycles 50,000 pounds of newspaper

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

Although concern about the environment has escalated in the past 10 years, the University of Massachusetts MASSPIRG has been working to clean-up the environment since 1972, according to Aaron Rome, a member of UMass MASSPIRG.

Looking at problems such as pollution and deforestation, Rome said MASSPIRG asks, "Why do we have these problems? What can be done about them?"

One of the projects MASSPIRG has been working on this semester is a campus-wide newspaper recycling program.

The program, initiated this semester by the administration, has kept 50,000 pounds of newsprint from being put into landfills or burned, he said.

In addition to their effort to recycle newspaper, MASSPIRG has collected more than 9,000 signatures toward a 1990 statewide ballot initiative to ensure that all packaging would be made of recyclable materials, he said.

"We collected more than any other school with a MASSPIRG chapter [in the state]," he said.

MASSPIRG is also lobbying the statehouse for a Clean Air Bill, which would require that all new cars be manufactured so their auto-emission standards would be the same as those in California, which has the strictest laws in the United States, he said.

Rome said the bill passed the House of Representatives last summer, but has yet to reach the floor of the Senate because it is still in a sub-committee.

However, he said, "It's got a lot of support. If it doesn't pass this session, it should pass the next."

In addition to lobbying for regulation of the environment statewide, MASSPIRG is also looking into possible hazards at UMass.

Rome said that a hazardous waste dump site near the Mill River, which is south of Southwest Residential Area, could be affecting Mill River water.

However, he added that MASSPIRG has not been able to contact anyone who would have official records of what substances are disposed of there, and in what quantity.

Rome said that MASSPIRG will continue to work on these and other projects next semester.

He added that they are focusing their energies, along with several groups including the UMass Greens, the Rainforest Action Group, and the UMass Animal Rights Coalition, on organizing the upcoming Earth Day, scheduled for April 1990.

Professor Kreisberg remembered

While the remainder of the late assistant professor Seth Kreisberg's classes for this semester are being covered by various faculty members, a much more important issue is in the hands of his colleagues — the loss of a dear friend.

"It was hard not to love Seth," said David Bloome, chairman of Division Two of The School of Education. "This is a tragic loss not only to education, but also to the lives of everyone he touched."

Kreisberg, 33, an assistant professor of social studies and a faculty member of the secondary teacher education program advising office for education majors died suddenly last Wednesday.

Bloome said that Kreisberg's teaching was all about ideas and change, which is what everyone must now do.

"As a faculty, we must come together to support each other," added Bloome. "Only now I realize how deeply involved Seth was in so many people's lives."

An autopsy to determine the cause of death has been performed by the Hampden county medical examiner's office in Springfield, but results are pending at this time.

— Ken McGuire

Donna M. Cusson

EDUCATION University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA
Bachelor of Arts degree May 1990
Major: Communication GPA: 3.2
Concentration: Marketing

* Fully finance own education through work, loans and scholarships.
* Dean's List
* Outstanding College Students of America

EXPERIENCE Advertising Account Executive— The Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Amherst, MA
1988-present

Coordinate and implement all advertising sales and promotions in assigned territory. Establish new accounts and maintained professional business relationships and rapport with previous clients. Design ads and work closely with graphics to ensure proper format and layout of ads.

Promotions Director—The Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Amherst, MA
1989-present

Direct and coordinate all newspaper marketing activities. Research and devise innovative promotional campaigns. Develop effective copy for radio, newspaper and billboard advertising. Hire, trained and supervise support staff.

Public Communications Intern—WBZ-TV 4, Boston, MA
Group W Television. Summer 1989

Participated extensively in Public Relations activites for a Traffic Awareness Campaign. Aided in the production of Public Service Announcements, wrote photo captions and press releases.

Marketing Group Sales Intern—The Centrum, Worcester, MA January 1989

Created and organized promotions for three major events: The Spring Flower Show, The Harlem Globe Trotters Game, and The New England Blazers' Premier Game. Wrote news releases, procured mailing lists, and designed promotional flyers for Centrum events. Arranged meetings and devised proposals for the sale of 'in house' advertising. Set up radio and newspaper advertising trades.

Other Experience: Promotional work for modeling agency, receptionist and clerical assistant for business office, Organized and marketed Spring Break Trip. Customer Service Representative for Photo Processing Store.

SPECIAL SKILLS Completed professional training seminar in Newspaper Selling Skills, completed 20 hr Video Production Workshop.

ACTIVITIES Club Communication 1988-present
Union Video Center, Communications Committee 1987-present

REFERENCES Furnished upon request.

Donna M. Cusson

EDUCATION University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA
Bachelor of Arts degree May 1990
Major: Communication GPA: 3.2
Concentration: Marketing

* Fully finance own education through work, loans and scholarships.
* Dean's List
* Outstanding College Students of America

EXPERIENCE Public Communications Intern—WBZ-TV 4, Boston, MA
Group W Television. Summer 1989

Participated extensively in Public Relations activites for a Traffic Awareness Campaign. Aided in the production of Public Service Announcements, wrote photo captions and press releases.

Marketing Group Sales Intern—The Centrum, Worcester, MA January 1989

Created and organized promotions for three major events: The Spring Flower Show, The Harlem Globe Trotters Game, and The New England Blazers' Premier Game. Wrote news releases, procured mailing lists, and designed promotional flyers for Centrum events. Arranged meetings and devised proposals for the sale of 'in house' advertising. Set up radio and newspaper advertising trades.

Other Experience: Promotional work for modeling agency, receptionist and clerical assistant for business office, Organized and marketed Spring Break Trip. Customer Service Representative for Photo Processing Store.

SPECIAL SKILLS Completed professional training seminar in Newspaper Selling Skills, completed 20 hr Video Production Workshop.

ACTIVITIES Club Communication 1988-present
Union Video Center, Communications Committee 1987-present

REFERENCES Furnished upon request.

Which would you rather submit to a prospective employer?

The Collegian
We Build Careers.

for more information come down to the Collegian Newsroom and speak to an editor
113 Campus Center
UMASS, Amherst 545-3500

FOCUS

The Ohio 7: Separating fact from fiction

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

"When I came back from Vietnam I asked the most seditious question of all: why."

Thus began the third, and final, leg of the Ohio Seven (so called because of the seven people originally involved, see picture) trial(s) with Ray Levasseur's opening statement to the Springfield federal court, in the first week of January this year.

The trial finally came to an end two weeks ago, on Nov. 27, when Patricia Levasseur, Ray Levasseur and Richard Williams were found not guilty of a conspiracy to overthrow the US government by force.

The three tangible charges made were a conspiracy to engage in racketeering (RICO), racketeering, and seditious conspiracy. All three defendants were found not guilty of the seditious conspiracy charge, all three got a hung jury (resulting in a mistrial being called) for the charge of conspiracy to racketeer, and for the charge of actual racketeering Pat Levassaur was acquitted and Ray Levassaur and Richard Williams received the hung jury again.

The trial did not start well. First, there was the outright rejection of defense attorney Newman's motion to dismiss the charges on the basis that the statute was unconstitutional.

Then, there was the media: "From the very outset of the trial we complained of the media show being put on in the name of security," said William Newman, Pat Levassaur's defense attorney, and the head of the Western Massachusetts chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU).

"It was a flagrant waste of the tax payers' money. After months of complaining about some of the more horrific examples, such as the marksmen on the roof, the guns on the street and the taking of names of everyone who entered the court, it was stopped," Newman said. "The purpose was for the government to portray these people as dangerous. We felt it was a part and parcel attempt to deny a fair trial by having this media show put on for the public."

Al Giordanno, the reporter who covered the trial for the Advocate said, "If you're going to use RICO (the Racketeering Influenced and Corrupt Organization Laws) against these people then a precedent is set, and maybe people protesting the [current US activities] in El Salvador, or nuclear power or political activists in general will be next. It seems to me to be an attempt to criminalize dissent."

"I disagree that it's a legal precedent," said Newman. "To use RICO against political groups has been done successfully in at least one other instance, and RICO has been expanded far beyond imagination."

RICO is a law that was passed in 1970 as a memorial to Bobby Kennedy and was designed to target organized crime. "At this point it has expanded for use by prosecutors beyond any recognizable limits," Newman said.

Sandy Simpson, a member of the Sedition Committee, an organization that works with political prisoners in the United States, including the Ohio Seven, said, "Out of the two things, RICO scares me the most. It's so broad and we're seeing it used in lots of different things. People should know more about RICO, it sucks in . . . basically you can sit in a room with someone [and be charged].

Newman added that, concerning the other charge, "The Seditions Conspiracy Statute could result in prosecutions against millions, perhaps tens of millions of Americans, because of its breadth."

"Juries have a right to reject it and this one did," said Newman. He added, "The jury spoke more eloquently than any law, any statute."

Photo courtesy of Paul Shoul

(left to right) Jaan Laamin, Barbara Curzi Laamin, Richard Williams (standing), Carol Manning, Tom Manning, Pat Levassaur and Ray Levassaur.

Pat Levassur, one of the defendants and the only one currently outside of jail, said in a phone interview that the RICO and sedition charges are "very broad charges. You really don't have to do anything [to be charged]." She continued, saying "there really is a fear of ideas, more than of any form of violence."

"It was a vindictive prosecution because the government doesn't want people like Pat on the street, to inform the public," Simpson said.

"They knew the trial could do nothing but inflict gratuitous pain on Pat," Newman said, "So why did they bother? It makes no sense to have put the resources into it (estimated, conservatively, at $50,000,000), it just makes no rational sense. But, it was a politically motivated prosecution. There's your reason. It's that simple."

A similarity was drawn to the Rosenburg case and the Witchhunts of the 1950s as Newman said: "It goes back to the government security show. The government can exploit and instigate hysteria to destroy dissent against it, as well as orchestrating public opinion against it's opponents — it is our government that destroyed the Black Panther Movement. The government brands people who oppose it as being somehow un-American, where the truth is that dissent that challenges authority is the premise of how this entire country was built, at least in theory. It is dissent that keeps politicians honest."

"We were all just working class people, who were not well educated but we took a position in solidarity," Levasseur said. "There seems to be a check in balance kind of thing in this country [causing] a division of race and class. People are divided instead of being united. We didn't just roll over, or allow ourselves to benefit from being Whites. We are in solidarity with liberation struggles throughout the world.

"The FBI wanted to use us as examples; to scare people. The jury saw that the FBI had gone beyond all boundaries, however. Look at Oliver North: the people can't help but see that there are people far more dangerous than ourselves out there [in public office]. Of the 200 witnesses at the trial something like 160 of them were FBI agents," Levasseur said.

Sandy Simpson, who was also a paralegal on the defense team, discussed the "Western Sweep," the process by which the Ohio Seven were arrested. "The search for [the Ohio Seven] was the most sophisticated one ever made by the FBI. They were convinced that they were in Western Massachusetts so they went through every pharmacy, every day care center, every school, every health food store and knocked on one out of every four doors in the area. They knew the kids had certain medical [problems], and this went on from 1982 through till 1984 when they were arrested. When Tom and Carol [Manning] were arrested the FBI kept their children incommunicado for six weeks, hoping to force them to testify as to their guilt."

Simpson asked how the situation was seen at UMass, and she was shown a copy of an editorial printed in the Collegian last Wednesday, that began with the words: "Three terrorists have been cleared of any charges. I find this hard to accept."

Newman and Simpson pointed out that none of the Ohio Seven are terrorists and, in fact, "that person didn't know what they were talking about, and I don't know why it was even printed. Aside from my political disagreements, the article was simply factually wrong." Simpson also went on to speak about the "left's" press coverage of the events:

"The Ohio Seven was abandoned by the left," she said. "It's a passive, unorganized lazy left that we have today, but I thought that their abandoning the Ohio Seven was just amazing. They're pretty comfortable and squeamish and the Ohio Seven threaten that. They were ignored because of the violent aspect," Simpson said.

"I never advocated bombings, I supported the politics expressed, but personally I cannot advocate bombings," Levausser said.

"We're saying that armed revolution, under certain conditions, is a viable act to effect change," said Simpson.

Levasseur also said that she felt the Ohio Seven "was about a group of people with different beliefs being in solidarity with each other, all seven of us have very different [political] positions."

"I think we made a lot of advances [as concerns the trial]," Levausser said. "We came out of being underground for a number of years. It wasn't surprising that we were not accepted [by the left]."

She also said, "I feel really wonderful; I haven't felt this good in a number of years. Another thing to overcome was the helplessness that being in prison instills in you. [Levasseur spent three and a half years in prison for harboring a fugitive — her husband Ray.]

Sandy Simpson also spoke of the future. "Basically, what I want to do now the trial is over is . . . there are hundreds of political prisoners in this country who are being tortured and incarcerated for their political beliefs. The left can no longer ignore it, as they did with the Ohio Seven. They can't possibly ignore the existence of political prisoners, and as individuals they must struggle for social change."

When asked about the "proof" of this incarceration, Simpson mentioned the organization "Freedom Now," that represents "all political prisoners in the United States, and said the organization has legal dossiers on all of these prisoners, more than 120 of them.

"They've been sent to the United Nations, the Geneva Convention and the Barcelona Convention. The international forum realizes what is going on in the States," she said.

Levasseur added, "I have a responsibility to fight for political prisoners."

Newman wrapped things up by saying, "The government should never be able to frighten people in this country, to make them afraid to ask, particularly about their government."

"It's overwhelming but . . . we fought them. And we won," said Pat Levasseur.

Seditious expression or words of wisdom?

The following are excerpts from Ray Levasseur's closing statement to the court.

"Any faith I have in any part of this process at this point lies with you people. I've seen this system destroy too many of its victims. I've seen it hurt, abuse, discard, exploit and kill. And I've seen it with these eyes. I could have sat out this trial in a prison cell, and I almost did that. I'm in prison anyways. But the more I thought about it the more incensed I became with the government's scheme of trying to criminalize my life with the label of racketeer and corruption.

"I asked myself, what terrible crimes has this government committed that they fear the voice of one man? As long as this government is responsible for committing crimes against humanity and war crimes, I'm going to organize and fight them until I don't have any breath left in this life. They can't inflict enough pain on me or bury me deep enough in their penitentiary cells that I won't raise my voice or fist in defiance.

"I am here to return an indictment against the government of the United States and these corporations. I believe the evidence will show the government, in collusion with these corporations, operates a continuing criminal enterprise. I know from my own background there are a lot of people in this country who think our government is law-abiding and peaceful. That's what I thought of my government before I went to Vietnam."

[Judge Young, interrupting: "I'm not going to have this. I'm not going to have any return indictment. The government is not on trial here."]

"That's what I believed before I went to Vietnam. What did you do during the war? Any of you? Everybody did something or didn't do something. In 1967 I was forever having implanted on my mind the faces of those Vietnamese children which were ravaged by the war. This government trained me to kill. I was ordered to kill for America, for all of you, just like other GIs who went to Vietnam. I didn't question the authority of those above me."

"Che Guevara said that 'above all always be capable of feeling deeply any injustice committed against anyone, anywhere in the world. This is the most beautiful quality of a revolutionary.' As a revolutionary, I take this sentiment very seriously. This is the way I think. This is the way I feel. I believe the mind knows only what lies near the heart.

"Martin Luther King said that there is nothing wrong with a traffic light that says you have to stop for a red light. But when a fire is raging, the fire truck goes right through the red light. He added that people all over the world are bleeding to death from deep social and economic wounds. They need brigades of ambulance drivers who will have to ignore the red lights of the present system. Martin Luther King advocated and participated in civil disobedience, and for his commitment he was destroyed.

"The history of the human race remains a struggle. A struggle for the removal of physical and sometimes spiritual oppression that exists among many of us. I feel I would have failed had I not made a contribution to that struggle. I'll always be glad I did."

IMPORTANT RESIDENCE HALL INFORMATION

It is important for all residents planning to live on-campus for the Spring 1990 semester to remember the following important policies and procedures. Please read this information carefully and be sure you understand and are aware of each of the following obligations. Thank you.

1. PAY YOUR SPRING FEE BILL BY THE BURSAR'S JANUARY 5, 1990 DUE DATE. As always, financial obligations must be met by all residents who wish to retain their assignments for the upcoming semester. Spring semester fee bills will be mailed to your permanent address by early Decmeber. Failure to pay your bill by the due date of January 5th, may immediately cancel your assignment for the Spring.
2. MAKE CERTAIN YOU REMAIN IN GOOD STANDING throughout intersession. If you are withdrawn for ANY reason after the last day of the semester, December 22, 1989, your residence hall assignment for the spring may be cancelled.
3. YOU MUST TAKE BELONGINGS HOME if you have requested a change in residence halls or if you have submitted a blue In-House Room Request form asking for a room change.
4. RESIDENCE HALLS CLOSE at the end or the Fall semester on Friday, December 22, 1989 at 6:00 p.m.. Make certain that you follow indicated "check-out" procedures to avoid any unnecessary inconvenience or charges.

HAVE A GREAT INTERSESSION!

'Hotel Queen' sentenced

Helmsley gets prison term, $7.1 million fine

By VERA HALLER
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Leona Helmsley was sentenced Tuesday to four years in prison and fined $7.1 million by a federal judge who ignored her sobbing plea for mercy and blamed the hotel queen's tax evasion on "naked greed."

U.S. District Judge John M. Walker, Jr., also sentenced Helmsley, 69, to three years of probation and 750 hours of community service at Hale House, a home for infants born addicted to drugs.

Helmsley — said to have boasted to a maid, "We don't pay taxes. Only the little people pay taxes." — was also ordered to repay nearly $1.7 million in back taxes and bear the government's costs in bringing her to justice.

"Your conduct was a product of naked greed. . . . You believed you were above the law and displayed no remorse or contrition," Walker told Helmsley.

He said she shirked a "moral responsibility to uphold the law" that came with her position, breaking the law "consciously and repeatedly."

"No person," he said, "no matter how wealthy and prominent, stands above the law."

Walker allowed Helmsley to remain free pending a decision on her appeal of her Aug. 30 conviction on 33 counts of tax evasion. Should her appeals fail and she goes to prison, she would be eligible for parole after serving a year and three months.

Helmsley could have been sentenced to 127 years in prison if she had been given the maximum sentence for each of her convictions and been ordered to serve them consecutively, which is rare.

Helmsley, wearing a black dress with a gold pendant, told Walker before sentencing, "I'm more humiliated and ashamed than anybody can ever imagine."

"I am guilty of a serious crime. I feel like I'm in the middle of a nightmare," she said, her 80-year-old husband, Harry, sitting three rows away.

"I beg you, don't let me lose Harry too," Helmsley said, sobbing, her cheeks flushed and stained with tears. "Our whole life has been work and each other. Please don't. We have nothing else." But she was stone-faced when she left the court with her husband.

AP photo

Leona Helmsley is escorted by her husband Harry, at left, and an unidentified aide, as she leaves US District Court in Manhattan yesterday. Helmsley was sentenced to four years in prison and fined $7.1 million for her evasion of income taxes.

Business leaders won't oppose 'inevitable' state tax increase

By DANIEL BEEGAN
The Associated Press

BOSTON (AP) — The state's major businesses accept the inevitability of a tax increase to solve the state's $825 million deficit and won't oppose it, the president of the Massachusetts Taxpayers Association said Tuesday.

"I think what is setting in is reality that we have gone to the midpoint of the year and have not made enough cuts to balance the budget. If that is the case, to get out of here whole, taxes are probably inevitable," said Richard Manley after a meeting with Gov. Dukakis.

"I don't think the business community likes it any more than I do, but what's the choice," Manley said.

Manley, who was joined in the meeting by other business leaders, said Dukakis, when asked what taxes might be raised, mentioned a penny increase in the sales tax, possible broadening of the sales tax to include items now exempted from it, a gasoline tax increase and possible increases in "sin" taxes on cigarettes and liquor.

Manley said a budget-cutting package now going through the legislature probably will be worth about $300 million by the time it reaches Dukakis's desk, leaving a gap of about $500 million to be filed with taxes.

"We all saw this coming in June and July," Manley said, adding that more budget cuts should have been made earlier to avoid the need for taxes.

"We have a $500 million problem after the cuts and you know what that means," he said.

Manley, whose organization is financed by some of the state's larger businesses, has been less adamantly anti-tax than some other business lobbyists, but had advocated deeper spending cuts than Dukakis.

Earlier in the day, former U.S. Sen. Paul E. Tsongas and Boston Mayor Raymond L. Flynn met with Dukakis to discuss their proposal for a summit meeting on the state's fiscal crisis.

Tsongas said the two men discussed the conceptual idea of a summit with Dukakis, but still have work to do this week before all the details are completed.

"We are at best coming out of the batter's box," Tsongas said.

The summit would bring together about two dozen state leaders to examine the budget crisis and propose solutions.

CASH PAID FOR BOOKS
Bring your books to
TEXTBOOK ANNEX
Dec. 13-16 & 18-22
9 a.m.-4 pm
HAMPDEN COMMONS
Dec. 19-21
Noon-8 p.m.

Student Attorney General Fadel resigns

By LISA SHAPIRO
Collegian Staff

Student Attorney General Robert Fadel, who has missed only one of 72 Undergraduate Student Senate meetings held throughout his 3 1/2 years as an active member of the Student Government Association, resigned last Wednesday night.

Fadel, whose term would have ended at the close of next semester, fell short because of personal and financial reasons. A political science major, he participated in graduation exercises in May and returned this fall to complete a minor and a certificate program.

Collegian photo by K.A. Burke

Robert Fadel

After receiving a standing ovation for his service and commitment to student government from the senate floor where he announced his resignation, Fadel did not step down passively.

Fadel's last proposal came in the form of a rewritten version of Chapter 5 of the SGA Constitution, the section that outlines the role of student attorney general. The proposal was passed unanimously.

"The impact of the new Chapter 5 is that it will put the issue of students' rights and student advocacy back to the top of the student government's agenda," Fadel said.

A primary change was Fadel's creation of student peer advocates and area district attorneys positions, which had never existed in the SGA Constitution.

Area district attorneys will be responsible for legal concerns in area governments as well as issues of the SGA Constitution. Training for these positions is planned to be provided by the Dean of Students Office and the Legal Services Center.

The second major change affects the election process for the student attorney general, who used to be appointed by the SGA president but will be elected by the student body beginning in 1991.

Johnathan Anastas, a co-senator from Chadbourne, was appointed to the position for the interim period until the spring of 1990 by SGA president Traci Davis. He said this process will "de-politicize the appointment process and it will be more assured that the most qualified person will be in office."

Fadel said the current system of the student judicial system is not fair and said that "there is no sense of innocence until proven guilty" for charges brought against students by Residential Education and the Dean of Students Office. Charges run form noise violations to drug and alcohol offenses, he said.

Collegian photo by John Woo

Jonathan Anastas

"This will provide a system so that when students are brought up on charges they will immediately know where to go and who to talk to for advice and recommendation on their case," Fadel said.

Fadel estimated the number of students brought up on charges who use the Office of the Student Attorney General for advice at 5 percent. This figure prompted him to create the new Chapter 5.

"[Chapter 5] is the most concrete thing I've been able to give students, but on a larger scale, I think I played a role in initiating the change in atmosphere and tone of student government and making it open to students," he said.

Fadel was appointed student attorney general in April of 1989 by SGA President Traci Davis.

Davis said, "Fadel regained the respect deserved by the administration involving student discipline."

"A long-time vacancy [in the office] had left the office in shambles. It was a challenge to revitalize it," Fadel said.

The position was vacant during the 1988-89 academic year and was occupied by different people throughout the last few years, but Fadel said there were gaps of time when nobody held the position, and that this presented an additional burden.

"I wanted to play a role of affecting change. If you don't, you get lost in the shuffle," Fadel said.

So far the new attorney general has been busy with his assistant, Keith Strier, bringing Chapter 5 into action. Anastas said they are in the process of filling all of the ADA positions and setting up training for next semester.

Anastas said, "I'm scared to death of filling Robert's shoes" and called the new Chapter 5 "an ambitious step forward and the last real gift Robert gave to student government."

Anastas and Strier previously served respectively as assistant to the attorney general and special assistant to the student attorney general before receiving their new appointments Wednesday.

CAP OFF
A GREAT EDUCATION
WITH A GREAT CAREER.

If you're graduating this year, you've probably been thinking about what your next step should be. We'd like you to consider starting your career with us . . . CSC Partners, a young, dynamic company of Boston-based professionals, with a nationwide reputation for excellence in the field of Information Systems Consulting.

Partners is seeking May graduates to join us for a six week training program beginning in July as full-time ASSOCIATE CONSULTANTS/ PROGRAMMER TRAINEES. We'll give you intensive, hands-on instruction in the development of business application software through the use of data base and data communication technologies. You'll also be given training in the basics of Information Systems Consulting. When the program is completed, you'll join a Project Team and work at various client sites throughout the Greater Boston area.

CSC Partners is committed to employee growth and development. In your first year, you can build your skills on assignments which involve extensive use of COBOL. After that, Partners offers career paths in four areas: Technical Design, Analysis, Management, and Marketing.

All employees share in the success of the firm through excellent fringe benefits, profit participation and the opportunity for advancement to Partner. If your degree is computer or business related, plan on seeing us when our recruiters visit your school on February 22, 1990.

WE WILL BE HOLDING AN INFORMATION SESSION ON CAMPUS, February 21st at 7:00 PM.

All those interested are urged to attend. See your Career Placement Office for details.

CSC Partners
A Subsidiary of Computer Sciences Corporation
One Newton Executive Park
Newton Lower Falls, MA 02162

Boston Chicago New Jersey New York Philadelphia San Francisco

BOOK BARGAINS
THOUSANDS OF RECENT AND CURRENT BOOKS AT 40-80% OFF NEW LIST PRICE — OVER 40,000 IN STOCK.
Bargain Editions • Remainders • Pub. Overstock • Used • First Editions • Playing Cards.
VALLEY BOOKS
199 N. Pleasant Street
Amherst, Mass.
M-F 10:30-5:30 256-1508
Sat. 10-5, Sun. 12-5 VISA/MC

AMHERST CINEMA
The Bear PG
7 & 9:00
Fri Sat & Sun
7:30 Mon-Thurs
$2.50 w/student ID
253-5426
30 Amity Street
Amherst, MA

STUDENT &FACULTY FARES
1/2 roundtrips from New York
LONDON 169
PARIS 205
ROME 245
roundtrips from New York
TOKYO 749
CARACAS 318
SAN JOSE C.R. 338
Taxes not included.restrictions apply.
One ways available.
EURAIL Passes issued on the spot!!
FREE Student Travel Catalog!!
CouncilTravel
79 So.Pleasant Street, Amherst
413 - 256 -1261

MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS

Hispanic center offers family warmth

On Nov. 29, Moore Residence Hall was filled with singing, dancing, delicious food, happiness, and a sense of pride — pride that after 20 years of hard work, a new Hispanic Cultural Center was opened at the University of Massachusetts.

It comes after several previous attempts to establish a center, and with all of the enthusiasm and optimism displayed, it looks like this one is here to stay. The event was lively, spontaneous, well-organized and it gave the public a chance to see some of the many talented Hispanic artists in the community.

The center was created as a place where artistic expressions of Hispanics such as painting, music and poetry, to mention only a few of the many popular forms of expression, can be exhibited, shared, and appreciated in a warm and welcoming atmosphere.

It is equally a place where we will have an understanding family within our reach. Tutorial services and a study lounge, among other services, will be available for students who want and need these benefits.

The founders of this center have proposed many objectives for our community, but it is important to clarify that the integration of our Spanish culture with other minority and majority cultures is one of the center's major goals. The center is also there to give non-Hispanic students the opportunity to learn about Latin American culture.

Benjamin Rodriguez, a founder of the Bilingual Collegiate Program, explains, "Expansion of the interrelation and the union of all existing cultures in this University is one of our greatest goals."

In other words, the goal of this center is not segregation of our cultures on this diverse campus, but the integration of the components of our Hispanic community with the components of other ethnic groups and the exchange of human expression that will have the moral and cultural power to surpass the barriers of cultural rejection.

Appreciation

During the ceremony, we were fortunate to have the representation and endorsement of members of the administration and faculty. Luis Gongora, a Colombian painter and art professor at UMass was present and some of his works were displayed. Liza Gallardo, president of AHORA spoke, as did other students active in the Hispanic community.

For me, it was moving to discover the enormous pool of artistic talents that exist in our Hispanic student community.

One Puerto Rican student, Aurea Teresa Negron, gave an outstanding performance in the reading of two poems by Jose de Diego. A few beautiful musical pieces were played on piano and clarinet, and the band Resistencia, made up of Latin American students from UMass, played traditional music for all to enjoy.

On this evening, we could appreciate the geographical diversity of Hispanic people in the artistic expression and different typical dishes from all over Latin America.

This event was truly wonderful, making it possible to spend time with the great diverse family of Latin Americans and North Americans together in defense of a desire to give us stability as a united group and at the same time create better relations with other minority and majority groups at UMass.

We are very proud of our new Cultural Center, and have every reason to believe it will be a great success and asset to the campus.

As student Jose Tuson related to us in his message, 'El centro cultural Hispanico es el producto de la ardua labor de un grupo de estudiantes que convertieron de un sueno una realidad.'

And with these great wishes, we hope that each day our center can become more and more successful.

Deborah Gonzalez is a UMass student

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc.

By EDWARD SMITH
Collegian Correspondent

This weekend marked the arrival of a new, predominantly Black sorority on campus. Late Saturday night, three University of Massachusetts students, Sabrina Sutherland, Pamela Thomas, and Janice Foster-Grant, became neophyte (first year) members of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Incorporated.

ZΦB

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc., was founded on Jan. 16, 1920, at Howard University, and functions equally in a brother-sister relationship with Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc.

"Zeta Phi Beta Sigma is like a family. It feels good to know I have brothers as well as sisters that I can depend on,' said Thomas.

The national headquarters of the sorority is located in Washington, D.C., and presides over the more than 550 chapters around the world. Zeta Phi Beta was the first predominantly Black Greek letter organization to establish a chapter on the continent of Africa.

It was the idea of the Zetas' five founders that the sorority reach college women, in all parts of the country, who were sorority-minded and were committed to following the ideals that Zeta Phi Beta had set up, according to Rosemarie Edwards. She also crossed this weekend and plans to transfer to UMass next semester.

The ideals of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority are Finer Womanhood, Sisterly Love, Scholarship, and Community Service. "Finer Womanhood means carrying yourself in such a manner, and living your life in a way that allows you to hold your head up high at all times, because if you respect yourself, others have no choice but to respect you," said Sutherland, a junior studying Women's Studies and Social Thought and Political Economy.

"Community Service is especially important to the Zetas," said Thomas, a sophomore Hotel Restaurant Travel Administration major.

While pledging, this semester's line (pledge group) performed such services as working on a large scale fundraiser for the African Meeting House in Boston, co-sponsoring a Red Cross Blood Drive with the Phi Beta Sigma pledges, and sponsoring an International Students Day at Fitchburg State College.

The national programmatic thrust this year is Economic Development, Political Awareness, Illiteracy Eradication, Project Zeta, aimed at the prevention of drug and substance abuse, and Health and Human Resources.

Theta Alpha, the Boston city chapter of Zeta Phi Beta, pledged a line of eight women this semester, including the three UMass students. "We do plan to start our own UMass chapter next semester," said Foster-Grasnt, a sophomore accounting major.

The colors of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority are royal blue and pure white, and the Zetas call is "Eeikee!," which has a secret meaning to the sorority. The traditional symbol of Zeta Phi Beta is the cat.

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc.

By EDWARD SMITH
Collegian Correspondent

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc., was founded Jan. 9, 1914 at Howard University. Its brotherhood now consists of more than 100,000 men in chapters all over the nation and the world.

The University of Massachusetts chapter of Phi Beta Sigma is Lambda Nu, founded in Spring of 1985 by Roscoe Robinson, who brought Sigma to UMass because he felt there were no fraternities here which were sufficiently committed to helping the Black community.

"We feel that we are in the forefront of community involvement on this campus with action, not just talk," said Robinson, who coined the chapter motto: "We are about the business of taking care of business."

A few of the things that the Lambda Nu chapter has been involved with over the past few years are the Alain LeRoy Locke Scholarship, the bringing of Minister Louis Farrakhan to campus, Sigma Education Week, Tribute to the Black Woman, and many others.

"Our record speaks for itself. We're not about putting on a show. We're about shared knowledge, shared friendship, and shared determination," said Bro. Charles Sheffield.

This semester, a new member was inducted into the Fraternity. Joseph L. Hill Jr., a junior Chemistry major, pledged alone this semester.

"I feel that Phi Beta Sigma's pledge process teaches the skills necessary for a person of color to overcome the obstacles that we so frequently encounter in this oppressive society," said Bro. Joseph.

"The principles of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. are Brotherhood, Scholarship, and Service, and we strive to exemplify these ideals in everything we do," said Bro. Mark (C.D.) Codling-Davy.

The traditional national programs of the fraternity are Bigger and Better Business, Social Action, and Education. Phi Beta Sigma's newest program is Sigmas Against Teenage Pregnancy, initiated from the national headquarters located in Washington, D.C.

The brothers of the Lambda Nu chapter have distinguished themselves in many ways on campus. Scott C. Hill, president of the chapter, is editor ot the Collegian's Multicultural Affairs page.

ΦΒΣ

Vice President Mark Codling-Davy and Bro. Charles Sheffield were instrumental in the New Africa House Takeover of 1986 and are involved in entrepreneural activities.

Treasurer Roscoe F. Robinson is past coordinater of the East-side Cultural Centers located in the Northeast, Central, and Sylvan residences areas. He is presently a consultant at the Benjamin Banneker Computer Lab.

Members of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity worldwide have distinguished themselves in a variety of fields. Brothers William Tolbert, Kwame Nkrumah, and Nnamdi Azikiwe are former presidents of African countries.

Some other famous Sigmas are civil rights activist A. Philip Randolph, athlete Jerry Rice, and scientist George Washington Carver.

State will borrow money to fund local aid

By DANIEL BEEGAN
The Associated Press

BOSTON — Administration and Finance Secretary L. Edward Lashman said Tuesday innovative borrowing techniques will allow the state to make the full $1.1 million local aid payment to cities and towns this month.

Lashman's announcement followed a meeting by officials of the administration of Gov. Dukakis with leaders of the Massachusetts Municipal Association.

Lashman said the financially strapped state will borrow an additional $700 million this week, using short-term commercial paper secured by a letter of credit from two Japanese banks.

"It's like having a co-signer on a personal loan," Lashman said. But Lashman warned municipalities that Dukakis would be forced to withhold $500 million from the June local aid payment to balance the fiscal year 1990 budget if the Legislature fails to approve a tax increase.

The state has a deficit that Lashman pegged at $805 million, but that legislative fiscal experts have said is $825 million.

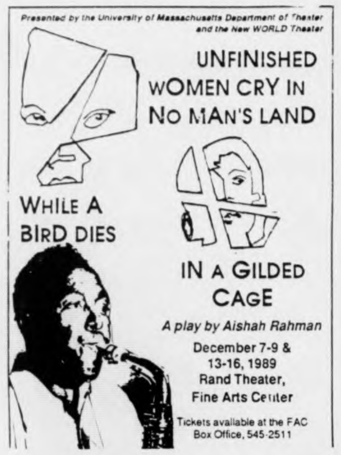
The Legislature is working on a package of budget cuts and non-tax revenues that is expected to total about $300 million to $350 million, leaving a gap of about $500 million.

"That amount cannot be paid without new taxes," Lashman said in a memo to Dukakis. "By taking this action now and putting everybody on early notice, all parties can plan for meeting the issue before June."

Dukakis had said last week that at least a portion of the December local aid payment might have to be withheld unless the Legislature raised taxes this month.

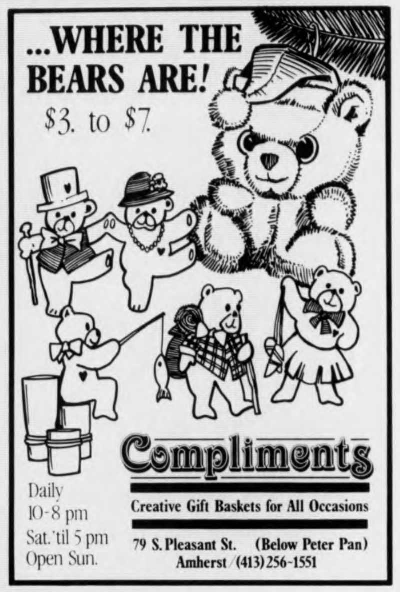
But Lashman said the borrowing arrangement worked out by State Treasure Robert Q. Crane would allow the full payment this month.

WASTE IS A PROBLEM. WE ALL SHARE THE RESPONSIBILITY. BY RECYCLING YOU CAN BE PART OF THE SOLUTION



Presented by the University of Massachusetts Department of Theater and the New WORLD Theater
UNFINISHED WOMEN CRY IN NO MAN'S LAND WHILE A BIRD DIES IN A GILDED CAGE
A play by Aishah Rahman
December 7-9 & 13-16, 1989
Rand Theater, Fine Arts Center
Tickets available at the FAC Box Office, 545-2511

HAPPY HOLIDAYS
NICK VARNER • MIKE SIGEL
Meucci
Mali
Cues & Accessories... Great Gifts!
BROWN'S BILLIARDS
SUN.-THURS. 11:30-12 AM
FRI. & SAT. 11:30-1 AM
MT. FARMS MALL • HADLEY • 584-0916



...WHERE THE BEARS ARE!
$3. to $7.
Daily 10-8 pm
Sat. 'til 5 pm
Open Sun.
Compliments
Creative Gift Baskets for All Occasions
79 S. Pleasant St. (Below Peter Pan)
Amherst/(413) 256-1551

Lighten Your Load With Zenith's New Supersport SX

Now you can have 386 laptop performance with SupersPort SX

With number-crunching power of the Intel 386SX microprocessor, the SupersPort SX gives you processing speeds up to 33% faster than most portables. The Page White screen offers high-contrast black-on-white images.
With up to 3 1/2 hours of battery life, it's the best choice for 386 performance within a 286 budget!

Don't forget to ask about Zenith Data System's Loanware program

ZENITH data systems

FOR MORE INFORMATION, PLEASE CALL:
University Store
• 545-2619 •
or
John Lewis
ZDS Student Representative
• 546-4064 •

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted

Shattering Santa's stereotype

For those disillusioned youth who thought that Santa Claus was self-employed, I have grim news for you. His entire North Pole facility recently succumbed to a hostile corporate takeover by an obscure Ohio-based public relations conglomerate.

Darren Garnick

Since the takeover, swift measures have been implemented to eradicate the troublemakers within the Santa organization. Last Friday, 17 shopping days before Christmas, I was fired from my Santa job at the Hampshire Mall photo booth.

I was the fifth Santa canned in two weeks.

The boss said that "although I was a nice person," she was "looking for someone a bit more traditional for the role."

Okay, so I didn't stick to the recommended script. I tried to elicit creativity in the children, urging them to challenge the Christmas images bombarded upon them by the media.

If a youngster was sickeningly pro-Rudolph, I pointed out that despite the fact my other reindeer get little prime-time exposure, they indeed have feelings too.

Not once did I deliver a sermon on commercialism's poisoning of Christmas. Not once did I question the children's beliefs in Santa Claus. Rather, I asked the youngsters to reconsider myths that remain unchallenged. Myths like Santa prefers to consume cookies and milk, while reindeer love to chomp on carrots.

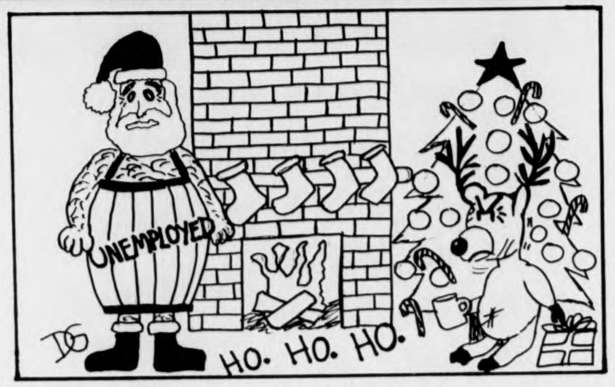
Part of my "rap" with each kid was to ask if he or she was planning on leaving out some snacks on Christmas Eve. If a child did not automatically respond with the milk-cookies-carrot cliche, I would harmlessly ask for a small mushroom and onion pizza. The boss scolded that pizza requests placed undue financial pressure on the parents.

Please.

Naturally, of course, my pizza stance was not the only instance of my deviance from "tradition." I also had the audacity to question the social inequality in the Santa booth.

According to legend, Santa Claus was male. Based on this outdated dogma, the booth adamantly refuses to hire a female Santa Claus. Predictably then, women occupy the subservient role. My co-worker Karen — decked out in a corny plaid dress — took pictures and did paperwork the entire shift, while I (Santa) slouched around a velvet throne.

Although in the public eye I was the star and she was the servant, she clearly got the better deal in terms of comfort. With my torso wrapped up in layers of stuffing and cloth, and my face suffocated by phony facial hair, the intra-costume climate reached unbearable levels. Karen's, costume however, allowed her to breathe.



But costumes were not my principal concern. Rather, I found our restricted social roles to be inexcusable in the 80s. Thus, instead of letting the mall population dismiss Karen as a plastic Christmas prop — an elf who blended into the background — we redefined her role.

I introduced her as the head biologist of my Reindeer Research Lab at the North Pole. Karen's speciality was genetics, preventing crippling diseases from rendering my reindeer fleet useless.

Yes, it was for subversive ideas like this one that I lost my job, that I was branded a heretic and blackballed throughout the Santa community.

My story will never be told on an animated Christmas television special. All I wanted to do was to bring back a little holiday magic for the children.

I tried.

I tried to be honest with the kids, not threaten them with bribes for good behavior.

I tried to combat the shrapnels of greed so prevalent in the mouths of babes.

And I was silenced.

Merry Christmas, Ho! Ho! Ho! And all that crap.

Darren Garnick was a Collegian columnist

Mourning made into mockery

I am appalled at the mockery that's being made of the brutal slaying of the 14 University of Montreal women. While "all of Quebec is mourning," some here in the United States have turned this into an occasion for feminist revolt.

I simply ask that you consider the following words of some people at UMass and Smith, as printed in the Collegian:

"It is our patriarchal system that produces people who hate women." "This is a war against women." "Marc Lepine was not an isolated madman, but a generic product of our society. It is the unusual man who does not abuse women." "The only solution, women's revolution."

How can anyone blame "society" or the "system" for what this deranged lunatic did? This is a case where we are denying that the individual, (READ: "not generic") is responsible for his/her own actions. To call Lepine a "generic product" is to say that he is not unlike most men. In other words, all men not only share his attitudes, but support what he did. The same commentator said that Lepine "just made it public." Spare me please.

What's happening here? People are taking a very horrid tragedy — committed by a psychopath — and are putting the blame on the whole society. People have used it as a launching pad for their own personal causes, namely, "women's revolution."

This story is extremely sad and not to be taken lightly. The result of this man's sinfulness is that 14 human beings have been slaughtered. To use Lepine's heinous crime as an excuse to say "men (in general) are sitting there carrying out a campaign against women" is sickening.

It is sad to see something so tragic being construed into "a battle for life." This does not mean we don't all share in the frustration and anger. But many, while being so self-serving, are completely unsympathetic to our fellow women in Montreal.

This is not what true mourning is about.

Please consider what "society" is actually made up of — individuals. Then maybe someday we will get to the root of the reason for such massacres. Further revolt is not the answer — that too is plain hatred. Think about it UMass!

Micel Gautier
Central

A somewhat bitter farewell

They say you can tell when a ship is ready to sink, because the rats start leaving, any way they can.

In just over a month, the papers have announced that three top Massachusetts educational administrators are looking for jobs elsewhere. Of course, these people are too distinguished and important and well-paid to be compared with rats, but you probably get the idea.

Al Arpad

By now most people on campus know that Chancellor Duffey is interviewing for the presidency of the University of Delaware. His boss, Chancellor of Public Higher Education Franklyn Jenifer, may be offered the presidency of Howard University, his alma mater. And the Vice Chancellor for University Relations and Development, Deirdre Ling, is reportedly considering another post in Maryland.

What most people don't realize is that lots of other University employees are quietly leaving as well. I should know; I'm one of them.

For 2½ years, I've led a secret double life, a student during the day and a full-time state employee at night. The only thing that made the job worthwhile was the tuition waiver for University staff. But the word from Boston is that those benefits will be eliminated in the new contract that's under negotiation. So when I got a chance at another job, I took it.

Anybody with a similar opportunity would be wise to act quickly, and, in fact, the same goes for students, especially those from outside Massachusetts.

With the bills rising even faster for out-of-state students than for the rest of us, only those who are very close to graduation should even consider staying here. Even if your parents are extremely rich, why pay more to attend a failing institution? The way things are going now, UMass should plummet straight past mediocrity and be thoroughly inferior in no time.

Since this is my last column, I tried hard to think of something positive to write about, but under the circumstances, I couldn't.

I'm angry because the present situation, and the prospect of worse to come, could have been avoided with reasonably prudent government. I'm frustrated because our politicians, who most likely started out reasonably prudent, have apparently been corrupted beyond redemption by the normal demands of our political system. What can I do?

I have another year to go, if I can afford to come back. Afterwards, I'll be getting out of Massachusetts for good.

And I don't expect to leave a forwarding address with the Alumni telefund. I don't want my money spent on horse farms and public relations consultants. If I want to give away money, I'll donate directly to some student organization, like the Collegian.

If I write for the Collegian again next semester, I'd like to cover more cheerful things than state politics. I'm very much looking forward to the ignominious failure of George Bush's alleged foreign policy in China and around the world.

Unfortunately, as long as I live here, it will be extremely difficult to divert my attention from the moral and intellectual vacuum in Boston.

Al Arpad is a UMass student

The 'war' against women

A man murdered 14 women last Wednesday.

I am terrorized. Feelings of anger and despair underlie my fear. Not an isolated act nor the single act of a crazed man, this massacre, and so many others like it, indicates the increasing violence toward women.

Clarinda Rose-Turner

I feel it directed towards me, personally. He killed them because "he hated feminists."

My fear chokes me. If I speak, will I be shot in cold blood as I sit in my classroom? If I leave a relationship, will I be raped for my insolence? If I show my anger, will I be defined as "emotional" and will therefore be disregarded?

Though the "level of violence" differs within each of these examples, their effect is the same: it serves to silence me.

Those who commit these acts go unnamed. They range from the unknown man on the street to close, trustworthy friends. Lovers, reporters, professors, people who consider themselves progressive all contribute to this forced silence of women.

Connections drawn between the murder, the rape and the humiliation become lost. Each of us who experience these feelings swallow them to become mute.

The war against women can no longer be treated as a myth. Too many rapes, too many beatings and too many murders become just isolated incidences. We are told, "He was disturbed." Or, "He was depressed."

Occasionally, and more frighteningly, we are told, "She deserved it." I cannot accept these answers any more. I no longer subscribe to this pretense that each incident is unrelated.

I am not proposing that some specific group has set as its goal the destruction and subordination of women. What I identify as the war against women, is much more horrifying. Its leadership stems from the collective unconscious of our society. The resulting battles are spontaneous and effectively lethal. Many of us become soldiers through our ignorance and our prejudices. The fighting is continuous and exhausting.

Last week, the Undergraduate Student Senate debated the sale of three pornographic magazines. Used as a weapon to detail how to commit crimes against women, pornography depicts sexuality with violence. For instance, several years ago, the cover of Penthouse featured a woman half ground up in a meat grinder.

Yet, some people fail to find any link between violence and pornography. Though this Senate motion passed, it only passed by one vote. Are women's rights and safety really a priority of our society? Clearly the war against women is gaining in intensity and ferocity.

I would like to ask that you remember the 14 casualties who died at the University of Montreal. Wear a black band to mourn their deaths. Moreover, wear a black band to show that you recognize the war against women; that you will not support it; and that you will use your words and actions to actively fight against it.

Clarinda Rose-Turner is a UMass student

The Editorial Desk is now accepting applications for two associate editor positions.

Applications are available at the Editorial Desk. Deadline for applications will be 4 p.m. today. Submit applications to Minu Sebastian, next semester's Editorial editor.

Are you still looking for something you haven't seen in The Collegian?

We are now having a contest where you pick the feature!!!

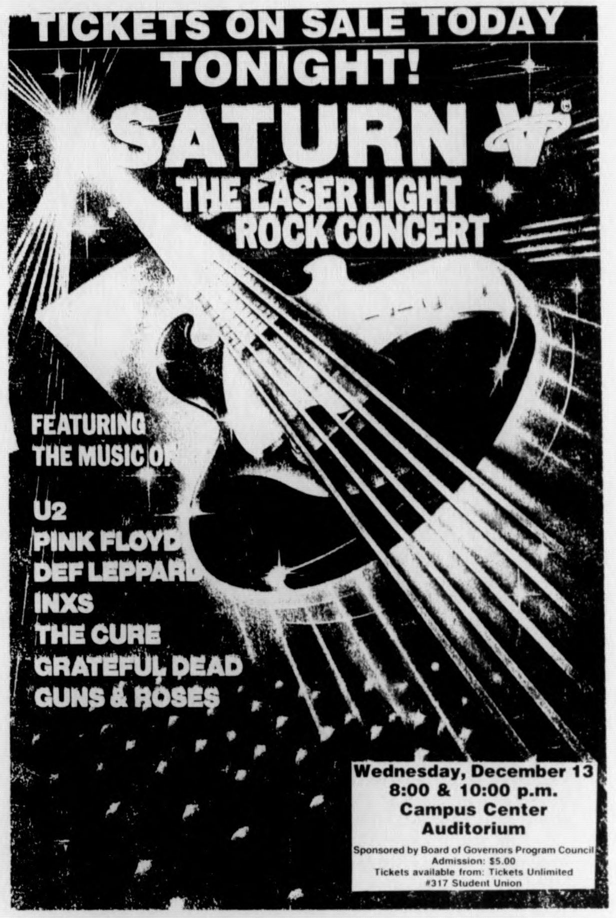
Choose from the following sections:

Sports Extra
Multicultural Affairs
Books
Black Affairs
Women's Issues
This Weekend
Focus
Third World Affairs
Health & Science
News
Arts/Living
Sports

Pick a feature and if your idea is selected, we will do a story on it!

Send entries or bring down to:

You Pick the Feature
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center
University of Massachusetts, Amherst MA 01003



TICKETS ON SALE TODAY
TONIGHT!
SATURN V
THE LASER LIGHT ROCK CONCERT
FEATURING THE MUSIC OF U2
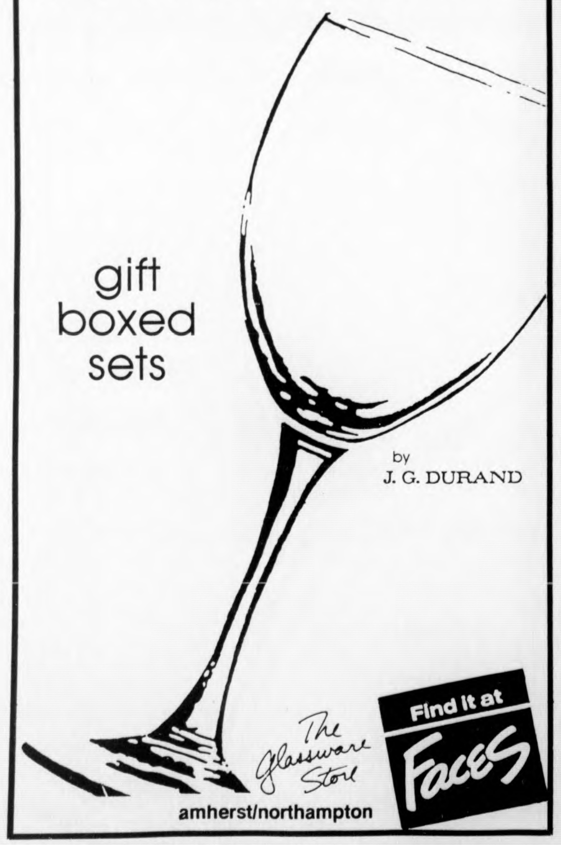
PINK FLOYD
DEF LEPPARD
INXS
THE CURE
GRATEFUL DEAD
GUNS & ROSES

Wednesday, December 13
8:00 & 10:00 p.m.
Campus Center Auditorium
Sponsored by Board of Governors Program Council
Admission: $5.00
Tickets available from: Tickets Unlimited
#317 Student Union



stemware

gift boxed sets

by J. G. DURAND

The Glassware Store
Find it at FACES
amherst/northampton

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Over 100 courses!

Almost half meet gen. ed. requirements.

University of Massachusetts at Amherst

Winter Session

Mail Registration—November 11-December 13
All mail registrations must be sent via U.S. mail and be postmarked no earlier than November 11. (Do not use campus mail.)

Walk-in Registration—
November 27-January 5
Room 615 Goodell Building

Registrations are processed in the order in which they are received, so register early!

Classes start January 3, 1990.

For more information, contact the Division of Continuing Education, Goodell Building, or call 545-2414.

ARTS & LIVING

Guthrie, the singer and storyteller, spins tales of yesterday and today

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

Arlo Guthrie
Fine Arts Center
UPC Production
Monday, Dec. 11

REVIEW

It seems that whenever someone goes to a concert these days, they come back talking about everything but the songs. They gush about how big the stage is and all the fun props that are on it. Or they go off about the intense light show and the monster speakers. The music gets lost in the hype.

That's why it was such a pleasure to walk into the Fine Arts Center on Monday night, look up at the stage and see only a piano, two guitars, a couple of small amplifiers, a microphone and a stool. There was no smoke, no blow-up dolls and no laser lights. Arlo Guthrie doesn't need any.

With the stuff that Guthrie provides, razzle-dazzle would only be a detraction from his songs and stories. The stories began right after his opening number, "Stealin'." He kept the sold out crowd in stitches with his tales of starting out as a folk singer more than 20 years ago in Greenwich Village ("Where people came to look at the weirdos").

The stories were just as important, and much more lengthy than the songs. Before singing his father, Woody's, "I Ain't Got No Home," he joked how his father stole the melody from a gospel tune. "Everyone called it stealing until Pete Seeger came around and started calling it 'the folk process.'"

But the funniest story was when he stopped in the middle of David Mallet's "Inch By Inch" to ponder what it must feel like for a little kid to hear the lines "Big crow sitting in a tree/Got his hungry eyes on me," especially since the crow's the same size as the kid.

Songs like "Me and My Goose" and "My Motorcicle" were also nice comedic touches. He called "My Motorcicle" "the stupidest song I ever wrote," while "Me and My Goose" was about his pet, and pal, that his mother ended up serving for dinner But there was more to Guthrie's show than jokes. The man is a folk singer, after all. "Victor Juanta," about the Chilean folk singer who sang for the common man, was a touching ballad. The lyrics are from a poem that Juanta's wife gave to Guthrie while he was visiting the country.

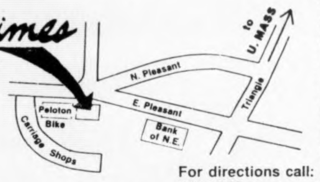
CONTINUED ON PAGE 14

Photo by Kerry Herlihy

Arlo Guthrie

Worried about your thesis or dissertation? We know you'll probably be up late, and so will we - we're open from 8 am till midnight, every Mon. - Friday, and we have convenient weekend hours too Sat 9-5 & Sun 11-5 And our acid-free paper is just one penny extra!

COLLECTIVE COPIES
COPIES IN A FLASH
256-6425
29 S. Pleasant St., Amherst



25% OFF All Hair Accessories
Dec. 11- Dec. 17

herself ... at times
Jewelry & Accessories

7 E. Pleasant St.
(In front of the Carriage Shops between Peloton Bike and Bank of N. Eng.)

For directions call: 549-6693

Fedor Pontiac
Rewards December
GRADUATES
with "Collegiate Excitement" SAVINGS
'90 Sunbird — SAVE $1,100.
'90 Grand Am LE — SAVE $1,350.
'90 Grand Am SE — SAVE $1,600.
'90 Grand Prix SE — SAVE $1,600.
'89 Firebird Formula — SAVE $1,100.
PLUS: No Payments for 90 Days (College Grads Only)
PLUS: Generous Fedor Discounts
CALL MARTY FEDOR AT 584-3544 FOR ADDL. DETAILS
FEDOR OLDSMOBILE PONTIAC
228 Northamton St. (Route 10 South)
at Academy of Music) 584-3544
Easthampton, MA
Special Restrictions Apply
See Dealer for Complete Details
PONTIAC
1st TIME BUYER
COLLEGE UNDERGRAD/GRAD
$600

SALE!
FOUR DAYS ONLY...
Thursday 14th
Friday 15th
Saturday 16th
Sunday 17th
100% COTTON
TURTLENECKS
in a dozen dazzling colors
REG. ~~9.95~~
NOW 6.95
3 For 19.95
Find it at FACES
amherst/northampton

Arlo Guthrie

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 13

He introduced "(Nobody Seems to Care These Days) When a Soldier Makes it Home" as "a song that should have been written 20 years ago." The emotional song dealt with Vietnam and Afghanistan, and contained the powerful refrain, "I guess you had to be there/To know that war is hell."

And there was so much more. "Oh Mom," from his latest album, Someday, is his satirical swipe at everyone who labels him a washed-up hippie who lives in the past. It's full of Dylan and Grateful Dead references, and includes the chorus "Mom, your universal love is such a drag." It's good to see that his songs are as creative and witty today as they were more than 20 years ago.

Which brings us to "Alice's Restaurant," all 18 minutes and 20 seconds of it. The tale of how he avoided the draft because he was a litterbug remains the same, although he added a historical footnote. It seems that President Nixon had a copy of Alice's Restaurant in his record collection. It also seems that one of the infamous Nixon tapes has an 18 minute and 20 second gap in it. "I sat back and asked myself, Arlo, how many things do you know that are exactly, I mean exactly 18 minutes and 20 seconds long?"

He informally chatted about how his audience has changed over the years. He said he doesn't talk as much about politics anymore because: "Anybody who comes to hear me, we already agree on a bunch of stuff. Maybe it's better just to get together and laugh, and make sure everyone's still here."

He got a bit preachy at the end as talked about changing the world and all, but at the end of "Amazing Grace" he quoted his father in something we should all take to heart.

"This world is your world. Take it easy, but take it."

SUGARBUSH
$254 Jan 21-26
Trip Includes:
* 5 Nights Condo Lodging
* 5 1/2 Day Lift Ticket
* Schedule of Activities
* Services of on site staff
* All Taxes and Gratuities

QUÉBEC CANADA
$214 Jan 14-19
Trip Includes:
* 5 Nights Hotel Lodging
* 4 Day Lift Ticket
to Mte Ste Anne
* Schedule of Activities
* Services of on site staff
* All Taxes and Gratuities

BRECKENRIDGE GENUINE COLORADO
$599 Jan 8—15
Trip Includes:
* Round Trip Airfare
* Round trip Transfers
* 7 Nights Condo Lodging
* 5 Days of Lifts
* Services of on site staff
* all taxes and gratuities

Jamaica
Montego Bay
$534 Jan 7-14 Jan 14-21
Trip Includes:
* Roundtrip Air Fare on Continental
* 7 Nights Hotel Lodging
* Optional tours and Activities.
* On site Sunburst staff
* All taxes except departure taxes

SIGN UP NOW
UMASS SKI CLUB
Contact:
U MASS SKI CLUB
430 STUDENT UNION
545-3437

RESTAURANT
classé café
BAKERY
We deliver birthday cakes to the dorms!
now serving wine & beer
the Valley's best burgers
Homemade desserts
Soups & Salads
Monday - Saturday 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.
Sunday Brunch 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.
168 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, MA 253-2291

LIVE IN JAPAN

International Education Services invites applications for a one-year assignment in Japan teaching English language skills in school settings as well as to Japanese Business people from major corporations and government offices. Minimum academic requirement is a Bachelors degree; some work experience desirable. Liberal Arts degree holders as well as those with specialized degrees (i.e. management, engineering, pharmaceutical, securities, finance, languages, education, etc.) are encouraged to apply. Please submit current resume and cover letter accompanied by a recent photo to:

International Education Services
Shin-Taiso Building
10-7 Dogenzaka, 2-chome
Shibuya-ku, Toyko 150 JAPAN
Fax Number: (81)-03-463-7089

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION
Blossom,
Thrive,
Flourish.
University of Massachusetts at Amherst
Spring 1990

Plant the seed of knowledge this spring at the UMass Division of Continuing Education. Choose from nearly 200 hardy and fast sprouting credit courses and Adventures in Lifelong Learning workshops for a well rooted and enduring future. Register—by mail, by telephone, or in person—beginning December 26 for the course or workshop of your choice. Classes begin January 30.

For more information, or a free course catalog, call the Division of Continuing Education at 545-2414.

Let it blossom, let it grow.
DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

MILKY WAY
Special
December 11 - 17

Milky Way
BAR

3/99¢
Available at all Store locations
University Store 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Mini Store 7:30 a.m. - 10:00 p.m.
Franklin Munchy 7:30 a.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Hampden Munchy 8:00 a.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Worcester Munchy 8:00 a.m. - 9:00 p.m.

Local author Robert Abel wins award

By PRESTON P. FORMAN
Collegian Staff

Robert Abel, a former employee and graduate of UMass, has won the Flannery O'Connor Award for Short Fiction for his book Looking for Trouble, given by the University of Georgia Press.

The prize, given since 1981, awards $1000 and publication of the book submitted.

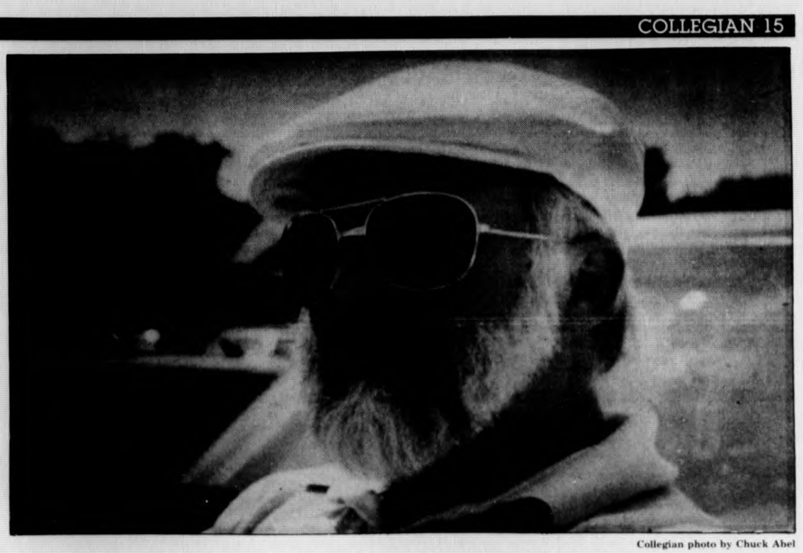
Abel, who is sharing the prize with Deborah Monroe of Salt Lake City, praised the decision.

"I'm kind of surprised that the book won since there are particularly adult stories in the book," he said, mentioning the current debacle over public money supporting art of questionable taste.

"I think its courageous for the press to award it since there is so much talk over the matter," Abel said. "It's particularly gratifying that they took it on."

Charles East, the main editor of the O'Connor Award, said he was basically unconcerned about the content of the collections the University of Georgia Press publishes, although he keeps it in mind when reading over

CONTINUED ON PAGE 17



Collegian photo by Chuck Abel

Author Robert Abel won the Flannery O'Connor Award for Short Fiction

Lasers to light up Campus Center Auditorium tonight

By ADAM J. GAMBLE
Collegian Correspondent

Tonight's the night. After a postponement due to technical difficulties, Saturn V, the only touring laser light concert that includes every color in the spectrum, is scheduled to rock the UMass Campus Center Auditorium. The two one hour shows feature great rock 'n' roll, accompanied by giant "spyrographic" images and an an array of futuristic, zig-zagging laser beams.

Randy Ehman, of Brian Winthrop International, Saturn V's production company, explained, "If the lasers displayed at concerts such as Pink Floyd and Rush turn you on, than you'll be in heaven here."

The show is sponsored by The Board of Government Program Council, and program director Jeff Glassman recalls that last year's experience was a great success. "We sold-out last year. It was an exciting show. I'm really looking forward to this year's concert, and it's going to be even better because they've got all new equipment. It's among our biggest events this semester."

PREVIEW

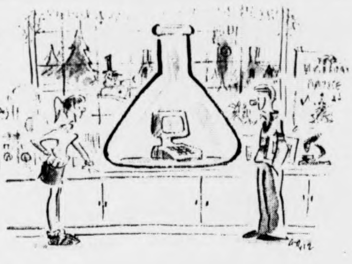
Saturn V's new Swiss manufactured, fully computerized ARC laser system is less than four months old. It's claimed to have the most innovative laser graphics computer to date. The ARC system boasts two Spectra-Physics white lasers — one for frontal projections, and one for beams. The lasers don't just encompass all of the colors in the spectrum, they include subtle variations all the way through. The frontal projections glitter across a large 20 by 30 foot screen. The images are programmed to coincide with the music, sometimes spelling out parts of the lyrics, and sometimes producing images from the songs. Images include three-dimensional doves, a compass, vehicles, and even human figures.

The other parts of the show, the actual laser beams, are integrated with specially designed fog and conventional lighting systems. The multicolored lasers range in size from mere millimeters, to two full feet in diameter. They are set, both in color and in rhythm, to match the songs.

Ehman said, "With all this going on — the lighting, the fog, the spyrographic images, the lasers, the music — with all of it integrated and working together, it becomes much more than a laser show or a concert. It's an experience."

Saturn V's precision beam deflection system sends the lasers racing back and forth over the audience. Ehman said that in Europe, most notably in Switzerland, they often shoot off lasers right into the audience for a wild experience. That, however, won't be done tonight — the U.S. government strictly prohibits the shooting of lasers at human beings. Saturn V's deflection system includes eight large mobile mirrors, but Ehman doesn't expect to use them all, as space is limited at indoor shows.

Showtimes are 8 p.m. and 10 p.m., and tickets go on sale at the door at 7 p.m. Admission is $5.



"I've finally discovered the formula for taking the late nights out of lab class..."

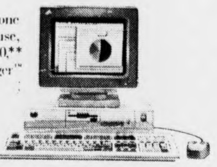
Just in time for the holidays: great savings on IBM PS/2's.

This new year, resolve to maintain the perfect chemistry between work and fun. We've just made it easier, because now you can get a terrific buy on an IBM Personal System/2,® with easy-to-use software loaded and ready to go.

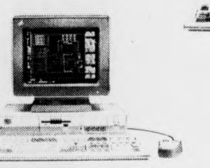
What's more, when you buy the PS/2,® you will get a mouse pad, a 3.5-inch diskette holder, and a power strip—all free. And you're entitled to a great low price on the PRODIGY® service. Aside from all this, right now there are special savings on three of the most popular IBM Proprinters.™

But this offer—like the holidays—won't last long.* Offer ends February 15, 1990. Stop in today!

PS/2 Model 30 286—1Mb memory, 80286 (10 MHz) processor, one 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44Mb), 20Mb fixed disk drive, IBM Mouse, 8513 Color Display, DOS 4.0, Microsoft® Windows/286, Word 5.0, hDC Windows Express,™ hDC Windows Manager™ and hDC Windows Color.™



PS/2 Model 50 Z—1Mb memory, 80286 (10 MHz) processor, one 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44Mb), 30Mb fixed disk drive, Micro Channel™ architecture, IBM Mouse, 8513 Color Display, DOS 4.0, Microsoft Windows/286, Word 5.0, Excel, hDC Windows Express, hDC Windows Manager and hDC Windows Color.



PS/2 Model 55 SX—2Mb memory, 80386SX™ (16 MHz) processor, one 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44Mb), 60Mb fixed disk drive, Micro Channel architecture, IBM Mouse, 8513 Color Display, DOS 4.0, Microsoft Windows/386, Word 5.0, Excel, hDC Windows Express, hDC Windows Manager and hDC Windows Color.

Model 25 Package not available after 12/31/89

How're you going to do it? PS/2 it!

IBM FINANCING PLAN AVAILABLE

UNIVERSITY STORE

OPEN
M-F 9-5

IBM

* This offer is limited to qualified students, faculty and staff who order an IBM PS/2 Model 8530-E21, 8550-031 or 8555-061 through February 15, 1990. Prices quoted do not include sales tax, handling and/or processing charges. Check with your institution regarding these charges. Orders are subject to availability. Prices are subject to change and IBM may withdraw the promotion at any time without written notice.
 Microsoft Word and Excel are the Academic Editions.
® IBM, Personal System/2 and PS/2 are registered trademarks of International Business Machines Corporation. PRODIGY is a registered service mark and trademark of Prodigy Services Company, a partnership of IBM and Sears. Microsoft is a registered trademark of Microsoft Corporation.
™ Proprinter and Micro Channel are trademarks of International Business Machines Corporation. hDC Windows Express, hDC Windows Manager and hDC Windows Color are trademarks of hDC Computer Corporation. 80386SX is a trademark of Intel Corporation. © IBM Corp. 1989

Resident Assistant Selection Process 1990-1991

Leadership is becoming a Resident Assistant

An RA is a live-in part-time student staff member. Duties include fostering floor and cluster community, assisting with hall management, and enforcing University policies.

How to do it:

On Campus Students: go to your cluster office and pick up an application.

Off Campus Students: go to the following areas for applications–

Cance Area Office–SW South
Thoreau Area Office–SW North
Room B-30 Baker Area Office–OH/Central
Room 103 Johnson Area Office–NE/Sylvan

Become a student leader in your residence hall. Apply now for a Resident Assistant (RA) position. Applications are due between February 1-9, 1990 to the above area offices.

The University of Massachusetts at Amherst prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, sex, sexual preference, age, marital status, national origin, mental or physical handicap, political belief or affiliation, membership or non-membership in any organization, or veteran status. In any aspect of admission or treatment of students in employment.

CATCH THE TOP AT THE TOP TONIGHT!

BASKETBALL:
The Celtics play Seattle at 7:30

HOCKEY:
Bruins vs Sabres
Also at 7:30

TOP of the CAMPUS LOUNGE

Monday-Friday
11:30 a.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Saturday & Sunday
5:00 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

11th FLOOR CAMPUS CENTER

Munchy Sale

December 11 - 17

	Reg.	Sale
Hi-C, all flavors 46 oz.	1.29	1.05
Ocean Spray, all flavors 32 oz.	2.11	1.79
Franco Amer. Spago's (only) 15 oz.	.71	.59
Kraft Mac & Cheese 7 oz.	.84	.69
Chips Ahoy, 12 oz.	2.29	1.89
Cream Cheese, 3 oz.	.59	.49
Ruffles	1.39	.99
Pepsi, 1 liter	1.04	.79

All Items are Available at:

Franklin Munchy	7:30 a.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Hampden Munchy	8:00 a.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Worcester Munchy	8:00 a.m. - 9:00 p.m.

Weekend Hours
Saturday and Sunday 12:00 - 8:00 p.m.

FITZ DOOGAN'S
NOT AN IRISH PUB

WEDNESDAY
"AFTER FIVE OFFICE EXTRAVAGANZA"

Join Fitz Doogans and WMAS as we tip our hats to selected companies and test your abilities in our "Office Olympics." It's an exciting atmosphere with prizes and fun for all or just enjoy our complimentary hors d' oeuvres buffet. Compete for the chance to win a $500.00 office party.

THURSDAY
"DIAMONDS AND FURS"

What an opportunity!!! Every Thursday we will be giving away a genuine diamond from Hannoush Jewelers AND a genuine fur from Max Zeller furs. All you have to do to win one or BOTH of these great prizes is be here on Thursday nights.

FINALS FRIDAY 15th MUST BE PRESENT TO WIN!

FRIDAY & SATURDAY
"THE GREAT SNOWMOBILE GIVEAWAY"

Imagine cruising the White Wonders on your brand new SNOWMOBILE. Fitzdoogan's, ROCK 102 and Baer's Cycle Sales offers you the opportunity to experience the chance of a lifetime. To register, listen to ROCK 102, Stop by Baer's Cycle Sales, or join us Friday & Saturday nights for your chance to enter and win!!

Located at
PARWICK CENTRE
Memorial Drive, Route 33, Chicopee
(413) 739-7311

■ Robert Abel

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 15

submissions.

"We're looking for good stories, exceptional stories and exceptional writing. That's what we're looking for and that's what we try to find," East said.

"Some of Abel's stories might raise an eye but they are good stories," he said. "In several of our past collections we have published a story or two that might offend someone, but we've never had someone complain. Perhaps it's a matter of degree."

East also said this year they received more submissions than ever — almost 400 submissions including some international entries.

"It's not just a local competition,but then again Flannery O'Connor was not a local writer but a national one," he said.

Abel, who worked for the University as a writer for Contact from 1974 to 1978, said that Looking for Trouble,unlike his recently published Full Tilt Boogie, contains many previously unpublished stories.

Abel's favorite story in the collection is "First Appetizer," a tale about a fisherman who runs across a hungry bear by a stream in the woods. The only way the fisherman can keep out of trouble is to keep feeding the bear, who quickly becomes fond of this treatment.

"The bear keeps getting friendlier, so it's quite a hassle for him to get away," he said. "The story is my favorite because it was fun to write."

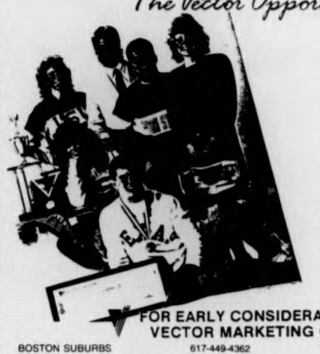
Abel thanked his wife Joyce, for the support she has given his writing, as well as Valerie Martin, a professor in the Masters of Fine Arts program at UMass.

JOBS AVAILABLE

The Collegian is now accepting applications for night graphics. We also need an Office Manager for the newsroom. All positions are for next semester. Get a job now and you won't need to worry.

The Collegian is an EOE.

Come down to Campus Center and see Terry or Mike



AS SEEN IN NEWSWEEK ON CAMPUS

VECTOR MARKETING CORPORATION

The Difference Between an Ordinary Job and "The Vector Opportunity"

$11.05 ENTRY LEVEL PAY RATE

- NATIONAL FIRM HAS IMMEDIATE OPENINGS DURING SEMESTER BREAK
- INTERVIEW NOW - BEGIN AFTER EXAMS
- GAIN VALUABLE BUSINESS EXPERIENCE FOR RESUME
- BUILD COMMUNICATION SKILLS
- SPECIAL 2-4 WEEK PROGRAM
- INTERNSHIPS & SCHOLARSHIPS POSSIBLE FOR NEXT SEMESTER
- FUTURE MANAGEMENT POSITIONS AVAILABLE
- ALL MAJORS MAY APPLY
- DETAILS COVERED AT INTERVIEW

FOR EARLY CONSIDERATION CALL NOW
VECTOR MARKETING CORPORATION

BOSTON SUBURBS	617-449-4362	WAKEFIELD,MA/NORTH SHORE AREA	617-246-5308
WORCESTER COUNTY	508-852-1680	SOUTHEAST MASS. AREA	508-947-1006

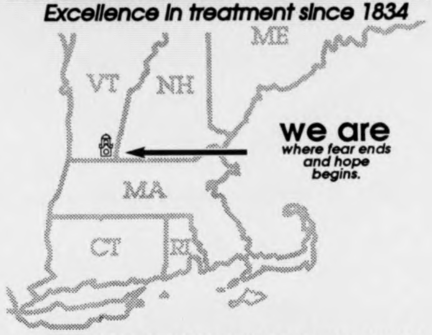
Alpha Lambda Delta

presents

WILLIE WONKA AND THE CHOCOLATE FACTORY

Free in Campus Center Auditorium
7:00 and 9:00 PM
Saturday, December 16

Brattleboro Retreat
Excellence in treatment since 1834



EATING DISORDERS (ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND BULIMIA) are serious, progressive, life-threatening illnesses, but they can be treated. Early identification and intervention significantly increase the likelihood of successful treatment.

BRATTLEBORO RETREAT, in southeastern Vermont, can help. For information and admission, call Director of Admissions: 1-800-345-5550

A non-profit hospital and treatment center

Affiliate of Dartmouth Medical School
Brattleboro Retreat
75 Linden Street, P.O. Box 803, Brattleboro, Vermont 05302-0803

LASER LIGHT SHOW

Tonight!!

8:00 and 10:00 PM

Campus Center Auditorium
Tickets $5— At the door

Army/Navy Store
The Amherst Drop Zone
(behind Bart's, next to Panda East)
256-0039

Open 7 days a week
Mon-Sat 10-6 p.m.
Sunday 12-5

European Overcoats
$39.95—$49.95

Photo-Buck Stewart 549-5454

CHECK US OUT!

Douglas, Turner, DeVito in a war to remember

By GEORGE LENTZ
Collegian Staff

THE SCREENING ROOM

It seems Danny DeVito has regained contact with his mean streak. His first directorial effort, Throw Momma from the Train, had all the fixings of a great black comedy. But DeVito went soft when he got behind the camera, and the film failed to live up to its malicious title. His latest, The War of the Roses, however, is anything but rosy. This baby snaps with a hard satirical bite and surprises us as one of the best movies of the year.

Michael Douglas and Kathleen Turner are Oliver and Barbara Rose. After meeting at a Nantucket auction, they bed down and get married. She takes care of the house and he brings home the six-figure bacon as their Yuppie bliss fattens faster than their two junk food-eating kids.

But all is not as it seems in their material wonderland. Douglas is all work and no play, only acknowledging Turner when it's time to entertain his important law firm clients at dinner parties.

DeVito builds his story slowly, taking his time to allow the marriage to disintegrate as Douglas blindly shuts Turner out of his life. DeVito's humor is not in the avenue of pratfalls and stinging one-liners. He enjoys the thrill and chuckle of a good breakdown. He waits quietly in the wings as we watch Turner's lip curl more and more with each insult and emotional rejection heaped upon her by Douglas. The kettle is boiling and its just a matter of time before it blows its lid.

When Douglas suffers what he believes is a fatal heart attack, he's stunned by Turner's failure to show up at his summons as he lay in intensive care. She couldn't make the trip, she tells him, because she felt too happy at the thought of him cashing in his chips.

With that, she requests a divorce and exiles him to a hotel room. She wants the house, claiming her rights based upon her handpicking of its furnishings. He runs to his lawyer (played by DeVito in a restrained supporting role) and claims his right to ownership because his labor and money paid for it.

DeVito really shakes things up and catches us off-guard when he switches audience sympathy from Turner to Douglas. Her good-naturedness drained away, she grudgingly holds her ground as he persists in saving the marriage. When he makes an honest attempt at peace, she threatens to make pate out of his dog. Knick-knacks are shattered, cats run over, chandeliers sabotaged and punches thrown as the Rose's board themselves into their cavernous pleasure dome to duke it out. Last one standing gets the house, or what's left of it.

What really makes The War of the Roses so viciously funny isn't DeVito's use of bizarre camera angles, or Turner and Douglas getting into knock-down-drag-'em-out brawls; the humor is derived from our enjoying the irrationality of their fighting. They're feuding over the one thing that essentially caused their separation — the damn house and everything that it stands for. When Douglas spreads out the blueprints with her rooms marked in red and his in blue, DeVito asks if this seems rational to them. Douglas looks up grinning, "I have more square footage."

Although it slights itself by avoiding the kind of scathing cynicism that made Dr. Strangelove a comic masterpiece, The War of the Roses handles itself well. Turner and Douglas are fantastic together with Douglas turning in a surprisingly good comic performance. DeVito's direction is fitting, drawing upon the outright hatred of his characters to generate a fierce black comedy. He's no Stanley Kubrick, but The War of the Roses does stand as a devastatingly funny domestic satire, wonderfully written and wickedly executed.

More Christmas movie tidings — Paul Newman will attempt to bounce back from Fat Man and Little Boy with Ron Shelton's Blaze. Newman plays the scandalous Louisiana politician who shocked the moral 50s with his whirlwind affair with bayou stripper, Blaze Starr. Jessica Tandy and Morgan Freeman play a Southern Jewish matron and her Black chauffeur. Based upon Alfred Uhry's Pulitzer-Prize-winning play, this Bruce Beresford directed adaptation has been rumored to have Oscar written all over it.

Morgan Freeman will also be starring with Matthew Broderick and Denzel Washington in the Tri-Star release, Glory. It's a Civil War movie about a Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry attacking a Confederate fort.

Freeman's not the only one in two holiday flicks. Broderick matches his talents with Sean Connery and Dustin Hoffman in Family Business. Connery's mug currently graces the cover of People magazine under the headline, "The Sexiest Man Alive." The film is a comedy-drama about a family of thieves attempting to commit a million-dollar heist. If the movie has some substance behind the names, this one could be huge.

This season's sleeper may be Music Box. Starring Jessica Lange, the film is about a successful attorney who finds herself defending her father for war crimes he committed 50 years ago.

Tower Theater is showing the Second Animation Celebration. See it if you want to see how far animation has come in the past year. The cartoons are state-of-the-art and damn enjoyable. It's the perfect escape from studying for finals.

Photo courtesy of Twentieth Century Fox

Kathleen Turner uses her charm and toes to try to persuade Danny DeVito to see things her way, in the black comedy The War of the Roses

IDB/TIPS
BringsYou a Few
Details About the End of the Semester:

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14 Classes End
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 15 Reading Day
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 16 Finals Begin
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 22 Last Day of Final Examinations

RESIDENCE HALLS WILL CLOSE ON:
December 22nd at 4:00pm
PVTA buses will operate on a normal schedule through December 22nd.
TOWER LIBRARY WILL BE OPEN UNTIL MIDNIGHT FROM DECEMBER 15 TO DECEMBER 21.
Wintersession classes begin on January 3 and end on January 25.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 28: Residence Halls Open at Noon
MONDAY, JANUARY 29: Registration
TUESDAY, JANUARY 30: Classes Begin
SATURDAY, MARCH 17 Spring Recess Begins

Thank you for being one of the 4,600 people who have called IDB/TIPS this semester!
Keep calling us with your questions at 545-1555.
GOOD LUCK WITH FINALS!

BRITTANY MANOR
Brittany Manor Drive • (413) 256-8534

Two Bedroom Apartments
AVAILABLE NOW!
STARTING $490 PER MONTH
Rent includes heat and hot water.

ENJOY THESE FEATURES:
- Fully-Equipped Kitchen, Including Disposal
- Large Livingroom with Ceiling-to-Floor Windows
- On the UMass Bus Route
- Wall-to-Wall Carpeting
- Large Dining Area
- Oversized Bathrooms
- Wall-to-Wall Closets
- Storm Windows
- Dead-bolt Security Locks
- Cable T.V. Available
- Ample Parking
- Swimming Pool

Finding gold in a puddle of mud

By BRYAN HOUSE
Collegian Staff

Mudhoney
Mudhoney
Sub Pop
****

RECORD REVIEW

Mudhoney's self-titled debut album is a monster package of grunge somewhere between the Stooges and Jimi Hendrix, between Sonic Youth and Kiss, that defines the new psychedelic white-noise sound coming from Seattle.

The album is the summation of their earlier records. It combines their perverse but identifiable sense of humor of their singles with the power jams of the first LP, Superfuzz Big Muff to result in a tight, smokin' album to lead into the 90s.

The album starts off with "This Gift," the first single, a thunderous jaunt into tremolo guitar fuzz. That and the second song, "Flat Out Fucked," get the album moving, heavy grunge jams with burning leads that shoot straight for the pleasure centers of the back brain. "Get Into Yours" keeps the fire burning, singer Mark Arm screaming about crawling into someone else's skin and escaping his own.

"You Got It" is a remake of one of their earlier singles, their attempt at a stadium rock anthem. Next is "Magnolia Caboose Babyshit," a Hendrix "Crosstown Traffic" type jam, with white-hot lead guitar riffs that the rest of the band tries to keep up with.

Side two starts with "Here Comes Sickness," one of their best songs yet, about a woman out to get Mark Arm. The tension of the verses explodes into fury. "Running Loaded," "The Farther I Go," and "By Her Own Hand" continue Arm's existentialist nightmare, that man has no control over life and that if he was not moving, he'd be dead.

"When Tomorrow Hits" is a lethargic and hypnotic ode to the morning after. Last is "Dead Love," a power grunge about necrophilia.

Mudhoney are the band to watch in the 90s, part of a new breed of Hendrix influenced, heavy psychedelic guitar bands like Soundgarden, Jane's Addiction, The Red Hot Chili Peppers, The Flaming Lips, and Spaceman 3. They are Sub Pop's driving force.

WMUA top 15

The following are the top 15 bands on WMUA 91.9 FM for the week of Dec. 10.

1) Cop Shoot Cop
2) Bastard Kiestrel
3) Melvins
4) Bastards
5) Feedtime
6) Crawl Space
7) Hako of Flies
8) 20 Second Sect
9) Surgery
10) Slub
11) Unsane NYC
12) Sebadoh
13) Scumbait Comp
14) Lydia Lunch
15) Vertigo

Pottery, paintings, drawings and ceramics at Wheeler

By REBECCA MORRISSEY
Collegian Staff

Starting tomorrow, two Bachelor of Fine Arts exhibits, paintings and drawings by Richard Fox, and ceramic works by Kevin O'Neill, will be displayed at the University of Massachusetts' Wheeler Gallery.

Ask Alice (as in Alice in Wonderland), is a 13-piece series of Greek-style vases by O'Neill ranging from about two feet to only two inches tall. Another vase, titled The Brother Peace Train, is a "relic from the sixties," as described by O'Neill.

"There was a wave of pottery. It was popular for monks to be potters," he explained. "They became famous." Brother Thomas and Peter Volkos were two men he mentioned who became well-known during that era of abstract expressionism. O'Neill said he has been heavily influenced by his native Cape Cod, where there are many artists working in ceramics.

Also among Kevin O'Neill's works will be ceramic drums, or doumbeks, as they are called. "That's the name for the shape. It's Middle Eastern style. They've been made for thousands of years, although many cultures have adopted the idea," said O'Neill.

One of the drums will serve as a model during the show for visitors at the gallery to play. They are made of stoneware, which means they have been fired past 2,000 degrees in the kiln.

"The doumbek idea I got is kind of a revitalization that started in California with ceramic drums and bongos," O'Neill explained, adding that they have been popular there for the past five years and that interest in them is now beginning to move east. O'Neill hopes to help make the drums popular on the East Coast and has done seven craft fairs in the past year. The list includes the Amherst Craft Fair and Bright Moments On the Pond.

"My theme is kind of resounding works in clay," he said, and pointed out the word's double meaning. "The resonance that my drums get is a ringing like a bell."

The paintings and drawings by Richard Fox were done either last semester in Florence, Italy, or this summer on Cape Cod. Working in Florence, there were fewer distractions and more of a "chance to get inspired," Fox said. Most of the works on exhibit are from the end of a series of self-portraits done there.

One charcoal drawing is of the artist standing high up on a pillar while light and shadows swirl all around him. Fox said it is part of a bridge where he used to go when he wanted to be alone. The drawing is titled Io, which means "me" in Italian.

He said, "It is me and the influences and forces on me in Florence, changing me, me being alone and being independent and trying to be honest. I'm trying to be honest about my work, break the facades I've been having, and it's really hard to do."

Fox said Florence was where he was really introduced to oil paint. "I'm just getting to know the range of things you can do with it, how direct it can be," he said. "It can show space and form with simple brush strokes. Once you can see lights and darks you can just begin to see color."

Fox pointed out a piece called Sketch For Antonio, which will be shown along with the finished oil, Antonio. Although both paintings draw from the same subject, they are very different in their appearances. Fox prefers the sketch. "This is more of how I want to paint, to see the true color and put it down," he said. "This is definitely really personal stuff to me."

There will be an opening reception at 4:30 p.m.in Wheeler Gallery. The exhibit will run from Dec. 14 to Dec. 20.

The PhD Program in Business

A PhD in business opens career possibilities that are diverse and satisfying. Your advanced degree lets you choose your own work environment – in business, government, and, of course, in academic and research settings. You can even change environments at different points in your career: your degree gives you the freedom to take control over your own professional life.

If you choose an academic setting, you'll find the rewards are considerable. Business school faculty are in great demand and are offered financial benefits generally greater than in other disciplines. You choose projects that interest you and become part of a national business research network. And you have the credentials to develop a concurrent career: many business PhDs serve as consultants to corporations and government.

Baruch College's business program is consistently rated as one of the best in the nation. As part of The City University of New York (CUNY), Baruch is the only public institution in New York City with business and accountancy programs accredited by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business.

Selective and small, the Baruch PhD program brings together an enrollment of 120 students with a doctoral faculty of 75. The result is a student-faculty ratio that encourages learning and research. The Baruch PhD program offers specialization in accounting, finance, management planning systems (management science), marketing, and organization and policy studies. And Baruch's Manhattan location is nothing short of ideal – one of the world's great corporate, education, and research centers.

Baruch is able to offer significant support to qualified PhD candidates. Baruch also seeks and welcomes applicants from under-represented minorities to increase their representation among business disciplines in the academic community.

For more information about the PhD program in business, contact Prof. Donald Vredenburgh, Baruch College/CUNY, 17 Lexington Avenue, Box 328UM, New York, NY 10010.
Phone: (212) 725-3340.

BaruchCollege
The City University of New York

BRECKENRIDGE
GENUINE COLORADO
$599
NEW DATE!
NEW PRICE!
JAN. 8 — 15
Trip Includes
- Round trip airfare
- Round trip transfers
- 7 Nights condo lodging
- 5 Days of lifts
- Services of on site staff
- All taxes and gratuities

SIGN UP NOW
UMASS SKI CLUB

ROCK BOTTOM PRICES
Model 8088 10MHZ CPU system includes
- 640k RAM on board
- 4.77 & 10 MHZ Speeds hardware and software selectable
- Slimline case
- 360K or 720K floppy drive
- 200 Watt Power supply
- MS-DOS 3.3
- Phoenix Bios

We carry a complete line of IBM compatible systems custom configuration available, Please call for free catalogue!
ALTERNATIVE CHOICE COMPUTER
(413) 625-8153
PO BOX 355 Shelburne Falls, Ma 01370

WORLD & NATION

Seabrook safety doubted

By JOHN DIAMOND
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON – The Atomic Safety and Licensing Board dismissed a complaint Tuesday about the adequacy of an emergency drill at the Seabrook, N.H. nuclear power plant and said the Massachusetts attorney general filed his concerns too late.

And, in a related development, the House Investigative Committee opened a probe into Nuclear Regulatory Commission procedures. The investigation was demanded by legislators from around New England after the licensing board last month recommended that the plant receive a full-power operating license.

The board's ruling Tuesday had been announced weeks ago and officials on both sides of the Seabrook issue said it would have little impact on the final outcome of the plant's bid to receive a license.

In a 40-page decision, the board said that Att. Gen. James Shannon failed to prove that a Sept. 27, 1988, emergency plan exercise was "fundamentally flawed." The board said Shannon's motion was filed late "without good cause."

A top aide to Shannon called the licensing board ruling "preposterous" and said Shannon stuck by his contention that emergency plans are woefully inadequate and that emergency tests were incomplete.

The full Nuclear Regulatory Commission has announced that it will begin the final process toward a decision on a full power license no sooner than Jan. 10.

"We find that the exercise was sufficient in scope and no fundamental flaw was revealed," the licensing board wrote. Shannon's "motions do not address a significant safety issue. They have defaulted in their burden to establish by affidavit or otherwise that their motion addresses a significant safety issue."

Plant spokesman Ron Sher said the September exercise was the fourth of its kind with earlier tests conducted in 1980, 1987 and 1988.

"This is another effort by the Massachusetts attorney general to delay the licensing of Seabrook," Sher said of Shannon's continuing legal maneuvers.

But Stephen Jones, a top deputy to Shannon in charge of the Seabrook case, reacted angrily to the licensing board ruling. Jones called the decision another example of the licensing board bending its own rules to accommodate the Seabrook plant.

For example, Jones said, the licensing board said flaws in the training of certain emergency personnel were not a major problem because those flaws "are readily correctable."

"What they're saying is that the control room can be occupied by the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker and that doesn't matter because somewhere down the road they can be trained as nuclear engineers," Jones said.

On the day of the exercise, Jones said, Shannon's office stationed several observers at points that would be manned by emergency crews outside the plant. He said "nobody showed up" at those points, indicating that the exercise was incomplete.

The charge that Shannon's complaint was late, Jones said, "is completely and utterly preposterous." He noted that the first filing by the attorney general's office was handed in the day after the best, and that subsequent filings were turned in within three weeks.

Meanwhile, U.S. Rep. Peter Kostmeyer, D-Pa., chairman of the House Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee of the Interior Committee, wrote to NRC chairman Kenneth Carr initiating an investigation into NRC procedure.

"This inquiry has been prompted by the steady erosion of safety standards enacted by Congress following the major nuclear accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania, and by the extraordinary series of apparently contradictory actions recently taken by the commission and its licensing board concerning the application for a full-power operating license at Seabrook Station in New Hampshire," Kostmeyer wrote.

AP photo

THREE, HANGING FIVE – Elliot, 3 years old, rides a "Perfect Wave"surfing simulator, unveiled for the first time Monday in the front court of the famous Sydney Opera House in Australia.

ATTENTION
The Collegian needs delivery persons
for the Spring 1990 semester.

- Must have morning free 'til 11:00 a.m.
- Must have dependable auto
- $10.00 per hour

Fill out an application today at the Collegian, Campus Center, Room 113 or call Chris at 549-0610 for details

RESEARCH INFORMATION
Largest Library of Information in U.S. - all subjects
Order Catalog Today with Visa/MC or COD
TOLL FREE HOT LINE 800-351-0222
in Calif. (213) 477-8226
Or, rush $2.00 to: Research Information
11322 Idaho Ave. #206-A, Los Angeles, CA 90025

OOPS!
Now's
the time
to call...
North Amherst
Motors
76 Old Sunderland Rd.
No. Amherst 549-2880
Expert Repairs &
Reconditioning

Open Early
Open Late
kinko's®
the copy center
220 N. Pleasant St.
253-2543

Practice Preventive
Medicine...

What's the matter Doc, I feel awful!
You need a prescription for a tune up, oil change and winterization.

Don't Let Your Car Catch
A Cold This Winter
PRESCRIPTION COUPON
1 Oil Change......$21.95
10W30, 10W40
1 Tune-Up..........$45.95
4 cyl.
1 Radiator Flush$26.95
1 gal.
Reg. $94.85
WITH PERSCRIPTION $80
SpeeDee Oil Change
and You Will Save $14.95
Spee Dee
OIL CHANGE & TUNE-UP
RAPID • RELIABLE • REASONABLE
NO APPOINTMENT NEEDED
Pleasant St. Northampton (next to car wash)
586-5640

Science Store
A World of Fun
EXPERIMENT SUPPLIES
BOOKS GAMES
TELESCOPES MICROSCOPES SOLAR TOYS
174 North Pleasant St., Amherst, MA

ATTENTION
CCEBMS
STUDENTS
Candidates for the Position of
DIRECTOR OF CCEBMS will be available to meet with students from 2:30 -3:00 PM
in the Shirley Graham Du Bois
Library,
2nd Floor New Africa House on the following dates:
Tuesday, December 12, 1989
Wednesday, December 13, 1989
Thursday, December 14, 1989
Wednesday, December 20, 1989
Friday, December 22, 1989
ALL INTERESTED CCEBMS STUDENTS ARE URGED TO ATTEND

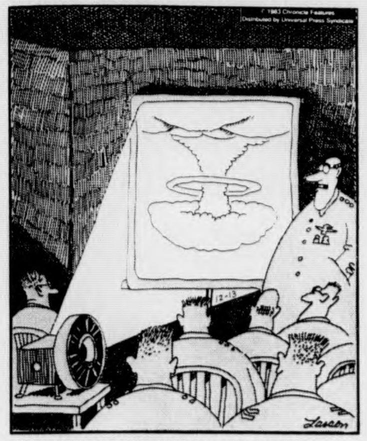
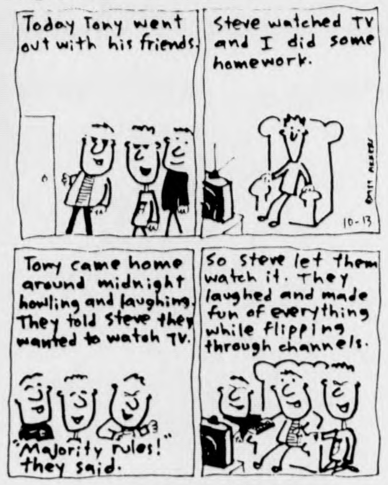
THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



© 1983 Chronicle Features
Distributed by Universal Press Syndicate
Larson

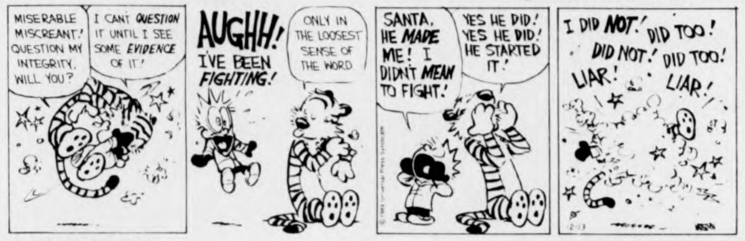
"Now this next slide, gentlemen, demonstrates the awesome power of our 20-megaton . . . For crying out loud! Not again!"

JIM'S JOURNAL
By JIM



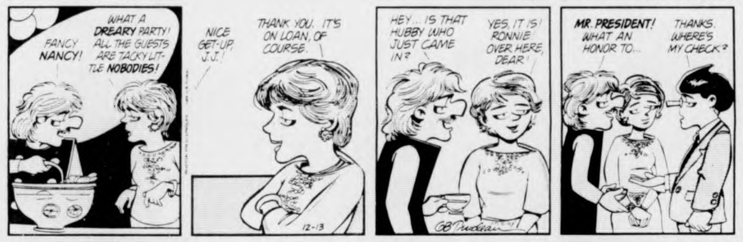
Today Tony went out with his friends.
Steve watched TV and I did some homework.
10-13
Tony came home around midnight howling and laughing. They told Steve they wanted to watch TV.
So Steve let them watch it. They laughed and made fun of everything while flipping through channels.
"Majority rules!" they said.

CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



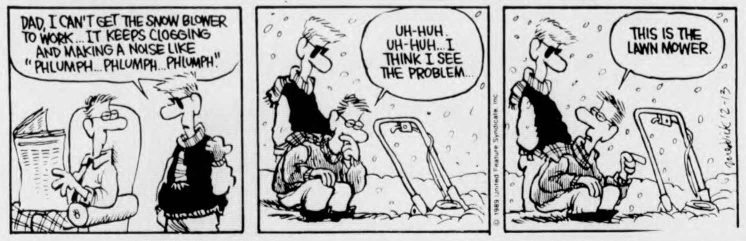
MISERABLE MISCREANT! QUESTION MY INTEGRITY, WILL YOU?
I CAN'T QUESTION IT UNTIL I SEE SOME EVIDENCE OF IT!
AUGHH! I'VE BEEN FIGHTING!
ONLY IN THE LOOSEST SENSE OF THE WORD.
SANTA, HE MADE ME! I DIDN'T MEAN TO FIGHT!
YES HE DID! YES HE DID! HE STARTED IT!
I DID NOT! DID TOO! DID NOT! DID TOO! LIAR! LIAR!

DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



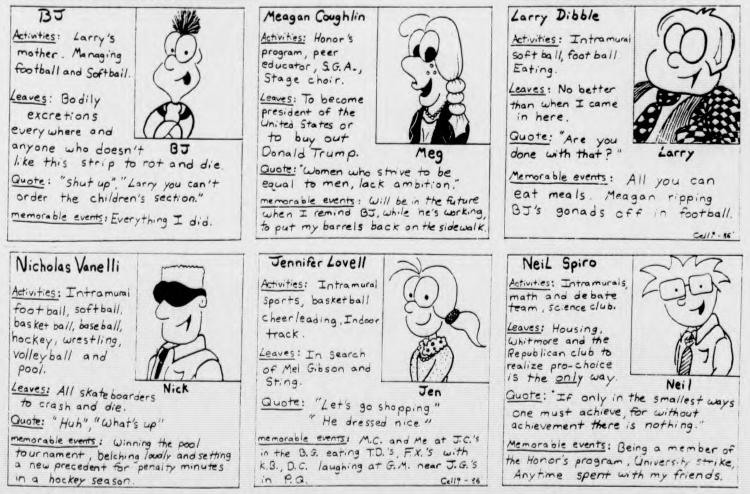
FANCY NANCY!
WHAT A DREARY PARTY! ALL THE GUESTS ARE TACKY LITTLE NOBODIES!
NICE GET-UP, J.J.!
THANK YOU. IT'S ON LOAN, OF COURSE.
12-13
HEY... IS THAT HUBBY WHO JUST CAME IN?
YES, IT IS! RONNIE! OVER HERE, DEAR!
GB Trudeau
MR. PRESIDENT! WHAT AN HONOR TO...
THANKS. WHERE'S MY CHECK?

ROBOTMAN
By JIM MEDDICK



DAD, I CAN'T GET THE SNOW BLOWER TO WORK... IT KEEPS CLOGGING AND MAKING A NOISE LIKE "PHLUMPH... PHLUMPH... PHLUMPH."
UH-HUH. UH-HUH... I THINK I SEE THE PROBLEM...
© 1989 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
THIS IS THE LAWN MOWER.
meddick 12-13

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT
By DOUG CELLINERI



BJ
Activities: Larry's mother. Managing football and Softball.
Leaves: Bodily excretions every where and anyone who doesn't like this strip to rot and die.
Quote: "Shut up", "Larry you can't order the children's section."
memorable events: Everything I did.
BJ
Meagan Coughlin
Activities: Honor's program, peer educator, S.G.A., Stage choir.
Leaves: To become president of the United States or to buy out Donald Trump.
Meg
Quote: "Women who strive to be equal to men, lack ambition."
memorable events: Will be in the future when I remind BJ, while he's working, to put my barrels back on the sidewalk.
Larry Dibble
Activities: Intramural soft ball, foot ball. Eating.
Leaves: No better than when I came in here.
Quote: "Are you done with that?"
Larry
Memorable events: All you can eat meals. Meagan ripping BJ's gonads off in football.
Cell? - 86'
Nicholas Vanelli
Activities: Intramural foot ball, soft ball, basket ball, base ball, hockey, wrestling, volley ball and pool.
Nick
Leaves: All skate boarders to crash and die.
Quote: "Huh", "What's up" memorable events: Winning the pool tournament, belching loudly and setting a new precedent for penalty minutes in a hockey season.
Jennifer Lovell
Activities: Intramural sports, basketball cheerleading, Indoor track.
Leaves: In search of Mel Gibson and Sting.
Jen
Quote: "Let's go shopping" "He dressed nice."
memorable events: M.C. and me at J.C.'s in the B.G. eating T.D.'s, F.X.'s with K.B., D.C. laughing at G.M. near J.G.'s in P.Q.
Cell? - 86
NeiL Spiro
Activities: Intramurals, math and debate team, science club.
Leaves: Housing, Whitmore and the Republican club to realize pro-choice is the only way.
Neil
Quote: "If only in the smallest ways one must achieve, for without achievement there is nothing."
Memorable events: Being a member of the Honor's program, University strike, Anytime spent with my friends.

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

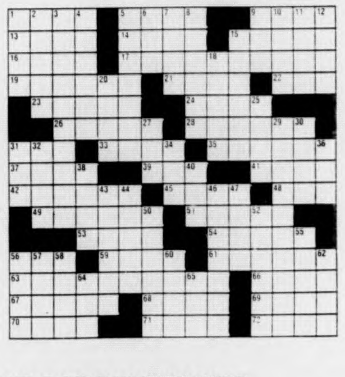
ACROSS
1 Midlothian
5 Travel agents org.
9 Created
13 "— want for Christmas..."
14 Box lightly
15 Lid
16 Pirate Captain —
17 Garb for a kid brother
19 Live oak
21 Aim
22 Humorist Bill
23 Sparkle
24 "The Babe"
26 Bone: Prefix
28 Most foxy
31 Stovepipe, for one
33 Probability
35 Very funny story
37 Yearn
39 Kind of phone or drum
41 Israeli port
42 Daubs
45 1989, e.g.
48 Baseball name of fame
49 Land holding
51 Display concern
53 — poker
54 Part of Miss Muffet's meal
56 A Gershwin
59 Wading bird
61 Fireside area
63 Passe
66 Diminish in a way
67 British TV
68 Nonpareil
69 Western Indians
70 Dried up
71 Cincinnati nine
72 Church locations

DOWN
1 Tokyo potation
2 Adhere
3 Used items
4 Puts in order, with "up"
5 Embarrassed
6 Restorative resort
7 Sharp taste
8 Passions
9 Trendy one
10 Stratford's river
11 Moist
12 Sea bird
15 Boston cager
18 Heavy hammers
20 European treaty org.
25 Spouse of Zeus
27 "— on Indolence": Keats
29 Not up to snuff
30 Tangy
31 Possesses
32 High point
34 Utter
36 Converged
38 Diner sign
40 Ump's cousin
43 Accept formally
44 Ticket parts
46 Tell and Hood
47 Wolf, in a sense
50 Blue-pencil wielder
52 Summarize
55 Scatter
56 Speck
57 Regretful one
58 King of the Huns
60 Auld lang —
62 Dame Myra
64 Word with hat or hand
65 Conducted

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

S	H	A	D	E	■	S	L	A	W	■	A	M	P	S
T	A	L	U	S	■	H	A	R	E	■	P	O	O	H
I	L	L	S	T	A	R	R	E	D	■	P	O	S	E
R	O	O	T	■	Z	I	G	S	■	C	E	N	S	E
■	■	■	B	R	O	K	E	■	C	H	A	S	E	R
A	C	H	I	E	V	E	■	T	O	A	S	T	■	■
F	I	E	N	D	■	■	S	I	M	P	E	R	E	D
A	N	A	■	F	I	B	U	L	A	E	■	U	P	I
R	E	V	E	A	L	E	R	■	■	R	A	C	E	R
■	■	E	X	C	E	L	■	C	R	O	C	K	E	T
F	E	N	C	E	S	■	C	R	A	N	E	■	■	■
E	A	S	E	D	■	B	I	A	S	■	T	R	U	E
S	T	E	P	■	E	A	R	T	H	B	O	U	N	D
T	E	N	T	■	O	N	C	E	■	U	N	D	I	D
A	R	T	S	■	S	E	A	R	■	S	E	E	T	O

12/13/89



YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A conservative approach to investing will keep losses to a minimum. Seek advice from experts. Take a more realistic approach to romance; you have a tendency to see only what you want to see.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Travel, legal matters and academic affairs are highlighted. A spur-of-the-moment outing banishes the blahs. Sign up for workshops and seminars. New experiences will lift your spirits.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Pace yourself or you will quickly feel bogged down. Delegating authority is an important element of leadership. A business partner may find you attractive. Keep your distance unless very interested.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You come under public scrutiny now New ventures and enterprises may require a break with certain traditions. Be more practical. Allow room for change and expansion Romance begins to heat up.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Rely on your skills and talents - not the whims of chance - to bring your heart's desire. Analyze a situation as only you can. Sign agreements after reading the fine print.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Turn down any proposition that entails talking risks with your affections as well as your pocketbook. Acting on impulse will bring nothing but trouble. Weigh the pros and cons.

LIBRA (SEPT. 23-Oct. 22): Review your recent actions to see where you may have gone astray. Negotiate a new contract. An old relationship is renewed. Self-improvement projects enjoy highly favorable influences.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Fresh starts are favored. Your best rapport today could be with a stranger. new associations could lead to greater financial security. Things shape up fast in business. Stay on your toes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Avoid dubious financial schemes. They may be castles in the air. Although work progress may be slower than usual, it gives you time to put the finishing touches on a special project.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some soul-searching will help you find the answer to an old problem. your earning power grows. pay more attention to your appearance. Conferences go well this week. Act confident.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Learn from the past, but realize that some things are better left alone. Wounds need time to heal. If painful memories surface, try to dismiss them. new friends and projects make an adjustment much easier.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A good day for holiday shoppers. do not go into debt to make an impression on a loved one. Carefully chosen gifts and handmade items show what is in your heart. Be sentimental.

MENU

LUNCH	DINNER
Hot pastrami on rye Pizza	Roast beef Chicken breasts
BASICS LUNCH	BASICS DINNER
Carrot and cauliflower pie Pizza	Stuffed baked eggplant Chicken breasts

Wolfpack put on probation

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) – North Carolina State's basketball team was placed on two years' probation yesterday and barred from the 1990 NCAA tournament for violations that included the misuse of complimentary tickets and sneakers.

The NCAA said it did not impose harsher penalties, including a ban from television, because the school "undertook corrective and punitive action prior to the hearing."

Interim chancellor Larry Monteith said there were no plans to fire anyone, including coach Jim Valvano.

Valvano said being barred from the NCAA tournament was "as serious a hurt and blow as I have had personally in my life."

"We accept the NCAA findings and its punishment," he said.

The Atlantic Coast Conference may still bar N.C. State for the league tournament, which gives the winner an automatic NCAA tournament bid.

"They have the right to take that action," Monteith said. "If they take that action, we won't resist."

But Valvano said it would be inappropriate.

"I don't think that our participation would adversely affect anyone," he said, noting that as many as six ACC teams usually qualify for the tournament on records alone."

"I think our conference has that relative strength that prior to the tournament, you know who is in," he said.

N.C. State earned $707,000 from last year's tournament.

The NCAA investigation, sparked by allegations of wrongdoing in the book "Personal Fouls," said that in the four years examined "there were as many as 650 erroneous designations" of tickets intended for players' families and that "an excessive number of shoes were issued with little or no effort to keep track of the shoes."

Tickets were sold or exchanged for merchandise worth up to $150 each, the NCAA said. Shoes, valued at $75 per pair, were traded for shoes and apparel of equal value at a local sporting goods store, the report said.

The NCAA Committee on Infractions agreed to adopt several of N.C. State's self imposed penalties, including tighter controls over tickets and shoes, reshuffling personnel in the athletics department and curtailing recruiting and basketball scholarships.

"This is not a typical major infractions case that we usually deal with," said Charles Smrt, NCAA director of Infractions. "This is not a case where there's academic irregularities. This is not a case where there are cash payments . . . " to athletes.

"Personal Fouls," written by Peter Golenbock, claimed grades had been changed and positive drug tests kept secret to keep players eligible.

In telephone interview from Pompano Beach, Fla., he said he was surprised the NCAA focused on players instead of "the tandem of Valvano and former Chancellor Bruce Poulton."

"During the NCAA investigation, one of the players sent me the questions that they were being asked," he said. "Those questions only concerned things that the players had done. It was almost as though they were using the players as scapegoats."

Golenbock said he was pleased that Poulton resigned and that Valvano had stepped down as athletic director, and that they were replaced by men "committed to an academics first concept."

AP photo

North Carolina State basketball coach Jim Valvano responds Tuesday to a question during a news conference in Raleigh, N.C., after it was announced that the Wolfpack basketball program had been placed on two years probation by the NCAA.

Recycle this paper

spectrum magazine

is now accepting

SUBMISSIONS

in

Art, Poetry, Prose & Photo

for the 1990 edition.

SPECTRUM Magazine is the Arts and Literary magazine at UMASS.

Submissions may be mailed to:
Box 125, Student Activities Office, Student Union, UMASS
or
brought in person to the SPECTRUM Office, 406E, Student Union.

Please include your name and phone number.

DEADLINE FEBRUARY 2, 1990

DON'T BE SHY

TWISTERS
TAVERN
Wed. Reggae Night Dec.13
NEW HORIZON
Thurs. No Cover Dec. 14
Just Good Tunes
Fri. Famous Blues Legend Dec. 15
Professor Harp
Sat. Classic Rock Dec. 16
in Rhythm & Blues
The Stragglers
30 Boltwood Walk, Amherst, MA 253-9223

SQUIRE VILLAGE APARTMENTS

1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments available for January 1.

On Bus Route

CALL 665-2203

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8:30-3:30, FRI 8:30-2:30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE, 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

UMASS GREENS general meeting tonight 7pm Campus Center 101. Bring friends.

PARTY ALL JANUARY WITH THE Umass Ski Club at Sugarbush, Quebec, Creckenridge and Jamaica contact 430 Student Union 545-3437 Love & LAGNAF

J.A.C. MEMBERS This is it - the last language table of the semester. Today Wed in the Blue Wall at 4:00.

JAPAN AMERICA CLUB - General meeting last of the semester. Knowlton basement 7pm 12/14 all welcome.

FIRST ANNUAL 1990 STUDENT FILM/VIDEO FESTIVAL Sponsored by Club Communication and The Union Video Center applications available in Machmer 417.

THE BUSH IS OPEN Umass Ski Club goes to Jamaica, Quebec Sugarbush, Breckenridge 430 Student Union 545-3437 or concourse table.

ALL WACMM MEMBERS

ATTENTION WACMM WOMEN: Before leaving for France I wanted to wish all of you the best of luck for next semester (in school and in love) Have a wonderful break don't forget to write me. PS Keep Jimmy and Sonia alive, eat lots of pizza Shira. Kel thanks for being the best Lynna RA woman good luck, Kym you'll fall soon, don't worry. Love, Brooke

ANNOUNCEMENTS

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS need director, choreographer, musical director for next semester's "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown". Call Ellen 253-9182

$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$
THE GOLD EXCHANGE
will pay immediate cash
for your gold in any form
256-0842
$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$

"KERAMOS HOLIDAY POTTERY SALE Turs &Fri Dec 14 & 15 10-5 at Munson Annex ceramic studio for more info call 545-2750 ***

VISA OR MASTERCARD! Even if bankrupt or bad credit! We guarantee you a card or double your money back Call 1-805-682-7555 ext M-1207.

BED AND BREAKFAST
Downtown Amherst
549-5961

AUTO FOR SALE

1987 PONTIAC SUNBIRD GT excellent condition $5,500 call Cheryl 256-0078.

1980 HONDA PRELUDE 5-speed, am-fm cassette, sunroof. Great shape. Hiway miles. $1800 or best offer. 586-0490.

TOYOTA COROLLA 81 ltbk stick reliable high mil. asking $990 or bo call 549-7815 and 545-0442.

1984 FORD TEMPO Excellent condition moving must sell 256-1134.

1982 VW RABBIT 4 SPEED hatchback am-fm ac new exhaust excellent condition $1600 or best offer call 586-9526 evenings.

$500 OR BEST OFFER! 1976 Ford Granada in excellent shape needs a home Great reliable car, nice interior, dependable in all kinds of weather. Perfect for driving around campus and/or for long trips! Call 549-2862. Aren't you tired of having to take the bus everywhere?!

1982 DATSUN 210. good condition, A/C, new muffler, $1200 or BO Call Nader 584-1362.

1979 BUICK SKYHAWK. Great shape: New tires, and muffler. $1000 or B/O call 546-8228.

SEIZED CARS, TRUCKS, 4 WHEELERS, TV's, stereos, furniture, computers by DEA, FBI, IRS, and US Customs. Available your area now. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext C-1675.

ATTENTION - Government Seized Vehicles from $100. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus buyers guide. 1-602-838-8885 ext. a-7627.

CLUE NUMBER 1

A HINT TO SARAH, expect a complementary sip of Christmas Cheer on the next new moon. Your Secret Santa.

CUT YOUR PHONE BILL IN HALF

JOIN THE FONE HOME CLUB. Free signup- for your phone bill. Save $30.00. Offer valid until XMas. 549-3737.

ENTERTAINMENT

PERFORMANCE - A/V, DJ's, Lights, rentals, sales, service 508-922-3277.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED

FOR NEXT SEMESTER! Very low rent, sunny and clean (non-smokers, please) apartment. Call Alise 256-1250, evenings. Thanks.

FINANCE INVESTMENT CLUB

PRESENTS RENOWNED INVESTOR BEN BRANCH PHD to speak on investing trends and forcasting. Terrific opportunity to learn about the market from an insider 7-9pm in SBA 111 tonight. All members must attend this final meeting.

FOR RENT

SINGLE AVAILABLE IN APARTMENT free utilities Swiss Village female to live with 3 others 1½baths 253-3667 Trish nights available intersession on.

ROOM AVAILABLE IN NORTHAMPTON. Share big, quiet house in residential area with two men. 220$. Call 586-9939, eves.

LARGE ROOM IN 2-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE apartment in Sunderland. Busroute available January or February. For non-smoking quiet roommate call Karin 545-0329 leave message.

LARGE, SINGLE ROOM IN NORTHAMPTON available XMas vacation only tel: 586-4308.

3 BEDROOM APT. AVAIL. Jan 1. 10 minute walk to Campus. Bus route $950 per month. Don't pass up this happening hot spot. Call now. 549-0446 or Terry at 545-3500.

TAKE OVER OUR LEASE in Puffton...one bedroom free heat free furniture take over Jan 24 1990 call 549-6736.

ONE ROOM TO RENT CHEAP. Very short walk to campus. Call 549-8294.

ONE FEMALE NEEDED to share beautiful Brandywine apt. Great roommates, free heat $180/mo. Call 549-8319 or 549-0561.

2 BEDROOM 560/month includes cable, hot water, heat lease ends in June 253-0930.

STUDIO IN AMHERST, beautiful and quiet, bus rte $350/mo. must see to appreciate 253-7456 after 10:00pm.

3 BEDROOM APT IN ECHOHILL in Amherst $950/mo. $ util. or separate rooms for $325 each. 2 car garage on bus route Heather 584-9845.

ROOM ON BUSROUTE IN AMHERST HOUSE, ask for Rick. 256-1588.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for Sunset Ave apts. 165/mo call 549-3826 (across from Patterson).

AMHERST ROOMS TO RENT. Immediately. 401 Main St. 300. Call 253-2528.

ROOM FOR RENT AVAILABLE Dec. 15. Call Jamie or Jen 665-8662.

FOR SALE

BROTHER ELECTRONIC TYPEWRITER good condition $150 or best offer Karen 253-5425.

BEDROOM FURNITURE SET - Bed, Bureau, nighttable, mirror. Jen 549-1856.

DANISH CONTEMPORARY STYLE WATCHES silver quartz great for a XMas gift! Call if interested 549-8793 and ask for Britt.

ROUND TRIP TICKET HARTFORD to Pheonix, Az. Leaves Bradley 12/24/89 return from Pheonix 1/6/90. $220 call 585-0711 mornings best.

BED AND BOXSPRING - Twin. Excellent condition. 256-0201 leave message.

AMIGA 500 W/COLOR MONITOR and printer $800 527-8408 before 9pm.

1982 TOYOTA FOR SALE: Blue, excellent conditions, must sell! Call 549-4263.

DIAMOND SOLITAIRE AND MATCHING WEDDING BAND: White gold, one-fifth carat, women's size 6. Call Beth 256-8625 $200 the set.

SKI BOOTS SALOMON SX71 Ladies size 6 $85 or B.O. Aft 7 6-4701.

REPOSSESSED VA & HUD HOMES available from government fro $1 without credit check. You repair. Also tax delingquent foreclosures call 1-805-682-7555 ext H-2009 for repo list your area.

SAN FRANCISCO $99 Dec 7th and 13th 253-7109 or 253-9875.

---PLANE TIX 4 SALE---

One way Dec 28th Ticket Boston to Minneapolis $120 or BO Call Marshall 6-6853.

FOUND

FOUND YOUR LIGHT RUBY RING/gold call 549-0437.

GOLD WATCH IN HAMDEN MUNCHIES Call Denise 546-8079

CHRISTINE WALLY Photo album found at the collegian.

RECTANGULAR, HAND-CRAFTED EARRING in front of Machmer on 12/8. Pick up at Campus Center info desk.

GRADUATING IN MAY?!

STUDENTS GOING ON EXCHANGE next semester would like to make arrangements now for taking over your lease at the end of May for the fall Semester '90. We're interested in a house or house apartment in Amherst area. Please call & leave message 546-6308.

HELP WANTED

WANTED!!! Typist/classified clerk needed to work morning hours before 11:00am beginning Jan 29. For the Collegian. Apply at 113 Campus Center Mon-Fri 8:30-3:30pm or call 545-3500.

EARN UP TO $1500 this winter break. Join us in our fight for clean air and water; Fight for recycling. Positions in Amherst, Boston. Training provided part time positions availalbe into spring. Call Clean Water Action 549-7450.

NEED A JOB FOR WINTERSESSION and Spring sememster? The Commuter Gov't is searching for an office manager 6-10 hours/week $4.25/hour. Pick up applications at room 404 in the Student Union.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-641-8003 ext 598.

EVEN THE NIGHTS ARE BETTER Telefund! Make $5 to $7/hr raising money for UMass! Call 545-3509.

PAY OFF THOSE HOLIDAY DEBTS over intersession and spring semester! Telefund needs students to raise money for UMass! Make $5 to $7/hr. Call 545-3509.

DESPERATLY NEED TUTORING! For Coins 121 will pay well $$ Call 549-1756.

ATTENTION - hiring! Government jobs - your area. $17,840-$69,485. Call 1-602-838-8885. Ext. R7627.

CRUISESHIPS NOW HIRING for spring, Christmas and next summer breaks. Many positions. Call 1-805-682-7555 ext S-1120.

PART TIME EARN EXTRA CHRISTMAS MONEY while helping others. $5.50-$6.50 per hour. Call 586-5243.

STREET ENTERTAINMENT NEEDED FOR CHRISTMAS Season fundraiser! Earn extra money for Christmas! Call 586-5243.

I'LL EDIT YOUR PAPER

I'LL HELP WITH SPELLING, grammar, word choice, sentence structure and length. Let me take your rough draft and make it something special. $2 for pages 1-5, $1.50 for every other page. Papers in the humanities (economics, political science, journalism, etc.) preferred. Four years editing experience. Call David at 253-2455. Leave a message on my machine. Thanks.

LASER LIGHT ROCK CONCERT

THY BOGPC PRESENTS: Saturn V-The Laser Light Rock Concert. Wednesday December 13 at 8 and 10 pm in the Campus Center Auditorium. Tickets $5, available at tickets unlimited -- 317 Student union.

LOST

WALLET, C.C.LOUNGE Call Michael 256-1524.

SMALL GOLD AND DIAMOND RING. Extreme sentimental value. Reward. 584-6569.

LOST PASSPORT (233542) if found please call Mehrdad Varzandeh at 549-5189.

MICHAEL

THANK YOU FOR putting up with me last week, your support got me through it! You're the best! Love, your B without W.

MOTORCYCLES

80 HONDA CX500 reliable yet cheap 506-4429.

YAMAHA '82 Mint cond. $600 BO. 2 Helmets 253-5018 call eve.

PERSONALS

LEIGH - Please stop counting down till your December graduation because believe it or not, you will not be one of those people who I'll talk about when you leave. We've been through 2½ years of great fun and I'm really going to miss you. AX love, M.

MARY, JOSH, AND JOYCE (our awesome friends) happy early birthdays! See you guys over intersession. Love, Neil and Kristen.

LEIF HAPPY BIRTHDAY MR. I turned 18 today. Troublemaker and California Girl.

TO: SUITES 406, 405, 702, Michele, Denise, Missy, Amy, Malini, Lizzie, Laurie, Melissa, ZAmy, Cathie, Mike, DJ's Mob, and the Agbos, past and wannabees in 707. I want to say Merry Christmas and thanks for taking all my crap! I'll be back! Marty H.

HEY ANNA BANANA, Jen, D. Kath E, and Court-ney! I hope that you have a great time at Billy Hoel tonight. Think about me sitting back home in Amherst watching China Beach. Oh sad! You all deserve a great show. Happy holidays! Love, Beth.

HEY DIANA FROM THE THIRD FLOOR of Van Meter! Guess what? I am your secret snowflake. I hope that your last couple of weeks will be stress-free and fun. Have a very happy holiday.

SHARI YOUNG: Happy birthday! Don't eat too much! We love you! Love, Us.

SAN — YOU ARE A WOMAN.

TO THE LUCKY FORMAL DATES of Tri Sigma Sisters. Tomorrow is the big night. Get ready for the best formal ever.

TO MY DEAREST ROOMIE - I hnestly believe our experience of love has been the most fulfilling emotional adventure any one person could possible have, and I'm not even including strawberry tipped vanilla scoops of ecstasy. One, four, three forever babe, you're the best.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA
Best of luck during finals!
I will miss all of you next semester.
Keep in touch.
LOVE, LARA.

KIRSTEN H. How did we make it through our first three years without knowing you? You made this semester very memorable! Thanks for all the good times. Love Kelly, Susan, Deanne and Hope.

TO MY LITTLE LYNNESEED OIL, seasons greetings, happy holidays, peace, joy, noel, and certainly not a merry Christmas! Love, Marjorina-Head.

THIS PROMISES TO BE A HOLIDAY SEASON SIZZLER! Back by popular demand, tonight its Ladies Night at the Red House, the Love Shack of the Nineties! Tin roooot, rusted! Crank the overdrive boys, this Ladies Night is sauna style. All umass Women invited wear your favorite towel, door prizes will be awarded for most original terrycloth and tanlines. Complimentary funnels for the first fifty party goers. No goats please. Thank you - Management.

TO HIS ALL-KNOWING MAJESTY Happy birthday!! Have a great day and drink heavily. Love, Weirdo and Homewrecker.

DOUG TRACEY! Happy birthday buddy make it a good one. Karin and Rachel.

MOIRA, CAN'T BELIEVE WE MADE IT! Thanks for always being there. Get psyched for New Year's You wear knee highs and I'll sit in some trash! Luv ya! Amy.

TO AMY OF TRI SIGMA Love and friendship are the greatest things in life. Have fun in NM. I'll miss ya. Love your little sis.

JENNIE, MANDY, ALLEY, LEILA, ELENI, AND JEN - We are family. It's been an amazing semester! BP's and Wazoos! Love you!!

DEAR GRADUATER, You'll always be in my heart and on my mind. I'll miss you and love you forever.

THE GUYS IN 500B MILL VALLEY: A reminder to you -- we have your toys! Woodstock, Mousey, Frog, and rocky. If you want them back alive we must negotiate you will be told further instructions but remember we will begin with rockys tail.

PAM KARP Happy birthday! Mention this ad and get a free dinner in the restaurant of your choice Love, your illustrious ex-roommate.

KERI -- BMUSF It's been a fine semester. Thanks. Lets continue this "trip". -Cos.

LISA C. I love you my little girl sincerely, your devoted man - Charlie (in the box)

SHARI YOUNG Happy 20th birthday. The teen years are over. So when does maturity start? We love you. Wendy and Lisa.

LYNN - thank you for the incredible weekend. I love surprizes. Best of luck on your finals. Love John.

THE POOL GUYS thanks for all the laughs. Have a great XMas. Legs.

KRIS — I'm gonna have a blue Christmas without you. I already miss you. Love Scott.

8TH FLOOR MCNAMARA Thanks for making my last semester great. Good luck on finals love Kim.

FRED MERRY CHRISTMAS good luck with everything I'm always here luv ya Kiki.

DAMAGE INC. I don't know how to thank you for our weekend of decadence in NYC except to tell you I love you. Yours truly, Turk.

TRI SIGMA'S SUPERSENIORS! Tabitha, Penny, and Amy. We love you and are going to miss you. Good luck with everything you do. Love, Your tri sigma sisters.

PUPS — GIVING! Here is another one! Good luck on yer finals you little schmegma you!

MR. C (WADE) AND Bobby the Brain (Richie) family dinners, shopping trips, cheers and the ghugh. Won't be the same Good luck the guns. Hey Joe and Markie (The Green Grocer)

TO JEN AND LESLIE ON THE 9th FLOOR of Kennedy - Kwitcherbellyaching already. If I had to run a personal to everyone do you realize how long it would be? Then the Collegian would be really really upset with me and then they would put me in charge of the soap opera review or something. So relax, huh -Jim.

RIDE WANTED

NEED RIDE TO MANHATTAN 12/20 or 12/21 will pay gas. Skye 6-8681.

NYC ANYTIME SOON. Piet 586-4429.

HELP! Ride needed anywhere upstate NY especially Syracuse, Ithaca(Fri 12/8 Please call 6-1130 leave message.

RIDE NEEDED TO NEW LONDON CT on 12-8 or 12-9. Call Eric 253-9408.

TO ST. PAUL MINN Via Chicago on Dec 21 Call Jeff 546-4098.

ROOM FOR RENT

NICE ROOM AVAILABLE starting Jan 1 or Feb 1. In sunny house near town and campus. Please call evenings Marie 549-6202.

ROOMMATES WANTED

ONE NON—SMOKING MALE ROOMMATE needed for apartment must be fun to live with call 253-9182 for details.

TWO ROOMMATES NEEDED. Brittany Manor apartment. Take over remaining lease until June. For more details call John or Gary at 256-8983.

ONE/TWO ROOMMATES NEEDED for huge bedroom in whately farmhouse must see cheap call 665-4364 lease till May 31.

FEMALE NEEDED TO SHARE ROOM in Southwood apt $165 month Jan 1 call 253-9918

LOOKING FOR 2-3 ROOMMATES to share town house Jan 1 549-1662.

ONE OR TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES wanted for southwood townehouse, new rugs, nice place, on bus route. Start Jan 1 Call 253-2566 anytime. Leave message.

2 ROOMS IN HOUSE $211 fireplace & deck call Kevin at 256-8629.

NEEDED 3 PEOPLE TO SHARE spacious house in S. AMherst 1 dble and 1 sin $150 or $200 beg Jan 1 253-7873.

OPENMINDED FEMALE WANTED to share Lrg. cozy apt in Sunderland asap 2 bdrms. With 1 female, 2 males. 150 + on bus route call 665-8966 now.

ONE FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED for single room in Townehouse the apt is fully furnished w/cable call anytime 549-4152.

FEMALE NONSMOKING ROOMAMTE NEEDED, on bus route, $181.25. Call A.S.A.P. 253-2211.

HELP OUR ROOMMATE'S LEAVING and so's her share of the rent! Share 1 rm in a 2 bdrm, 2 bath luxury style apt starting Jan 1 non smoking and considerate pls call 253-5314 lv message on busline 200 mo inclusive in Amherst.

FEMALE SMOKER TO FILL half of large double. Big farm house Sunderland $220 util incl. 665-8472.

WANTED ONE FEMALE TO SHARE large doub le in Puffton start Jan 1 $144 inc ht and hw. Call 549-9963.

LOOKING FOR A NONSMOKER to share bedroom in condo 2 miles from campus. Bus stops at door 175 3 fun roommates. 253-2582 leave message.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED, FURNISHED, ON BUS ROUTE, $140/month including utilities call 256-8475.

ONE OR TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES WANTED FOR Southwood Townehouse, new rugs, nice place on bus route. Start Jan. 1 call 253-2566 Anytime Leave message.

2 ROOMMATES NEEDED Townehouse apts. Male or female starting Jan/Feb Call 549-3870.

OPEN-MINDED FEMALE wanted to share big cozy 2 bedroom apartment with 2 males and 1 female. 10 minute ride from campus. On bus route. $150 $ utils: call 665-8966.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED TO SHARE ROOM in Southwood Apt. Starting Jan 1 $165 month. Please call 253-9918 leave message.

2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for lg room in apt in town 200 549-1677.

MALE WANTED FOR ONE BEDROOM in two bedroom apt. Bus route $250 Lee 545-3537 665-7373.

FEMALE NONSMOKER ROOMMATE ¢to share bedroom, avail Jan. 1 200 $ util Puffton 549-7464.

LOOKING FOR 3-4 FEMALES to take over lease January 549-1662.

ONE FEMALE ROOMMATE FOR spring semester to share Mill Valley Estate Apt.
*On bus route
*cheap
*new apt.
*nice roommates
Call Now! 256-6740.

ROOM AVAILABLE IN NEW CONDO starting Jan. 1. Female grad student preferred. 253-3107 or 545-4675.

FEMALE TO SHARE SPACIOUS AND CHEAP room next semester ($115/month$). Non-smokers please call Alise, evenings. Please leave your number and I'll call you back! Thanks. 256-1250

WANTED FEMALE NONSMOKING ROOMMATE for Southwood Apts rent $181.25. Call 253-2211.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Puffton Village one female non-smoker to share double room starting Jan 1 $150 per month inc. heat and water call 549-0768.

WANTED - 1 fun female to share 1$ rm in a 2 bedroom 2 bath luxury style apt on bus line in Amherst starting Jan 1. Must be non smoker please call 253-5314 lv ms. 200 mo inclusive.

1 FEMALE NEEDED to share beautiful Brandywine apt great roommates, free heat - $180/mo. Call 549-8319 or 549-0561.

TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES wanted for So. Nd townehouse new rugs nice place on bus route start Jan 1 call 253-2566 anytime leave message.

LARGE BEDROOM AVAILABLE IN NEW 3 BEDROOM HOUSE. Just 8 miles to UMass in beautiful town of Montague. $230/month plus utilities. Large yard, garage...what a deal! Call Kateri or Bethann after 5:00 at 367-2203.

NONSMOKING FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED for two bedroom apartment. Call 253-2341.

1 or 2 PEOPLE WANTED TO SHARE a two bedroom apt in Townhouse. Call Matt at 549-5805, leave message.

1 or 2 ROOMMATES NEEDED for Sunset Avenue Apts. 165/mo Call 549-3826 (across from Patterson.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED, furnished, on bus route, $140/month inclouding utilities call 256-8475.

LOOKING FOR A NONSMOKER to share bedroom in Condo 2 miles from campus, bus stops at door 175 3 fun roommates. 253-2582 leave message.

TWO NONSMOKING FEMALES WANTED for So ND Townehouse new rugs nice place on bus route start Jan 1 call 253-2566 anytime leave message.

LARGE BEDROOM AVAILABLE in New 3 bedroom house. Just 8 miles to UMass in beautiful town of Montague. $230/month plus utilities. Large yard, garage...what a deal! Call Kateri or Bethann after 5:00 at 367-2203.

MALE ROOMMATE WANTED to share room in presidential apartments. Close to campus cheap rent call 549-6538 leave message.

FEMALE NONSMOKER WANTED to share one bedroom apartment. Brandywine 245/month including heat 549-7157.

GRAD OR OLDER STUDENT wanted for room in beautiful 4 br house in North Amherst. All amenities: washer, dryer, microwave. On bus route. $225/mo$, 549-7226.

SERVICES

PIONEER RESUME. Open everyday. Professional, fast, inexpensive. 4 year disk storage. 665-8873.

SPRING BREAK 90's

COLD?? Don't get left out in the cold, order spring break trips now and save $$$ or even better, you can charge your tripp on a major credit card!! For fun in the sun choose Bahamas or Cancun. Great prices! Great fun. Call Lisa or Donna now. 549-8228.

THE CUTE BIRTHDAY BOY R.A. IN J.Q.A.

DANNY COLUCCI HAPPY 21st BIRTHDAY I love you with all my heart. Christine.

TO SUBLET

SUBLET SINGLE ROOM Jan 1st (neg.) in 4 bdrm 2 bath apt on bus route stacey 549-8210.

1 BDRM APT IN CLIFFSIDE. Available Jan or Feb 1. Great for 2 people. $235 each includes everything even cable! Please call or leave message 665-2984.

TOY FOR TOTS

SGT. LEE FORESTER, USMCR out of Westover AFB wishes to thank the Army and Air force ROTC for their help with this years toys for tots campaign on campus and asks that all students help to contribute so that the less fortunate children in our community will have a brighter holiday.

TRAVEL

FLORIDA IN JANUARY 2 tix for sale $250 rdtrip each from Boston call (603)539-5657 eves or (603)569-5273 days.

LOWEST PRICE ON SPRING BREAK Cancus from 385, Bahamas 334, Bermuda Jamaica and Rio too. From budget to luxury $60 dep by 12/15 saves you $30. lay away plan available. Dwayne 665-4916.

SPRING BREAK '90
ACAPULCO
Affordable beachfront hotel and deluxe accommodations - guaranteed 7 days of sunshine and incomparable nightlife. Call Marc for a good time at 253-2170 or 256-4912.

FLORIDA TICKET $100.00 One way to Sarasota call 665-1244 after 5pm.

WE BEAT THE COMPETITION BY $30-70 on trips to Jamaica and Montego Bay. Great deals also on Bahamas and Nassau. Save $25 if booked before 1-15-90. Michelle 546-7653.

BRADLEY AIRPORT SHUTTLE Christmas special!! $15 fare call noew limited seating Valley Transporter 256-8484.

NASSAU SPRING BREAK '90 as low as $339 Colpitts world Travel Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235.

LOWEST PRICES GUARANTEED Cancun, Bahamas, Bermuda, Jamaica spring break '90 Call beth or Sue 253-2321.

UNDER 21? NO PROBLEM! Spring Break in Cancun, Nassau, Jamaica! Only $75 deposit by Dec 12th. (Daytona packages too!) Starting from $248. Karen 256-4659.

SPRING BREAK 90' Jamaica, Acapulco, Cancun, Daytona...experienced sales rep, dependable travel service. $25 off before Jan 1 Mary & Karen 549-8166.

CANCUN FOR SPRING BREAK 8 days 7 night of parties people sun and no drinking age. Starting at $359 Call Chris or Amy 549-0532.

TYPING

ACCURATE PROFESSIONAL TYPING. Spelling corrected. Campus pickup. Gloria 323-5140.

FAST INEXPENSIVE TYPING spell check $1.75 page. Call Ashley at 546-6756.

DON'T PANIC. Let me type your paper. No Typing As Usual. 548-9436.

CASES, PAPERS, THESES, ON-CAMPUS, affordable, grammar reviewed, dependable, experienced 584-7924, Nancy.

VICKI, LISA, KELLY, GAIL

DECEMBER IS HERE;
Wow-that was fast!
I'm sure all those
"great" memories
will definitely last!
To Kel - good luck,
have a blast
and gail - just think you'll save on gas
To vic and Lisa
only one more to go
you guys are great
just wanted you to know.
Luv,
Laura.

WANTED

BILLY JOEL TICKETS? I'm looking to swap 2 tickets for his Jan 2 Hartford show for his Jan 8 show. Please call 253-7730.

HELP! Sentimentally attached goldfish owners looking for a caring fishsitter while we're on exchange next semester! (these fish are immortal—they've survived over a year in a six inch bowl!) Please leave a message at 546-9760.

WANTED TO RENT

FEMALE NONSMOKER LOOKING to rent single room in Amherst starting Jan 1 leave message 253-5496.

LOOKING FOR 1-2 BEDROOM for next spring - to rent or take over lease. Please leave message for Jonathan at 549-6605.

ROOMS/HOUSING NEEDED for January. Contact SBMC 256-8615 9am-5pm.

WEEN JOHNSON

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!! LOVE PUPS.

SPORTS

Minutewomen hope home is sweet for A-10s

By CHRIS MIRACLE
Collegian Correspondent

Entering a new year after posting a winning record the previous season is one confidence booster, but to host their own conference championship is another.

The University of Massachusetts women's gymnastics has this card up their sleeves to fuel their quest for another winning season and possibly a trip to the regionals as the Minutewomen will host the Atlantic-10 Championships this year.

After finishing fourth in the Atlantic 10 Conference and placing eleventh in the conference championships, the coaching staff of head coach Alfie Mitchell and her new assistant Letitia Selk has higher hopes for their gymnasts this year.

"Our goal is to qualify for the [Northeast] regionals," Mitchell said. "With our new freshmen and returning starters we're far superior than last year's team."

"Right now I don't know what to expect, but from the looks of the team they're awesome," Selk said. "I feel good about their potential now and where we're headed."

In order to qualify for the regionals, the Minutewomen must place seventh or higher out of the 20 teams in the A-10 tourney. Led by senior all-arounders Kristin Turmail and Erika Baxter, the Minutewomen have a great chance to accomplish this goal.

Also returning for her last year will be Lynne Morris, who will compete in the vault, balance beam, and floor exercise.

Selk, feeling optimistic about the season said, "With our seniors Kristin, Erika and Lynn, there's a lot of talent and experience and their maturity will provide leadership because they know what to expect."

The trio's leadership will be needed because the Minutewomen's captain, Michelle Antonelli, is out for the season with a knee injury. She will stay on as an assistant.

Turmail and Baxter have both shown that they have the talent to make it to the regionals. After being sidelined with an injury last year, Turmail will be looking to return to her sophomore form, when she qualified for the regionals, while teammate Baxter qualified last year as a junior.

Leading the young crop of talent will be sophomore all-arounders Kim Grady, who went to the regionals last year, and Erin Klier.

"Since I've been here in September they have improved so much," Selk said.

Tammy Marshall (Hicksville, N.Y.) appears to be the freshman who will contribute immediately, with Lisa-Beth Cronen (Amherst, Mass.) and Jodi Flax (Riverwoods, Ill.) as Mitchell's other top first-year gymnasts. "Tammy should score well in all the events," Mitchell said. "She's definitely going to be a strong collegiate gymnast," Selk said. "I look to see her at the regionals this year and also the next three years."

The other two freshman are not too far behind. Mitchell said, "I'm counting on L.B. as our anchor person because she scores nines easily in three events and Jodi can score high on the beam and bars."

As for the team's depth charts a week ago, Marshall and Grady rank second and third respectively behind Turmail in the vault and beam. Picking up the slack in the bars will be Baxter and Klier and the beam will be the tandem of Marshall and Grady.

With several rule changes initiated by the International Gymnastics Federation and acted upon by the NCAA this season, scoring high in each event will be a challenge not only for the Minutewomen but also for everybody else. For example, a new rule being instituted this year is that points above 9.6 will only be awarded if the gym acro requirement is met — that is, a certain sequence and rhythm.

Taking the top five out of six scores in each event, the Minutewomen hope to attain a score of 45 or higher in order to accomplish their total goal of breaking 180 or more in each meet.

The Minutewomen will get plenty of time to prepare for their first meet against Towson State at home, as the non-conference meet will not take place until Jan. 18, during intersession.

Opening with State will set the tone for the Minutewomen's season. Mitchell's goals are to do well while at the same time increasing the team's difficulty in the four events.

"[Towson State] is a really good team," Mitchell added. "We hope to catch them off guard and come out with a win."

Mitchell hopes to break into the top three of the A-10 this year, but that will tough because he expects Penn State, West Virginia and Temple to be as talented as last year.

Sports Information photo

One of three returning seniors, Kristin Turmail will be counted on to provide the leadership for the University of Massachusetts women's gymnastics team . . .

Sports Information photo

. . . while sophomore Kim Grady looks to point a talented group of underclassmen in the direction of a winning season.

Random ramblings: How good is the hoop team?

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

I think I've finally stopped laughing about what happened Monday night at Curry Hicks Cage.

In case you were one of the select many who decided to forego the men's basketball exhibition against Marathon Oil to do better things (like watching "Alf"), you missed a great time.

Much has been said about the Minutemen's 108-71 stomping of the touring exhibition team, and how the UMass beating was much more severe than the one Marathon took against established teams like Arizona and Providence.

COMMENTARY

But there were the Doubting Toms who attributed it to missing talent on Marathon's part, or even a lack of caring by the visitors. After all, they were scheduled to play sheep to top-ranked Syracuse last night in the Carrier Dome.

All right, maybe jet lag did play a role. Maybe the fact that little ol' UMass was the opponent had something to do with it, too. But know this:

The Minutemen played hard Monday night. Too bad it was only an exhibition game, but pity the poor opponent who ever has to face that squad that stole the floor for 40 minutes.

UMass coach John Calipari joked during the postgame vaudeville exchange that if Syracuse doesn't beat Marathon by 37, then UMass should be No. 1 in the US of A.

Just another case of the Slippery Rock argument. A few years back, Slippery Rock (a Division II team in Pennsylvania) beat someone, who beat someone, etc. etc., until that final someone beat the team that won the national title. Therefore, someone surmised, Slippery Rock should have been the national champ.

If that's the case, then Lowell should be one of the top teams in the country (they beat us, and we beat BU by 16, while sixth-ranked Michigan only beat the Terriers by eight). Thus, a case for Lowell. But that opens up the can o' worms for St. Michael's, which beat Lowell Monday night.

Anyway . . .

Just for fun, let us look at the stats from Saturday's Arizona-Marathon clash, a game that the Wildcats won, 96-86. First of all, the 'Cats lose at McKale Center about as often as the Cubs win the pennant, and they wouldn't play badly there even if it was against the Sheboygan, Wisc., CYO 12-and-under team.

Thus, the fact that Marathon gave them a game is a good sign. 'Zona's All-Stud forward Jud Buechler played 36 of the 40 minutes, and even the bench consists of decent players like Sean Rooks, Wayne Womack and mad-bomber Matt Othick. Yes, this is the same team that beat Michigan by seven in the Tip-Off Classic in Springfield two weeks ago. (So if Arizona beat Michigan by seven . . . nah, let's not start that again.)

Now let's look at Marathon. Everyone downplayed the Oilmen, saying that this wasn't really the same team that played Arizona. Wrong.

With the exception of three players, the rosters were the same for both games. And the three who only played against Arizona had a combined total of 17 points. The three who played only against UMass — 24.

Not much difference there. OK, so point guard Jim Les scorched the 'Cats for 29, and got held to five at the Cage. But the real story was the Minutemen, who played like their lives were on the line.

Therein lies the rub of the whole confusing problem that has plagued the Minutemen this year, something that has been driving Calipari crazy.

Nobody knows which UMass team is going to show up on any given night, or at any given moment. A team that loses to Lowell scorches BU. A team that blows out to a 12-point lead against Yale falls apart only moments later. A team that couldn't do anything early or late in the game at Northeastern, plays great in the middle.

What gives? Who knows. But Calipari knows that if the team that played Monday night shows up for the rest of the season, we could be in for some fun. If not . . .

In other developments from the world of real basketball:

I have yet to read the copy of Personal Fouls that is sitting in my desk, but I can't say I'm surprised that the NCAA banned North Carolina State from March Madness for this year, and placed the Wolfpack on two years probation.

I can say I'm disappointed. From someone who met the V-Man himself while sitting in Raleigh-Durham Airport last fall (with Shaquille O'Neal, the LSU freshman tower, in tow for a recruiting visit), I fell in love with the guy. Some say he's a fake (I personally doubt it), but he's got charm and wit. And he'll be back soon, count on it.

Meanwhile, a little bit up the road in Chapel Hill, the Tarheels have fallen out of the Top 25 for the first time in a few moons. This may be the year if UMass has any hopes of beating them, and they could get the chance Dec. 30 in the Mile High Classic.

But enough of the crucification, please. If Dean isn't one of the best coaches ever, then I don't know who is. Carolina may pass Kentucky for most wins ever by a collegiate team this season, and the Heels have been the most consistent team in recent memory.

On to other forms of entertainment and business:

In the midst of swelling salaries and swelling egos in major league baseball, there was no more welcome sight than the quotes I read from members of the Boston Bruins alumni team, which was in town Sunday at Amherst College to play a benefit.

The Bruins generously offered to travel out here to play a team of Amherst HS alums to benefit the Green B. Williams Youth Hockey Award, which gives scholarships to local youth hockey players.

"It was successful and that's the important thing," said John Bucyk, former Bruins captain and a Hall-of-Famer. "There's only one winner and that's the charity."

"It's a chance to pay back what the people did for us," said Don Marcotte, who played for 14 years on two Stanley Cup winners with the B's. "If it was for the money I wouldn't be doing it. This way there's no pressure."

Ah, if only every pro athlete thought like that more often. Say what you will about hockey and its supposed violence, but as Boston Globe columnist Dan Shaughnessy wrote Sunday, win, lose or draw, they are the classiest bunch around. No wonder it's my favorite sport.

And, it's getting bigger. The National Hockey League Board of Governors voted Saturday to expand the league by seven teams by the year 2000. Which means that for all those kids that have spent their tireless winters skating on the ponds of Orlando and San Jose, the hard work might pay off soon.

No matter where the NHL lands, you can bet that, with 28 teams, that joke of a come-one, come-all playoff system will finally gain some credibility.

NEWS	SPORTS	ARTS
A retrospective look at the 1980's, a decade of fun, growth, strikes, turmoil and change.	UMass Men's basketball team leaps into national ranking during winter session.	A look at the offerings of the many distinctive movie houses in the five college area.

BACK TO SCHOOL

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1990

COLLEGIAN

VOLUME CXXIV LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 1

No leads in mall murder

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

HADLEY — More than a month after University of Massachusetts junior Sharon Galligan was found stabbed to death in her car at the Hampshire Mall, police are still searching for the murderer.

"Our biggest concern is that this individual has not been apprehended," said State Police Lt. Edward Harrington, one of the people investigating the case under Hampshire-Franklin County District Attorney Judd Carhart.

But he said hundreds of citizens and law enforcement agents have called to report possible suspects who resemble a composite sketch released several weeks ago of the murderer.

Initially, about 14 people were assigned to the Galligan case, Harrington said. Investigators continue to work daily, but the numbers have been reduced to about five people, he said.

Meanwhile, Harrington advised students to constantly be aware of their surroundings and, if possible, to travel in groups at all times.

See related stories, page 3.

One problem facing investigators is that they have only one eyewitness, who said she witnessed a struggle in the mall's parking lot the night of Dec. 18, when Galligan was fatally stabbed 11 times in the chest and throat and left upside down in her car.

photo courtesy of The Walt Disney Company

Sharon Galligan

Although the eyewitness had to undergo hypnosis to recall what she saw, Harrington said: "We feel she's a valid, reliable witness, even though she blocked the event out."

He added that suppression is not unusual, citing a case in which a woman recalled a murder she had

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

Gov. proposes to cut $57 million from higher ed.

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Gov. Dukakis unveiled Wednesday a no-new-taxes budget proposal for the state's fiscal year 1991, which stands to slash $57 million from public higher education and scholarship assistance.

Also proposed are severe cuts to Medicaid, state law enforcement, local aid, state parks and pools, pensions and public assistance.

Outlining the $12.6 billion spending plan, which is $200 million less than this year's spending, Dukakis said the cuts will literally "kill" some of the state's vulnerable citizens.

Dukakis said: "There is no excuse for a budget like this . . . in human terms, it is not worthy of this commonwealth or of its people."

Concerning higher education, Dukakis recommended reductions in the operating budgets of state colleges and universities and cuts in state scholarship aid, mostly to students attending private colleges.

To avoid additional cuts to public higher education, Dukakis said he plans to raise tuition by at least 15 percent.

Rep. Stan Rosenberg (D-Amherst) called the proposal a "disaster" and said unless there is an enormous outcry against the higher education cuts, changes in the proposal are unlikely.

"The [Board of] Regents say that students should pay 39 percent of the actual cost of their education, but they are already paying above that," he said.

Student Trustee Eric Nakajima, chairman of the Student Advisory Council to the Board of Regents, said: "The

CONTINUED ON PAGE 18

Ling leaves UMass after 12 years

photo courtesy of UMass Office of Public Information

Dr. Deirdre Ann Ling

By LISA SHAPIRO
Collegian Staff

The first woman vice chancellor and holder of five administrative positions at the University of Massachusetts during the past 12 years, Deirdre A. Ling, Vice Chancellor for University Relations and Development is again facing a new challenge.

Ling, the first person to assume the title Vice Chancellor for University Relations and Development when the office was created in 1983, announced Jan. 22 that she has accepted the position of head of the Middlesex School, a private secondary school in Concord. Ling begins her new job on July 1.

"I will always care deeply about the University and I feel I can make my best contribution next at Middlesex."

The office of University Relations and Development tied several departments such as development, publications and alumni which previously had not worked together. The office seeks to "expand and enhance awareness of and advocacy for the University."

"I am very grateful to Vice Chancellor Madson and Chancellor Duffey for making these career opportunities available to me."

"Those opportunities of enrollment management and institutional advancement have positioned me to assume the head position [at Middlesex School.]"

Chancellor Joseph Duffey said "Vice Chancellor Ling has done an excellent job — I am sorry to lose her. I am

CONTINUED ON PAGE 20

Out-of-state tuition increased by $485

By DARREN GARNICK
Collegian Staff

Although students at the University of Massachusetts have already paid their tuition bills, some will be notified by mail that they owe an additional $485.

Governor Dukakis approved a $485 tuition increase for out-of-state students Jan. 4, signing a $300 million budget reduction bill.

According to the University's Office of Institutional Research, 3,359 out of 19,188 undergraduates, or about 17.5 percent, are out-of-state students.

The increase brings out-of-state tuition to $3194 from

CONTINUED ON PAGE 23

Students run for town offices

Hope to be 1st students elected to the board

By DARREN GARNICK
Collegian Staff

In an attempt to provide students with a voice in local politics, two University of Massachusetts students are running for two empty seats on the Amherst Select Board, a position never previously held by a student.

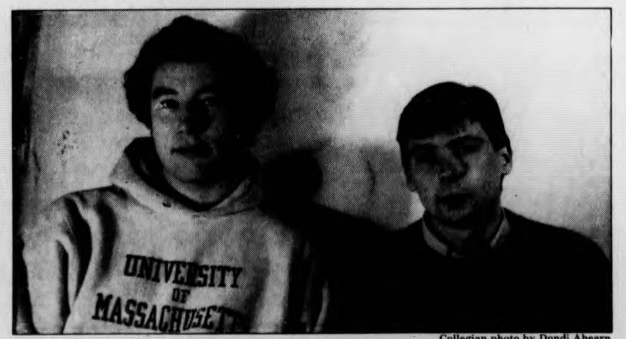
Brian Crawford, 21, and Robert Smith, 22, both of 29 Phillips St., are two of six candidates running for the Board. A Feb. 9 primary will cut the field down to four candidates for the town elections March 13.

Crawford said they will start "grass roots, door-to-door" campaigning in the UMass dormitories the first day of school, and will organize an on-campus voter registration drive Feb. 12 - 13. The deadline to register to vote in Amherst for the primary is Feb. 3 and Feb. 20 for the election.

Calling UMass "the lifeblood of Amherst," Crawford said that "student issues and town issues are the same." Education, housing, and child care are concerns which equally affect student residents and permanent residents, he said.

Smith said, "We are not running as students, but as residents. We're in it for everybody."

CONTINUED ON PAGE 7



Collegian photo by Dondi Ahearn

Robb Smith and Brian Crawford

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN
113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA. 01003.
Phone (413) 545-3500 FAX (413) 545-1592

STAFF

Editor in Chief ..... Maria Sacchetti
Managing Editor ..... George Austin
Editorial Editor ..... Minu Sebastian
News Editor ..... Lisa Shapiro
Sports Editor ..... Jim Clark
Arts Editor ..... Al Kaufman, Will Georgiades
Photography Editor ..... Dondi Ahearn
Women's Issues Editor ..... Danielle Bionda
Multicultural Affairs Editor ..... Scott C. Hill
Business Manager ..... Robert J. Bikash
Advertising Manager ..... Jennifer Ronan
Finance Manager ..... Martina Rios
Circulation Manager ..... Chris Baker
Subscription Manager ..... Joya Faretra
Production Managers ..... Terry Starmer, Mike Wester
Ad Manager ..... Rory Evans

PROFESSIONAL STAFF

Business ..... Brian Harrington, Maureen Majerowski, Lori Black
Graphics ..... Andrea Belanger

New England's largest college daily newspaper. Circulation: 21,000. Published every weekday of the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts.

Carol Stuart's family starts fund

Scholarship for Mission Hill residents created

By DANA KENNEDY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The father of Carol Stuart, in his first comments since learning that his son-in-law plotted her death, thanked the public for its sympathy Thursday and recalled his daughter as "the brightest of lights in our lives."

His comments came at a news conference at which it also was announced that a Carol Stuart scholarship fund was being set up for residents of Mission Hill, the area where a massive manhunt was launched after Charles Stuart told police that a black assailant had shot him and his wife.

"More words cannot express the terrible emptiness we feel or how much we miss her now," said a tearful Giusto DiMaiti. "All she ever wanted to be was a good daughter, wife and mother."

His statement came three months after his daughter died and three weeks after the shocking disclosure that their son-in-law had plotted the killing originally thought to have been committed by a mugger.

Attorney Marvin Geller announced the scholarship, recalling the "old scars of racial tension" opened by the shooting.

"The DiMaiti family believes that Carol would not have wanted her death to be remembered as the cause of such divisiveness," he said. "Carol would not have wanted to be remembered as a victim of a sensational murder."

Another attorney, John Wortmann, said Carol's parents never suspected their son-in-law prior to his death. He said they had no desire that anyone else be prosecuted in the case "only that justice and the truth come out."

He also said the family has made no arrangements for book or movie contracts but they know it will come and hope "it will not denigrate the memory of Carol Stuart."

DiMaiti and his wife, Evelyn, and their son, Carl, held the news conference at the offices of their attorneys.

Carl DiMaiti, who runs the family pizza dough business, lives a few blocks away in Medford.

Charles Stuart originally told police that a black gunman attacked the couple in their car moments after they left a birthing class Oct. 23. Carol Stuart was shot in the head and died in the early hours of Oct. 24, after giving birth to the couple's premature son, Christopher, who died 17 days later.

Charles Stuart committed an apparent suicide Jan. 4, shortly after his youngest brother had implicated him in the murder of his pregnant wife.

Until today, the only members of the DiMaiti family who have talked publicly were Carl DiMaiti, 37, Carol's brother, and Rosemary Leone, her aunt. Giusto and Evelyn DiMaiti live in a two-family house in Medford, the same home where Carol grew up. Her aunt lives in the lower half of the duplex.

Carl DiMaiti runs the family pizza dough business in Chelsea.

INVENTORY REDUCTION MOVING SALE
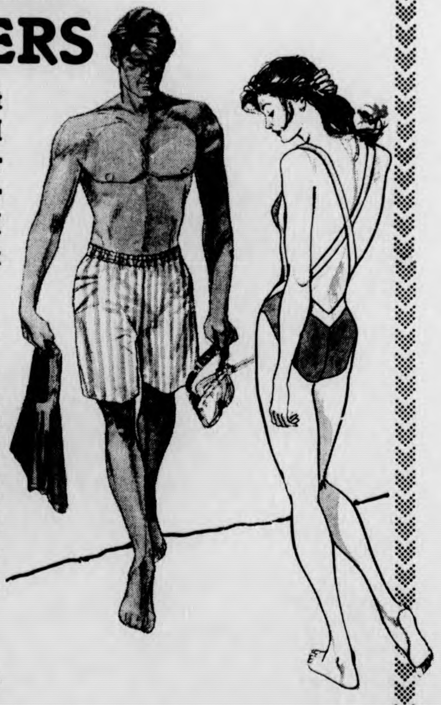
20 - 50% off
★★ Casablanca
CONTEMPORARY FASHION
FOR MEN & WOMEN
Girbaud pants...Kikit tops and much much more...
Don't miss out!
Mon-Weds 10-6, Thurs-Fri 10-8, Sat 10-6, Sun 12-6
57 Church St., Lenox, MA (413)637-2680
28 Main St., Northampton, MA (413)584-0806
VISA/MASTERCARD
AMERICAN EXPRESS
FREE PARKING · FREE GIFT WRAPPING · GIFT CERTIFICATES

Become a Real Estate Salesperson
REAL ESTATE PRINCIPLES A100
Massachusetts Required Salesperson's Course
Tuesdays, 6:30-9:30 p.m., Feb. 6-April 10
On the UMass campus
Presented by the Division of Continuing Education
For more information, call Ms. Seyedi at 545-0312.

NIGHT GRAPHICS
To those of you interested in working night graphics: Please attend our wonderful scheduling and hiring fair. Prizes, rides, and forays into the exotic new PINK ROOM will be featured. WEDNESDAY AT 5 p.m. in the GRAPHICS ROOM. OLD AND NEW STAFF MUST ATTEND! Please be there, for we are liable to harsh out on you and assume you care nothing about your job if you do not arrive. Bring your own gear. Recommended: Tent, swiss army knife, map, magnifying glass, clean undergarments, editor repellant, length of rope, trail mix, old issues of Reader's Digest, deodorant, and if you've read this far, you're probably the type of person that could function well in the high stress atmosphere of the Graphics room.



We're thinking SPRING
at the BODY SHOP
FITNESS CENTERS
Sure, it's cold and snowy now but we want you ready to look and feel great when you head south for Spring Break. Trim down with our stair-climber, treadmill, rower and bikes and firm up with the latest hydraulic strength trainers.
All this and more is available at $40 for a Spring Membership if you sign up before Feb. 16 at The body Shop in Totman Gym, the 12th floor of Kennedy Tower or the 19th floor of John Adams Tower. The first 25 signing up at each center will receive a SPRING BREAK 90 tank-top FREE. And everyone who has a Spring membership by Feb. 16 will be eligible for a drawing of $200 of travel credit from THE TRAVEL LOFT in Amherst.
We open all shops Feb. 5th, so come see us now and get ready for Spring!

LOCAL

Parents, friends remember Sharon Galligan

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

> "Many people say that they would like to give of themselves to help other people, but never get around to it. Sharon on the other hand not only wanted to, but did something about it."
>
> —from eulogy read at University of Massachusetts junior Sharon Galligan's funeral.

Like many children during a parental lecture, seven-year-old Sharon Galligan lay on her bed and stared at the ceiling while her father talked about bike safety. "Did you paint the ceiling first or the blue walls first?" she asked when he was finished.

Although she may not have looked at her parents, she always listened, said her father Paul Galligan, of his and his wife Eileen's only child. "She was extra careful," he said.

The night of Sharon's murder at the Hampshire Mall, during finals week last semester, was no different.

"She did everything right that night," her father said. She parked in a well-lit area, three spaces from the handicapped zone in front of Steiger's clothing store.

"Unfortunately, there was someone out there who was not right," he said.

Police are still searching for the person who Dec. 18 stabbed the 20-year-old psychology major 11 times, and left her upside down on the driver's seat of her car, where she was found 21 hours later, according to State Police Lt. Edward Harrington.

"The investigation is going very slowly as far as substantial leads," Harrington said. One problem is police have had contact with only one eyewitness, he said.

Galligan's father said, "It's like a big jigsaw puzzle they have to put together."

Meanwhile, Galligan's family and friends must try to piece their own lives back together.

"She will be sorely missed," said a close relative who wished to withhold his name. "She was a very bright young girl with great ambitions."

"She was very close to my three children," he added. Galligan was not only their godmother, but she became like a big sister to his youngest daughter, who is in junior high, he said.

Galligan's mother Eileen said, "I've lost a remarkable person. She was a wonderful, loving person."

Her father said his daughter treated everyone with whom she interacted with compassion.

An active participant during her high school tennis and soccer careers, Galligan was a 'team player,' he said.

"She was the first one to pass the ball [in soccer], and of course I was on the sidelines yelling, 'Take the shot, take the shot!'" he said.

He added, "If she knocked people down, she would help them up."

It was probably this concern for other's feelings, as well as Saturday trips to watch court proceedings at the Framingham Courthouse where her father works as a state probation officer, which led to Galligan's interest in psychology, he said.

Chief Psychology Undergraduate Advisor Dr. Lucille Halgin said, "Sharon was a delightful, bright, energetic young woman. It's just so shocking that her life could have been snuffed out so quickly and so tragically."

Galligan was not only a member of Psi Chi, the psychology National Honors Society, but was a teaching assistant for Psychology 100, and a research assistant looking into non-verbal behavior, Halgin said.

Galligan also worked with the mentally ill through the Boltwood Project, run by the Belchertown State School, she said.

Her father said that Galligan, a member of Chi Omega Sorority, enjoyed and excelled in Spanish as well. She was to leave for Spain on Jan. 8, to spend the semester at the University of Seville.

Referring to her sorority sisters as "a super group of young ladies," her father said Galligan enjoyed Chi Omega as well.

Chi Omega House Director Kathy Johnston said, "It's been very difficult. Sharon was a very well-liked part of our family."

Her mother said Galligan loved the UMass community and the people here with whom she shared her life.

"I'm so glad she could be part of that for the short time that she was," she said.

Mall managers stress safety

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

HADLEY — The murder of junior Sharon Galligan, who was found stabbed to death in her car outside the Hampshire Mall Dec. 18, has sparked many mall managers to focus on the safety of their employees.

Precautions range from insuring that female employees are safely escorted to their cars at night to simply issuing words of caution.

Acting Chief of Police Dennis Hukowicz said police have routinely checked the mall parking lot at closing hours and have not stepped up their presence there since the murder.

"Unfortunately, we sometimes are tied up and can't be there," he said, adding that when the cruisers are free they patrol the lot.

Managers said the presence of the Hampshire Mall security guards is reassuring, but many said tension and fear remains high among employees.

Elizabeth DeCourcey, manager of Casual Corner, said she has been "slightly paranoid" since the murder because she has a friend who was also hurt in a parking lot at night.

"No one [in Casual Corner] ever leaves alone," she said. "Everyone is escorted and checks to see if anyone is in the car before they get in."

DeCourcey said the Hampshire Mall security guards have always provided escorts on request.

Kay Jewelers manager John Bonin said before the murder, his employees had walked out to their cars alone at night, but now he requires that women receive escorts.

Bonin said, "[Galligan] did nothing to warrant her attack. She parked under a lamp in front of a store. There's not much else you can do except not to go out alone."

William Miller, vice president of operations at Steiger's, said the store management has urged employees to leave in groups or with an escort.

"We have suggested that employees not leave unescorted," he said. "This was not policy before [the murder] it is simply a suggestion."

Sandy Vysocky, manager of Fotomat, said that although her store has had no policy changes, she has posted the phone number of mall security and schedules only male employees to work at night.

Several managers said they received a letter from mall management the day after Galligan's murder advising them not to "talk about issues relating to the murder."

"Mall security has been a little more active since the murder," one manager commented. "But in their letter [the mall management] didn't even tell us to be careful. They were afraid it would just hurt business."

Luis Garcia, Hampshire Mall general manager, said he had no comment on the alleged letter.

■ Galligan

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

witnessed 20 years before.

Investigators also face problems with the composite itself, he said, because two people can look at the same person and have a completely different perception.

Harrington said they are not limiting the suspects to those who resemble the composite and are looking into every possibility.

He said they have not tied Galligan's murder to any other crimes.

"We do not feel the individual in the composite was responsible for other murders," he said.

With the return of students to the University, Harrington said investigators plan to re-interview several people, including Galligan's classmates and acquaintances.

"We do not feel that any of them may be suspects, but we're looking for any potential information," he said.

Anyone who knows of possible suspects, including those who do not fit the composite, should still call the district attorney's office, Harrington said.

South African author: use time in college to fight oppression

By NATHAN KRYSTALL
Collegian Staff

SOUTH HADLEY — From the horrors of apartheid to the bitter ironies of de facto racial segregation in the United States, a South African author described his arduous personal odyssey to an audience of 300 people last Tuesday night at Mount Holyoke College.

Mark Mathabane, who documented his experiences in his two bestselling books, Kaffir Boy and Kaffir Boy in America (kaffir is the derogatory term used by some South African Whites to refer to Blacks), grew up in Alexandra, a slum on the outskirts of Johannesburg.

Some audience members shook their heads as Mathabane told them how he and his family foraged for food among garbage dumps and begged for cattle blood at slaughterhouses so they would not starve. Child prostitution was another method used by some of his peers to buy food, he said.

"Apartheid makes you age quicker than birthdays," he said.

Under existing South African laws, the color of people's skin determines the extent of their political rights and the quality of their basic needs, such as health care and education. These laws, along with systematic oppression by the government, allow six million South African Whites to politically and economically dominate 30 million people of color.

Mathabane derided the U.S. government's complicity in perpetuating White minority rule in South Africa.

"Apartheid kills and America pays the bill," he said.

Mathabane said his mother helped save him from becoming another victim of South African racism by making extreme sacrifices to fund his education. His mother, he said, was subject to triple oppression.

"She was Black in a racist society, a woman in a male dominated society, and illiterate in a modern world," he said.

Not only did Mathabane become an accomplished scholar, but he also mastered the game of tennis, which led to a scholarship at an American university.

However, he said he was shocked by the attitudes of American students.

"People were steeped with apathy, complacency and indifference," he said. "They failed to realize that the worst thing they could do was to turn into these despicable creatures called conservatives."

"No good can come from a society where the young are more conservative than their elders," he said.

O
STAY
REACH ON CAMPUS

Collegian photo by K.A. Burke

Margaret Holt, 78, one of six defendants who are charged with illegally occupying Chancellor Duffey's office last spring.

Six DOD protestors to go to trial

NORTHAMPTON — The trial of six community activists who occupied Chancellor Joseph Duffey's office last spring to protest Department of Defense-financed research began last week in Hampshire County Courthouse.

Charged with trespassing are Rosemary Heidkamp, 31, Farley Road, Wendell; Margaret G. Holt, 78, 40 Van Meter Drive, Amherst; Dr. Meryl J. Nass, 38, 49 South Mt. Holyoke Drive, Amherst; Harriet Nestel, 50, 100 Cave Hill Road, Leverett; Mary Bray Schatzkamer, 72, of Amherst; and Kenton Tharp, 41, 371 Montague Road, Amherst.

The defendants are trying to use the "necessity" defense to prove that their actions were necessary to prevent a greater harm.

District Court Judge Philip Contant postponed ruling on a motion by Northwestern District Attorney Frederic Bartmon to disallow the necessity defense until yesterday. Results were not available at press time, but will be printed in the Collegian tomorrow.

About 30 well-wishers holding placards gathered outside the court at 8:30 a.m. on Jan. 19 to show support for the defendants.

— MARIA SACCHETTI

Four Lt. Gov. candidates speak at Mt. Holyoke

Democratic hopefuls cover a variety of election issues

BY JULIE LIVINGSTONE
Collegian Staff

SOUTH HADLEY – On the campaign trail last week, four Democratic candidates for lieutenant governor stopped at Mount Holyoke College for an informal discussion of current events.

Speaking to about 50 people were: Gerald D'Amico, director of the Governor's Literacy Program; state Rep. Marjorie Clapprood (D- Sharon), state Sen. Bill Golden (D-Weymouth), and state Representative Nicholas Paleologos (D-Woburn). Also present was Bill Galvin, Democratic candidate for state treasurer.

The candidates spoke briefly about a variety of issues then gathered in small groups with the audience for an hour-long discussion.

Topics varied from the environment to the fiscal crisis, higher education to abortion rights.

All four candidates stressed the importance of regaining the respect and strength the Democratic party has lost throughout the Reagan years.

"We can not have our soul defined by the Republican party," said Rep. Clapprood.

Sen. Golden discussed the state's fiscal crisis, and blamed the current situation on cuts levied by the Reagan Administration.

D'Amico and Paleologos called for an increase in state surtax to combat shrinking revenues.

There was a cry from each candidate to avoid cutting the budgets of small cities and towns to repair the state's $500 million budget deficit.

Sen. Golden said: "We are given the public dollar, and it is up to us to use every one wisely. Waste is definitely the number one public enemy."

None of the candidates spoke about the future of public higher education, but when asked, Rep. Paleologos said, "I believe we need a return to the sliding-fee scale in higher education."

Campus mail service plays detective with lost letters

By JANINE WARNER
Collegian Staff

If your mail box has been collecting cobwebs, especially if you've recently moved, you may not be forgotten, your mail may just be misplaced.

Any University mail that the post office can not deliver is forwarded to Central Mail Services, said Richard Clarity, Manager of Mail Services at the University of Massachusetts. Here, each letter, package, and magazine must be hand checked against a computerized student directory and forwarded piece by piece.

Mail services, located in the back of Goodell Library, is piled with mail, and busy with full-time employees and workstudy students trying to figure out where to send it.

One wall in the office is decorated with hundreds of postcards that could not be delivered. Clarity said the wall represents 10 years of postcards his employees have found especially interesting.

They range from cartoon characters to European skylines, but they all have one thing in common: no one could figure out where to deliver them.

"Many postcards are addressed with just a person's first name and can't be looked up on the computer," he said. And most postcards don't have a return address, so they can't be returned.

Change Your Address:

Mail ends up in Goodell for many reasons. "Some students move without notifying anyone of where they're going," Clarity said. Others don't know where to change their address.

Housing Services automatically changes addresses for students moving from one residence hall to another. Students moving off-campus for the first time must notify the University Registrar's Office.

Only if a student moves from an off-campus address to a different off-campus address, should they notify the Post Office, said a U.S. postal employee. In addition, the student must put their name on their new door or mailbox. It is an Amherst Post Office policy not to deliver mail if the name is not visible.

Clarity also said students should personally notify anyone they want to get mail from of their entire address.

"The main reason we get mail here is because it doesn't have a complete address," he said. "You wouldn't believe the number of letters we get with just a student name, and UMass."

Mail Must Be Hand Checked

Clarity and his staff have computer access to student records from the registrar's office which provide a student's local address, home address and status. "All of this is kept strictly confidential," he said.

Each piece of mail is checked on the computer for a new address. "If we can't locate the person," he said, "we forward their mail to their home address or return it to the sender."

If you think mail services might have your mail, Clarity suggests coming down in person. Bring a picture ID, he said, and you can look for your own mail.

Because it takes so long to sort, most bulk rate mail and newpapers are thrown out, he said. "Make sure you change the address on your magazine subscriptions at the end of the semester," he said. "We do not forward magazines off-campus.

"If we had enough staff and help we'd forward everything," he said, "even the junk mail." But long after the dorms close, his office still receives 10 to 12 sacks of mail per day. "We get about 150 copies of Time and Newsweek," he said.

Mixed in with all the magazines and junk mail are first class letters, bills and other important mail which has to be forwarded. With a limited staff, he said, his office can only keep up with high priority mail.

Write Legibly, be Complete and Accurate:

Clarity said students should print a complete return address on letters they send out. "A lot of mail gets returned to the University and ends up in the dead-letter box," he said. Don't just write UMass in the upper left hand corner of your envelop or it will never come back to you.

The same is true for inter-campus and 5-college mail. Many departments are housed in more than one building, make sure you know which to address your letter to, he said.

Then make sure it's still the right address, he added. Departments move. Continuing Education has had four different addresses in the last 10 years.

Double check, he said, "When the address isn't correct the first time around, you increase the possibility that it will be delayed or never get there at all.

"I often wonder," Clarity said, "how many romances have gone ary because one person wrote a letter and the never got it."

SWEAT SWEAT SWEAT

WHEELIN' and DEALIN'...
You'll like the sound of these!
UPGRADE YOUR STOCK SOUND
with stereo amplifiers from ALPHASONIC, ADS, BLAUPUNKT & PYLE DRIVER
AIWA CTX 3400 reg. $269 $199
SANYO ER-100 INSTALLED WITH SPEAKERS $199
RADAR DETECTORS
Whistler, Bel, K-40, Uniden
Whistler BEL
K40 uniden FROM $79
Auto Security
unGo CLIFFORD ELECTRONICS, INC.
Chapman THUGBUG
Installed FROM $149
Cellular Phones!
Authorized Agent
METRO MOBILE
SALES & SERVICE
Mention this ad and get 5% off purchase.
CUSTOM CAR SOUND
141 DAMON RD.
NORTHAMPTON, MA.
586-5258
573 RIVERDALE ST.
W. SPRINGFIELD, MA.
734-4995

RUSSELL'S
DISCOUNT LIQUORS DISCOUNT
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441
Featuring IMPORTED Beers at Domestic Pricing
Foster's Lager 3.99 six 14.95 cs.
Popov 80° 9.99 1.75L
Labatts Blue Ale 6.99 12-pack
Pilsner Urquell 4.99 six 18.99 cse.
Cuervo Especial 9.99 750 ml
1/2 Kegs Beer 23.95 and up
Bacardi silver 6.99 750 ml
Beer of the Month
Paulaner Oktoberfest
3.99 6/pk.; 13.99 cse.
The best selection of wine at the LOWEST price structuring in the area
Busch Suitcase 9.99
Off Campus Delivery 253-5441
Glen Ellen Chardonnay & White Zinfandel 3.99 750 ml 3 for 10.99
ALL BEERS PLUS DEPOSIT

MID-WINTER CLEARANCE SALE

All 1989-90 Ski Wear 15-30% Off

All Skis, Boots, Bindings & Poles
ON SALE NOW... SAVE up to 50%

OUR LOWEST PRICE IN 10 YEARS!

Rossignol 650 Junior Skis	$110.00
Salomon 57 Bindings	75.00
Scott Poles	20.00
Custom Mounting	30.00
Total Value	$235.00
Package Price	$119.95

Beating the High Cost of Skiing.

▶ We want everyone to enjoy the fun of winter skiing. So we're offering our Rossignol 650 junior package for just $119.95. That's our lowest price in ten years! Add a pair of custom fitted boots for as little as $59.95. Adult Rossignol packages start as low as $169.95*. As always, all our equipment is backed by the SkiHaus fit, performance and price guarantee. So come in and beat the high cost of skiing, 7 days a week at all 3 SkiHaus stores.

SKIHAUS SPORTHAUS

East Longmeadow 16 Shaker Road 525-6633 • Westfield 55 Franklin Street 562-5004 • Hadley Route 9 584-7880
Monday through Friday 10-9 pm, Saturday 10-5 pm, Sunday 12-5 pm

UMass child care may be in trouble

Director says private costs could soar

By JULIE LIVINGSTONE
Collegian Staff

Child care services at the University of Massachusetts are at risk of being replaced by private vendors because the state has sharply reduced funding for the two day care centers on campus, said Alicia Smith, director of University Child Care.

Smith said the end of the state-funded system would eliminate the sliding-fee scale for those who cannot afford private child care fees.

There also is a great fear that the care children receive at the campus day care centers will regress from educational care to a babysitting service.

"There is a 50-percent possibility it will be educational or custodial," Smith said.

Smith said there also is a possibility that the present staff members will lose their jobs should a private organization take over.

The UMass child care system began in the 1970s and has provided educational day care for 82 toddlers and preschool children of UMass students, faculty, and staff.

Late last year, parents discovered that Dennis Madsòn, vice chancellor for Student Affairs was investigating whether the University should send out bids to private vendors.

Madson confirmed that he was investigating the possibiiility of privitization because of state budget cuts.

A member of the UMass child care advisory board, composed of administrators and parents, said although many oppose privatization they are willing to listen to possibilites.

Margaret Arsenault, a parent on the board, said: "I somewhat feel it is a committee set up to fail; the parents in no way support RFP or going to vendors."

But, she said, it is still necessary to discuss the matter and have input regarding the matter of privatization.

Last week, seven private vendors who visited the daycare centers at UMass received a 23-page Request For Proposals (RFP) from the child care advisory board, said Sarah Boy, acting liason between the board and Madson.

The proposal outlined the University's expectations of private contractors should they replace the current system, she said. Contractors were also invited to submit proposals for operating the two day care centers.

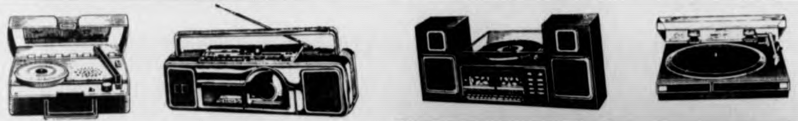
In separate interviews, Boy and Madson said decisive steps have not been taken toward bringing in outside contractors.

"We're running a deficit and are trying to figure out all possible means," Boy said. "We all care a lot about child care, and we want the quality of that care to remain strong."

GRAVES St.
DEAD END

Collegian photo by Peter Leon

NICE PLACE TO LIVE — but you'll never get a seat on the bus in the morning.



SWEAT

ARE YOU PREGNANT
& IN NEED OF HELP?
Birthright Can Help
• FREE PREGNANCY TESTING
Same Day Results
Services that are Free, Confidential, Caring & Helpful
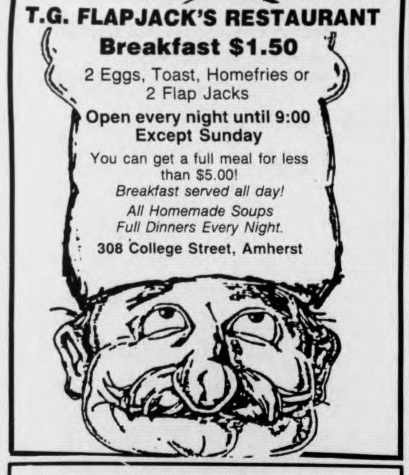
549-1906
Amherst Carriage Shops
an alternative to abortion

10 PEARL ST. Pearl Street NORTHAMPTON, MA
413 584 7771
Fri., Feb. 16th 7:00
THROWING MUSES

18 +
Tix 21 + $8, 18 + $9
Adv. Tix. On Sale Today

EAST HEAVEN TUB Co
Luxurious private hot tub room rentals.
33 West St. Northampton
Mondays 4 p.m.-1 a.m.
Tues.-Sun. 11 a.m.-1 a.m.
for reservations 586-6843



T.G. FLAPJACK'S RESTAURANT
Breakfast $1.50
2 Eggs, Toast, Homefries or 2 Flap Jacks
Open every night until 9:00 Except Sunday
You can get a full meal for less than $5.00!
Breakfast served all day!
All Homemade Soups
Full Dinners Every Night.
308 College Street, Amherst

THE GYM IS A COMPLETE WEIGHTLIFTING CLUB FOR MEN & WOMEN!
Featuring over 10,000 pounds of weights, exercise machines, nautilus machines, bikes, rowers, climbers and full locker and shower facilities!
We also offer tanning and coming in February—AEROBICS!
The GYM
at mountain farms mall
Rte. 9 on the Amherst/Hadley Line
EASY TO GET TO BY CAR OR BUS!
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!

Welcome Back & Save More Every Day!
All Specials In Store Cash Only
Jim Beam Bourbon 1.75L $11.99
Gordons Vodka 1.75L $11.99
Gilbey Gin 1.75L $12.99
Coke Diet Coke 15 pks. $3.20
20% Off All German Wine Great Value
Concha y Toro Cab./Merlot Sauvignon/Semillon 1.5L $4.99 Great Value
Guiness Gold $4.50 6 pk. plus dep.
Knick 16 oz. Refills $8.99
Piels 12 oz. Refills $7.50
Sam Adams $4.99 6 pk.
Fontana Frascati 1.5L $7.99
Glen Ellen White Zin. 750 ml $2.99
Codorniu Champagne $4.49
Glacier Bay 12 pk. $5.40
C&C Liquors
Charge It!
61 Main Street, Amherst
Next to Town Hall
253-3091
Lots of Parking Behind Store (after 5p.m. only)

Select Board candidates grapple with town issues

By DARREN GARNICK
Collegian Staff

The six candidates for two vacancies on the Amherst Select Board gathered at the Fort River Elementary School Thursday for a League of Women Voters' public forum.

Running for the Board are Harry Oldham Brooks, 56, a computer specialist of 32 Hickory Lane; Brian Crawford, 21, a University of Massachusetts student, of 29 Phillips St.; Robert W. Smith Jr., 22, a UMass student also of 29 Phillips St.; Richard Gold, 52, a real estate salesman and retired UMass psychology professor of Sand Hill Road; Carolyn Holstein, 45, a social psychologist of 226 East Pleasant St.; David Keenan, 31, a real estate developer, of 76 Mount Holyoke Drive.

Moderator Nick Grabbe, editor of the Amherst Bulletin, asked each candidate the same five questions. Each candidate was allotted one minute to respond. Opening and closing remarks were limited to three minutes and one minute respectively.

Grabbe's five questions focused on the town budget, housing, traffic and parking problems. The following is a summary of candidates' responses to budget cuts, the Housing Review Board, and an Amherst zoning bylaw.

What sections of the Amherst budget should not be cut under any circumstances? What areas of the budget should be cut now?

Keenan suggested cuts "across the board,"and said "there is no one town area where cuts should not be made."

Smith said that there should be no further cuts.

"Services have already been cut to a bare minimum. If we're going to have a commitment to services, we're going to have a commitment to fund those services," Smith said.

Crawford also said no part of the budget should be cut. Even a one percent cut from the school budget translates into $100,000 or four teachers' salaries, he said.

Gold and Holstein called for a hiring freeze on town employees.

Brooks said the "[school] boards have to answer those questions before we can address them as candidates."

What are your views on the Housing Review Board?

Brooks, chairman of the board, said although "it needs to be fine tuned," the board has done "a marvelous job."

Gold said the board is a "noble experiment that failed." It has not served as a fair mediator between tenants and landlords, he said.

Gold cited a recent case, the Crown Point Apartments hearings, which he said lasted 27 hours but failed to resolve any dispute.

Crawford said the board was the "only protection people have from overgauging rents."

Smith and Holstein also approved of the board, while Keenan said it "needs to be restructured."

Keenan said, "A person can sign a lease one day and obligate themselves [to a set of terms], and the next day appeal the lease they just signed," .

Town Zoning Bylaws

In Part two of the Housing Review Board question, Grabbe asked the candidates their opinion of the section of Amherst's zoning bylaws which defines a "family" as a group of people related by blood, marriage or a group of no more than four unrelated persons. The bylaw prevents more than four unrelated students from legally sharing a house in Amherst.

Gold, who has said he wants to remove the word "four" from the law, said it discriminates against students and called it "a civil rights issue."

Holstein, a member of the Zoning Board of Appeals, said she supported the bylaw because it prevented neighborhoods from becoming too crowded and noisy.

Smith called it a "snob-law," and said there should be no limit on the number of unrelated people living under one roof unless it violated public health laws.

Brooks, Crawford, and Keenan used their one minute answer period to discuss the Housing Review Board and did not answer that part of the question.

Other issues discussed at the forum were how to handle reckless drivers and congested traffic on Lincoln Avenue and proposals for funding a $2.7 million parking garage behind the CVS drug store in Amherst center.

■ select board

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Crawford said their decision to get involved in town government stems from last semester's student boycott over the state budget cuts.

Inspired by speeches delivered last semester during the boycott by Professor John Cole, president of the Massachusetts Society of Professors, Crawford said he realized the only way for students to be heard is to run for public office.

The candidates said they will focus on the issues of child care, affordable housing, and the town budget.

Child Care

If elected for the three-year term, Crawford and Smith said they will try to adopt the Child Care Linkage Bill, still pending at the Statehouse, as a town bylaw.

The bill, according to Crawford, requires building developers to set aside one percent of any new facility larger than 10,000 cubic feet for child care programs.

Crawford, who teaches kindergarten at the Cushman Hill Children's Center, is involved in the Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group's (MassPIRG) efforts to pass the bill at the Statehouse.

At UMass, Smith helped establish a child care voucher program for student parents, funded by an optional one dollar fee on undergraduate tuition bills.

Housing

Crawford and Smith said they are committed to protecting the Housing Review Board, a committee which reviews tenant complaints about rent levels. They said the Board is in danger of being eliminated.

Smith said the Housing Review Board is "the only protection tenants have in town to protect themselves from profit-mongering landowners."

Candidate and Amherst landlord Richard Gold has filed a lawsuit in Hampshire Superior Court to remove the board, partly because he is against rent control.

Gold challenged Crawford and Smith's support of the board, asking "How many sessions [of the board] have they been to? I've been there the last two years. They don't know what is going on."

Neither student-candidate looks at the Select Board position as a stepping stone to a higher political office, Crawford said.

"We're not running to get elected," Crawford said, "We're running because we want to make things better. I'm a kindergarten teacher. Teaching is what I want to do for the rest of my life."

According to Amherst Town Hall records, no student has ever been elected to the Board of Selectmen.

Crawford said although this "clearly puts [him and Smith] in the underdog position," their student status will not hurt them once voters start concentrating on the issues.

"We're running on issues, not personalities," he said. "We're not asking people to vote for us for who we are, but to vote for us for what we stand for."

Campus Politics

Smith and Crawford both served in the UMass Undergraduate Student Senate for three and six semesters respectively and served on the Senate Budget Committee.

"The SGA was nothing more than a government club," Smith said. "People did a lot more talking about doing things than actually doing them."

FREE NURSERY • AEROBICS CLASSES • PROGRAMMING FOR ALL AGES • COMPLETE NAUTILUS WORKOUT ROOM • CARDIOVASCULAR TRAINING CENTER • FOUR RACQUETBALL COURTS • COMPLETELY RENOVATED LOCKER ROOMS • PRO SHOP & CLUB CAFE • 3 INDOOR DYNA-TURF TENNIS COURTS • 2 MAGNIFICENT INDOOR CLAY COURTS WORLD RENOWNED TEACHING PROS
WINNERS' ATHLETIC CLUB
Formerly Amherst Racquet and Fitness Center
Established 20 years
"Winners are those people who make a habit of doing the things losers are uncomfortable doing." -Edward Forman
A New Decade
A New You
A New Us
Students Join the New Winner's Athletic Club
4 months for the price of 3
$125
Full Facility Membership
(Valid Student ID required-Valid until February 28, 1990)
Call Today 549-4545
WINNERS' ATHLETIC CLUB
Conveniently located on Rte 116, 4 min North of Rte. 9

Half Of This Year's Medical School Class Got There With Our Help.
To study alone for the MCAT's is nearly impossible. To study without Stanley H. Kaplan is simply a bad career move.
Maybe it's our 50 years of experience. Our small classes and advanced teaching methods. Or a research department that reacts to test changes before most companies even know they exist.
Whatever it is, if medicine is in your future, Stanley H. Kaplan can help you start practicing right now.
For information call 800-KAP-TEST and find out more about any of our 135 centers nationwide.
STANLEY H. KAPLAN
Take Kaplan Or Take Your Chances
MCAT Starts Feb. 20th
GRE Starts Feb. 14th
GMAT Starts Feb. 8th
LSAT Begins in March
358 N. Pleasant St. 549-5780

Collegian file photo

An officer on his mount patrols the campus.

Horsing around with UMass police

By DARCY KOCHISS
Collegian Correspondent

The University of Massachusetts Mounted Police Community Relations Unit, a program started in the fall of 1989 from private contributions, is being met with continued community support with donations of horses, money, equipment and time, according to Unit Coordinator, Jim Turati.

"We sent out information on the unit to various people in the community and received amazing donations in return," he said.

The unit has recently received two horses donated from owners who wanted to find good homes for the animals, he said.

The horses are named Preview, donated by Althea and Thaddeus Dabrowski of Amherst, and Buttercup, or 'Cups', donated by Beverly Baker of Brattleboro, Vermont.

"The horses are used as regular patrolling devices in parking lots and remote walkway areas where we've had problems with assaults and rapes,"Turati said,

Turati said, "The stable the horses are in was created by the department with the voluntary help of some physical plant workers from a basement that was basically uninhabitable. They gutted it and started from scratch."

"Tillson Farm has given the department all the time it has required and anything it was asking," he said. "The farm is still continuing instruction on riding, care, barn techniques, trailing techniques, everything we need."

Along with the officers, some students have volunteered their time to help with the care of the stables and the horses, he said.

Sawyer said, "The horses have proven to be great ice breakers. I really enjoy people coming up and talking to the officers on the horses."

Turati said, "The only possible negative reaction [to the unit] is that people ask how can a program like this be started while the financial situation is the way it is. It's hard to get across that this program is funded by private donations and fund raising attempts by the officers."

He added "Students have made a point to come to us and tell us that they feel safer just hearing the clip-clop of the horses."

Counselling now available at CASIAC for older students

By MICHAEL WESTER
Collegian Staff

Two part-time University of Massachusetts students are now available to advise older students on problems unique to them, according to Jim Shaw, associate dean and director of CASIAC.

The program, tentatively called Counselling Assistance for Older Students, was scheduled to open yesterday. CAOS re-instates a service that has not been available for five years, Shaw said.

"The bureau was created to meet the needs of older students who have trouble plugging into the information grapevine," Shaw said. Because many older students don't live on campus and have families and full or part time jobs, they don't have easy access to information.

The two new counselors, Bryan Auler and Christine Bielak, will be available Monday through Friday in the CASIAC office in Machmer Hall. "Both have a lot of savvy and energy, and have expressed an interest in doing this," Shaw said.

Auler, who first enrolled at UMass in 1967 and has been in the area for 19 of the last 23 years, will counsel older students with such problems as relearning study skills and scheduling classes around child care and jobs, he said.

Shaw said the service ended because "there seemed not to be enough interest. It was not publicized enough, and it was too little an effort to be really visible."

"When Dean Shaw came up with the notion of setting up a new bureau to help older returning students, my name came to mind at once, because I was a walking compendium of problems students could have," Auler said.

"We want to let the older student know that there is a place they can go to rap about problems," he said.

Shaw said that he was interested in recruiting more older students to do counseling as the program develops and he can determine the demand for this type of counseling.

As of Sept. 1, the University of Massachusetts currently enrolls 1,200 part-time students whose average age is 27.4, according to the UMass Office of Institutional Research.

CAOS counselors will be paid from the same account as undergraduate counselors, he said.

WILDWATER
OUTFITTERS

Mid-Winter
Patagonia Sale!
20% OFF

WILDWATER has moved to Rte 9
in Hadley. next to Burger king

BUFFALO BILLS

3 things you should do this semester:

1. DRINK
2. SLEEP
3. EAT AT BUFFALO BILL'S

50 Main Street • 253-9223
Open till 2:00 a.m. on weekends

Know
Bull!

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted

Inescapable vulnerability

I didn't know Sharon Galligan, but her death affected me.

When Galligan's body was found during finals week, just a few days before Christmas, I was scared and horrified. While returning to her car after shopping, she was accosted and stabbed numerous times in the neck and chest. She was left in her car for nearly 20 hours — upside-down — head on the floorboard, legs dangling over the headrest.

Meredith O'Brien

In the "safe" little town of Hadley, a 20 year-old college woman had been brutally murdered. No one knows why. The only thing we do know, that we understand, is fear.

When I initially heard about the murder, I went numb. It could have been someone I knew. It wound up that I did not know that "someone."

When my parents called me, they told me how panicked they had been when they heard about the murder of a woman, who could have been me. I too am a 20-year-old junior at UMass and own a blue car. I hadn't realized how Sharon's murder would affect my own family.

For the little time that I was home for the Christmas holiday before returning to Amherst to work, my parents became anxiety-ridden: "Why do you have to go back up there? You could stay here and work in town. No one will be around up there."

After I finally said that I was going up to Amherst for intersession, a rapid succession of warnings followed: "Don't stay in the house alone. Don't go to the mall alone, and never go at night! Check the back seat of your car before you get in it. Don't work at night, or if you do, make sure someone walks you to your car."

At first I scoffed at these warnings: "I don't need anyone to protect me. I'm not going to let one murder make me into a recluse. There are hundreds of murders a day in this country. I'm not going to let fear get in the way of the things I want to do."

I also found it very insulting and demeaning that I was told not to go out at night without the protection of my boyfriend: "What ever happened to my independence? I refuse to become dependent on men to protect me. I can protect myself."

My grandfather even went so far as to buy me a can of mace. A wise idea I guess, but it only proved to accentuate what I viewed as irrational paranoia.

But then I noticed something strange: When I went to the Hampshire Mall alone, during the day, I found myself scanning the parking lot for suspicious-looking people. I would glance over in front of Steiger's and think about Sharon. The news clip of her legs dangling over the headrest would flash into my mind.

One night I came home from work and found a note from my roommates. They had gone out for a while and would be back later. No big deal. I was tired and would be going to bed soon anyway. But with every creak of the house, every noise, I became tense.

When I began asking some of my friends if they had become uneasy about going places alone, or being home by themselves at night, there was a resounding "yes." Many women are now afraid to go shopping by themselves. They are afraid to be home alone at night. And they are angry. I am angry too.

This murder has instilled fear and anxiety into the everyday lives of women, not only those at UMass, but in the entire area. While Sharon was mercilessly robbed of her life, her future and her promise, the rest of us are forced to live with the repercussions.

Our fear cannot be erased. It has brought back feelings of vulnerability that, despite our best attempts at being independent, will haunt us.

The legacy of this murder will endure.

Meredith O'Brien is a Collegian columnist

"MY PARENTS SAY IF THEY EVER CATCH ME DOING DRUGS THEY'LL KILL ME— BUT I DON'T KNOW IF THAT'S THEM OR THE ALCOHOL TALKING!"

Editorial Policy

Welcome back everyone! We are looking for columnists and cartoonists this semester.

The Editorial/Opinion page welcomes letters and columns from UMass and the Five College Area.

All submissions must be typed, double-spaced, with the writer's name, address and phone number attached.

Anonymous submissions will not be printed.

Submissions become the property of the Collegian.

All submitted material is subject to editing for grammar, clarity and length. Any submission that is requested to be left unedited will not be considered for publication.

Letters should be no longer than 30 typed lines and columns should not exceed 65 typed lines.

The Editorial staff is not required to print all material submitted.

Responses to letters or columns responding to letters will not be printed.

We are looking forward to receiving any submissions from those who are interested. Come down to the Collegian offices, Campus Center 113, and ask for Minu, Gayle, Reggie or Josh.

International board games

The United States government, the military, and especially the media treated our invasion of Panama as a game. Look for the home version of "Operation Just Cause: The Hunt for Noriega!" on the toy store shelves soon.

Consider the kindergarten antics to evolve from the crisis so far:

Darren Garnick

● Hide and Go Seek! The military tampered with the original version, rewriting the rules. Instead of one person searching for a group of scattered hiders, the Bush version of the game pits thousands of seekers against only one hider.

To boost sagging participation, Bush offered a one million dollar prize to anyone who dragged in Noriega.

"We will chase him and we will find him," said Gen. Colin Powell, the chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Although Panama is geographically rich in places to hide — swamps, jungles, the Canal — Noriega was foolish and looked for a hiding place with a phone.

● Scavenger Hunt! The army ransacked one of Noriega's office buildings, and showed the media what they found in the closets. Some of the bizarre dictator's personal belongings include: a pail of blood, voodoo dolls, red underwear, Russian vodka, a Torah, cigars, dirty magazines, spare cash ($83,000), and pictures of Hitler, Khadaffy and Mother Teresa.

Thanks to the raid, we know that Noriega did not collect baseball cards. U.S. troops also discovered an assortment of plastic frogs and military-clad stuffed bears.

Looking for more goodies, we also stormed the home of the Nicaraguan ambassador. Without permission.

● Ring Around the Embassy! After the Vatican denied the U.S. request to turn over Noriega, our new diplomatic strategy was to be as obnoxious as possible. Troops surrounded the place with stereo speakers and blasted Armed Forces Radio at the Vatican embassy 24 hours a day.

In the line of duty, army disc jockeys dedicated songs to Noriega, playing such ditties as Linda Ronstadt's "You're No Good," and "I Fought the Law, and the Law Won," by the Clash. According to MTV News backup anchor John Norris, the deejays surprisingly neglected to play Van Halen's "Panama."

Noriega was described by The New York Times as "an opera buff who hates pop music."

● Name Calling! The United Nations General Assembly spanked the U.S. for the invasion, calling it "a flagrant violation" of international law. The Vatican chipped in, having the audacity to call us "an occupying power."

Sticking his tongue out at the spoilsports, U.S. "Drug Czar" William Bennett, quoted in the Boston Herald, said: "[Noriega's] not running drugs. He's not running Panama. He's just running. And that's good."

● Show and Tell! According to the Boston Herald, the military tried (and failed) to lure Noriega out of the Vatican Embassy with a woman named Vicky Amado, described as "Noriega's lover for several years."

● Cops and Robbers Noriega sells drugs and weapons. He hangs out with some seedy characters. The United States doesn't like him.

We used to like him, however, when he worked for the CIA.

So we invade his country and bring him back to a U.S. jail.

With this as a precedent we can wantonly roam the globe and arrest world leaders we don't like. Just for fun, let's go slap the cuffs on Jordan's King Hussein and France's Mitterand. Sure, both leaders are allegedly U.S. allies. But so was Noriega.

People wonder if Noriega will be given a fair trial. Watch for the board game.

Noriega will go to jail. He will not pass go. He will not collect $200.

Darren Garnick is a Collegian columnist

Real people, real lives, a real story

"I'm in college now, but when I graduate, I'll be in the real world."

"Graduation is so scary — I'll be living in the real world."

"He never went to college. He's been in the real world since high school."

Alise Harfield

This column is for whomever coined that neat little phrase we have all undoubtedly used to describe life without college.

And to those of us who have ever uttered "real world." Or "real life."

Last month a girl I knew in high school was found fatally stabbed at the mall, the same one I go to. Or used to go to.

Her death was senseless. Unbelievable. Unfair.

Real.

Everyone knows "real world" does not refer to the college lifestyle: go to class, eat in the cafeteria, go home, study, party with friends, date.

It seems to soothe those of us facing graduation. It deems collegiate life merely as a preparation for what comes next. It makes college sound like a four-year merry-go-round ride.

The sentiment is something like this, enjoy this life while you can, because when you get out there, it gets worse.

Where do you think we are? At an amusement park, holding a stick of cotton candy while we go bobbing in circles under the protective roof of a carousel?

I don't think so. I don't feel like I'm spinning on a pony. No, I'm very angry. I'm terrified. But most of all, I am having difficulty venting this anger and fear.

Who's to blame?

How about men?

Sure, that's easy. It's very easy to pin it on them, especially after one of ithem killed 14 women because they, "feminists," wrecked his life.

For such a long time, I bought that. Keep away from men. They murder. Never go out alone at night for fear of meeting up with a murderer — assumed male.

(How many of us jumped to the conclusion that the murderer-at-large is male?)

Oh, and of course, never talk to strange MEN.

A week ago a 19-year-old Northeastern student, male, was found fatally stabbed in Boston — about a block from where my brother lived when he attended the school a few years ago.

Women are not the only victims. We can't blame men. They're victims too.

So now what?

Well, there's guns.

There is a documentary scheduled by a big news anchor on their danger, their "accidental" peril. We should definitely not think twice about banning guns.

Sounds easier than ridding of men.

Up until the Northeastern murder, I bought this one too. You know, rid of the weapon, rid of the crime. How simple!

By banning guns, Charles Stuart's criminal mind would have had to dream up another way to knock off his wife. I think he would have anyway. Don't you?

Unfortunately, the problem does not have a simple "blame it on the " of the week. Eliminating the weapon does not eliminate the criminal mind.

If it did, all we would have to do is destroy every household knife, including the knives that repeatedly stabbed a collegiate man and woman.

Oh, but they got a glimpse of the real world during college.

They died in it.

Alise Harfield is a Collegian columnist

La Cucina di
PINOCCHIO
PIZZA & SUBS
FREE DELIVERY
549-3669
Coupons valid for delivery or pick-up only
1177 N. Pleasant St., N. Amherst

ADVOCATE BEST OF THE VALLEY READERS POLL 1989 1st PLACE

Not valid with any other special
$1.00 OFF
any Large Pizza
Limit of one coupon per pizza
Coupon for pick-up of delivery only
Valid at Amherst location only
Expires May 16, 1990

Not valid with any other special
$1.50 OFF
any Large Pizza
with 2 toppings
Limit of one coupon per pizza
Coupon for pick-up of delivery only
Valid at Amherst location only
Expires May 16, 1990

Pearl Street
10 PEARL ST. NORTHAMPTON, MA
413 584 7771

Thurs., Feb. 1 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
THE TAILGATORS
Lucky 7

Fri., Feb. 2 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
THE NEIGHBORHOODS

Minibus Sandwich

Thurs., Feb. 8 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
BUFFALO TOM
Sebadoh

Fri., Feb. 9 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
SCRUFFY THE CAT Even the Odd

Sat., Feb. 10 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
BARRENCE WHITFIELD
& THE SAVAGES

Thurs., Feb. 15 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
PAJAMA SLAVF DANCERS
The Malarians

Fri., Feb. 16 — 7:00 p.m. 18+
THROWING MUSES

Advance Tickets Available

Thurs., Feb. 22 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
BIM SKALA BIM
The Ululators

Sat., Feb. 24 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
O POSITIVE

ADV. TIX. FROM: FOR THE RECORD IN AMHERST
AND ALL TICKETRON OUTLETS 1-800-382-8080
RAPCITY IN BRATTLEBORO,
STRAWBERRIES
10 Pearl St., Northampton 413-584-7771

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★
★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

Railroad Stores SALVAGE
SALE ENDS FEB 1ST
NEWSPAPERS PLEASE INSERT CORRECT ADDRESSES

RUGS! RUGS!! RUGS!!!
SAVE 40%·60%
EVEN 70% OFF
WE BUY BRAND NAME OVERRUNS & CLOSEOUTS OF FULL ROLLS & ROLL BALANCES
VALUES $10 TO $30 PER SQUARE YARD
NOW $6 TO $9 SQ. YD.

VINYL FLOORING

15,000 YARDS BUY-OUT FROM A DISTRIBUTOR MOVING TO A NEW WAREHOUSE
FULL ROLLS, REMNANTS AND PARTIAL ROLLS
RUBIE BOUGHT IT ALL TO SELL AT
50% TO 70% OFF
VALUES $5.95 TO $27.95 SQ. YD.
NOW $2.99 SQ.YD. TO $7.99 SQ.YD.

SINGER FURNITURE COMPANY 2 DOOR SERVER
38"x16"x31" WHILE 50 LAST
AN ALL WOOD PRODUCT CRAFTED FROM AN AUTHENTIC 18TH CENTURY MAHOGANY FINISH FEATURES BRASS HARDWARE
ORIGINALLY $399.98
OVER 50% OFF
NOW $188

AMERICAN MADE DINETTE SETS
HERE'S JUST ONE EXAMPLE FIRST QUALITY
TABLE AND FOUR CHAIRS
NORMAL PRICE $349
NOW $188

INNERSPRING MATTRESS SETS
SMOOTH TOP
TWIN SIZE SET $98.88 SET
FULL SIZE SET $118.88 SET
QUEEN SIZE SET $158.88 SET

315 ASSORTED COLORS
SOLID BRASS AND STAINED GLASS 16" x 13"
TIFFANY LAMPS
VALUE $119.00 NOW $39.99

WOOD OR CERAMIC LAMPS
18" or 14"
DECORATOR COLORS
Value $18.95 $12.99 EA.
MODEL # AV423 OR AV533C

GENUINE LEATHER ATTACHE CASE
TOP OF THE LINE CASE MADE FOR NATIONAL MAIL ORDER COMPANY
VALUE $99.95 NOW $39.99
60% OFF

SELECT GROUP WRIGHTS·TALON SEWING BEE
SEWING NOTIONS
BIAS TAPE
RIC-RAC
THREAD·PATCHES·SNAPS
MENDING TAPE·REPLACEMENT POCKETS·AND MORE
FOR INSTANCE THREAD
COTTON WRAP POLYESTER
PREPRICED 90¢ NOW 45¢
50% OFF MFG SUGGESTED PRICE

WINTER CLEARANCE VALUES

FABULOUS FAKES SILVER FOX
JACKETS
SHAWL COLLAR·SIDE POCKETS IN GREY/WHITE COLOR
S·M·L
VALUE $69.00 NOW $15.00

LADIES POLY/COTTON
PULL ON KNIT & FLEECE PANTS
WIDE CHOICE OF COLORS
MACHINE WASHABLE
VALUE $20.00 NOW $5.00

MENS POLYCOTTON
SPORT SHIRTS
CHOOSE FROM SOLIDS AND STRIPES S·M·L·XL
VALUE $20.00 NOW $7.00

MENS HOODED
SWEATSHIRTS
ASSORTED COLORS
ZIP FRONT·PULLOVERS
2 POCKETS·DRAWSTRING
SMALL & MEDIUM ONLY
VALUES $15 TO $16 NOW 2 FOR $15

THREE-PLY
BABY YARN
jack frost
ASSORTMENT OF COLORS
Pompadour Baby Yarn
Omni Super Soft Baby Yarn or Sport Yarn·Machine Wash & Dry
Moth Proof
RETAILS $1.19 TO $1.39 NOW 75¢ SK

COLORED TRANSLUCENT
WINDOW SHADES
37¼" x 6'
SAVE 33%
BLUE·ORANGE·GREEN·RED
LILAC·YELLOW·GINGER AND MORE
SALE SHADES CUT AT NO CHARGE
VALUE $2.99 NOW $2.25

RESTAURANT STRENGTH
TERRY KITCHEN TOWELS
HEMMED BOTTOM
15" x 25"
·MADE IN CHINA
·SEVERAL PATTERNS TO CHOOSE
VALUE $1.49 NOW 69¢ EA

WHILE 300 LAST
1500 WATT
QUARTZ ELECTRIC HEATERS
VALUE $49.95
$24.88

Shetland® Ultrasonic Humidifier
RUBIE BOUGHT 2000 TO BE SOLD AT 50% OFF
FEATURES:
- Disperses moisture into the air using silent, ultrasonic vibrations
- Easy to clean and fill
- 1.1 Gals reservoir capacity.
- Running time of 10 hours at max mist or 22 hours at normal mist level.
- On-Off switch indicates on and ready to operate.
- Humidstat-humidity level control regulates humidity
- Mist intensity control regulates level of humidity

VALUE $39.95 NOW $19.88

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★
★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

Profs cleared of violations concerning student strike

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Provost Richard O'Brien has closed his inquiry of three University of Massachusetts professors for alleged contract violations during the November student boycott of classes.

O'Brien sent letters to professors John Brigham, Ann Ferguson and Samuel Bowles requesting that they explain why they canceled classes during the boycott. The Provost's office had received several complaints from students, parents and state representatives about the professors' conduct, he said.

"[The professors] all sent letters to me," O'Brien said, "and I am satisfied with the answers."

He found that "appropriate arrangements were made in every case."

John Cole, president of the Massachusetts Society of Professors Faculty Union said the Union sent a letter to O'Brien expressing concern about the way these complaints were handled.

Explaining that the Union feared this incident might set a precedent of singling out faculty for their political opinions, Cole said, "We aren't accusing [O'Brien] of it ... but we feared the chilling effect on the faculty."

Cole said he was quite satisfied with the way the matter was resolved.

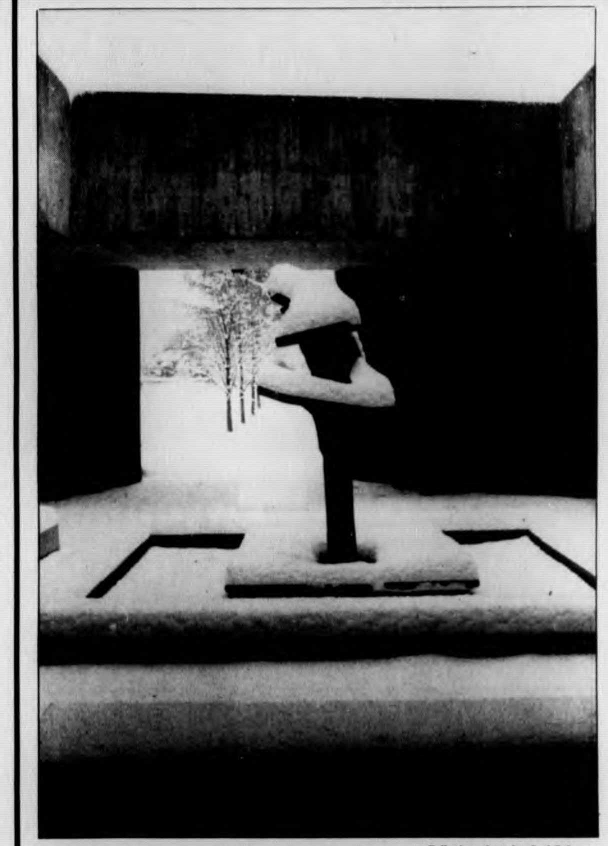
Samuel Bowles, economics professor who was under investigation, said he sent a letter to O'Brien refusing to explain his conduct.

Bowles questioned the justification of the allegations that he "withheld" services by canceling classes during the student boycott, partly because of Chancellor Duffey's call to faculty and staff to cancel their classes for the October rally in Boston to fight budget cuts.

"When [O'Brien] said 'it's all settled,' Bowles said, "he realized that he wouldn't get satisfaction ... there was no point in pursuing the matter because there was no evidence of irresponsibility."

Bowles said it was fortunate that this issue is now behind him.

Article 23 of the Massachusetts Society of Professors contract says that Union members cannot "call, cause, assist, encourage, participate in, condone, ratify or sanction, nor will any bargaining unit member engage in a strike, work stoppage, slowdown or withholding of services during the term of this agreement."



Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

SNOW SLOWLY SETTLING – on slighlty sloped student statue in serene scene Saturday.

Duffey to stay at UMass

University of Massachusetts Chancellor Joseph Duffey, who last December withdrew his name as a finalist in the University of Delaware's search for a new president, said he is "not ready to leave [UMass] at this point."

"I just decided that it wasn't what I wanted to do," he said.

Duffey said he applied for the Delaware position for private reasons. The Chancellor would not comment as to whether he is currently considering employment at another university.

Last semester, during student demonstrations against state budget cuts, student leaders interpreted Duffey's Delaware candidacy as an abandonment of the University when they said students needed him most.

The accusation of abandonment, Duffey said, was "a throw away line by someone trying to whip up the crowd."

Duffey said that people who are not involved in his personal career decisions will always speculate about the reasons why he applied to Delaware.

—DARREN GARNICK

VAIL Figure Skating FESTIVAL

Olympic champions in action!
Jim Lampley hosts.
Scott Hamilton co-hosts.
HBO®
SIMPLY THE BEST

LESLIE NIELSEN
THE NAKED GUN
From the Files of POLICE SQUAD!
It would be a crime to miss it!
HBO®

Get your 1st month of HBO or Cinemax FREE!
Exp. 2/20/90 CALL 256-4123
DIMENSION® CABLE SERVICES
Something for All of You.

WELCOME BACK

CASE SPECIALS
BUSCH SUITCASE........$8.99
ROLLING ROCK........$9.99
(24 12 oz. Bar Bottles)

MISC. SPECIALS
SMIRNOFF
BARTLES & JAYMES
BLACK CHERRY 4 pk........$2.69
BECKS 6 pk........$3.99
KEYSTONE 12 pk........$3.99
MOLSON GOLDEN 12 pk........$7.99
1/2 KEG O' BUD........$39.99

SMIRNOFF VODKA 750 ml........$6.99
CAROLAN'S IRISH 750 ml........$9.99
FOUR SEASONS GIN 1.75L........$8.99
SCHWEPPS TONIC 1 Ltr........2 for 99¢

FOUR SEASONS
MC/VISA
ROUTE 9, HADLEY • 584-8174
Just Beyond Burger King—Open 9 a.m-11 p.m. Mon.-Sat.

A Look at Headlines from the Previous Decade at UMass

Zoo Who? The end of party era at UMass

By KERRY HERLIHY
Collegian Staff

The Bluewall once was the longest bar in western Massachusetts?

Spring concerts were held in the stadium?

Students unofficially occupied the same bathrooms on campus?

Tailgating was the activity of choice before all outdoor sporting events?

ZooMass? Where's that?

As the eighties fade into the background, so does the "Zoo-U" image which represented the University of Massachusetts at the beginning of the decade.

Administrators who have endured the years of rowdiness believe the reputation of the University has changed because of their dilligent efforts, according to Deirdre Ling, vice chancellor for University Relations and Development.

Ling, who was the director of freshman admissions when she began working at UMass in 1978, said she and her staff made plans to change the incoming student's outlook on UMass.

"When I first arrived on campus in '78, all I kept hearing was the ZooMass image," Ling said. "We set about very consciously to detract from that image."

Ling said she bused faculty to various locations throughout the state to discuss the strengths of the institution. Within five years, the image of the University had shifted from a party school to an "affordable university with fine academics," she said.

William Field, former dean of Admissions, said there have been major changes to the academic community but noted that the general student body has not changed "dramatically."

Field said UMass' party image was a problem which all major universities face.

"You always have some of that party image at a large university," Field said. "People tend to get more hysterical than need be." Julie Lam, assistant director of Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Office, said students today are motivated by more conservative ambitions than they were ten years ago.

"Ten years ago, many students had more altruistic goals," Lam said. "Now, students are more concerned with getting a good job and making money and it is reflected in the academics."

Timm Rinehart, director of Admissions, said applications have increased by over 9,000 in the last ten years. He said the party image is "a thing of the past," comparing the phase to the Vietnam War.

"It happened. It was real, but it is in the past now," Rinehart said. "Although we are very concerned about the effects of the budget, we are determined to maintain the quality of life reached at UMass in the last ten years."

Study: Higher dropout rates for minority students

By MARIA SACCHETTI
Collegian Staff

A 10-semester study of the 8,257 undergraduate freshmen who entered the University of Massachusetts in the fall of 1982 and 1983 revealed higher dropout and dismissal rates for Black and Hispanic students than White and Asian students.

Data for the study released last week by Bryan C. Harvey and Alan H. McArdle of the Office of Institutional Research and Planning, was compiled from the students' official registration records 10 semesters after they enrolled.

"It's a very difficult problem," said Harvey, associate director for policy studies. "A lot of institutions have problems giving Black and Hispanic students the help they need to graduate."

The students were placed into one of four categories: graduates, dropouts, dismissals resulting from failure to meet minimum academic standards, and students who remained actively enrolled after 10 semesters.

According to the study, about 3,975 White students out of 6,244 either graduated or were still active 10 semesters after they enrolled.

Asian students paralleled these results on a smaller scale, Harvey said. Of the 139 enrolled, 80 graduated and nine remained active, he said.

But, of the 218 Black students, 61 graduated and 21 remained enrolled, he said. Forty-two of the 139 Hispanic students graduated while 10 remained, he said.

Harvey said the cause of the disparities is unknown, noting that it is necessary to explore students' reasons for leaving.

"The fact is we probably don't now enough about what's causing these differences," he said. "These are things we see happening. What we want is for people to talk about what is going on."

About 33 percent of the Black students and 45 percent of the Hispanic students dropped out before graduation, he said. In contrast, 26 percent of the White students and 27 percent of the Asian students dropped out, he said.

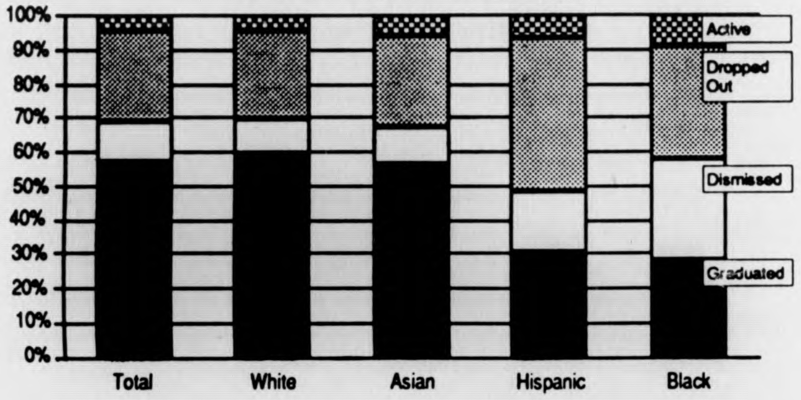
Also, 29 percent of the Black students were dismissed for substandard grades, he said. Also dismissed were 18 percent of Hispanic students, 11 percent of the Asian students, and 10 percent of the White students, he added.

Because of their small numbers, Harvey said results concerning the American Indian students and Cape Verdean students were not published in the report. Also, some 1,380 students did not report their ethnicity on their registration forms, he said.

The office is planning to survey students who dropped out to determine their reasons for leaving, but Harvey said he does not expect new data to significantly alter the results.

The study also revealed that students with higher high school ranks were more likely to graduate than students with lower ranks, but an unusual pattern emerged with Scholastic Aptitude Test scores: students with the highest SAT scores were less likely to graduate than those with average scores, Harvey said.

Outcomes by Student Ethnicity



Cash for Books

We buy the widest range of books.
Hard or soft cover—whether used on this campus or not.
Sell them at:

CAMPUS CENTER
CONCOURSE
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

JANUARY 30 and 31
FEBRUARY 1, 2, and 3
ID REQUIRED

Just Another Way To Say Teamwork

Masonic Home and Hospital is also another way to say: extraordinary family-like work environment, ground-breaking geriatric care programs, up-to-date education programs, management training, and so much more we just can't say it all here. So you'll have to come and hear the rest for yourself when you apply for the following opening:

Psychologist

The Masonic Home and Hospital, on the cutting edge of geriatric care, is seeking a full-time Clinical Psychologist. Work with full physician staff and consult psychiatrist to provide assessments, evaluations, diagnoses and treatment plans for our 550 patients. Excellent opportunity to grow with the leader of geriatric care. Ph.D. and license required. Recent graduates encouraged to apply.

We offer a competitive salary, flexible benefits, an on-site day-care facility, and much more. Send CV with salary requirements to: Susan Hurlburt, Employment Manager, Masonic Home and Hospital, P.O. Box 70, Wallingford, CT 06492.

An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F/H/V.

Masonic Home and Hospital

People Who Matter, Careers Tnat Count.

1·9·8·0

UMass evacuated because of water shortage
Secret talks may free hostages
Womens studies degree approved
Susan Peters goes to a professional women's basketball team
University to ban overnight Halloween guests
Prop 2 and a half may harm university
New releases: Neil Young, Stevie Wonder, Earth, Wind & Fire
VD cases decline at UMass
J.R. was shot?
John Lennon shot
Ernie Allen becomes chairman of Afro-American department

1·9·8·1

UMass Marching Band in inaugural parade
James Taylor performs at FAC
Single sex bathroom policy enforced; student appears on Donahue
Reagan shot by John W. Hinckley
Students protest $202 tuition increase for in-state students
First Lesbian and Gay Awareness Week
Students rally in DC against budget cuts
Bob Marley dies of cancer
Community Day featuring Bonnie Raitt, B.B. King and NRBQ
Delta Zeta added to sororities
Alcohol banned at sporting events
Student representative added to Board of Trustees
Escort Service begun in Goodell, Southwest
First take back the night march in Amherst

1·9·8·2

UMass women's ultimate frisbee team wins first national championship
Dukakis addresses UMass Faculty Senate on problems with public higher education
The Motels play at Calvin Theater in Northampton
Students receive $200 apiece after suing UMass for noise during bathroom repairs
Boston State College closes and emerges part of UMass-Boston
J. Geils Band at FAC
Mt. Holyoke celebrates 150 years admissions study: high technology attracting UMass majors
Chancellor Henry Koffler says he won't leave: he leaves for University of Arizona
Construction of riding arena at Tillson Farm
New York Times survey ranks UMass 14th overall in nation
Seven students trapped in elevator: emergency exits locked from outside

1·9·8·3

MASH airs final show
Jesse Jackson enters presidential race
Graduate Teachers Organization is formed
Berke Breathed visits UMass
Gary Hart speaks at SUB
UMass spends $92,200 for renovations to Chancellor Duffey's house
Yvette Henry falsely arrested as suspect for dorm fires
Deirdre Ling appointed to vice chancellor for University Relations and Development
UMass track star John C. Wright drowns in Puffer's Pond
UMass Department of Food Services wins contest for campus-wide barbeque
Sherwood Thompson appointed as new Third World Office director
Samuel Conti appointed new provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs
SAREO study shows UMass students becoming more politically conservative

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

UMass students protested many things during the eighties, but their activism often revolved around budget cuts.

1·9·8·4

George McGovern speaks at UMass SUB
Jesse Jackson speaks at FAC during Black History Month
Richard O'Brien takes over as associate provost
Nuclear Free Amherst Act
Movie Purple Rain enters theaters
French fry sculpture by Mario Staccioli sculpture erected
AHORA and BCP first recognized at UMass
Doonsbury returns after one year hiatus
Massachusetts senate votes 34-1 to change drinking age to 21
20,000 listen to Geraldine Ferraro at campus pond rally
Union Records Unlimited store vacated
Indira Gandhi assassinated
Arrests during CIA recruitment
Reagan wins in landslide election over Mondale/Ferraro
Happy hours banned
Faculty okays mandatory course plan; core requirements end

1·9·8·5

UMass divests from South Africa
Blue Wall converted to campus coffee house
Hurricane Gloria
Peace Pagoda opens in Leverett; first in North America
Rock Hudson dies of AIDS
Curry Hicks cage opens
Governor signs bill against hazing

1·9·8·6

Sale of alcohol resumes in Campus Center
Diving off rocks at Puffer's Pond banned
Space Shuttle Challenger blows apart
INXS plays at SUB
Jim Reid named UMass head football coach
Brawl occurs in Southwest after World Series
Franklyn Jenifer appointed Chancellor of Higher Education
Original maze removed from Southwest
Reagan proposes Strategic Defense Initiative

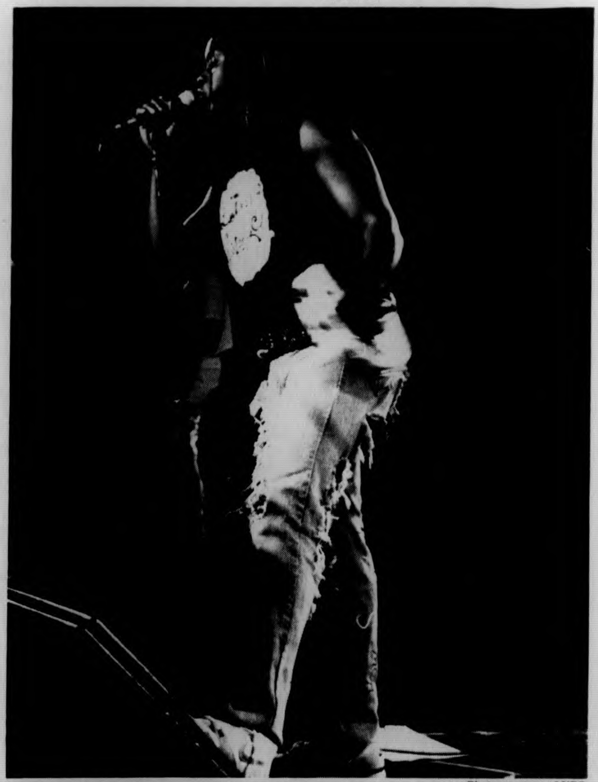

Photo courtesy of UPC

One of the many talented musicians on campus this decade, Living Colour rocks in 1988.

1·9·8·7

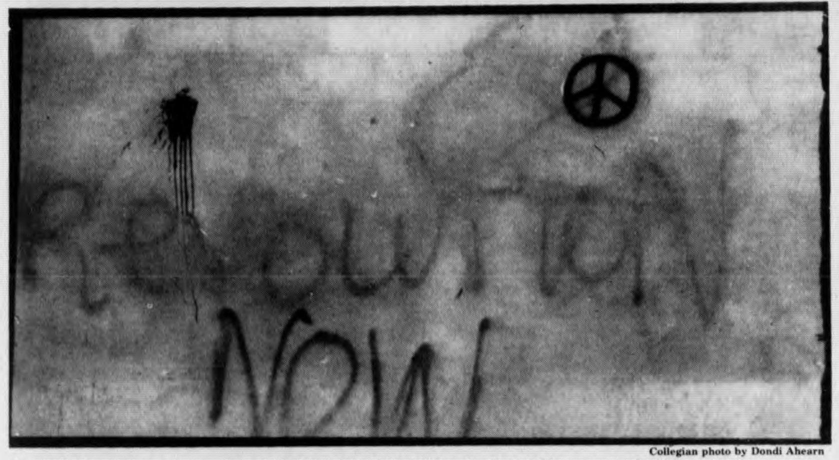
Hurst Report: brawl was racially motivated
Arthur Hilson named director of Public Safety
Amy Carter, Abby Hoffman: not guilty for protesting CIA recruitment on campus
Mel King speaks at UMass
Jesse Jackson visits FAC, announces candidacy for president
LSO banned from representing students
Baybank ATM opens at Campus Center
Vandals cement door of Republican Club shut
Salamanders given tunnel by Amherst selectmen to cross Henry St.
UMass women's soccer loses national championship
James Baldwin dies
Market crashes, Black Monday

1·9·8·8

Black students take over New Africa House
Silkoff and Rabinowitz run as co-presidents, communist controversy arises
Julius Lester switches from African-American department to Judaic and Near Eastern studies deparment
Coach Jim Rudy hired for women's soccer
George Bush declares Sept. 7 Pearl Harbor Day, reconsiders
Escort Service begun as volunteer effort by SGA
BKO closed down after drug arrests
US returns to space with shuttle Discovery
New abortion pill approved in France

1·9·8·9

Controversy over Minister Louis Farrakhan's visit
Pornography in Amherst Newsroom protested
Minuteman charged for harrassment with anti-gay statements
Amherst College sues UMass for injury in annual snowball fight
Amherst National Organization for Women chapter formed
Cutback City built to protest budget cuts
Oliver North on trial for Iran Contra Affair
Judy Goldsmith and Phyllis Schafley debate at UMass
Pro-choicers rally twice in Washington DC
Collegian is taken over
Dukakis signs Gay Rights Bill
Allen Ginsburg visits UMass
Bonducci's gives up cigarettes
More than 150 students arrested in building take-overs to protest Department of Defense funded research
Abbie Hoffman dies
UMass rallies at Boston statehouse to protest cuts
UMass goes on strike
The Berlin Wall came down.



Collegian photo by Dondi Ahearn

One of three slogans spray-painted on the side of the Amherst Newsroom building in downtown Amherst.

Students to face arraignment

Two University of Massachusetts students are scheduled to appear at Northampton District Court Thursday for arraignment on charges that they destroyed adult and pornographic magazines at the Amherst Newsroom on Dec. 13.

Sandra L. Goodman, 28, and Lierre T. Keith, 25, both of Northampton, were summoned by the Amherst Police Department after about a dozen women disguised with scarves reportedly vandalized the magazines.

According to store manager Donna Rose, more than $900 worth of magazines were destroyed and some were removed from the store without being paid for.

Christmas ornaments filled with red dye were reportedly used to destroy magazines and also were thrown at Rose. Outside, it was reported that women spraypainted slogans on the side of the building, which to date have not been removed.

"It was a very violent incident," Rose said. "It frightened children and upset people. The welfare of innocent people was not a concern [of the women]."

It was reported that the dozen women who allegedly entered the store wore scarves to hide their faces. Goodman and Keith were identified by in-store videotapes, said Rose, who also identified the two women from police mug shots.

Keith would not comment on the case, but said: "Women everywhere should take action like the women did at the Amherst Newsroom. Men read [pornography] like a manual."

Goodman could not be reached for comment.

—LISA SHAPIRO

Tuition hike near

.BOSTON – Gov. Dukakis told student editors from 13 state colleges and universities last week that a tuition increase is inevitable to offset the impact of a proposed $57 million cutback to public higher education for the next fiscal year.

Dukakis, who invited the students to visit his chambers at the Statehouse for a meeting, said several state legislators' no-new-taxes stance has made the additional cuts and anticipated tuition increases necessary.

"If we didn't increase tuition, then the colleges and universities would have to take another cut," he said.

"Certainly [a tuition increase] is better than further cuts in state college and university budgets which already have taken on much too great a burden."

Dukakis said he would implement a comprehensive tuition waiver program so that students who rely on financial aid to attend college would not be forced to withdraw because of insufficient funds.

"That means those of you who can pay, will pay more," he said. "I don't want to see any students prevented from going to college."

At the University of Massachusetts at Amherst this semester, fees were increased by $400 and tuition for out-of-state students was increased by $485.

The cut is part of the fallout from the governor's $12.6 billion spending plan released Wednesday for FY91. Early reports indicate that the plan has not been favorably received by the state Legislature.

The governor presented the plan last week, but said it was, "not worthy of the people of Massachusetts," because it is some $200 million less than what is projected to be spent this fiscal year.

Franklyn G. Jenifer, chancellor for higher education, also addressed the students. He echoed the governor's continued calls for increased lobbying efforts from students and their parents, faculty and staff and urged them to contact their state legislators.

"If you come out and you make a lot of noise, it's very embarrassing, but they know they're not going to lose their jobs over it," he said. "You start knocking a few people off, he'll start hearing about it."

—MARIA SACCHETTI

We're moving!
Legal Services

Until March 5, 1990, the offices of the Legal Services Center will relocate from room 922 to room 809 in the Campus Center. Our phone number, as always, is 545-1995. Be on the look-out for the March issue of the Student Rights Advocate, coming soon!

PAUL'S OLD TIME FURNITURE
QUALITY NEW BEDS FROM SPRING-AIR
"We're Overflowing With Old time Bargains For Every Room & Budget"
"Quality Used Furniture"
57 Pleasant St., Amherst 549-3603
Open 10:30 - 5:00 Daily
DELIVERY AVAILABLE

amc THEATRES
$3.50 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING
MT. FARMS 4 MT FARMS MALL 584-9153
MUSIC BOX JESSICA LANGE Today-Thurs. at (5:45 at 3.50) 8:30 PG13
INTERNAL AFFAIRS RICHARD GERE ANDY GARCIA R Today-Thurs. at (6:00 at 3.50) 8:15
TOM CRUISE BORN ON THE FOURTH OF JULY A true story R Today-Thurs. at (5:45 at 3.50) 8:30
War of the Roses Today-Thurs. at (6:00 at 3.50) 8:15 R
HAMPSHIRE 6 HAMPSHIRE MALL 584-7550
KEVIN BACON Under the ground. TREMORS PG13 Today-Thurs. at (6:00 at 3.50) 8:15
Sylvester Stallone Kurt Russell Tango & Cash R Today-Thurs. at (6:00 at 3.50) 8:15
Always Today-Thurs. at (5:45 at 3.50) 8:00 PG
BACK TO THE FUTURE PART II PG Today-Thurs. at (5:45 at 3.50) 8:00
DRIVING MISS DAISY Today-Thurs. at (5:45 at 3.50) 8:00 PG Special Engagement—No Passes or Coupons Accepted
Everyone's guilty. Everybody Wins Today-Thurs. at 8:15 R
THE LITTLE MERMAID Today-Thurs. at (6:00 at 3.50) G

BEER WINE LIQUORS
Prices do not include deposit
MICHELOB & MICHELOB LIGHT case of 24-12 oz. cans $11.79 + dep.
ROLLING ROCK $9.99 case of 24-12 oz. bar bottles + dep.
MOOSEHEAD BEER case of 24-12 oz. bottles + dep. $13.49
PIELS DRAFT BEER case of 24-12 oz. cans $6.99 + dep.
ANDRE $2.29 CHAMPAGNE White, Pink, Brut, Cold Duck—750 ml
GLEN ELLEN WHITE ZINFANDEL 750 ml $2.99
TAYLOR CALIFORNIA CELLARS $5.29 Chablis Burgundy Rhine Blush White Grenache 3.0 Liter
CANEI WINE $4.99 White & Rose 1.5 Liter
ABSOLUT VODKA 750 ml $8.79
JIM BEAM 1.75L $11.99
FLEISCHMANN'S GIN 1.75L $9.99
CANADIAN MIST 1.75L $12.69
not responsible for typographical errors
LIQUORS 44
SALE PRICES Thurs. 2/1 thru Wed. 2/7
9am to 11pm Monday thru Saturday
HADLEY Campus Plaza/Route 9 253-9344
◀ TWO ▶ LOCATIONS
HOLYOKE 30 Lincoln St. 534-4555
VISA master charge TeleCheck

WOMEN'S ISSUES

Women's Center is revitalized:
Organizers urge resident participation

By JANINE WARNER
Collegian Staff

In the early '70s, three women's centers were housed in residence halls on the University of Massachusetts campus. In the southwest residential area, the largest of these centers, occupied an entire apartment. Today that space houses Greek Affairs.

In the Northeast area, several rooms which were once organized by and for women, now house the Asian Student Center.

And in the Central area, the last of these centers has been moved to a small room on the first floor of the VanMeter residence hall.

Susan Allen, a staff assistant for residential education, said space was taken away because many people felt the centers were not being used enough.

"Feminism was getting a bad name," she said, and many people seemed to think the centers were only for lesbians, not for everyone.

After the centers were removed, she said, "many women did not even notice they were missing."

But today the women's center in VanMeter is experiencing a revitalization, she said.

In the upcoming semester, the center's coordinator, Elisa Fadum, and her assistant Carol McMaster, said they are planning to have a grand opening and offer a variety of services tailored to women's issues. Fadum, an undergraduate majoring in human services, said most of last semester was spent building a new foundation to begin a well funded and successful women's center. "We now have the potential to gain back what the center had in the past," she said.

"Now that we are trying to reopen the center," McMaster said, "we hope that students will realize this is an important resource run for them and by them, and that they should take the initiative to get involved."

Charri Boykin-East, the resident director of the VanMeter/Butterfield cluster, said it is important to house women's centers in the residence halls in addition to the Everywoman's Center located in Wilder Hall.

While the Everywoman's center is essential to the campus and an important ally, she said, a center housed within the residence hall is more accessible to many students.

"Sometimes you need individual attention," Fadum said. "We want this to be a place where if you are in need, you can always find someone to talk to."

'The women's center is a place to find out more about yourself," she said, "to develop your own beliefs and not just be part of the crowd."

"I think when people can talk, they can find out they are not the only ones with problems and feelings, they feel more comfortable in their surroundings," Fadum said.

Fadum and McMaster, both of whom are resident assistants, said they hope to keep the center open from 3 p.m. to 12 a.m. Sunday through Thursday, and 12 to 6 p.m. on Saturdays. "But we need more volunteers," Fadum said.

Students can receive practicum credit through the women's studies department or residential education, Allen said.

In the coming semester, Fadum said, they hope to offer programs such as a self-defense class and workshops to discuss violence against women and pornography. Coffee houses and informal gatherings are being arranged, and they hope to bring in guests to speak about ableism and women's issues in a variety of different cultures.

In addition, Fadum said, they hope to begin a newsletter and will be accepting articles, poetry, creative writing, essays and commentaries for publication.

"We want the center to be available to individuals or groups around campus," Fadum said.

"Any student group that needs a discussion space is welcome," McMaster added.

Boykin-East said she has long been committed to keeping an active women's center in the resident hall.

As the Head of Residence in Baker in 1977, Boykin-East became involved with the center. When the center lost it's space in Baker, Boykin-East had already moved to VanMeter.

Collegian photo by Janine Warner

Lisa Fadum, left, coordinator of the Orchard Hill/Central Women's Center, with Asssistant Coordinator Carol McMaster.

In an effort to save the center, she said she offered to house the program in a small room in the all-female side of VanMeter.

Boykin-East said she was spoiled by the amount of space they had in Baker, and feels the current location, which can only hold 10 to 12 people, is too small.

"The space is not adequate," she said. "But tight budget constraints make it difficult to expand."

At the time the center was moved, she said, "I just wanted to give it a home. I'd rather see it here than not exist at all," she said.

'My hope," she said, "is that I can come back in 10 years and see that it has grown and that the others have come back."

Reaction to mall murder
EWC is providing programs and training

By DANIELLE BIONDA
Collegian Staff

The tragic murder of Sharon Galligan last December shocked and frightened an entire community, and turned many in the Happy Valley into victims of fear.

"The community responded with a lot of fear," said Deb Levy, volunteer coordinator of the Counselor/Advocate Program at the Everywoman's Center.

Levy said the incident brought the awareness of random and uncontrollable violence to the attention of the community and made "the fear that women live with very real."

Carol Wallace, director of the EWC, said the center has been receiving many calls from women in the community who are now afraid of leaving their homes and being out alone at night.

"The murder has brought up many feelings in women who have been victims of violence in the past," Wallace said.

"It doesn't happen all the time," Levy said, "[The situation] was much more out of control." Unlike situations of date rape or abuse, Levy said Galligan's murder was unexplainable, and many people find it difficult to rationalize her death.

Levy and Wallace both said that many of the Everywoman's Center's programs and support services have been dealing directly with the murder since December.

"Really, every program has been involved and responding," Wallace said. "The Educator/Advocates have been working with Chi Omega (the sorority that Galligan belonged to), to discuss concerns and fears that the women might have, and to let them know about the services that the center offers," she said.

Wallace also said the EWC will be meeting with the Chancellor, the Provost, and the Vice Chancellors to talk about Galligan's murder, and to talk about "some kind of response" to the murder, adding that she does not know what response will be planned.

"One response to all of the recent violence is that we can turn that energy into action and make a difference," Levy said.

And one way to make that difference is to volunteer for the Educator/Advocate and Counselor/Advocate Programs, Levy said. Educator/Advocates, or E/As provide educational services about rape, date rape, abuse, harassment, incest, battering, media imaging, and other issues that affect women. E/As bring their services to the dorms, Greek houses, or other areas on campus.

"The E/As are doing more workshops than ever," Levy said, adding that last November, they did 30 workshops, and that demand for the E/As' services is constantly increasing.

The Counselor/Advocate Program provides short-term counseling for women in crisis and staffs a 24 hour hotline. Students may receive three credits from the Women's Studies Department for the 10-month commitment to either program, but women from the community are also urged to volunteer. Levy added that no prior experience is required.

"The training itself is very empowering for women," Levy said, "because they get to understand the factors involved in violence against women."

Applications for the E/A and C/A Programs are due February 5, and training begining February 10, Levy said.

"It's important to get people who are concerned about this issue to get involved," Levy said, adding that date rape and violence against women on college campuses is on the rise.

In a study completed last year at UMass Amherst, it was determined that 13 percent of UMass undergraduate women were victims of date rape, 36 percent were sexually coerced, and 64 percent were the victims of some kind of sexual offense.

WOMEN'S FORUM

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1990
Write From the Heart

There will be a reading and booksigning at Lunaria bookstore to celebrate the publication of "Bubbe Meisehs By Shayneh Maidelehs: An Anthology of Poetry By Jewish Granddaughters About Grandmothers." The editor, local writer and poet Leslea Newman, as well as several contributors to the book will be reading their poems and signing copies of books.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1990
Slide Lecture on Goddess Imagery

The Women's Caucus for Art is sponsoring Elinor Gadon who will be giving a slide lecture on the reappearance of goddess imagery in the work of contemporary women artists at Bangs Community Center in Northampton.

Write From the Heart

Local author and teacher Leslea Newman will be offering a new section of What Are You Eating/What's Eating You. This is a support group that uses the tool of creative writing to help women explore issues around body image, eating and food. Topics include hunger, sexuality, needs, anger, mother/daughter relationships, and more. The group will meet on Thursday evenings in Northampton. For more information call 584-3865.

ANNOUNCEMENTS
Educator and Counselor Advocate Training

The Against Violence Against Women Programs of the Everywoman's Center invite women to join in efforts to empower women around issues of violence. Counselor/Advocates staff of 24-Hour Hotline and offer counseling and advocacy to victim/survivor's of sexual assault. Educator/Advocates provide preventive and interventive education and political organizing/advocacy on these same issues. For more information call 545-3474 by Monday, February 5.

Post-Abortion Support Group

A ten week Post-Abortion Support Group will begin meeting February 12, from 6 to 8 p.m. This pro-choice group is free and is open to all women in the community. The group is sponsored by Everywoman's Center, Abortion Right's Fund of Western Massachusetts, and the Civil Liberties and Public Policy Program of Hampshire College. For more information and registration call the Everywoman's Center at 545-0883.

Necessities/Necesidades

Volunteers are needed at Necessities/Necesidades, a battered women's organization in Hampshire County to staff the 24-hour hotline, provide counseling, advocacy and community education. Training begins February 15 and Bilingual/Bicultural women are strongly encouraged to apply. Call 586-1125 for more information.

Women's news briefs . . .

- Last week marked the 17th anniversary of Roe v. Wade, the landmark U.S. Supreme Court decision that made abortion legal.

President Bush spoke by phone to about 75,000 antiabortion ralliers in Washington D.C. on January 23 and assured them of his "deep personal concern about abortion on demand."

However, he has said he will campaign for GOP candidates on both sides of the abortion issue.

- Athletes for Equality has just announced that NIKE will no longer advertise in the Sports Illustrated Swimsuit Issue because of a letter writing campaign.

"It is clearly exploitative, and NIKE will no longer be a part of it," NIKE said.

Athletes for Equality is continuing its letter writing campaign to include advertisers in both the Sports Illustrated and Sport Magazine Swimsuit issues.

- Barbara Stanwyck died January 19 at age 82, one of the great actresses that changed the image of the American woman, playing a tough, strong, "modern" woman.

VERY SPECIAL MARKETPLACE

THORNES
MARKETPLACE
150 MAIN STREET NORTHAMPTON

HOURS:
M,T,W,SAT 9:30-5:30
TH&F TIL 9:00
SUN 12-5:00

FUTON SALE

Jan. 24th - Jan. 29th
Wednesday - Monday
NEW Cotton - Foam Futon

- TWIN: $69 (from $79)
- DOUBLE: $89 (from $99)
- QUEEN: $115 (from $129)

GOLD BOND

THE OCTOBER·WOOD COMPANY

- THORNES MARKETPLACE
(413) 584-0500
150 Main St., Northampton
- SUPER STOP & SHOP PLAZA
(413) 525-1525
660 Merrill Rd., Pittsfield

NEW WALKWAY FROM PARKING GARAGE THRU THORNES TO MAIN STREET

New Attitude

bodywear footwear activewear sport basics & fashion & extras

(413) 586-8050
thornes market
150 main street
northampton,
MA01060

for the dancer in you

Beyond Words
Bookshop

New England's Largest New Age Bookstore

★ Books ★ Tapes, CD's, Videos
★ Posters, Stationery, Cards
★ Journals, Address Books
★ Crystals, Minerals, Jewelry
★ Very Special Gifts

OPEN EVERY NIGHT UNTIL 9
SUNDAYS 12 - 5

Thorne's Market
Northampton, MA
150 Main Street
(413) 586-6304

TAYLORMEN
formerly Chona Men

SALE 20 to 50% OFF

2nd Floor, Thornes Market, 150 Main St., Northampton, MA 585-0130

Five floors of wonderfully festive shops, restaurants, galleries and a gym.

THORNES
MARKETPLACE
150 MAIN STREET NORTHAMPTON

VERY SPECIAL MARKETPLACE

PARTY PARTY.

VALENTINES
From the romantic to the whimsical.

Th - S til 9 SU 12 - 5
Thornes Market 586-1508

for day and evening

hats
belts gloves scarves handbags jewelry hair items purses

accessories that add the spark

DETAILS

THORNES MARKETPLACE
NORTHAMPTON MA 413 585-0063

NEW WALKWAY FROM PARKING GARAGE THRU THORNES TO MAIN STREET

"A Hair Salon that changes with your styles."

CHANGES

Thornes Market, 150 Main St., Northampton, MA 01060
(413) 586-2600

la boutique
Panthea

introducing a Boutique with a European Accent

featuring

Fendi bags & wallets • gift items • Gucci clothing by Rodier • Chanel • Orrefors crystal Hermès scarves • French Limoges porcelain imports • couture for the table by Fitz & Floyd

Thornes Market • 150 Main Street
Northampton • 586-8511 • 586-8512

JAZZ BLUES SOUL ROCK REGGAE FOLK CLASSICAL JAZZ BLUES SOUL ROCK REGGAE FOLK CLASSICAL JAZZ

DYNAMITE RECORDS

LP's CD's TAPES

NEW & USED

We buy used for cash or trade

Open 7 days Thurs. & Fri. 'til 9

584-1580 In Thornes Market 150 Main St. Northampton, MA

CLASSICAL JAZZ BLUES SOUL ROCK REGGAE FOLK CLASSICAL JAZZ BLUES SOUL ROCK REGGAE FOLK JAZZ

BLUES SOUL ROCK REGGAE FOLK CLASSICAL

BLUES SOUL ROCK REGGAE FOLK CLASSICAL

RAGE IN THE CAGE
99.3 HMP F

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

See the way cool Back to School Sports section for full coverage of our way cool basketball team.

■ tuition increases

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Legislature has not met it's responsibilities in raising taxes."

"We will continue to lobby the Legislature for a tax increase and feel that they should know the consequences of a $57 million cut to our colleges and universities," he said.

The breakdown of some of the major cuts include:

- The elimination of the state's Supplemental Security Income for elderly, disabled and blind.
- A $735 million reduction in Medicaid spending.
- The layoffs of 300 officers and staff from state law enforcement agencies.
- An $86 million cut in local aid appropriations.
- A severe reduction in funding for the cleanup of hazardous waste sites.

Dukakis said the budget proposal was necessary because legislators did not pass a recent tax increase proposal, which failed after House leaders could not muster enough support for it.

"A year ago, I made the mistake of proposing a budget cut that we couldn't pay for without new taxes," he said. "I learned a hard lesson and the budget I submit[ted] does not assume new revenues may materialize."

If a tax increase is passed by the Legislature within 14 days of signing this legislation, Dukakis said he would submit a revised, responsible budget.

Al-Anon inspires families to 'break the silence'

By LINDSAY HOADLEY
Collegian Correspondent

In a cold, bright church basement a circle of people are seated in a room where signs reading inspirational messages such as 'Keep an open mind' and 'One day at a time' and discuss their experiences as children of adult alcoholics.

A woman wearing an Icelandic sweater breaks the silence and confides to the group meeting, "It is fear that brought me here tonight, and made this night so necessary for me. And it is this fear that keeps me from going forward and recognizing my abilities."

Her sentiment is a familiar one for the group of some 30 Al-Anon members who have gathered for their weekly meeting. As she continues her voice is tense, yet she seems to gain strength from the faces that nod and smile responsively to her every word. When she finishes, the group thanks her in unison and she smiles peacefully.

Unlike Alcoholics Anonymous, which focuses on the alcoholic, Al-Anon offers support to the families and loved ones of alcoholics.

The 13-week program has a different goal at each meeting, all which are aimed to help an individual eventually accept and deal with how his or her life has been affected by a problem drinker.

Although such effects of living in an alcoholic home are not always known, they are often quite serious. Pat, an adult child of an alcoholic, remembers her childhood.

"When I was a kid, my parents were always fighting. Some days I would come home and everything would be fine, but other days my father would be drunk and abusing my mother," she said. "I was always afraid ... I felt like my family and I were in constant danger."

Pat explained that although her childhood was unstable, she always believed that she had a happy childhood until her teenage years when she began to realize something was wrong.

"I was always a very afraid, unmotivated person. I suffered from depression and I didn't know why," she said. Pat said she spent a weekend in the hospital for heart attack symptoms before learning she had anxiety-attacks, which she said are commonly suffered by children of alcoholics.

"Since this time I have been able to trace many of my physical and emotional problems to my childhood," she said.

Amherst psychologist Marie Hartwell-Walker, a specialist in the treatment of alcoholic families, said the delay in symptoms is quite normal.

"Every child grows up believing that their house is like everybody else's house. Not until you get significantly older do you begin to make comparisons and realize that maybe you've grown up in a situation that isn't normal," Walker said.

In her group, Pat has met many people who, like herself, have suppressed childhood feelings. "Meeting other adult children of alcoholics helped me to see that I'm not crazy and I'm not alone," she said.

Sister Mildren Marengo, coordinator of the Al-Anon program at the Newman Center, said associations with other victims are essential to recovery. "It is through sharing and hearing the experiences of others that we are able to associate and to recognize that as a family member of an alcoholic, there are similar cases to identify with."

The philosophy of the Al-Anon program is that one must trust in a power greater than one's self in order to recover, although members are free to identify this power as whatever they wish.

"One must realize that they can't do it alone, that it's a power beyond that person. I call that power God, but the power can be any kind of self belief, a strength," Marengo said.

Through this power, she said, one realizes that he or she has been helpless, but can be helped.

NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS
NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS
NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS
NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS
NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS
NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS
NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS
NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS NIGHT GRAPHICS

Goten
OF JAPAN
Rte. 116, Sunderland, MA

COOKED AT YOUR TABLE
Tues., Wed., Thurs., SPECIALS
Two Dinners For $15
Sukiyaki Steak & Chicken Combination
Includes Soup, Salad, Vegetables, Noodles, Steamed Rice, Tea & Ice Cream.

FRIDAY'S SPECIALS
Two Dinners For $18
Shrimp and Scallop Combo Dinner
Includes Soup, Salad, Vegetables, Noodles, Steamed Rice, Tea and Ice Cream.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON SPECIALS
Two Dinners For $15

SUSHI
Starting October 10th available in lounge or dining room.

For reservations, call
(413) 665-3628

charlie's
1 Pray St., Amherst—549-5403 • Open 11 a.m.
7 Days A Week • Call for Take Out
Kitchen Open 'till midnight

New Game Room with 2 Pool Tables
Tonight 10¢ Buffalo Wings
9:00 PM - 12:00 AM

Drink of the Week
Snuggler $1.95

Beer of the Month
Molson Bottles $1.75

FOOD GIVE-A-WAYS
Mon. Night 10¢ Mozzarella Sticks 9-12
Wed. 25¢ Pizza Slices & 99¢ Nacho & Cheese Platters 9-12
Sunday Night 10¢ Potato Skins 9-12

UNIVERSITY STORE

BACK TO SCHOOL
STORE HOURS

Tuesday 9-7
Wednesday 9-7
Thursday 9-5
Friday 9-5
Saturday 10-3

TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday 9-9
Friday 9-5
Saturday 10-3

Collegian photo by K.A. Burke

ALTERNATE ROUTE – The stairs at the Academy of Music in Northampton.

PAWWS adds to education

By CHRIS MUTHER
Collegian Staff

The Five College Program in Peace and World Security Studies was created in 1983 to 'add another dimension' to the educational experience, according to Michael Klare, director of the PAWWS program and Five College Associate Professor of Peace and World Security.

The program, which was begun as a result of a faculty panel discussion addressing the educational needs of five college students, sponsors a weekly lecture series at one of the five colleges in addition to holding conferences dealing with current difficulties in achieving world peace, Klare said.

"This past year we had speakers and panels to address problems in the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe, and how illegal drug trafficking effects relations with Latin America and Central America,' he said.

According to Klare, the program was created to show 'real actors' and participants in world events, enhancing the curriculum of only text books and lectures.

Klare said the weekly events consist of lectures, panel discussions, debates and other activities designed to brin?rent world problems to life.

A two-day conference was held last winter to promote Arab-Isreali relations at UMass, at which several prominent experts in the field spoke to classes dealing with the issue and concerned local residents, he said.

One of the program's first offerings of the semester is 'LIFE AND FATE - One Woman's Story of the Holocaust,' with Deborah Lubar, Assistant Professor of Theatre at Smith College.

The play will be held at 8 p.m. on February 8, 9, and 10 at Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre, Mendenhall Center for the Performing Arts at Smith College. Tickets are $5 for the general public and $3 for students and senior citizens.

Expert: sex roles remain

By KERRY HERLIHY
Collegian Staff

Despite the women's movement of the last two decades calling for equality between the sexes, a recent study indicates that in sexual relationships, traditional stereotypes prevail, according to University of Massachusetts psychologist Susan Krauss Whitbourne.

Whitbourne, who conducted a study of 40 married couples with researcher Joyce B. Ebmeyer of New York, discovered that married women expected equal treatment, except in the area of spouse identity. The results are published in her recent book titled Identity and Intimacy: A Study of Couples.

"The term of spouse identity is different in content between the man and the woman in the marriage," Whitbourne said. "Women tend to define themselves within the marriage, whereas men don't."

Whitbourne said the people involved in the study would consider themselves contemporary, yet they were confused by the values which they had been brought up on.

"Most of these couples grew up in the 50's where 'Leave it to Beaver' values were implanted," she said. "In the 60's, a change came about which affected them greatly too. They were confused. Should they adopt the values they were taught or these new ideas which had spread throughout the decade?"

This confusion, according to Whitbourne, surfaces in relationships. Women in the study hinged their identity on their husband's happiness.

"In order for a wife to see herself as a good wife, she needs to see her husband as a good husband," Whitbourne said. "Men are less concerned with the specific characteristics of a women and more concerned with what she represents."

Whitbourne said in the couples studied, women play the traditionally passive role when it comes to sex.

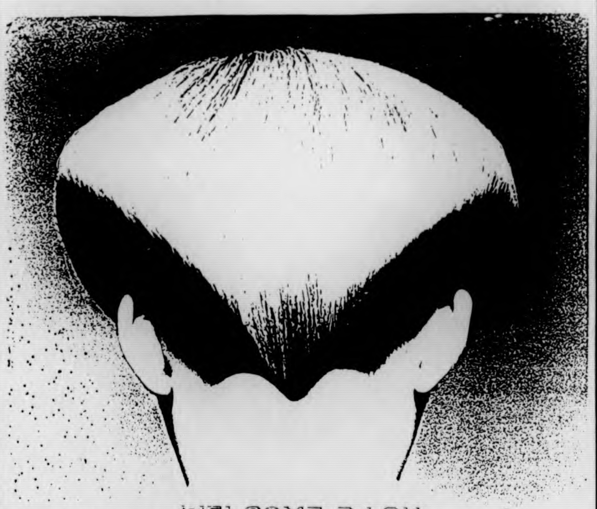
"In the area of sex, more power was given to the husband," she said. "Wives felt it was important for their husbands to feel attracted to them. If they didn't, there was something wrong."

Whitbourne said although there is nothing wrong with feeling positive in a relationship, it becomes unhealthy when one becomes too immersed.

"It's nice in some ways to have a good view in a relationship," she said. "But, it becomes a barrier when a woman is locked into a relationship. It interferes with her ability to relate."

The results of the study surprised Whitbourne, who expected more "contemporary results."

"Many of us, in this day and age, consider ourselves liberated," she said. "But, we need to go within ourselves and ask, 'How much [of my spouse's identity] am I really swallowing?' We need to change the traditional patterns of relationship with honest communication."



58 Pleasant St. Northampton Ma 584-4233

Women's Shoes, Clothing & Accessories
Zanna • 187 North Pleasant Street • Amherst
413.253.2563
ZANNA
THE COLDER IT GETS,
THE MORE WE TAKE OFF.
WINTER CLEARANCE

Army/Navy Store
The Amherst Drop Zone

Downtown Amherst ★ 256-0039
(Behind Bart's/Next to Panda East)

WELCOME BACK
AREA SCHOOLS!

For Unique
& Unusual Items
The Only
Army/Navy
Store in the Valley—The Amherst
Drop Zone

OPEN:
Mon-Sat 10-6
Sundays 12-5

10% Off with this ad
★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★
Expires March 1, 1990

Open 7 Days A Week

Photo:
Buck Stewart
549-5454

Director urges control of acid rain

By LINDSAY HOADLEY
Collegian Correspondent

The Director of the Forest Health Monitoring Program at the University of Massachusetts said she refuses to accept the serious problem of acid rain, and believes it is deteriorating Western Massachusetts.

Gretchen Smith said acid rain is a concern the public nor the government is doing enough to control. Although society appears to be concerned about the environmental hazard, our ability to repair the environment exceeds our concern, she said.

"We have the technology with which to be cleaning up our environment, we just need the initiative to make it happen," Smith said. "The cost is expensive, but it's hard to put a dollar value on protecting an essential resource. I think we had better look at our priorities."

Smith, also a lecturer in the Forestry and Plant Pathology departments and professor of environmental science at Mt. Holyoke College, said it is her love for the outdoors and natural resources that drives her to help the environment.

She canoes, hikes and climbs mountains and often thinks of her job outside of the office. "The nature, the value of the forest is constantly something that is on my mind when I'm out there in a secluded area. I feel very privileged to be able to be working in an area protecting that resource," she said.

Smith was assigned to investigate the effects of acid rain on the instate vegetation. "The Department of Environmental Management was given a mandate to see if acid rain and air pollution were influencing the health of the forests in the state," she said. "They started that evaluation with aerial survey work with a station where areas of stress or decline could be reported. They needed me to come in and actually get down on the ground and evaluate these symptoms in areas of decline."

Smith said the symptoms of decline are not visible. Acid rain is thought to be the culprit if no other factors, such as disease, seem to be the cause of damage.

"There is no visible detection. Acid rain is a catch-all term for symptom of decline in the forest that can't be attributed to an insect or disease or insect, we're looking at air pollution."

Smith said acid rain presently affects us in various ways. Acid rain is playing a significant role in water resources in Western Massachusetts. There's no question about that."

She also said that this could be influencing the well-being of the fish population, and could have a strong effect on our drinking water.

■ Deirdre Ling

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

very proud of the women who have gone from UMass to assume major roles in American education."

Ling, who is an adjunct faculty member in the Women's Studies department, said teaching, not just her administrative responsiblities, has provided her with some of the most rewarding experiences. "I look forward to teaching again. It is that close contact with students that I will once again have at Middlesex."

Ling said her new post is an excellent opportunity to have a major impact on the lives of young people.

Though Ling will be leaving the University in a time of statewide budgetary cuts and tuition increases, Ling, who has been thinking about a career move as much as one year ago said, "It pains me to see the negative implications the fiscal crisis in this state is having on the University. I'm sorry to be leaving at such a difficult time."

"The tremendous momentum and vitality that the University built up during the past decade are in jeopardy. But I still believe in the future greatness of this campus. Once the crisis is resolved — I feel it will move forward to become one of the finest public universities in the nation."

Ling joined the University in 1978 as Director of Freshman Admissions. In the next year she filled a retirement vacancy and assumed the position of Dean of Admissions. Her third post was dean of Academic Support Services and before assuming her current position, she served as Acting Assistant Chancellor for one year and Assistant Chancellor during the following year.

Collegian photo by Dondi Ahearn

UMASS REALLY MIST YOU — University Drive pictured in the fog of early morning, when most of the really sensible photographers are still in bed.

©Disney
Buckle Up For Spring Break '90

Best Prices, Service and Support

HERE'S THE PROOF... POWER DOES NOT HAVE TO BE EXPENSIVE.

Laser Turbo XT Model 2+

599.95 SAVE $150.00

- 8088-1 Microprocessor 10 MHz
- 640K RAM Expandable to 1.6Mb
- 100% IBM PC/XT Compatible
- 2 5¼" 360K Floppy Drives
- CGA & Monochrome Adaptor
- Parallel, Serial & Game Ports Standard
- 4 Expansion Slots
- Includes MS DOS 4.01 Basic & PC Tools Deluxe 5.0
- Monitor & Printer Optional

AT COMPATIBILITY, 20 MEG HARD DRIVE AT A DYNAMITE PRICE!

Laser Model 2BC+

999.95

- 640 K RAM; 80286 12 MHz Processor
- 5¼" 1.2Mb Floppy Drive
- 20Mb Seagate Hard Drive
- CGA & Monochrome Adaptor
- Parallel 9-Pin & 25-Pin Serial Ports
- 5 Available Expansion Slots
- Includes MS DOS 4.01, Basic, & PC Tools Deluxe 5.0
- Monitor & Printer Optional

TURN ON TOMORROW WITH THIS SUPER COMPUTER!

LASER TURBO XT WITH DUAL FLOPPY DRIVES & 20 MEG. HARD DRIVE

Laser Turbo XT Model 4

749.95

- 8088-1 10MHz Processor
- 5¼" 360K Floppy Drive
- 20 Megabyte Seagate Hard Drive
- CGA & Monochrome Adaptor
- Parallel, Serial & Game Ports Standard
- 4 Available Expansion Slots
- Includes MS DOS 4.01, Basic & PC Tools Deluxe 5.0
- Monitor & Printer Optional

INCREDIBLE POWER & VERSATILITY!

LASER 286 IBM AT COMPATIBLE PC WITH VGA GRAPHICS & 60 MEGABYTE HARD DRIVE

Laser Model 2VS

1199.95

- 1 Megabyte RAM; 80286 12MHZ Processor
- 5¼" 1.2Mb Floppy Drive
- 40Mb Seagate Hard Drive
- VGA, CGA & Monochrome Adaptor
- Parallel, 9-Pin & 25-Pin Serial Ports
- 5 Available Expansion Slots
- Includes MS DOS 4.01, Basic, & PC Tools Deluxe 5.0
- Monitor & Printer Optional

THERE'S NO SUCH THING AS AN ORDINARY CITIZEN.

You can tell the Citizen™ 120D dot matrix printer is extraordinary the first time you see its sleek, modern design. The first time you see its print quality—the best in its class. Every time you experience its rugged, built-to-take-it dependability.

You'll also appreciate the 120D's 120 cps draft and 25 cps correspondence-quality throughput. IBM® and Epson® compatibility. Extreme ease of use. And full 1-year warranty.

The Citizen 120D. It's the best price/performance buy available. And that makes it anything but ordinary.

CITIZEN

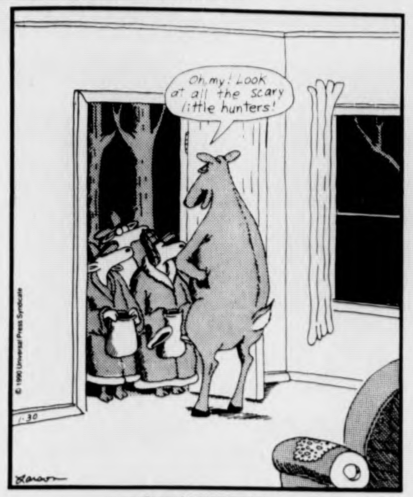
159.95 SAVE $40

BRW ELECTRONICS
AUDIO • VIDEO • COMPUTERS

AMHERST University Drive at Rt. 9 • (413) 253-9767
BRATTLEBORO Black Mountain Square • Putney Road (802) 257-5229
HOURS: Monday through Saturday, 9-9 • Sundays 11-5 (12-5 in Amherst)

MAJOR CREDIT CARDS
INSTANT FINANCING FOR QUALIFIED BUYERS

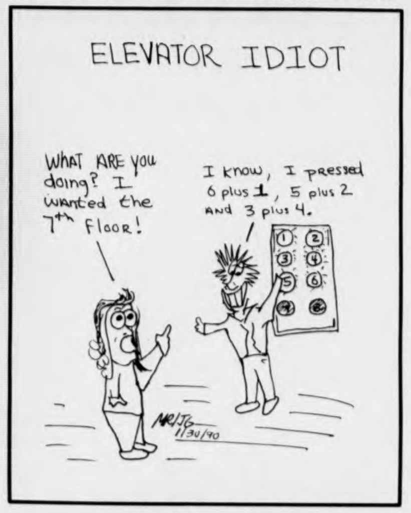
THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



Oh, my! Look at all the scary little hunters!
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate
1-30

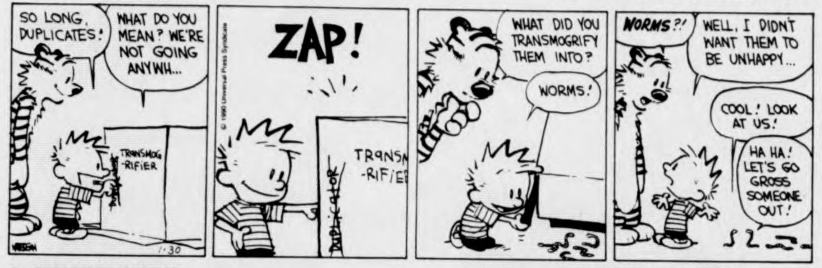
Deer Halloweens

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG



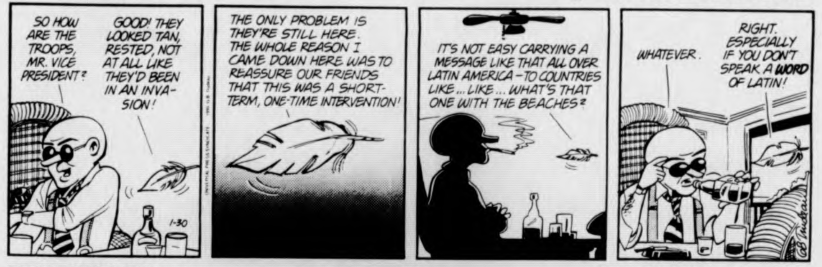
ELEVATOR IDIOT
WHAT ARE you doing? I wanted the 7th Floor!
I know, I pressed 6 plus 1, 5 plus 2 and 3 plus 4.
MR/JG 1/30/90

CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



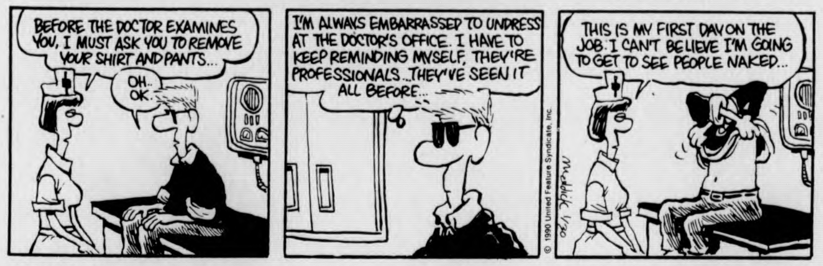
SO LONG, DUPLICATES!
WHAT DO YOU MEAN? WE'RE NOT GOING ANYWH...
TRANSMOG-RIFIER
1-30
ZAP!
TRANSM-RIFIER
DUPLICATOR
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate
WHAT DID YOU TRANSMOGRIFY THEM INTO?
WORMS!
WORMS?!
WELL, I DIDN'T WANT THEM TO BE UNHAPPY...
COOL! LOOK AT US!
HA HA! LET'S GO GROSS SOMEONE OUT!

DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



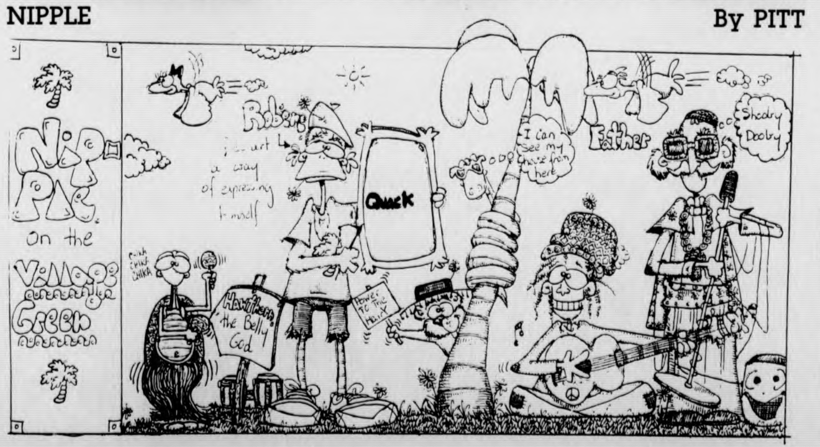
SO HOW ARE THE TROOPS, MR. VICE PRESIDENT?
GOOD! THEY LOOKED TAN, RESTED, NOT AT ALL LIKE THEY'D BEEN IN AN INVASION!
1-30
THE ONLY PROBLEM IS THEY'RE STILL HERE. THE WHOLE REASON I CAME DOWN HERE WAS TO REASSURE OUR FRIENDS THAT THIS WAS A SHORT-TERM, ONE-TIME INTERVENTION!
IT'S NOT EASY CARRYING A MESSAGE LIKE THAT ALL OVER LATIN AMERICA—TO COUNTRIES LIKE... LIKE... WHAT'S THAT ONE WITH THE BEACHES?
WHATEVER.
RIGHT. ESPECIALLY IF YOU DON'T SPEAK A WORD OF LATIN!

ROBOTMAN
By JIM MEDDICK



BEFORE THE DOCTOR EXAMINES YOU, I MUST ASK YOU TO REMOVE YOUR SHIRT AND PANTS...
OH.. OK.
I'M ALWAYS EMBARRASSED TO UNDRESS AT THE DOCTOR'S OFFICE. I HAVE TO KEEP REMINDING MYSELF, THEY'RE PROFESSIONALS...THEY'VE SEEN IT ALL BEFORE...
© 1990 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
Meddick 1/30
THIS IS MY FIRST DAY ON THE JOB: I CAN'T BELIEVE I'M GOING TO GET TO SEE PEOPLE NAKED...

NIPPLE
By PITT



Nip Pie on the Village Green
a way of expressing himself
Quack
I can see my house from here
Father
Chika Chika Chika
Hawthorn the Belly God
Power to the Hair

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

ACROSS
1 Rural sites
6 Athletic org.
10 Snow tire feature
14 Pseudonym
15 Multitude
16 Wine: Comb. form
17 It's considered offensive?
19 Wife, in law
20 Pronoun for senora
21 Mother's helper
23 Colorful ducks
25 Winter wear
26 Laves
29 — Nicholas
31 Bower
32 Change
34 TV revenue sources
37 Presently
38 Banana leaf fiber
39 Word with bill, book or boy
40 Brit. capital
41 Awkward
42 Band section
43 Organic compound
45 Vitamin A source
46 Tack
48 Debates
50 Lotion for men
53 Kiln
57 Gang follower
58 Cabaret employee
60 Connery from Edinburgh
61 Norse deity
62 Photo finish
63 Gets one's goat
64 Gold cloth
65 Excuses

DOWN
1 Kismet
2 TV alien and others
3 Laugh —
4 Race named for a Greek town
5 Type of missile: Abbr.
6 Relating to birth
7 Nursery needs
8 Chinese seaport
9 Author Rand and namesakes
10 Lenient towards
11 Abstainer
12 Not yet solved
13 Activists
18 Down with: Fr.
22 Footnote abbr.
24 Poetic always
26 False god
27 Florence's river
28 Choice meat
29 Faction
30 Collection of anecdotes
32 But, in Berlin
33 Chart
35 Pedestal part
36 Plan: Abbr.
38 One, in Paisley
39 Private
41 Appian Way, e.g.
42 Squealer
44 Fantails' locations
45 Undergrad of a sort
46 Certain singers
47 In search of 48 Precept
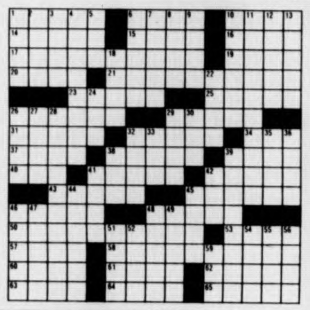
49 Sheeplike
51 Short-hop airplane: Abbr.
52 "I — dream, dear..."
54 Part of a Molière play
55 Bristle
56 Very, in Vichy
59 Elec. unit

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

P	E	R	I	■	A	W	A	R	E	■	E	L	M	O
A	V	O	N	■	S	E	V	E	R	■	N	A	I	L
L	E	T	T	■	H	A	I	F	A	■	H	I	N	D
■	R	O	E	V	E	R	S	U	S	W	A	D	E	■
■	■	■	R	A	S	■	■	T	E	E	N	■	■	■
A	G	E	N	T	■	J	O	E	■	A	C	T	E	D
R	A	N	■	■	O	U	T	■	A	R	E	O	L	A
B	U	C	K	E	D	T	H	E	S	Y	S	T	E	M
U	N	R	E	A	D	■	E	L	K	■	■	A	C	E
S	T	E	N	S	■	A	R	M	■	B	E	L	T	S
■	■	■	N	E	R	D	■	■	T	I	N	■	■	■
■	T	H	E	D	E	E	R	H	U	N	T	E	R	■
A	R	I	D	■	A	L	I	E	N	■	I	R	O	N
W	A	R	Y	■	R	I	F	L	E	■	R	I	S	E
E	Y	E	S	■	S	E	E	P	S	■	E	A	S	T

1/30/90



MENU

LUNCH	DINNER
Reuben on rye Chicken pucks	Stuffed shells, sauce Beef Bourguinon
BASIC'S LUNCH	BASIC'S DINNER
Squash bake Chicken pucks	Stuffed shells, sauce Vegie croquettes

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES(March 21-April 19): Give serious consideration to a child's suggestion. Pulling strings helps advance a pet project. Try diplomacy with a difficult subordinate. Get family finances on a better footing.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20): Self discipline is essential for success. Sit tight and ignore a relative's pie-in-the-sky proposals. New places and people will enhance your social life but deplete your finances. Romance beckons.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20): Some mind boggling information comes your way. Seek experts' advice on dealing with mounting debts. Face issues head-on. Be patient with an older person who has health problems.

CANCER(June 21-July 22): Your mind may flit from subject to subject. Buckle down to work. Fight against unfounded fears and negative thinking. A lively friend will add a touch of glamor and excitement to your evening.

LEO(July 23-Aug. 22): Garbled messages or botched travel arrangements could cause delays. Although a brief meeting will improve a turbulent relationship, you must be patient. A third party offers some excellent advice.

VIRGO(Aug. 23-Sept 22): A meeting with important community leaders benefits you financially. Keep the lid on personal spending. Other people respect you more when you defend your rights. Get some ground rules for a relationship.

LIBRA(Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Differentiate between what you really need and what you would like to have. A temporary career setback could give romance a nice boost. Avoid fads and gimmicks when shopping for clothes.

SCORPIO(Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You face several obstacles today but will be able to mount a succesful campaign. Contact influential people who enjoy pulling strings or working behind the scenes. Be honest about your objectives.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An enthusiastic attitude lets you conquer new worlds. Curb a tendency to be overly possessive of your mate or offspring. Your best relationship may be with an older member of the opposite sex.

CAPRICORN(Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A good day for dealing with inventories, tax and insurance matters. Bargains may be found where least expected. Erratic behavior could cause a loss of status. Adopt a more conservative manner.

AQUARIUS(Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You could complicate romance by thinking too far ahead. Let a relationship build slowly. Limit spending while your finances are in a state of flux. Affection helps heal an emotional mood. Be gentle.

PISCES(Feb. 19-March 20): A complete reversal of recent trends puts you on top. If you hesitate too long, a unique opportunity could disappear. You get a lucky break. A debt could be partly forgiven.

TODAY'S STAFF

Night Editor..................Lisa Shapiro
Copy Editor..................George Austin
Layout Technician..................Michael Wester
Photo Technician..................Dondi Ahearn
Production Supervisor..................Terry Starmer
Typesetter..................Peter Leon
Production......Arnold Salvati, Al Kaufman, Paul Specht, Will Georgiades, Danielle Dowling, Michael Wester

SONY • JVC • TECHNICS • AIWA • PANASONIC • SHARP • TDK • MAXELL

"STEREO ON THE CHEAP!" UNDERGOUND SOUND CAN HELP

If you are on a tight budget this semester you can still enjoy music because UUNDERGOUND SOUND can supply you with name brand quality reconditioned audio components at about half the cost of new equipment. All come with a complete 90 day parts and labor warranty. We also sell new audio components and repair all brands of audio, video, and car audio, as well as musical instrument amplifiers. Stop in and check us out.

UNDERGROUND SOUND • 103 NORTH PLEASANT STREET, AMHERST, MA • 253-9507
WE ARE LOCATED BENEATH PANDA EAST RESTAURANT

Pizza & Bowl Special

Introducing the new

"Dugout Snack Shack"

Mon. & Wed. Nights
10 P.M. – Midnight

- Unlimited Bowling
- All the pizza you can eat!

Only $5.00/Person

Don't Miss Out
Call To Reserve Your Spot!
Northampton Bowl
525 Pleasant St.
584-4830

DELANO'S

Proper Identification A Must
57 NORTH PLEASANT ST •

Welcome Back Students

Drink of the Week
Rum & Coke $1.50

Beer of the Month
Rolling Rock $1.25

FINALLY!
Delano's Game Room with POOL TABLE CHECK IT OUT!

February
Beer of the Month
BUD & MILLER LITE $1.00

BURGER KING®

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!

Try Our NEW BK BROILER and get the second one
FREE

Good at Hadley, Northampton & Easthampton Burger Kings

Not good in conjuction with any other coupon or offer.

VIDEO To GO
256-1509

2 FOR 1
Rent two movies for the price of one.
Expires: 2/15/90
Only one coupon per transaction per customer.

FOR PARKING: Turn down driveway between Aldrich Auto Supply and the big yellow house

Convenience Store Hours

Mini Store
Monday-Friday 7:30-10:00
Saturday-Sunday 8:30-10:00

Hampden Munchy
Monday-Friday 8:00-9:00
Saturday-Sunday 12:00-8:00

Worcester Munchy
Monday-Friday 8:00-9:00
Saturday-Sunday 12:00-8:00

Franklin Munchy
Monday-Friday 7:30-9:00
Saturday-Sunday 12:00-8:00

Save 20¢
COUPON
3 for $1.00

SNICKERS
Diamond 60 Anniversary

Coupon good at all Munchy Stores and Mini Store
Valid thru Feb. 4

LBGA reorganizes to try to boost efficiency

By CHRIS MUTHER
Collegian Staff

According to Ali Woolwitch, the newly appointed co-president/treasurer of the Lesbian, Gay, and Bisexual Alliance, the organization was recently restructured in an attempt to increase the efficiency to make it more accessable to students.

The new structure, Woolwitch said, consists of five new committees, in addition to the new co-presidency/treasurer position which is currently being filled by Woolwitch and Timothy L. Duffy, who were chosen last fall.

The new structure should make the LBGA a more open organization, in addition to allowing the group to accomplish more, Woolwitch said.

"Traditionally the LBGA has only been a group of nameless faces," she said.

According to Woolwitch, the LBGA will also be more active on issues of homophobia on campus. She hopes for closer ties with the Program for Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Concerns in working on those issues.

In addition to working with other lesbian, bisexual and gay groups on campus, Woolwitch said the LBGA is working toward networking with groups from other schools in the New England area.

In Febuary, representives from the LBGA will attend the North East Lesbian and Gay Student Union, which will be held at Boston University and is scheduled to include 2,000 representatives from colleges and universities in the area, she said.

Woolwitch said she is optimistic the new structure will result in an increased output from the group.

"The committees came out of other pre-existing organizations that have shown this type of system works," she said.

According to Woolwitch, the social committee will handle dances, coffee socials and other related events. The programming committee will work on Awareness Week, rallies, movies and related workshops, she said.

Other committees include the Lesbian, Bisexual Women's Union, which sponsors women's support groups and a political committee that will work with different student government groups.

She said the LBGA will also have an office manager who will keep track and organize the group's information and resources.

"Before we would say 'somebody needs to do this,' and somebody would translate into no one, now we actually have people to assign the work to," she said.

The end result of the system will be a more cohesive and accessible LBGA, she said.

Student volunteers in Israeli army, works with soldiers

By LISA SHAPIRO
Collegian Staff

During intersession when many students got a job, took a class, or went on vacation, one University of Massachusetts senior combined these three activities during her two weeks as a volunteer in the Israeli Army.

On December 26, Sharon Markowitz flew for 13 hours to Tel Aviv. After meeting their airport representative, the volunteers were taken by bus to the army bases they had been assigned to, Markowitz said.

Each day at the Hazor base, the 14 volunteers were awoken in the barracks at 6:30 a.m. and had one half hour to suit up in their army greens before breakfast, Markowitz said.

The workday began at 8 a.m. and ran until about 4 p.m., with some time off for lunch, she said. The volunteers were assigned to work with soldiers, who, both male and female, are required to enter the army for three years at age 18.

"The soldiers couldn't believe that I was about to finish my senior year of college and they still had to start," Markowitz, who is older than most of the soldiers said.

Because the supply base she was assigned to is used primarily during wartime, Markowitz said the work her group did consisted of simple jobs like rustproofing equipment and checking the condition of helmets.

"Even though we did small jobs, I feel that I contributed to the army," Markowitz said. "God forbid they would have to go to war, I know that some soldier will use a helmet that I fixed for him. I had a definite sense of helping."

In addition to being an economical way to get to Israel, volunteers pay only $500, she said she wanted to meet the people of Israel.

Previous to this trip, Markowitz said she had seen the sights and toured the country. "This time I was more interested in the Israelis. I learned more of the real culture — their opinions and the true Israeli feeling."

"Everyone from America came away from the experience with something different, but everybody walked away with a really good feeling about Israel," Markowitz said.

■ tuition increases

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

$2709, compared to $756 for in-state students per semester. Chancellor Duffey sent a letter to Dukakis on Dec. 29 urging him to veto the tuition hike.

In the letter, Duffey wrote that the immediate revenue raised from the $485 hike would not be significant, and asked the Governor to consider the long range educational and financial impact on Massachusetts.

Duffey wrote that out-of-state students "make a genuine contribution to the quality, diversity and national reputation of our campus," and are an investment in Massachusetts' economic future.

"This is no time to send the signal that the most talented young people from other parts of the country are not welcome," he said in the letter.

Since 34 percent of UMass out-of-state students are from minority groups, Duffey wrote, "a sudden mid-year increase deals a severe blow to the University's recent accomplishments in increasing the diversity of our student body."

Student Trustee Eric Nakajima said the timing of the tuition hike was 'abominable.'

The sudden notice of the hike "destabilizes the environment" for students who already applied for financial aid, he said.

Tasha Cronk, a junior in the School of Management from London, said that even with the extra $485, tuition is "still pretty low." But if she were in her first or second years in college, she would transfer to another school right now, she said.

"Before [UMass] was a good deal," she said, "but now with the budget cuts, everything is going downhill."

Don McCulloch, a junior psychology major from New York, said the budget cuts have dampened his enthusiasm for UMass.

McCulloch, who transferred to UMass last semester, said that he came with "high hopes" but "felt like leaving" once he got here.

"If [the legislature] don't want to put time and effort into the school, then why should I?" he said.

RECYCLING
YOU CAN BE PART OF THE SOLUTION

Smith College's Black Student Alliance presents

BOOGIE DOWN PRODUCTIONS
B. D. P.
In Full Effect!

When: Feb. 16, 1990
8:00 p.m.
Where: Smith College
John M. Greene Hall
How: $15 general ad. + at the door
$12 students w/5-coll. I.D.

AMHERST CINEMA

Fabulous Baker Boys

Starring
Jeff Bridges & Beau Bridges
Rated R

Fri. - Sun. 2 Shows
7 & 9:15
Mon. - Thurs.
7:30

$2.50 w/student ID

Located in downtown Amherst
30 Amity Street
253-5426

"...your newest concept of Asian Specialties is timely, unique and deliciously enticing. Bravo!"
Donald W. Tdron J.D., L.L.M.
Attorney at Law

Come see why we're the Talk of the Town!

Szes Asian Cuisine
50 Main Street, Northampton 586-5708

POSTER SALE

Most Images Only $5 and $6

Old Masters
Rock Posters
BEATLES
Travel
SKIING
Music
"JAMES DEAN"
Orientals
Scenic Landscapes
Florals
MOVIE POSTERS
Romance
DANCE
Baryshnikov
Einstein
Marilyn Monroe
Photography
SPORTS
Humor
Cars

Over 1000 Different Selections

Sponsor WMUA

Date Jan. 30, 31 Feb. 1, 2

Time 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Place S.U.B.

Featuring Works By:

WARHOL, DALI, MONET, ANSEL ADAMS, TALBOT, M.C. ESCHER, VAN GOGH, PICASSO, ROCKWELL, MATISSE, DEGAS, WYETH

BIGGEST & BEST SELECTION

THE GYM IS A COMPLETE WEIGHTLIFTING CLUB FOR MEN & WOMEN!

Featuring over 10,000 pounds of weights, exercise machines, nautilus machines, bikes, rowers, climbers and full locker and shower facilities!

We also offer tanning and coming in February—AEROBICS!

The GYM
at mountain farms mall

Rte. 9 on the Amherst/Hadley Line

EASY TO GET TO BY CAR OR BUS!
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!

Amherst/Hadley
Tel. 256-8911
Domino's Redeems Almost All Local Pizza Competitor's Coupons

HOURS
MONDAY-THURSDAY 4 PM-2 AM
FRIDAY 4 PM-3 AM
SATURDAY 11 AM-3 AM
SUNDAY 11 AM-2 AM

DRIVERS WANTED
PAYS
$60 TO $100
A SHIFT

ONLY $4.99 For a 12 inch Traditonal Cheese Pizza
Extra Toppings ONLY $1.00 each
DOMINO'S PIZZA. One coupon per pizza

ONLY $5.99 For a 12 inch Cheese Pan Pizza
Extra Toppings ONLY $1.00 each
DOMINO'S PIZZA. One coupon per pizza

ONLY $6.99 For a Large Cheese Pizza
Extra Toppings ONLY $1.50 each
DOMINO'S PIZZA. One coupon per pizza

FREE PIZZA SAVE$6.50
Buy any large pizza with 3 or more items and get a 12 inch one item Pizza FREE.
Not good with any other offer.
DOMINO'S PIZZA.

Only $11.00 You Get 2 12" One Item Original Pizzas!
DOMINO'S PIZZA. One coupon per order.

Only $12.49 You Get 2 12" One Item Pan Pizzas!
DOMINO'S PIZZA. One coupon per order.

Only $16.00 You Get 2 Large One Item Original Pizzas!
DOMINO'S PIZZA. One coupon per order.

Only $12.00 You Get 2 12" Two Item Original Pizzas!
DOMINO'S PIZZA. One coupon per order.

Only $13.99 You Get 2 12" Two Item Pan Pizzas!
DOMINO'S PIZZA. One coupon per order.

Only $18.00 You Get 2 Large Two Item Original Pizzas!
DOMINO'S PIZZA. One coupon per order.

6 PACK OF COKE 99¢ + Dep.
Buy any pizza with 2 items or more and get a 6 pack for only 99¢ plus Deposit.
Not good with any other offer.
DOMINO'S PIZZA.

The COLLEGIAN is now hiring for the following paid positions:

Circulation Director to maintain clipping files and records.

Women's Issue's Editor writing or classwork experience preffered. Involves assigning stories. Producing a bi-weekly page and channeling stories into the daily news.

Associate Women's Issues Editor

Wire Editor responsible for compiling daily reports from the Associated Press.

Associate Editor for Multicultural Affairs involve producing a bi-weekly page and channeling stories into news.

Come down to the Collegian Offices at 113 Campus Center to Appl
The Collegian is an EOE

ARTS+
LIVING
BACK TO SCHOOL

Collegian photo by Dondi Ahearn

Global class and Fine Arts collide to thrill you

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

Every semester we do this and every semester the reader sits enthralled with the information. Yes, it's time to tell you what the ever appropriately named Fine Arts Center has in store for a salivating public.

First the theatrical thrills: April 17 will see a performance of a play by the always wonderful Wallace Shawn. Called Aunt Dan and Lemon, the plot synopsis would sound boring, suffice it to say that Shawn can never go astray; he of the My Dinner with Andre wonder film.

Closer to the here and now is more theater, in the shape of Moliere's The Imaginary Invalid, a "classic send up of doctors, patients, love, and greed" according to the publicity. First performance is on March 1. Also look for Relatively Speaking on April 3 and Picture Book Wars in the first two weeks of May.

And if you think you have what it takes to make it as a serious college level thespian, auditions for Wally Shawn's bit of brilliance begin just next week, on Wednesday, Feb. 8. Also holding auditions are the two plays that take up the paragraph above this one. Relatively Speaking has their audition just tommorow night, while the other one (Picture Book Wars), written by an MFA playwriting candidate (for what?), begins auditions on Valentine's Day. All of these take place in the same room: FAC 204, and if you manage to find it, make sure to be there between 7 p.m. and 11 p.m.

On to music, the kind without three chords and some self consciously political lyrics. We speak here of the classical kind, a form of music that has been known to affect all of the senses to the *n*th degree. Sunday night brings a faculty recital with Lynn Klock on sax and Greg Hayes on piano doing the works of Ryo Noda and Elliiot Carter, among others, in the Bezanson Recital Hall at 8 p.m., free to the public.

The Department of Music and Dance has a lot of other musical, dancey goodies on offer, but as always they are too numerous to mention. Call 545-2227 for more information.

The Big Deal, as well as those already mentioned, is the Fine Arts Center World Class Season, continuing through to this semester with the Warsaw Philharmonic Orchestra performing Brahms Symphony –4, which is not funny but is very good, as is the orchestra. Performance time is Saturday, Feb. 3.

Next Tuesday, Feb. 6, Mel Torme and Helen Reddy hit the stage and the touring Broadway production of Me and My Girl will do their thing on Feb. 22.

The one sad note is that the Peking Acrobats will not be performing Feb. 27, or, it seems at all, in this country. This is due to the current political situation in China whereby the Peoples Republic has refused to grant the acrobats their exit visas. The Soviet Acrobatic Revue, however, will be performing instead, at the same time and place, and should prove to be equally spectacular.

Cheering up a little it is pleasant to note that the first day of March will welcome the Tulsa Ballet Theater performance of George Balanchine's "Mozart Violin Concerto" and "The Merry Widow," as the picture accompanying this article illustrates.

Other cheering thrills include Julian Bream proving extreme guitar virtuosity toward the end of March and sitar wild man Ravi Shankar's arrival on April 20.

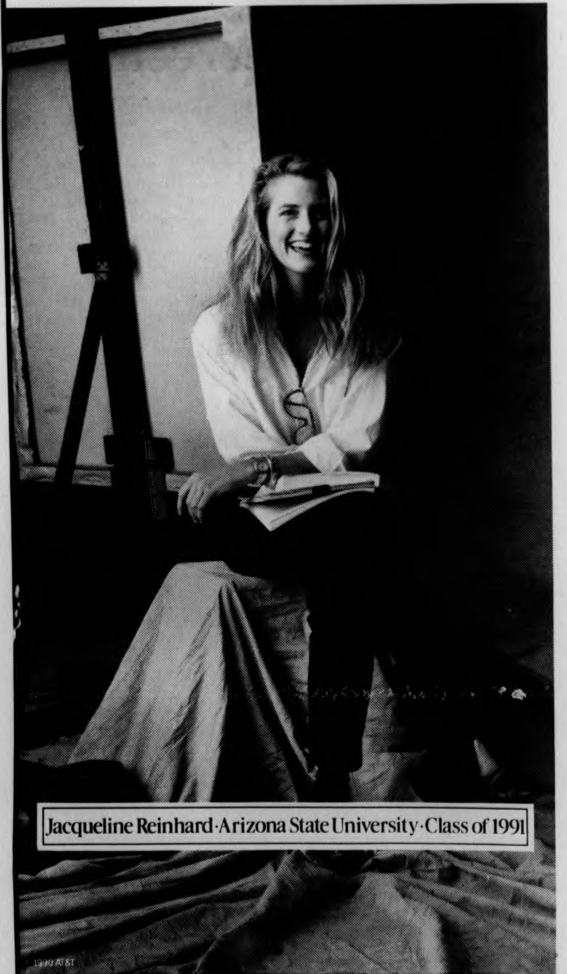
As always, if this hasn't excited you it's because this is by no means a complete listing. For complete listings you would be advised to contact the Fine Arts Center at 545-2511, or visit them (it) at their box office behind the Haigas Mall, before the pond, and next to the sculpture they call the big black atomic french fry looking thing.

Photo courtesy of Joanne Rile Artists Management

The Tulsa Ballet Theater performing "Mozart Violin Concerto"

"When I call Mom, she either wants to talk art or football. Usually football."



Jacqueline Reinhard·Arizona State University·Class of 1991

Go ahead, call her up and let her know the score.

A 10-minute coast-to-coast call, dialed direct anytime, any day with AT&T, costs less than $3.00.* And with fast connections and immediate credit for wrong numbers, how can you miss?

For more information on AT&T Long Distance Service, and products like the AT&T Card, call 1 800 525-7955, Ext. 100.

*Add applicable taxes and surcharges.

AT&T
The right choice.

Prepare for your Master's Degree
in
Counseling Psychology
Multi-perspective approach to counseling.
Fellowships and stipend opportunities available.
at
Assumption College
500 Salisbury Street, Worcester, MA 01609
For more information call
Dr. George Scarlett at 752-5615

RESUME
CONSULTATIONS & PRINTING

• SECRETARIAL SERVICES
• Resume Consultations & Printing
• Cover Letters
• Tax Preparation
• Manuscripts
• FAX Service

• TEMPORARY PERSONNEL
• Always Interviewing for full & part-time employment
• Flexible Hours
• Benefits

• BUSINESS MANAGEMENT SERVICES

DOVE
Business Associates, Inc.
79 So. Pleasant St., Amherst
256-1335 • 253-7480

A cinema scene

Local film land has enough of everything

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

If it is possible to divide the world of movies into just three categories then the casual movie goer has just about everything in the world of film at his or her local doorstep. The art house, the commercial first run and the commercial second run are the categories, and the nominees are . . .

The Academy of Music, on Main Street in Northampton, "across from the Smith College gates" is certainly among the first category. It is also the most aesthetically pleasing cinema just about anywhere, let alone the local area. It was originally an opera house (something like) a hundred years ago and tours are occasionally conducted of the glamorous dressing rooms behind the screen. Box seats, a charming consession gentleman, prints by Audrey Beardsly, Monet et. al. and a number of other small features, combined with the old world charm, makes even the worst movies a comfortable pleasure to watch. However bad movies are seldom chosen to play as the management has that rarity among movie business folk: taste. A taste for foreign, cultish, but generally good movies, regardless of their potential for financial success.

Call 584-8435 for information, movie times, etc . . .

Pleasant St. Theater is another rarity of a place in Northampton, devoted entirely to the lover of movies, as opposed to the consumer. Little things like real butter on the real popcorn, the brick walls, and of course, the choice of movies on offer make this spot an art house to reckon with. Being in the same town with the Academy of Music obviously creates comparisons, but the two are very different, Pleasant St. generally only having one week runs of movies you just won't see in any other theater. Mostly first run foreign, or otherwise independent features, one is tempted to say it is the most worthy movie house in town.

Call 586-0935 for taped movie descriptions, times, etc . . .

And Tower Theaters in South Hadley, is the latest addition to the Pleasant St. empire, including the theater and two video stores. A part of the newly created Village Commons opposite Mt. Holyoke College, the cinema offers first/second run good commercial fare in one half, and the more arty kind of movie in it's other. It also has occasional retrospectives, such as the hugely succesful 50's showing in December.

Call 533-2663 for information

Next comes the Dead Mall (officially called Mountain Farms Four Theatres). Here is an almost typical mall cinema, but for the fact that it is not in a typical mall. First run (or close to it) commercial films, along with plastic edibles, box like seats, and the staff's cute bow ties. Not terrible, not great, just stunningly normal, an everyday, mediocre place to see movies for around $5 (cheaper for college students). Seeing a movie around 5:45 p.m. to 6 p.m. costs only $3.50, and parking, or the PVTA bus service, is never a problem.

Call 584-9153 for movie times, prices and everything.

Also owned and operated by the same company is the Hampshire Six Theaters, a few hundred yards away from the Dead Mall. It is exactly the same as it's sister theater, except it's attached to a more traditional mall, and it has six commercial movies on offer instead of four; same prices and transport apply.

Call 584-7550 for information.

The main attraction of the Amherst Cinema, located at 30 Amity Street in town here, is that it's cheap, friendly, comfortable, and easy to get to for those living in Amherst. Charging no more than $2.50 a ticket (as long as you have and bring and show your own student ID, without it it's $3.50) the place has a good mix of art movies, cult flicks and assorted good second run mall movies that are the majority of it's fare. A great feature was the annual 24 hour science fiction festival the theater held every February, although the future of this film fest is unknown at the time of press. A big seating area and a pleasant bunch of local college people serving and taking tickets makes this not only the best theater in Amherst, but also the only one.

Call 253-5426 for more information.

In the same aesthetic mold, though with a more commercial type of movie, is the Calvin Theater, on King Street in Northampton. What it offers is the second run of mall movies, available at a cheaper price. $2.50 will get one into any of the regular evening movie showings, and the Wednesday night $0.99 special at 7 p.m. is one of those few specials that really is one. Some people have called the place the "dive of theaters" but this description takes the charm of the place and throws it away. It's a little divey, but it's also cheap, has a pretty good selection of commercial fare and was once a very nice, big theater. One of the great things about the place was it's midnight showings of movies like Koyaanisqatsi, but the future of this wonderful enterprise has been brought into question, unfortunately. The one major drawback of the spot is that no one is allowed to sit in the balcony part of the place, unless they are a particularly cool customer. Having never been such, I can only imagine the splendour of seeing a movie from such a grand and magnificent vista.

Call 584-2310 for information, prices et. al.

That's about all that qualifies as local to those of us without cars. However, another option remains for the movie buff. That is to see all of the rep. film in the Valley, generally held in class rooms as part of a course. Italian, French, German and Hitchcock tend to be favourites for professors, who also tend not to kick people out of their showings. Check course catalogues; most screenings are in the night or late afternoon lab. sections.

There is also a film society on most every campus, with Amherst College and Mt. Holyoke College's weekend showings (for no more than $1.00) usually having the most interesting films.

Other than that there's always nintendo, cable and video; especially at the Pleasant St. Video Store, but that's another story.

Collegian photo by John Woo

The Academy before the snow

Some surprise in spring screenings to speedily sprint to or scurry from

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

With the Academy Awards approaching, all the major movie houses have released their big, quality films, complete with hordes of advertisements. The upcoming months are generally slow in the movie world, but if you keep your eyes open, you may be able to find a few gems from among the fodder.

Mermaids — Starring two of the best actresses in the business, Cher and Winona Ryder (Heathers, Beetlejuice), and filmed in many Massachusetts locations, this is sure to please many. Even if the script turns out to be terrible, watching these two work together is worth the price of admission alone.

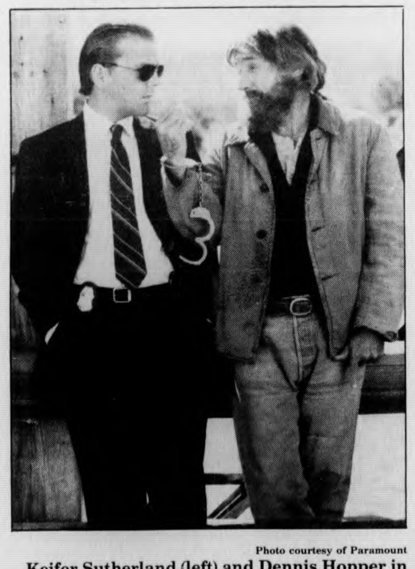

Photo courtesy of Paramount

Keifer Sutherland (left) and Dennis Hopper in Flashback

Stella — Bette Midler, the queen of camp, gets sappy again — as she did in Beaches — in this drama about a woman's struggling to give her daughter the life she never had. The Divine Miss M, who was marvelous in Down and Out in Beverly Hills and Ruthless People, should stick to camp, not this schlock. John Goodman (of Rosanne) and Marsha Mason co-star.

****

Where the Heart Is — Dabney (Buffalo Bill) Coleman, plays another obnoxious man you love to hate. There's no one better at it than Coleman. He leads an all-star cast, including Suzy Amis, Joanna Cassidy, Crispin Glover and Uma Thurman, in a movie about a father who forces his spoiled kids to live in a dilapidated tenement to teach them a lesson. When Coleman's business folds, he's forced to move in with them. If you're a fan of Coleman's hard-hearted humor, you'll love this one.

****

Flashback — After making one absolutely horrible movie about the '60s (1969), Keifer Sutherland tries to get it right this time. He was smart enough to be in a movie that also stars the sensationally strange Dennis Hopper (Blue Velvet, The River's Edge) and wonderfully weird Carol Kane (Simka Gravas of Taxi). In this action comedy, Hopper plays a '60s radical who finally gets arrested after 20 years underground. Sutherland must make sure he shows up in court. Easier said than done. Michael McKean (Lenny of Laverne and Shirley), co-stars.

****

Pretty Woman — In a tired story that's been used countless times, Richard Gere plays a wealthy businessman who falls in love with a small-town, streetwise woman played by Julia Roberts (Mystic Pizza, Steel Magnolias). This movie is guaranteed boredom, but if the advertisements exploit the beautiful Roy Orbison song that the movie gets its title from, people will go anyway. Buy an Orbison album instead.

****

I Love You to Death — Lawrence Kasden, director of The Big Chill, Body Heat, Silverado and The Accidental Tourist, directs another ensemble cast, including Kevin Kline, Meg Tilly, Keanu Reeves and William Hurt (who plays a long-haired hippie). As with most Kasden films, this sophisticated comedy aimed at the Yuppie crowd should rake in the bucks.

****

The Two Jakes — This sequel to Chinatown, directed by and starring the magnificent Jack Nicholson, was supposed to be out before Christmas, but Jack keeps making last minute changes. If this ever actually makes it to the big screen it will be nothing less than brilliant. In the meantime, rent Chinatown again.

Cruise saves 4th of July

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

Born on the Fourth of July
Mt. Farms Theaters

I owe Tom Cruise one monster of an apology. Just over one month ago I chose him as the absolute worst actor of the 1980s. But even if all he does for the rest of the '90s is star in Cocktail II-VI, he will not garner that dubious distinction again.

In Oliver Stone's Born on the Fourth of July, Tom Cruise acts his heart out in a performance that all but guarantees him his first Academy Award. In his portrayal of paralyzed Vietnam veteran Ron Kovic, Cruise does it all and is utterly convincing.

Before the war, Cruise plays Kovic as a cocky, jingoistic teen whose view of America is "love it or leave it." But characters such as this have always been Cruise's forte. It's in the scenes during and after the war that Cruise excels. His drunken tirade in front of his prudish parents in which he laments over the loss of his "manhood" is just one of the many scenes that is as convincing as it is moving.

Cruise is remarkable if only because he doesn't slip into the overdramatic under the heavy hand of Oliver Stone. Stone comes close to ruining the movie by desperately trying to evoke tears. His use of slow motion, emotion provoking close-ups and that building organ music that he seems to adore are just too much. Everyone knows Vietnam was wrong, Oliver. You don't have to hit us over the head with it.

The one time Stone hits head on is in the scene that Cruise receives his spine severing injury. As the bullet rips through his chest, the music stops and we see everything from Cruise's eyes and feel everything from inside his body. It's a spectacular, powerful scene.

The film's biggest flaw is that it tries to cover too much material. Based on Kovic's autobiography (Kovic also co-wrote the screenplay with Stone), the movie follows him from childhood, through the war and beyond. With the film clocking in at over two hours, much of the cliched childhood stuff that showed why Kovic wanted to become a Marine and "serve his country" could have been condensed. More detail should have been paid to Kovic's realization that the Vietnam conflict was wrong and his involvement in the protests. Instead, the film moves from Kovic beginning to think the war was wrong to him leading a huge protest outside — and inside — the 1972 Republican convention.

The film does gain strength from its strong supporting cast. Kyra Sedgewick is terrific as Kovic's friend

CONTINUED ON PAGE 12

Grammys offer the same old stuff

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

Does anyone care about this stuff anymore? The 6,000-member National Academy of Arts and Sciences has chosen this year's Grammy Award nominees, and the same old tired names dominate.

Consisting of mostly West Coast musicians, members of the Academy prefer to cast votes for their friends, no matter how horrible a record those friends may put out, rather than vote for the most deserving artists.

Case in point: California boy Don Henley, whose album The End of the Innocence is mediocre at best, led the field with four nominations; record of the year, song of the year, album of the year and male rock vocal.

And why is Bette Midler, whose disgustingly syrupy "Wind Beneath My Wings" was previously sung far better by Sheena Easton, up for both record and song of the year?

While we're on the subject, what's the difference between record of the year and song of the year? Four of the five nominations appear on both. "We Didn't Start the Fire," Billy Joel's trite laundry list of events from the '60s to the present, "The Living Years," a gooey ballad by Mike and the Mechanics with the oh so insightful message that we should love our father before he dies, and the songs by Henley and Midler all "earned" nominations in both categories. Rounding out the record of the year catagory is the deserving "She Drives Me Crazy" by Fine Young Cannibals. "Don't Know Much," by Garmmy darling Linda Ronstadt with Aaron Neville closes out the song of the year catagory.

In the album of the year catagory is Henley, the Cannibals for The Raw and the Cooked, Tom Petty for Full Moon Fever, the supergroup Travelling Wilburys with Travelling Wilburys Volume One and, in a pleasant surprise, Bonnie Raitt for Nick of Time. But then again, Raitt has that story of coming back after overcoming drugs and alcohol. Fellow musicians love to hear those sob stories.

All of these choices indicate that segregation is brewing in the Academy. While rap and heavy metal both justly deserve their own respective categories, they are not represented at all in album, record or song of the year. Thus, the choice for the three major categories is composed of mainstream schlock.

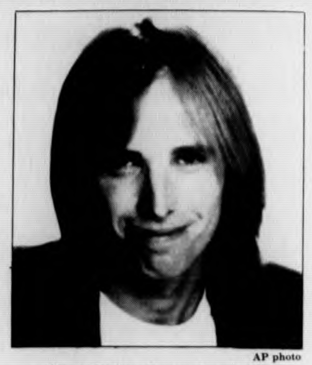
But not all is bad at the Grammys. This year's heavy metal category will not produce an embarrassing result, as last year's choice of Jethro Tull did. This year's nominees — Dokken, Queensryche, Metallica, Faith No More and Soundgarden — are all authentic metal bands.

The Academy should be lauded for including the controversial but all important Public Enemy in its rap category with "Fight the Power." But it seems the early favorite is the harmless Young MC for "Bust A Move." Tone Loc ("Funky Cold Medina"), DJ Jazzy Jeff and the Fresh Prince ("I Think I Can Beat Mike Tyson") and De La Soul ("Me Myself and I") are the other nominees. Let's just hope the Academy feels that the award is worthy of being aired this year.

New artist also offers a good variety with Tone Loc, Neneh Cherry, Indigo Girls, Milli Vanilli and Soul II Soul. the sexist Loc doesn't belong, but the rest of the field is strong.

It's also great to see Neil Young and Lou Reed included in the best male rock vocal category, although neither of them probably care.

The Grammys will be aired on Feb. 22. Expect to see some good acts, some bad ones and a lot of long winded thank-you speeches. Ho hum.



AP photo

Tom Petty: 2 nominations

Photo courtesy of Jive

DJ Jazzy Jeff and the Fresh Prince: rap nominees

Council Travel
LONDON
FRANKFURT
PARIS
SYDNEY
TOKYO
AMSTERDAM
AUCKLAND
HONG KONG
CHEAPEST FARES TO:
•EUROPE •ASIA
•AUSTRALIA/ NEW ZEALAND
Plus rail passes, International Student ID, tours & much more.
Ask for our FREE travel catalog!
79 South Pleasant St.
AMHERST
(413) 256-1261

Yesterday & Today Music
TOP CASH PAID
For LP's, Cassettes, & CD's
WE BUY COLLECTIONS
48 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, MA (413) 253-9209
Basement of D'Angelo's and Steve's Building

Myers Eatery
Now Serving LATE NIGHT
Friday & Saturday 10 p.m. - 3 a.m.
Special breakfast, lunch & dinner menu
Breakfast & Luncheon Specials served
7 days a week 7 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Homemade
Soups • Pastries • Muffins
10% off with this coupon
88 Pleasant St., Northmapton • 584-4145
Coupon Valid Monday thru Friday Only

586-6344
45 State Street
Northampton, MA
The INDIA HOUSE RESTAURANT
Where Indian Food Is Not Just Curry
• TRADITIONAL TANDORI INDIAN COOKING SEALS IN FRESH FOODS NATURAL FLAVORS
• COMPLETE VEGETARIAN MENU
• EXTENSIVE WINE LIST
• BEWITCHING BIRYANIS
• ENTICING CURRIES
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK
"INDIAN RESTAURANT WITH EXCELLENT FOOD & SERVICE." THE NEW ENGLAND MONTHLY.

PARSONS
SCHOOL OF DESIGN
Special Summer Programs
FRANCE
WEST AFRICA
ITALY
GREAT BRITAIN
JAPAN
ISRAEL
NEW YORK
International programs are offered for students, teachers and working professionals. Courses include: archaeology, architectural history, art history, ceramics, decorative arts, drawing, fashion, fiber, metal and surface design, graphic design, painting, and photography. Undergraduate and graduate credits are available to qualified students. For more information, please mail the coupon below or call:
Parsons Office of Special Programs
(212) 741-8975
Parsons School of Design, Office of Special Programs
66 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10011
Please send me a brochure on Parsons Special Summer Programs.
Name ____________
Address ____________
City ____________ State ______ Zip ______
Phone ____________
CP 40

Let it rain Let it rain Let it rain

By NICK OSTIS
Collegian Correspondent

Where The Rain Is Born
Michael Pluznick
Sona Gaia (Narada)

Michael Pluznick is a painter. Michael Pluznick is a percussionist. Come along on his maiden voyage, "Where The Rain Is Born" a collection of techno-percussive soundscape compositions honoring the splendor and fragility of an increasingly beleaguered Earth.

In collaboration with keyboard wiz Pete Scaturro, the West Coast-based Pluznick has christened his sound "World Pop," where African meets symphony and funk. On side one "Solar Safari" is a majestic orchestral odyssey, an ode to the sun's nourishing benevolence, featuring a soaring flugelhorn solo by Bill Ortiz. This segues into "Savannah Dance," a pulsating jungle romp which weds the world's oldest (drums) and newest (synthesizers) instruments in harmonious matrimony. Then the frenzied equatorial tension and peaceful resolve of "Rites of Passage" merge into "The City's Reflection," an abbreviated slap-happy conga sojourn. Next destination is "Desert Crossing" where Pluznick (on talking drum and shekere) and Ortiz (on trumpet and flugelhorn embellish Scaturro's stark keyboard strokes.

Side two opens with "Time Caravan," a layered medley of empyrean guitar and synthesizer sounds, a celestial chorus and an array of gentle and booming percussive effects. Next, we follow "Big Foot" clomping and chomping through the terrain to a pulsating, foreboding beat punctuated by his grunts and growls. "Where The Rain Is Born," the title track, is a sonic and vocal trek summoning the enchanting spirit of the rain forest. it features a joyous traditional Nigerian chant sung by Pedro de Jesus and Maria Rodriguez in homage to the life-sustaining ecosystem. Partial proceeds from each sale are being donated to the Rainforest Alliance by Narada Records.

On vacation with his family in Puerto Rico at the age of twelve, the precocious Pluznick gravitated to the poolside bandstand fascinated by the vibrant sounds of a salsa band. Back in new Jersey such diverse influences as the Jackson 5 and Santana stoked his impressionable ears. After a brief unfulfilling stint at Rhode Island School of Design, he moved to Boston to immerse himself in the rudiments of traditional African and Afro-Cuban drumming. The mechanics of the art are challenging enough; however, it was an unforeseen obstacle which temporarily stymied the student's progress. "When I got there, I found it very closed off culturally and I started my first encounters with reverse racism, which was a new concept for me: You're not part of this culture, so why should we teach you."

Eventually, the tenacious Pluznick gained access to the tight knit community, embarking on his arduous goal - to embrace the rhythmic language of the drums.

California's perennially sunny disposition welcomed him like a native son. In Santa Cruz, he performed and recorded with Village Drum and Dance Ensemble, his own troupe. In the last few years he has forged into more popular and accessible arenas, adding his colorful percussion to such diverse groups as The Tubes, The Hooters and heavy metal chartbusters Exodus, for whom he wrote a piece. Recently he contributed to five songs on Todd Rundgren's Almost Human album.

Among the possessors of his homemade drums and percussion are Mickey hart of The Grateful Dead and Airto Moreira, premiere Brazilian bandleader. While he is putting the finishing touches on his next release, he is also busy performing live and recording with Bay Area groups and drumming at dance classes.

The beat goes on and where it does, you'll find Pluznick.

Photo courtesy of Epic

Matt Johnson, shown here in a rare relaxed pose, will be pulling out all the stops when he and the rest of The The play the Student Union Ball Room, next Tuesday, Feb 6. This is the same tour the band meant to do late last year, rescheduled. This is also the first time Johnson's brain child/creation has ever toured, perhaps because of the recent addition of Johnny Marr on guitar. Tickets are still available at Tix, For the Record and Main St. Records.

BRUEGGER'S
BAGEL BAKERY
Bagels • Bagel Sandwiches
Cookies • Brownies • Baked Fresh
All Day • Custom Cream Cheese
Open 7 Days
170 N. Pleasant St. • Amherst, MA
253-5713

The only way to go.
Peter Pan
Stratton
Express Package
A great day of skiing shouldn't have to end with a long and boring drive home. This year, once again Peter Pan is offering a Ski Express package to Stratton Mountain. Pack your skis safely in our spacious luggage compartments, board our Peter Pan motorcoach, sit back, relax and ride in confidence.
Then, enjoy a full day of great skiing at Stratton. You'll explore up to 90 exciting trails, and with the new Stratton Starship XII summit gondola, you'll spend more time skiing, less time waiting.
The Peter Pan/Stratton Mountain Ski Express . . . a great package price, great skiing, and the comforts of a warm motorcoach. It's the only way to go. . . Agreed?
Package includes:
Round-trip transportation and a one day lift ticket for as little as $29.95. Advanced reservations only. For further information on pick up points, prices and schedules, contact . . .
The People Professionals
NON-STOP SERVICE FROM GREENFIELD AVAILABLE THROUGH
Clarke Sporting Goods, 289 Main Street, Greenfield, MA Call 774-[illegible]98
79 South Pleasant Street, Amherst, MA, 256-0431
UMASS Campus Center, Amherst, MA Ticket Office 545-2006
Peter Pan Bus Terminal, 1776 Main Street, Springfield, MA
Call 1-800-332-8995 Ext 270
For group rate information, contact: Peter Pan Charter Department 781-2900

Buy Factory Direct and save...
CASH & CARRY SPECIALS
PLENTY OF FREE PARKING
Sale
GNB
Futons
SAVE 10%
Come Early... Don't miss the savings comforters
pillows
25% TO 50% OFF
Solid maple
3 styles
all under
$200.00
GOOD NIGHT BEDDING
FACTORY OUTLET STORES
The Cutlery Building
320 Riverside Drive
Northampton 585-0660
Open: Mon.-Sat. 9-5
The Carriage Shops
9E Pleasant Street
Amherst 549-3507
Open: Mon. -Sat. 11-5
Sport Rockers
$79.00
FACTORY DIRECT PRICES!
Innerspring Mattress Sets 50% Off List
10 & 20 Year Waranteed
Now in Progress - Special Sale
on Selected Floor Model Packages
Great Savings while they last!
New merchandise arriving soon - we need floor space.

Local Guy Israel Gesell: The Dr. Ruth of Humor

By MICHAEL WESTER
Collegian Staff

The customers filter through the early morning fog and step into Bonducci's Cafe in Amherst. Upon entering, each unwrap themselves from their winter wear, revealing tired, puffy eyes and broad mouthed yawns. Suddenly, with burst of cold air, Israel Gesell enters the cafe. He eyes the front page headline screaming the latest in the investigation of Charles Stuart.

"This thing is like a 'Doonesbury' cartoon! Every day, there's a new character," he said, sipping his coffee and covering his dark, heavy mustache with cappucino foam.

Gesell, with his wide-awake eyes begins speaking of the path that his sense of humor has taken him - from teaching in the Special Education department of the New York City Public School system to full-time humorist. Or humor consultant. Or trainer.

"Actually, I don't even know what to call myself," said Gesell,"But I do know what I'm doing."

Gesell is using his experience as a teacher and a humorist to help people deal with problems and difficulties in their lives. He does this through two courses he teaches in the University of Massachusetts' Lifelong Learning program, and in seminars for business personnel, school administrators, families and individuals.

"I originally started the courses a year and a half ago to teach people to do stand-up comedy," said Gesell, who has been performing comedy himself in the area for five years. "But it turns out that not many people wanted to actually do it. They were more interested in learning how to use humor on a daily basis."

Humor, according to Gesell, can be used to relieve stress, help with interpersonal relationships, and build self esteem. "My theory is humor is an under-utilized resource, and that it can help people manage their lives better."

Gesell has presented his workshops to executives of nonprofit organizations in Wisconsin, human service workers in Jamaica Plain, and local Coca-Cola sales representatives, and will be teaching high school students in Fitchburg.

Humor is something that has come naturally for Gesell. "It's not something that I started thinking about," he said, as he recounted the days of his youth.

Gesell grew up in Brooklyn, New York with parents that "weren't joke tellers," but the times he felt most connected with his parents were when they laughed together.

He began his college education in 1964 at Hunter College in New York, partly as a way to avoid being drafted into sevice in Vietnam.

"I graduated in 1969. I was on the five-year plan, mainly because we all knew the war would be over by then," he said. "Of course, things turned out a little differently..."

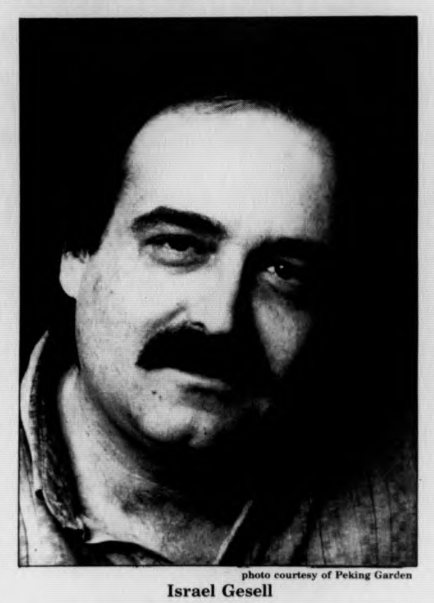

photo courtesy of Peking Garden

Israel Gesell

Gesell majored in psychology and recieved a master's degree in special education from Hunter. After graduation, he worked as a special education teacher at a public school in New York City.

Seven years ago, he left his job in New York for Northampton, mainly to pursue a romantic interest.

"I moved for love," he said. "She's gone now, though."

In his first four years in Northampton, he had several jobs. He worked as a greeting card salesman, and later purchased the Paradise Deli. He ran the deli until December 1985, when he returned home to care for his ill mother.

When he came back to Northampton, he re-entered the field of special education as the Educational Coordinator for the New Direction School, part of the Northampton Center for Children and Families. The school is a residential treatment center for up to 25 troubled children.

"Working in special ed has shown me that every person has a potential for growth," Gesell said.

Now Gesell is a full-time humorist. On January 5th, he gave up his day job at the Northampton school. "I left because I needed the time to devote to creating. I don't know exactly how I'm going to make a living out of it," Gesell admits, "but I'll do what it takes."

Gesell has been encouraged by the positive results of his Lifelong Learning courses. One student, for example, benefitted from Gesell's techniques in an area where therapy could not.

A therapist in the Northampton area who was having a hard time getting a patient to come to grips with her past reccommeded that her patient enroll in Gesell's course.

"After several years of therapy [the patient] still could not speak about her mother," Gesell said. "After she took my class, she wrote a routine about her mother.

"Humor is a way to deal with the incomprehensible," he said. "You allow yourself to laugh, not because its disrespectful, but because it relieves tension."

Without of a full-time job, Gesell plans to commit more time to the development and marketing of his courses and workshops. He still travels the comedy circuit in the Pioneer Valley, performing at Carbur's, the Iron Horse Cafe, and hosting monthly "open mic" shows at Peking Garden.

Gesell says that everyone has the potential to perform comedy. "Most people have more creativity and humor than they give themselves credit for," he said. The problem is that people are discouraged too easily.

"You don't have to tell jokes to have a sense of humor. The preconcieved notion is that if your not a joke-teller then you're not funny. Actually, there are many ways to express it."

Gesell, though, is a joke teller. On the second Wednesday of January, as he does the second Wednesday of every month, Gesell dons his shirt, tie, and red Converse high tops, and goes to work. In the windowless banquet room of Peking Garden in Hadley, where he hosts the monthly "open mic" night, he begins his routine. The small turnout on the icy, drizzling January evening does not dampen his enthusiasm.

"You know, they say kissing a smoker is like licking an ashtray. Which is a good thing to know, if you're ever alone..."

With his routine entertaining people in the nightclubs and educating them in the classroom, Gesell is happy with the way he is using his skills.

"I believe in it. It's fun. What Dr. Ruth is for sex, I'd like to be for humor."

PRAKTIKLY WORNE
2 BRIDGE STREET, NORTHAMPTON 01060
586-1913
CLASSIC CLOTHING

CONTENTS.

1. OVERCOATS - 20% OFF
2. DRESSES - 20 % OFF
3. CANAL JEANS AND HEALTHLOOM - 20% OFF
4. TWEED JACKETS $10
5. LEATHER JACKETS $5

AND MORE...

The M/W 495 was Designed to Come between You and the Road.

The road has a concrete way of making its presence felt. To soften the blows, try the New Balance 495.
The 495's midsole/wedge has exceptional cushioning. It has a counter reinforcer to prevent rear shoe breakdown and a long-wearing carbon rubber outsole.
The 495. It can turn a hard road into a soft touch.
Available in men's B, D, 2E and 4E and women's 2A, B and D widths. Made in U.S.A.

new balance® M/W495

Mathews SHOES
On the Village Green
39 So. Plea nt Street, Amherst, MA 01002 • (413) 256-6374

ATTENTION
SKI SALE WORKERS:

SKIING is MAGIC MOUNTAIN with the UMass Ski Club.
Our first Saturday trip is February 3rd.

$28 includes lift ticket, bus ride to and from mountain, and morning munchies.
This is the only trip that is FREE for ski sale workers.
LAGNAF '90

For this band, it ain't nothing but a Rent Party

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

"I'm into the liberation of people assuming any qualities they want to. Everyone desires to be physically and spiritually liberated."

Those are the words of Rockin' Dave Morrish, lead vocalist and accordian player for The Rent Party. The band will be doing more than its share of liberating in the near future. After recording their smoking new tape, the band that defies description plans to hold a tape release party at Sheehan's Cafe this Saturday. The following Saturday, they will be one of three bands at the all ages club, Club Soda. On Feb. 15, they will tear the roof of Katina's. The following night they will play a benefit for the Fund against Housing Discrimination at Pearl Street.

The band encompasses virtually every type of music in their repertoire. Drummer Brian Harrington says, "Our sound is distinctive because we each bring into it different styles of music that we like."

For Harrington, that music is rockabilly and garage rock. Rockin' Dave prefers zydeco and progressive. Bassist Richard Zafft favors reggae and R&B, while lead guitarist Mark Herschler is into folk, jazz and blues. It's this variety that keeps the band's music fresh and exciting.

On their debut cassette of ten original songs, the zydeco sound, led by Dave's accordian, is predominant. But other styles, such as the smokey blues feel of "Suicide Blues," still manage to slip themselves in. Another cut, "Jungle Jelly," actually sounds like, well, jungle jelly.

Their sound is incredibly complex for a group that does not consider itself "musicians' musicians." Rockin' Dave, who cannot read music, learned the accordion when he found his mother's old one in the basement and "just picked it up and jammed with it."

"Musicians may not like us, but we really don't give a shit," says Dave. "We just want people to dance and feel the soul."

Although the band creates their own songs collectively, Dave is the lyricist. Many of his stories are personal and fun. For instance, "Red Lion Mike," is about a man who worked at the infamous Red Lion Diner in Noho. But many of his songs have a strong, central theme.

"I can't stand preachy, moralistic, self-righteousness, and that tends to come out in my lyrics," Dave says. "I'm not into preaching. A lot of what I write is just kind of satire. I'm into making people aware of the hypocrisies in society."

The Pioneer Valley is one of Dave's favorite targets. He finds that all the people who walk around here today asking for peace end up joining major corporations and becoming part of the corrupt system tomorrow. In "Rent Party Rap" he addresses this issue. Accompanied by a strong backup rhythm, he spits out lines like "New Age bloodsuckers drove me beserk," and "I'm tired of being exploited by the hippies in the Valley." He tells the hypocrites, "I don't want your peace shit/I want your wallet."

As funk-filled as the cassette is, it is still no comparison to The Rent Party's wild live show. "Our live act is one of the more dynamic things about our band," says Harrington. "We try to capture that energy on our cassette, but you still don't get the visual fun."

That visual fun consists mostly of Dave's unpredictable antics. He enjoys wandering around the audience with his washboard. At a gig in Rhode Island, Harrington remembers that things weren't clicking with the crowd very well. "So Dave took his washboard and starting rolling on the floor with this woman, which elicited an audience response."

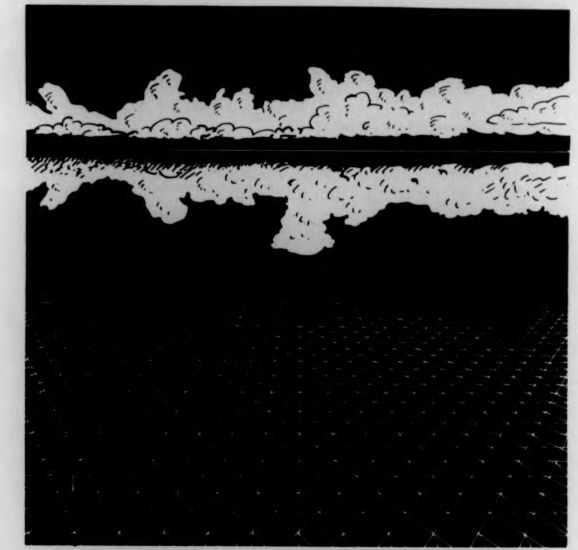
Dave admits his live antics sometimes go over the top. "I'm a little guy," he says, "but the microphone turns me into a monster."

But for Dave, who is fed up with the music industry dictating what sounds people hear, music is much more than fun. When he is onstage, for him it is a religious experience. He says of the band's live show, "It's a spiritual thing, kind of like a gospel church. It's a transcendency. We're just channels of the music and energy. It's a beautiful thing.

Photo courtesy of Paul Shoul

The Rent Party, "a party you wanna get invited to"

WHAT'S THE FUTURE HOLD?



One thing's for sure. It will be more complicated. Nowhere is that more true than in the world electronics market. At Teradyne, we're ready for whatever the future brings. Our technological edge spans several businesses, all critical to tomorrow's products.

In our Automatic Test equipment businesses, we're a leading player in virtually every market, from board test to component test. When you need to test the latest product, you talk to Teradyne first.

Our Electronic Design Automation business is bringing our technology to market in this fast growing software arena, producing state-of-the-art products used in engineering design analysis and test of complex electronic systems.

We're also the world's largest merchant producer of backplane connection systems. These systems are vital in the development of tomorrow's military and commercial electronics products.

And, Teradyne is the world's leading independent manufacturer of telephone network test systems. As voice and data merge, we'll be there to provide test solutions for the telecommunications industry.

To stay one step ahead of the future, we need talented people with new ideas, and the initiative to use them. Teradyne has facilities in some of the country's most desirable areas, and close to most of the nation's major learning centers.

To learn more about your role in Teradyne's future, visit your Placement Office.

TERADYNE
Corporate headquarters: Boston, MA
Division headquarters:
Nashua, NH • Deerfield, IL • Agoura Hills, CA • Santa Clara, CA • Walnut Creek, CA • Tokyo • United Kingdom

FREE
TRAVEL PLANNING BY PROFESSIONALS
THE AREAS ONLY "CERTIFIED TRAVEL COUNSELORS"
AIR • HOTELS • CARS • TOURS • RAIL
CHARTERS • VACATION PACKAGES
SPRING BREAK VACATIONS
CANCUN from $349 from Hartford
BAHAMAS from $579 from Boston
Call for other destinations
All subject to availability.
WE'RE WORTH THE CALL OR VISIT
OPEN MOST SATURDAYS
CALL 586-8953
YOUR PARTNERS IN TRAVEL
Maplewood Shops, Old South Street, Northampton

Photographs & Memories last a lifetime.
1 Hour Color Service Available
Come in for our daily specials
Passport Photos Available
The Foto Factory
257 Triangle Street in Amherst
549-6490

Art wins out on Pleasant St.

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

As the production of movies spirals onward into the tens of millions of dollars, and as distribution companies and the malls move in like sharks towards the "trickle down" theory of getting the largest hunk of cake they can get, the smaller voices, those that tend to side more with sincerity, become drowned in a quagmire of greed, tainting the most accessible art form created this century.

But this is no rant and rave, rather it is a slice of optimism, focusing on one of the last bastions of hope for the serious film maker and film audience: the Pleasant St. Theater, located on the same street in Northampton.

The theater grew out of the Amherst Film Cooperative, a film society that showed older films in all five colleges. Sometime in 1976 the Globe Theater closed down and got scooped up by Richard Pini and John Morrison who wanted to move their cooperative into a more commercial venture.

Pleasant St. Theater
NOW

Collegian photo by John Woo

Pleasant Street Theater

Their first year was not easy by any means, attempting to show older American movies in a cinema just as the world began to welcome the age of video. "We really struggled that first year, and very nearly went out of business," Morrison said. "What happened was some customers said that they'd like to see foreign films," he continued, and that was the beginning of the Pleasant Street Theater of today.

"We showed our first first run foreign movie in '77 and it was our first big hit. We followed that up with Mme. Rosa and we were on our road to being a foreign run and specialty house," Morrison said. "We started out to show old films, holding Bogie festivals and such, and ended up meeting the local demand, which is what we're still doing today."

Still it hasn't been easy, both owners stated that they had seen a profit in only two of the 14 years they've been in business. The attitude, eloquently put by Richard Pini, sings: "This business is not exactly going to make us millionaires, so we may as well have fun with it . . . if there was no way of expressing our personality with [the choice] of movies, then there would be no point it all."

And the word "personality" certainly does come to mind just on being in the theater, as described in the article on page 3. It is the quintessential art movie house, from the knowledgeable staff to the monthly newsletter produced free for every patron of the place.

The films that are shown fall into two distinct categories: "The art movie, shown in the larger upstairs theater, and the very unusual movie shown in the smaller downstairs hall," as explained by Pini. As an example, today is the last day that Sidewalk Stories and a restored print of Lord Olivier's greatest screen performance in The Entertainer will also be ending it's run, with two new movies coming in tomorrow.

Pleasant St. Theater also seems to be becoming something of a art house empire with it's highly popular Pleasant St. Video store, a place to go for all the movies you can't find anywhere else, but that are on video. Started up in 1986, with what seems to have been a "if you can't beat them join them" attitude, the store is a gold mine for anyone even remotely interested in film. Located next to the Theater, sections on auters as diverse as Passolini (try finding Salo anywhere else) Kubric, and Rudolph are scattered among the theater's first run video releases and some of the better (only) commercial fare, making this the most enjoyable and rewarding video store anywhere for at least a few hundred miles. The prices are high, but with the almost daily specials (a $1 off day, and a two for one day especially), and the fantastic range of selections, this is a near irrelevant quibble.

The video store also has a second location in South Hadley, but this is not doing quite as well as the first. "If we had the money to lose for another two years I'd love to keep it going, but we just can't," said Pini. At present, though, no formal plans for closure are in operation.

And, finally, the theaters' owners have also begun managing the Tower Theaters, also in South Hadley. This is a "very different operation" according to Pini. "Tower belongs to Mt. Holyoke College, but we are the managers of the place, we have complete creative control over the lobby, the showings and so on. It's a different kind of venture because it's not our money," he said.

So, while the Pleasant St. Theater shows "one art movie and one very strange movie," Tower shows one art movie and one commercial movie. Today, that means that Drugstore Cowboy and War of the Roses are on play.

So, where does it all lead to? Both owners seem optimistic, but also realistic. "Times change and you try to adapt to them," Pini said. "We're just trying to survive in this business, showing films that you like."

Morission added, "We don't do it for the money, but for the love of movies."

As long as there are people who feel as strongly for the art of the medium, instead of the financial glory, as with Pini and Morrison, Pleasnt St. Theater should continue to grow.

Movies to die for and wake up in heaven to

The following are ten films on John Morrison's 1990's Personal Best List, under the heading, 10 I'd take to a desert island. 41 movies are mentioned after this, but these are the first ten, listed in no particular order.

Only Angels Have Wings (1939, Howard Hawks)
The Searchers (1956, John Ford)
History Is Made at Night (1937, Frank Borzage)
Black Narcissus (1947, Powell and Pressburger)
Bringing up Baby (1939, Howard Hawks)
Gentlemen Prefer Blondes (1953, Howard Hawks)
Grand Illusion (1937, Jean Renoir)
The Seven Samurai (1954, Akira Kurosawa)
Children of Paradise (1943-45, Marcel Carne) - not on video
The Makioka Sisters (1983, Kon Ichikawa).

spectrum magazine
is now accepting SUBMISSIONS
in Art, Poetry,
Prose & Photo
for the 1990 edition.
SPECTRUM Magazine is the Arts and Literary magazine at UMASS.
Submissions may be mailed to:
Box 125, Student Activities Office,
Student Union, UMASS
or brought in person to the SPECTRUM Office,
406E. Student Union.
Please include your name and phone number
Submision Date Feb. 16
DON'T BE SHY

Books to buy in place of texts

Salinger, Beckett and Tommy Pynchon; Guess who doesn't belong on that line?

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

Vineland
Thomas Pynchon
Little, Brown and Company

Like several million others, I've long felt that J.D. Salinger was writing directly to me. It was then with a great deal of interest that I came across a passionately held theory that Sallinger and Pynchon are one and the same. The person who put forth this theory rattled off a number of facts about both elusive authors, conclusively proving his point. For several months I felt privy to such information, until I read "Vineland," Pynchon's first novel in 17 years.

Gravity's Rainbow was more than impressive, it was near overwhelming. "A screaming comes across the sky" is the most affecting opening sentence of any post war American novel. That was then, however, and living in the past doesn't get anyone anywhere. It is with Vineland that Pynchon proves once and for all that even the thought of comparison with Sallinger is ridiculous. J.D. would never come up with something so overblown. He would have said what it takes Pyncyhon 385 pages and 17 years to say in a short story.

The characters of this opus are aging hippies. This is the first cause for alarm. The second is that the plot resembles nothing so much as soap opera, albeit with some healthy doses of acid induced flashbacks. The analogy seems even closer to the truth when one sees that a great deal of the book is drawn from the culture (?) of television, a medium with which Pynchon is apparently greatly enamoured.

It is, it must be said, an entertaining read, much as a Brady Bunch reunion is an entertaining watch. Long, winding and occasionally overblown, there is a suitably profound climax to things and some clever touches, especially with the authors' ability at creating names and exposing reality by a subtle exageration of it. But after all the hype, especially in academic circles, about the genius of the man, after all the mystery surrounding his life, one has a right to expect something a little more original. Excepting a rerelease in 1984 of short stories (Slow Learner), this is all 17 years have produced for the literary annals. And what it reminds one of most is a Martin Amis book without the nastiness, without that edge. Perhaps this is because the book is set in California: perhaps it's because nothing is really being said.

And what is Pynchon saying? The usual thing about some great terrible, powerful body, creating paranoia in the otherwise perfectly healthy bunch of TV addicted outer space clowns that inhabit this book (rarely getting, or deserving, any sympathy, unless, like, you can relate). Something about the nessesity for accesibility is also, as expected, on show. The author makes it very clear that he has no time for elitism. This is all well and fine, Pynchon is a study in political correctness, but he makes his point in an entirely inaccesible way. Your patience will only be rewarded if you're looking for an overwritten book for the beach. Like the worst novel of last year, Oldest Living Confederate Widow Tells All, the size of this book is the most impressive thing about it.

An abiguous review sure, but only because having been stongly affected by the near genius on show in Gravity's Rainbow, this is a major dissapointment. If you love Pynchon enough, you will find something in this, just by loooking hard enough. If you're only kind of interested, or know nothing of his work, stick to J.D. Sallinger or Pynchon's first three novels.

"This dust will not settle in our time. And when it does some great roaring machine will come and whirl it all sky high again." From Samuel Becketts' All that Fall, 1957.

While it is sad to note that Beckett, the greatest playwrite of the century, died three days before Christmas in Paris, it brings to mind not only that quote, but also a comparison.

With a couple of sentences a true master blows a whole book apart. Beckett's vision is far stronger than the overblown importance of yet another writer who's a legend in his own publicist's mind. Artistic integrity should not end after one, two or three succesful works; this is what Beckett always held dear, and Pynchon, apparently, forgot.

Half Dark from King; half good, half bad

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

The Dark Half
Stephen King
Viking

Stephen King once said that he tries to scare people. If he can't do that, he tries to shock them. If that fails, he goes for the "gross-out."

In The Dark Half King goes for the gross-out. This is his most graphic and gory book to date. Never has more skin "flapped" from razor slices. Never has more blood spurted and pus oozed. If (when?) The Dark Half becomes a movie, the budget for fake bodily fluids alone will be in the millions.

The problem with the book is the man who made us believe in vampires, aliens, cemeteries that bring things back to life and cars with bad attitudes has this time presented to us a totally unbelievable premise.

King enjoys incorporating his real life situations into his work. Therefore, the man who published five books under the name Richard Bachman must have revelled in writing a novel about a pseudonym that comes to life.

The story begins when author Thad Beaumont holds a mock funeral for his pen name, George Stark after it was found out that they were one and the same. Stark then kills the people responsible for finding out his true identity and faces Beaumont for a final confrontation.

For the first 250 pages or so, King tries frantically to make us believe that such a thing can happen. He tosses in a superstition about sparrows and a story of Thad's fetal twin. But these are flimsy at best.

It seems that the ever prolific King is finally running out of ideas. Two of his last three novels (Misery is the other one) deal with novelists. When writers start writing about their profession, it's usually because they have nothing else to write about.

But as far as pure writing goes, this is vintage King. The typical horror in the face of fear is there, as are all the ironies, vivid descriptions and sarcasm that make King the master of modern horror. As with his finest novels, you will not be able to put this book down once you reach the gripping last 100 pages. Unfortunately the ending, which includes billions of sparrows, fails to live up to expectations.

The best thing to do for this book is to just accept the fact that the pen name is real and sit back and enjoy.

Twilight: a good read any time of day

By ALISE HARFIELD
Collegian Staff

Twilight
Elie Wiesel
Summit

Hamlet paranoid? Faust schizophrenic? If I could, I would ask Lear to write a play on Shakespeare. . . I've always believed that a great novelist is able to see the entanglements of the human soul better than any psychiatrist.

Not only can Elie Wiesel see human entanglements, he creates fictional ones in a conscious effort to eventually solve his own in his newest novel Twilight.

Although its jacket claims fiction, Twilight forces its reader to discern between reality and dream, sanity and madness, past and present. Laced with mystical visions, ethnic stories, Talmudic tales and dreams, the novel and its companion-antagonist travel time: from 1944 in Rovidok, the destruction of Jerusalem, postwar Paris to the Mountain Clinic, situated in upstate New York.

Central figure Raphael is searching for Pedro, his mentor who led him from Holocaust destruction and his whole family in Rovidok sometime ago. Raphael's search has stifled him into an asylum where he keeps company with Cain, Abraham, Joseph and Messiah.

You may imagine why these are locked up. Here are men encrusted within the pages of the Bible, convinced they are the originals. Unlike his first novel Night, Wiesel inserts irony into this effort: "The son of a Cleveland industrialist, [Cain] has become fixed on the idea that he once had a brother he murdered."

An inquisitive, likable character, Raphael's fervent questioning of his own sanity evokes enough pity and curiousity to thwart any notion of putting this book down to rest.

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Elie Wiesel

In its most poignant passages, the novel attempts answers to the most painful, yet pressing questions of the war.

Twilight may be the desperate search of Raphael, who may or may not find the mysterious Pedro, but it is also the search of Wiesel to find God's reasoning for the destruction of a people.

Since writing Night, his autobiographical account of surviving Auschwitz, the Nobel Peace Prize recipient seems to have reached some rationalization with God — here cleverly personified via Raphael's encounter with a patient who believes he is the Almighty: "I could have prevented the killer from being born, his accomplice from growing up, mankind from going astray. . . Can you tell me at what precise moment I should have intervened to keep the children from being thrown into the flames? At the very last moment? Why not before? But when is 'before?'"

Twilight leaves no stone uncovered. As Raphael grapples with death, an unnamed "madman" tells him, "You, the living, are so funny. First you deny it, then you use cosmetics on it. Anything, but not death, that's your motto. . . Life inspires envy, jealousy, greed. Death erases them."

Through this inspirational search for an old friend, Twilight offers at least an aesthetic, thought-provoking piece of literature. For many, it may offer bases of answers to even greater questions.

Ishiguro's Floating World examines Japanese society

By NICK OSTIS
Collegian Correspondent

An Artist of the Floating World
Kazuo Ishiguro
Knopf

Crafted in a simple, elegant prose, An Artist of the Floating World is the fictional, first-person reminiscence of a venerable, proud but humble, retired painter, Masuji Ono, who, almost 30 years before, risks his comfortable career as an artist portraying "pleasure district" ("floating world") women to become part of the fomenting nationalist uprising seeking to lift Japan to the status of world power.

As his awareness expands, Ono begins to paint politically controversial subjects — among them, dichotomous canvases of dissolute politicians and chivalrous youth of the imperialist movement raising the flag of the rising sun.

He tells his surprised Sensei (teacher), "It is my belief that in such troubled times as these, artists must learn to value something more tangible than those pleasurable things that disappear with the morning light. It is not necessary artists always occupy a decadent and enclosed world."

This novel navigates the delicate web of Japanese society, where allegiance to tradition keeps people cowering to the established order. It is 1948. Ironically, six years before Mr. Ono has lost his only son to the war he had helped to promote, while his eldest daughter has married fortuitously and born him a lively grandson upon whom he dotes. His recalcitrant younger daughter causes him concern, and the traditional arrangement of her miai (betrothal) is explored at great length. To those of us in the United States who can't imagine having to marry someone we've never met, this description is becomes both fascinating and horrifying.

As Mr. Ono observes the development of his children and the spawning of yet another generation in a rapidly changing Japan, he recalls vividly — with happiness and some regret — his days as an apprentice, his colleagues and their personalities and their colorful nights drinking and debating in the floating world.

The novel weaves back and forth from the present (postwar Japan from October 1948 to June 1950) to Ono's early manhood (the 1920s and 1930s). He acknowledges his errors (principally the support of a devastating war), but speaking for himself and contemporary explains, "We have the satisfaction of knowing that whatever we did, we did at the time in the best of faith. Of course, we took some bold steps and often did things with much singlemindedness, but this is surely preferable to never putting one's conviction to the test, for lack of will or courage."

A small 206 pages, An Artist of The Floating World provides an in depth, up close story of the intricacies of Japanese society in one of its most turbulent eras. Above all, it's a humane and universal tale of redemption, full of heady philosophical dialogue with a most sympathetic and wise hero.

The London-based author, Kazuo Ishiguro, is only 35, but writes with the seasoned maturity of someone twice his age. Since its original publication in 1986, An Artist of The Floating World, has been translated into 14 languages.

Spiffing spots for zero bucks

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

The beginning of every semester tides in the special monster in your hands, the "Back to School Issue." And in every Back to School Issue (our optimistic view of) you the ever enthralled reader, is barraged with a veritable ton of filler fodder, free publicity and facts of places and things you already know or care little about.

And the ever traditional Arts Desk has no intentions of drawing this time honored slice of collegiate journalism to a close.

And yes that was a particularly wordy way of introducing the following — what is essentially a compendium of what was once the out of the way interesting places, now over trodden by boys and girls of every ilk, but still retaining a certain charm. To my limited, post Xmas mentality, there are but a bakers dozen of these spots, but this is in no way indicative of the highly original top ten idea adopted by this desk to sum up the past decade. Really.

1)Quabbin Reservoir, a huge man made lake that covers three towns from the past, including Enfield, the tops of the houses are viewable from a number of places, especially the visitors tower. Also good for eagle watching. Down Rt. 9, on the Belchertown border.

2)The Old Bookshop, located beneath the Fresh Pasta Company on Masonic St. in Northampton, this is the best local spot to pick up the rare and the wonderful, at ridiculously cheap prices, even for a second hand store.

3)Pratt Museum of Natural History, Amherst College. Otherwise known as the Dinosaur Museum it is an excellent glimpse of the one mammal that still out does our own version in terms of class, strength and sheer charm. Free, but with limited hours.

4)Japanese Garden, Smith College. A fine view of the pond and joggers, the spot is as Japanese as a Big Mac, but still a lovely place to think about thinking. Another wonder on that campus is the Greenhouse, especially in the winter.

5)Fillin' Station, Whately diner. 24 hours, cheap, and you can stay all night. Honorable mentions also go to Miss Florence's Diner in Florence and the Red Lion in Northampton, though it should be stressed that these are not in the same league.

6)Summit House, top of Mt. Skinner. Apparently this has a "great view and is a great place to picnic," according to local drumming sensation Brian Harrington of the Rent Party.

7)Look Park, up Rt. 9 past Florence. For the train (that travels around a mini zoo), the green, and the pancakes. More of a summertime place, but the woods are always charmingly secluded.

8)Ye Olde Watering Hole Beer Can Museum, Ye Olde Watering Hole, Pleasant St. Northampton. (As featured on PM Magazine.) This is a place that offers all the charm and aesthetic pleasure of a Northeastern good ole boy bar. The beer can museum part of things is a little obscured, but after a while things do become clearer. The pool table is also one of the finest in the area. A lovely spot to get celebratory or miserable, and the museum is legitimate. Wednesday nights also holds a constantly good open mike, started up by Mark Herschler of the Journeymen.

9)Historic Deerfield, a museum of a town, literally. Full of guns if you like that sort of thing, as well as a renovated school house, and other renovated physical memories from the past.

10)Browsing Room, first door on your right in Smith College Library. Keep in mind that reliable sources have confirmed the warnings Smith freshmen receive about the dreaded "Townies." The difference between a townie and a UMasshole are slender and contain subtleties unknown by the average Smith student. So while this is a popular stomping ground for both sexes to play the mating ritual with whatever they want to play with, intelligent, whispered dialogue won't cut it. Poetry readings are also an attraction here, as is the choice of lit. and the couches. Nature will, however, take it's course.

11)Pulaski Park, Northampton Main Street. Bonducci's has closed it's Northampton social center. All the black clad whiners who complain about all the black clad whiners in Bondo's must now find something else to complain about. Free copies of the Village Voice, and occasionally pleasant company must now be sought elsewhere. Try the park, the cafe in Florence, Jakes, or wait.

12)Dinosaur Footprints, on the way to Holyoke. They're real, and slightly incredible.

13)Collegian, basement of the campus center, across from WMUA. While only occasionally fun, this is due to a slight lack of staff. What seems to be a little known fact is that the Collegian is here for the UMass community, and absolutely no skills are needed to write for it. News, opinions, arts, books; everyone could do with some help. Make it fun.

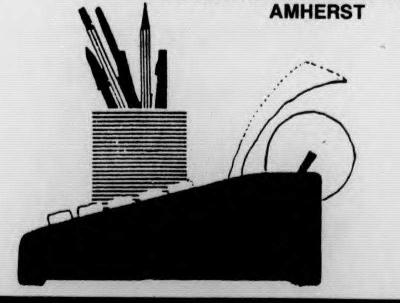
With that done I can think of many, many others, special mentions going to the coffee counter in Woolworth's, on Northampton's Main Street, as the best public place to read, according to a number of sources. Also more than worthy of a mention is Hampshire College (for the woodlands), Mt. Holyoke College (for the lakes), and our own campus for the ducks. Playgrounds are another fine spot, but, at the time of press no one could quite remember a location. And that, for reasons of some semblace of a conclusion, must be that. Should you think, find or know of any better spots, please don't hesitate to inform the Arts Desk.

Anyway, this was not a guide to the best places to get stoned in the local area, and no importance should be levied by the numbers.

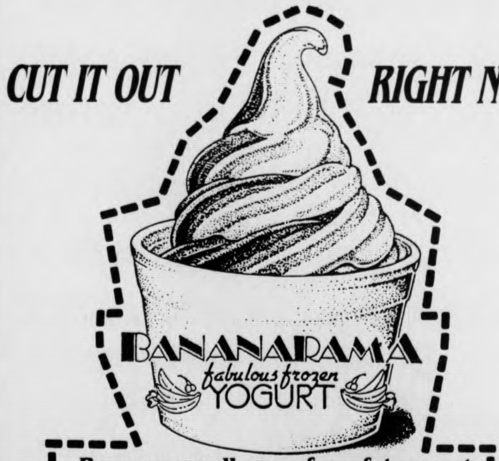
Collegian Photo by John Woo

The Woolworth's coffee counter; not many of these are left

THE GLOBE BOOKSHOP
fine new, used & children's books
European, art & literary periodicals
publishers overstocks at 30%-80% off
special orders • out-of-print book searches
Open 7 days • Mon-Sat 9-9; Sun 10-5 • 38 Pleasant St., Northampton, MA 584-0374 • 586-5838



NEWSDEALER & STATIONER
OFFICE SUPPLIES
STATIONERY
GREETING CARDS
UNIVERSITY SUPPLIES
A. J. Hastings
INC.
253-2840
45 SOUTH PLEASANT STREET,
AMHERST



Looking to cut out some fat and cholesterol in your diet?
CUT IT OUT RIGHT NOW!
Buy one small cup of nonfat yogurt & get one FREE
Expires 2/13/90
Amherst
Boltwood Walk
Northampton
Main Street

Buggin' out in the big city

By WILLIAM J. GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff
and REBECCAH KEATING
Collegian Correspondent

> "Hobbies of an incest survivor: self mutilation and rocking and moaning; distinguishing features: denial, ugly hair cut and baggy clothes."
>
> — from Bug City

"The word 'incest' makes people's skin crawl, but the word bug doesn't make you want to vomit," says Leah Ryan co-creator of a comic book called Bug City, a very direct and funny series of comics and vignettes that, she says, "makes fun of every sort of addiction; every form of therapy," and is inspired in part by the "Life In Hell" Comics.

The humble beginnings of this venture began when "I started doing little jokey things . . . ended up with a stack of them, showed them to friends 6 months later, and started talking to Leah about it. We'd sit on the kitchen table and do comics and laugh about it." Thus Moira Gentry describes the beginnings of the comic book she was the other force in creating.

To laugh about something as taboo as incest is inconceivable to many people. This is the main point of the comic book, that people can laugh at what is more than just a painful topic in any medium. The title, Bug City, alludes to incest and recovery from that. The word "incest" sounds a lot like insect, hence "bug," and an easier breathing way of talking about such an uncomfortable topic.

"We make fun of everyone and everything," says Ryan, "no particular group should take offense . . . it's up to people whether or not they choose to be offended, but we are mostly making fun of ourselves."

"After it got printed we thought people would be really offended, but they see it's a really loving kind of joke," says Gentry.

And in fact people as far away as Kansas, Georgia and Missouri have written to thank the two for putting the "loving joke" together — a far stretch from a publication that began by "making rubber stamps of the bugs and people out of little art gum erasers," and "borrowing $50 to get the thing printed," according to Gentry.

Ryan adds, "I never thought it would get such a reaction. Saving the bug world was not on my list of priorities. I was just trying to get through the day."

However, the venture ended up helping others besides just Ryan and Gentry, and having the work available to anyone who wants it is "very important" to Ryan who says, "If it's not available, then someone's fucking up. We made them for ourselves and then for our friends. Anyone else who wants it is welcome to it, on a sliding scale."

Gentry concurs about the importance, with the example, "There was a woman, she was new in recovery and she never smiled, and I brought a bunch [of comics] in and she laughed for the first time."

"It's cool," she continued to say about the unsolicited response, "this shit can really kill you, it's terrible stuff and it made us happy in a way to be able to help people."

Ryan says simply, "I suppose it has had positive effects on people across the country."

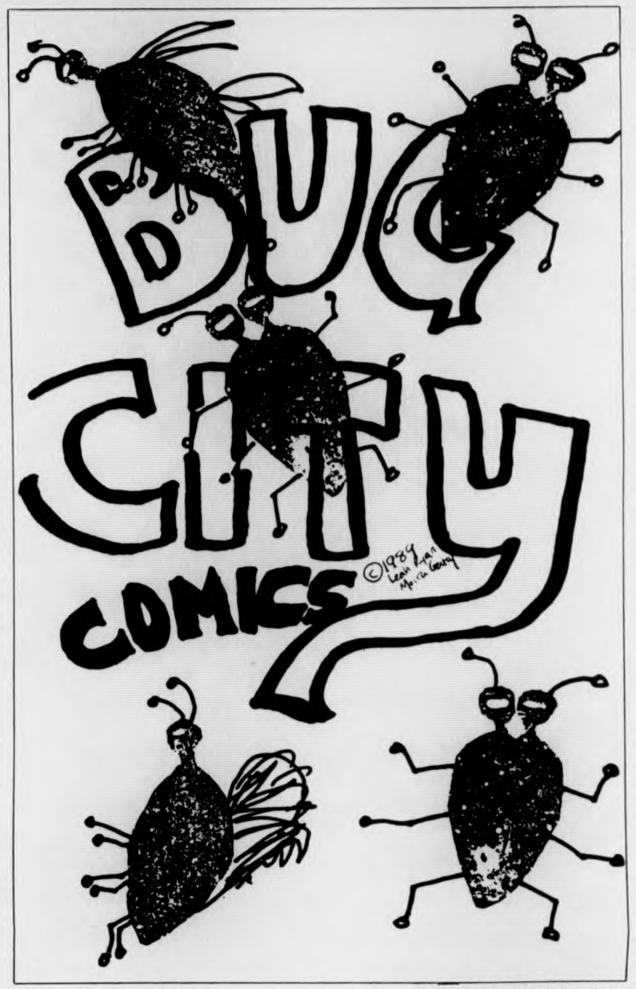
"I want to get to a point where I wake up in the morning not feeling like a bug 24 hours per day," says Ryan. "I think it's good to take it out of the closet and look at it and laugh at it."

"It doesn't deserve the power it has to run lives," Ryan says, adding that "nobody ever talked about this kind of thing, like when we were kids, and I hear about this supposed "incest band wagon," and I'm sure there are people who think the whole comic book thing is offensive, but talking about it is the only way to change it for the next generation. Otherwise we are all going to perpetuate it. We have to look at this and laugh at it, so that we can make it tolerable to talk about it.

Adds Gentry, "It's a totally new concept that you can laugh about it. That's why I'm in recovery, so that I can be free and happy and not alone and freaked out all the time."

Though Gentry is currently studying in New York and Ryan is "not so depressed so I'm not as motivated as I was," both students (and fiction writers, and comic book creators, among other things) do plan to follow up with a second issue of the comic.

The first issue is available through Art Reps in Northampton, at 585-5134, priced, as said, on "a sliding scale."



Courtesy of Leah Ryan and Moira Gentry

The cover of Bug City

Absolutely The Best Clearance Sale We've Ever Had — Shoes & Boots 30%, 40% or 50% off.
Slip-ons, Toss-offs, Shoes That Make A Statement, Bad Boy Boots, Lazy Loafers & Shoes For Shopping Shoes. We've Got The Biggest & Very Best Shoe Sale Ever! On Every Kind Of Shoe & Boot Imaginable! Come On In And Check Out Our Bargain Basement Prices For Top-shelf Merchandise. SALE ON NOW
STRUT
SHOES FOR WOMEN
197 MAIN ST NORTHAMPTON

UMass Arts Council
GRANT PROPOSAL
DEADLINE
The next deadline for submission of grant proposals for arts-related projects and events:
Wednesday, February 5
Guidelines and application forms are available at the Arts Council office and the Student Activities Office
Umass Arts Council
125 Herter Hall, 545-0202

PLANT DISEASES
IN A
HUNGRY
WORLD
GEN. ED.
BIOLOGICAL SCIENCE
[illegible]

UNIVERSITY OF Miami
A GLOBAL UNIVERSITY
Our Study Abroad Programs Come Highly Recommended
"University in Australia is much more a whole life experience than in the U.S. . . . I was involved all week designing experiments and collecting data with field trips on the weekends. The whole atmosphere — classrooms and dorms — encourages communication and interaction."
— Bob Sluka
James Cook University, 1988
"For me, having studied on University of Miami's L'Aquila program was an experience unlike any other. The Italian people, their language, their culture — all of it just went straight to my heart, leaving me with the greatest experience of my life." — Suzanne Amster
Universita degli studi L'Aquila, 1988
STUDY ABROAD WITH UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI PROGRAMS:
- spend an academic year, semester or summer
- $2,000 and $4,000 grants available for semester and year programs
- full University of Miami credit granted
- options include: university courses, independent study and internships
For more information about the University of Miami's overseas programs contact:
Office of International Programs
University of Miami
P.O. Box 248203
Coral Gables, FL 33124
(305) 284-3434
OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS
JAPAN • ITALY • ISRAEL • SCOTLAND • GERMANY
ARGENTINA • AUSTRALIA • ENGLAND • FRANCE • SPAIN

Pool halls, roller rinks, pizza and a wishing well; the mall has it all

By BENJAMIN MITCHELL
Collegian Correspondent

K-Mart is great. Anyone who has ever been there will tell you, it's fantastic. Everything that you ever needed is sitting right there for half of what you might spend everywhere else. Well . . . maybe not that great, but I could spend hours just playing with the cap guns.

On arrival in the Hampshire County, Pioneer Valley area, my (almost) first thought was how to get to a K-Mart. Whether it's changing the oil or finding a Halloween costume or just wasting a few hours engulfed in mindless bargain hunting, K-Mart is the place for me.

Upon arriving at my good old familiar K-Mart, I was somewhat shocked to realize that it had an entire mall stuck to the side of it. At first I shied away from the glamour and intrigue of this metropolis of financial interaction, preferring the "Dead" Mountain Farms Mall.

The Dead Mall is an "enviromentally stable" enchanted forest. This is not a bad place at all. If you need to hustle up some cash in the pool hall, burn away unwanted calories in the "gym," or just casually throw coins into the wishing well (complete with an antique looking water wheel and one or two fish), this is the place. Grab a pizza or a beer at Papa Gino's and smack some zombies back to hell in the video arcade, always with the confidence that you are part of a small handful of people who know a good spot when they see it.

But soon I realized there had to be more excitement waiting for me on the other side of Maple St. where my beloved K-Mart makes it's home. My first reaction came immediately upon seeing the 6 to 4 movie ratio over the Dead Mall and a great many more people slinking around and checking each other out.

When confronted by a potentially embarrassing show of my own naivite I generally gravitate towards pizza and beer for stability. I found myself sitting at the bar of Figaro's Pizza and Restaurant. These people know how to make a Calzone. A Bud Draft is about a buck fifty, and you're right in the hub of all the comings and goings. Middle aged women pretending they're teeny boppers, teeny boppers pretending they're bikers and security guards pretending they don't love this job. From the bar there's a great view of the International Plaza.

The International Plaza is really fun. They got rid of Dunkin' Donuts and Orange Julius and put in an executive Taco Bell; not even Subway's $1.69 Cold Cut Combo can compare to fast food's salute to the great American Southwest. Arby's has one absolute "must check out" on it's menu, the curly fries. The most wholesome of all these fun edibles is the illustrious Attila's. These guys make their own pocket bread, and fill it with stuff that makes you feel healthy and strong and ready for video games.

And does Hampshire Mall have a dazzling array of video games, pinball machines, and even one of those things where you can win a whole mess of quarters with a little luck. There's also tons of those fun ski ball games and a couple of "Whack A Moles" if you need to take your frustrations out on something.

Right upstairs we find Interskate 91 where everyone can see you strut your stuff. Interskate 91 is a source of intense glee and festivity.

Besides food and fun, the mall is a haven for today's discriminating shopper. All of the best bargains can be found at the unbelievable Railroad Salvage Store. This is the place to go if you want to buy a swing set or an above ground swimming pool. A fall sweater costs a buck five. There is so much stuff you need at least three hours to see it all.

It is these wonderful shopping marvels and the climatised environment that make the Hampshire Mall one of my favorite places in the Valley area. Don't be insecure about the tough teenagers in tight jeans: just dress like a punk and act like you have something important to do and you will find the answer.

Write for Arts

The Collegian Arts department needs writers. If you have an interest in music, books, dance, art, movies, or anything else, or if you have any new ideas or just want to brush up on your writing skills, come on down to the Collegian office, rm. 113 in the Campus Center basement. Ask for Al or Will. We'll make sure you see your name in print.

■ Born on the 4th of July

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

and love interest who shows him the downside of the war. William Dafoe is flawless as a bitter paralyzed vet Kovic meets in Mexico. And Edie Brickell, sans the New Bohemians, is a joy to watch in her cameo as a folk singer doing Bob Dylan's "A Hard Rain's Gonna Fall."

Born on the Fourth of July is not the brilliant film everyone is making it out to be. Although it does a fine job of depicting many of the mental and physical handicaps — and the anguish that goes with them — that many returning vets had to face, it is still far too over-dramatic. Director Hal Ashby handled the same situations better in the first sympathetic film about Vietnam veterans, Coming Home.

Fourth of July also suffers from poor editing, and the character of Ron Kovic is too perfect to be believed. But with the film based on his autobiography, and with him co-writing the screenplay, it is understandable how this could happen.

By far the best thing about Born on the Fourth of July is Tom Cruise, and he alone is worth seeing this movie.

COLLEGIAN
night graphics
Just a bunch of FLAKES
Try Some

6¢
Self-Serve Copies

253-2543
220 N. Pleasant

kinko's
the copy center

Dance Stuff '90

Gymnastic, Exercise
and Dance Apparel
for Fun and Fitness

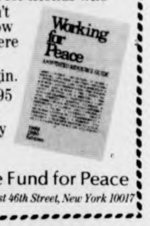
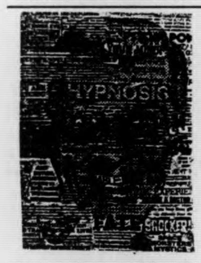
Gymkin, JKLM, Marika
Freed, Bloch's, Leo's

220 No. Pleasant St. (rear)
Amherst 253-5201



Working for Peace Our resource guide brings together a wide range of approaches into one easy-to-use book covering peace organizations, arms control, personal diplomacy, peace studies, how to work through your church, school, business or local government, and lots more. For your reference and for friends who don't know where to begin. $5.95 per copy

The Fund for Peace
345 East 46th Street, New York 10017



Philosophy?
Louvain!

Thinking about a solid training in philosphy? Leuven offers graduate and undergraduate programs in English. Write for more information, or ask your department- chairperson...

Katholieke
Universiteit
Leuven
Institute of Philosophy
Kardinaal Mercierplein 2
B-3000 Leuven
Belgium

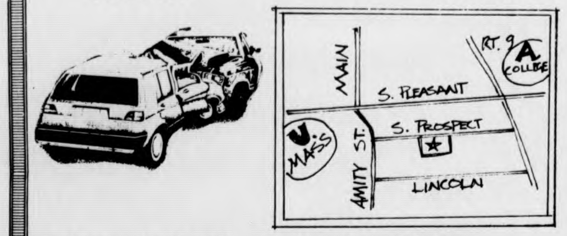
Nancy Jane's

Nancy Jane's
Restaurant & Bakery

36 Main Street
Amherst, MA
"Across from Town Hall"

SOUPS • SALADS • SANDWICHES
IN-HOUSE BAKERY
Dinner Specials
Mon., Wed., Fri. 4:30-6:30
BREAKFAST ALL DAY SUNDAY!
Open: M-F 6-6:30 p.m.
Sat 7-5
Sun 7-2

Moderate Prices—Relaxed Atmosphere—Homestyle Cooking



STEINBECK COLLISION REPAIR & AUTOBODY

53 So. Prospect — Amherst Center
256-8157 256-1385

- Imports & other unibody vehicles are our specialty
- State of art equipment for precision frame and unibody straightening (+ or - ½ mm)
- Over 90 years staff experience
- Accepted by all insurance companies for collision repair or glass replacement
- Advanced European Technology Painting and Refinishing Systems

REMEMBER it's your car and your choice of repair facilities

Send New Kids to another neighborhood

By MARIA SACCHETTI
Collegian Staff

Like locusts, once they enter an area, New Kids On The Block are everywhere.

The latest teenage craze comprises a five-person vocal group, better known as the Alliteration Team: Donnie, Danny, Jordan, Joe and the oh-so-cute Jon.

The Back Bay natives are adored by masses of teenage girls who swoon and faint and buy all of the New Kids paraphernalia they can get their hands on. Which, of course, is exactly the point.

Currently, the carefully-packaged, but sickeningly talentless vocal group from the Back Bay is riding high, spinning their "sensitive guys of the '90s" and anti-drug themes via MTV and the glitzy teen-age magazines.

They have three top 10 hits from their album, Hangin' Tough, but the songs are not their own. They are video icons, raking in cold cash for singing meaningless songs, including: "Have a funky, funky Christmas," and "You Got It," (The Right Stuff) — Tarzan lingo apparently signifying mutual admiration.

For $2.25 a pop, one can obtain colorful, "chillin'" pin-ups of the sneakered five, looking soulful and redefining the word "fashion."

Some wrongly contend that exposure the New Kids furor is a matter of choice.

Frankly, they are unavoidable. On a jaunt into an area drugstore to peruse a magazine stand, one may discover their mugs on the covers of all of the teen magazines available: Bop, SuperTeen, Tiger Beat and TV and Movie Screen to name a few.

And the outrage does not stop there. In April, the man who would be president, Gov. Michael S. Dukakis declared a New Kids honorary "day." Buttons, pins, and fast-flying albums are rapidly being consumed by an adoring and obviously gullible public.

Some facts: New Kids is a paradox. The group may consist of teenagers but the idea is not new. The Wizard in this fantastic Oz is producer Maurice Starr. Starr masterminded the now-defunct group, New Edition, and launched lead singer Bobby Brown's successful career.

But because the United States is allegedly the home of the free, opinions are safe and New Kids thrive.

Such was this critic's attitude until some intolerable lunatic with an inflated sense of their own importance went public with an extremely frightening suggestion: New Kids is as good as the Beatles.

Highly incorrect.

The Beatles wrote their own songs, and although "She loves you, yeah, yeah, yeah," is not exactly literary genius, the group wrote and produced, with their own instruments, songs including "In My Life," "The Long and Winding Road," "A Day in the Life," and scores of others.

To add twist to a carefully-crafted and skillfully flung phrase used by U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen in a vice-presidential debate with Dan Qualye: frankly Kids, you're no Fab Four.

Teen magazines have propelled New Kids to the top, offering secret statistics, which, incidentally, reveal a more personal side of the introspective group.

Jordan, excuse me, Jordan Nathaniel Marcel Knight's nickname is "J.," favors "hip street clothes." His message as printed in Tiger Beat's January issue: "Keep faith in New Kids and we will always be there for you!" How comforting.

And the propaganda does not end there. Whoever put Danny Woods' press statement together obviously attempted to cast him as being multi-faceted but succeeded in describing a schizophrenic; his qualities were listed as stubborn, easygoing, and determined.

Jonathan Raleigh Knight is "caring, sensitive and hardworking," and urges fans to "love yourself and others so that we can make the world a better place." How original. Perhaps he overheard it at a Miss America pageant.

Joseph Mulrey McIntyre, a self-professed wise-guy carries the group's message: "Stay off the streets so you can stay away from drugs and crime. Stay in school." Nancy Reagan and Tipper Gore would be proud.

Baseball enthusiast Donald Wahlberg loves any food "made by Mom!" and reflects: "New Kids on the Block came together by destiny."

It is not destiny but a lot of cash, instant fame, good looks and an appealing and shared mediocrity that brought New Kids together and hurled them to the top.

Talent and opportunity must be encouraged but New Kids are not fit to tout serious anti-drug slogans on their playful and carefree marketing techniques.

The package is pretty, but it is not credible.

Photo courtesy of Warner Brothers

Morgan Freeman, who has been called "the greatest American actor" by respected film critic Pauline Kael, got his first major breakthrough playing Easy Reader on Electric Company.

Since then, Freeman has appeared in numerous plays and movies, and was nominated for an Academy Award for his work in Street Smart.

He is currently starring in two highly acclaimed films, Glory (left), in which he plays a gravedigger turned sergeant major during the Civil War, and Driving Miss Daisy (originally a stage play by Alfred Uhry), a warm, subtle, wonderful movie in which he plays a driver named Hoke Colburn who befriends his boss, Daisy, played by Jessica Tandy.

Freeman won the Obie award for his portrayal of Hoke while on Broadway.

Photo courtesy of Tri-Star

EXOTIC FISH & PET WORLD
49 Russell St., Rt. 9
Hadley - At the Village Barn Shops
586-3362

FRESH WATER FISH
Hundreds of Types
In Stock

MARINE FISH
The Areas Largest Selection

A FULL SELECTION OF QUALITY DRY GOODS & SUPPLIES
FOR YOUR PET ...
AT EXCELLENT PRICES!

REPTILES
A Separate Room
Full - Don't Miss
Seeing Our Own
14' Python!

SMALL ANIMALS & BIRDS
From Parakeets to
The Unusual -
Some Already Tame!

OPEN SAT, SUN, MON: 10-6
TUES-FRI: 10-9

REVEREND RANT
Generic
LN90
LOW NOISE SIDE
SLACK
45 MIN. THIS SIDE
JR. "BOB" DOBBS
Made in China
® SUBGENIUS

NOW OPEN
IN AMHERST

WHALEN STATIONERS
40 MAIN STREET
(across from Town Hall)
256-3120

College Supplies
Large selection of writing instruments
Computer paper and ribbons
Dayrunner organizers
Resume and thesis papers, binders
Office products

"Serving the Five College Area
since 1958"

Hillel gears up for Jewish Arts Festival

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

The people at Hillel have been keeping busy, and they have a lot to show for it. Feb. 1 kicks off the 14th Annual Jewish Arts Festival at UMass. This year, the month-long event encompasses humor, dance, theater, film, art, music and discussion.

It all begins on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium with humorist Moshe Waldocks. Known as a "stand-up comedian and sit-down philosopher," Waldoks is the co-editor of the highly successful The Big Book of Jewish Humor and the soon to be released The Big Book of Humor. He received his Ph.D. in European Jewish Intellectual History at Brandeis and is currently President of the Corporation for Jewish Broadcasting. The tireless Waldocks tours North America as a humorist and lecturer of Jewish culture.

Actor/dancer Dr. Razi Amitai will speak on Israeli contemporary culture on Tuesday, Feb. 13. The Israeli born Amitai recently completed his doctorate in theater. He has performed on stage and in movies, and was recently appointed by the World Zionist Organization to be the community shaliach of Atlanta, GA.

The Israeli film, Fictitious Marriage, directed by Haim Bovzagio, will be shown on Thursday, Feb. 15. The social satire follows a teacher from Jerusalem who pretends to go to the United States but sneaks back to Israel where he is mistaken for an Arab construction worker.

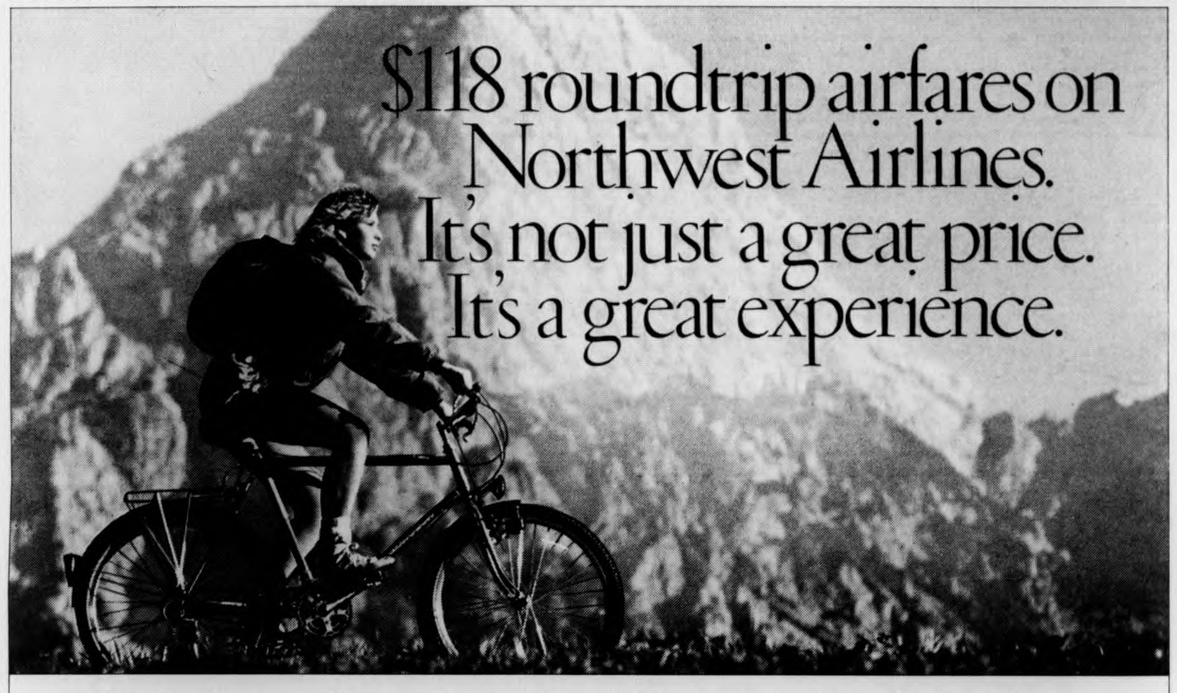
UMass graduate student Joel Saxe will present his video documentary, Scenes From Miami Beach, on Wednesday, Feb. 21. A work in progress, the video focuses on a group of elderly Eastern European-born Jewish immigrants on the southern tip of Miami Beach. On Saturday, Feb. 24, the group Zamrim will perform traditional and contemporary Jewish and Israeli songs. UMass student Gary Kabler formed the band through an ad in the first issue of the Hillel calendar. "It just kind of clicked," he said. The eight-member singing group will soon leave for New York to record the theme song and perform in concert for the PBS show Reflections on Judaism.

Five-College Hillel scholar-in-residence Aviva Doran, a poet and writer, will speak on Tuesday, Feb. 27. Doron is director of the Center for Teaching the Culture and Heritage of the Spanish Jews at Levinsky College in Tel Aviv, Israel. She has written numerous books of prose and poetry and has received an abundance of awards.

The festival closes on Thursday, March 8 with storyteller Diane Wolkstein. In honor of International Women's Week and the Jewish Festival, Purim, Wolkstein will present 'The Story of Esther." The world renowned Wolkstein has written 12 award-winning books and recorded 12 audio cassettes.

Photo courtesy of Hillel

Moshe Waldocks



$118 roundtrip airfares on Northwest Airlines.
It's not just a great price.
It's a great experience.

Only for student American Express® Cardmembers.

Apply for the American Express® Card. Then get ready to take off. In search of adventure, action–or just simply to escape.

American Express and Northwest Airlines have arranged these extraordinary travel privileges on Northwest–exclusively for student Cardmembers:

■ CERTIFICATES VALID FOR THE PURCHASE OF TWO $118 ROUNDTRIP TICKETS—to many of the more than 180 cities in the 48 contiguous United States served by Northwest. Each certificate is good for a six-month period, and they will arrive within six weeks after you receive the Card. Current Cardmembers will automatically receive their $118 certificates by March 15, 1990 provided they are still full time students.*

■ 10% OFF ANY NORTHWEST FLIGHT—with your own personalized discount card, valid through January 1991 on all Northwest and Northwest Airlink flights. (This discount is not applicable to the $118 student certificates and other certificates, promotional or special status airfares.)

■ 2,500 BONUS MILES TOWARDS FREE TRAVEL—when you enroll in Northwest's WorldPerks® Free Travel Program.

AND NOW BECOMING A CARDMEMBER IS AS EASY AS A TELEPHONE CALL.

Just pick up the phone, call 1-800-942-AMEX, and talk to us. We'll take your application and begin to process it immediately. (If you have your banking information handy, like your account number and bank address, it will help speed the process.)

Keep in mind that our Automatic Acceptance Program makes it easier for you to become a Cardmember now, as a student, than it will ever be again.

And remember that as a Cardmember you'll enjoy all the exceptional benefits and personal service you would expect from American Express.

So don't miss out on a world of great experiences. Pick up the phone. Apply for the Card. And start packing!

Membership Has Its Privileges®

APPLY TODAY
1-800-942-AMEX

TRAVEL RELATED SERVICES
An American Express company

NORTHWEST AIRLINES

*If you are already a student American Express Cardmember and have a question about this program, please send your written question, a copy of your student ID and class schedule to: American Express, P.O. Box 35029, Attn: Student Marketing, Greensboro, NC 27425. Fare is for roundtrip travel on Northwest Airlines. Tickets must be purchased within 24 hours after making reservations. Fares are nonrefundable and no itinerary changes may be made after purchase. Seats at this fare are limited and may not be available when you call. Travel must originate by certificate expiration date and be completed within 60 days of that date. Travel may not be available between cities to which Northwest does not have published routings. City fuel surcharges not included in fare from Boston ($2.50), Chicago ($5.00), Denver ($2.00) and Florida cities ($2.00). Certain blackout dates and other restrictions may apply. For complete offer details, call 1-800-942-AMEX. ©1990 American Express Travel Related Services Company, Inc.

THE AMERICAN EXPRESS® CARD. FOR STUDENTS MORE THAN EVER.

Shawn Colvin: Steady as she goes

Photo courtesy of Columbia

Shawn Colvin delivers a mature debut album

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

Steady On Shawn Colvin
Columbia
****

The title is indicative of her story. Shawn Colvin taught herself guitar at age 10. While still in her teens she began playing in Illinois bars. After a stint in Texas, she settled in Greenwich Village. She began writing songs and caught the attention of a Fast Folk Musical Magazine Revue member named Suzanne Vega.

She kept writing and performing. Her northeast following grew. She sang backup on Vega's hit single 'Luka," and toured with her throughout Europe.

She was finally signed by Columbia records and her debut effort, Steady On rings of the maturity of a woman who has been making albums for years, while simultaneously bubbling with a freshness of a new artist just discovering the recording studio.

Like Vega, Colvin's lyrics are sometimes mystical, sometimes beautiful, sometimes tough. Her haunting melodies compliment the stories wonderfully, and her southern tinged vocals tie it all together perfectly.

The title cut opens the album and immediately sets its tone. Colvin presents herself as a strong but sensitive woman that will let nothing stand in her way. Her lyrics are intelligent. She describes relationship and its subsequent deterioration in only three lines. "'Cause he seemed like a miracle/I ate it up like cereal/But it was something like shrapnel."

Suzanne Vega adds her gentle background harmonies to the beautiful "Diamond in the Rough." Colvin told Rolling Stone magazine, "I really wanted Suzanne on the record because I'm grateful to her for a lot."

"Another Long One," another song about loneliness is most suggestive of Colvin's Texan background. With it's rave-up, country-rock feel, the song would fit right in in a good townie bar. It brings a pleasant variety to the album.

It is this variety that is lacking on side two of the album. The songs are not quite as infectious as on side one, and "The Story" sounds a bit too much like Dylan's "The Times They Are A Changin'," but all of the songs, especially the closing "The Dead of the Night," are warm and wonderful.

Albums are rated on a one to five star system, with five stars the best.

Classic RCA CD

By JUKEBOX JOHN HAYMAN
Collegian Correspondent

Rock 'n' Roll Party Vol. 1 — The Early '50s
Rock 'n' Roll Party Vol. 2 — The Late '50s
RCA
*****

The CD has given American music companies the opportunity to dig into their vaults and package up rare and historic cuts instead of leaving it up to the Europeans. A few domestic labels have taken the opportunity, including RCA. That's right, RCA, the label that released every Elvis Presley cut at least 10 times, has finally done right with Rock 'n' Roll Party, Vols. 1 and 2.

RCA, on its subsidiary label, Bluebird, recorded some blues and jazz aimed at the Black record buying public in the '40s and '50s. The company also recorded pop, country, polka and sold appliances. R&B was small potatoes to them and more aggressive independent labels like King and Savoy scored the hits. RCA didn't care much then but they are starting to make up for it now.

These releases have all the ingredients to make collectors and fans of R&B happy. First off are the informative and entertaining liner notes. These are written by Billy Vera, a literate and knowledgeable collector and a blue-eyed soul singer of Billy and the Beaters. He also includes session notes. Jazz fans will find familiar names such as Oscar Pettiford and Taft Jordan, and rock fans will notice Mickey Baker all over the place on guitar (as well as being featured on Vol. 2 in Mickey and Sylvia).

Another important element for a good release in the sound. No amount of digital remastering can make up for material that was poorly recorded for preserved in the first place. RCA was one of the biggest record companies and could afford the best musicians and studios. Consequently, the original material sounded top notch to begin with and these CDs are crisp, clear and full.

Finally, these collections are full of gems. There are no real hits here but that doesn't mean that the music isn't worth having entombed in plastic. R&B collectors will want to have Count Basie's version of "Open the Door, Richard," and Milt Trenier's version of the Gene Phillips hit, "Rock Bottom." Rock 'n' roll completists will want the cuts by Frankie Valli's pre-Four Seasons doo-wop group, The Four Lovers and the pre-Coasters group, the Robins. And anybody who digs plain old good music will have to own "We're Gonna Rock this Joint" by the Jackson Brothers and "She's So Respectable" by the Isley Brothers.

Support this move by a major label to put out historical music in a superb package at a budget CD price or else they'll go back to endlessly recycling Elvis. Please.

These discs, and others (both vinyl and compact) can be heard on "Jump 'n' Jive," hosted by Jukebox John, every Friday afternoon from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. on WMUA, 91.1 FM.

New World Theater kicks off new year; Robeson!, first of four productions

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

New World Theater, who last semester in celebrating their tenth anniversary brought some of the brought some of the finest productions to UMass, has geared up for an equally exciting spring semester by sponsoring no less than four quality theater works.

In celebration of Black History Month, Theater Works will be presenting Robeson!, written by Gayle Stahlhuth, on Feb. 14. The play documents the life of activist Paul Robeson. Aside from his great work against oppression, Robeson was also a great athlete, actor and singer. His performance in Shakspeare's Othello was masterful, and the song "Ol' Man River," from the musical Showboat, was written especially for him. He performed the song on Broadway. Don Oliver will portray this legendary figure that we don't know enough about.

On March 10, Culture Clash will present The Mission. Written by Richard Montoya, Herbert Siguenza and Ricardo Salinas, the play is a comedic satire about three Hispanic actors in California, and the trial, tribulations and stereotypes they must overcome to gain acceptance and find work. This is portrayed through a unique "Indian-rap-peyote" dream sequence, during which three men living in an early California Mission time travel to a present day mission district in San Francisco, where they meet three Latino comics. The play also examines the exploitation of the Costonoam Indians.

Photo by Diblo

Culture Clash

New World Theater, in collaboration with the Fine Arts Center, and with support from the New England Foundation for the Arts, will produce the April 1 show of Coyote Bill's North America. The music/theater/dance production consists of a Native American storyteller recounting tales of the folklore character, Coyote Bill. It will be presented by the Perserverence Theater of Juneau, Alaska.

The theater ends its season on April 7 with I'm On a Mission from Buddah, by Lane Nishikawa. Presented by the Asian-American Theater Company of San Francisco, the play is a sequel to their highly successful Life in the Fast Lane which they also performed here. The fast-paced play gives a panoramic view of Asian America in the 1980s.

All shows will be held in Bowker Auditorium at 8 p.m. Tickets are $3 for students and senior citizens and $5 for the general public. Tickets for Coyote Builds North America are $18 and $16 for the general public and half price for Five College students.

New Ministry album; a thoughtful, delicious thing to taste

By PAUL DeGEORGES
Collegian Correspondent

The Mind Is a Terrible Thing to Taste
Ministry
Sire
****

No group in the '80s was able to produce music as truly evil as the world's premiere industrial band, Ministry. From their start in the early '80s, Ministry (Alain "Alien" Jourgensen and Paul Barker) pioneered a new sound of angst-ridden techno-hardcore, spawning the birth of commercial industrial music. Now, four albums later, the depraved duo have released their finest work and have dropped yet another standard setting bomb on any pretenders to the oligarchy of industrial music.

The Mind Is a Terrible Thing to Taste — pun intended — is utterly heinous in the most fiendishly appealing sense of the word. Again produced by Hypo Luxa and Hermes Pan, this is Ministry's most refined and consistent album to date. Unlike their last release, The Land of Rape and Honey, which produced the sinister single "Stigmata," The Mind has more of a focus on the whole rather than the single. No one song on the new album is as memorable as Rape and Honey's "Golden Dawn," but overall, The Mind is a far more listenable album.

That's not to say Ministry is any less esoteric or violent. Frenzied chants of "Kill, kill, kill!" accompanied by the sound of a dentist's drill digging into the listener's very skull make hearing "Thieves" on headphones an experience definitely not for the faint of heart. Jourgensen and Barker have not lost a bit of their usual balefulness with tracks like "Breathe" and "Burning Inside," but they do try some interesting new tricks.

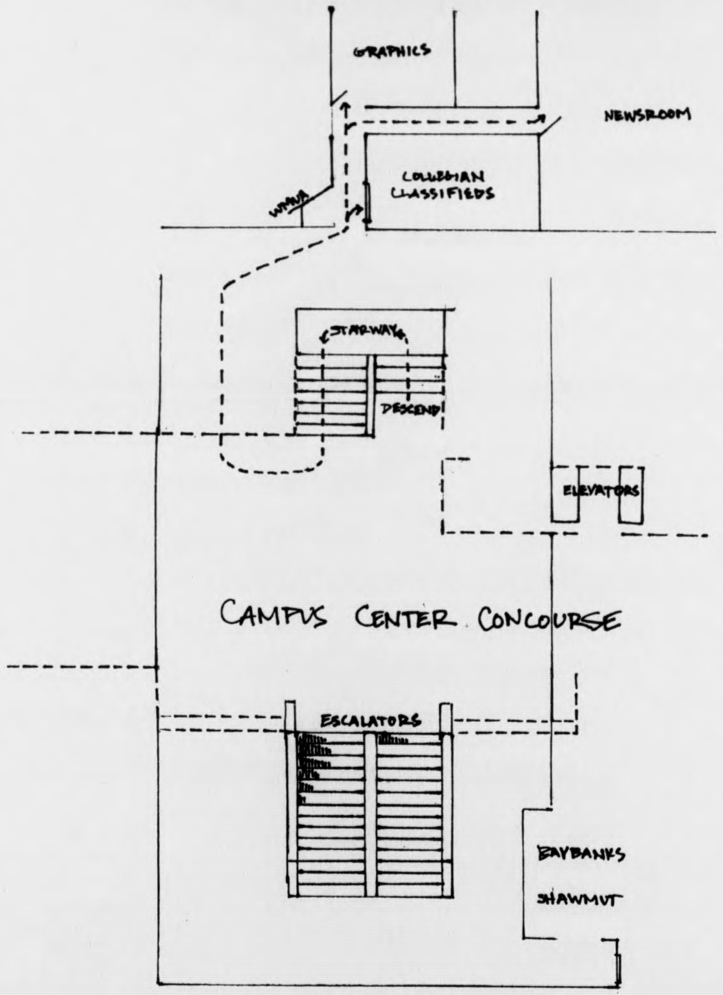
As if to avoid getting stuck in a rut, they cleverly experiment with different genres, from the droning of a warped house beat on "So What" to what sounds like an early Public Image Ltd. track on "Cannibal Song." Perhaps the most daring and successful attempt to try something new is "Test," a frantic neo-rap song done with K. Lite that makes Public Enemy sound like Debbie Gibson.

"Never Believe," complete with banging anvils, draws on the sound of Ministry's 1986 Twitch, and "Faith Collapsing" samples from the film 1984. "Dream Song," the final track, provides a departure from the relentless attack preceding it. An ethereal meditation that could pass as one of those self-hypnosis tapes on how to give yourself a lobotomy. "Dream Song," and in fact the whole album, come across as a sort of twisted nightmare that will appeal to the slightly evil amongst us and just disturb the rest. Not even a nap for the wicked.

The Mind Is a Terrible Thing to Taste is truly sublime. Ministry has created what will surely stand as the ultimate industrial album — that is, until they record again.

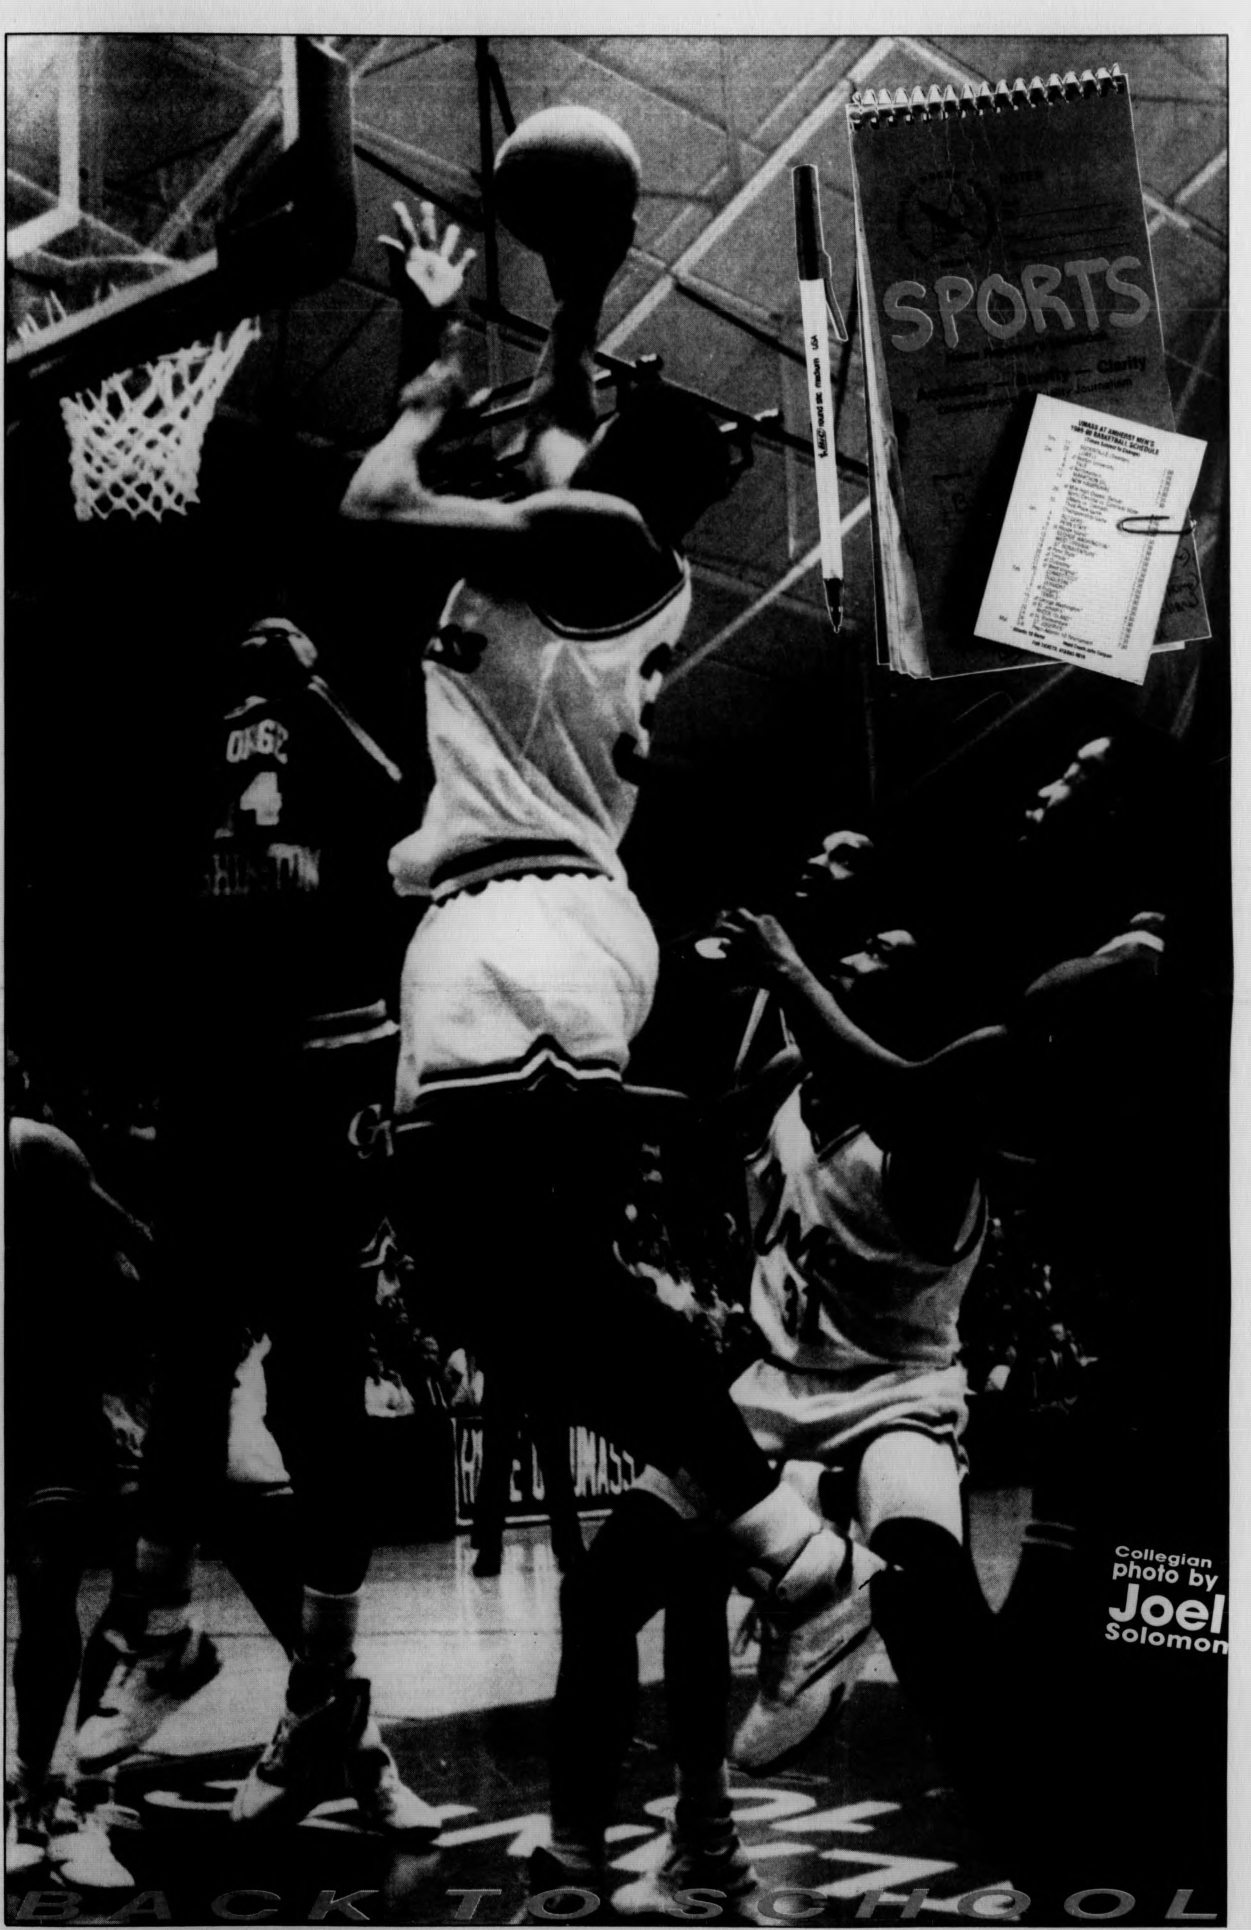
Albums are rated on a one to five star system, with five stars the best.

We know how to reach you... Do you know how to find us?



GRAPHICS
NEWSROOM
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
WMUA
STAIRWAY
DESCEND
ELEVATORS
CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE
ESCALATORS
BAYBANKS
SHAWMUT

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, MA 01003 545-3500



SPORTS
UMASS AT AMHERST MEN'S 1989-90 BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

BACK TO SCHOOL

Slide continues for women's hoop team

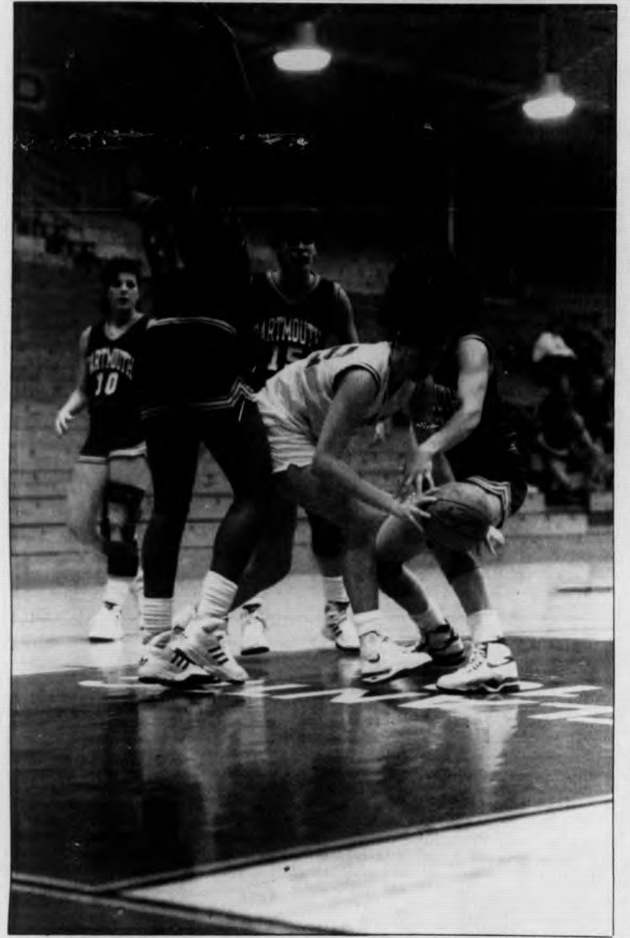

Photo by Jeff Holland

Kim Kristofik and the Minutewomen continued to struggle during intersession, and were just 3-11 last week.

Minutewomen struggling with 3-11 record

By JOHN STEVEN MARPLE
Collegian Staff

For many, the semester break after the holidays is a time of relaxation.

However, for University of Massachusetts women's basketball coach Kathy Hewelt, the break has been a time of frustration.

The Minutewomen were 1-4 before intersession, and now almost six weeks later, the team has gone belly-up with a 3-11 (1-5 in the Atlantic 10 Conference) record.

During its 2-7 winter session record there were a few bright spots, just not nearly enough. Here is a capsule look at the nine games:

Dec. 23 — UMass at Holy Cross: The Cross runs away with an 88-67 victory. Helen Freeman notches 23 points and Keyburn McCusker goes 7-for-7 from the field. Sue Serafini hits for 10 points (including two three-pointers) and grabs nine rebounds. Trish Riley sees her first action of the year and hands out seven assists in 23 minutes.

Down only eight at the half (50-42), 29-percent second-half shooting does in the Minutewomen.

Dec. 30 — Central Connecticut at UMass: UMass, behind Freeman's 21 points, gets its second win of the year, beating the Blue Devils, 76-60. Balanced scoring did the trick in this game, as four players scored in double figures.

Freeman, McCusker (15 points), Michele Pytko (14) and Lisa Hair (11) totaled 61 of the Minutewomen's 76 points.

The Minutewomen shot 52 percent from the floor while holding Central Connecticut to a paltry 33.3 percent.

Jan. 4 — UMass at George Washington: Happy New Year, Minutewomen. Welcome to Blowout City. GW dominates this date, winning by an 80-48 margin. The Colonial Women placed four scorers in double figures and everyone who played scored. In addition, they were 6-for-11 from three-point land and made just eight turnovers.

For UMass, Riley scores 10 points, but contributes nine of the team's atrocious 31 turnovers. The Minutewomen (2-6, 0-2) can't get out of D.C. fast enough.

Jan. 6 — UMass at Rutgers: Playing before the largest crowd of the season (1,359), UMass drops its second straight on the road, losing 67-45.

The numbers are ugly for UMass. Starters McCusker, Freeman and Hair shoot 5-for-27 from the floor, and the team shoots 15-for-49 for the game (31 percent). The TO's continue to mount, with the number reaching 29 this night.

Pytko gets 10 points and Serafini seven, along with eight rebounds.

Jan. 9 — Miami at UMass: The Hurricanes came into Amherst and shot a blistering 61 percent (20-for-33) in the first half which gave them a 44-21 halftime lead, en route to a 76-58 win. They got 38 points on 17-for-29 shooting from Frances Savage and Jeannie Hebert.

Patty Robak gave Hewelt a solid effort off the bench with 12 points, three rebounds and three assists in 28 minutes. Pytko added 10 points and five assists.

Jan. 13 — UMass at St. Bonaventure: The Minutewomen came close to getting their first A-10 victory of the season, but ended up losing, 77-72.

Freeman was 10-for-15 and scores 24 points. McCusker hit for 16 along with nine boards and Serafini scored 12. In her biggest single-game chunk of playing time thus far, Lisa Ireland scored six points and took in four rebounds.

The Minutewomen shot a solid 47 percent from the field, but couldn't overcome a 12-point (43-31) halftime deficit.

Jan. 18 — Duquesne at UMass: The Minutewomen got their first conference victory of the season, defeating Duquesne (1-12, 0-5), 70-54.

Freeman led the way with 17 points and 10 rebounds. Pytko helped out with 13 points and six assists. Hair, starting her fourth consecutive game at forward, hit for 11.

The numbers for Duquesne are . . . well, not good, to say the least. They shot 23 percent for the game, including 15 percent in the second half. They launched 14 treys, but connected just once. The lone bright spot was guard Darcie Vincent, who banged in 28 points. But backcourt teammate Megan Cullen helped the cause immensely by taking 24 shots and converting but two of them. That's right, 2-for-24.

UMass is now 3-9 overall, 1-4 in the A-10.

Jan. 20 — West Virginia at UMass: The winning streak comes to a halt . . . at one.

Despite Hair's best game, UMass falls, 87-73 to WVU.

The Minutewomen receive a grand effort from Hair, who scores 20 points and gets seven rebounds.

Serafini plays well, scoring 14 points while playing the entire game.

Up by just four (36-32) at the half, WVU relies on Donna Abbott (20 points and 12 rebounds) to lead them to victory.

Jan. 22 — Dartmouth at UMass: Dartmouth comes in sporting a fancy 10-2 record. They leave 11-2 by way of a 72-61 victory over the Minutewomen.

Freeman (20 points) and Serafini (18, two

CONTINUED ON PAGE 11

安城中國飯店
Amherst Chinese Food
Homestyle Cooking
Fresh vegetables from our own farm
DO NOT USE MSG
Open 7 days a week
253-2813 253-7837
62 Main Street Amherst

Where can you go for quick, convenient walk-in service for car insurance?
Amherst Insurance Agency
253-5555
A Division Of THE NATHAN AGENCIES
Amherst Insurance Agency, Inc.
Amherst Real Estate Agency, Inc.
Amherst Financial Services Agency
• Auto • Home • Renters • Life • Health
for personal and business
Is your VCR Insured?
20 GATEHOUSE ROAD, AMHERST, MA

Welcome Back from Scott's Liquors!
Scott's LIQUORS
OPEN MON-SAT 8 AM-11 PM
Tel. 549-2692
6 University Drive
at Newmarket Center
Amherst
diagonnaly across from UMASS Stadium
Busch Suitcase 24-12 oz. Cans $9.99 + dep.
Miller Lite Suitcase 24-12 oz. Cans $11.49 + dep.
Southern Comfort 750 ml $7.49
Captain Morgan Spiced Rum 750 ml $6.99
Nappa Ridge Chardonnay 750 ml $4.99
Miller Genuine Draft 12 pack Bottles $5.99 + dep.
Smirnoff Vodka 750 ml $6.99
Peachtree Schnapps 750 ml $6.49
VISA/MASTERCARD ACCEPTED
ALSO LOCAL PERSONAL CHECKS
Plus many instore and rebate specials!!
Kegs Available
Prices good 1/29 thru 2/3, 1990
WE WANT TO BE YOUR FAVORITE LIQUOR STORE

Men's hoop rising to challenge

Six-game win streak thrusts Minutemen back into the spotlight

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

If you are one of the select many who haven't been in touch with reality since finals ended, you'd better sit down for this one:

The University of Massachusetts finally has a winning men's basketball team.

Chances are, the last time you heard anything about our Minutemen heroes was right as classes ended on Dec. 14. UMass was 3-2 and headed into intersession coming off a roller-derby 76-53 win over New Hampshire at Curry Hicks Cage.

OK, so they were 3-2. Big deal, right? After all, this was still the same team that lost to Lowell, and was the same team that had whipped up one of the most inept winning percentages in college basketball in the 1980s, finishing the 10-year span with a lame 90-196 mark.

Coach John Calipari was still saying what he had been saying all along. "We're still young. We're inexperienced. We've got a long way to go." Seemed like words to live by.

But a funny thing happened while most of you were watching the ball drop in Times Square. In a classic reversal of the fairy tale, as the clock struck midnight and ushered in the new decade, the Minutemen turned from pumpkins into Cinderella.

UMass won its first six games in the 1990s, received a national ranking for the first time since 1978, and threw all of Western Mass. into a collective frenzy.

As of this printing, the Minutemen were 10-5 and heading into a pair of road games with Duquesne (last Thursday) and West Virginia (last Saturday). Still gaining mention in the Associated Press poll, UMass was ranked in a tie for 41st in the country.

Shocking? Maybe. A welcome relief? Definitely.

Through all of this madness, Calipari has tried to keep a level head, to caution that maybe people were getting a little carried away. "We're not that good yet. We've been lucky to win this many games," he said.

Maybe so, but that doesn't make the story any less amazing. Anyway, from the beginning.

This compelling story actually began on Dec. 29 in Denver. UMass was still that ordinary 3-2 club that most of you remember being pushed to overtime before beating Yale.

The scenario was a first round game of the Mile High Classic at McNichols Arena. In the infinite wisdom of sports promoters, the tourney hosts from the University of Colorado felt the urge to invite a "patsy" to their party, so that they could walk over them and play the drawing card of the tournament, the University of North Carolina.

Oops. Someone forgot to let UMass in on the plan. Behind a 30-point performance from sophomore guard Jim McCoy and the 13-point, six-rebound UM debut of 6-foot-3 leaping transfer William Herndon, the Minutemen pulled off a stunning 78-71 win.

Pass the monkey wrench.

Well, technically, Colorado did get to play North Carolina, but that's because Carolina lost, too — to Colorado State. The Rams then proceeded to beat UMass in the championship game, 77-51, but the message was sent. In short, beating Colorado was a HUGE win for the program.

There was some reason for excitement. UMass was only 4-3, but as it turned out, the loss to Colorado State would be the last one in almost three weeks.

The excitement started when defending Atlantic 10 Conference champion Rutgers came to the Cage on Jan. 4. UMass laughed at them and pulled away for an 84-73 win. Freshman forward Tony Barbee pumped home 22 points to lead five Minutemen in double figures.

Two nights later it was Penn State, last year's conference runner-up. The Nittany Lions tried to employ their usual sluggish defensive ways, but UMass still negotiated a 64-52 win. Herndon, who by now was drawing a following among the Cage faithful, picked up 19 points and 10 rebounds, and was establishing himself as a flying, dunking threat.

Even more surprising was a certain oft-forgotten figure in the backcourt, Cary Herer. After spending three full years of part-time duty, Herer got his break when starting point guard Anton Brown was injured in the Lowell game.

Herer, a 6-2 senior from Fairfield, Conn. had his coming-out party against Penn State. He had dished out 11 assists against New Hampshire, and duplicated the feat on this night. Though still known as a shooting liability, it became clear that Herer had his spot on this team, and that he had a lot to contribute to its success.

At this juncture, UMass was 2-0 in the A-10, equaling its best conference start ever. It couldn't possibly last, could it? Especially with a trip to that hallowed Hell known as Rhode Island's Keaney Gymnasium next in line.

Listening to anyone connected to the team, there was no way it could last. Some had the Minutemen being buried alive somewhere in the vicinity of Kingston, and UMass showed the expected signs of road mortality by falling behind at the half, 31-24.

But in the second half, Calipari stuck Herer on Rhody' high-scoring guard Eric Leslie. Herer shut Leslie out i the second half, McCoy scored 21 of his game-high 27 afte the break, and UMass kept the ball rolling, 63-57.

Next up was George Washington, an easy one for UMas in relative terms. Fighting off a sluggish start, th Minutemen rolled to an 80-61 win, with everyone gettin into the act.

All right, so UMass was 8-3 for the first time since th Earth was flat, and 4-0 (A-10) for the first time ever. Bu who had they beaten? Certainly not anyone like Wes Virginia, which was coming in ready to dethrone thes upstarts on Jan. 13.

CONTINUED ON PAGE

UMass on TV tonight

Ch. 22 has the call

If you are one of the unlucky who may get shut out of tonight's game between UMass and Connecticut, fear not. The game will be telecast live on WWLP-TV, Channel 22 in Springfield.

Weeknight sports anchor Rich Tettemer will be providing the play-by-play, with weekend anchor Bob Rumbold on color. Because of television, the time of the game has been bumped back to 8:05 p.m.

The Minutemen will make another appearance on the tube on Sunday, Feb. 11, when SportsChannel America will broadcast the UMass-Temple game from the Cage.

And all UMass games, home and away, can be heard on WHMP (1400-AM) and WNNZ (640-AM), with Tim Ashwell and George Miller. Most UMass games will also be broadcast on WMUA (91.1-FM).

A-10 standings

Through Tuesday, Jan. 23:	A-10	Overall
Temple	6-1	8-7
UMass	6-2	10-5
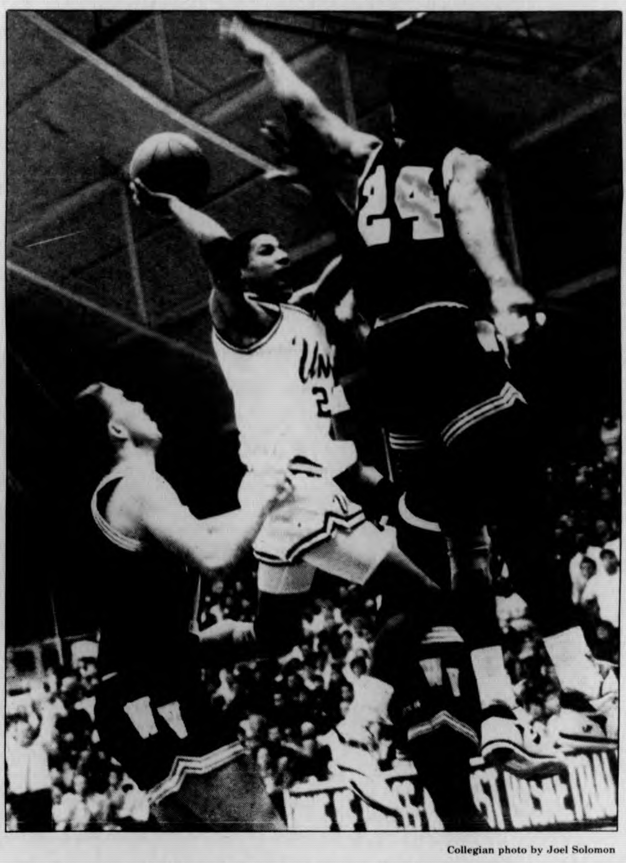
Rhode Island	4-2	8-7
West Virginia	5-3	10-6
Penn State	5-3	11-5
Rutgers	4-3	8-10
St. Bonaventure	2-4	6-8
St. Joseph's	2-5	4-11
George Washington	1-6	7-10
Duquesne	1-7	2-15

Tuesday, Jan. 30
Connecticut at UMass
West Virginia at Duquesne
Rhode Island at St. Bonaventure

Wednesday, Jan. 31
Temple at St. Joseph's

Thursday, Feb. 1
George Washington at Rutgers



Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Sophomore guard Jim McCoy continues to be the center of attention for the winning UMass men's hoop team.

UConn invades Cage

Game time is 8:00

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

OK, UMass hoop nuts. You think you'v got a reason to be excited?

Well, down the road a few miles, over the river, through the woods and across the border into Storrs, Conn., there is a team that has done some pretty amazing things itself this year.

The University of Connecticut comes to Curry Hicks Cage tonight in the renewal of what has always been a heated territorial battle, but should shape up into a whopper of a fight, given the success of the two combatants over the course of the 1989-90 season.

Because of local television, tipoff time has been pushed back to 8:05 p.m.

As of this printing, the Huskies were riding high atop New England with a 15-3 record, including a 5-2 mark in the Big East. Even more impressive is some of the company that UConn has knocked off in the not-too-distant past.

First, there was a stunning win against Villanova at DuPont Pavilion, a revenge of sorts for an early-season Wildcat victory at the Hartford Civic Center. Then, two weeks ago, the Huskies took a big bite out of its Big East opponents by thumping, in consecutive games, Syracuse and Georgetown.

In the latter game, the Hoyas came to the Civic Center unbeaten and in a position to move into the top spot in the nation. But UConn scored the game's first 12 points and hung on for a 65-60 win.

That was enough to put UConn, which hadn't gained much notice since winning the NIT postseason tournament two years ago, as the 20th team in the nation, according to last week's Associated Press poll.

Saturday night, the Huskies unveiled their new facility, the 8,064-seat Gampel Pavilion, against St. John's.

Leading the way for the Huskies have been guards Chris Smith and Tate George. But the big surprise has been the play of 6-foot-7 freshman Nadav Henefeld, from Ramat-Hasharon, Israel, who is second in the country in steals with 4.5 thefts a game.

UM tickets the toughest around

Final six games sold out; student seating in heavy demand

If you haven't been to a men's basketball game at Curry Hicks Cage in the last month or so, you may be in for a surprise.

Simply put, if you are planning on attending tonight's matchup with nationally-ranked Connecticut, you had better get there early. Very early, in fact.

With only about 2,800 seats available to students, the pine has been filled pretty fast during intersession, and tonight will be no exception. Once the 4,024 seats have been taken, the doors will be closed, and anyone stuck on the outside is, well . . . stuck. Sorry, with fire codes, that's the way it's gotta be.

For future reference, every remaining home game has been sold out. No tickets are available to the general public, so again, the only seats available are the general admission seats reserved for students.

For all home basketball games, any UMass undergraduate student can be admitted free by presenting a valid UMass student ID at the door.

Freshmen help bolster men's swimming

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

Say all you want about the sudden hot streak of the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team. But there is another team on this campus that has been winning all along.

The UMass men's swim team continued to dominate anyone and everyone who dared cross paths with them, winning four meets during the break to improve to 9-0 on the year.

This is a team that has lost just two dual meets in the last five years, combined. A prolific winning mark of 61-4 over the last five-plus seasons, including a 41-meet win streak that stretched over parts of four seasons. Three straight New England championships have been thrown in, to boot. Kinda hard to improve on that success rate, aye mate?

Not if this team is any indication of what is to come. According to UMass coach Russ Yarworth, this may be one of the best teams he's ever had.

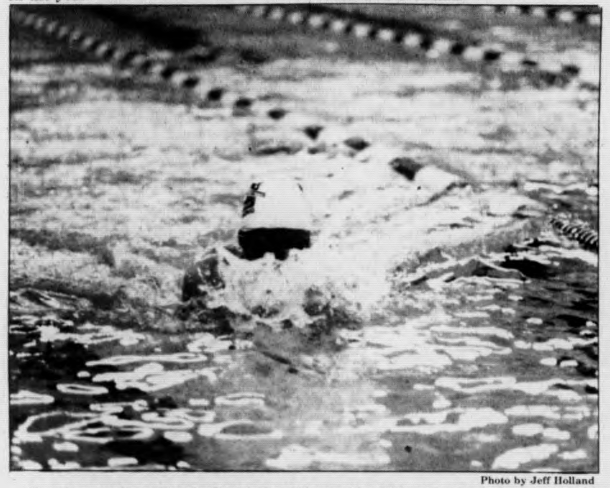

Photo by Jeff Holland

Freshman Curt Sawin has helped keep the Minutemen unbeaten and on top of the New England swimming circuit.

"We've worked harder this intersession than ever," Yarworth said. "We've done a tremendous job. We usually don't expect to swim that fast, but we've got more depth and speed than we've ever had."

Thus, the Minutemen couldn't help but blow out all four of their opponents over the break. It wasn't much of a trick to roll over teams like Northeastern, Amherst, Williams and Rhode Island.

UMass didn't score any lower than 160 points in winning any of the meets, all of which were nearly 100-point victories.

"I don't look at the score, it's not a win-lose thing," Yarworth said. "It's how we're swimming."

And right now, he likes what he sees.

As has been the case for the last three years, there have been the usual stand-bys who have helped lead the Minutemen. People like Brian McIver, G.T. Ladd and Dan Chesnicka have been steady as always.

Instead, UMass has gotten a boost from some of its younger talent, something that Yarworth hopes will continue his team's dominance well into the future.

"With our senior class in its last year, everyone is ringing our death bell as far as next year," Yarworth said. "But our freshman class is carrying a lot of weight."

He sang the praises of guys like distance swimmer Scott Reed, who against Williams set a freshman team record in the 1000-yard freestyle, finishing in 9:58.20.

Then there are Curt Sawin and Jay Peluso, who are dueling neck-and-neck for the lead in the 200-yard individual medley in New England. And with senior Roger Kennedy and junior Frank Sampson right below, UM owns that particular race as far as New England is concerned.

Yarworth also pointed out freshmen Jimmy Gregg and Sean Clark, who are "coming along," but particularly noted the improvement of newcomer Chris Barrett.

"He's really turned his act around," Yarworth said of Barrett. "He's developed into one of the best middle distance freestylers in New England."

Sophomore Bill Chouinard has joined Peluso to give UMass a deadly 1-2 punch in the breaststroke.

Then of course, there are the regulars.

"McIver is up to his same old stuff," Yarworth said. "[Pete] Koback and [Jim] Robertson have done well in the middle distances, allowing McIver to concentrate on the sprints."

Diver Dan Chesnicka qualified for the national qualifier again, and in the process set a varsity record for points in six dives off both the one- and three-meter boards.

"Our only weakness right now is the backstroke," Yarworh said, noting that senior Dave Ehle, who has been a mainstay there in the past, is just returning from an internship and hasn't been in the water since last March.

"We're hoping to get him back into shape fast," Yarworth said. "Right now, he's challenging for a spot on the team for New Englands."

But with all of the depth at the other spots, any sort of weakness that the backstroke may create probably won't really matter when the New Englands roll around next month at the University of Rhode Island.

"Looking at the New Englands, we're obviously the favorites. We don't plan on screwing up," Yarworth said.

In the more-immediate future, there are still several dual meets left before UMass kicks into the championship mode.

Last Wednesday, UMass faced up with Connecticut, which at the time was ranked No. 1 in New England ahead of the Minutemen. They also traveled to Vermont last Saturday.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 9

THE GYM IS A COMPLETE WEIGHTLIFTING CLUB FOR MEN & WOMEN!
Featuring over 10,000 pounds of weights, exercise machines, nautilus machines, bikes, rowers, climbers and full locker and shower facilities!
We also offer tanning and coming in February—AEROBICS!
The GYM
at mountain farms mall
Rte. 9 on the Amherst/Hadley Line
EASY TO GET TO BY CAR OR BUS!
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!

COME CLEAN WITH US!
Open 7 days a week
7 a.m.-10 p.m.
Campus Coin Op 107 Sunderland Rd. North Amherst
Speedwash, 11 Pray St., Amherst
South Towne Commons Laundromat
479 West St., South Amherst

Amherst Sunshine
CAR WASH
381 College Street (Rt. 9 East)
AUTOMATIC WASH/WAX
Open Daily 8 am to 5 pm
SELF SERVICE BAYS
Soap/Rinse/Wax • Bubble Brush
Tire Cleaner • Engine De-Greaser
VACUUM CLEANERS
$1.00 & $5.00 Changer
"OUR ATTENDANTS ARE HAPPY TO ASSIST YOU"

UCF is... action for justice liberation openness
a place for growth celebration sharing hugs prayer diversity counseling community endless searching support
United Christian Foundation
An Ecumenical Ministry Serving the Entire UMass Community
423 Student Union 545-2661

JUST STOP!
WAIT!!
KEEP GOING
TYPEWRITER SERVICE ON ALL MAKES AND MODELS
SMITH CORONA PORTABLE WORD PROCESSOR & LAP TOP
UP TO $250 OFF ON PERSONAL WORD PROCESSOR
with flip top screen. Easy to use and easy to move.
SUPPLIES! RIBBONS, CORRECTION TAPES SCHOOL & OFFICE SUPPLIES FOR PROJECTS, REPORTS & TERM PAPERS OR FOR ANY TYPE JOB!!!
Amherst TYPEWRITER SERVICE
65 N. Pleasant St., Amherst 253-5087
Repairs Done On The Premises
Repairs You Can Trust And
That Are Done Efficiently
WASN'T THAT WORTH IT!

Women's swimmers reach new heights

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

Sometimes coaches prefer to measure the success of their team by how much it improves over a period of times, rather than in the win-loss column.

Of course, if it can steal a couple of wins here or there, that's all right, too.

For the University of Massachusetts women's swimming team, it was a solid intersession in all facets. The Minutewomen saw a host of swimmers improve on career bests, and the team rolled to three big wins in the process.

"This is the best intersession we've ever had," said UMass coach Bob Newcomb. "We beat Northeastern for the first time in my six years here, we beat [SUNY-] Buffalo for the first time ever, and we maintained our winning edge over Williams."

UMass has had a reputation as being a slow starter, but a team that can really get it going once the seasons gets underway. This year, UMass proved that by starting off 3-2, with losses coming to two of the traditionally-tough squads in New England, Connecticut and Maine.

But according to Newcomb, coaches who see the Minutewomen early on and then watch later in the season, often come away shaking their heads in amazement at the vast improvement. For Newcomb, that improvement came more suddenly than expected, but he isn't about to trade it in.

"We just keep swimming faster and faster," Newcomb said. "We're doing exactly what we should be."

Northeastern, one of the teams that usually elbows for position with UMass once the New England championships roll around, were the first test of the new year.

The Huskies came into Boyden Pool on Jan. 6, confident that the history of a string of consecutive wins would be on their side.

But as they say, history is a thing of the past. UMass was ready for the challenge, and NU turned around and headed back to the Hub with a 166-130 loss.

The next weekend it was Williams which took the trip down the Valley, and UMass put forth a similar performance in winning, 164-136. Finally, on Jan. 19, SUNY-Buffalo came in to Boyden, and the Minutewomen were able to avenge a loss from last season, 164-135.

"Those are three good teams we beat," Newcomb said.

But beyond the final scores, there was more reason for Newcomb to be excited about his team's performance. Individually, the Minutewomen improved on personal successes which, in the end, helped to contribute to the total team picture.

Leading the way was senior Michele Leary, who continues to dominate and added to her impressive resume with three more school records: the 100-yard butterfly (58.43 seconds, which leads New England), the 200-yard fly (2:09.51) and the 200-yard individual medley (2:15.07).

Aside from the team marks, there were also several personal records set, more testimony to the progress that the team is making.

Laurie Schwarz improved her best times in three different categories, including the 200-yard freestyle

CONTINUED ON PAGE 9

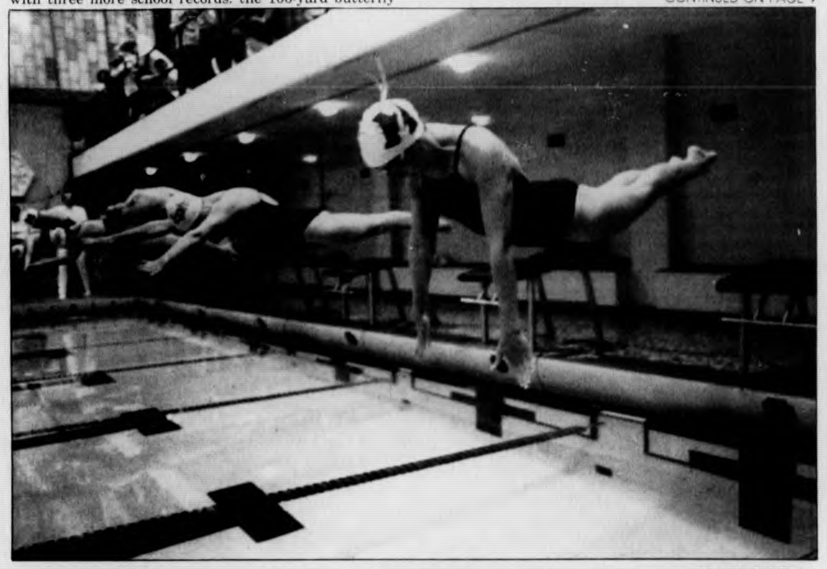

Photo by Jeff Holland

Theresa Jacobs and the Minutewomen picked up three solid wins over intersession, helping to improve their record to 6-2 on the season.

★★★★★★★
herself... at times
jewelry and accessories
Has A New Look
We Hope You Like it!
Enjoy Our Welcome Back Sale
30% Off All Hair Accessories
Including Lots Of New Styles
7E. Pleasant St. (Between Peloton & Bank of N.E.)
549-6693 Sale Ends Feb. 3

CUPID'S CHOICE FOR SWEETHEARTS.
Just call or visit us today to send the FTD® Sweethearts Bouquet for Valentine's Week.
Visa • MC • Amex
Knowles Flower Shop
172 N. Pleasant St
Amherst
253-3805
® A registered trademark of FTD © 1989 FTD.

1/2 PRICE
Everything Winter!
J•RICH
CLOTHING FOR MEN
191 N. Pleasant St. Amherst•253-2013
22 Masonic St. Northampton•586-6336

TOWN OF AMHERST
LSSE
SKI FREE
There's never a trail fee at Cherry Hill Golf Course.
All ages are invited to cross-country ski the scenic meadows and snowy hills of Amherst's Cherry Hill Golf Course with no trail fee this winter. Open 7 days a week (weather permitting) with ski rentals, lessons, refreshments, free parking and a warming hut. For information: 256-4071. For lesson signups: 256-4065.

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS
湘園
PANDA EAST
CHINESE RESTAURANT
We bring Chinatown to you!
Open Hours:
Mon. - Thurs. 11:30 a.m. - 10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m. - 11:00 p.m.
Sunday 2:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m.
Lunch Hours: Mon. - Sat. 11:30 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
103 N. Pleasant Street • Amherst, MA 01002
Tel: (413) 256-8923 (413) 256-8924

Gymnastics teams get off to solid starts

• Minutemen drop season opener to Navy

By GEORGE AUSTIN
Collegian Staff

One of the signs of a great leader is that he is always challenging his teammates to get better. Despite their loss to eastern powerhouse Navy on Jan. 19, the University of Massachusetts gymnastics team reached their goal of scoring in the 250s.

The Minutemen lost the meet at the Boyden Gymnastics Center, 265-256.35 to the Midshipmen. Still though, senior co-captain John Eggers feels UMass could have faired better in its first meet of the season against the defending Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League Champions.

"Practice isn't hungry enough," Eggers said. "The lack of enthusiasm shows in the gym."

Eggers backs up his words with performances that come about as the result of a hard work ethic as he preaches. He was

CONTINUED ON PAGE 10

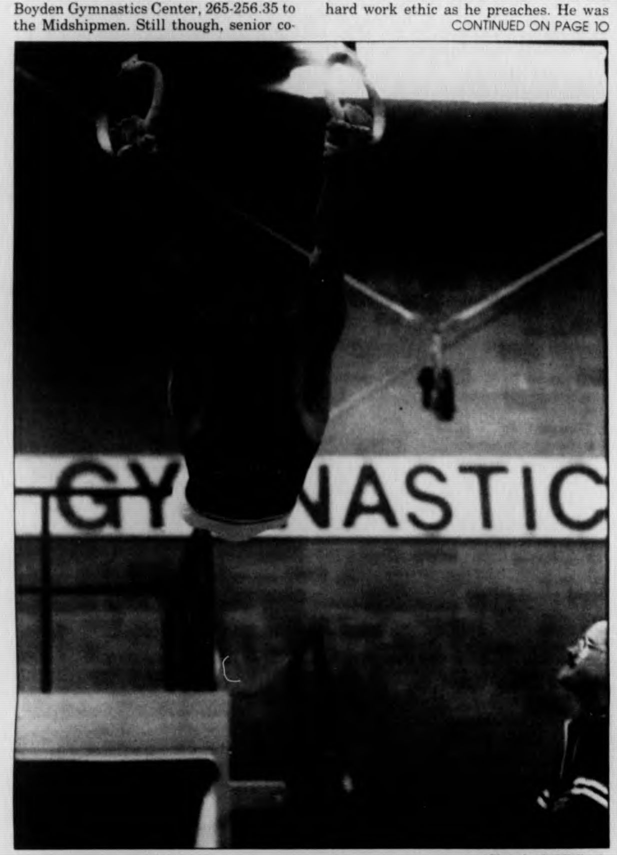

Photo by Jeff Holland

The men's gymnastics team is counting on the leadership of senior co-captain John Eggers to lead them to new heights this season.

• Minutewomen set new team point record

By GEORGE AUSTIN
Collegian Staff

Talent that has not been seen at the Boyden Gymnastics Center in quite some time and talent that has never been seen in Amherst has vaulted the University of Massachusetts women's gymnastics team into its best start of all time.

Kristin Turmail, who sat out all of last season with a broken foot has been impressive thus far. And freshman Tammy Marshall has been all that she was advertised to be.

The Minutewomen lost their first meet of the year to Towson State, 180.8-179.3. But led by Turmail and Marshall, UMass set a school record for team score in their win over Atlantic 10 rival Rhode Island two days later, 181.5-176.65.

The previous mark was 180.95 which the Minutewomen set at the Atlantic 10 Championships last year late in the season. This is a different team than last year's with Turmail and Marshall adding to the depth of UMass coach Alfie Mitchell's lineup.

It took Turmail all of two meets to get back into her old form. In the win over URI, Turmail was the top all-arounder for the Minutewomen with her score of 37 which is just .25 off the school record set by Jill Heggie in 1977.

Turmail's performance included a 9.3 in the vault where the Minutewomen set a team record in its opening meet of the year combining for a 45.5. At URI, UMass eclipsed that mark again, this time with a 45.6.

"She [Turmail] had some breaks but she looked real well in all her events," Mitchell said.

A friendly competition may be developing between Turmail and Marshall. In the opening meet with Towson, Marshall broke Turmail's school record on the balance beam, tip-toeing her way to a 9.6 in breaking Turmail's three-year-old record.

In that same meet, Marshall was just .05 off Turmail's record in the vault, hitting a 9.55. Marshall led the Minutewomen in the all-around competition in their opening meet of the year with a 36.6. She scored a 36.65 in the win over URI.

"She's probably one of the best all-arounders we have this year," Mitchell said.

Marshall's success in her first collegiate competitions have been no surprise to Mitchell. She knew the rookie could step in and contribute right away.

"When she was 13 or 14, she was on a national team," Mitchell said. "In all our intrasquads, she scored above 36."

How did the Minutewomen set a school record so early in the season that it took them almost an entire season to set last year? Well, the Minutewomen have been more daring this year. The routines that they have been attempting are more difficult and have been earning them higher scores from the judges.

Sophomore Erin Klier pegged a 9.25 on the uneven bars in her first meet. Senior Erika Baxter led the Minutewomen in the floor exercise that night with a 9.35. She was followed closely by Kim Grady who finished with a 9.25. Lynne Morris hit a 9 in the vault and Lisa Cronen a 9 in the uneven bars.

Those scores were with some breaks that Mitchell thinks the Minutewomen can greatly improve upon by the end of the year. That means more school records.

"As each meet comes along, they'll get a little more confident with their routines," Mitchell said. "And they'll score that much higher."

"We had at least five points that we lost in falls."

The early signs are very encouraging though. UMass is now 1-0 in the A-10 and though URI was not its toughest league opponent, UMass looked better in that meet than the three teams that beat them at the Atlantic 10 Championships last year — Penn State, West Virginia, Temple.

"Out of those schools, we have scored higher than they have this year," Mitchell said. "We have just as much talent as

CONTINUED ON PAGE 10

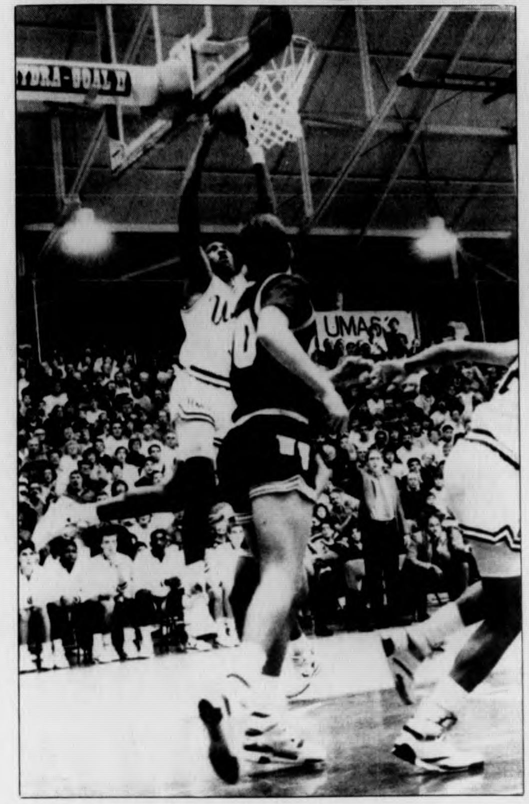
Good Things
Jewelry Natural Fiber Scarves
Blouses Skirts Dresses
India Print Bedspreads
Mugs
Earrings
Chinese Shoes
Rings
Bracelets
Chains
Socks
Leather Sole
Happy B'day
Cards
Hawaii
Posters
Indonesian Prints
Toys
Gloves
Candles
Hats
Bags
Area Rugs
Skirts
Baskets
Paper Lampshades
Sale
20 to 50%
off selected
Clothing
Great Gifts & Cards
THE MERCANTILE
Sun 12-5
Daily 10-6
Northampton-18 Center St.
Amherst-Carriage Shops

TWISTERS
TAVERN
The Uptown Alternative!

TUESDAY NIGHT	POST-GAME UMASS BASKETBALL PARTY Beat U-CONN
WEDNESDAY NIGHT	REGGAE NIGHT New Horizons
THURSDAY NIGHT	COLLEGE NIGHT NO COVER JELLO SHOTS! "Only Dead Fish Go With the Flow"
FRIDAY NIGHT	The Sundogs Rockabilly Swing Dance Music
SATURDAY NIGHT	Inner City Blues 10:30 p.m. Post Game Basketball Party! BEAT DUQUESNE!
SUNDAY NIGHT	UMASS BASKETBALL POWER HOUR Video Hightlights of Away Games. Hosted by Coach Calipari 7:00 p.m.

WHERE THE MUSIC COMES ALIVE!
Come Meet The Team!
Great Food Served Daily!
30 Boltwood Walk, Amherst, MA • 253-2663

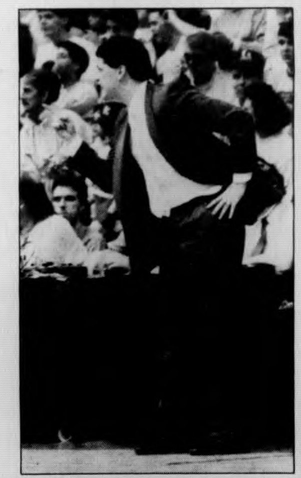
The Rage in the Cage is back

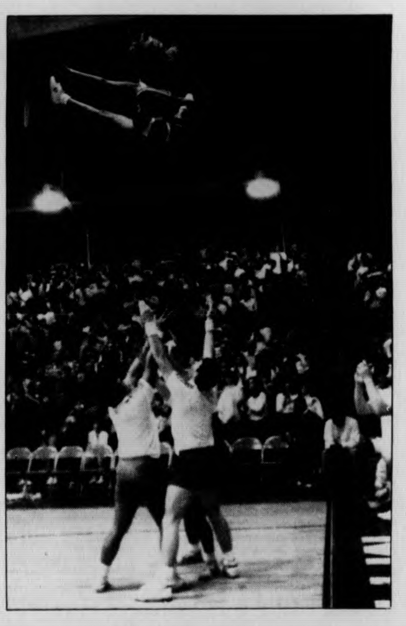


Collegian photos by Joel Solomon

Excitement returned to the Curry Hicks Cage over intersession, as the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team emerged as one of the top teams in the Atlantic 10 Conference. After two years of half-filled seats, the Minutemen sold out three of their five home games, and the much-desired "Rage in the Cage" was back in full form.

Clockwise from above: Freshman forward Harper Williams makes an acrobatic move to the hoop. Painted faces began to make their appearance at the Cage during the six-game winning streak. Junior forward John Tate pulls up for a bucket in a win over George Washington. A UMass cheerleader is tossed in the air during a break in thw action. Thanks to signs printed by WHMP-Radio, the "Rage" was officially ushered in against West Virginia. Coach John Calipari, who helped to rile up the capacity crowds, makes a point to the officials.





RAGE IN THE CAGE
99.3 HMP FM

Men's track preparing for strong finish

By GEORGE AUSTIN
Collegian Staff

UMass coach Ken O'Brien usually doesn't give his runners much of a rest after Christmas. But in an effort to get more of his team to return to Amherst, he asked his track team to be back just two weeks before the start of the semester.

Having a bigger team to practice with, O'Brien said that practices have become more competitive than in past years during January. This could ultimately mean that the Minutemen will be in a little better shape for the second half of the season when they have the most important of their meets.

"I've been pleasantly surprised with the way the kids have performed," O'Brien said.

The best may be yet to come. The Minutemen will have a little bit more depth when two of UMass' top athletes, Jerome Bledsoe and Garfield Vaughn return to action. Bledsoe has been nursing a knee injury which he sustained during football season.

O'Brien expects Bledsoe to return to action any day now though and he will be joining triple jumper Joe Kourafas and high jumper Brian Bednarek to give the Minutemen some balance in the field events.

"Our jumpers have looked good," O'Brien said.

Vaughn was slated to compete in his first event of the year at Boston University's Terrier Classic Jan. 27. Vaughn will be a welcome addition to the track where he will compete in the middle distance races.

"He's in the same kind of shape as Steve Brown," O'Brien said. "That gives us a great 1-2 punch in the middle distance events."

Bledsoe and Vaughn returning is good news for the Minutemen. But the Minutemen have suffered a little setback. Sprinter Mike Grey, who took fourth place at the BU winter classic in the 60-yard dash injured himself at the end of that race and will need a little rest before returning to any serious races.

"We'll sit him out of competition a week or so and then bring him back for the conference meet," O'Brien said. "He's a blue chip sprinter."

In the meantime, the Minutemen can count on sprinter Kevin Walters to take up as much of the slack as he can. Walters won both the 200-meter and the 60-meter races at the Smith Invitational. That was over the weekend of Jan. 21 when the Minutemen were supposed to compete at the New England TAC Championships at Harvard University. But snowy roadsforced O'Brien to cancel the trip.

O'Brien also is trying to season his young runners which he says could become important down the stretch while the veteran rest up for the big New Englands Championships.

"I want to see some real improvement by the young kids in the conference meet and then two weeks later I think the veterans will pull us through in the New Englands," O'Brien said.

O'Brien is hoping that guys such as Mike Fournier, Tom Hooper, Jim Avery, Joe Bell, and Art Piccolo will mature enough in the next year to become big contributors in the years to come.

"Some of those kids that we are starting to build around are really one season away," O'Brien said. "These kids have worked very hard."

O'Brien will need the rest of his team to work very hard as well if he wishes to have a respectable showing at the New England Championships at MIT come the end of the season.

"Even with fatigue, I have seen daily improvements," O'Brien said.

Hard work putting women right on track

By GEORGE AUSTIN
Collegian Staff

There are definitely some people on this campus that must be glad winter break is over.

Don't ask any member of the University of Massachusetts women's track team how their break was. They didn't have one. For the past few weeks, coach Julie LaFreniere has been putting her squad through sheer hell. But reasons the second-year coach:

"This will all pay off in February."

In January, the Minutewomen have been going through double workouts. Hills, stairs, intervals and the dreaded pool exercises have all been on the agenda during the week.

"This is a part of the season where we are working hard," LaFreniere said.

In between practices, UMass competed in two meets over the break. On Jan. 13, UM went to the Yale Invitational. On Jan. 20 the Minutewomen traveled to Hanover, N.H. for a quad meet with Dartmouth, Connecticut, and Northeastern.

The Minutewomen took third with 25 points behind UConn, the defending New England champion, which blew away the competition with 74 points and Dartmouth with 46 points.

"We did hills and stairs and speed workouts so they could hardly move their legs when they got to the track," LaFreniere said.

Most of them could hardly move their legs anyway. Lee Ann Ambrose moved her legs around the track fast enough to break the school record in the 200 meters. Her 25.32 clocking breaks the old record of 25.40 set by Pam Hughes back in 1986.

It also qualified Ambrose to run in the 200 in the ECAC Championships in March. The funny thing about it is that Ambrose was only running in the 200 to prepare for the 400-meter race. It was a shock to LaFreniere that Ambrose was able to run so well after such tough workouts.

"I think that was the highlight of the two meets," LaFreniere said. "Lee Ann's doing that to work on her speed for the 400."

The Gardner native also helped the mile relay team finish second to UConn with time of 4:03 as she teamed with senior Julie Muccini, and freshmen Dana Smith and Lennice Johnson.

"That's not their best time either but they're tired," LaFreniere said.

Ambrose went to the Yale Invitational and finished seventh in the 55-meter dash. Her 7.4 was impressive in a tough field.

"That's a real big meet," LaFreniere said. "Teams come from all over the east to run there."

Another performance that shocked LaFreniere was that of freshman Rachel Castriotta. Castriotta, who already owns the school record for the 20-pound weight throw took second place at the meet with a hurl of 44-feet-9 1/4. Castriotta is just three inches off of qualifying for the ECACs.

Her teammate Tina White did not have a bad day either finishing third with a throw of 42-2 1/4. Muccini took home second place in the 400 meters, finishing with a 60.49.

Sophomore Sue McFadyen finished fifth in the 55-meter race, crossing the line at 7.69. Ambrose finished third in that race ahead of McFadyen with a 7.44. McFadyen also finished fifth in the 200-meters, clocking a 27.66.

Jen Piccioli skipped her way to a second place finish in the triple jump, managing a 35-6¾ jump.

All these times and distances should improve as LaFreniere hopes to have her team at a peak when the New England Championships roll around at the end of February.

Yo, Collegian sports staff . . .

There will be a meeting for all members of the Collegian sports staff, tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the newsroom.

It is important that you all attend, so that we will know that you are alive and well, and ready to get going for the Spring semester. Anyone who cannot attend is asked to call Jim at the sports desk (its 545-3500, if you forgot).

Also, anyone who is interested in writing for the Collegian for the Spring semester is welcome to stop by the offices at 113 Campus Center.

SpeeDee
OIL CHANGE & TUNE-UP

Regularly Priced $21.95 oil change
$45.95 tune up for
4 cylinder car
$67.90

BACK TO SCHOOL SPECIAL:
We'll give you an oil change and tune up for only $57.90

No Appointment Necessary

19 Fulton Ave. Northampton, MA
586-5640

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden
Restaurant
MANDARIN/SZECHUEN CUISINE

The Best Chinese Buffet

MANDARIN/SZECHUAN CUISINE
WE DELIVER IN AMHERST 5-9:30 EVERYDAY
Minimum $15 plus $2 delivery charge

NEW
BUFFET & SUNDAY BRUNCH
Buffet served 5-8 p.m. Sun.-Thurs.
Brunch served Sunday 11:30 a.m.-3 p.m.
ALL YOU CAN EAT $5.99
Children under 10 - $3.00

1) Hot and Sour Soup
2) Chicken Fingers
3) Chicken Wings
4) Vegetable Chow Mein
5) Pan Fried Ravioli
6) Beef with Green Peppers

ADVOCATE BEST VALLEY
1987

7) House Special Chicken
8) Sweet and Sour Chicken
9) Roast Pork Fried Rice
10) Vegetable Fried Noodle
11) Chinese BBQ Pork
12) Broccoli with Oyster Sauce

TAKE-OUT SERVICE—FULL COCKTAIL MENU
10 Belchertown Rd. at Rte. 9, Amherst 256-0252

AMHERST AVIATION

P.O. Box 1043, Northampton, MA 01061 (413) 584-1860

FIVE-COLLEGE FLYING CLUB

Amherst Aviation at Northampton Airport has a flying club especially designed to help Five-College students and staff members to learn to fly at the lowest possible cost. The initial fee is just $100 and the monthly dues are only $20.

All club members will enjoy unlimited use of the flight trainers at only $38 per hour. We employ four full time flight instructors, and we are open seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Amherst Aviation holds a ground school that starts February 7 so be sure to join us before that date. Amherst Aviation is at the Northampton Airport and is on the bus line. Lessons can be scheduled at your convenience. There is now a new FAA "Recreational Pilot Certificate" that will allow you to get a license with just 30 hours of flight experience, including only 15 hours of instruction and 15 hours of solo flight.

For those of you that are interested in becoming professional commercial pilots, we have a financing package available.

If you've been interested in flying, now is the time to join us to explore aviation and enjoy the sky, Call Terre at 584-1860 or stop by the airport in person.

■ men's swimming still unbeaten

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 4

This Saturday, UMass visits New Hampshire before coming home for what should be a great meet, Feb. 10 against Boston University at Boyden Pool.

"Our goal now is to get 1,000 people there on Feb. 10 against BU," Yarworth said. "They are very good, heavily scholarship."

If the past is any indication, this will be one you won't want to miss. The Terriers are the last team to beat the Minutemen, in the final dual meet of last season. Two years ago, with the Minutemen clinging to a 40-meet win streak, BU came to Boyden and looked poised to snap the streak, until a late kick in the freestyle relay helped UMass pull out a pulsating one-point win and preserve a third straight undefeated season.

Whether UMass can beat the Terriers remains to be seen. "They'll probably come in shaved," Yarworth said, "while we won't shave until New Englands."

To Yarworth and Co., winning that fourth straight New England championship and making a splash at the Eastern meet the next weekend is the goal. And right now, the Minutemen are right on target.

■ women's swimming

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5

(2:00.19), the 100-yard fly (2:01.21) and the 200 IM (2:17.18). Kathy Burke added two more, in the 100-yard backstroke (1:09.36) and the 200 back (2:26.93).

Other individual bests came from Melissa McCarthy (1000 free, 10:58.81), Nancy Wilkinson (200-yard breaststroke, 2:46.83), Tonia Stafford (1000 free, 11:22.79), Teresa Konieczny (200 freestyle), Angie Ng (200 fly, 2:21.06), Theresa Jacobs (500 free, 5:33.90) and Lori Sheehan (100 fly, 1:06.80).

"We've had a lot of people swimming faster each meet," Newcomb said. "It's really encouraging. We're doing what we should be, as far as hard training and still swimming fast. We're training very well."

And that has helped lead the Minutewomen to heights that even Newcomb didn't expect.

"We're ahead of what I expected us to be," Newcomb said. "I figured this team would be lucky to be 7-5 this year. We're already 6-2."

The good start sets a nice tone for what is coming down the road for the team. With another dual meet last Saturday at Rhode Island, along with Boston College, Newcomb was hoping to pull another win out of there.

Boston College, as the elite team in New England, is in another world talent-wise, according to Newcomb, which left the Minutewomen hoping for a split at best out of their trip to Kingston. But he still was confident about a win over Rhode Island that would improve the mark to 7-3.

That leaves dual meets remaining at New Hampshire (Saturday) and at Five-College rival Mount Holyoke (next Tuesday). After that come the championship meets, beginning with the New Englands, which start Feb. 16 at the University of Rhode Island. With the team's recent successes, Newcomb will be heading into that meet with lofty goals.

"As far as New Englands, I'm hoping for second place," he said. "We're right there with everyone else. Maine and Providence are the two teams I'm worried about."

The Minutewomen swam against Maine in the first part of the season (Nov. 19 in Orono), and the Black Bears picked up a convincing 191-107 win. But Newcomb feels his team will be more able to challenge Maine later in the season than it was at that time.

"We're right on track. People believe in what they're doing," Newcomb said. "We're going to be right there."

Photo by Jeff Holland

Senior diver Dan Chesnicka set a team six-dive record and qualified for the national qualifying meet again.

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!

THE STYLING SALON AT JCPenney

THURSDAYS
MEN'S NIGHT
3-8:30 P.M.
18 yrs. and older
haircuts $8

FRIDAYS
LADIES
NIGHT
3-8:30 P.M.
18 yrs. and older
haircuts $8

Hampshire Mall
The Styling Salon at
JCPenney
CHARGE IT!!
Open Mon. 9-5, Tues.—Fri. 9-9
Sat. 8:30-5
Salon Phone: 584-7416

© 1989, JCPenney Company, Inc.

REPAIRS & SERVICE
on all makes & models of televisions

ANTENNAS INSTALLED & REPAIRED AUTHORIZED ZENITH DEALERS

Television Rentals

Television Center
55 North Pleasant St., Amherst
253-5100

TACO VILLA

MEXICAN RESTAURANTS

Great mexican food served quickly and inexpensively in a friendly & casual atmosphere... Try it! You'll like it!

Downtown Amherst and Northampton

men's gymnastics

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

disappointed with his scores on the parallel bars (7.9). But Eggers won the all-around competition in the meet with a combined score of 52.75, edging out Jerry Haran (52.25) of Navy.

"I think they're [the Minutemen] lacking a little focus on what they're job is. We have to work at it in the gym and in practice."

Eggers used a golf analogy to describe his teams performance in the Navy meet.

"We have to be disgusted because we didn't make enough putts," Eggers said. "We were not up to par."

One reason that UMass may not be as competitive in practice is the loss of senior co-captain Bart Balocki. Balocki is one of the Minutemen's top all-arounders. His training was interrupted about three weeks ago though when he returned from a job interview in Pennsylvania with an infection in his Achilles tendon. It was severe enough to keep Balocki off the floor for the Navy meet. UMass coach Roy Johnson is hoping to have Balocki back in uniform when the Minutemen host their biggest New England rivals on Feb. 13.

"Missing Bart Balocki is a big difference in points," Johnson said. "He'll be ready slowly in each event as time goes on. We'd really like to have Bart ready for Southern Connecticut."

In the meantime, Balocki is being treated with antibiotics which Johnson said has speeded up the recovery process.

"It's getting better, a lot better," Balocki said. "I'm just starting to run now (Jan. 22) so it's coming along, week by week."

With Balocki out of the lineup, a few freshmen have been able to step in right away and contribute. Rookie Rob Thomas swung on the horizontal bar in his first taste of collegiate competition and impressed Johnson, earning an 8.65 from the judges for his efforts.

"The routine was real good," Thomas said. "But I was missing my release. As soon as I get that down, I'll have a good routine."

One year ago, the horizontal bar was perhaps the Minutemen's strongest event. But UMass was hurt by graduation in that event and Johnson is faced with training some new blood which he feels needs some time to mature.

"We've got one real weak event — horizontal bar," Johnson said. "I think we'll just slowly keep getting better on that event. Each person has one thing to really concentrate on in their routines to improve the overall team score."

Freshman Steve Christensen was tops on the team in the horizontal bar in the Navy meet (8.7) next to Eggers' 9.2. He also was the only other Minuteman to compete in the all-around competition and finished with a respectable 51.1. His performance included a first place finish on the pommel horse (9.2).

Senior Carl Russ came up with a big win in the still rings, starting off his season with a 9.3, good enough for first place. Sophomore Cal Booker turned in his usual solid performance with a 9.4 on the floor exercise, and 8.7 on the rings and an 8.15 on the vault.

Improvements on the vault as well as on the horizontal bar may be the telling indicators of how far the Minutemen will go this season.

"We have to land on our feet in vaulting," Johnson said. We have to hit our big releases on horizontal bar. Then we'll be as good as any team in the league."

The catalyst through all this may have to be Eggers.

"I don't think anybody is as hungry as John," Johnson said. "If everybody was, we would have beaten Navy the other day and we would have won the EIGL championships," Johnson said.

Photo by Jeff Holland

Dave DiNucci and the Minutemen dropped a tough season-opening meet to the Naval Academy at the Boyden Gymnastics Center.

women's gymnastics

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

everyone else if not more."

And wouldn't it be great if the Minutewomen could be scoring higher than those teams and the rest of the A-10 going into the conference championships that UMass will host on March 24.

"The whole key will be staying healthy," Mitchell said.

She wasn't last year, but if Turmail stays healthy as well as the rest of her teammates there is always that possibility.

THE GYM IS A COMPLETE WEIGHTLIFTING CLUB FOR MEN & WOMEN!

Featuring over 10,000 pounds of weights, exercise machines, nautilus machines, bikes, rowers, climbers and full locker and shower facilities!

We also offer tanning and coming in February—AEROBICS!

The GYM

at mountain farms mall

Rte. 9 on the Amherst/Hadley Line

EASY TO GET TO BY CAR OR BUS!
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!

A HEALTHY COMPLEXION AND BODY

begins with a deep pore cleansing treatment and a full body massage. Improves how you look and feel relaxing • refreshing revitalizing also lash and brow tinting and hair waxing.

AESTHETICS

THERAPUTIC SKIN CARE AND MASSAGE
AMHERST ★ 253-9879

ROYAL CRANE ORIENTAL FOOD MARKET

360 College St., Amherst
253-5658

with a large variety of AUTHENTIC ORIENTAL & INDIAN

• Produce • Sauces & Spices • Noodles • Frozen & Canned Goods • Cooking Implements & Supplies • Homemade take-out food

Sun-Fri 10:00-8:00
Sat 9:00-8:00

USED ACADEMIC PAPERBACKS

Thousands in stock. Literature, History, Science, Art and Culture.

VALLEY BOOKS

199 N. Pleasant St. • Downtown Amherst

M-F 10:30-5:30
Sat. 10-5, Sun. 12-5

256-1508
Visa/MC/Check

Hillel's One Credit Courses
Spring Semester

CONTEMPORARY JEWISH WOMEN WRITERS
J.S. 192E #408211
Alternate Wednesdays 7-9 p.m. (begins 1/31)
Instructor: Leslie Morris
For Location call 545-2526

Explore the writings of Ozick, Piercy, Rich, Paley, Kaye-Kantrowitz, Klepfisz and others. Questions we will address are: How—if at all—is Jewishness inscribed in these texts? What does it mean to be a Jewish woman writer? How do these various writers treat history in general and the holocaust in particular? Can we speak of a unified "Jewish Women Writing?"

100 YEARS OF ZIONISM
J.S. 192D #408064
Alternate Wednesdays 3-5 p.m. (begins 1/31)
Instructor: Micha Balf
Dickinson 109

From the ideas and struggles that led to the founding of the state of Israel through the events of the last decade with particular emphasis on the development of the Israel/Arab conflict. Will include lectures, videos, debate and guest speakers.

To Register: Bring Add-Drop form to the Hillel Office before Monday, Feb. 12

Free Buffet
4:30 to 6:00
Wednesday thru Friday
At FitzWilly's restaurant bar

24 Main St., Northamton • 584-8666

men's hoop rises toward top of Atlantic 10

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

The phenomenon known as UMass had caught on, and everyone was trying to catch a glimpse of it. The Cage was packed for the West Virginia game, an electric crowd the likes of which hadn't been around in quite awhile.

Thus, anyone lucky enough to be there that night can probably say they saw the biggest UMass win in the last 13 years. Undaunted by the nationally-prominent Mountaineers, UMass blew out to a 40-28 lead at the break, extended that to 17 in the second half, and then held off a spirited charge by the visitors to take an 83-79 win.

Two days later, the dreams of die-hard hoop fans, the ones who had to live through the 5-48 two-year record of Ray Wilson, the dull days of Tom McLaughlin and the troubled ride of Ron Gerlufsen, came true. There it was, splashed on the sports agate page of newspapers across the country. One member of the Cage crowd of 4,024 (the third sellout in four games) proudly paraded it about on a sign:

"UMass hoop — 36 and counting down."

It was in reference to the latest Associated Press national poll in which the Minutemen received seven points, placing them in a tie with Connecticut for 36th in the US of A.

Letdown? Nah. This was just getting fun, and in celebration, UMass went out and pounded St. Bonaventure, 82-55, to go to 10-3 overall and 6-0 in the A-10.

Everyone, it seemed, wanted in on the bandwagon. People who had never heard of UMass suddenly wanted tickets. But Calipari was still cautious, while West Virginia coach Gale Catlett was saying, "Wait until they go on the road before I tell you how good they are."

To the road it was, UMass making early stops to Penn State and Temple. On their visit to State College, the bubble finally burst, with a little help from the officials. UMass was whistled for four technical fouls, including two costly ones late in the game that helped the Lions pull out a 74-71 win.

UMass still managed to hold onto first place, but only momentarily. For in order to stake any claim to the A-10, thou must beat Temple, and doing it at McGonigle Hall isn't easy.

It almost happened on Jan. 21, with 150 or so UMass groupies hootin' and hollerin' as the Minutemen stunned everyone, jumping out to a 37-32 halftime lead and extending it to 11 to start the second half.

But, as Calipari had been preaching all along, the youthful Minutemen were vulnerable to succumbing to big-game pressure. With first place on the line, the Owls made a big run, UMass couldn't recover, and Temple picked up a deceptive 86-69 win.

Which brings us back to the present. UMass has the tools to be one of the better teams in the conference, as it has proven throughout the season.

Individually, McCoy continues his starry ways, averaging 20.8 points a game and winning A-10 Player-of-the-Week honors twice. If he can keep pace, he would be UM's first 20-ppg. player since a guy named Erving clogged the Curry Hicks air space back in the good ol' days of '71.

The numbers aren't much more impressive than last year, when McCoy averaged 19.8 as a freshman. But the difference this time around is that there is more than one player. Plenty more, in fact.

Barbee is averaging 12 points and 4.7 boards a game, and has been given A-10 rookie honors three times. Inside, cult hero Herndon is averaging 11.5 points and 5.6 rebounds, freshman Harper Williams (8.5 points, 5.4 rebounds) has been a steady defender and junior John Tate is among the top rebounders in the conference (6.7 per game). Freshman Tommy Pace has come off the bench to provide valuable minutes, averaging 3.0 points and 3.8 boards.

On the outside, Rafer Giles (8.3 points) remains as the crowd-pleasing three-point threat. Senior Chris Bailey comes off the bench to help lead the offense.

And Herer, simply put, has been an amazing story in himself. After having playing only 239 minutes in his first three years, Herer has jumped into the spotlight. His 7.7 assists per game lead the A-10 and are 11th nationally, while his 2.7 steals are second in the conference.

Finally, there is Calipari, doing exactly what everyone hoped he would. There were high expectations when he arrived in Amherst. He had goals to turn things around, to dig UMass basketball out of the deep funk it had been in for years and years.

The record will say that he has been successful. But just as one year isn't a yardstick to measure by, a half-season is even less so.

Nevertheless, what has happened over the month has caught a lot of people by surprise. And you're probably one of them.

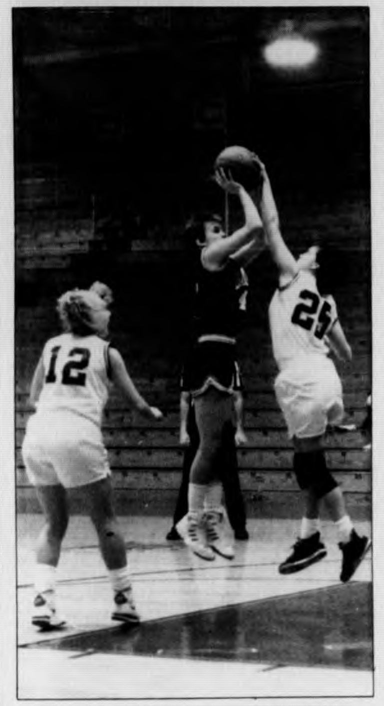

Photo by Jeff Holland

Michele Pytko blocks a shot in a recent game as teammate Patty Robak (12) looks on.

women

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

three-pointers) pace UMass, which drops to 3-11. Robak drops in 12 off the pine.

The Minutewomen shoot 8-for-33 (24 percent) in the first half and trail big, 41-26, as a result. The second half is much better, at 52 percent (12-for-23), but UMass can't overcome its first-half deficit.

So the team welcomes back its classmates sporting a 3-11 record, 1-5 in the Atlantic 10, with three games still to be played before classes start today (Thursday vs. Rhode Island, Saturday vs. Temple, last night vs. St. Joseph's, all at the Cage).

Despite their record, there have been some good things shown. Hair, since moving into the starting lineup, has averaged 9.0 points and 3.6 rebounds. She's also gotten to the charity stripe a lot (alomst five attempts a game) and has hit 86 percent of the time.

In addition, Freeman and McCusker have had some success up front, and Serafini has found her scoring touch (now up to 7.6 ppg) and has been strong on the boards.

UMass just needs everyone to play well on a consistent basis. Only then will the L's start start turning into W's.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Blossom,
Thrive,
Flourish.

University of Massachusetts at Amherst
Spring 1990

Plant the seed of knowledge this spring at the UMass Division of Continuing Education. Choose from over 100 hardy and fast-sprouting credit courses for a well-rooted and enduring future.

Late register for Continuing Education evening classes or University day classes, on a space-available basis, through February 12 in Room 615 Goodell Building.

For more information, or a free course catalog, call the Division of Continuing Education at 545-2414.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

HUNAN GOURMET

京 CHINESE RESTAURANT 湘

The aroma, sound & taste of authentic Chinese cuisine prepared Hunan, Szechuan, Mandarin or Cantonese style—especially for you!

- Ample Free Parking
- Major Credit Cards Accepted
- Full Liquor License
- Open 7 Days A Week
- Take-Out Service Available
- No MSG

585-0202
261 King St., Northampton, MA

Sale 30% on all non-perscription sunglasses WITH THIS AD

Ray-Ban

Amherst Optical Shoppe

Eye exams available by appointment
Independant Dr. of Optometry on premesis

(413) 256-6403

195 No. Pleasant St.
Amherst, MA 01002

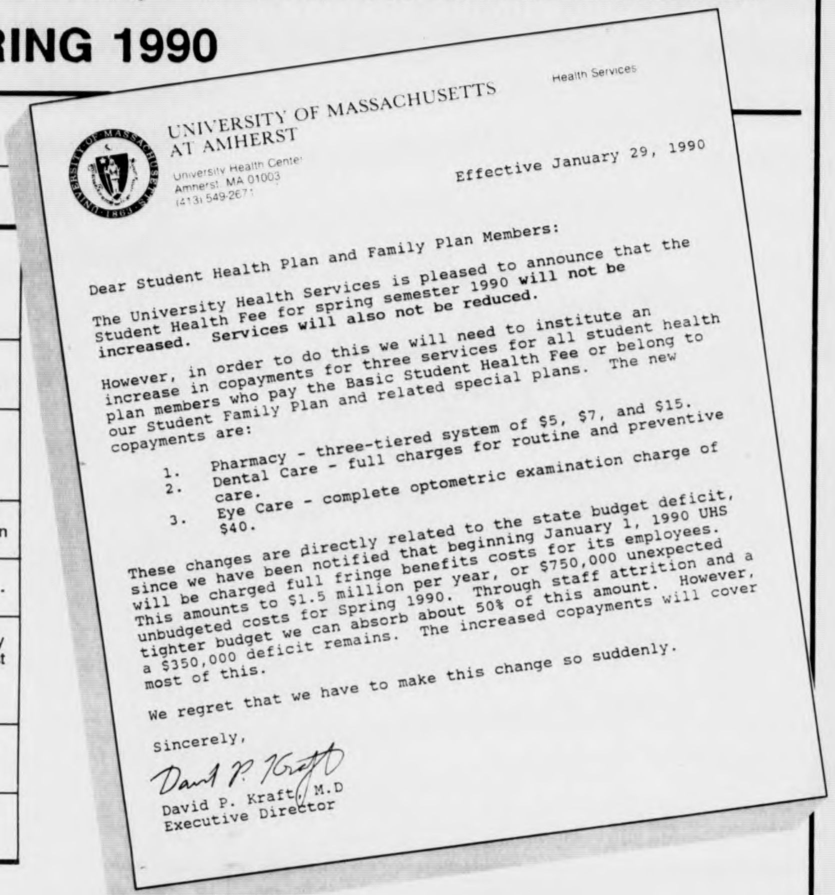
uhs

New University Health Services Benefits Information

SPRING 1990

Important Telephone Numbers
549-2671	To report an Emergency and receive instructions for obtaining care (9-549-2671 from campus phone)24 hours a day!
545-3111	Campus security (police) for on campus Emergency transportation
549-2600	Appointments with physicians, nurse practitioners, optometrist, nutritionist.
545-2400	Dental appointments and information
545-2337	Mental health appointments
549-2671	General information about University Health Services and to contact most staff members and offices, also Health Education.
545-2682	Environmental Health & Safety - to report health hazards.

EMERGENCIES - 24 hours per day - 7 days per week



UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AT AMHERST
Health Services
University Health Center
Amherst, MA 01003
(413) 549-2671

Effective January 29, 1990

Dear Student Health Plan and Family Plan Members:

The University Health Services is pleased to announce that the Student Health Fee for spring semester 1990 will not be increased. Services will also not be reduced.

However, in order to do this we will need to institute an increase in copayments for three services for all student health plan members who pay the Basic Student Health Fee or belong to our Student Family Plan and related special plans. The new copayments are:

1. Pharmacy - three-tiered system of $5, $7, and $15.
2. Dental Care - full charges for routine and preventive care.
3. Eye Care - complete optometric examination charge of $40.

These changes are directly related to the state budget deficit, since we have been notified that beginning January 1, 1990 UHS will be charged full fringe benefits costs for its employees. This amounts to $1.5 million per year, or $750,000 unexpected unbudgeted costs for Spring 1990. Through staff attrition and a tighter budget we can absorb about 50% of this amount. However, a $350,000 deficit remains. The increased copayments will cover most of this.

We regret that we have to make this change so suddenly.

Sincerely,

David P. Kraft

David P. Kraft, M.D
Executive Director

uhs

BASIC STUDENT HEALTH BENEFITS QUICK REFERENCE

	Fall 1989	Spring 1990	Changes
Basic Student Health Fee	$146 / semester	$146	none
Physician and Nurse Visits	Prepaid	Same	none
Mental Health	Visits 1-10 prepaid	Same	none
Dental Care	1) Emergencies - prepaid 2) Non-emergency care sample changes:	Same	none
	-Scaling/Prophylaxis $30 -Four surface filling $50 -Full mouth X-Rays $20	$36.00* $60.00* $29.00*	Increase $6 Increase $10 Increase $9
Laboratory	Prepaid	Same	none
X-Ray	Prepaid	Same	none
Physical Therapy	Prepaid	Same	none
Eye Care	1) Emergencies - Prepaid	Same	none
	2) Complete Optometry Examination $20	$40*	Increase $20
	3) Contact Lens Service Varied Fees	Same	none
Health Education	Prepaid	Same	none
Pharmacy Prescription	Formulary Items: Two Tier Copayment: Medication/1 month supply $2	Formulary Items: Three Tier Copayment: Medication cost less than $25/one month supply $5	Increase $3
		Medication cost more than $25/one month supply $15	Increase $13
	Birth Control Pills/one month supply $7	Same	none
	Non-Formulary Items: Cost plus $3.50	Same	none

*10% discount if paid the day of service

$5 additional service charge if billed

NEWS

A former instructor donates a house to provide faculty with affordable housing. Page 3.

FOCUS

A look at increased recycling efforts throughout western Massachusetts. Page 5.

SPORTS

No rage in the Cage: UMass men's basketball destroyed by UConn, 94-75. Page 16.

WEDNESDAY

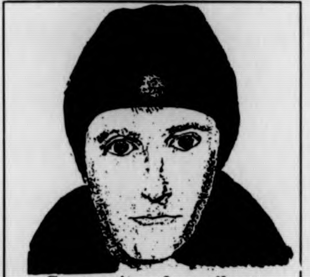
THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 31, 1990

COLLEGIAN

VOLUME CXXIV LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 2

Investigation intensifies

$7,500 offered for more information



Composite of assailant

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

HADLEY — Investigators and local business owners hope to gather more information about Sharon Galligan's murder with a postering campaign and a $7,500 reward for information, according to Massachusetts State Police Lt. Edward Harrington.

State police have already distributed more than 400 posters in the Hadley area, primarily on the University of Massachusetts campus. The posters include Galligan's photo and a composite sketch of the murderer, he said.

"We are particularly interested in any student who might have seen something [at the mall], but had already left school," he said. Police are also looking for someone who might know if Galligan had problems with anyone, he said.

Harrington said he hopes the reward, offered by the Hampshire Mall, the Mountain Farms Mall, JC Penney, K-Mart and The Daily Hampshire Gazette, will encourage people to call the Hampshire-Franklin County District Attorney Judd Carhart's office with such information.

"We hope people will come forth without

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14

GEO wants recognition; threatens possible strike

By MARIA SACCHETTI
Collegian Staff

Leaders of the Graduate Employee Organization have warned University of Massachusetts administrators that a job action, possibly a strike, will ensue if the organization is not officially recognized as a union by Feb. 7.

GEO leaders placed the University on notice after the student strike in November when scores of teaching assistants and research assistants rallied to muster the votes necessary to form a union. GEO, which had attempted for two years previously to form a union, is now affiliated with District 65/United Auto Workers. "We've reached the level of membership where we can demand recognition," said Gerald McCausland, a member of the GEO coordinating committee.

Members of the coordinating committee have been involved in negotiations with the administration since January to discuss three demands unanimously passed by GEO on Dec. 12.

The demands are: a written recognition of GEO from the University administration, a ban on graduate student fee increases and the recission of a $400 curriculum fee increase levied for this semester on all full-time, degree seeking students, and the assurance that the total number of graduate employee jobs will remain the same for this semester.

Committee members are meeting with Susan Pearson, director of Academic Administration. She is serving as a representative from the Provost's office in the negotiation process.

In an interview last week, Pearson said the meetings have been "productive" and expressed the University's

CONTINUED ON PAGE 2

Collegian photo by K.A. Burke

From left to right, Gerald McCausland, Paul Nakroskis, and Elizabeth Kruse of the Graduate Employees Organization.

Afro-American History Month promotes appreciation of diversity

By DARREN GARNICK
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts will kick off the celebration of Afro-American History Month beginning tomorrow with a mix of educational and social activities.

Afro-American History Month, according to UMass Director of Third World Affairs Sherwood Thompson, was established to recognize the contributions of Afro-Americans in United States history.

"We are inviting the community to get a greater appreciation of the differences and culture of Afro-American students on campus," Thompson said.

"This month," he said, "will provide an opportunity [for the community] to interact with the Afro-American students, staff and faculty for the purpose of bettering relations and generating a greater appreciation for each other."

The Office of Third World Affairs will start the month long event with a workshop, "Campus Ethnoviolence: The Policy Options." The workshop, to be presented by the National Institute of Prejudice and Violence, will be in the Campus Center Reading Room from 1-5 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 8.

"The workshop will present strategies for institutions and individuals for preventing racism and acts of racial intolerance on campus," he said.

On Monday, Feb. 12, the African

CONTINUED ON PAGE 2

New spending plan criticized

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Many legislators are "disgusted" with Gov. Dukakis' $12.6 billion no-new-taxes spending plan that was unveiled last Wednesday.

Dukakis said the budget proposal was necessary after the failure of a revenue package when House leaders could not garner enough support.

Rep. Stan Rosenberg (D-Amherst) said he is doubtful this package will produce any shifts in support for a tax package.

"People are saying the budget proposal is designed to be political, that it's designed to cause confusion and hurt in order to build support for the tax package, but that is ludicrous," he said.

Saying the passage of a revenue package is the only way to help an already 'irrational' situation, Rosenberg added, "It would be too rational that people would do the right thing."

"We've gone way beyond the point where we've cut $1.3 billion from the state budget, and we still have a $500 million deficit," Rosenberg said.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 2

Long lines welcome students home

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Hundreds of snow-covered students stood in long lines Monday, scrambling to add courses to their schedules after recent budget cuts left many without enough classes.

With soggy schedules reading, "oversubscribed," "canceled," and "could not schedule," students formed lines outside the department doors as early as 11 p.m. Sunday to assure a good place in line. By 7:30 Monday morning, many lines had extended outside where it was snowing.

Robert Berger, senior English major, said he arrived at Bartlett Hall at 5:30 Monday morning to find some 60 or 70 students had beaten him to the front of the English line.

"I just need that one more class to graduate," he said, "and I was wait-listed [for the English class.]"

After waiting in line for more than three hours, Berger said that much of the pent-up frustrations of the students, "brought me back to the days of the fifth grade lunch lines where no one could take cuts."

Andrea Wainer, senior Education major, who waited outside in lines to sign up for courses she pre-registered for, said that due to an "administrative problem" her schedule was not printed out and received no classes even though she paid her bill on time.

"I just received two letters," she said. "[The Registrar's office] said that I should receive 'help' in signing up for my classes. If I don't get these classes, I won't graduate."

Karen Gardner, senior pre-communications major who received only one class on her schedule, arrived at Thompson Hall by 4:30 a.m. Monday to wait in line to add a communications class.

Five hours after standing in the communications line and signing two waiting lists, Gardner said she "went to the Com Lit line [at South College] and waited out in the snow."

Early Monday afternoon many departments had closed more than 50 classes and sections as students remained in line outside in the snow.

Attempting to avoid long lines, some departments decided to hand out tickets for students to come back for appointments.

A teaching assistant giving out tickets for the history department, said fewer students came to get tickets this semester than last.

"I think that a lot [of students] are frustrated by the limited openings and cancelations and just aren't trying to add classes," she said.

Norman Sims, chairman of the Journalism department, said the first person in the line for a journalism class got there at 5 a.m.

"By 7:30, the hallway was clogged with students waiting in the English line," he said. "The line started in the basement and went all the way up to the second floor."

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN
113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA, 01003.
Phone (413) 545-3500 FAX (413) 545-1592

STAFF

Editor in Chief ..... Maria Sacchetti
Managing Editor ..... George Austin
Editorial Editor ..... Minu Sebastian
News Editor ..... Lisa Shapiro
Sports Editor ..... Jim Clark
Arts Editor ..... Al Kaufman, Will Georgiades
Photography Editor ..... Dondi Ahearn
Women's Issues Editor ..... Danielle Bionda
Multicultural Affairs Editor ..... Scott C. Hill
Business Manager ..... Robert J. Bikash
Advertising Manager ..... Jennifer Ronan
Finance Manager ..... Martina Rios
Circulation Manager ..... Chris Baker
Subscription Manager ..... Joya Faretra
Production Managers ..... Terry Starmer, Mike Wester
Ad Manager ..... Rory Evans

PROFESSIONAL STAFF

Business ..... Brian Harrington, Maureen Majerowski, Lori Black
Graphics ..... Andrea Belanger

New England's largest college daily newspaper. Circulation: 21,000. Published every weekday of the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts.

■ GEO warns of possible strike

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

concern that the matter be resolved.

"I think it's important to remember that the administration and graduate students share many of the same concerns," she said. "We've been particularly concerned for several years about the level of graduate student stipends."

GEO members have scheduled a general meeting for Feb. 15, eight days after the deadline, to discuss the status of the negotiations and the possibility of a job action.

Elizabeth Kruse, GEO member, said graduate employees are particularly concerned about the $400 fee increase because graduate employees often use their wages to compensate for rising tuition and fee costs.

"We view that fee increase as a pay cut," she said.

In order to be fully recognized as a collective bargaining unit, GEO must be recognized by the Board of Regents, which oversees public higher education in Massachusetts.

But GEO member Paul Nakroshis said the organization is pressing for the administration's support to increase the likelihood that the Regents will recognize it as a union.

"What we want is different from sitting down and talking with the University," he said. "With collective bargaining, you have the right to negotiate the contract. We strongly feel it is the Chancellor's responsibility to get us that right."

Nakroshis said GEO also is concerned about securing a pay increase and health benefits for graduate students. Also a priority is the establishment of a grievance procedure so graduate employees will have a formal avenue to file complaints, he said.

"Once we've got that recognition, they can't just lay us off," he said. "They have to negotiate."

■ History Month

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

American Students Society and the Black Mass Communications Project are sponsoring a lecture by Patricia Russell-McCloud, a lawyer certified to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court, at 7 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

The African Students Association is sponsoring a panel discussion on African politics on Tuesday, Feb. 13, at 7 p.m. in Campus Center room 163. Panelists include representatives from the Organization of African Unity and the African National Congress.

Actor Don Oliver will portray Paul Robeson (1898-1976), an actor, singer, football player, lawyer and civil rights activist, in "Robeson!", a musical one-person tribute on Wednesday, Feb. 14, in Bowker Auditorium. The show is sponsored by the New World Theater.

"Trio Unique," a trombone-tuba-piano ensemble, will play on Thursday, Feb. 22 at 8 p.m. at the Hampden Theater. The concert is sponsored by WMUA, the Union Program Council, and the Residential Arts Program.

Editor's Note: See FYI for additional events

■ spending plan criticized

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

The plan recommended a $57 million cut to higher education, as well as severe cuts to Medicaid, state law enforcement, local aid, hazardous waste site cleanup, pensions and public assistance.

Mary Padula, Senate Minority Whip and taxation committee member, called the spending plan 'mean' by targeting human services.

"Higher education and local aid had already been chopped to hell [before the budget proposal]," Padula said, "further cuts should not be made — do not have to be made."

Saying that these cuts are proposed on the "backs of the citizens," she suggested that state money for private schools, a number of court officers and funding for convention centers could be cut.

Charging Dukakis with purposely up-scaled spending estimates in order to scare people into a tax package, Padula said, "The public won't buy it [the budget]. There is no way it will be passed."

Rep. William P. Nagle (D-Northampton) questioned where Dukakis' priorities were when creating this package.

Nagle said Dukakis' proposal implied that if he doesn't get a "revenue package there's going to be blood on the streets."

He criticized Dukakis for vetoing a bill that would have eliminated some press secretaries instead of cutting vital services such as higher education and Medicaid.

While he supports a tax increase, the proposed budget damages the chances of a new tax package getting any support, he said.

David H. Locke (R-Wellesley) described the budget proposal as a "scare tactic, plain and simple, designed to terrorize the taxpayers into supporting a tax package."

By cutting virtually every vital function performed by government, Locke said, Dukakis' package could cripple the state.

Locke attacked the decision to cut 400 police officers and 2400 prison beds during a nation-wide crackdown on drug abuse.

For Your Information

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1990

Cancer therapy support group — There will be a support group for cancer patients, their family and friends. First of eight sessions, led by Margaret Gosselin, MPS, and Albey Reiner, PhD. Sliding fee $120 to 140. For information and registration call 549-6664.

Movie — The Feb. Gay, Lesbian, and Bisexual Film Series will present Torch Song Trilogy at 7 p.m. in the Campus Center. Free.

Correction

In yesterday's edition, the starting date for counseling services available for older students at CASIAC was incorrectly stated. According to CASIAC, counseling will not start until next week.

Also, to clarify an item in the retrospective section: Other students of color in addition to African-American students were involved in the 1988 New Africa House takeover.

Interested in Video?
Now Hiring Work Study
Cable Assistants
$3.75/hr. 10 hrs./week

No expereince needed—Enthusiastic & responsible!
Contact Marija L. Boily ASAP at 545-1336
Union Video Center 216 Student Union

BEAUTY LOTION
12 FL OZ

PUBLIC HEALTH COURSES

Public Health 301—Principles of Community Health Education
Tues. & Thurs., 2:30-3:45 p.m. 3 credits
Learn how health education works! We have only one method to stop the AIDS epidemic, reduce the effects of smoking on health and prevent the occurence of other threats to our health. that method is health education. This course presents the methods and approaches used by health educators to achieve these goals.
Contact Prof. Al Winder, 545-1314, for more information.

Public Health 30?—Community Organization and Development
Tues. & Thurs., 9:30-10:45 p.m., 3 credits
Our health is affected by the water we drink, the air we breathe, and the food we eat. Conventional wisdom would have us believe that if we buy bottled water, eat organically grown food, and don't breathe we will be o.k. Not so! This course deals with organizing communities to empower people to come together and change conditions that affect their health adversely.
Contact Prof. Kathryn Green, 545-1312, for more information.
REGISTRATION: 120 ARNOLD HOUSE

Scott's LIQUORS
OPEN MON-SAT 8 AM-11 PM
Tel. 549-2692
6 University Drive
at Newmarket Center
Amherst
diagonnaly across from UMASS Stadium

Welcome Back from Scott's Liquors!

$9.99 + dep.

Miller Lite Suitcase 24-12 oz. Cans
$11.49 + dep.

Southern Comfort 750 ml
$7.49

Captain Morgan Spiced Rum 750 ml
$6.99

Nappa Ridge Chardonnay 750 ml
$4.99

Miller Genuine Draft 12 pack Bottles
$5.99 + dep.

Smirnoff Vodka 750 ml
$6.99

Peachtree Schnapps 750 ml
$6.49

VISA/MASTERCARD ACCEPTED
ALSO LOCAL PERSONAL CHECKS

Plus many instore and rebate specials!!
Kegs Available
Prices good 1/29 thru 2/3, 1990

WE WANT TO BE YOUR FAVORITE LIQUOR STORE

LOCAL

New program offers faculty cheaper homes

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

The donation of a former faculty member's house launched a new program last month to provide housing at below-market cost for faculty members at the University of Massachusetts.

Ester Wallace, a physical education instructor who retired in 1987 after a 33-year teaching career, donated her home as a "life estate gift" to the University.

Wallace will live in her home as long she likes and will receive charitable tax deductions for her donation. When she no longer needs the house, she will make it available for the University to rent out to faculty, said Roger Hewett, a member of the University Real Estate Committee.

Though this program has just begun, Hewett is actively seeking more housing for the program.

"As soon as we get houses, we will make them available to the faculty," he said.

Hewett said the program will provide incentives for faculty members to consider working at the University "while getting to know the community by renting [the houses] for three years."

Provost Richard O'Brien, who helped Hewett establish the program, said the high cost of housing in this area discourages potential faculty.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14

Collegian photo by K.A. Burke

GET 'EM WHILE THEY LAST — Students stock up on textbooks in the Textbook Annex, yesterday.

Education, not legalization, may solve drug problem says Biden

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Joe Biden, U.S. Senator D-Delaware at Amherst College Monday.

By MICHAEL WESTER
Collegian Staff

The problem of drugs in the United States cannot be solved through legalization of drugs but instead through education, research and targeting "hard-core" drug users, said U.S. Sen. Joseph Biden (D-Delaware) Monday at Amherst College.

In a lecture titled, "No Quick Fix: Drugs in America" Biden, chairman of the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee, outlined his alternative drug plan to a crowd of 400 in Johnson Chapel.

Rather than follow the current plan that targets the "casual [drug] user" and also involves long-term foreign aid policies to decrease drug production overseas, Biden said, "We should be doing things we know work."

One of the strategies that has been proven to work is drug education, he said.

He noted a study which revealed that students who have been educated about drug abuse are five times less likely to consume cocaine than ones who have not. "It's not a perfect solution, but its a hell of a lot bigger bang for the buck than what we're doing now," he said.

The U.S. government also should put increased emphasis on research on drug abuse and addiction, he said. "There is a lot of promise out there," he said. "We should be spending a great deal more energy on drug research, not unlike the major efforts we have made on AIDS and cancer."

He urged the government to shift its focus from casual drug users. whose numbers have dropped in the past four-and-a-half years, to rehabilitating the "hard-core" or chronic user.

Biden also outlined his proposal for a "debt-for-drugs swap" with cocaine-producing nations, a proposal he said has already been accepted by "all three of the major Andean governments as a way to deal with this problem."

In his proposal to the foreign governments, Biden suggested: "We'll buy up your debt if you re-invest any portion of that money in rural development and agricultural alternatives."

In addition to outlining his plan, Biden refuted several arguments used by those who support legalization of drugs, one of which is that legalizing drugs would "decriminalize" the industry.

Biden said there will always be black marketeers who are willing to sell drugs and, if drugs are taxed, there will always be people selling drugs without the proper taxes.

The theory that legalization will lead to a decrease in violent crime also is flawed, he said.

"One of the things we're finding out about coke is that those who are addicted to cocaine and synthetic derivatives display violent tendencies, and not because they need money to buy, but because of the drug's effect on them as human beings," he said.

"Not withstanding what Jimmy Carter said, and not withstanding what Presidents Bush and Reagan said, we will not eliminate drugs in our time," he said. "But we can fundamentally turn the drug problem around from epidemic proportions that affects everything from our ability to compete internationally straight through to the violence that is spawned by the consumption and trafficking in drugs."

Undergrad senate organizes

By JULIE LIVINGSTONE
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate will convene for the spring semester tonight, intent on streamlining finances, structure and committee functions, said Student Speaker John Dunlap.

However, he said tonight's meeting will be purely organizational. "There was just so much to be done, I felt we needed to discuss things and make plans," Dunlap said.

On the agenda for this semester are several revisions which target the bylaws of the Student Government Association's constitution.

One proposal involves the revision of chapter nine, which defines the "Student Activities Regulations" in the SGA bylaws, he said.

The proposal seeks to keep better track of functioning Registered Student Organizations by declaring them "inactive" when the fiscal year begins July 1.

To reactivate their organizations in the fall, RSO representatives must fill out a four-page form, he said, noting that this method will allow the SGA to obtain a continually updated list of all RSOs.

"All the groups will have to do is stop in and let us know they still exist," Dunlap said. "Some groups neglect their duties, don't pick up their mail, etc., and we have no way of knowing whether they're still a group. It makes it simpler all around."

The proposal seeks to cancel the old system wherein the SGA's constitution mandated a three-year review, Dunlap said, adding that the three-year system was inefficient.

"It was just never enforced," he said. "We had RSOs on file that had not given us updated goals, missions, officer lists or constitutions since as early as the 1960s. We had things like Students for George McGovern and crazy, crazy things," he said.

The SGA Budgets Committee has been working on a budget act that will deal with the Student Activities Trust Fund (SATF), which funds various student agencies and services on campus, and the revenues from RSOs, said Karen Talbot, committee chairwoman.

Also, the SGA and the Union Program Council will focus their energies on only one spring concert event this year, she said.

Students favor Murphy; four run as delegates

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

As candidates battle to become governor of Massachusetts, four University of Massachusetts students are trying to join the fight on the side of Democratic candidate and Lt. Gov. Evelyn Murphy.

Seniors Timothy Wood and Robert Smith, who also is running for Amherst Select Board, junior Ted Chambers, and Student Trustee Eric Nakajima will be among the people running as delegates for the Murphy campaign.

Nakajima said he supports Murphy because of her strong committment to the environment, education, higher taxes and public services. He said he also favors her "staunch" pro-choice stance on the issue of abortion.

"Uncommitted people are saying there's no candidate with leadership," Nakajima said, claiming that Murphy is the only candidate who has committed herself to securing the University's future.

"We can't do that by cutting services we need to build that future," he said of preserving UMass' future.

Nakajima said Murphy understands the needs of the University and of public higher education. Murphy is a member of a commission that requested state Legislature to allocate an additional $250 million in funds to higher education, he said.

Although Nakajima predicted that Murphy will win, he said it is important for people to work to bolster her campaign. He said her candidacy will suffer at the Democratic State Convention on June 1 and 2 in Springfield if she cannot muster the party's support.

"The problem is that people are battered by what [the state Legislature] has done to the budget and the University," he said. "Legislators have undermined

There will be a

NEW WRITERS MEETING

Monday

at

3 p.m.

all majors and writers welcome!

Ellen Clegg,

assistant metro editor

for

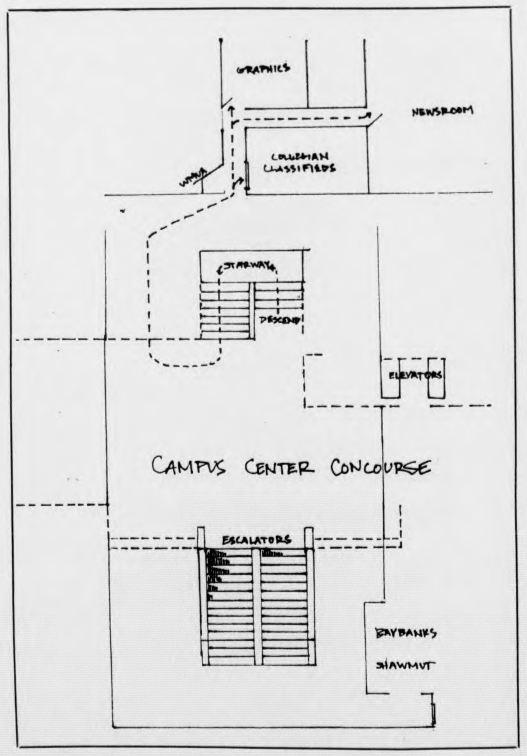
The Boston Globe

will speak on covering issues of race

Time—3 p.m.
Place—Meet at the Collegian

We know how to reach you...

Do you know how to find us?



The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, MA 01003 545-3500

FOCUS

Recycling at UMass saves money and trees

Campus-wide program collects newspapers from residence halls

BY JANINE WARNER
Collegian Staff

The Residential Recycling Program at the University of Massachusetts collected 25 tons of newspapers last semester; enough to save the UMass budget $1,600 and spare 425 trees, said the program's coordinator.

But, coordinator Sherill Baldwin said the program, which began last September, only collected ten percent of the newspapers thrown away in residence halls.

Baldwin said increasing promotional efforts is key to improving participation in the program. "We hope to enlighten students on the idea of recycling, waste reduction, and conservation," she said.

Larry Boyer, one of the program's six assistant coordinators, said pick-up sites have been established in every residence hall on campus, but participation has been inconsistent.

Some residence halls have collected as much as 2.5 tons of newspaper, while others have not participated in the program at all, he said.

The program, which is run almost exclusively by undergraduate students, was developed last summer from recommendations made by the UMass Solid Waste Planning Committee.

The committee commissioned Earthworm, Inc., a Boston-based non-profit organization, to study solid waste disposal at the University.

Earthworm, whose stated purpose is to offer recycling services, technical assistance, and environmental education, then presented a solid waste recycling plan to the University.

According to their report, if implemeted, this plan will earn revenues, reduce the waste tipping fees paid by the University, and recover the amount of recyclable material necessary to reduce the risk of penalties for dumping recyclables.

John Finley, the assistant director of Housing Services, said materials collected by the program are currently being sold for $11 per ton to National Fiber, Inc., a company in Belchertown which uses the paper to make insulation.

But Finley said, it is the savings in tipping fees and other disposal costs which make the program cost effective.

As Amherst limits what goes into the landfill, the cost of waste disposal was inevitably going to go up, Finley said. "We consider the cost of this program an investment," he said.

Baldwin was hired by Housing Services last May to organize the program. In addition to running the program, Baldwin said she teaches a recycling education course for the School of Education.

The three-credit class combines lectures, discussions and field trips to educate students about recycling, conservation, and waste reduction, Baldwin said.

"We're trying to educate students to enable them to educate each other," she said.

Boyer said the Residential Recycling Program is currently limited to the collection of newpapers, but hopes to expand to collecting other recyclable materials next year.

Collegian photo by John Woo

Margaret Wilson of Belchertown recycling glass bottles at the Amherst landfill.

Nation's largest recycling facility open in W. Mass

Amherst to enforce mandatory recycling in coming months

By JANINE WARNER
Collegian Staff

If you live in one of the 85 western Massachusetts cities or towns scheduled to participate in the new Materials Recycling Facility, you may soon be faced with a choice: separate recyclable waste from the rest of your garbage or pay a fee and haul your trash to the dump yourself.

"One of the requirments for joining the state's program was to pass a law to ensure participation," said Steve Ellis, the western Massachusetts Recycling Program Manager.

Ellis, who works for the Department of Environmetal Protection, said once towns have passed such a law it is up to each to decide what the penalties will be for not recylcing. Some programs will refuse to collect unsorted trash, others will issue fines, he said.

The Materials Recycling Facility, which officially opened Jan. 16 in Springfield, was constructed to help local governments offset the soaring costs of trash disposal and provide an alternative to landfills and incinerators, he said.

Amherst was the first city to participate when it began a pilot program for MRF on Dec. 4, Ellis said. Nearly 70 other cities and towns have now joined the program, which ultimately will collect materials from 700,000 residents, he said.

Recycled materials are sold to help offset the cost of running the facility but the real benefit is the money saved by not sending trash to incinerators or landfills, he said.

Ellis predicts that the facility, which costs $5 million to construct, will be financially self-sufficient in less than five years and ultimately save area towns $3 million per year in waste disposal costs.

The MRF, (pronounced "murf"), is the largest facility of its kind in the nation and has the capability to process nearly 240 tons of recyclable paper, glass, and metal each day, according to a brochure from the Department of Environmental Protection.

While Amherst officials are not enforcing recycling laws yet, they will take action in the next few months, said Noel Ryan, superintendent of the Amherst Public Works Department. "We want people to get used to it first," he said.

Ultimately, Ryan said, "We will instruct collectors not to pick up [trash bags] if recyclable material has not been separated.

"We still have to work out the details." he said. "We may ask for the use of clear plastic bags," he said.

Mandatory recycling laws will only effect single family homes and apartments with four units or less, but other residents also are encouraged to participate in the program, Ryan said.

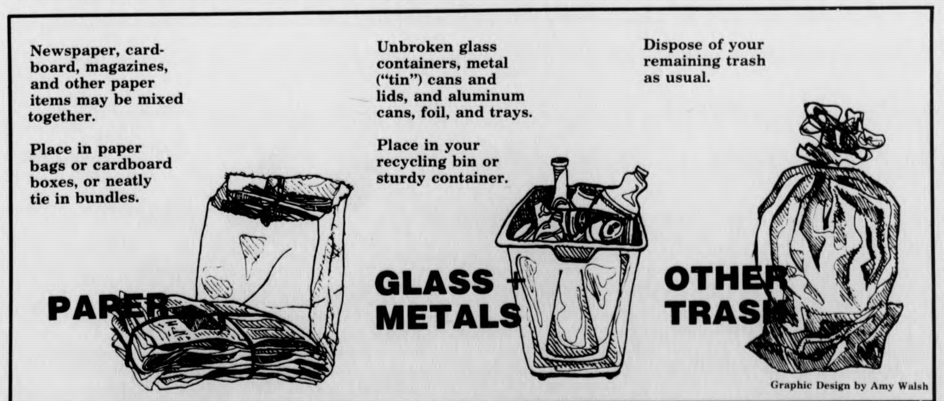
Anyone can bring recyclables to the Amherst Landfill themselves and many apartment complexes, such as Pufton Village, have established their own drop-off cites.

To encourage participation, blue recycling bins have been provided free-of-charge to participants. Cans and bottles can be combined in one container and newspapers, cardboard boxes and other paper goods in another, Ryan said. Residents need not remove labels or flatten cans, he said.

The MRF will ultimately use 30 employees to sort and prepare materials for recycling. A Springfield company was contracted to run the facility and market its products, Ellis said.

In the past, the lack of a steady supply of recycled goods has made marketing difficult, Ryan said. The MRF anticipates avoiding this problem by combing municipal efforts to produce 240,000 tons of recycled material every day, he said.

The MRF is marketing materials locally and internationally, but because competition for these markets is so fierce, Ellis refused to say exactly where these materials would be sold.



Newspaper, cardboard, magazines, and other paper items may be mixed together.

Place in paper bags or cardboard boxes, or neatly tie in bundles.

Unbroken glass containers, metal ("tin") cans and lids, and aluminum cans, foil, and trays.

Place in your recycling bin or sturdy container.

Dispose of your remaining trash as usual.

Graphic Design by Amy Walsh

ATTENTION
SKI SALE WORKERS:

SKIING is MAGIC MOUNTAIN with the UMass Ski Club.
Our first Saturday trip is February 3rd.

$28 includes lift ticket, bus ride to and from mountain, and morning munchies.
This is the only trip that is
FREE for ski sale workers.
LAGNAF '90

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Blossom,
Thrive,
Flourish.

University of Massachusetts
at Amherst
Spring
1990

Plant the seed of knowledge this spring at the UMass Division of Continuing Education. Choose from over 100 hardy and fast-sprouting credit courses for a well-rooted and enduring future.
Late register for Continuing Education evening classes or University day classes, on a space-available basis, through February 12 in Room 615 Goodell Building.

For more information, or a free course catalog, call the Division of Continuing Education at 545-2414.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

FREE NURSERY • AEROBICS CLASSES • PROGRAMMING FOR ALL AGES •
COMPLETE NAUTILUS WORKOUT ROOM • CARDIOVASCULAR TRAINING CENTER • FOUR RACQUETBALL COURTS
COMPLETELY RENOVATED LOCKER ROOMS • PRO SHOP & CLUB CAFE
3 INDOOR DYNA-TURF TENNIS COURTS • 2 MAGNIFICENT INDOOR CLAY COURTS WORLD RENOWNED TEACHING PROS

WINNERS'
ATHLETIC CLUB
Formerly Amherst Racquet and Fitness Center
Established 20 years

"Winners are those people who make a habit of doing the things losers are uncomfortable doing."
-Edward Forman

A New Decade
A New You
A New Us

Students
Join the New
Winner's Athletic Club
4 months for the price of 3
$125
Full Facility Membership
(Valid Student ID required-Valid until February 28, 1990)
Call Today 549-4545

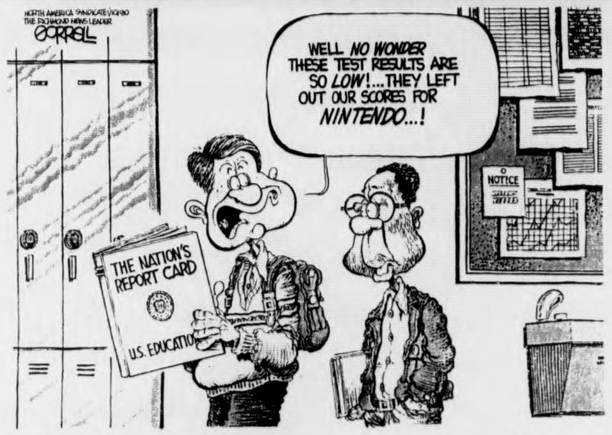
WINNERS' ATHLETIC CLUB
Conveniently located on Rte 116,
4 min North of Rte. 9

LSAT
GMAT
MCAT
GRE
Test Your Best!
Classes Forming Now.

STANLEY H. KAPLAN
Take Kaplan Or Take Your Chances
MCAT Starts Feb. 20th • GRE Starts Feb. 14th
GMAT Starts Feb. 8th • LSAT Begins in March
358 N. Pleasant St. 549-5780
For other locations call 800-KAP-TEST

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted



NORTH AMERICA SYNDICATE 1/10/90
THE RICHMOND NEWS LEADER
GORRELL
WELL NO WONDER THESE TEST RESULTS ARE SO LOW!... THEY LEFT OUT OUR SCORES FOR NINTENDO...!
THE NATION'S REPORT CARD
U.S. EDUCATIO
NOTICE

The mind goes awry with the sound of "Intersession"

Intersession is finally over. I am perhaps the only one excited about the whole thing. If you had to sit at home in Bogota, New Jersey twiddling your thumbs waiting for the third week of January to finally come around, you probably wouldn't be half as disgusted.

Regina Santiago

For five weeks, issues other than figuring out the half-life of dirty laundry or the inconvenience of groping for my ID during security hours in the dorms occupied my time.

At the moment I am trying to pick up remnants of what used to be a somewhat stronger belief in humanity. So Ceausescu's been executed, Noriega's been forcefully (to say the very least) removed and no single dictator has regained control since the Collegian last printed.

Indeed the world has been purged of several significant evils. But then we were rewarded with the likes of Charles Stuart, and suddenly we were back to square one.

The hysteria caused by the grisly murder of his wife and child brought the issue of racism to a disturbing low. For many weeks the press rushed to cover the story with shameless frequency and the police investigated it with tactless contempt. The Stuart case has proven so volatile in its repugnance that the public finds itself in one end of this bizarre spectrum today and another tomorrow. As of now, sympathy for Stuart has turned to disgust, and hateful suspicions of the residents of Mission Hill have suddenly become quiet apologies.

In the meantime, Ceausescu's Romania and Noriega's Panama struggle to rebuild their plundered economies.

More stories of violence and confusion created by misguided principles happened while we sat back and watched throughout the winter break. And while controversies about them still linger, UMass begins a new semester.

As I stood waiting in Add/Drop lines, I felt like an idiot for spending countless hours following the Stuart murder only to find out that it was a well-executed hoax after all. I could feel my heart thumping with wild abandon just thinking that incompetent politicians and bureaucrats actually have a decisive hand in our future.

People commit murder to put up a restaurant. I'm sure others have and will kill for less. Many buy and sell drugs, creating problems for others but reaping its financial benefits without a hint of remorse.

Amherst is a world of its own, where everyday life may not be as physically grueling but just as psychologically draining. We think of "the other world" (where our families live) and we pray each night that someone else might be unlucky enough to be tortured, raped or murdered because we ourselves (or at least I) can't find the strength or the courage to accept the reality of some things.

As I lay on my bed watching Sesame Street today, I suddenly remembered how simple my life used to be. Those were the days when Oscar was the meanest guy on the block but couldn't ruin my day if he tried. I knew that as soon as Luis and Bob started losing their hair nothing would ever be the same again.

As the imminence of my 21st birthday looms above me like a biological clock gone haywire, I remember the silliness of being a kid. I should be happy I'm growing older and I can participate in less silly things and worry about less silly problems, right?

Not really. I like people who allow themselves to be silly without a second thought. I wish life could be as simple as Sesame Street. For once I wish I could go out and play and be a kid again.

Anna Regina Santiago is a UMass student.

Who can I blame now?

So much has happened since last semester, it ought to be hard knowing where to begin.

President Bush invaded Panama, Governor Dukakis said he was sorry, Chancellor Duffey decided to stay at UMass and I decided to leave.

Of these, my decision to quit school clearly has the most significant potential ramifications.

Al Arpad

My choice was affected by the large increases in fees, which I couldn't possibly pay for on such short notice.

With a little luck, I'll be back next year — in time to graduate around my 28th birthday.

With a lot of luck, I will find a way to transfer and graduate from somewhere else, preferably before I'm thirty.

Of course, I'm not happy about the delay, but I don't blame Governor Dukakis or the Legislature for my problems.

I just hope the people who voted for them got what they wanted, although I doubt it.

Similarly, I can't blame the University administrators, even though nobody ever voted for them.

It's not their fault that they hold individually pointless but collectively powerful positions, totally insulated from the needs and concerns of their constituency.

For that matter, it serves no purpose to complain about professors who use their academic status as an excuse to avoid political responsibility rather than as an opportunity to engage in vigorous debate.

I guess the academic reputation of their institution will serve as an apt enough reward for the ongoing pursuit of a sequestered mediocrity under the guise of liberal thought

How could I possibly blame UMass students for allowing their rights and privileges to be eroded in a political system that treats them like unruly children?

I might say college students have justly earned a reputation as irresponsible buttheads, but only because the most responsible and intelligent among them concentrate their efforts on getting the hell out, preferably by graduating.

Meanwhile, the biggest jerks are those who find the time to make their presence known through overt alcoholism, the student Senate, or the editorial pages of the Collegian.

As a great philosopher once said, "If I sound bitter, it's because I am."

I can't say I'm sorry to be leaving, even if it's only temporary. But I am sorry I wasted so much time writing these columns for people who really don't care what I think.

If I'd concentrated on studying or drinking or learning to play the guitar, I might have graduated already.

Or at least had some friends.

I will therefore have no comment on President Bush, Governor Dukakis or Chancellor Duffey — unless of course, they are part of an ancient history course by the time I can afford to finish school.

Al Arpad is an Amherst resident

A lesson in those lyrics

Censorship and racism are scary things. Yet the FBI, supposed defenders of all that is good, practice both in their blatant attempt to ban the influential rap group, N.W.A. (Niggers With Attitude) from singing "F--- tha Police."

Al Kaufman

In a letter that sounds as if it belongs in a George Orwell novel, FBI assistant director and bureau spokesman Milt Ahlerich wrote to N.W.A.'s record label, Priority Records, stating the song "encourages violence against and disrespect for the law enforcement officer."

The letter concludes that "music plays a significant role in society" and warns Priority "to be aware of the FBI's position relative to this song and its message."

N.W.A. was threatened with arrest if they played the song in concert By performing these racist acts, the police and the FBI are only giving bands such as N.W.A. more reasons to write songs like "F--- tha Police." Not that the bands need any more reasons.

The Stuart Murder case is a prime example. In searching for a suspect from a vague description, the mostly White police force stopped many Black men at random in Mission Hill. Some Black men were stopped and questioned three times in one day.

Others were strip-searched, simply for being young Black men. This is unheard of for White men.

There are countless other examples of this double standard. When a White person is killed in Roxbury, it makes the front page. Black people are killed there weekly, yet we never hear of them. The day before Carol Stuart was murdered, a twelve-year-old Black girl was killed. It was barely mentioned in the news.

When White subway vigilante Bernard Goetz shot three young Black men who asked him for money on a train, we made a hero out of him. We knew the "punks" deserved it. But if a Black man had shot three White youths, reactions would have been different.

The summation of all the racist events in our society (many of which we let pass unnoticed), causes bands such as Living Colour to write songs like "Funny Vibe," which contains the lines, "No, I'm not gonna rob you/No, I'm not gonna beat you/No, I'm not gonna rape you."

It is a powerful song implying that White people think all Black men are criminals. Unfortunately, to a great extent, Living Colour is right. It's a shame "Funny Vibe" had to be written.

N.W.A. grew up in the tenements of Compton, Ca, in a world full of drugs, gang violence and harassment from racist cops. They sing from personal experience. The FBI and police don't want N.W.A. to sing "F--- tha Police" because N.W.A. is right.

Al Kaufman is the Collegian Arts editor.

Governors on the move in Campus Center

While the thoughts of many University of Massachusetts students were far from the campus this intersession, it is not true for everyone.

While many went on holiday vacations, frequented the ski slopes, and/or earned a few extra dollars, members of the Board of Governors were seen zipping around the Campus Center/Student Union complex. Amidst the snow here in Amherst, a flurry of activity never ceased in the Board of Governors' office.

Much was accomplished by the BOG over the winter break and there will be many more endeavors to come this semester.

They initiated many renovations in the Student Union which will improve the aesthetics. The Commuter Area Government lockers on the fourth floor of the Student Union were painted to match the already existing color scheme. New signs for the student offices on the fourth floor of the Student Union are being made. As soon as those are finished, the lettering which is already present in the office windows will be scraped off and these practical new signs will be affixed to the outside of the offices.

One may notice the yellow lines while walking up and down the steps of the Students Union. It was a volunteer activity to get away from some of the paperwork in the office. These lines are to assist visually impaired students.

Heather Tupper

The BOG is working in cooperation with Alpha Phi Omega to beautify the rideboard. A new design has been chosen and APO will maintain it after the renovations.

Also pending are many exciting programs. The seemingly popular Comedy Night will continue and many hilarious acts have been secured.

A Las Vegas Night is being planned by the BOG to benefit cancer research. This event, scheduled to take place in March, is to be a high class night of gambling with proceeds going towards Campuses Against Cancer.

Also in the planning is an all-ages dance club to be held in the Blue Wall Cafe on Saturday nights.

The BOG has arranged for another laser light show — this time the event will be free in order to make up for the last show which was cancelled due to equipment failure.

The BOG will be commissioning a mural by a university student. This mural is to be painted on the fourth floor of the Student Union and the theme will incorporate multi-cultural aspects. For more information, contact the Board of Governors' office.

A committee to research the issue of whether pornographic material should be sold in the University Store will be created. It will consist of four University students and five governors.

After a semester of negotiating, the vending policy is revised.

Much is happening and changing within the Campus Center/Student Union Complex. The BOG plans to stay abreast of all the events. They plan to continue to run CC/SU programming and vending smoothly as well as the daily functioning of the complex.

Heather Tupper is an employee of the Board of Governors

Cash for Books

We buy the widest range of books.
Hard or soft cover—whether used on this campus or not.
Sell them at:

CAMPUS CENTER
CONCOURSE
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

JANUARY 30 and 31
FEBRUARY 1, 2, and 3
ID REQUIRED

ARTS & LIVING

Somewhere between brilliant and Geraldo

By GEORGE LENTZ
Collegian Staff

When first-time filmmaker Michael Moore was asked about the unique style of his documentary, Roger & Me, he replied, "I wanted (it) to play more like Pee-Wee's Big Adventure than Hotel Terminus." Roger & Me isn't as engrossing as Ophul's Hotel but it is more entertaining, using an underlying sense of humor in its scathing look at corporate America.

A native of Flint, Michigan, Moore examines the closing of 11 General Motors plants in his hometown, and the subsequent layoff of 35,000 GM employees. His goal in the film was to get to the bottom of the matter by discussing the situation with the man responsible for it all: GM chairman Roger Smith. Smith's master plan was to close the Flint plants to allow the opening of new plants in Mexico, where workers were to be paid 70 cents an hour. The scheme enabled Smith and GM to force the UAW to make cutbacks by claiming insolvency.

THE SCREENING ROOM

The film runs into a major roadblock when Smith repeatedly evades Moore's camera, refusing to be interviewed. Unable to gain the information he needs, Moore turns to building his argument by interviewing GM lobbyists and two former GM employees: a sheriff's deputy who evicts people from their homes, and a woman who sells her rabbits as either "pets or meat."

The film and Moore work at their best when they assault the GM handling of the situation in Flint. One GM executive points to a rising lint-roller industry as a solution to the unemployment problem. Moore responds in a rage, "You're saying the solution to the problems in Flint is lint-rollers?!" The anger Moore feels towards these people is justified, but the real anger I felt was towards the celebrities who came to Flint for fundraisers.

Moore asks Miss Michigan (soon to be Miss America) if she has anything to say to the people of Flint, and she replies, "I hope everyone will be rooting for me when I go for the gold next week in Atlantic City." In equally bad taste, game show host Bob Eubanks shows his true colors by telling a vulgar ethnic joke.

Moore's argument is carefully constructed, but his reporting of events out of their actual chronology jeopardizes the integrity of the film. Is it honest investigative reporting or slight-of-hand propaganda? Everything we learn about Roger Smith and the situation in Flint comes from the mouth of Michael Moore and his manipulation of contemporary and archival footage through clever editing techniques. We're never given an alternative viewpoint or explanation to the events leading to the problems in Flint; we're left with no choice but to trust Moore's interpretation of the facts. I don't question Moore's sincerity, but he's often too overbearing and manipulative in his attempts to generate audience reactions.

Roger & Me is a noble attempt to get to the bottom of GM's single-handed decimation of his hometown. More often than not, the film does work as an insightful piece of persuasive filmmaking; but the film, for lack of a two-sided debate, gets side-tracked in its attempts to pursue the truth by going for easy laughs with sequences that undermine the film's argument. Moore is a funny guy but he tends to poke fun at situations and people that are undeserving of his attacks.

ALLIANCE
CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Welcome
Back
to
UMASS
For more info call Steve or Pauline 253-7206

USED ACADEMIC PAPERBACKS
Thousands in stock.
Literature, History, Science,
Art and Culture.

VALLEY BOOKS
199 N. Pleasant St. • Downtown Amherst

M-F 10:30-5:30 256-1508
Sat. 10-5, Sun. 12-5 Visa/MC/Check

Become a Real Estate
Salesperson
REAL ESTATE PRINCIPLES A100
Massachusetts Required Salesperson's
Course
Tuesdays, 6:30-9:30 p.m., Feb. 6-April 10
On the UMass campus
Presented by the Division of Continuing Education
For more information, call Ms. Seyedi
at 545-0312.

APPLY NOW!
Resident Assistant
Selection Process
1990-1991
Leadership is becoming a
Resident Assistant

An RA is a live-in part-time student staff member. Duties include fostering floor and cluster community, assisting with hall management, and enforcing University policies.

How to do it:
On Campus Students: go to your cluster office and pick up an application.

Off Campus Students: go to the following areas for applications–
Cance Area Office–SW South
Thoreau Area Office–SW North
Room B-30 Baker Area Office–OH/Central
Room 103 Johnson Area Office–NE/Sylvan

Become a student leader in your residence hall. Apply now for a Resident Assistant (RA) position. Application deadline extended to February 14, 5 p.m. to the above area offices.

The University of Massachusetts at Amherst prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, sex, sexual preference, age, marital status, national origin, mental or physical handicap, political belief or affiliation, membership or non-membership in any organization, or veteran status. In any aspect of admission or treatment of students in employment.

UNIVERSITY
STORE
BACK TO SCHOOL
STORE HOURS

Tuesday 9-7
Wednesday 9-7
Thursday 9-5
Friday 9-5
Saturday 10-3

TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday 9-9
Friday 9-5
Saturday 10-3

Testament delivers thrash with a conscience

By DANIELLE DOWLING
Collegian Staff

Photo courtesy of Megaforce

Testament

April, 1987. Five scruffy young musicians were about to take on possibly the toughest task attempted by a young, unknown group – perform before a New York City Slayer audience. With the exception of a gathering of two-year-olds who need their diapers changed, this is the toughest, nastiest crowd ever to exist.

The group was booed off stage as the crowd chanted "Slayer." Regardless, they pressed on and their perseverance paid off. Rising from anonymity, they are now a well respected name in most thrash circles. Composed of vocalist Chuck Billy, guitarists Alex Skolnick and Eric Peterson, bassist Greg Christian, and drummer Louie Clemente, the group is known as Testament.

Spawned from the thrash metal capital, San Francisco's Bay Area, the group formed in 1983. But it wasn't until 1987 that the present lineup was complete and they were signed onto the Megaforce/Alantic label. Their debut album The Legacy was met with impressive reviews although they were unfairly labeled satanic due to the art work on the album cover.

In the spring of 1988, their second album, The New Order, was released. It provided them with a larger acceptance, and when they were given the chance to join the European "Monsters of Rock" tour, they suddenly found themselves in the limelight. Now, with their latest release Practice What You Preach, the group enjoys sold-out shows in the US and Europe and fairly decent album sales.

Are they satisfied with their success so far? "No," said guitarist Alex Skolnick. "Why is Warrant selling two million albums? I look at Warrant and I'm not satisfied. I look at Mike Stern or Steve Morris or any great artist who's not selling that many records and I think that maybe we don't have it that bad."

However, according to Skolnick, the group is satisfied with their latest album. "Compared to the first two records it's incredible," he claimed, "and we're so much better live playing this material than the previous material."

Some of the recent album's deep lyrical content come from Skolnick's experiences on the road. "I just recently turned 21 and I've gone through more changes in the past couple of years than I did when going through puberty or adolescence," he explained, "I was home for awhile and there's no heavy metal fans in my neighborhood. I'm nobody special there. I realized that just because one person thinks you're great doesn't mean you're great. Everybody has a different way of looking at things."

One particularly powerful track, both musically and lyrically, is "Greenhouse Effect," off their latest release, which addresses the critical environmental hazards on the Earth. It's great that Testament has chosen such an important topic to address. However, one is left to wonder if the group would actually do something for the environment. "If an environmental group wanted us to play a benefit, I would really like to do it," Skolnick said.

There is no band in existance that is a stranger to criticism. Testament is no exception. There are some who claim that a few of their songs are very similar in style, especially on the group's second album, The New Order.

But Skolnick claimed that their music is no more repetative than any other music nowadays, and added, "New Order was written in a hurry. With Practice What You Preach, we had more time to develop a style. Don't think it's easy to write these songs. The ideas for songs have to go through the band, and the band is a very slow machine – very powerful, but very slow."

Although cognizant of the necessity of comprise when working with the group, Skolnick has his own criticisms of their work. "I wish the guitars could be separate instruments," he explained, "The rest of the band seems to feel it's more powerful if the guitars are doing the same thing. I'd love to get away from that on the next album."

Testament has come a long way since that night in April of '87. Now, lesser known bands that open for them are booed off stage with chants of "Testament."

"I feel like we've proved our point," Skolnick said "Now when I look at our audience I see guys wearing Slayer t-shirts."

Storyteller Lipman at Amherst and Smith

Doug Lipman, a professional Jewish storyteller and musician, will be making the rounds of the Five College area today, performing free shows at both Smith and Amherst College.

Lipman, a founding member of the Storytellers in Concert Collective, will tell "The Forgotten Story" in the Smith College Wright Hall Common Room at 4:15 p.m., and "The Sword of Wood" in the Amherst College Front Room at 8 p.m.

"The Forgotten Story" is a compilation of tales about Jewish men and women. Through mystical journeys and tales, it follows the adventures of Judaism's unconventional heroes. "The Story of Wood," which combines Lipman's musical talents with his storytelling skills, shows the lighter side of Jewish folk tales and Yiddish songs.

Interestingly enough, Lipman began his career while working with emotionally disturbed children. "I tried everything to get through to the children," he said. "Finally, I incorporated music, then storytelling."

After getting his masters in Creative Writing, Lipman became a professional storyteller in 1971. Since then, he has performed and conducted workshops throughout the country. His books include Folktales of Strong Women and Milk From the Bull's Horns. He has also released cassettes, including Keep On Shaking and Tell It With Me, in which he combines his storytelling and musical talents.

AL KAUFMAN

R O T C

IS ENROLLING IN ARMY ROTC DIFFERENT FROM ENLISTING?

Few times are you given the chance to try something for two years without obligation. Army ROTC is one of them.

Your freshman and sophomore years are an introduction into the life of an Army officer. You'll attend classes that are taught by full-time Army officers who'll train you to become a leader. Teach you ethics. Land navigation. Small unit tactics. And help you develop the initiative to take charge.

You don't have to make a commitment until your junior year. If you do decide to become an officer in the United States Army, you'll receive advanced training in the leadership skills it takes to succeed.

And when you graduate, you'll have earned an Army Lieutenant's gold bar as well as a college degree. With this competitive edge, you can increase your chances for success either in a civilian career while fulfilling your commitment in the U.S. Army Reserve or National Guard, or as a career officer in the active Army.

Army ROTC. You can try it out for two years, but if you stick with it, the payback can last a lifetime.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE

ARMY ROTC
RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

Contact Captain John Popp
Department of Military Science
545-2321/2322

AT TASC, JUST ABOUT ANYTHING IS POSSIBLE

Over and over again, the mind has proved that anything is possible. Talented people with vision have taken ideas, explored them, and extended their applications beyond anyone's dreams.

At TASC, we seek new graduates who share these goals, who can learn to solve complex systems problems with technical know-how complemented by imaginative approaches to understanding and using scientific and business systems.

Here, top-notch analysts provide government, industry and commerce with practical answers to real-world systems questions. It happens in an environment where imagination is uncluttered by conventional wisdom, and where creativity is encouraged, not merely tolerated. The TASC environment is conducive to thought, achievement and professional growth. We use state-of-the-art analytic techniques and the latest in computer hardware and software. Small, multi-disciplinary teams foster a true exchange of ideas. Above all, we provide the freedom to create, to visualize, develop, test and implement ideas original to our technologies.

TASC offers endless possibilities to those ready to expand the potential of their analytic capabilities and ready to make real changes in the worlds of science and business. If you can meet our standards and want to know more about a company where just about anything is possible, please see our campus representative on February 7th.

Areas in which TASC has become a leader include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Artificial Intelligence
- Economic & Management Sciences
- Integrated Logistics Support
- Physical & Mapping Sciences
- Signal Processing
- Embedded Computer Systems
- Guidance & Control
- Image Processing
- Information Sciences
- Navigation Systems
- Sensor Technology
- Commercial Information Systems

TASC's professional opportunities exist in Reading, MA, Reston, VA, Arlington, VA, Dayton, OH, and other locations throughout the country. If you are unable to see our campus representative on February 7, and are interested in any of our locations, please write to Steven C. Cyr at TASC, 55 Walkers Brook Drive, Reading, MA 01867.

TASC
THE ANALYTIC SCIENCES CORPORATION

An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F.

WORLD & NATION

Basketball Hall of Famers lose their shirts to thieves

SPRINGFIELD (AP) – Basketball Hall of Fame officials Tuesday were considering hiring security after thieves filched jerseys belonging to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Walt Frazier.

"We're certainly looking into the idea of at least putting an alarm system or a silent alarm system on to the exhibit cases," said Joseph O'Brien, executive director of the Hall of Fame.

Also taken in the Sunday heist were Abdul-Jabbar's goggles. The items had been on display in adjacent sections devoted to the Los Angeles Lakers and New York Knicks on the second floor of the Hall of Fame. O'Brien said the cases containing the momentos were apparently jimmied open during visiting hours.

"It's probably some youngster who's very sorry now," he said. "I don't think that anyone comes into the Hall of Fame with theft in mind. I think it's a tease once they're there."

In Los Angeles, Abdul-Jabbar's spokeswoman was dismayed by the news.

"I'm extremely disturbed to hear that. I certainly hope these things are recovered because that's really a shame," said Lauren Pullman. "We went to a lot of trouble to make sure that those items made it right there. We turned down numerous charities that wanted to auction it off."

She said the jersey was one that Abdul-Jabbar wore in his last week of play before retiring last year after 20 years in the National Basketball Association.

Abdul-Jabbar, sure to be a future Hall of Famer, set more than 23 NBA records during his career, including most points: 38,387.

Frazier was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1987 after a 12-year career, including 10 years with the New York Knicks. He scored 15,581 points in his career and was named to the NBA All-Defensive Team seven consecutive season, 1969-1975.

Frazier now does color play-by-play for the Madison Square Garden Network. He was in the Caribbean Tuesday, assessing damage to his house there in a recent storm, but his broadcasting agent, Sandy Montag, said the player would be upset by the news.

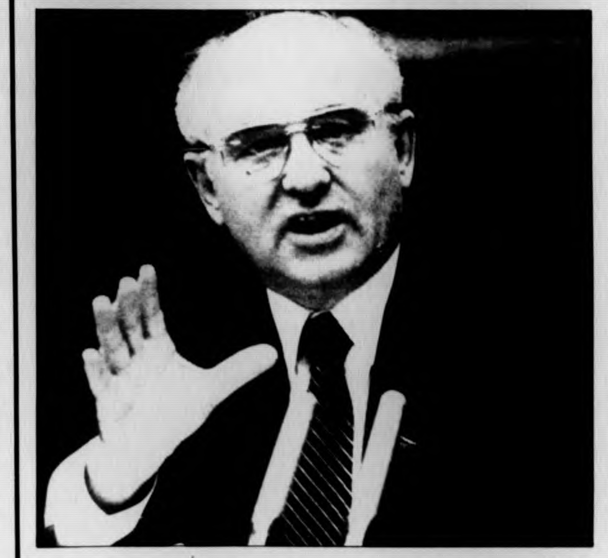
"I think he'd be upset that there would be someone who would want to do something like that," Montag said.

Springfield police were investigating the theft, but Officer Nate Wilson said there was nothing to report Tuesday, adding that the city has only two officers handling larceny cases because of recent budget cuts.

"We have no idea how long it's been missing. With all the groups that go through there it could be difficult," he said.

O'Brien said he hopes the thief or thieves are suffering pangs of remorse and are led to mail the items back to the museum.

"If we get them back we're not going to pursue where it came from," he said.



AP photo

REPORTED TO BE CONSIDERING RESIGNING – Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, has been reported by the Cable News Network to be considering resigning as head of the Soviet Communist Party.

Gay rights group rejects unsupportive candidates

By DANIEL BEEGAN
The Associated Press

BOSTON – A gay-rights group has asked potential Democratic convention delegates to reject the candidacies for governor of Boston University President John Silber and state Rep. John Flood.

David LaFontaine, lobbying director of the Coalition for Lesbian and Gay Civil Rights, zeroed in on Silber as he announced a news conference scheduled for Thursday to oppose the BU president's candidacy.

"The same statewide forces which pushed the gay rights bill to passage are now being mobilized to block Silber's nomination," LaFontaine said. "Silber represents an intolerable threat to the future of the gay rights movement and we will not stand by and let the party nominate him."

LaFontaine said Jeff Nickel, president of the Boston University Lesbian and Gay Alliance, would participate in Thursday's news conference.

In a prepared statement, Nickel said Silber has set a hostile and prejudicial tone toward gay people at BU and there has been an increase in anti-gay harassment as a result.

"I think Silber has had an enormously negative influence on all gay people associated with BU through his statements, his actions and his inactions," Nickel said Tuesday.

"We're not going to comment on every group that holds a news conference," said Colin Riley, a spokesman for the Silber campaign.

Michal Regunberg, Silber's chief spokeswoman, said, "He never fueled violence against gays at BU. That's crazy."

Boston University's interim president, John Westling, said the university has financed the Lesbian and Gay Alliance for the entire tenure of Silber's presidency and BU will be host to a Lesbian-Gay Student Union Conference next month.

Westling said the university also would take disciplinary action against any student who harassed a homosexual.

"There have been no incidents of gay bashing at Boston University. Had there been, they would have been prosecuted fully under our disciplinary procedures," Westling said.

In the letter mailed to 2,000 Democratic activists, many of whom are expected to participate in Saturday's Democratic caucuses that will elect delegates to the June state convention, the gay groups also urged opposition to Flood.

"John Flood was a vociferous opponent of the gay rights bill during the last four years in the House," the groups said in the letter.

Reached by telephone later, Flood said, "First of all I would describe myself as articulate, not vociferous."

Flood said he viewed the opposition by the gay rights groups as the type of single-issue politics that has helped cost the national Democratic party five of the last six presidential elections.

"The average middle class working people do not identify themselves by one issue," Flood said.

He said since Lt. Gov. Evelyn Murphy and former Attorney General Francis Bellotti both supported the gay-rights law, he was not surprised that gay rights groups opposed him.

"Something told me an endorsement would not be forthcoming," Flood said.

Springfield rep. outraged at ads

SPRINGFIELD (AP) – U.S. Rep. Richard E. Neal is demanding that his opponent pull television ads that show actors labeled "good old boys" exchanging cash behind their backs.

Neal, D-Springfield, is not mentioned in the ads, but he said he objects to the depiction of the cash changing hands behind the backs of people labeled as "Washington's 'good old boys.'"

"It truly is the dirtiest political ad I've seen in my career," he said Monday.

But his opponent, former Springfield Mayor Theodore E. Dimauro, also a Democrat, said Neal's priorities are misplaced.

"Instead of complaining about Ted Dimauro's ads, he should be in Washington today listening to the president's message on the budget that affects everyone's life," Dimauro said at a news conference Monday.

Dimauro's political consultant, Terry Weldon, said the ads are not directed specifically at Neal, but form "an introduction to what Ted Dimauro feels is wrong with Congress."

He said the image of cash changing hands was meant to illustrate acceptance of money from political action committees, not wrongdoing.

TODAY
NIGHT GRAPHICS MEETING
5:00PM

All staff, past and future, please plan to attend our massive hiring and scheduling bonanza today at 5:00 in the graphics room. Please spread the word. If you want to work and want a good shot at your first choice of nights, this meeting is for you.

THE GLOBE BOOKSHOP

fine new, used & children's books
European, art & literary periodicals
publishers overstocks at 30%-80% off
special orders • out-of-print book searches

Open 7 days • Mon-Sat 9-9; Sun 10-5 • 38 Pleasant St., Northampton, MA 584-0374 • 586-5838

PLANT
DISEASES
IN A
HUNGRY
WORLD

GEN. ED.
BIOLOGICAL SCIENCE

Plant Pathology 100
Feast/Famine
Spring 1990 · MWF 10:10
3 Credits Call 545-3413

6¢
Self-Serve Copies

253-2543
220 N. Pleasant

kinko's
the copy center

IRON HORSE MUSIC·HALL

FEB 1
MARSHALL CRENSHAW
SOLD OUT

FEB 6
k d lang
and the reclines
SOLD OUT

FEB 8
NU WAVE CAFE
the subdudes
7pm $8 at door

FEB 9
MARTY WILSON-PIPER
(of the church)
7pm $8 adv.

FEB 13
NU WAVE CAFE
THE TRIBE
One of Boston's best
New Music bands.
7pm $6 at door

FEB 16
Jimmy Johnson
the Bar Room Preacher
7pm $9 adv.

FEB 20
Kevin Kinney
of Drivin' & Cryin'
PETER BUCK
OF REM
7pm $10 adv.

20 Center St., Northampton
Tickets: 584-0610
ALL AGES ALWAYS

Compliments
CAFE DICARLO

OPENING
AT OUR NEW LOCATION!
Friday Feb. 2nd

Compliments
Creative Gift Baskets for All Occasions
71 N. Pleasant St. (Above Cafe DiCarlo)
Amherst / (413) 256-1551

TOWN OF AMHERST
LSSE
Leisure Services and Supplemental Education

There's
never a trail fee
at Cherry Hill Golf Course.

All ages are invited to cross-country ski the scenic meadows and snowy hills of Amherst's Cherry Hill Golf Course with no trail fee this winter. Open 7 days a week (weather permitting) with ski rentals, lessons, refreshments, free parking and a warming hut. For information: 256-4071. For lesson signups: 256-4065.

Interested in a career in merchandising?

Separating
fact from fiction . . .

will help you discover the advantages of the T.J. Maxx Corporate Executive Training Program:

Fiction	Facts
Retailing isn't a "business" in the corporate sense.	In fact, retailing accounts for over $100 BILLION in sales annually. This sophisticated, exciting industry is big business and offers challenge and opportunity to talented professionals at all levels.
All buyer training programs start out in the store.	At T.J. Maxx, you'll work in our corporate Home Office. This means you'll have a chance to interact with other areas, build relationships and see how it all comes together.
Of course, a retail degree is an absolute "must."	Whatever your major, if you're a decision maker with keen analytical and problem solving skills, you've got what it takes to succeed at T.J. Maxx.
With everybody competing for a few top spots, it takes years and years to become a buyer.	Because our Buyer Training Program is self-paced, the opportunity is there to advance through it more quickly than you could through one of our competitors' programs. And since we're so successful, there's always room for growth.

You'll find that our competitive pay, great benefits and growth opportunity aren't fiction, either.
T.J. Maxx will be on campus in February. Please stop by either the Career Center or The School of Management Placement Office for more information.

Look for us at the Career Center Annual Career Fair on February 14, 1990.

T·J·maxx®

Off-price retailing is our business
An equal opportunity employer

NOW OPEN
IN AMHERST

WHALEN STATIONERS
40 MAIN STREET
(across from Town Hall)
256-3120

College Supplies
Large selection of writing instruments
Computer paper and ribbons
Dayrunner organizers
Resume and thesis papers, binders
Office products

"Serving the Five College Area
since 1958"

THE GYM IS A COMPLETE
WEIGHTLIFTING CLUB
FOR MEN & WOMEN!

Featuring over 10,000 pounds of weights, exercise machines, nautilus machines, bikes, rowers, climbers and full locker and shower facilities!

We also offer tanning and coming in February—AEROBICS!

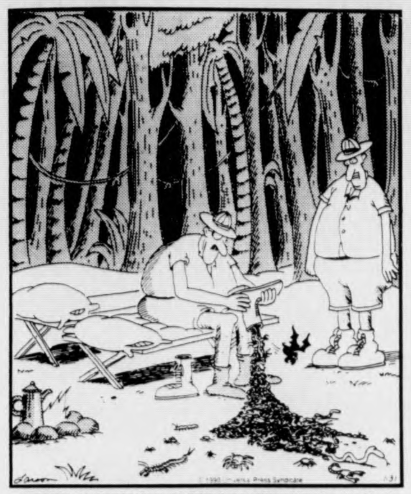
The GYM
at mountain farms mall
Rte. 9 on the
Amherst/Hadley Line

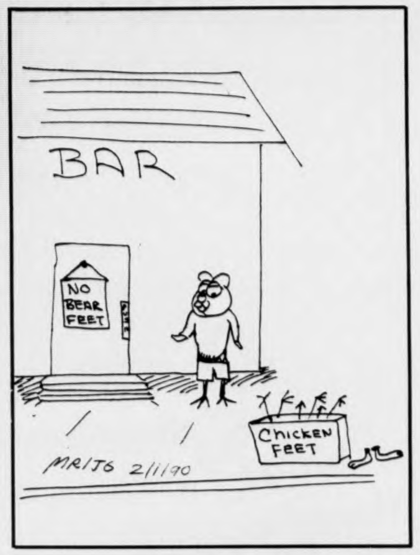
EASY TO GET TO BY CAR OR BUS!
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!

THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON

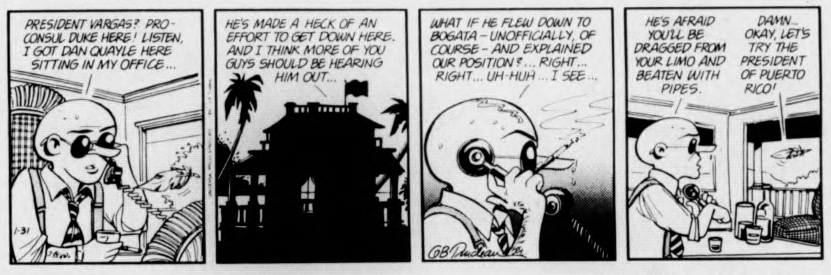


To his horror, Irving suddenly realized he had failed to check his own boots before putting them on just minutes ago.

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG

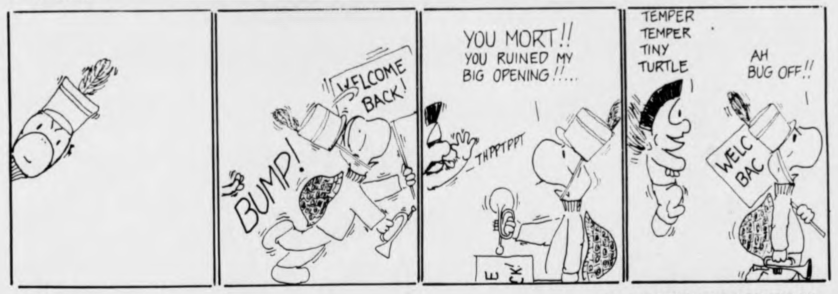


DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



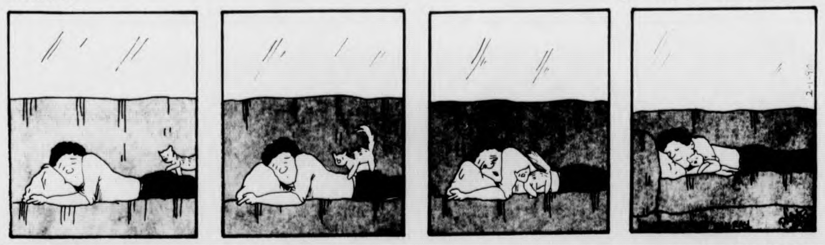
PRESIDENT VARGAS? PRO-CONSUL DUKE HERE! LISTEN, I GOT DAN QUAYLE HERE SITTING IN MY OFFICE...
HE'S MADE A HECK OF AN EFFORT TO GET DOWN HERE. AND I THINK MORE OF YOU GUYS SHOULD BE HEARING HIM OUT...
WHAT IF HE FLEW DOWN TO BOGATA – UNOFFICIALLY, OF COURSE – AND EXPLAINED OUR POSITION?... RIGHT... RIGHT... UH-HUH... I SEE...
HE'S AFRAID YOU'LL BE DRAGGED FROM YOUR LIMO AND BEATEN WITH PIPES.
DAMN... OKAY, LET'S TRY THE PRESIDENT OF PUERTO RICO!
1-31
GB Trudeau

IGGMAN
By DREW AQUILINA

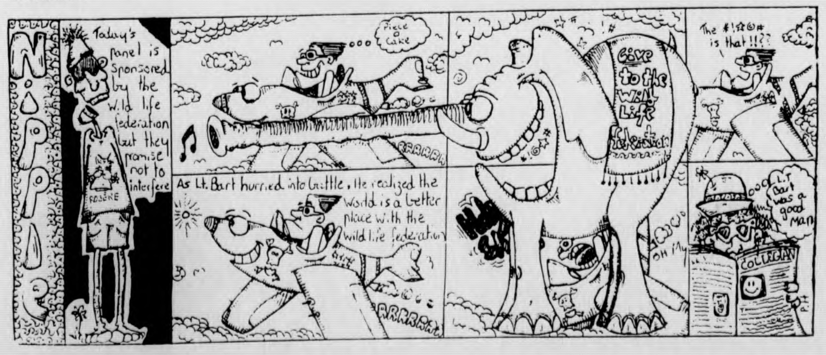


WELCOME BACK!
BUMP!
YOU MORT!! YOU RUINED MY BIG OPENING!!...
THPPTPPT
TEMPER TEMPER TINY TURTLE
AH BUG OFF!!
WELC BAC

PRICE
By PRICE VAN RAY



NIPPLE
By PITT



NIPPLE
Today's panel is sponsored by the Wild life federation but they promise not to interfere
ROSÉRE
Piece o cake
Give to the Wild Life federation
RRARRAH
As Lt. Bart hurried into battle, He realized the world is a better place with the wild life federation
RRRRRAH
OH My
The #!☆@# is that!!??
L.T. Bart was a good Man
COLLEGIAN

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

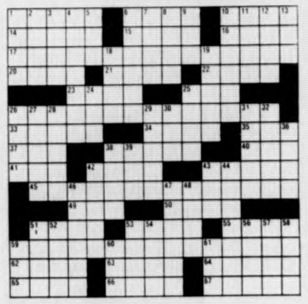
ACROSS
1 Aspirant's goal
6 Donahue
10 House plant
14 Others, in Madrid
15 New Rochelle campus
16 Lendl
17 Edge of a sort
20 Partner of now
21 Resort near Venice
22 Man or Wight
23 Utah's state flower
25 Model Carol
26 Wild carrot
33 City on the Katun River
34 Himalayan mythical figure
35 Once around the track
37 "— a boy!"
38 Tibet's capital
40 Ripen, as cheddar
41 Before plan or program
42 Near East ketch
43 Selassie
45 Robert Penn Warren 1946 novel
49 "— the fields we go..."
50 Pockets after taxes
51 He has his pride
53 Re followers
55 River in Zaire
59 Handy man
62 Sheltered
63 Berg opera
64 Representative
65 News
66 Artist Calder, to friends
67 Writer's concern

DOWN
1 Castle ditch
2 Emulate Durer
3 Algonquian
4 Guidance
5 Cleo's killer
6 Quill
7 Removed the weeds
8 "— many words"
9 — Palmas
10 Celebration, Spanish style
11 Knievel
12 Superlative review
13 Compass point
18 Gymnast Korbut
19 Actress Palmer
24 Bambi's aunt
25 Movie pooch
26 Wit's bit
27 Sonic start
28 Picasso prop
29 Helen Hayes lives here
30 M.I.T. grads
31 Have dibs on
32 Kind of scout
36 Hammer head
38 A.k.a. The Cowardly Lion
39 Make tracks
42 Member of a pool
43 Ait
44 Mitigate
46 Had a peek
47 Continuous coming
48 "— as a pin"
51 Composer Schifrin
52 Champagne bucket
53 Heavy hammer
54 Winnie — Pu
56 First place
57 Camera feature
58 Villa d' —
59 Mandible
60 Ga.'s neighbor
61 Deserter

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

F	A	R	M	S	■	N	C	A	A	■	S	T	U	D
A	L	I	A	S	■	A	R	M	Y	■	O	E	N	O
T	F	O	R	M	A	T	I	O	N	■	F	E	M	E
E	S	T	A	■	B	A	B	Y	S	I	T	T	E	R
■	■	■	T	E	A	L	S	■	■	B	O	O	T	S
B	A	T	H	E	S	■	■	S	A	I	N	T	■	■
A	R	B	O	R	■	A	M	E	N	D	■	A	D	S
A	N	O	N	■	A	B	A	C	A	■	P	L	A	Y
L	O	N	■	I	N	E	P	T	■	R	E	E	D	S
■	■	E	S	T	E	R	■	■	C	A	R	R	O	T
B	A	S	T	E	■	■	M	O	O	T	S	■	■	■
A	F	T	E	R	S	H	A	V	E	■	O	A	S	T
S	T	E	R	■	T	A	X	I	D	A	N	C	E	R
S	E	A	N	■	O	D	I	N	■	M	A	T	T	E
I	R	K	S	■	L	A	M	E	■	P	L	E	A	S

1/31/90



MENU

LUNCH	DINNER
Grilled Cheese	Grilled Cheese on Wheat
Sausage Grinder	Caponata

BASICS LUNCH	BASICS DINNER
Fried Chicken	Fried Chicken
Pineapple Ham Steak	Tofu Pattie

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You receive financial support from an unexpected quarter. A good day to sign confidential agreements. An old idea can be recycled to bring new profits. Former romantic partner re-enters the picture, causing certain problems. Taking a direct approach.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Move ahead with confidence. Close friends offer valuable tips. Follow their advice. Look for opportunities to meet prospective clients, customers. A personal relationship intensifies.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Strive for greater honesty with your mate or partner. Social activities are fun and could bring you extra cash. Refuse to be goaded into making an extravagant purchase. Build savings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Taking a part-time job or doing volunteer work is an excellent idea for someone who has recently retired. Your contemporaries show great respect for what you are trying to do. Enroll in an exercise class.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You could be on the verge of an important discovery. Keep your ideas to yourself until you have more conclusive evidence. For a first date, pick a restaurant with candlelight and a cozy atmosphere.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Once you show greater maturity, the boss will begin to think of you as a leader. Do not let a competitor steal a march on you. An outsider sheds some light on an old mystery.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Parental ties are in the spotlight. A family conference could produce a solution to an older relative's financial dilemma. Consult a lawyer if unsure of your rights.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Seek higher-ups' help in handling a difficult problem. Give your vivid imagination full reign. Although your loyalties will be tested, you win a new friend. Sign agreements with people at a distance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Fiscal pressures subside, thanks to you. Get agreements in writing and stay out of the public eye. A short trip puts you in contact with someone who will offer valuable financial backing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Those in businesses that require them to travel will find success today. Avoid making charges you cannot substantiate. Someone whose opinion you respect helps you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Procrastination is all that stands between you and real success. Review your priorities. Tender loving care will persuade someone to help you. Be more tactful with someone easily hurt.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A call from a college student boosts your spirits. You are proud of the way this young person has matured. Learn to take the bitter with the sweet. A good weekend to entertain at home.

TODAY'S STAFF

Night Editor..............................Janine Warner
Copy Editor..............................Will Georgiades
Layout Technician......................Terry Starmer
Photo Technician..............................K.A. Burke
Production Supervisor................Christine Ashe
Typesetter..Sue Kent
Production..................Mike Scott, Mike Wester, Rory Evans

■ assailant sought

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

the money, but if they need the money incentive we welcome it," he said.

When asked what type of information would merit a reward, Harrington said that would be worked out with the person who supplies the information.

Harrington said he hopes the information would lead to a suspect, and the arrest and possible conviction of that person, he said.

The district attorney's office has received and processed more than 1200 calls from the public since the beginning of the investigation six weeks ago, Harrington said. Police have files on about 100 subjects, based on phone calls and their own background information, including the subjects' behavior toward women, he said.

Harrington said although investigators have been unable to eliminate these subjects, because of a lack of solid alibis, they are not necessarily suspects.

Police still have no motive for the murder, he said. Galligan was not robbed or sexually assaulted. The problem is that they lack eyewitnesses and physical evidence, he said.

Harrington said he realizes that the community has been greatly affected by Galligan's murder.

"It could have been anybody's wife or sister," he said. "Obviously, we don't want it to happen again before we catch [the murderer]."

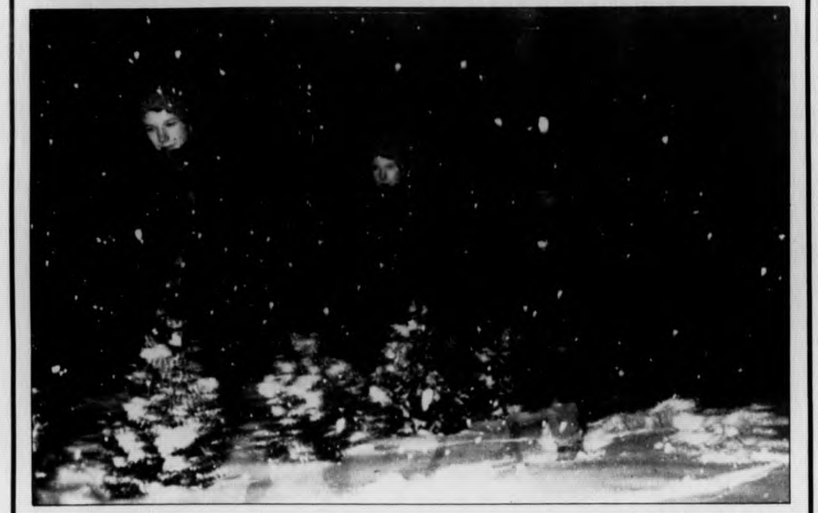
■ housing program

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

"People turn us down as soon as they start talking to realtors," he said. "We want to make this a more attractive place financially."

In spite of a current hiring freeze affecting public universities state-wide, the administration can fill vacant, 'important' faculty positions, O'Brien said.

"We have plenty of young faculty who are having trouble finding homes now," he said. "We could comfortably use 12 units now."



Collegian photo by Dondi Ahearn

SNOWMAN — Simon Fletcher walks through a snow storm in Amherst last night.

■ governor's race

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

faith in public service. People say nobody's with us."

Nakajima said the Feb. 3 caucus to elect delegates is scheduled to be held in the Amherst Junior High Cafeteria at 1:30 p.m.

Anyone interested in joining Murphy's campaign, and who registered as a Democrat in Amherst by Dec. 29, 1989, is encouraged to attend a meeting tonight in Campus Center room at 7 p.m.

AMHERST CINEMA
Fabulous Baker Boys
Starring Jeff Bridges & Beau Bridges
Rated R
Fri. - Sun. 2 Shows 7 & 9:15
Mon. - Thurs. 7:30
$2.50 w/student ID
Located in downtown Amherst
30 Amity Street
253-5426

OOPS!
Now's the time to call...
North Amherst Motors
78 Old Sunderland Rd., No. Amherst
549-2880
Expert Repairs and Reconditioning
Most Major Credit Cards Accepted

Graduating...on to Graduate School?
Condsider a multi-disciplinary program that blends chemistry, biology, physics, and engineering.
Bioengineering at the University of Utah
For application and financial support* information contact:
Department of Bioengineering
University of Utah
2480 Merrill Engineering Building
Salt Lake City, UT 84112
(801) 581-8528
We have opportunities for good students from all disciplines
*Special fellowship funds may be available for:
Biomedical Engineering
Biotechnology
Life Suport in Space
Neuroprostheses
Decreasing Health Care Costs
Medical Imaging
Biomaterials and Biocompatibility
Artificial Organs
Biomechanics and Robotics
Surgical Implants

herself... at times
jewelry and accessories
Has A New Look
We Hope You Like it!
Enjoy Our Welcome Back Sale
30% Off All Hair Accessories
Including Lots Of New Styles
7E. Pleasant St. (Between Peloton & Bank of N.E.)
549-6693 Sale Ends Feb. 3

Hillel's 14th Annual JEWISH ARTS FESTIVAL 1990

MOSHE WALDOKS
Humorist
Thursday
February 1, 7:30pm
Campus Center Auditorium
Admission: $3/$1-Student
Free to Hillel Members
"Laugh the night away!"

One Credit
DANCE/THEATRE WORKSHOP
w/ Billy Yalowitz
Intro Session: Jan. 31, 7pm,
Hampden Southside Rm.
Workshop: Feb. 10 and 11 (same location)
"Explore your cultural heritage through dance and theatre."

ISRAELI FOLK DANCING
Every Wednesday, 8-9:30pm (except Feb. 21)
Commonwealth Room (Student Union) FREE
"Come learn new and traditional dances."

Tuesday, February 13 - Speaker
RAZI AMITAI
"Israeli Contemporary Culture"
Memorial Hall 7:30pm FREE

Thursday, February 15 - Israeli Film
FICTITIOUS MARRIAGE
Campus Center 174-76 7:30pm FREE

Tuesday, February 20 - March 8
Ethiopian Jewish Art Exhibit
BETA ISRAEL: A HOUSE DIVIDED
Curator: David Becker
Student Union Gallery
Reception: Feb. 20, 5-7pm (6pm-Talk)

Wednesday, February 21
Video Documentary by Joel Saxe
JEWISH SINGERS AND RADICAL THINKERS
Campus Center 174-76 7:30pm FREE

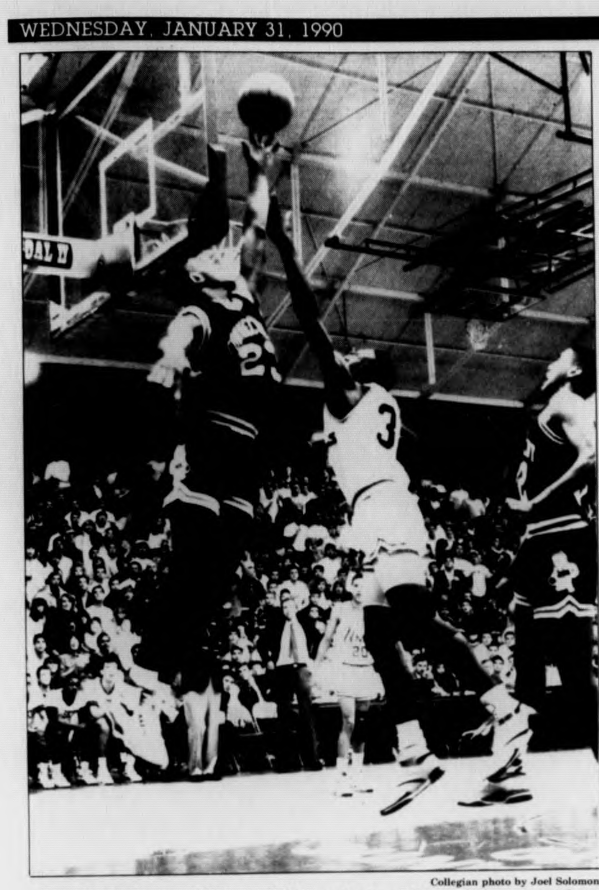
Saturday, February 24 - Concert
ZAMRIM CHOIR
Cape Cod Lounge 7:30pm FREE

Tuesday, February 27 - Poet/Writer
AVIVA DORON
Campus Center 168 7:30pm FREE

Thursday, March 8 - Storyteller
DIANE WOLKSTEIN "The Story of Esther"
Memorial Hall 7:30pm

FOR MORE INFO CALL HILLEL 545-2526

AIM HIGH
THE DOLLARS AND SENSE OF JOINING AIR FORCE ROTC.
Air Force ROTC makes a lot of sense for many reasons. Start with the dollars: the eligibility to apply for scholarship programs that can help pay tuition, books, fees – even provide a $100 tax-free income each month.
There's much more – you'll develop management skills and the ability to motivate others. Everything you learn will help you every day of your life.
Start by contacting
AIR FORCE ROTC
413-545-2437
AIR FORCE ROTC
Leadership Excellence Starts Here



Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Freshman forward Harper Williams had another solid game with 18 points and eight rebounds for the Minutemen.

■ No. 13 UConn prevails, 94-75

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

battled to a 20-20 tie. Then the Minutemen took the lead, 23-22 with 6:30 remaining in the half, on a McCoy free throw. George got the Huskies back on top with a little bunny, 28-27 and would not trail for the rest of the way.

Point guard Cary Herer, who finished with 11 assists, probably summed up best what the Minutemen needed to knock off Connecticut.

"We had to play a perfect game to win," Herer said. "We just didn't do that."

Hey, nobody's perfect. The Minutemen shot a not-too-shabby 50 percent from the field, which is usually enough to win. Except when there is a team shooting 59 percent from the field like UConn did last night.

■ pre-game problems

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

Inside the building, students stood around waiting for friends who got shoved out of the way or got lost in the crowd, and greeted their entrance like a loved one would greet someone who had just survived an airline crash. Eventually, the entire line was allowed into the building.

Grader said that several people were hyperventilating in the excitement, but that there were no serious injuries.

* * *

Once the crowd had settled into their seats, it was another festive atmosphere the likes of which was foreign to the Cage prior to this month.

The fans were alive well before tipoff, booing a blown routine by the UConn cheerleaders and sending "The Wave" around the building several times.

Painted faces again popped up all over, but primarily in a pair of sections — behind one basket and behind the UMass bench.

For the record, it was the fourth sellout of the season for the Minutemen, who previous to this monthy hadn't sold out a game since then-No. 1 Temple came to town on Dec. 7, 1987. UMass, which had only two crowds over 3,000 all of last season, have not had one below that mark this year.

In a pre-game speech to the waiting crowd, coach John Calipari promised hot chocolate and donuts for those who show up early to get the best seats. It works at Duke, where fans who camp out in tents two days before a game are treated to pizza and other things by Devil coach Mike Krzyzewski.

Among the stranger things noticed around the premises last night: two guys dressed like Minutemen (with the three-cornered hats and white wigs), a framed Velvet Elvis (courtesy of The Red/Yellow House, in honor of beloved referee Eric Geldart), a dog (Huskie?) on a noose, and a cardboard cut-out of Uncle Buck.

Atlantic 10 Standings

Through last night's games:

	A-10	Overall
Temple	8-1	10-7
West Virginia	7-3	12-7
Penn State	6-3	12-5
Rhode Island	6-3	10-8
Rutgers	5-3	9-10
UMass	6-4	10-8
St. Joseph's	2-6	4-12
St. Bonaventure	2-7	6-12
George Washington	2-7	8-11
Duquesne	2-9	3-17

Tuesday, Jan. 30
Connecticut 94, UMass 75
West Virginia 78, Duquesne 77
Rhode Island 87, St. Bonaventure 75

Red-hot Bruins become Cup contenders

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins, a surprise entry in the Stanley Cup finals two years ago, would surprise people more this year if they don't get there.

They've lost just one game in 1990 and two of their last 18. Many teams would love to have just one of their two hot goalines, Reggie Lemelin and Andy Moog.

Or Cam Neely, a rugged 24-year-old forward with 35 goals. Or Ray Bourque, perhaps the NHL's best defenseman. Or Mike Milbury, their rockie coach who prefers to share the credit with his assistants and players.

"He's the head coach," General Manager Harry sinden said. "He's got to be given the credit for any successes."

Or their record.

After breaking a 12-game regular-season winless streak in Montreal with a 2-1 victory Monday night, the Bruins' NHL-best record of 31-16-5 for 67 points was five points better than second-place Buffalo. They are 5-0-2 in their last seven games, 14-2-2 in their last 18 and face Montreal again Thursday night in Boston.

"We go into every game now thinking that we're going to win," said Bourque, whose 14th goal was the game winner Monday night. "We know now if we're within a goal or if we're tied going into the third period, that we've still got some of our best hockey to come."

The Bruins won their last two games by the same 2-1 scores on tie-breaking goals with 4:16 and 7:01 left. They've allowed a league-low 147 goals, 12 fewer than Montreal, the second stingiest team.

"This team understands how to win games late," Moog said.

Sinden, the Bruins' aggressive architect, isn't satisfied.

"I know where we're at as a team in my own mind. It's not necessarily the best team in the league at this point," he said.

"If we were to go in a seven-game series with certain teams we would be very, very hard pressed to win."

"What I'm happy about is we're a heck of a lot better after 50 games than we were after 10 and we're a heck of a lot better after 50 games than we were after 30," Sinden added. "If that should continue, and I think it will ... by the time we've played 70 or 80 games, what I'm talking about here, maybe not being able to beat a Calgary in a seven-game series now, we might be able to."

Last season, the Bruins were 37-29-14 with 88 points, the NHL's fifth best record, made the playoffs for the 22nd straight time but were eliminated by Montreal in the second round. The injury plague that hit them last year hasn't returnd.

Of the 37 players who have played for the Bruins this season, only 14, including goalies Lemelin and Moog, were on the team that lost the 1988 Cup finals 4-0 to Edmonton.

Sinden hasn't been shy about trading to improve an already strong team. Since the aeason began, he has obtained veterans Dave Christian from Washington and Dave Poulin from Philadelphia. In the four games they've been on a line with Bobby Carpenter, the Bruins are 4-0 and Carpenter has six of this 21 goals.

"If we feel a trade will help the team, we have no choice but to do it," Sinden said.

The image of the Bruins has changed from the battlers in the corners who had no hesitancy to drop the gloves and fight.

"We're the third least penalized team in the league," Sinden said. "It's incredible."

It would seem incredible if the Bruins didn't go further than the second playoff round this year. Moog, though, is cautious.

"We were 11 points behind Buffalo at one point this season and we overtook them in 10 days," he said. "I can't count anyone out."

Least of all the Bruins.

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8:30-3:30 FRI 8:30-2:30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE. 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

UPC FIRST GENERAL MEETING today 6:30 Campus Center Room 101 New members welcome!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

RECYCLERS: A new class in recycling education—MW 9:05-10:25 LGRC A339 call Lynn or Sherill 5-1960, 5-1982

INTERESTED IN HELPING a new recycling program? Contact Bonnie at 545-1960

INTERESTED IN Christian Fellowship? THE ALLIANCE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP WELCOMES YOU! More info: Call Pauline or Steve 253-7206.

BED AND BREAKFAST Downtown Amherst 549-5961.

ATTENTION

DO YOU REMEMBER leaving a note on white Honda last September in Townhouse visitor parking? Please call 549-4387.

AUTO FOR SALE

IS IT TRUE...Jeeps for $44 through the government? Call for facts! 1-708-742-1142 Ext. 5931A.

RABBIT: Very well maintained. Rebuilt engine, with 23,000 miles. Recent paint job. Blue. 1980. Must sell. $1250. Jim 549-6306.

CUT YOUR PHONE BILL IN HALF

CALLING 508 AND 617. Join the Fone Home Club. Call now! 549-3737.

FOR SALE

PANASONIC KXP1090 printer serial/parallel compatable. Leave message for Keith 546-6394.

HELP WANTED

EARN $2,000-$4,000
Searching for employment that permits working your own hours, but still challenging enough for your entreprenurial skills? Manage programs for fortune 500 companies. Earn $2,000 to $4,000 call 1-800-932-0528 ext 41.

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-643-8003 ext. 598.

MODEL SEARCH—No experience necessary. Male and Female 562-9048 or 1-401-723-2900.

REAL ESTATE—Established agency seeks enthusiastic people for sales. Start parttime now and be ready for spring selling season! Call Kathy Borawski 584-5555.

HOUSECLEANER, 3½ hrs./wk., $25. Experience, references. 253-7840 eves.

EARN $300-$500 per weekreading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B281.

RECORD CO. SEEKS interns for marketing and promotion. (516) 674-3229.

ATTENTION: EXCELLENT INCOME for home assembly work. Info. call 504-646-1700 Dept. P1307.

INSTRUCTION

BE A MATH TUTOR: Enroll for 3-credit tutoring practicum. Valuable, rewarding experience. Pay available after successful completion of the course. Call 545-2882 or go to Brett B-35.

LOST

KEYS ON REEBOK baby sneaker call seth 546-7539.

PERSONALS

WELCOME BACK AXO!
I hope you all had a great break! Just wanted to let you all know that even though I'm in a different country, my heart is still with all of my sisters! I muss you guys! Only 6 months left!
P.S. Penny and Julie, I miss our room!
Love always, Lara.

MICHELLE FROM IGU, there are birds and trees and bumble bees, but only one red headed friend of mine, I like you!

ROOMMATE WANTED

ONE BEDROOM AVAILABLE immediately Brittany Manor female pref. non-smoker, non-drinker $280 heat, hot water incl. Call evenings 253-5455.

FEMALE GRAD STUDENT WANTED—1 bedroom available in condo. Rent-$400 (negotialbe). 253-3107.

SUNSET AVE. APTS.—Need roommate $165/mo. Call 549-3826 (across from Patterson)

1 FEMALE BRITTANY MANOR $140 a month heat & hot water included. Call 253-3023 or 253-7651.

SERVICES

CASPANISH—ENGLISH TRANSLATER needed. 100 pages of nicaraguan interviews. Access to Macintosh preferred. Call 367-9787.

LEGAL QUESTIONS? The Legal Services Center offers free legal assistance to fee paying students. Contact us at 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

TRAVEL

SPRING BREAK—Can't beat our prices! Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulco, Daytona. Call now for info. Mary or Karen 549-8166.

SPRING BREAK

TIME IS RUNNING OUT! Plan your spring break trip now! Bahamas and Cancun. We have the lowest rates available. Deadline February 10. Don't miss out on all the fun! Call Donna or Lisa at 549-8228.

TYPING

ACCURATE PROFESSIONAL TYPING. Campus pick up $1.75/pg. Gloria, 323-5140.

WALLET MISSING!

PLEASE RETURN MY gray velcro wallet. Contains nothing of value to anyone but me. Ask for Matt at 5-2690 or leave message with MRL employee.

WANTED

COME DINE WITH 28 women. We need reliable and punctual kitchen assistants. Lunch and dinner in exchange for work. Call Tamara at 256-6887.

SPORTS

Connecticut conquers the Cage

No. 13 Huskies roll over UM, 94-75

By GEORGE AUSTIN
Collegian Staff

There are not many teams in the land that could have shook off the kind of second half shooting barrage that the Connecticut Huskies layed on the University of Massachusetts last night at the Curry Hicks Cage.

Ask John Thompson, his Georgetown Hoyas couldn't do it. Ask Jim Boeheim, his Syracuse Orangemen couldn't do it. This is why the Huskies (18-3, 6-2 in the Big East and the Associated Press Poll's No. 13 team in the country) are sitting atop the Big East, arguably the best conference in college basketball.

Last night, John Calipari's UMass Minutemen could not do it, falling valiantly 94-75 as the Huskies shot 68 percent in the second half after UMass had scratched and fought its way to stay in the game at halftime, down by just four points.

"It's hard to stop a team like that," Calipari said. "When they break down offensively, they can go one-on-one and beat you."

The Minutemen, now 10-8 (6-4 in the Atlantic 10 Conference), actually kept UConn star Nadav Henefeld in check for most of the game. Henefeld, the Israeli star who is raising eyebrows across the nation after breaking the NCAA record for steals in a freshman year, was limited to just 3-of-7 from the field. Henefeld started to become a little disruptive in the second half though when the Huskies came out and clamped the defense on the Minutemen.

"He's (Henefeld) had two bad games in a row for him," UConn coach Jim Calhoun said. "But he knocked down two or three passes that really got us going."

Henefeld came into the game with 91 steals in 20 games but in the first half was not able to come up with one theft as the Minutemen did a good job of taking care of the ball. In the second Henefeld picked off four steals and the Huskies were off to the races.

"They changed defenses every time we came down [in the second half]," UMass guard Jim McCoy, who finished with 22 points, said. "It kind of confused us."

The man that fueled the offense for the Huskies in the second half was guard Tate George. George finished the game with 16 points, eight rebounds and 12 assists. Eight of those passes came in the second half in which the Huskies started with a 10-2 spurt to go up, 47-35.

UConn guard Chris Smith was burning the Minutemen from the outside, scoring 14 second half points to finish up with 22 for the night. The Minutemen, who shot 54 percent (12 of 22) themselves in the second half, just could not match the Huskies, basket for basket.

"It seemed like every time we made a spurt, they came back and made a spurt," McCoy said.

UMass' best spurt in the second half came in the aftermath of a 17-point lead that the Huskies had built up. Trailing 66-49 with 12:13 remaining, the Minutemen were able to trim the lead to eight points with still 8:16 to go.

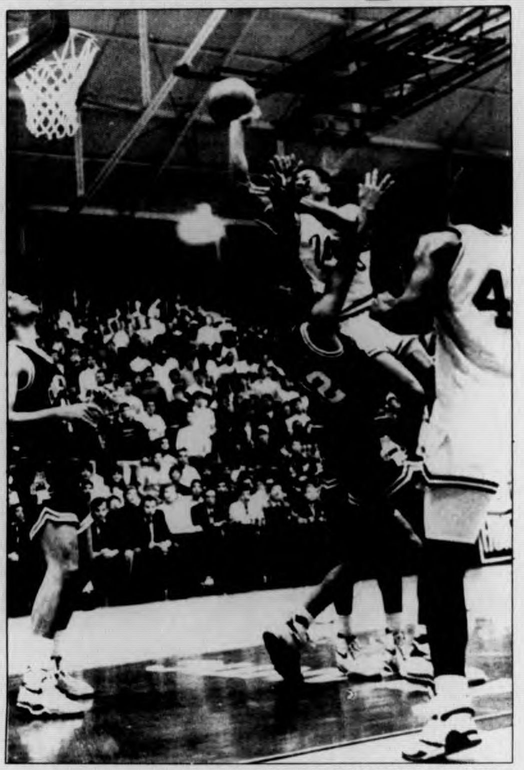
Freshman forward Tony Barbee nailed a couple of treys during the run. Freshman forward Harper Williams played tough in the paint and picked up four free throws for UMass in the streak.

Smith quieted the capacity crowd down though with a jumper from the left side and tip in of a missed shot, upping the lead to 80-68. And the Minutemen just rnn out of gas.

"When we came out in the second half, they're guys were fresh," McCoy said. "Ours were a little tired."

UMass had stayed with the Huskies in the first half when they were fresh. For the first six-and-a-half minutes, the teams

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15



Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Sophomore guard Jim McCoy goes to the hoop for two of his 22 points in last night's 94-75 loss to Connecticut at the Cage.

Large lines lead to pre-game problems

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

What happened inside the Cage last night could have been uglier. But not much uglier than what happened outside before the game began.

As many students, just back from the intersession break, lined up to catch their first glance of the reborn University of Massachusetts men's basketball team, a large line of eager fans led to a problem of crowd control.

Students began to line up outside the 4,024-seat Curry Hicks Cage at about 3:30 p.m. yesterday for an 8 p.m. tipoff against nationally-ranked University of Connecticut. By the time the gates were opened for student admission at 6:45 p.m., the lines stretched from the doors on the west side of the building to the front of Herter Hall, a distance of about 500 feet.

A large amount of fans from the back of the line rushed toward the front and "cut" the line, causing anger and some injury to those who had been waiting in front.

Steve Mastalerz, a UMass senior who was in the front of the line, said that he got momentarily boxed out by the onslaught.

"They came in from the sides. I must have got in about 50th," he said. "A couple of bigger guys thought they could do what they wanted. If they want to get in first, they should come early."

Several other students likened the situation to that of a soccer riot at Wembley Stadium, or the infamous 1978 Who concert at Cincinnati's Riverfront Coliseum.

"The whole line bottlenecked into a circle," said UMass junior Craig Jones. "I got smashed into the door. It was a riot."

Students blamed a lack of police outside the building and the lack of proper restraints to hold back the crowd as reasons why the incident happened.

"They should put up ropes next time," said sophomore Tony Remington. "There's no way they're going to control that."

UMass Police Sgt. David Grader, who was in charge of the police operation, said that his department will consider alternative ways of crowd control in the future.

"We'll have to assess that now before the next game," Grader said. "There are certain things that can be done. We'll have to arrange something."

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

Connecticut, 94-75

Massachusetts (75): Tony Barbee 5-9 2-3 15; Harper Williams 5-8 8-8 18; John Tate 1-4 2-2 4; Cary Herer 2-2 0-0 4; Jim McCoy 7-16 7-8 22; William Herndon 5-7 2-3 12; Rafer Giles 0-2 0-0 0; Anton Brown 0-1 0-0 0; Tommy Pace 0-1 0-0 0; Chris Bailey 0-0 0-0 0. Totals: 25-50 21-24 75.

Connecticut (94): Lyman DePriest 2-2 0-0 4; Nadav Henefeld 3-7 3-4 11; Rod Sellers 2-6 1-2 5; Chris Smith 8-13 4-7 22; Tate George 7-10 2-3 16; Murray Williams 3-4 3-3 9; John Gwynn 5-8 1-2 11; Dan Cyrulik 1-4 0-1 2; Scott Burrell 5-7 3-5 14. Totals: 36-61 17-27 75.

Three-point goals: Massachusetts 4-9 (Barbee 3-5, McCoy 1-2, Giles 0-2); Connecticut 5-10 (Henefeld 2-4, Smith 2-3, George 0-1, Burrell 1-2). Fouled out: Barbee, Tate. Rebounds: Massachusetts 28 (Williams 8), Connecticut 30 (George 8). Assists: Massachusetts 17 (Herer 11), Connecticut 22 (George 12). Total fouls: Massachusetts 25, Connecticut 22. Technical: Massachusetts bench. Attendance: 4,024 (sellout).

Minutewomen humbled by St. Joseph's

Hodges scores 32 in 97-52 rout; UM also falls to URI, Temple

By JOHN STEVEN MARPLE
Collegian Staff

See Dale. See Dale run. See Dale score. See Dale soar.

Dale, you see, is Dale Hodges — the All-American center from St. Joseph's. She stuck the University of Massachusetts women's basketball team with 32 points Monday night in a 97-52 Hawks victory at Curry Hicks Cage. "When you play Dale Hodges, there's not a team who has an athlete as good as she is," said Minutewomen coach Kathy Hewelt. "We defended her pretty well, but she gets by on her athletic ability."

Thankfully, UMass (3-14, 1-8) has seen the last of Hodges until the Atlantic 10 tournament in March. In two games this season Hodges has dogged the Minutewomen for an average of 36.5 ppg and 9.5 rebounds.

St. Joseph's is more than Dale Hodges however. The Hawks (14-3, 10-0) are currently ranked 21st in the country and have a strong supporting cast behind Hodges. Coach Jim Foster received gold stars from forwards Wendy Brink and Rita Balaban (28 points and 13 rebounds between them) as well as eight points, four rebounds and three steals from reserve guard Katie Curry. "They've got a lot of kids who can score," said Hewelt.

UMass scored the first points of the game on a basket by Patty Robak and then went scoreless over the next 5:55. At halftime the score was Hodges 18, UMass 18, St. Joe's 38.

"All year we've had the problem of not hitting our shots in the first half. We've tried everything to solve the problem," said Hewelt. For UMass Sue Serafini notched 13 points, including 11 in the second half. She was 3-8 from behind the three-point line. Keyburn McCusker also had a strong game, scoring 15 points and grabbing six rebounds. She also had the unenviable task of guarding Ms. Hodges.

"Keyburn played her as physical as she was allowed," said Hewelt. "We couldn't ask any more of her."

Prior to the St. Joseph's game UMass dropped a pair of home contests to Rhode Island and Temple last week.

Last Thursday the WRams (3-14, 2-6) came into the Cage and won a squeaker, 57-54. The Minutewomen trailed big at the half, 37-23 but came back in the second half thanks to a 55 percent shooting percentage.

UMass was led by the trio of Lisa Hair, Helen Freeman and Michele Pytko who combined to score 36 points.

On Saturday the Lady Owls of Temple (6-9, 3-3) limited UMass to 15 first half points in their 78-50 thrashing of the Minutewomen.

Rhonda Bates converted 8-9 from the floor on her way to a 19 point effort for Temple. Patty Robak came off Hewelt's bench to score 11 points.

Women's hoop notebook: Guard Trish Riley, who played briefly over the break, has been given a medical redshirt this season. She had missed most of the year with cracked vertebrae.

MASS
VISITOR

Sports Information photo

Senior forward Sue Serafini led the Minutewomen with 13 points against St. Joseph's in Monday's 97-52 loss.

New director of Greek Affairs tries to help Greeks improve their image. Page 3.

Why columnist Bob Bobala was proud to live in the state of Massachusetts. Page 7.

'Tail Gating' that's not only legal, but you can dance to it. In the handy-dandy pull-out.

THURSDAY

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1990

COLLEGIAN

VOLUME [illegible] LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 3

Collegian photo by Dondi Ahern

A NATURAL GAZEBO — Fresh snow decorates a deserted road in Leverett.

Costly thefts at UM and Smith

Officials looking into possible links between robberies

By LISA SHAPIRO
Collegian Staff

A wave of robberies at the University of Massachusetts and Smith College with losses close to $70,000 has sparked a joint effort between their departments of public safety and Northampton police to determine possible connections between the thefts, school authorities said yesterday.

An estimated $21,000 in electronic equipment was reported stolen from UMass residence halls and academic buildings between Friday and Monday, according to police reports.

At Smith College, director of public safety Sharon Rust said that sometime between Dec. 24 and Jan. 4 computer equipment, compact disc players, video cassette recorders and stereo equipment were stolen from five undergraduate on-campus apartments in Friedman House.

Rust said she originally placed the estimated loss between $30,000 and 50,000, but now believes the total is in excess of $50,000.

Rust said the departments are investigating the "very distinct similarities" between the robberies. Both robberies happened in the same time frame and occurred in campus buildings with no signs of forced entry at either school, she said.

Scott Graham, Smith College security supervisor said that thefts were reported between Jan. 7, when the dorms re-opened, until Jan. 24.

In a telephone interview from Atlanta yesterday, Arthur Hilson, UMass director of public safety, said they are investigating the possibility that someone with access to the buildings committed the robberies because there were no signs of forced entry.

"It is unfortunate, but we cannot overlook the possibility that someone affiliated with [UMass] might have been responsible for this," he said.

Also, he speculated that an unauthorized person may have obtained a key or copy of a key to access the buildings.

At UMass, police estimated that $10,000 in equipment was stolen from 18 locked dormitory rooms in McNamara Residence Hall. Stolen items include: eight answering machines, five computers and printers, two microwave ovens, two video-cassette recorders, two televisions, and a stereo system including a turntable, cassette player, and compact disc player, police said.

In addition, it was estimated that $10,000 worth of computer equipment was reported stolen from Fernald Hall, an academic building, after two break-ins were reported.

Staff members from Fernald Hall reported a break-in on Sunday and theft of $2,995 worth of computer equipment, which included two IBM computers, two keyboards, adapters and a disc drive, police said.

On Monday, staff members reported a second break-in and the theft of a laser printer, a fascimile machine and a computer printer valued at $7,215.

Professor John Edman, head of the entomology department, which is housed in Fernald Hall, said the break-in appeared to be an "inside job, as whoever broke in knew the building well for some reason." He said Fernald Hall is an old building that most people have trouble finding their way in.

Edman said that two keys to department offices were found missing by secretaries Monday morning.

The most costly equipment was reportedly stolen from the main office, which Edman said showed signs of forced entry. However, an Epson printer worth only a few hundred dollars was reported stolen from an adjacent office that showed no sign of forced entry, he said.

Institutional Maintanance Foreman Charles Bray received an emergency order Monday to recore most of the locks in Fernald Hall. He said yesterday that the job is 90 percent done.

UMass Faculty Union backs GEO

By MARIA SACCHETTI
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts Faculty Union yesterday voted to back the Graduate Employee Organization and urge the administration to accept two of the organization's three demands.

Professor John Cole, Faculty Union president, said the union's board voted unanimously to urge the administration to rescind this semester's $400 curriculum fee from graduate employees' bills and insure that the number of teaching and research assistants will not drop significantly this semester.

The board also voted 13-2 to urge the administration to hold an election to determine if the majority of graduate students support GEO. If the majority support GEO, Cole said the faculty would urge the administration to recognize the union.

Marc Kenen, a member of the GEO coordinating committee, said GEO is willing to follow the faculty's recommendation for an election and is confident that it will lead to recognition.

"It's great that the faculty are supporting us," said Kenen, who is also a research assistant for the Graduate Student Senate.

"GEO feels [the election proposal] is great," he said. "If the University wants an election, we're ready whenever they are."

GEO entered negotiations with the administration last month and have given the administration until Feb. 7 to recognize the union. If the administration does not meet the deadline, GEO leaders have warned that graduate employees may take a job action, possibly a strike.

GEO has scheduled a Feb. 15 meeting of graduate employees to discuss the negotiations.

Susan Pearson, director of Academic Administration and the University's representative at the negotiations, said the administration will formally respond to the demands today at 9 a.m. She declined to comment on the faculty union's actions.

In order to receive collective bargaining power as a union, GEO must be recognized by the Board of Regents, which oversees the state's public higher education system.

GEO leaders have been pressing the administration to recognize the union since GEO became affiliated with District 65/UAW last semester because leaders believe the administration's support is key to securing the Regents' recognition.

Murder case: Reward posted

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

HADLEY — Investigators and local business owners hope to gather more information about Sharon Galligan's murder with a poster campaign and a $7,500 reward for information, according to Massachusetts State Police Lt. Edward Harrington.

State police have already distributed more than 400 posters in the Hadley area, primarily on the University of Massachusetts campus. The posters include

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

UMass students pump ninety units of blood

By KENDRA PRATT
Collegian Staff

Large numbers of students at the University of Massachusetts are taking the phrase "give from the heart" quite literally.

UMass has the highest number of blood donors in the Five College Area and was named an "Outstanding Sponsor" for 1989 by the American Red Cross.

"At UMass, we seem to have a captivated audience," said Diane Crowe, the area's blood services recruiter for the American Red Cross. "The kids seem to look for us and know the importance of blood."

Crowe said 42 percent of the blood supply in western Massachusetts is donated by college students, and noted that the University is a major source of the area's success.

"If a company pulled out [of a blood drive] on us, we would try to get a room at the last minute at UMass," Crowe said. "UMass has a real impact."

Because college students are a primary source of blood, Crowe said Northeast Blood Services in Springfield stores blood in advance before students leave on vacation. Otherwise the supply would be depleted during the summer and Christmas breaks, she said.

"During intersessions, we have been hurting," Crowe said. "Now that you [students] are back on campus, we are really happy to see you all."

Crowe said the first campus blood drive on Monday collected 90 units of blood, without any prior advertising. Crowe estimated that 76 units of blood were donated during the 19 drives held last semester.

Debbie Driscoll, communications specialist for Northeast Blood Services in Dedham, said a blood drive must collect at least 65 units to be cost effective. A unit of blood is slightly less than a pint, she said.

Sometimes different student groups sponsor Crowe's blood drives on campus. She said groups such as the Undergraduate Student Senate, Reserve Officers Training Corps and the fraternities and sororities have helped propel the drives.

"I think that the fraternities are particularly good," Crowe said. "They recruit themselves and also stand out in the concourse and ask other people to donate."

Crowe said many students often respond to disasters by giving blood, whether the disaster is national or personal.

"After the earthquake [in San Francisco] last fall, the kids kept coming and coming," Crowe said. "Some kids come up when their father has heart disease or their mother has cancer."

CONTINUED ON PAGE 2

Lesbian, Bisexual, Gay Forum

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1990
Film — "Torch Song Trilogy" will be shown at 7 p.m. in Campus Center room 174.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1990
LBGA Coffee Social — Social event will be held at the Campus Center from 3:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1990
LBGA Meeting — Meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. in room 413 Student Union
LBWU Meeting — Meeting will be held at 8:30 p.m. in room 413 Student Union

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1990
FAC/Staff Group Meeting — Meeting will be held from 3:30 p.m.-5:00 p.m. in the Campus Center

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1990
Speaker's Bureau Training — Program will held from 7:00 p.m.-10.00 p.m. in Campus Center room 178

Both the Speaker's Bureau and the Counselling Collective seek new members for Spring of 1990. Work-study positions now available at the office for GLB Concerns. For more information call 545-4824.

■ blood drive

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"Most kids donate when something happens to make them realize the importance of blood," she said.

Crowe said many students say they are afraid of needles when she asks them to give blood, noting that a persön in good health would only feel a slight sting during the extraction.

"It's really not that bad when you're giving someone a chance at life again," she said. "That sounds dramatic but if you saw how we used the blood, you would donate every eight weeks."

The next scheduled blood drive at the University will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Feb. 6 at the Student Union Ballroom.

Wasps linked to Lyme disease

By DAWN POWERS
Collegian Correspondent

A graduate student at the University of Massachusetts is researching a way to decrease the state's tick population and control the rising cases of Lyme disease.

Suzanne Lyon, working for a master's degree in entomology, is the first UMass graduate student to join a researching team that will be working on the islands surrounding Cape Cod.

The team will study a type of wasp whose eggs infect the nymph deer ticks, common carriers of Lyme disease, she said. When the eggs hatch, the tick is killed and this may provide a clue to a way to localize the tick population using the wasps.

Lyon has been a technician in the department for a year-and-a-half, and has experience in the public health field. She will conduct preparatory course work this semester for the summer's hands-on project at the Cape.

"It's exciting and it's important," she said. "I consider Lyme disease to be a health problem [but] I don't want to sound alarmist. I'm interested in working with a health problem."

Lyme disease is a bacterial infection transmitted by the bite of a deer tick. There are four stages in the life cycle of a deer tick, and it is in the nymph stage, just before adulthood, that the disease is most often transmitted.

These nymphs attach to a large animal, such as a deer, and inject the bacteria into the animal. The bacteria is transmitted to humans in the same way. Twenty-four hours after transmission, victims often develop symptoms similar in nature to arthritis, indicating Lyme disease, he said. If detected early enough, Lyme disease can usually be treated with antibiotics.

Deer ticks normally are found along coastal areas, but Professor John Edman, head of the entomology department, said slightly increasing numbers of ticks were found on deer at check stations in Belchertown, Charlemont and other neighboring towns.

"There are a few more ticks, but not a whole lot more than three or four years ago," he said. "The number of cases and certainly the number of incidents of deer ticks being brought into the department [have increased]."

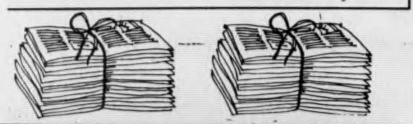
There also has been an increase in the number of reported cases of Lyme disease in Massachusetts in recent years, he said, noting that the rise may stem from education about the disease. Local doctors are becoming familiar with the disease and its symptoms and are able to diagnose it more accurately, he said.

The most common time for tick season is during the months of July, August and early September. People are outdoors more often and are more likely to get bitten. At the size of a pinhead, the tick nymphs can be difficult to see, but Edman encouraged people to perform a brief body search for ticks after exiting a high-risk area.

Researchers are hoping a vaccine is created for the debilitating ailment within five years before the current situation escalates, but Edman said this prediction is optimistic. Edman also questioned the practicality of a possible vaccine.

"They are dealing with a type of bacteria that has also been related to syphilis, and there is no vaccine for that, so it's not that easy," he said. "A vaccine tested on hamsters looks encouraging, but researchers are being overly optimistic when they say they will have a marketable vaccine developed before Lyme disease becomes a problem here. Vaccines are not particularly helpful in diseases that are erratic and not widespread,"

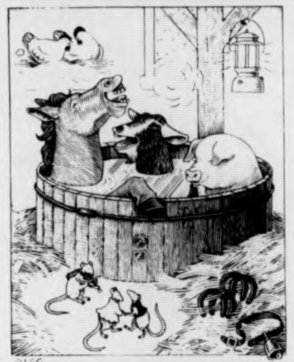
Edman also suggested that birds may be responsible for the increasing numbers. "Birds carry the ticks, too, and eventually the ticks fall off," he said. "This, does not indicate an established tick population; the ticks are falling off randomly."



TOWN OF AMHERST
LSSE
SKI
FREE

There's never a trail fee at Cherry Hill Golf Course.

All ages are invited to cross-country ski the scenic meadows and snowy hills of Amherst's Cherry Hill Golf Course with no trail fee this winter. Open 7 days a week (weather permitting) with ski rentals, lessons, refreshments, free parking and a warming hut. For information: 256-4071. For lesson signups: 256-4065.



EAST HEAVEN TUB Co
Luxurious private hot tub room rentals.
33 West St. Northampton

Mondays 4 p.m.-1 a.m.
Tues.-Sun. 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

for reservations
586-6843

Hillel's 14th Annual
JEWISH ARTS FESTIVAL 1990

MOSHE WALDOKS
Humorist
Thursday
February 1, 7:30pm
Campus Center Auditorium
Admission: $3/$1-Student
Free to Hillel Members
"Laugh the night away!"

One Credit
DANCE/THEATRE WORKSHOP
w/ Billy Yalowitz
Intro Session: Jan. 31, 7pm,
Hampden Southside Rm.
Workshop: Feb. 10 and 11 (same location)
"Explore your cultural heritage through dance and theatre."

ISRAELI FOLK DANCING
Every Wednesday, 8-9:30pm (except Feb. 21)
Commonwealth Room (Student Union) FREE
"Come learn new and traditional dances."

Tuesday, February 13 - Speaker
RAZI AMITAI
"Israeli Contemporary Culture"
Memorial Hall 7:30pm FREE

Thursday, February 15 - Israeli Film
FICTITIOUS MARRIAGE
Campus Center 174-76 7:30pm FREE

Tuesday, February 20 - March 8
Ethiopian Jewish Art Exhibit
BETA ISRAEL: A HOUSE DIVIDED
Curator: David Becker
Student Union Gallery
Reception: Feb. 20, 5-7pm (6pm-Talk)

Wednesday, February 21
Video Documentary by Joel Saxe
JEWISH SINGERS AND RADICAL THINKERS
Campus Center 174-76 7:30pm FREE

Saturday, February 24 - Concert
ZAMRIM CHOIR
Cape Cod Lounge 7:30pm FREE

Tuesday, February 27 - Poet/Writer
AVIVA DORON
Campus Center 168 7:30pm FREE

Thursday, March 8 - Storyteller
DIANE WOLKSTEIN "The Story of Esther"
Memorial Hall 7:30pm

FOR MORE INFO CALL HILLEL 545-2526

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN
113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA, 01003.
Phone (413) 545-3500 FAX (413) 545-1592

STAFF

Editor in Chief	Maria Sacchetti
Managing Editor	George Austin
Editorial Editor	Minu Sebastian
News Editor	Lisa Shapiro
Sports Editor	Jim Clark
Arts Editor	Al Kaufman, Will Georgiades
Photography Editor	Dondi Ahearn
Women's Issues Editor	Danielle Bionda
Multicultural Affairs Editor	Scott C. Hill
Business Manager	Robert J. Bikash
Advertising Manager	Jennifer Ronan
Finance Manager	Martina Rios
Circulation Manager	Chris Baker
Subscription Manager	Joya Faretra
Production Managers	Terry Starmer, Mike Wester
Ad Manager	Rory Evans

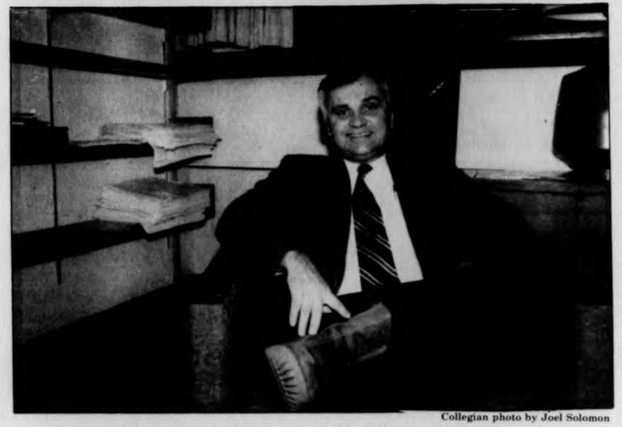
PROFESSIONAL STAFF

Business	Brian Harrington, Maureen Majerowski, Lori Black
Graphics	Andrea Belanger

New England's largest college daily newspaper. Circulation: 21,000. Published every weekday of the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts.

LOCAL

Extensive growth in community predicted for Greeks



Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

New Greek Affairs director Edward Korza

By CHRIS MUTHER
Collegian Staff

This semester should mark "unprecedented" growth in the Greek community at the University of Massachusetts, said Ed Korza, the newly appointed director of Greek Affairs.

Korza, former assistant dean of students who worked at the University for the past five years, said he is optimistic that the University's persistent negative stereotypes of fraternities and sororities can be eliminated.

"I can't change the history of the Greek community," he said, "but the presidents [of the fraternities and sororities] know that only their actions can change their reputation."

One way the Greek community is planning to improve its reputation is by increasing its support services at UMass and getting involved with the town of Amherst, Korza said.

"There's a chance for students to develop a bond that will last a lifetime," he said, "and at the same time get involved with services that will help the community."

Although interest in the Greek community has been declining over the past 10 years, Korza said the local Greek system is still thriving. With forth-coming successes, he sees a growing, more responsive Greek community.

In addition to helping the Greek community plan activities, the Office of Greek Affairs works as a referral service for the fraternities and sororities while monitoring the houses to assure they are following proper procedures.

"No [Greek] president wants the legacy of having lost active status for their house," Korza said. "We work as a resource to help them resolve whatever problem they may need to resolve."

Korza also added that his office has set a precedent of pulling charters from fraternities or sororities.

One fraternity's charter has been pulled already, he said, and two are currently inactive.

Korza said students have the chance to learn more about the Greek system during the upcoming Rush Week, which runs from Febuary 4 through 16.

Student senate supports GEO

By JULIE LIVINGSTONE
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate voted unanimously last night to support the Graduate Employee Organization's demand to be recognized by the University administration as a union.

Renee Heberle, of the GEO, told senators that the Massachusetts Society of Professors and Local 509, which represents professional employees, have already endorsed the union's demands. The support of the Undergraduate Student Senate is a key step in gaining full union stature.

"The opinion of the undergraduates is crucial because it will show the administration we have a wide range of support," Heberle said.

Lisa Nelson, chairperson of the SGA's Public Policy Committee said there will be a letter drafted by the committee and sent to Whitmore in a show of support for the GEO.

A proposed $400-fee increase for all full-time students would go directly into a trust fund, which pays graduate employee salaries.

Graduate employees feel this is no more than the University's way of having them pay their own salaries, Heberle said.

"This fee is actually a pay cut for us," Heberle said. "It goes directly into a trust fund that pays graduate employees. It is not a line-item from the state." Heberle said.

She said the GEO will have a clearer idea of what the administration's reaction is to their demand today.

Joanne Mei, chairperson of the University Legal Services Center Board appeared before the senators to address regaining litigation power for the Legal Services Center.

The right for the center to contest legal cases in court for students was abolished in August of 1987 after a controversial case arose regarding alleged arson in the Southwest Residential Area, Mei said.

Mei said an appeal by the students was brought before the U.S. District Court in Boston by students in September 1988, and was subsequently defeated in February 1989.

A motion was made calling for reinstatement of LSC litigation power in off-campus issues that would have no "adverse impact upon the administration or the trustees." This motion was passed unanimously.

"We presented our proposal to [Dennis] Madsen in late December and he could not give us a clear answer regarding exactly why litigation right was taken away," Mei said.

Aitken budget crisis causes GenEd changes

By MICHAEL WEBBER
Collegian Staff

The budget crisis is responsible for recent changes in the University's general education requirements, said Norman Aitken, associate vice chancellor for Academic Affairs.

Due to massive oversubscriptions of history courses, students are now allowed to substitute one course in the other social world designations for an HS. Arts, literature, and social and behavioral science classes may now be substituted for the history class. The old requirement of two HS courses will be reinstated for freshmen entering in the fall of 1992.

Other changes in the GenEd program include the approval of a number of non-GenEd courses to meet the program's social and cultural diversity requirements.

"We're facing a budget nightmare right now," Aitken said, "and hopefully in three years things will be back to a stable condition."

Chief Undergraduate History Advisor Jack Tager said while the number of history majors increased last semester, from 425 to 507, the number of history faculty members decreased. Four faculty members left and were not replaced, he said.

"The whole thing is totally related to budget," Tager said. "We're serving about 5000 students per semester, and also trying to graduate our majors."

Aitken also noted that while other GenEd courses are

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

■ security increase

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Galligan's photo and a composite sketch of the murderer, he said.

"We are particularly interested in any student who might have seen something [at the mall], but had already left school," he said. Police are also looking for someone who might know if Galligan had problems with anyone, he said.

Harrington said he hopes the reward, offered by the Hampshire Mall, the Mountain Farms Mall, JC Penney, K-Mart and The Daily Hampshire Gazette, will encourage people to call the Hampshire-Franklin County District Attorney Judd Carhart's office with such information.

"We hope people will come forth without the money, but if they need the money incentive, we welcome it," he said.

When asked what type of information would merit a reward, Harrington said that would be worked out with the person who supplies the information.

Harrington said he hopes the information would lead to a suspect, and the arrest and possible conviction of that person.

The district attorney's office has received and processed more than 1200 calls from the public since the beginning of the investigation six weeks ago, Harrington said. Police have files on about 100 subjects, based on phone calls and their own background information, including the subjects' behavior toward women, he said.

Harrington said although investigators have been unable to eliminate these subjects, because of a lack of solid alibis, they are not necessarily suspects.

Police still have no motive for the murder, he said. Galligan was not robbed nor sexually assaulted. The problem is that they lack eyewitnesses and physical evidence, he said.

Harrington said he realizes that the community has been greatly affected by Galligan's murder.

"It could have been anybody's wife or sister," he said. "Obviously, we don't want it to happen again before we catch [the murderer]."

Collegian photo by Dondi Ahern

Participants, director of the Institute for Training and Development

ITD gives lang. lessons

Aid Sal. women in business ventures

By APRIL ROGOWSKI
Collegian Correspondent

AMHERST — The Institute for Training and Development, is sponsoring a program which is teaching business administration skills and English as a second language to 25 Salvadoran women to help them start their own businesses in El Salvador.

Program director Alane Castro said: "This training is giving women the opportunity to be involved in a world of entrepreneurship. It is an opportunity to further their education for some who may have only graduated to the high school levels."

The program, called the El Salvadoran Small Business Training Project, operates through the Institute and provides valuable training that the women can use in El Salvador, she said.

Castro said the program requires that women, ages 17 to 26, entering the project to be high school graduates with an interest in technical information.

Maria Julia Molina, participant of the program, said, "I like the program because they help us a lot."

"Next month we start with technical classes and I think it will be interesting," she said. "I like being here in Amherst and playing in the snow too."

In addition to attending four months of English classes, Castro said, the women will volunteer three hours of a week for the Amherst Family Center, local pre-schools and the Amherst Nursing home, as well as visit and intern with area businesses and attend classes in technical training on how to start small businesses.

The Salvadorans will also participate in

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

SONY • JVC • TECHNICS • AIWA • PANASONIC • SHARP • TDK • MAXELL

"STEREO ON THE CHEAP!"
UNDERGOUND SOUND CAN HELP

If you are on a tight budget this semester you can still enjoy music because UUNDERGOUND SOUND can supply you with name brand quality reconditioned audio components at about half the cost of new equipment. All come with a complete 90 day parts and labor warranty. We also sell new audio components and repair all brands of audio, video, and car audio, as well as musical instrument amplifiers. Stop in and check us out.

UNDERGROUND SOUND • 103 NORTH PLEASANT STREET, AMHERST, MA • 253-9507
WE ARE LOCATED BENEATH PANDA EAST RESTAURANT

"...your newest concept of Asian Specialties is timely, unique and deliciously enticing. Bravo!"
Donald W. Tdron J.D., L.L.M.
Attorney at Law

Come see why we're the
Talk of the Town!

Szes Asian Cuisine
50 Main Street, Northampton 586-5708

DELANO'S
Proper Identification A Must
57 NORTH PLEASANT ST •
Welcome Back Students
Drink of the Week
Rum & Coke $1.50
Beer of the Month
Amstel Light $1.75
FINALLY!
Delano's
Game Room with POOL TABLE
CHECK IT OUT!

UMASS COLLEGE NIGHT SPECIAL
3 Games of Bowling and Shoe Rental for $4.00
with College ID
Thurs Nights 9:00 PM - 12:00 PM
The Northampton Bowl
525 Pleasant St
Northampton, MA
584-4830
Live D.J. in the Lounge from 9-12
Never a Cover

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Blossom,
Thrive,
Flourish.

University of Massachusetts at Amherst
Spring 1990

Plant the seed of knowledge this spring at the UMass Division of Continuing Education. Choose from over 100 hardy and fast-sprouting credit courses for a well-rooted and enduring future.
Late register for Continuing Education evening classes or University day classes, on a space-available basis, through February 12 in Room 615 Goodell Building.

For more information, or a free course catalog, call the Division of Continuing Education at 545-2414.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

UNIVERSITY STORE
BACK TO SCHOOL
STORE HOURS
Tuesday 9-7
Wednesday 9-7
Thursday 9-5
Friday 9-5
Saturday 10-3

TEXTBOOK ANNEX
Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday 9-9
Friday 9-5
Saturday 10-3

Collegian photo by Jason Danziger

IT'S A JUNGLE OUT THERE – Crisp snow covers trees in Northampton.

■ training program

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

a companion program with University students, she said, sharing holidays and extra time with their host families.

U.S. aid funds the program through the Partners of America, which contracts to the Institute to design and implement the specific training process, she said.

The Institute is a nonprofit organization that is not associated with the University of Massachusetts.

"We simply recruit a large percentage of trainers for Latin American training programs through UMass," Castro said.

A group of school board members from Costa Rica arrive for a training program for two and a half weeks in February through the ITD.

Anyone interested in participating in the Salvadoran, Costa Rican or any other future program as either a host or volunteer should call the Institute for Training and Development at 549-4714.

■ history requirement

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

spread over a number of departments, the majority of HS courses are in the history department.

"The changes mean that a student who is having trouble getting an historical studies course will have more options available to him by taking courses in other departments," Aitken said.

Aitken said he believes UMass has one of the best general education programs in the country.

"We're in the forefront of educational reform," Aitken said. "UMass is one of the first universities in the country to institute a broad General Education program with a diversity requirement."

50¢ OFF
MUSHROOM SWISS BK DOUBLES
Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer per visit. Not to be used with other coupons or offers. Void where prohibited by law. Good only at participating Burger King® restaurants.
OFFER GOOD JAN. 22 THRU MAR. 15, 1990
© 1990 Burger King Corporation
BURGER KING
COL

50¢ OFF
FISH FILET SANDWICH
Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer per visit. Not to be used with other coupons or offers. Void where prohibited by law. Good only at participating Burger King® restaurants.
OFFER GOOD FEB. 15 THRU MAR. 15, 1990
© 1990 Burger King Corporation
BURGER KING
COL

50¢ OFF
CROISSAN'WICH®
with Egg and Cheese plus Ham, Bacon or Sausage
Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer per visit. Not to be used with other coupons or offers. Void where prohibited by law. Good only at participating Burger King® restaurants.
OFFER GOOD JAN. 22 THRU MAR. 15, 1990
© 1990 Burger King Corporation
BURGER KING
COL

50¢ OFF
PICK 'EM UPS
6 or 9 Piece Chicken Tenders™ or new Fish Tenders
Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer per visit. Not to be used with other coupons or offers. Void where prohibited by law. Good only at participating Burger King® restaurants.
OFFER GOOD JAN. 22 THRU MAR. 15, 1990
© 1990 Burger King Corporation
BURGER KING
COL

Where is God
When Disaster Strikes?

Disaster defies understanding
It sweeps across our hopes without begging our pardon
It cares not how ruthlessly
our dreams are shattered

Where is God when disaster strikes? Does He know what is happening to us? Does He care?

Explore the Bible to find an answer.
Join other students at this weeks 'TOUCH' meeting, 7 pm Friday, February 2, 1990 in the Campus Center Rm 162

Transforming Ourselves
Under Christ's
Hand

'TOUCH' is a registered Student Organization meeting every Friday at 7 pm in the Campus Center for singing, group discussion, support and fellowship.

Buy Factory Direct
and save...
CASH & CARRY
SPECIALS
PLENTY OF
FREE PARKING
Sale
GNB
Futons
SAVE 10%
Come Early... Don't miss the savings comforters
pillows
25% TO 50% OFF
Solid maple
3 styles
all under $200.00
GOOD NIGHT BEDDING
FACTORY OUTLET STORES
Rt. 9 West
Noho High
Smith College
Rick's Auto
Riverside Dr.
Cutlery Bldg
Goodnight Bedding
The Cutlery Building
320 Riverside Drive
Northampton 585-0660
Open: Mon.-Sat. 9-5
The Carriage Shops
9E Pleasant Street
Amherst 549-3507
Open: Mon. -Sat. 11-5
Sport Rockers
$79.00
FACTORY DIRECT PRICES!
Innerspring Mattress Sets 50% Off List
10 & 20 Year Waranteed
Now in Progress - Special Sale
on Selected Floor Model Packages
Great Savings while they last!
New merchandise arriving soon - we need floor space.

WHEELIN' and DEALIN'...
You'll like the sound of these!
UPGRADE YOUR STOCK SOUND
with stereo amplifiers from
ALPHASONIC, ADS,
BLAUPUNKT & PYLE DRIVER
AIWA CTX 3400 $199
reg. $269
SANYO ER 100
INSTALLED
WITH SPEAKERS $199
RADAR DETECTORS
Whistler Bel K 40 Uniden
Whistler BEL
K40 uniden
FROM $79
Auto Security
unGo box CLIFFORD
THUG BUG
Installed FROM $149
Cellular Phones!
Authorized Agent
METRO MOBILE
SALES & SERVICE
Mention this ad and get
5% off purchase.
CUSTOM CAR SOUND
141 DAMON RD.
NORTHAMPTON, MA.
586-5258
573 RIVERDALE ST.
W. SPRINGFIELD, MA.
734-4995

TOWER Theaters
Two for One
Every Monday
VILLAGE • COMMONS
Across from Mount Holyoke
College in South Hadley
413/533-2663
JESSICA LANGE
"JESSICA LANGE'S POWERFUL PERFORMANCE LIFTS 'MUSIC BOX' INTO A HIGH RANK AMONG THE YEAR'S MOVIES."
MUSIC BOX
Begins February 2
Weekdays at 6:45 & 9:10 p.m.
Friday at 4:35, 7:10 & 9:30
Sat. & Sun. at 2:15, 4:35, 7:10
and 9:30 p.m.
Charles Lane in an all black cast silent film with original music
SIDEWALK STORIES
Yes—you heard right!
February 2-8 only
Weekdays at 7 & 9
Friday at 5, 7, 9:05
Sat. & Sun. at 3, 5, 7 & 9
Tuesday through Thursday
3 p.m. matinees on both shows
Dolby Stereo Theaters with luxury Art Deco surroundings
Try us—You'll come back!

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted.

Liberal ignorance fails to realize Noriega's evils

Upon arriving in Amherst New Year's Eve, I was briefed by a friend of the happenings during my week out of the area. I can honestly say I was not surprised to hear the following:

David R. Mark

"So, guess what they rallied about on the Student Union steps?"

"What?"

"Four people showed up to rally to have the United States put Noriega back in power."

"Figures."

Only in Amherst (and perhaps Northampton) could such liberal naivete exist. Only in Amherst could people actually have the nerve to propose we reinstall the "democratically-elected leader of a sovereign Central American nation."

The ralliers, no doubt, were taking time out from their flag burning ceremonies.

The liberals who support Noriega's return from the evil empire known as the US of A should try to talk with Guillermo Ford, that is if he is willing to show his face in public. Ford was the unfortunate Panamanian vice presidential candidate in that sovereign nation who tried to dethrone the democratically-elected Manuel Antonio Noriega.

Ford was beaten, badly, in the streets of Panama City shortly after his ticket won . . . or should I say lost, for in this democracy, ballot boxes are either stuffed or lost, and a ticket which many believed commanded nearly 70 percent of the votes cast suddenly lost by a few percentage points.

Oh well.

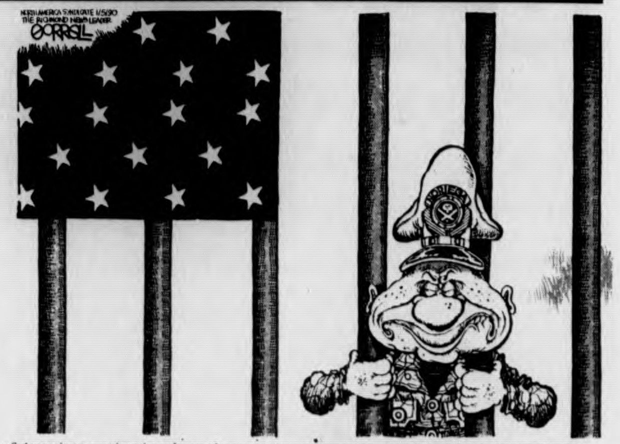
Noriega is a retired general. One can imagine his earning power. Yet he is reported to have a minimum of $25 million stashed in Swiss accounts.

Let's see, how does one make that much money?

Folks, he didn't sell a book and he's not a ballplayer. You can draw your own conclusions. The liberals who rallied on the steps have made theirs.

It's pretty obvious, though, that the money came via drugs. Where there's drugs, there's blood and bullets, which brings us to the most atrocious irony of the liberal naivete.

I'm certainly not one to advocate deaths, and all Americans should mourn the loss of Panamanian lives, as well as the deaths of several American soldiers. Liberals jumped on this, saying that it was just another example of American brutality — of Americans going in where they aren't wanted, with no constitutional right — destroying the land, raping the women, pillaging the villages.



But seriously, how many people have died at the hands of Noriega or his underlings? The number, unquestionably, is more than the number who died last month as a result of the US invasion. Even if it were not, it would only be a matter of time.

Reports out of Panama prior to the invasion (from former Panamanian officials) suggest that Noriega was becoming more and more paranoid, taking on a slightly less powerful form of Joseph Stalin.

But the liberals came out to the Student Union steps. Somebody has to do it. Thank goodness nobody listened to their ignorance.

David R. Mark is a Collegian columnist

Notes from the Campus Center Basement

Weeeelll, here we are again. Another semester that absolutely promises to be interesting. Not so much here, but around the world. UMass, of course, will have a slew of protests and in-house controversies. Most will have to do with the budget, but you never know, maybe some rabid conservative will show up to speak on something inane.

****

A lot has been said and done about the Stuart case. Unfortunately beyond revealing the facts of the case, little has been done to deal with some of the side issues.

My main concern is how the media handled the case. Had the media reacted as it usually does, the racial tension that erupted would not have been nearly as bad, or even existed.

Usually the media handles murders as a matter-of-fact type of thing, especially for ones involving inner-city folk, even more so if they are a minority.

What this case involved was a couple of White suburbanites who were visiting the big bad city. They are different, more vulnerable, don'tcha know.

What happened was heinous, and the aftershocks of the original story were even worse. The Black community deserves among other things an apology from Mayor Flynn, the Boston Police Dept., and, most of all, the media.

This should also get the media to take a long look at what it does, can do and should do.

****

Peter Leon

Onto other things. According to the experts, Massachusetts could be losing a lot of federal money in the coming fiscal year. In education? No. In welfare? No. Instead it will be coming out of the millions of dollars this state has been getting for the defense industry.

You see, Massachusetts has been funded by the Defense Department for years now. We have military bases, research facilities and production facilities. But, since George is cutting the Defense Budget (by 2.6 percent, after inflation), some of these things our state has been enjoying are going to be gone. Our companies get less money from the Feds thus equalling a tax revenue loss.

So, once again the state will have to tighten its belt. Now predictions! Who thinks the Governor's and state reps and Senator's staffs will be cut? Who thinks our consulting fees will be cut? Not me. I predict human services and education will feel the brunt of the loss.

And you thought things couldn't get any worse. Silly people.

****

All you Amherst student residents: it would be to your advantage to register to vote, and then vote for the two UMass students running for the Board of Selectmen. Since presently there are many anti-rent review board people on the board and more are running. If you think rents are high now, wait 'til there is no local committee to order your landlord to lower rents.

By the way, these guys names are Robb Smith and Brian Crawford.

****

Reality check: Dan Quayle is still Vice-President of the United States. Oooh, that scares me.

****

For the quote of the week, we must think back to the holidays when all of our extended family members came over to the house to spend quality time with us. "Who are these people?!? And what are they doing in my house?!?"

David Marchione 1989

****

Thus 'til next week - tha tha that's all folks...

Peter Leon is a Collegian columnist

Whitmore's history repeats itself

I had plans for Monday, Jan. 29. Add-drop day.

I was going to be bored. For me, this was a big deal.

Not like I'm usually king social butterfly, or anything like that. Spending long periods of time in the windowless Campus Center basement tends to put a damper on that.

Jim Clark

But that wonderful source of paranoia known as add-drop has always been my own private hell. Semester after semester, year after year, some Whitmore computer would spit out my schedule, or lack thereof. Simply put, I never got classes.

Until this year. I'm a graduating senior. Lo and behold, the powers that be were kind. Fifteen credits, right from the get-go.

So forgive me if I had the bizarre notion that I could actually somehow slip through add-drop day unscathed.

Silly me.

You have to understand the history behind it. Just as people grow up fearing the monsters that lurk under their beds, I sit up at night wondering what strange things will happen next to block the road to getting my degree.

People wonder why we are paying all of those padded salaries to the Whitmore bureaucrats when we are not sure what they are supposed to be doing. I'm convinced of the reason, that somewhere in that concrete fortress of red tape is a "Vice Chancellor of Thinking Up Ways to Give Jim the Shaft."

Or at least make my life interesting.

So, to the crux of the matter:

As a courtesy, we as students get a letter in the mail that informs us of what general education requirements we have fulfilled and, in turn, have yet to fulfill.

To be honest with you, I have yet to get much of anything out of any of these force-fed courses we must take. Things must have been so much simpler under the old "core" requirements, which of course were changed for the Fall of 1986 — the semester that I enrolled here. (The traffic light always turns yellow as I approach it, too. Just thought I'd point that out.)

Anyway, when I got mine, I noticed that I had only taken one "historical studies", or HS class. I needed two, and thought I had taken two. Oh, well. Nothing that a trip to the records office couldn't straighten out.

But then I was informed that one of my two history classes never was an HS. I still had one to take.

Hence, the need for me to scrap my well-drawn plans and get up at 6:30 a.m. on Monday. For the eighth straight semester.

With a friend, I arrived at the history line and got a ticket for a 12:30 appointment. But, while sitting around his dorm room waiting for our time to come, his roommate returned.

"Hey, have you seen the new GenEd requirements?"

Uh, no, as a matter of fact, I hadn't.

So I read intently on the inside of the revised course book, where it plainly said that now, only one HS was required.

Well, that was nice of them, I thought. Last night, I got my hands on a letter from some office in Whitless that explained the whole thing. Dated: Nov. 21, 1989.

Hello, McFly? Anybody home? Was this supposed to be a big secret or something?

As it turns out, for a change, my tale has a semi-happy ending. I won't even bother suing for the unnecessary loss of sleep on Monday. But it makes me wonder how many other people are in the dark about stuff like this.

Ahh, probably just me.

Jim Clark is a Collegian columnist

Provost gets to core of student complaints

This office handles some hundreds of individual complaints from students every year. Our standard procedure is to solve them, as best we can, without publicizing either the complaint or its solution.

However, we recently handled three particular student complaints which received a good deal of publicity which was not of our making. They referred to the cancellation of classes by certain professors during the period of the student boycott.

When those complaints were made I wrote to three faculty members to ask whether the complaints were accurate. They have all responded to me, and I have discussed with the deans and their respective department chairs the cancellations and the alternative arrangements which were made.

I was happy to find that the faculty had made appropriate arrangements in every case, and there is no reason to pursue these complaints further.

Richard O'Brien
Provost

Is there something that is bothering you? Something that you would like to share with UMass?

Why don't you become a columnist! The* Collegian *Editorial page is open to all members of the UMass community. The Editorial Desk is looking for columnists with a viewpoint. To become a columnist, you need five columns printed within a semester.

Send all submissions to the Editorial Desk,* Collegian *Offices, 113 Campus Center, c/o Minu Sebastian.

Machismo and patriotism do not mix

A former boyfriend and I once had a discussion about the Vietnam War, after seeing the movie "Platoon."

I was angry so many young men had to die for what seemed to me an unworthy cause. But he said the men who went to Vietnam were rightfully serving their country, and should be commended for their actions.

He added that if a similar situation were to arise today, he would immediately sign up to join the fight.

As a senior in high school, I was unable to explain why this view disturbed me so much. Having had three more years exposure to the events surrounding the war, and having just seen Oliver Stone's film, "Born on the Fourth of July," I now know why.

Have we learned nothing from our past? Is our society destined to be forever susceptible to propagandist lies and macho imagery?

The Vietnam War was not solely about fighting communism. As all wars have been, it was about political power, and about proving power through physical strength. It was about playing on society's belief that proving oneself as a man means proving oneself to be handy with a gun.

In the film, senior high school student Ron Kovic (Tom Cruise) carries out his boyhood dreams of glory when he becomes a sergeant in the U.S. Marine Corps and learns the price he must pay for proving his manhood.

He is not only paralyzed from the waist down, but he returns to a country which has no concept of or compassion for what the soldiers have been through.

At first, Ron is stunned by the anti-war protesters. He tells his younger brother, "America — love it or leave it." However, he begins to think the protesters, even if they hadn't been to Vietnam, are on the veterans' side. They too believe the government sold the veterans a false bill of goods.

Sarah Demaster

I also think this was the case. And it is this belief, contrary to my former boyfriend's accusations that I don't believe in serving our country, that makes me bitter about the massive loss of life incurred during this war.

It is also this bitterness that disturbs me — his statement that he would readily enlist today rather than question the need to fight.

Will nothing ever change? It was the government's successful use of propaganda that got us into the Vietnam War, and it will be its continued support of existing stereotypes that will get us into another.

Our society has continued to encourage young men to prove their manhood through violent acts. As children, boys play with toy guns, computer games like "Operation Wolf" and watch members of the World Wrestling Federation assert their idea of machismo on television. When they become adolescents, they engage in fist fights and fights involving knives or guns. Males are encouraged to demonstrate their manliness with the old adage, "boys will be boys."

The U.S. government, with their armed forces advertisements urges, "Be all that you can be," the highest honor of which is one of "The few, the proud, the Marines."

I'm not saying people shouldn't join the armed forces, or that war can be eliminated. All I'm saying is if men didn't feel so pressured to prove their maleness, perhaps they wouldn't be so eager to jump into war. Perhaps they would have thought twice about fighting the questionable threat of communism in a jungle-like country more than 13,000 miles from their own.

I feel sorry for the Vietnam veterans because they bought into the idea that proving their manhood and their patriotism meant sacrificing their bodies and souls. How many Ron Kovic's should there be before we stop paying the cost?

Sarah Demaster is a Collegian staff member

What miracle?

Years ago, I had a T-shirt that had written on it the old slogan used to stir up state pride and give a boost to the tourist industry: "Make it in Massachusetts!"

Bob Bobala

At the time, I never thought about being proud of the state in which I lived, nor did I wonder why I liked living here, or why I was here at all. My parents just happened to live in Massachusetts, which really limited the options of most kids my age. I just wore that T-shirt because it was more comfortable than the shirts with buttons mom would have preferred I wear.

"Make it in Massachusetts!" I was making it in Massachusetts at least once a week when I wore that shirt. But then I outgrew it. Unfortunately, even though I haven't seen the T-shirt in years, the physical growth of my adolescence was accompanied by at least a mild intellectual growth which now makes me wonder about this state we're in. We may still be making it in Massachusetts, but not very far, and not for very long.

Fiscal mismanagement has not only jammed on the brakes, grinding the Massachusetts Miracle to a screeching halt, but it's about to force the state to take a U-turn in the wrong direction.

Still faced with a $500 million deficit, the state Legislature has opted to make more cuts in the budget rather than raise taxes. If the no-new-taxes budget for Fiscal Year 1991 that the governor unveiled last week were passed by the Legislature like it is (that won't happen), these would be only a few of the results:

Nearly $110 million of the state supplement to the federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) would be cut, affecting over 100,000 elderly, blind and disabled persons.

Twenty courts may close and as many as 1,000 court employees may be laid off. Also, in a prison system that has long been overcrowded, almost 700 jail beds would be eliminated and the planned opening of over 1,600 new beds would be scrapped.

Three hundred to 375 state policemen and staff would be cut, plus 17 Registry of Motor Vehicles offices would be closed.

The cleanup of hazardous waste will be slowed, plus 55 parks and 30 pools will be closed.

And of course, everybody's favorite: another $50 million cut in higher education funding, resulting in double-digit tuition increases for public institutions and less financial aid for students of both private and public schools as $23.6 million would be cut from state scholarship monies.

All across the state people are doing painful backflips over Dukakis' budget because it's not only outrageous, it's downright cruel. But whether the governor has his priorities straight or not, any budget proposed with the state's existing revenues is going to hurt.

Like it or hate it, the only solution and the only way to avoid catastrophe is to raise taxes. But it is the legislators who won't do that. The reason: they're gutless.

It's an election year and the legislators fear for their jobs — with good reason. More constituents are calling them and demanding no new taxes than those who call in support of a tax increase. Unfortunately, many of these people are uninformed or misinformed by talk shows, tabloids and other misinformed people.

Progressive tax packages (like the ones passed in many other states that have encountered the same fiscal difficulty as Massachusetts) have been put together by legislators who do see the necessity for more revenues. But their passage hasn't had a chance because of those legislators who traded in their backbones when they decided to run for office and who want to make sure they keep their lousy $30,000-a-year job.

We'll see what happens when nomination papers are filed in the spring. The only sad hope will come if many legislators run uncontested. (I imagine that will happen in many cases — nobody will want to run this state in the shape that it'll be in.) Then, with no pressure from opponents who could take away their jobs, the former cowards will feel a surge of bravery and they'll be able to vote fearlessly for additional revenues and we all can "Make it in Massachusetts" once again. That is, if we all haven't left the state by then.

Bob Bobala is a Collegian columnist

TO INSURE BETTER DELIVERY, THE U.S. POSTAL SERVICE IS CHANGING THE WAY IT DOES THINGS....
UNITED STATES POSTAL SERVICE
U.S. MAIL
HELLO?... FEDERAL EXPRESS?!...
UNITED STATES
U.S.
STAMPS
MAIL
MAIL
MAIL
MAIL
NORTH AMERICA SYNDICATE 1/26/90
THE RICHMOND NEWS LEADER
GORRELL

Khmer Rouge resurgence feared

Kampuchea, known more commonly as Cambodia, is not prominent in the agenda of American foreign policy nor in the minds of many Americans.

This nation, however, is an example of the hypocrisy that exists in American foreign policy.

The United States has chosen to forsake the good of the Kampuchean people to uphold certain balance-of-power principles.

Jason George

Last September, Vietnam ended its 11-year occupation of Kampuchea. Vietnam had entered Kampuchea in 1978, driving the Communist Khmer Rough from power.

Between 1975 and 1978, an estimated two million Cambodians died under the Khmer Rouge.

The Khmer Rouge currently forms a loose coalition with two smaller, non-Communist groups opposing the Vietnamese-backed regime under Prime Minister Hun Sen. They are the strongest faction, militarily, and appear to have made significant advances in recent weeks.

The U.S. role in Southeast Asia since 1975 has been limited by the memory of this country's military failures in Indochina. U.S. leaders since the mid-70s have placed our foreign policy with Chinese interests in mind.

At the same time, the 1970s were marked by a deepening Sino-Vietnamese rift, which came to a head when Vietnam invaded Kampuchea in December 1978.

China has been the world's foremost supporter of the Khmer Rouge. The recent diplomatic mission to China by National Security Advisor Brent Skowcroft demonstrates that the U.S. government continues to stress the importance of maintaining friendly relations with China, even if Beijing's leaders maintain heavy-handed policies which violate the rights of the Chinese people.

The rhetoric of U.S. foreign policy-makers is marked by calls for Khmer self-determination. Unless the United States confronts China about its support of the Khmer Rouge, the future of Kampuchea will be clouded by the threat of another genocide.

There are several proposals for the future government of Kampuchea involving different combinations among the four factions vying for power. Australia has proposed that a United Nations agency govern the country until free elections are held this spring.

Although elections are scheduled for the spring, the volatile nature of the struggle in Kampuchea and the treachery often demonstrated by the Khmer Rouge make a smooth transition to electoral politics highly unlikely.

The Khmer Rouge certainly do not represent the will of the Kampuchean majority. A recent letter to the United Nations by 2,000 survivors of the Cambodian genocide stated that the Khmer Rouge "are planning to return to Cambodia under the cover of national reconciliation, obtain de facto control of the countryside by terror and threat, and again seize power."

The early tone of the Bush Administration expresses strong opposition to a return of the Khmer Rouge. Although the United States has been relatively weak in Southeast Asia in the post-Vietnam era, words are not enough.

The United States must use its influence in the world to work to eliminate the Khmer Rouge from future governance of Kampuchea. America will remain impotent in Southeast Asia until we simply stop following China's lead unquestioningly.

The recent overtures to China and the lack of dynamism in George Bush's foreign policy make it doubtful that the United States will use its influence to help secure a favorable outcome for the Kampuchean people.

The future of Kampuchea will most likely be marked by the question of what might have been had the United States pursued a moral and independent foreign policy toward the Kampuchean strife.

Jason George is a Collegian staff member.

BLUEWALL

Continental Special

Buy any breakfast pastry and get another at ½ price.
Offer good now through March 31, 1990.

The Breakfast Menu

Cinnamon Rolls
Gourmet Coffee
Fresh Fruit
Muffins
Yogurt
Breakfast Juices
Assorted Teas
Danish Pastry
Croissants
Bagels

HOURS: MON.-FRI. 8:00AM-10:30AM

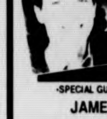
Yesterday & Today Music
TOP CASH PAID
For LP's, Cassettes, & CD's
WE BUY COLLECTIONS
48 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, MA (413) 253-9209
Basement of D'Angelo's and Steve's Building

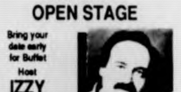
NOW OPEN
IN AMHERST

WHALEN STATIONERS
40 MAIN STREET
(across from Town Hall)
256-3120

College Supplies
Large selection of writing instruments
Computer paper and ribbons
Dayrunner organizers
Resume and thesis papers, binders
Office products

"Serving the Five College Area since 1958"

the COMEDY ZONE
PEKING GARDEN RESTAURANT
Route 9 Hadley
Next to Hadley Subaru
FRI - SAT 8:30 p.m.
Come earlier for Dinner


Irreverent Left of Center Social & Political Satire
Biting Sarcasm
GRANT TAYLOR
Non-Hostile to Audience
-SPECIAL GUESTS- from Boston
JAMES LEMUR
also
NANCY GIRARD
Monday - Thursday 5 - 8 p.m.
All you can eat
BUFFET
$5.99
COMEDY RESERVATIONS
586-1202 585-8615
11:30 - 3 p.m.
All You Can Eat
SUNDAY BRUNCH
$6.99
Wed. Feb. 14 - 8:30 p.m.
Valentine's Day
COMEDY
OPEN STAGE
Bring your date early for Buffet
Host
IZZY
GESELL


$2 Admission
All Comedy Info
585-8615
20% OFF DINNERS
FOR COMEDY PATRONS
All Ages - All shows

Welcome Back from Scott's Liquors!

Scott's LIQUORS
OPEN MON-SAT
8 AM-11 PM
Tel. 549-2692
6 University Drive
at Newmarket Center
Amherst
diagonnaly across from UMASS Stadium

BUSCH $9.99 + dep.

Miller Lite Suitcase
24-12 oz. Cans
$11.49 + dep.

Southern Comfort 750 ml
$7.49

Captain Morgan Spiced Rum 750 ml
$6.99

Nappa Ridge Chardonnay 750 ml
$4.99

Miller Genuine Draft 12 pack Bottles
$5.99 + dep.

Smirnoff Vodka 750 ml
$6.99

Peachtree Schnapps 750 ml
$6.49

VISA/MASTERCARD ACCEPTED
ALSO LOCAL PERSONAL CHECKS

Plus many instore and rebate specials!!
Kegs Available
Prices good 1/29 thru 2/3, 1990
WE WANT TO BE YOUR FAVORITE LIQUOR STORE

ARTS & LIVING

Jazz legend Betty Carter performs pure magic

By BILL ROSENBLATT
Collegian Staff

Betty Carter is a remarkable jazz vocalist. Listen to her studio recordings and you'll marvel at her technique and control as well as her prodigious improvisational ability. But see her live — sheer magic. At the Iron Horse in Northampton last Monday night, she left no doubt that she is the most significant vocalist in the music since Billie Holiday.

Carter's set shattered all of my negative preconceptions about jazz vocal performance: One has come to expect such things as pandering diatribe ("hey, great to be here...") between songs, cheap displays of scat gymnastics, cloying sentimentality and a backup band that looks bored to death. None of these elements were present on Monday night.

Instead, Betty Carter delivered a performance that embodied everything that jazz vocals should be. Instead of using technique or lyrics as a crutch, she improvised.

Valley Jazz

Her voice has the round, sonorous qualities of a trumpet — at times sounding like Miles Davis with a harmon mute, at other times like Art Farmer's mellow fluegelhorn. The control she exerts over pitch, color, rhythm and vibrato ought to be the envy of any opera singer. She takes daring, breathtaking chances at all times; her scatting, especially, shows as much creativity as any major instrumentalist.

Above all, she swings like hell.

The material she sang, much of it from her latest album, Look What I Got (Verve), consisted of her own tunes and lesser-known pop/Broadway standards. Her interpretations really got inside the lyrics, striking a comfortable balance between hipness and romanticism, and leaving her personal mark on every syllable. Her band went straight from one song into the next, leaving very little room for the aforementioned pandering to the audience. The small crowd that braved the nasty weather was overwhelmed by the consistent quality of the music and responded with a standing ovation.

Backing Carter up was a trio consisting of Marc Cary on piano, Tarus Brateen on bass and Greg Hutchinson on drums, all unknown (to me, at least) and all in their early 20s. Cary's strong, fluid right hand showed the usual Bud Powell influence, infused with the touch of Herbie Hancock that is common among today's "young lions." Hutchinson's drumming propelled the band effectively, especially in moments when many others would have been content to lay back and keep time. His whip-crack snare sound owed something to Tony Williams

The world is beginning to give Betty Carter the recognition she has long deserved. She started out in the late 1950s, singing the ballads and bebop common to that era, and branched out into more experimental territory in the 60s. She formed her own Bet-Car label in 1971 and recorded sporadically on it throughout the 70s. Recently, she singed up with Verve and received the wider recognition that comes with major-label exposure; that label is now reissuing her Bet-Car material.

She has moved away from avant-garde exposition and towards the more standard stuff, but her treatment of the latter material retains all of the surprising qualities she has pioneered. If this sounds similar to the "career path" of many of her contemporaries, remember that Carter is a vocalist; very few vocalists have broken the Bessie Smith/Billie Holiday mold since it was forged more than half a century ago. Betty Carter has done this, but has also managed to stay squarely within the jazz tradition.

Sugarcubes, Primitives at SUB

UPC has announced that on March 10, Iceland's Sugarcubes will be performing in the Student Union Ballroom, supported by British chart-toppers, the Primitives.

The Sugarcubes, called "the world's coolest band," earned favorable reviews with their first progressive/college radio hit, "Birthday" off of their critically-lauded Elektra release, Life's Too Good. They have recently released their follow-up LP, Here Today, Tommorow, Next Week, which is currently climbing the alternative charts.

Opening for the Sugarcubes will be the pop-oriented Primitives, who scored points of their own on the American charts with the release of their first single on Columbia Records, "Crash," and its follow-up, "Way Behind Me." The band is continuing their British and American radio success with their most recent Columbia release, Pure.

Shadow art slinks into gallery

You walk in and are immediately surrounded by shadowy stories and supernatural imagery. The shadows reveal a familiar object shown in a weave of black and white.

Starting tomorrow, and running until March 17, 19 silhouette pieces from 10 San Francisco Bay artists will hang on the University Gallery's white walls.

One of the strongest displays is by David True. True has three pieces on display, "Woodland," "Day Without Words" and "Dark Song." In "Dark Song," he let his ink drip and pool on the canvas. the bottom right hand corner is accented by an upside-down violin which weaves itself naturally into the innerspaces of the black ink.

Another artist is Robert Moskowitz. His prints include "Cadillac" and "Chopsticks." Moskowitz said each of his pieces exhort two different types of power.

Aside from the many brilliant prints of

CONTINUED ON PAGE 12

SpeeDee
OIL CHANGE & TUNE-UP
Regularly Priced $21.95 oil change
$45.95 tune up for 4 cylinder car
$67.90
BACK TO SCHOOL SPECIAL:
We'll give you an oil change and tune up
for only $57.90
No Appointment Necessary
19 Fulton Ave. Northampton, MA
586-5640

Become a Real Estate Salesperson
REAL ESTATE PRINCIPLES A100
Massachusetts Required Salesperson's Course
Tuesdays, 6:30-9:30 p.m., Feb. 6-April 10
On the UMass campus
Presented by the Division of Continuing Education
For more information, call Ms. Seyedi at 545-0312.

ALLIANCE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Welcome Back to UMASS
For more info call Steve or Pauline 253-7206

UMass Arts Council
GRANT PROPOSAL DEADLINE

The next deadline for submission of grant proposals for arts-related projects and events:

Wednesday, February 5

Guidelines and application forms are available at the Arts Council office and the Student Activities Office

Umass Arts Council
125 Herter Hall, 545-0202

Pearl Street
10 PEARL ST. NORTHAMPTON, MA
413 584 7771
Fri., Feb. 16th 7:00
THROWING MUSES

18 +
Tix 21 + $8, 18 + $9
Adv. Tix. On Sale Today

COME CLEAN WITH US!
Open 7 days a week
7 a.m.-10 p.m.
Campus Coin Op 107 Sunderland Rd. North Amherst
Speedwash, 11 Pray St., Amherst
South Towne Commons Laundromat
479 West St., South Amherst

herself... at times
jewelry and accessories
Has A New Look
We Hope You Like it!
Enjoy Our Welcome Back Sale
30% Off All Hair Accessories
Including Lots Of New Styles
7E. Pleasant St. (Between Peloton & Bank of N.E.)
549-6693 Sale Ends Feb. 3

Dancing auditions at UMass and Smith

The Boston Center for the Arts is holding dancing auditions in the Five College area for a June production, directed by Aria Edry.

The first set of auditions will be held at Smith College Berenson Studio, on Feb. 3 at 1 p.m., and on Feb. 5 and 6 at 7 p.m.

Auditions will also be held in UMass Hampden Studio in Southwest. They begin on Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m., and on Feb. 8 at 6 p.m.

The company is looking to fill four male and four female roles. They want strong performers. Specific casting needs include a male with gymnastic skills, a male with a muscular body type, a female between the ages of 14 and 18, and a female familiar with sign language. There are also more open-ended roles.

All of the audition times last two hours, but people must call in advance to set up their 20 minute individual auditions. All interested may call Kinetic Environments at 549-3565.

Pay what you may for rock theater

The Berkshire Public Theatre, in Pittsfield, is offering a "pay what you can night" for their production tomorrow night of The Rock & Roll Show, Live at the Berkshire Public Theatre.

The show is the creation of director/choreographer Tommy DeFrantz, who combines rock songs from past Berkshire Public Theatre shows and presents them in the tradition of old 50s and 60s live rock shows.

Artistic Director Frank Bessell conceived the "pay what you can night" idea. He feels this will encourage people with limited finances who have never attended a theater production to do so.

The show begins at 8 p.m.

Pearl Street
10 PEARL ST. NORTHAMPTON, MA
413 584 7771

Thurs., Feb. 1 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
THE TAILGATORS
Lucky 7

Fri., Feb. 2 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
THE NEIGHBORHOODS

Minibus Sandwich

Thurs., Feb. 8 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
BUFFALO TOM
Sebadoh

Fri., Feb. 9 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
SCRUFFY THE CAT Even the Odd

Sat., Feb. 10 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
BARRENCE WHITFIELD
& THE SAVAGES

Thurs., Feb. 15 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
PAJAMA SLAVE DANCERS
The Malarians

Fri., Feb. 16 — 7:00 p.m. 18+
THROWING MUSES

Advance Tickets Available

Thurs., Feb. 22 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
BIM SKALA BIM
The Ululators

Sat., Feb. 24 — 8:30 p.m. 18+
O POSITIVE

ADV. TIX. FROM: FOR THE RECORD IN AMHERST
AND ALL TICKETRON OUTLETS 1-800-382-8080
RAPCITY IN BRATTLEBORO,
STRAWBERRIES
10 Pearl St., Northampton 413-584-7771

Interested in Video?
Now Hiring Work Study
Cable Assistants
$3.75/hr. 10 hrs./week
No expereince needed—Enthusiastic & responsible!
Contact Marija L. Boily ASAP at 545-1336
Union Video Center 216 Student Union

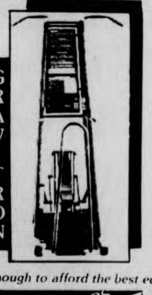
FREE
TRAVEL PLANNING BY PROFESSIONALS
THE AREAS ONLY "CERTIFIED TRAVEL COUNSELORS"
AIR • HOTELS • CARS • TOURS • RAIL
CHARTERS • VACATION PACKAGES
SPRING BREAK VACATIONS
CANCUN from $349 from Hartford
BAHAMAS from $579 from Boston
Call for other destinations
All subject to availability.
WE'RE WORTH THE CALL OR VISIT
OPEN MOST SATURDAYS
CALL 586-8953
YOUR PARTNERS IN TRAVEL
Maplewood Shops, Old South Street,
Northampton

THE GYM IS A COMPLETE
WEIGHTLIFTING CLUB
FOR MEN & WOMEN!
Featuring over 10,000 pounds of weights, exercise machines, nautilus machines, bikes, rowers, climbers and full locker and shower facilities!
We also offer tanning and coming in February—AEROBICS!
The GYM
at mountain farms mall
Rte. 9 on the
Amherst/Hadley Line
EASY TO GET TO BY CAR OR BUS!
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!

Myers Eatery
Now Serving LATE NIGHT
Friday & Saturday 10 p.m. - 3 a.m.
Special breakfast, lunch & dinner menu
Breakfast & Luncheon Specials served
7 days a week 7 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Homemade
Soups • Pastries • Muffins
10% off with this coupon
88 Pleasant St., Northmapton • 584-4145
Coupon Valid Monday thru Friday Only

NOW...
ON SATURDAY
IN AMHERST!
FILM IN
BY 11:00 am
PRINTS OUT
BY 2:00 pm
1-HOUR SERVICE ALSO AVAILABLE
The Foto Factory
257 TRIANGLE ST. / AMHERST

NEW! For 1990
Family Fitness
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
Five Times!
ADVOCATE BEST VALLEY 1989 1st PLACE
GRAVITRON



WHAT IS IT?
A computer controlled hydraulic platform that compensates for body weight. Assists in performing dips and pullups. Excellent for women.
WHERE?
Only at the Amherst Athletic Club
"Big enough to afford the best equipment...
NAUTILUS AEROBICS
STAIRMASTERS LIFECYCLES
TREADMILL ROWER
...But small enough to know your name"
Amherst Athletic Club
460 West St.
South Amherst
Karate Health Fitness Center
256-0080

VIDEO To GO
256-1509
2 FOR 1
Rent two movies for the price of one.
Expires: 2/15/90
Only one coupon per transaction per customer.
FOR PARKING: Turn down driveway between Aldrich Auto Supply and the big yellow house

---

Everything is "Finally Right:" Schloff to headline Iron Horse

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

Photo courtesy of APA

Barb Schloff performs an acoustic set at the Iron Horse Saturday Night

To watch Barb Schloff on stage, armed with only a red acoustic guitar and an ethereal voice, comfortably singing and casually telling tales of personal experience, it is hard to believe that she was once too shy to perform in front of anyone.

PREVIEW

"My brother taught me how to play guitar when I was 14," Schloff said. "I played in my own room for years. I literally didn't play in front of a person until I was 18."

During that time, Schloff honed her craft, writing songs and performing them for an audience of no one but herself. But her confidence gradually grew. She realized her music could help pay her tuition at Northern Michigan University, so she began playing in many area bars.

Upon graduation, Schloff embarked on her first "European tour" with her friend and eventual manager, Jennifer Stark. But unlike many performers, her itinerary did not include large venues, fancy hotels and gourmet food.

"I went to Europe with $300 and stayed for four months," she said. "I played in the streets and in cafes. I slept on a lot of subway floors and didn't eat a lot."

Schloff then travelled across the United States, never staying in one area longer than six months, before returning to Michigan. There, she sang in a punk/new wave band. "But my band went to San Francisco and I didn't," she said.

So Schloff went solo. Not only was the move smart economically, but it was a natural progression for her. With more trust than ever in her songs, she no longer needed the support of other performers on stage with her.

So far, the move has been fairly successful. Schloff has opened for many musicians, including the inspirational Michelle Shocked, across the country. "I love opening," she said. "The audience has no expectations of you. So if they end up liking you, they're very excited about it."

Ironically, the woman who double majored in political science and history rarely writes political songs. She said that she was "turned off" by politics after working for a lawyer and U.S. Senator. She considers her songwriting to be therapy. "I'm driven to write a song about something that affects me or the people around me," she said. "It helps me get my emotions out."

Some of her more personal songs include "Finally Right." She wrote the song for her brother and sister-in-law, who found each other after suffering through disasterous relationships.

On the other end of the spectrum is "Mr. Bossman," a comedic, sarcastic look at the men who own the restaurants she's often been forced to work at to make ends meet.

Lately, Schloff has been playing in New York in front of industry people in an attempt to get signed. For her Saturday night show at the Iron Horse, she will shoot a video of three of her songs, "Finally Right," "Mr. Bossman" and "Waiting," to use for promotion.

Advertised as the "most requested new folk artist" at the Iron Horse, Schloff recently opened there for Bill Morrissey and Greg Brown. But on Saturday, instead of a four or five song tease of her talent, the crowd will be treated to a full evening of the beautiful songs and wonderous vocals of Barb Schloff.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

MICHELE PREVOST
3907 Elm Street, Apartment 3C
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19104

CAREER OBJECTIVE A staff nurse position on a general surgical or surgical step down unit.
EDUCATION Bachelor of Science in Nursing, University of Pennsylvania, School of Nursing, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19104.
EXPERIENCE Clinical rotations at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania in the following departments:
Obstetrics, Medical-Surgical, Community Health, Pediatrics, Psychiatric, Chronically Ill-Geriatrics, Orthopedic Surgical Unit.
Clinical rotations at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, Senior Leadership Program: Neuroscience Surgical Intensive Care Unit.
Assistant Manager, Honesdale Borough Pool, Honesdale, Pennsylvania, Summer 1984-1987.
HONORS Sigma Theta Tau, International Honor Society for Nursing.
ACTIVITIES Skiing, running, cycling and music.
REFERENCES Available Upon Request.

LIEUTENANT NINA GRASANTI
5603 Six Forks Road
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19104

CAREER OBJECTIVE A staff nurse position on a general surgical or surgical step down unit.
EDUCATION Bachelor of Science in Nursing, University of Pennsylvania, School of Nursing, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19104.
EXPERIENCE Clinical rotations at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania in the following departments:
Obstetrics, Medical-Surgical, Community Health, Pediatrics, Psychiatric, Chronically Ill-Geriatrics, Orthopedic Surgical Unit.
Clinical rotations at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, Senior Leadership Program: Neuroscience Surgical Intensive Care Unit.
ROTC Nurse Summer Training Program, 160 hours of clinical experience, 20 hours nursing research, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Washington, D.C., Summer 1988.
Executive Officer, Medical Brigade Headquarters and Student Companies.
Assistant Manager, Honesdale Borough Pool, Honesdale, Pennsylvania, Summer 1984-1987.
Cadet Personnel Officer in the University of Pennsylvania Army ROTC Battalion.
HONORS Sigma Theta Tau, International Honor Society for Nursing, Distinguished graduate, US Army Airborne School.
ACTIVITIES Skiing, running, cycling and music.
REFERENCES Available Upon Request.

WHICH ONE WOULD YOU RATHER WRITE?

When you spend four years becoming a leader, it shows. And that's what Army ROTC is all about.

Fact is, when you graduate from college with a Lieutenant's gold bar, you'll bring more than a degree and a better resume to a job interview. You'll bring confidence and the knowledge that you've done something that will make you a desirable candidate in the job market. A competitive edge few people your age have. Something you can be proud of.

So take a good look at Army ROTC. It just might help potential employers take a good look at you.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE
ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

Contact Captain John Popp
Department of Military Science
545-2321/2322

R+P
LIQUOR STORE
We've moved to our new location
505 West St. Rte. 116
close to Brittany & Riverdale
1 mile south on 116
Bring us your empties

Man does not live by bread sticks alone...
Neither do women or children. That's why we're offering a great special for everyone on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Choose a popular pasta and a savory sauce from our special selection. Includes salad and all the Freddy's famous bread sticks you can eat.
At only
$5.95
it's a deal you can live with.
spaghetti freddy's
That little Italian Place next to the Depot
586-5366
DOWNTOWN NORTHAMPTON

■ Silhouettes

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 9

painted works, Ulay and Marina Ambramovic's collaboration, "Saturday," sticks out. The pair have developed a rare silhouette known as the color Polaroid. The work envelops a shadowy dance which leaves the art viewer baffled and amazed.

Also featured are the works of Teresa Branlette, pop star/performance artist Laurie Anderson (with the only color print), the amazing Ed Ruscha, Lois Lane, Richard Diebenkorn and Donald Sultan.

— RICK OLIVEIRA

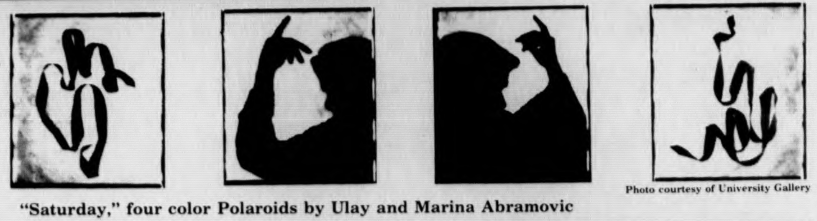


Photo courtesy of University Gallery

"Saturday," four color Polaroids by Ulay and Marina Abramovic

STEINBECK COLLISION REPAIR & AUTOBODY
53 So. Prospect — Amherst Center
256-8157 256-1385

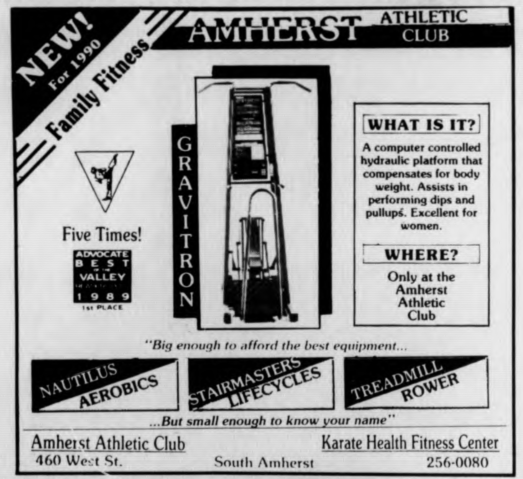
- Accepted by all insurance companies for collision repair or glass replacement
- Imports & other unibody vehicles are our specialty

REMEMBER it's your car and your choice of repair facilities

Army/Navy Store
The Amherst Drop Zone
Downtown Amherst ★ 256-0039
(Behind Bart's/Next to Panda East)
WELCOME BACK AREA SCHOOLS!
MA-1 Flight Jackets
$49.95 (Oversized $52.95) with this ad
regularly $54.95—69.95
Winter Clearance 25% off everything in store this Saturday only
OPEN:
Mon-Sat 10-6
Sundays 12-5

Photo: Buck Stewart 549-5454
Open 7 Days A Week

TACO VILLA
MEXICAN RESTAURANTS
Great mexican food served quickly and inexpensively in a friendly & casual atmosphere... Try it! You'll like it!
Downtown Amherst and Northampton

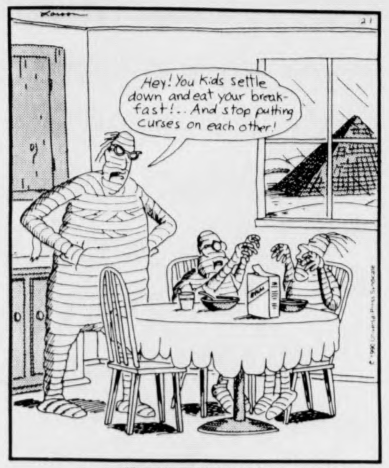


NEW! For 1990 Family Fitness
AMHERST ATHLETIC CLUB
Five Times! ADVOCATE BEST OF THE VALLEY 1989 1st PLACE
GRAVITRON
WHAT IS IT?
A computer controlled hydraulic platform that compensates for body weight. Assists in performing dips and pullups. Excellent for women.
WHERE?
Only at the Amherst Athletic Club
"Big enough to afford the best equipment...
NAUTILUS AEROBICS
STAIRMASTERS LIFECYCLES
TREADMILL ROWER
...But small enough to know your name"
Amherst Athletic Club
460 West St.
South Amherst
Karate Health Fitness Center
256-0080

Good Things
Jewelry Natural Fiber Scarves
Blouses Skirts Dresses
India Print Bedspreads
Mugs
Earrings
Chinese Shoes
Rings
Bracelets
Chains
Socks Leather Sole
Happy B'day
Hawaii
Cards
Posters
Indonesian Prints
Gloves
Toys
Candles
Hats
Bags
Area Rugs
Skirts
Baskets
Paper Lampshades
Sale 20 to 50% off selected Clothing
Great Gifts & Cards
THE MERCANTILE
Sun 12-5
Daily 10-6
Northampton-18 Center St.
Amherst-Carriage Shops

Main St RECORDS
213 Main Street, Northampton, 586-5726

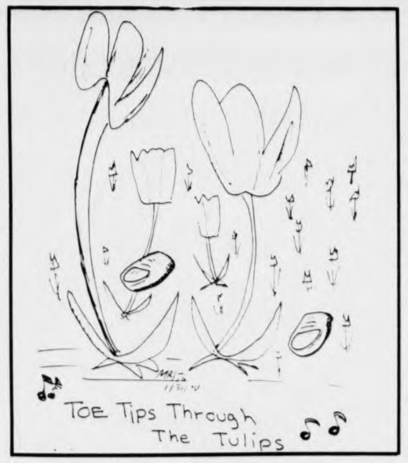
THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



Hey! You kids settle down and eat your breakfast!.. And stop putting curses on each other!

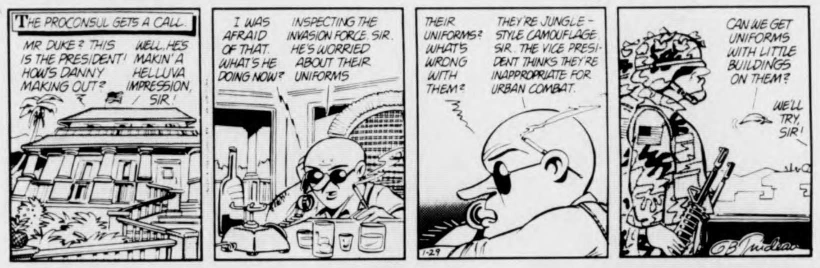
Morning in the crypt

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG



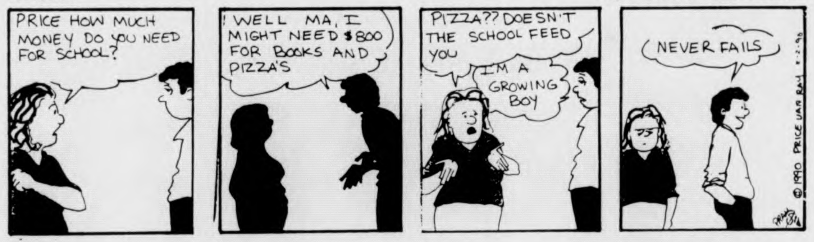
TOE Tips Through The Tulips

DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



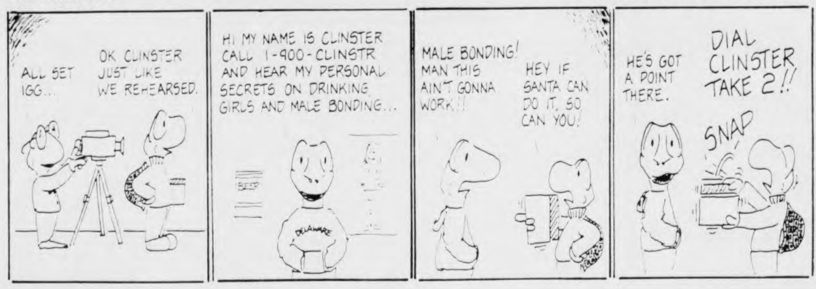
THE PROCONSUL GETS A CALL.
MR DUKE? THIS IS THE PRESIDENT! HOW'S DANNY MAKING OUT?
WELL, HE'S MAKIN' A HELLUVA IMPRESSION, SIR!
I WAS AFRAID OF THAT. WHAT'S HE DOING NOW?
INSPECTING THE INVASION FORCE, SIR. HE'S WORRIED ABOUT THEIR UNIFORMS.
THEIR UNIFORMS? WHAT'S WRONG WITH THEM?
THEY'RE JUNGLE-STYLE CAMOUFLAGE, SIR. THE VICE PRESIDENT THINKS THEY'RE INAPPROPRIATE FOR URBAN COMBAT.
CAN WE GET UNIFORMS WITH LITTLE BUILDINGS ON THEM?
WE'LL TRY, SIR!

PRICE
By PRICE VAN RAY



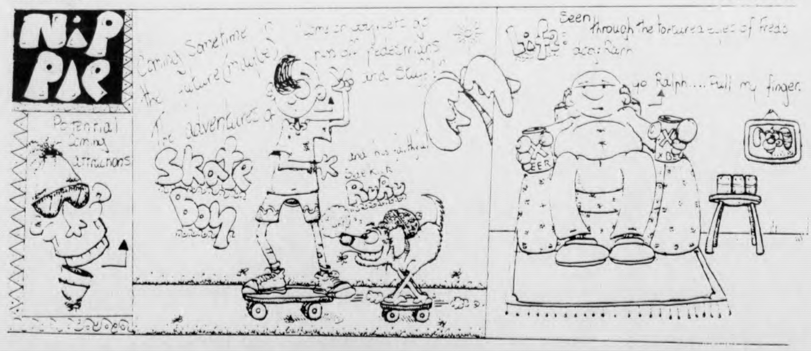
PRICE HOW MUCH MONEY DO YOU NEED FOR SCHOOL?
WELL MA, I MIGHT NEED $800 FOR BOOKS AND PIZZA'S
PIZZA?? DOESN'T THE SCHOOL FEED YOU
I'M A GROWING BOY
NEVER FAILS
© 1990 PRICE VAN RAY

IGGMAN
By DREW AQUILINA



ALL SET IGG...
OK CLINSTER JUST LIKE WE REHEARSED.
HI MY NAME IS CLINSTER CALL 1-900-CLINSTR AND HEAR MY PERSONAL SECRETS ON DRINKING GIRLS AND MALE BONDING...
DELAWARE
MALE BONDING! MAN THIS AIN'T GONNA WORK!!
HEY IF SANTA CAN DO IT, SO CAN YOU!
HE'S GOT A POINT THERE.
DIAL CLINSTER TAKE 2!!
SNAP

NIPPLE
By PITT



NiP PiE
Potential Coming Attractions
Coming Sometime in the future (maybe)
The adventures of Skate Boy and his faithful
Ruby
Seen through the tortured eyes of Fred's go Ralph.... Pull my finger.
BEER

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

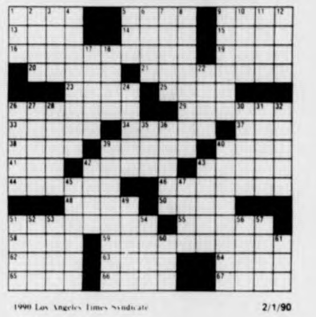
ACROSS
1 Tardy
5 Consumer
9 London restaurant area
13 Muffin ingredient
14 Wise one
15 Booby —
16 Sets side by side
19 Indian title
20 Sister's daughter
21 Disaffect
23 Ephron of "Heartburn"
25 City on the Hudson
26 Nicaraguan rebels
29 " — For Me To Say"
33 "To the poor swain — attorney came": Crabbe
34 Vanzetti's partner
37 Presidential nickname
38 Island off Sumatra
39 Diamond unit of weight
40 Clan member
41 Word with work or worth
42 "Gaslight" star
43 Carousal
44 Of a group of 20th cen. American realist painters
46 Meryl Streep, for one
48 Required course at sch.
50 Scram!
51 Alongside
55 Entertain
58 Entre —
59 Falling-out
62 Ye — Tea Shoppe
63 "— me your ears"
64 Sicilian commune
65 Requirement
66 Editor's note
67 Optimistic

DOWN
1 After JFK
2 "— for Your Money": 1949 Guinness film
3 Car for hire
4 International agreements
5 GI's favorite org.
6 Ticket order enc.
7 Emit
8 Constrain
9 Diverges from the straight and narrow
10 Algerian city
11 Put up pictures
12 British painter John — 1761-1807
17 Kind of squash
18 Part of Istanbul formerly
22 Newspaper's photo section, once
24 Test for gold
26 Antique red
27 Steinbeck characters
28 Below, to Whittier
30 Mother-of-pearl
31 Hautboys
32 Resting places for chapeaux
35 "— you there?"
36 Ancient Ecuadoran Indians
39 Curdles
40 Grain germinator
42 Judge's bench
43 Leaf opening
45 Desisted
47 Biggers detective
49 Cove
51 Shortly
52 Elizabeth or Bob of Kansas
53 "A Candle for St. —": Godden novel
54 Fork feature
56 — -Japanese War: 1937-45
57 Countless years
60 Summer time abbr.
61 Certain vote

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

M	E	C	C	A	■	P	H	I	L	■	F	E	R	N
O	T	R	O	S	■	I	O	N	A	■	I	V	A	N
A	C	E	U	P	O	N	E	S	S	L	E	E	V	E
T	H	E	N	■	L	I	D	O	■	I	S	L	E	■
■	■	■	S	E	G	O	■	■	A	L	T	■	■	■
Q	U	E	E	N	A	N	N	E	S	L	A	C	E	■
U	L	A	L	A	■	■	Y	E	T	I	■	L	A	P
I	T	S	■	■	L	H	A	S	A	■	■	A	G	E
P	R	E	■	S	A	I	C	■	■	H	A	I	L	E
■	A	L	L	T	H	E	K	I	N	G	S	M	E	N
■	■	■	O	E	R	■	■	N	E	T	S	■	■	■
■	L	I	O	N	■	M	I	F	A	■	U	E	L	E
J	A	C	K	O	F	A	L	L	T	R	A	D	E	S
A	L	E	E	■	L	U	L	U	■	A	G	E	N	T
W	O	R	D	■	A	L	E	X	■	T	E	N	S	E

2/1/90



© 1990 Los Angeles Times Syndicate 2/1/90

MENU

LUNCH	DINNER
Pizza	Roast Beef
Tuna noodle casserole	Vegetable Chow Mein
BASIC'S LUNCH	BASIC'S DINNER
Pizza	Ratatouille
Tuna noodle casserole	Vegetable Chow Mein

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Perform more services for yourself to reduce expenditures. Tips from experts will help you make better decisions regarding stocks and bonds. An older person is willing to act as a sounding board.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Creative financing and innovative thinking are important today. Self-improvement projects enjoy favorable influences. A parent-child conflict can be ironed out after a candid chat.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A financial windfall is possible. Take advantage of an unusual business opportunity. Pay attention to details often overlooked by your competitors and you will land new contracts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Work at a faster pace to meet a deadline - your reputation could be at stake. Job-related research deserves top priority. A library visit can be productive. Romance is sweet.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Talking things over with a trusted friend or relative gives you practical ideas for handling a financial dilemma. Shopping bargains abound. Examine merchandise with special care if all sales are final.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A spur-of-the-moment trip could be great fun. Choose a traveling companion who shares your interest. Your charm has a wonderful effect on an attractive member of the opposite sex.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Get an early start today. An important decision must be made. Devote more time to creative and artistic projects; they could be a source of extra income. A friend is the bearer of good news.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A powerful source of inspiration prevails. A self-improvement project will be more successful than you imagine. A startling discovery will put you in line for a raise or promotion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Complex projects require strong self-discipline. Shelve new ideas until a current project is completed. A friend's advice could be overly optimistic; ignore it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Careless comments could come back to haunt you. Routine tasks will take precedence this afternoon. Write more letters. A loved one shares an important confidence. Be honest with siblings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Study your spending habits to get a better idea of where your money is going. A budget revision will require family members' cooperation. Romance takes a happy turn. Be affectionate.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The possibility of deception cannot be ruled out today. Deal only with trusted, reliable sources. Seek new outlets for your talents. Your quick thinking pays off. Involve your mate in an important project.

TODAY'S STAFF
Night Editor.....Meredith O'Brien
Copy Editor.....Adrienne Matt
Layout Technician.....Rick Seto
Photo Technician.....Dondi Ahearn
Production Supervisor.....Mike Wester
Typesetter.....Terry Starmer
Production.....Nicole Dumas, Al Kaufman, Christine Ashe

Retail advice straight from the top.

What's a retail career really like? Where do you start? How far can you go? Are there really differences from one retail organization to another? Hear the answers to these questions and more when the top man of Lechmere, CEO and Chairman C. George Scala, speaks right here on campus.

Lechmere is one of America's leading retail companies, with plans for continued growth—among other things—through the 1990's. Find out how you could fit into our plans by listening to Mr. Scala. Then speak directly with select Lechmere Associates about our Marketing and Stores' Management Trainee programs.

A hardlines retailer specializing in Home Electronics and Appliances, Housewares, Leisure and Sporting Goods products, Lechmere proudly exercises a management philosophy which emphasizes partnership, teamwork and open communications. That's why we're one of America's greatest success stories.

If you're interested in, or curious about a top-notch retail career, come listen to a person who's worked his way to the top.

Wednesday, February 7th
4:30–6:00pm
Campus Center
Rooms 165–169
Refreshments will be served

See your placement office to reserve your spot.

LECHMERE.
An Equal Opportunity Employer

APPLY NOW!
Resident Assistant Selection Process 1990-1991
Leadership is becoming a Resident Assistant

An RA is a live-in part-time student staff member. Duties include fostering floor and cluster community, assisting with hall management, and enforcing University policies.

How to do it:

On Campus Students: go to your cluster office and pick up an application.

Off Campus Students: go to the following areas for applications–
Cance Area Office–SW South
Thoreau Area Office–SW North
Room B-30 Baker Area Office–OH/Central
Room 103 Johnson Area Office–NE/Sylvan

Become a student leader in your residence hall. Apply now for a Resident Assistant (RA) position. Application deadline extended to February 14, 5 p.m. 'O to the above area offices.

The University of Massachusetts at Amherst prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, sex, sexual preference, age, marital status, national origin, mental or physical handicap, political belief or affiliation, membership or non-membership in any organization, or veteran status. In any aspect of admission or treatment of students in employment.

PUBLIC HEALTH COURSES

Public Health 301—Principles of Community Health Education
Tues. & Thurs., 2:30-3:45 p.m. 3 credits

Learn how health education works! We have only one method to stop the AIDS epidemic, reduce the effects of smoking on health and prevent the occurence of other threats to our health. that method is health education. This course presents the methods and approaches used by health educators to achieve these goals.

Contact Prof. Al Winder, 545-1314, for more information.

Public Health 302—Community Organization and Development
Tues. & Thurs., 9:30-10:45 a.m., 3 credits

Our health is affected by the water we drink, the air we breathe, and the food we eat. Conventional wisdom would have us believe that if we buy bottled water, eat organically grown food, and don't breathe we will be o.k. Not so! This course deals with organizing communities to empower people to come together and change conditions that affect their health adversely.

Contact Prof. Kathryn Green, 545-1312, for more information.
REGISTRATION: 120 ARNOLD HOUSE

For a Good Time

Join
The Commuter Government

Positions availiable as:
Newsletter Editor
Governing Board Member
Area District Attorney
Board of Governers
Treasurer
Justice

COMMUTER GOVERNMENT
Where things happen.

Applications Available in 404 Student Union

AMHERST AVIATION

P.O. Box 1043, Northampton, MA 01061 (413) 584-1860

FIVE-COLLEGE FLYING CLUB

Amherst Aviation at Northampton Airport has a flying club especially designed to help Five-College students and staff members to learn to fly at the lowest possible cost. The initial fee is just $100 and the monthly dues are only $20.

All club members will enjoy unlimited use of the flight trainers at only $38 per hour. We employ four full time flight instructors, and we are open seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Amherst Aviation holds a ground school that starts February 7 so be sure to join us before that date. Amherst Aviation is at the Northampton Airport and is on the bus line. Lessons can be scheduled at your convenience. There is now a new FAA "Recreational Pilot Certificate" that will allow you to get a license with just 30 hours of flight experience, including only 15 hours of instruction and 15 hours of solo flight.

For those of you that are interested in becoming professional commercial pilots, we have a financing package available.

If you've been interested in flying, now is the time to join us to explore aviation and enjoy the sky, Call Terre at 584-1860 or stop by the airport in person.

AP photo

Gifts, Gift Baskets, Decorative Accessories

Compliments

Woods Of Windsor
Soaps & Toiletries

Potpourri Press
Paper Plates & Napkins, Mugs, Accessories

Prima Design
Bags, Notepads, Bookmarks

Boomers Oogies
Beyond the cookie... brownie...truffle

Mary Meyer
Plush Animals

Stockbridge Herbs & Stitches
Culinary Mixes & Blends

Coffee Gold
Regular & Decaf
Flavored Coffees

Loofa Brite

"Valentine Decadence"
GIFT BASKET DRAWING
A basket full of lucious treats and calories of the highest order!
SIGN UP FRI. & SAT.

OPENING FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2
In Our New Location

TASTINGS FRI. & SAT.

Coming Event: Sat., Feb. 10
Sherrie Maurer from JASMINE & BREAD

Caswell Massey
Soaps & Toiletries

Lollipop Tree
Beer Batter Breads, Preserves

Pictura
Designer Bags & Cards

Great Valley Mills
Pancake, Muffin, Waffle Mixes

Yankee Candle
Candles, Candles, Candles

Bear Meadow
Jams, Jellies, Sauces

Pimpernel
Placemats, Coasters, Trays

Eastern Shore Teas
Fine Tea Blends

Gilberties' Potpourris

Valentine Treats

71 N. Pleasant St., Amherst (Above Cafe DiCarlo) 256-1551 • Tues.-Sat. 10:00-5:30

Dylan awarded medal in Paris

PARIS (AP) — Bob Dylan, wearing a black Western outfit and sporting a grey stubble of beard, bowed his head to receive a medal that made him a commander in France's Order of Arts and Letters.

Culture Minister Jack Lang bestowed the gold and emerald medal on the 48-year-old rock singer and composer Tuesday in a gilded neoclassical reception room at the Palais Royal.

"Thank you very much for presenting me with this honor," Dylan said, reading in French from a crumpled envelope. "It moves me enormously."

Lang told Dylan that "for many of us in France and in Europe you bring together an ideal of music, an ideal of poetry."

AMHERST CINEMA

Fabulous Baker Boys

Starring
Jeff Bridges &
Beau Bridges
Rated R

Fri. - Sun. 2 Shows
7 & 9:15
Mon. - Thurs.
7:30

$2.50 w/student ID

Located in downtown
Amherst
30 Amity Street
253-5426

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8 30-3 30,FRI 8 30-2 30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE, 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

CAMPUS RADIO. Check out WMUA's new persons meeting TONIGHT 7PM CC101 Remember, WMUA is more than being a DJ

COMMUTER GOVERNMENT MEETING- Tuesday Feb 6 at 3pm in the Off-Campus Housing Office. Come see how your money is spent

LEARN TO MEDITATE-Free Reduce stress, Gain energy, Explore inner self Beginning Feb 12 & 13 Campus Center 178 8pm Come to either

STEP ON OVER to our INTERNATIONAL DANCE, Sat Feb 3. In SUB from 9-1AM

THE 9 UMASS SORORITIES invite all University women to join in the excitement of sorority rush hour! Come see why more than 500 women chose sorority life. Rush orientation is Feb 6th at 6:00 PM in Room 163 of the Campus Center. Don't let rush pass you by. Come see what sorority life has to offer you!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

RECYCLERS: A new class in recycling education—MW 9:05-10:25 LGRC A339 call Lynn or Sherill 5-1960, 5-1982

INTERESTED IN HELPING a new recycling program? Contact Bonnie at 545-1960

INTERESTED IN Christian Fellowship? THE ALLIANCE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP WELCOMES YOU! More info: Call Pauline or Steve 253-7206.

BED AND BREAKFAST Downtown Amherst 549-5961.

WHAT'S CASH FOR GOLD? We will pay immediate cash for your gold in any form. Free quote. 256-0842

ATTENTION

DO YOU REMEMBER leaving a note on white Honda last September in Townhouse visitor parking? Please call 549-4387.

AUTO FOR SALE

IS IT TRUE... Jeeps for $44 through the government? Call for facts! 1-708-742-1142 Ext. 5931A.

RABBIT: Very well maintained. Rebuilt engine, with 23,000 miles. Recent paint job. Blue. 1980. Must sell. $1250. Jim 549-6306.

1985 MAZDA 626 Goodies include air, defogger, new muffler, battery & tires; just tuned; moon roof, body in great shape. $3200 as is-100,000-it'll eventually need work. Call 5-2934.

PURCHASING A USED CAR? Having your car repaired? Do you know your rights? Contact the Legal Services Center, 922 Campus Center, 545-1995.

BOOKS FOR SALE

MGT 301, MKGT 301, GB FIN 301 and HUM DEV 270 Books for sale. Excellent Deals. Call Sue at 549-0446. After 10 pm.

CUT YOUR PHONE BILL IN HALF

CALLING 508 AND 617. Join the Fone Home Club. Call now! 549-3737.

FOR RENT

TWO ROOMS for rent, one to share. Close to campus. Reasonable rent. A.S.A.P. 549-3785

FOUND

FOUND: BRACELET at Newman Center. 1-24 Leave message at 586-0490.

FOUND A WALLET endorsed by Glen Plake in Campus Center on Monday For more Info. call Greg Stump at 549-8336.

HELP WANTED

EARN $2,000-$4,000
Searching for employment that permits working your own hours, but still challenging enough for your entreprenurial skills? Manage programs for fortune 500 companies. Earn $2,000 to $4,000 call 1-800-932-0528 ext 41.

MODEL SEARCH—No experience necessary. Male and Female 562-9048 or 1-401-723-2900.

REAL ESTATE—Established agency seeks enthusiastic people for sales. Start parttime now and be ready for spring selling season! Call Kathy Borawski 584-5555.

HOUSECLEANER, 3½ hrs./wk., $25. Experience, references. 253-7840 eves.

EARN $300-$500 per weekreading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B281.

ATTENTION: EXCELLENT INCOME for home assembly work. Info. call 504-646-1700 Dept. P1307.

LOST

A KEY CHAIN with 4 keys E-lot Please call Tony 546-7055

PERSONALS

HAPPY BIRTHDAY HONEY
Dec 17, 1989
I hope this year is as good as the others
I love you XXX OOO
Love, Slugarpums

HI CHIPMUNK!
Happy 3½! You will always make me laugh!
I love you!-Your crazy girlfriend

MAGGIE You sexy babe Thanks for being my roomate Te Amoooo!

MARCO CONGRATULATIONS - UMass' loss is Bucky Badger's gain! Love Patti

RICH MUEDA
Can you believe two years already?
I love you more each day!
Happy Anniversary!
Love always - Patti

RIDE WANTED

TO NJ OR NYC and back on weekends. Call Steve 549-7432

ROOMMATE WANTED

ONE BEDROOM AVAILABLE immediately Brittany Manor female pref. non-smoker, non-drinker $280 heat, hot water incl. Call evenings 253-5455.

FEMALE GRAD STUDENT WANTED—1 bedroom available in condo. Rent-$400 (negotialbe). 253-3107.

SUNSET AVE. APTS.—Need roommate $165/mo. Call 549-3826 (across from Patterson)

ONE ROOMMATE (non-smoker) needed to share bedroom in Squire Village one minute from bus stop DIRT CHEAP! Call anytime 665-3012

NONSMOKING FEMALE needed to share bedroom in Southwood townehouse. Nice place, quiet, new rugs, on bus route, laundry room close by. Call anytime, leave message 549-6075 rent negotiable

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED
Brandywine, 185/mo., We're desperate Free heat, Kathy 549-5317

SERVICES

CASPANISH—ENGLISH TRANSLATER needed. 100 pages of nicaraguan interviews. Access to Macintosh preferred. Call 367-9787.

TRAVEL

SPRING BREAK—Can't beat our prices! Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulco, Daytona. Call now for info. Mary or Karen 549-8166.

FROM ONLY $348 gets you out of the cold and into the sun! Spring break in Daytona, Jamaica, Cancun, Nassau. 256-4659

NASSAU SPRING BREAK '90
Complete from $399
Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235

SPRING BREAK

TIME IS RUNNING OUT! Plan your spring break trip now! Bahamas and Cancun. We have the lowest rates available. Deadline February 10. Don't miss out on all the fun! Call Donna or Lisa at 549-8228.

WANTED

COME DINE WITH 28 women. We need reliable and punctual kitchen assistants. Lunch and dinner in exchange for work. Call Tamara at 256-6887.

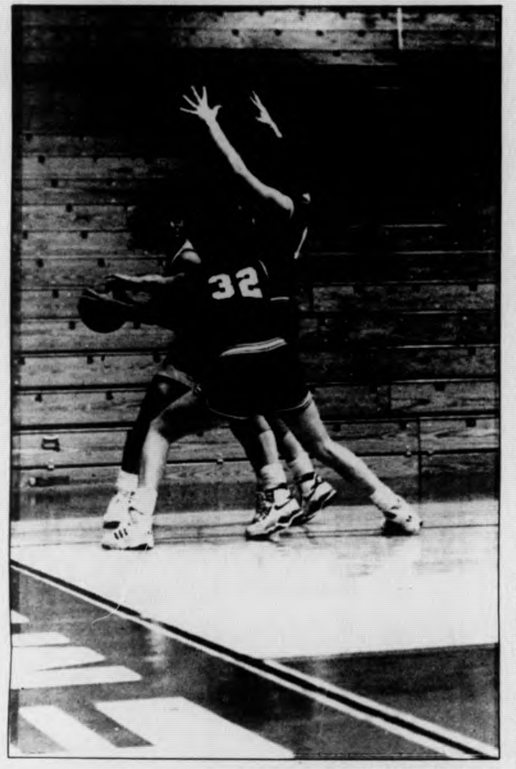
LOOKING FOR A good deal on IBM or IBM compatible. Will pay cash. Bob 549-1473

SEEKING WOOD CUTTING TOOLS:
(for printmaking) Desperate
Please call 546-9861

SPORTS

Minutewomen visit Penn State

Look to snap five-game losing skid against nationally-ranked Lady Lions



Collegian photo by Jeff Holland

Freshman guard Gloria Nevarez and the Minutewomen face Penn State tonight at State College, PA.

By JOHN STEVEN MARPLE
Collegian Staff

The losses continue to add up for the University of Massachusetts women's basketball team. The Minutewomen have lost nine of their last 10 games. And as the losses increase so does the frustration.

"It's really tough on us," said senior Sue Serafini. "We want to do so well but we're just not getting it done."

Coach Kathy Hewelt says, "We can't fault the kids for their effort. They're trying as hard as they can, but it's just going to take some time."

Things don't figure to get much better tonight when UMass enters Recreation Hall to play the Lady Lions of Penn State. PSU enters the game undefeated in the Atlantic 10 with an 8-0 record. (St. Joe's holds first place with a record of 10-0.) Overall PSU is 14-3 (including an 8-0 home record) and ranked 22nd in the AP poll.

Coach Rene Portland's squad figures to come out and shoot the ball quickly and often. As the conference's leading offensive team (90.8 ppg) the Lady Lions have gotten a heavy rep across the country as an offensive machine. "Their offensive production is incredible," said Hewelt. "They have a very balanced scoring ball club that creates a lot of its offense through its defense."

PSU will throw out a starting lineup of guards Tayna Garner (14.7 ppg) and Dana Eikenberg (8.9 ppg), center Kathy Phillips (11.2 ppg) and forwards Susan Robinson (19.1 ppg) and Lynn Dougherty (8.9 ppg). Robinson was the A-10 Freshman of the Year last season.

Last season's game at PSU found the Lady Lions jumping out to a 27-0 lead on their way to a 79-54 victory. For UMass to have any hope of victory this time around it must play two consistent halves of offensive basketball.

"We have to get on-track offensively," says Hewelt. "Our problem is not a physical one but an emotional one. We need to relax and get into our offense against pressure. But the harder we try, the worse it gets."

UMass figures to come out with a lineup of Patty Robak and Michele Pytko in the backcourt, Helen Freeman at center and Keyburn McCusker and Serafini at the forwards. However, a possible switch in the lineup could come in the form of Lisa Hair. The 6-foot sophomore had started eight straight games before last Monday's loss to St. Joe's. In that game she came off the bench to score seven points and grab six rebounds.

"Lisa is showing us some very good things," said Hewelt.

'She's quick for a big person and her defense can really bother people."

If Hair is inserted into the lineup Robak would most likely take her struggling outside shot to the bench. Robak came to school with the reputation as an outside shooter but has yet to establish herself. For the season her shooting percentage is 37 percent.

Track sweeps at Bates Invitational

By ADRIENNE MATT
Collegian Staff

After three weeks of double workouts, you'd think the women harriers of the University of Massachusetts would collapse of sheer exhaustion. Negetory. Not only did the harriers show up, but they neatly swept the Bates Invitational held in Lewiston, ME last Saturday.

"This meet was a culmination of all our hard work during January," beamed head coach Julie LaFreniere. "I saw a lot of determination and great attitudes. This was truly a team effort."

Bringing only 14 competitors (a meager number by meet standards), LaFreniere looked to score some serious points with the small, talented and exceedingly gutsy team she drove to Maine. Everyone who competed scored points for UMass.

Sophomore LeeAnn Ambrose won all four events in which she participated. She was an ECAC qualifier in the 400-meter with a time of 57.65; she also qualified for New Englands in both the 55-meter (7.50) and 200-meter (26.47). Including the 4x400-meter relay points earned, Ambrose lead the scoring with an impressive 32.5.

Second in the scoring powerhouse was senior Shana Smith who finished with 22.5 points. Smith placed first in events entered: 1500-meter (4:43.96), NE qualifier; 800-meter (2:22.04); and 4x800-meter relay (personal time: 2:23.87), NE qualifier.

Right behind Smith in personal points was sophomore Jen Piccioli who competed in three events, scoring 22 points. She placed first in the triple jump (35'7 1/4'), second in the 55-meter hurdles (8.79) and fourth in the 200-meter dash (27.61).

Other high scorers were freshman Becky Johnson (16.5) and senior Julie Muccini (12.5). Johnson took first in the 4x800-meter relay (personal time: 2:21.95), NE qualifier; second in the 100-yard (2:48.13, NE); and fourth in the 1500-meter (4:48.78).

More on the Bates meet tomorrow.

UMass ski teams off to strong start

By RICK D'ELIA
Collegian Correspondent

After a successful winter training camp, the University of Massachusetts ski team started off the 1990 season on the right track.

The NCSA Division I opener was held Jan. 20 at Berkshire East in Charlemont. Sophomore Mary Sinton's first collegiate victory helped secure second place berth for the women's team. She was backed by strong finishes from teammates Marci Blacker (eighth) and captin Marti Gilbert (ninth).

The men's strength and depth were enough for them to grab a victory from rivals Boston College and Plymouth State. Senior ace John Roche led the team with a second-place performance. He was backed by sophomores Josh Cohen (seventh), Chuck Holcomb (eighth) and Mike Hannigan (13th). Freshman Pete Sulkovitz was 15th.

The next day, the men and women each took third place behind BC and Plymouth in the giant slalom. For the women, Blacker was third and Gilbert eighth. Holcomb was the fastest Minuteman with an eighth-place finish, while Cohen was 19th.

This past weekend, BC hosted the Waterville Valley Tournament in Waterville, N.H. Crashes plagued both the men and women in Saturday's slalom. The men were able to pull off a third place spot while the women had to settle for fifth. The top UMass women finishers were Gilbert (12th), Blacker (15th) and Jen Eagen (17th). Hannigan led the men with a 15th-place finish, followed by Holcomb (16th) and Robinson (23rd).

Boston College dominated the giant slalom on Sunday, as abundant falls again beleaguered the UMass teams. One fall left favorite Roche on the sidelines with a broken thumb. He is expected back on the hill for this weekend's races at the Dartmouth Ski Way in New Hampshire. Despite the bad luck in the giant slalom, both the men and women finished a respectable third.

Sports notice

The intramural department is still accepting rosters for basketball (men, women and co-rec), ice hockey and wrestling. All rosters should be brought to 215 Boyden.

There will be meetings for all basketball managers tonight and tomorrow night at 6 p.m. in 251 Boyden. Basketball competition begins Monday, Feb. 5.

Dreams of a UM hoop fan

I am listening to UMass Men's Basketball on WHMP radio. The team has been on the road for over a week, holding their own against Penn State and Temple. Now they're at West Virginia. They really deserve this win, the way they've been playing. What can a fan do, so far away, when her scream goes unheard?

If only I were there to cheer them on . . .

Minuteperson, wearing "00" with the rebound — this kid can jump — now weaving through Chris Brooks and Tracy Shelton, faking left, bounce pass to McCoy, baseline. He's doubled, back to Harfield top of the key. She shoots from 18 feet — it's good! Nothing but net for the 5-foot-3 walk-on.

Alise Harfield

Okay, here come the Mountaineers. Shelton inbounds to Berger, spots Brooks up top, baseball pass intercepted by Harfield. Who is this 63 inch senior walk-on?

Here comes Harfield, passes to Herer, now back to Harfield, alley-oop pass to Herndon, SLAMMED! Harfield assist! Where did she come from??

It's Berger, about to — wait! He's been pick-pocketed by — I don't believe this — Harfield again! He's gotta be frustrated. Dished to Tate underneath, give-and-go back to Harfield — there's the reverse slam! What a vertical leap! The 5-3 guard has jumped her height, folks! And she's drawn the foul from Roadcap!

There's Tate with the low five — 'cuz she's not that tall, folks.

She'll shoot one . . . it's up, and . . . it's good. Twenty-six points for the 63-inch wonder from Framingham. I can see we'll be talking to her post-game. Along with Coach Cal, of course.

Time out called by Gale Catlett. He's furious . . . . This has been Tim Ashwell for WHMP radio . . . .

(Later.)

TIM: Well, Harfield, I mean Alise, you led the Minutemen to a 98-73 victory over West Virginia with 30 points, 11 rebounds, 10 steals and 14 assists, putting you ahead of your own teammate Cary Herer in the A-10. Where has Coach Cal been hiding you?

HARFIELD: Well, he looked at the crowd and spotted me cheering the loudest. He pointed at me with the shirt in his hand. So I came down and suited-up.

TIM: A five-foot-three inch guard from Eastern Mass. Were you a starter for Framingham North?

HARFIELD: Well, not really. But I was on a pick-up team at the middle school. And I shoot around at Boyden on weekends.

TIM: Okay! A 63-inch wonder. Here comes the Coach. Talk to us! Where did you find her?

COACH: Well Tim, I'll tell ya. Our kids were tired on this road trip. She played our kind of game with fresh feet — hustled after every loose ball, raced for every rebound, and that jump! She's a team player.

TIM: Okay, we'd like a word from Harfield but she and Herndon are jumping up and down on the sidelines.

COACH: Looks like they're practicing that 360 reverse-double-pump slam. Now she's with Giles and Barbee shooting threes. There's another. And another. Now they're shooting from half-court . . . .

TIM: This has been one heckuva game from West Virginia — live! Senior reserve guard Alise Harfield may become the shortest female to lead the UMass Minutemen in scoring after her crippling quadruple-double performance today.

There's the team carrying her off the court now. They must be on their way to the post-game party. See you at the tourney, folks!

Alise Harfield is a Collegian columnist

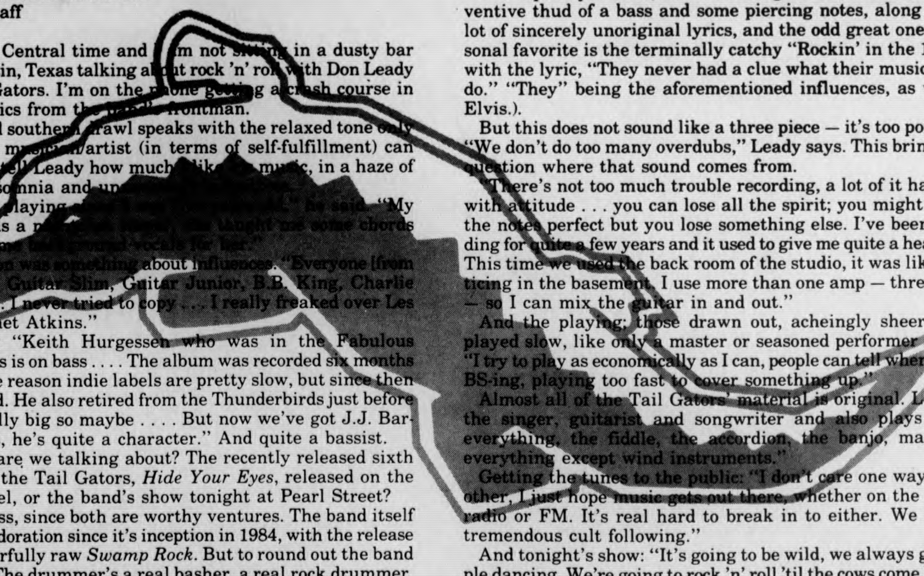
THIS WEEKEND

Gators deliver rock with a bite

By WILLIAM GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff



It's 1 p.m. Central time and I am not sitting in a dusty bar room in Austin, Texas talking about rock 'n' roll with Don Leady of the Tail Gators. I'm on the phone getting a crash course in rock aesthetics from the band's frontman.

A seasoned southern drawl speaks with the relaxed tone only a successful musician/artist (in terms of self-fulfillment) can muster, as I tell Leady how much I like the music, in a haze of extended insomnia and [illegible]

"I've been playing [illegible]," he said. "My grandma was a [illegible] she taught me some chords and I did some [illegible] vocals for her."

The question was something about influences. "Everyone [from grandma to] Guitar Slim, Guitar Junior, B.B. King, Charlie Christian . . . I never tried to copy . . . . I really freaked over Les Paul and Chet Atkins."

The band: "Keith Hurgessen who was in the Fabulous Thunderbirds is on bass . . . . The album was recorded six months ago; for some reason indie labels are pretty slow, but since then Keith retired. He also retired from the Thunderbirds just before they got really big so maybe . . . . But now we've got J.J. Barrera on bass, he's quite a character." And quite a bassist.

But what are we talking about? The recently released sixth album from the Tail Gators, Hide Your Eyes, released on the Restless label, or the band's show tonight at Pearl Street?

Both I guess, since both are worthy ventures. The band itself has known adoration since it's inception in 1984, with the release of the wonderfully raw Swamp Rock. But to round out the band members: "The drummer's a real basher, a real rock drummer. Gary Mudcat Smith [his name, really], he played with Charlie Sexton." And? And apparently that's it. This is not normal.

The tape is powerful, full of bashing drums, a constantly inventive thud of a bass and some piercing notes, along with a lot of sincerely unoriginal lyrics, and the odd great one (a personal favorite is the terminally catchy "Rockin' in the 1990s," with the lyric, "They never had a clue what their music would do." "They" being the aforementioned influences, as well as Elvis.).

But this does not sound like a three piece — it's too powerful. "We don't do too many overdubs," Leady says. This brings into question where that sound comes from.

"There's not too much trouble recording, a lot of it has to do with attitude . . . you can lose all the spirit; you might get all the notes perfect but you lose something else. I've been recording for quite a few years and it used to give me quite a headache. This time we used the back room of the studio, it was like practicing in the basement. I use more than one amp — three amps — so I can mix the guitar in and out."

And the playing; those drawn out, acheingly sheer notes, played slow, like only a master or seasoned performer can do: "I try to play as economically as I can, people can tell when you're BS-ing, playing too fast to cover something up."

Almost all of the Tail Gators' material is original. Leady is the singer, guitarist and songwriter and also plays "most everything, the fiddle, the accordion, the banjo, mandolin, everything except wind instruments."

Getting the tunes to the public: "I don't care one way or the other, I just hope music gets out there, whether on the college radio or FM. It's real hard to break in to either. We have a tremendous cult following."

And tonight's show: "It's going to be wild, we always get people dancing. We're going to rock 'n' roll 'til the cows come home."

Supporting the Tail Gators will be Lucky 7, a fine zydeco and washboard New York-based band.

THE GLOBE BOOKSHOP
fine new, used & children's books
European, art & literary periodicals
publishers overstocks at 30%-80% off
special orders • out-of-print book searches
Open 7 days • Mon-Sat 9-9; Sun 10-5 • 38 Pleasant St., Northampton, MA 584-0374 • 586-5838

EURO WORK&TRAVEL CLUB
Your Ticket To Europe 1990 With EWTC You Can Europe For Less
Save $100's on flights, trains, accommodation, & much more!
Europe For Free
Finance your entire trip by working as you travel!
For full details, send $2 p&h to:
Euro Work & Travel Club,
Suite 211, 91 Point Judith Road,
Narragansett, RI 02882

RENT A WRECK
New & Used Cars
Trucks & Vans Also Available
North Amherst Rent-A-Wreck
Rt. 63 No. Amherst
549-RENT

ROYAL CRANE ORIENTAL FOOD MARKET
360 College St., Amherst
253-5658
with a large variety of
AUTHENTIC ORIENTAL & INDIAN
• Produce • Sauces & Spices • Noodles • Frozen & Canned Goods • Cooking Implements & Supplies • Homemade take-out food
Sun-Fri 10:00-8:00
Sat 9:00-8:00

BEER WINE LIQUORS
Prices do not include deposit
MICHELOB & MICHELOB LIGHT case of 24-12 oz. cans $11.79 + dep.
ROLLING ROCK case of 24-12 oz. bar bottles $9.99 + dep.
MOOSEHEAD BEER case of 24-12 oz. bottles + dep. $13.49
PIELS DRAFT BEER case of 24-12 oz. cans $6.99 + dep.
ANDRE CHAMPAGNE $2.29 White, Pink, Brut, Cold Duck—750 ml
GLEN ELLEN WHITE ZINFANDEL 750 ml $2.99
TAYLOR CALIFORNIA CELLARS $5.29 Chablis, Burgundy, Rhine, Blush, White Grenache 3.0 Liter
CANEI WINE $4.99 White & Rose 1.5 Liter
ABSOLUT VODKA 750 ml $8.79
JIM BEAM 1.75L $11.99
FLEISCHMANN'S GIN 1.75L $9.99
CANADIAN MIST 1.75L $12.69
not responsible for typographical errors
LIQUORS 44
9am to 11pm
Monday thru Saturday
HADLEY
Campus Plaza/Route 9
253-9344
◄ TWO ► LOCATIONS
HOLYOKE
30 Lincoln St.
534-4555
SALE PRICES Thurs. 2/1 thru Wed. 2/7
VISA master charge
TeleCheck

Welcome Back Students!
Buy 3 months at regular price and Get a Fourth Month Free!

Two new Stairmasters
CLIMB TO POWER!
584-4975
NORTHAMPTON NAUTILUS, INC.
216 North King Street
Northampton
Aerobics•Nautilus•Lifecycles•Tanning•Free Weights

AN EVENING WITH
UPC PRODUCTIONS

VERSUS THE WORLD
MONDAY FEB.5
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
8:00pm
TICKETS ON SALE AT TIX UNLIMITED
FOR THE RECORD (FACES-AMHERST)
MAIN ST. RECORDS NORTHAMPTON
$7. FOR UMASS STUDENTS
$10. FOR GENERAL PUBLIC

Alternatives to Academics

THURSDAY

Marshall Crenshaw, pop song writer extrordinaire, whose hits include "Someday, Someway," plays a sold out show at the Iron Horse. 7 p.m.

Tail Gators, a rocking Texas trio, perform their back to basics rock 'n' roll and R&B in an 18 and over show at Pearl Street. 8:30 p.m.

Moshe Waldocks, humorist and co-editor of The Big Book of Jewish Humor, performs at the UMass Campus Center Auditorium. 7:30 p.m.

Relatively Speaking, a play by Alan Ayckbourn, will be holding auditions in 204 UMass Fine Arts Center. 7 p.m.

Silhouettes: Prints and Multiples, an art exhibit featuring the works of ten artists, holds its opening reception at the UMass University Gallery in the Fine Arts Center. 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

In Site: Five Conceptual Artists from the Bay Area, an art exhibit featuring sculptures from five artists, holds its opening reception at the UMass University Gallery in the Fine Arts Center. 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Caroline Know/Oat Pearl/Tabula Rasa are all a part of Alternative Music Night at Katina's.

Tabula Rasa headlines at Sheehan's.

Rosenkratz and Guildenstein Are Dead, Tom Stoppard's theater production involving Shakespearean spies, is performed at the Northampton Center for the Arts. 8 p.m. $7.50. Also Friday through Sunday.

NAACP Photo Exhibit, in celebration of Black History Month, opens at the UMass Tower Library.

FRIDAY

The Neighborhoods/Minibus Sandwich, two of the best local good time rock 'n' roll bands, air it out at an 18 and over show at Pearl Street. 8:30 p.m.

Expose, one of the hottest dance bands around, play the Paramount in Springfield. 8 p.m.

The Cult Brothers/Chrystal Ship, the first is made of former Blue Oyster Cult members and the second is a Doors cover band, play at Katina's.

Jim Wolf Band plays Sheehan's.

Grant Taylor, a sarcastic sociopolitical comedian, brings his humor to the Peking Garden Comedy Zone. 8:30 p.m.

"Betty", a rockapella trio whose act "equal parts salacious and silly" has earned them a huge cult following, bring their unique act to the Iron Horse. 7 p.m. $10.

Barkmarket/Copshootcop, two of the best truly alternative bands, bring their music/noise to the Hampshire College Dining Commons. 9:30 p.m. $1 Hampshire students, $3 general public.

SATURDAY

Robert Hill Long/Mary Connor Ralph perform their work as part of the Reading at a Restaurant series at Marcie's Place in Amherst.

Boston Center for the Arts holds auditions for a new multimedia dance theatre work in Smith College Berenson Studio from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Warsaw Philharmonic Orchestra, under conductor Kazimierz Kord, performs at the UMass Fine Arts Center. 7 p.m. $25, $23, $21.

B.B. King, simply the king of the blues, plays the Springfield Paramount. 8 p.m.

Blue Plate Special play Pearl Street. 8:30 p.m.

The Rent Party, the Valley's premiere zydeco plus band, hold their record release party at Sheehan's.

Barb Schloff, a fine folk talent who has opened many area shows, finally gets top billing at the Iron Horse. 7 p.m.

SUNDAY

Mass, a quasi-heavy metal band, plays Katina's.

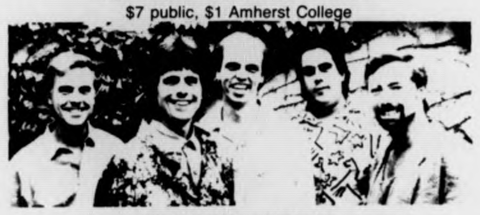
Do'ah, a new-age, world music band, play the Sundays at Eight series in the Amherst College Campus Center. 8 p.m. $1 Amherst students, $7 general public.

Lynn Klock, saxaphonist, opens the 1990 UMass Faculty Concert Series at Bezanson Recital Hall. 8 p.m. Free.

Ciompi String Quartet performs in the annual Louise Rood Memorial Concert in Sage Hall at Smith. 8 p.m. Free.

Acoustic Open Mic for all budding talents is held at Sheehan's.

Amherst College Presents
DO'AH
Sunday, Sept. 10—8 p.m.
$7 public, $1 Amherst College



Sundays at Eight
in the Campus Center Frontroom
Info: (413) 542-5773
Coming: Feb. 11 - Michael Johnson, Feb. 18 - Sally Rogers, Feb. 25 - Priscilla Herdman, March 4 - Alison Krauss and Union Station

Bruno's
SUBS
[illegible] LASAGNA
We Deliver Quality
11am until 2 am
7 Days a week
256-0222

Bruno's
Bruno's
One FREE Item on Any Large Pizza
one coupon per pizza
Expires: 5/31/90

Bruno's
Bruno's
$1.00 Off
Any Medium Pizza
one coupon per pizza
Expires: 5/31/90

WELCOME BACK
CASE SPECIALS
BUSCH SUITCASE........$8.99
ROLLING ROCK........$9.99
(24 12 oz. Bar Bottles)
MISC. SPECIALS
SMIRNOFF
BARTLES & JAYMES
BLACK CHERRY 4 pk........$2.69
BECKS 6 pk........$3.99
KEYSTONE 12 pk........$3.99
MOLSON GOLDEN 12 pk........$7.99
1/2 KEG O' BUD........$39.99
SMIRNOFF VODKA 750 ml........$6.99
CAROLAN'S IRISH 750 ml........$9.99
FOUR SEASONS GIN 1.75L........$8.99
SCHWEPPS TONIC 1 Ltr........2 for 99¢
FOUR SEASONS
ROUTE 9, HADLEY • 584-8174
MC/VISA
Just Beyond Burger King—Open 9 a.m-11 p.m. Mon.-Sat.

PRAKTIKLY WORNE
2 BRIDGE STREET, NORTHAMPTON 01060
586-1913
CLASSIC CLOTHING

CONTENTS.

1. OVERCOATS - 20% OFF
2. DRESSES - 20 % OFF
3. CANAL JEANS AND HEALTHLOOM - 20% OFF
4. TWEED JACKETS $10
5. LEATHER JACKETS $5

AND MORE...

UMOC
UMASS OUTING CLUB
WELCOMES EVERYONE!

Come tonight and find out what we have to offer in the Great Outdoors.

ALL Levels Welcome

Caving
White Water Canooing and Kayaking
X-Country Skiing
Hiking
Backpacking
Rock Climbing
Ice Climbing
Camping

Cabin in Bethlehem N.H. too!
AND MORE...

7:00 p.m. CCA Monday, February 5, 1990
See ya there...

Nancy Jane's
Restaurant & Bakery

36 Main Street
Amherst, MA
"Across from Town Hall"

SOUPS • SALADS • SANDWICHES
IN-HOUSE BAKERY
Dinner Specials
Mon., Wed., Thurs., Fri. 4:30-6:30
BREAKFAST ALL DAY SUNDAY!

Open: M-F 6-6:30 p.m.
Sat 7-5
Sun 7-2

Moderate Prices—Relaxed Atmosphere—Homestyle Cooking

charlie's
1 Pray St., Amherst - 549-5403 • Open 11 a.m
7 Days A Week • Call for Take Out
Kitchen Open 'till midnight

New Game Room with 2 Pool Tables

SUNDAY 10¢ Potato Skins
9:00 PM - 12:00 AM

Drink of the Week
Snuggler $1.95

Beer of the Month
Molson Bottles $1.75

FOOD GIVE-A-WAYS
Mon. Night 10¢ Mozzarella Sticks 9-12
Tues. 10¢ Buffalo Wings 9-12
Wed. 25¢ Pizza Slices & 99¢ Nacho & Cheese Platters 9-12

HAMPDEN
Snack Bar
SOUTHWEST

Weekdays: 8 am-12 am
Weekends: 9 am-12 am

Eggs, Pancakes, Grinders, Baked Potato, Pizza by the Slice, and More! Grill is open until 11:00 pm

HAMPDEN
Creamery
SOUTHWEST

Open Daily
11 am-11 pm

Ice Cream and Waffle Cones with all the Toppings, Brownies, and Birthday Cakes made to order.

WORCESTER
Snack Bar
NORTHEAST

Monday-Friday
7:30 am-3:00 pm

Breakfast available until 1:30 pm; Breakfast & Daily Specials, Fresh Salads, Burgers, Sandwiches, and Ice cream!

WHITMORE
Snack Bar

Monday-Friday
7:00 am-4:30 pm

Breakfast available until 11:30 am Coffee Club, Salad-By-The-Ounce, Waffle Cones, Luncheon Specials every Wed.

FRIDAY

WEATHER

Today: Seventy percent chance of rain or snow. Highs 35 - 40. Weekend: Cold and wet.

NEWS

Two students seek to be delegates to Democratic caucus in Saturday's election. Page 3.

EDITORIALS

Columnist Josh Galitsky on the importance of role models finds them close to home.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1990
COLLEGIAN
VOLUME CXXIV LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 4

Police: links between murders unlikely

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

Police sources told the Hampshire Union-News yesterday they are hoping to find a link between a man suspected in the 1986 murder of a Pittsfield woman, and a fire in Middlefield and the Sharon Galligan murder.

However, Massachusetts State Police Lt. Edward Harrington said it is unlikely such a link exists.

The sources in the Union-News said police are investigating the possibility that the Galligan case is linked to the Middlefield fire because they both happened on Dec. 18.

Harrington refused to confirm or deny Union-News reports that Harold J. Huter, 43, may be a suspect in the rape and murder of Paula Marie Snyder, 22, of Pittsfield and a culprit in the Middlefield fire.

Harrington said the case against "the Snyder suspect" developed when John F. Flaherty, a staff sergeant who is working with Harrington on the Galligan case and is familiar with the Snyder case, found a possible link between the suspect and a Dec. 18 fire investigated by state Trooper Jay Bowman in Middlefield.

Harrington said police are investigating possible links between the Snyder case, and several unsolved murders in Berkshire County.

He said police have been unable to completely eliminate the Snyder murder suspect from the Galligan investigation, but added that they believe the suspect was not in the area of the Hampshire Mall the night of the murder.

Harrington said witnesses told police the suspect was at a private residence the night of Dec. 18. He added that because the suspect made only local calls from that residence, police have no phone bill to prove the suspect was at the house.

However, Harrington said investigators have talked to many of the people the suspect called that night.

"They believe he was at the house," he said. "We do not have any reason to believe they are not telling us the truth."

Harrington added that not only does the suspect in the Snyder case not match a composite sketch of the murder suspect in the Galligan case, but also the suspect would have had to drive more than an hour from Middlefield to reach the Hampshire Mall in Hadley.

The Snyder case suspect is no more of a likely suspect in the Galligan case than the more than 200 subjects the police already have on file, Harrington said.

He added that his department is working with police in surrounding states to investigate possible suspects who have assaulted women and could be linked to Galligan's murder.

Anyone with information about the murder should call Hampshire-Franklin County District Attorney Judd Carhart's office at 586-9225.

Administration nixes bid for unionization

By KENDRA PRATT
Collegian Staff

Acting on a 1979 precedent-setting decision by the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission, Chancellor Duffey and Provost O'Brien yesterday rejected the Graduate Employee Organization's bid for formal recognition as a union.

In a written statement yesterday, the two top administrators responded to three demands lodged by GEO leaders last month. Their response came five days before the Feb. 7 deadline set by GEO.

More than 10 years ago, labor Commissioner Wooters rejected a similar bid for recognition from the so-called Graduate Student Employees Union at University of Massachusetts.

In a written statement, the administrators stood behind Wooters' decision stating: "The University of Massachusetts at Amherst administration firmly believes that Commissioner Wooter's concerns are well-founded and his conclusion is as appropriate today as they were a decade ago."

They wrote: "In denying that petition, Commissioner Wooters concluded that a collective bargaining relationship would not foster the best interest of any of the parties involved.

According to the administrators' statement, Wooters said wage bargaining would "indirectly determine how many students could be admitted and what assistance would be available to each.

"Student employees are students at the same institution which also employs them . . . normal employer/employee relationships are altered by such considerations as recruitment, academic policy, and financial aid," Wooters argued.

"Similarly, bargaining over job pick, seniority, bumping rights and job duties would seriously impact the academic policy of many departments . . ." Wooters said.

Renee Heberle, GEO coordinating committee member, said the administration's Feb. 7 deadline for recognizing the union and the threat of a job action, possibly a strike, is still in effect. GEO will vote on the strike issue Feb. 15.

"Not being recognized [as a union] isn't acceptable to our coordinating committee," Heberle said. "We will continue to fight on this issue."

Another GEO member, Geoffrey Feldman, questioned the current validity of the 1979 decision. Feldman said that the graduate students' 1979 petition came before precedent-setting unions were established at other universities.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 11

Safety precautions stressed in wake of Galligan case

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

As the investigation into Sharon Galligan's murder continues, the University of Massachusetts is taking steps to improve safety both at the Chi Omega Sorority house and on the entire campus, UMass Director of Public Safety Arthur Hilson said Wednesday.

Hilson said he and state police Lt. Edward Harrington met with members of Chi Omega, their parents and other UMass officials Sunday to discuss safety precautions on campus.

"We have to be responsible for ourselves," he said.

At the request of the sorority sisters' parents, Hilson said UMass public safety officials surveyed the Chi Omega house over intersession to find ways to improve security. Parents have agreed to pay for an updated security system, he said.

To increase safety awareness campuswide, Hilson said all students will receive a three-page letter outlining resources, including the Student Escort Service, which runs from sunset to 3 a.m.

The department is trying to bolster the service by purchasing an additional van for the escort service and installing an inter-campus shuttle service, he said.

Hilson said he hopes students will become more cognitive of their own safety as a result of the Galligan murder. He said students can do their part to deter intruders by insuring that doors are locked and not propped open after hours.

"Just as you walk in that door, an unsavory character can walk in that way," he said.

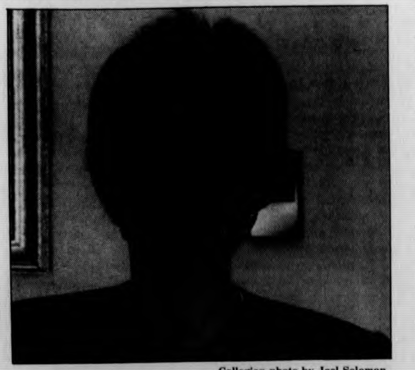
Police Lt. Harrington said Wednesday that District Attorney Judd Carhart's office has received several calls in response to posters distributed this week at UMass. The posters include Galligan's photo and a composite sketch of the murder suspect.

Harrington said police are investigating reports of possible suspects and new information from Galligan's acquaintances who said they saw her at the Hampshire Mall Dec. 18, the night she was murdered.

However, he added, "There is nothing promising at this point."

Everywoman's Center Director Carol Wallace said students who are upset by the Galligan murder and are concerned about assaults can call the center's 24-hour hotline at 545-0883 or 545-0800.

Chi Omega President Rachael Wacha said all students are welcome to attend a memorial service for Galligan at 4 p.m. Monday, Feb. 5 in the Newman Center.



Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Evelyn Murphy

Lt. Gov. calls for education funding

Murphy says public education necessary to Mass.' future

By PRESTON P. FORMAN
Collegian Staff

BELCHERTOWN — In a campaign speech yesterday, gubernatorial candidate Lt. Gov. Evelyn Murphy stressed the necessity of a "world class" public education for Massachusetts.

Referring to the impact of the state budget crisis on education, Murphy said, "We can't keep the quality of jobs in Massachusetts without a quality education."

Murphy, who spoke at a luncheon in the home of Bernard and Antoinette Kubiak, proposed that the "bulk of money from new growth and revenue" be placed in the education budget.

"There is a great potential for UMass to become one of the greatest of universities in the country with a modest of amount of money," she said.

But Murphy warned that unless the $500 million budget deficit is closed, the state will be in a worse financial situation that it currently is suffering.

"I do not want to see the budget deficit continue until June and then take it out of the local aid giving to the cities and towns," she said. "Every day we wait it just becomes more unbearable to deal with."

Murphy favors a package of progressive tax increases with symbolic cuts. She said last year's solution to the budget deficit, the so-called "bonding" of the debt, is a poor response because additional money is then tied up in interest payments and further jeopardizes the state's fragile credit rating.

Murphy reaffirmed her strong pro-choice position on abortion.

"I don't think [abortion] is a decision for the judicial system," Murphy said. "I think it is a private decision for a woman and her doctor."

Murphy attacked her opponents weak stance on the issue.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN
113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA, 01003.
Phone (413) 545-3500 FAX (413) 545-1592

STAFF
Editor in Chief ..... Maria Sacchetti
Managing Editor ..... George Austin
Editorial Editor ..... Minu Sebastian
News Editor ..... Lisa Shapiro
Sports Editor ..... Jim Clark
Arts Editor ..... Al Kaufman, Will Georgiades
Photography Editor ..... Dondi Ahearn
Women's Issues Editor ..... Danielle Bionda
Multicultural Affairs Editor ..... Scott C. Hill
Business Manager ..... Robert J. Bikash
Advertising Manager ..... Jennifer Ronan
Finance Manager ..... Martina Rios
Circulation Manager ..... Chris Baker
Subscription Manager ..... Joya Faretra
Production Managers ..... Terry Starmer, Mike Wester
Ad Manager ..... Rory Evans

PROFESSIONAL STAFF
Business ..... Brian Harrington, Maureen Majerowski, Lori Black
Graphics ..... Andrea Belanger

New England's largest college daily newspaper. Circulation: 21,000. Published every weekday of the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts.

For Your Information

MassPIRG — To help prevent the destruction of the environment and take action against other social injustices, attend informational meetings to be held daily at 4 p.m. in Student Union room 423B.

Exhibit — "The Founding and Work of the NAACP, 1908-1954," an exhibit from the University Library's collections in Archives and Manuscripts will be on display Feb. 1 through March 15 in the 25th floor Reading Room of the University Library. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Friday, February 2, 1990
Dance — A dance sponsored by Iota Phi Theta Fraternity will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium. Admission $3.

Saturday, February 3, 1990
Amherst Democratic Caucus — Eighteen delegates and four alternates will be elected to the 1990 Massachusetts Democratic Convention at the Amherst Junior High School. Amherst Democrats must have registered in Amherst by December 30, 1989. Doors open at 1:30 p.m.

Sunday, February 4, 1990
UMass Pagan Student Organization — The first meeting of the semester will be held at 7 p.m. in Campus Center room 168C. The meeting is open to all Five-College students who are Pagan or interested in Neo-Paganism. For more information call 546-6283 or 586-0347.
Booksigning — Local poet and writer Leslea Newman will celebrate the publication of BUBBE MEISHES BY SHAYNEH MAIDELEHS: AN ANTHOLOGY OF POETRY BY JEWISH GRANDDAUGHTERS ABOUT OUR GRANDMOTHERS at 2:30 p.m. at Lunaria in Northampton. Newman and contributors to the book will read poems and signing copies of the book. For more information call 586-7851.

Tuesday, February 13, 1990
Counselling Collective — Lesbian, Bisexual and Gay Collective seeks new members for Spring '90. Learn to be a peer counselor to help others deal with concerns about sexual orientation. One semester commitment, weekly meetings, training sessions. Internship credit available. Meeting 5 p.m. Campus Center.Call 545-4824 for more information.

Environmental groups target stores

Campaign to reduce solid waste and pesticide use launched

By DAWN POWERS
Collegian Correspondent

The Clean Water Action and the Environmental Shoppers Campaign have been targeting area supermarkets in attempt to garner support for the reduction of solid waste and pesticide use on fruits and vegetables in the stores.

"The initial response to the campaign has been positive," said Christopher Bathurst, program director for Clean Water Action in Western Massachusetts. "The stores are willing to work with us. and to start supplying environmental information in flyers about recycling."

More importantly, "they agreed to continue meeting with us, which was a big, important goal for us. The supermarkets should take a lead role [on these issues]," he said.

A customer services representative for Stop & Shop said, "We had a productive and cooperative meeting with CWA and we are exploring ways to cooperate, but it is too early to predict any outcomes."

Bathurst said there are ways to reduce solid waste. CWA would like to see the supermarkets use products with packaging that can be recycled, such as paper or glass; however, he said, plastics create a problem.

"Plastic usually just goes into a landfill. It could be recycled, but the recycling facility that just opened in Western Massachusetts just isn't doing it, probably for market reasons, Brathurst said.

Because there is not one uniform type of plastic, the products are difficult to recycle."

Another problem is the use of pesticides in fruits and vegetables. A major source of the problem is the point of origin, he said.

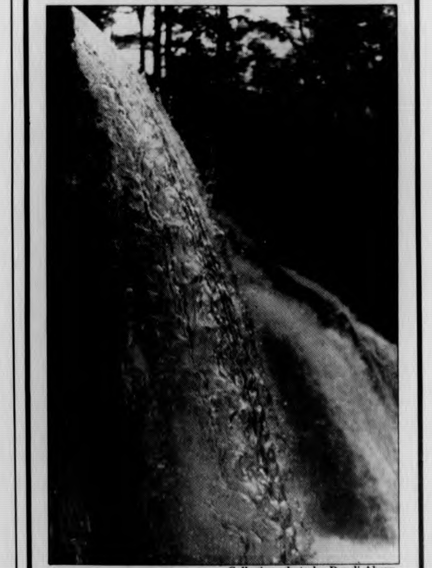
"Pesticides that are illegal in the United States are instead being sold overseas. Third World countries use the pesticides for their crops, and then we import their bananas and other fruits that have been grown using pesticides."

Bathurst said the alternative to this problem is food that has been grown organically, without the use of pesticides.

"There are ways to reduce insects without using pesticides, such as growing crops that are not as susceptible to insects, using crop rotation to prevent "bug build-up" on crops, or using mechanical means to remove insects, such as the "vacuum" that a local farmer invented that sucks up potato beetles."

The promotion of organically grown food would also affect local growers, many of whom are reducing the amounts of pesticides they use, he said. "The National Organic Farmers' Association" had become a co-sponsor of ours. We can work with more organic growers, highlight their produce, and also support local Pioneer Valley-grown products."

The Consumer Affairs Department of Price Chopper in Amherst, one of the stores targeted, will be holding a meeting in February concerning solid waste disposal.



Collegian photo by Dondi Ahern

WaterFall — One of the many dams at the Quabbin Reservoir

NORTHAMPTON COMMUNITY PLAYGROUND AND FRIENDS OF CHILDREN INC.
PRESENTS
Livingston Taylor
AND SPECIAL GUEST
LEAH KUNKEL
VALENTINE'S DAY FEBRUARY 14, 1990
8:00 P.M. SAGE HALL, SMITH COLLEGE
Tickets : General admission, $10.00 Advance, $12.00 At Door.
Available At: Broadside Books • Main Street Cleaners • Hampshire Council for Children • Northampton; For the Record • Amherst College Campus Center • Amherst: World Eye Books • Greenfield
The proceeds from this benefit concert will go to Northampton's Newest Community Playground to help offset building costs. Special Patron Tickets are available with reserved seating and post concert reception.
For More Information Call Council for Children 584-7972

DEBATE?
People keep telling you to stop arguing? We won't. Come to first team meeting, Feb. 6, Machmer 313 at 5:30 p.m. Shy people welcome.

THE GYM IS A COMPLETE WEIGHTLIFTING CLUB FOR MEN & WOMEN!
Featuring over 10,000 pounds of weights, exercise machines, nautilus machines, bikes, rowers, climbers and full locker and shower facilities!
We also offer tanning and coming in February—AEROBICS!
The GYM
at mountain farms mall
Rte. 9 on the
Amherst/Hadley Line
EASY TO GET TO BY CAR OR BUS!
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!

Cash for Books
We buy the widest range of books.
Hard or soft cover—whether used on this campus or not.
Sell them at:
CAMPUS CENTER
CONCOURSE
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
JANUARY 30 and 31
FEBRUARY 1, 2, and 3
ID REQUIRED

LOCAL

Lawyer asks for removal of bylaw

Amherst zoning ordinance called "unconstitutional"

By DARREN GARNICK
Collegian Staff

> "A family is: An individual residing in one dwelling unit; or a group of people related by marriage, blood and/or adoption residing together in one dwelling unit; or a group of unrelated individuals, not to exceed four, residing cooperatively in one dwelling unit."
> — Definition of a family from sections 12.091 - 12.093 of the Amherst zoning bylaws

An attorney for the Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts has threatened action against the town of Amherst if it does not repeal a bylaw restricting the number of unrelated people who can share a housing unit.

Attorney Robert W. Ritchie, who represents the town in event of a lawsuit, said he is currently engaged in a dialogue with CLUM Attorney Steven J. Schwartz over the bylaw.

In a Jan. 22 letter to the town of Amherst, Schwartz said the bylaw was an unconstitutional violation of an individual's privacy and the right to associate with whomever they want.

Ritchie said that he does not expect CLUM to follow through on the threatened lawsuit because the "town is looking at the law with revision in mind."

"[Schwartz's] main objective has been satisfied," Ritchie said. "We're still in the loop of dialogue."

The four unrelated persons clause has become an issue in the Amherst Select Board election. The six candidates running for the wo empty seats on the board have contrasting views on the bylaw.

Richard Gold has been the most outspoken on this issue, calling the four unrelated persons rule "a civil rights violation." Gold said he has filed a petition to be heard before the Amherst Town Meeting to remove the word "four" from the definition of a family.

"If you have a house with six bedrooms, you can put in 18 children, but not five students," Gold said. "Anyone has a right to live wherever they can afford."

Gold said his opposition to the bylaw will not win him many votes.

"The student voters will vote for students anyway, and the homeowners won't vote for me because they support the bylaw," he said.

"It would be nice," Gold said, "if someone else over 20 stood up for this."

Candidates Robert Smith and Brian Crawford, both University of Massachusetts students, have repeatedly denounced the clause as a "snob-law."

"It is not uncommon for affluent communities to pass laws similar to this. Laws to restrict or keep out a certain element," Smith said. "In this case it's the students.

"What makes it any healthier for five related people to live under the same roof than five unrelated people?" he said. "It is blatant discrimination."

Fellow candidate Carolyn Holstein, however, said she believes the bylaw is "perfectly valid and constitutional."

"It is the only protection the residents of Amherst have from abuse, too many cars, too much noise and overcrowding," she said. "I hate to sound anti-student, but there has been abuse in the town by the students."

Candidate David Keenan said the four person rule was a "sensitive issue," and that he did not support the bylaw in its current form because it cannot be enforced.

Keenan said he supports some form of a law which "solves the problem of unruly student households" but added that he does not wish to penalize students who are good tenants."

Keenan, who is an Amherst landlord, said that the majority of student tenants are good tenants.

"It's a few bad apples around that have caused a lot of media attention," he said.

Both Holstein and Keenan suggested that UMass provide more student housing in the form of more dormitories or University-owned apartments.

"The University owns the largest amount of land in Amherst by far," Holstein said.

Candidate H. Olman Brooks could not be reached for comment.

UMass students aim for Democratic State Convention

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Two University of Massachusetts students yesterday announced their candidacy for delegate slots to the Democratic State Convention.

Nine male and nine female delegates and four alternates will be elected Saturday at the Amherst Democratic Caucus.

Senior Brian Crawford and junior Natasha Diephuis plan to run as uncommitted candidates in the caucus because they believe that none of the gubernatorial candidates support key issues, such as progressive taxes, higher education and environmental issues.

"We do not feel that it is time to support any candidate for governor when none of them are supporting us," the candidates said in a written statement. "It is in the students' best interest to show force on the convention floor by forcing the candidates to take a stand of issues that concern us."

"It's time state Democrats to stop acting like Republicans," the statement said.

Silvia Cuomo, chairwoman of the Amherst Democratic Committee, said many candidates for delegate are forming coalitions to run uncommitted to gubernatorial candidates. "People who work in human services are forming a group to influence candidates in favor of supporting taxes," she said.

Crawford is currently one of six candidates for the Amherst Select Board and has served as former chairman and board director of MassPIRG.

Diephuis has worked with MassPIRG's Toxic Use Reductions campaign and is currently the treasurer of the Panhellenic Council and a member of Sigma Delta Tau Sorority.

The caucus will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Amherst Junior High School. Any Democrat registered to vote in the town of Amherst before Dec. 30, 1989 is elegible to participate in the caucus.

Collegian photo by John Woo

THE CAMPUS IS FADING AWAY TO MARGHERITAVILLE — Heavy snowfall welcomed students back to campus this week.

Duffey creates task force

By DARREN GARNICK
Collegian Staff

To promote positive relations among ethnic groups on the University of Massachusetts campus and address multicultural issues, Chancellor Joseph Duffey created a task force last month consisting of 26 students, faculty and staff.

According to a letter sent to proposed members on Jan. 3 from the Chancellor, the task force will "develop recommendations about how the campus can appropriately enhance its multicultural environment."

Duffey told the committee that proposed programs would probably not receive additional funding due to limited campus resources.

Dr. Frederick C. Tillis, the associate vice chancellor of Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employment, was chosen by Duffey to chair the task force.

"I want the University to be recognized for the variety of efforts it makes to be a campus that appreciates pluralism and diversity," Tillis said.

According to Tillis, also the director of the Fine Arts Center, the task force will be expected to deliver a list of recommendations to the Chancellor by June 1990.

Tillis said the group will focus on diversity issues in campus life, curriculum, and the composition of the student body, faculty and staff.

"We're not trying to take on the world," he said.

Referring to programs such as "Civility Week" and "International Women's Day," Tillis said, "[The programs] exist, but I do not think the campus fully enjoys the impact of them."

Tillis suggested documenting these events for reference purposes.

"If we had them documented in some type of fashion, we could find out which programs are stronger or weaker so we could better serve the campus," he said.

Published reports of these diversity lectures, seminars, and events should also be sent to other universities, he said.

In addition to academics, Tillis said the task force will examine issues regar-

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

BOG to review sale of porn

By PRESTON P. FORMAN
Collegian Staff

In attempt to resolve the issue of the sale of pornography in the University Store, which was raised by the Undergraduate Student Senate last semester, the Board of Governors has created a research committee.

The committee, formed Dec. 14, will be comprised of five governors and four students to be nominated at large.

Lisa Balentine, facilities coordinator for the BOG, said that students interested in serving on the committee to research and report on the sale of pornographic magazines in the University Store should submit a letter to the BOG stating their reasons for wanting to serve.

The committee is scheduled to hold two public forums on the issue of pornography. The first is scheduled for Feb. 16 in Campus Center 171-173 from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. The second forum has not yet been scheduled.

The Board, which has jurisdiction over products sold in the Student Union and Campus Center, had been asked to either ban or stop the sale of Playboy, Playgirl and Penthouse by the Senate.

"It was a very big issue in the Senate at the very end of last semester and it was given to us to discuss," Balentine said.

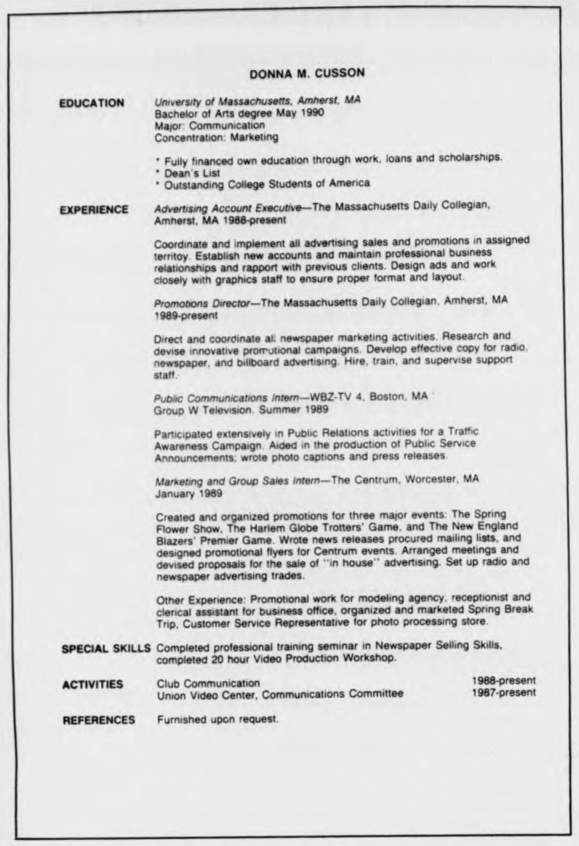
"We want a committee to investigate the issue and especially find out how the student body sees it," she said. "But one of the biggest goals of the committee is investigating if there is a concrete relationship between pornography and violence toward women.

The committee will examine the social and legal issues of restricting the sale of pornographic magazines as well as First Amendment rights and legal precedent toward the issue.

The Board has also commissioned a poll in association with the Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Office and conducted by Project Pulse to determine the opinion of the campus.

In other Board news: Comedians Kenny Rogerson and Kevin Knox will be performing as part of nine comedy nights beginning March 13. On Feb. 20 a student comedian night and variety show sponsored by U.S. Concepts and Certs will be held.

EXPERIENCE COUNTS



DONNA M. CUSSON

EDUCATION University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA
Bachelor of Arts degree May 1990
Major: Communication
Concentration: Marketing

* Fully financed own education through work, loans and scholarships.
* Dean's List
* Outstanding College Students of America

EXPERIENCE Advertising Account Executive—The Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Amherst, MA 1988-present

Coordinate and implement all advertising sales and promotions in assigned territoy. Establish new accounts and maintain professional business relationships and rapport with previous clients. Design ads and work closely with graphics staff to ensure proper format and layout.

Promotions Director—The Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Amherst, MA 1989-present

Direct and coordinate all newspaper marketing activities. Research and devise innovative promotional campaigns. Develop effective copy for radio, newspaper, and billboard advertising. Hire, train, and supervise support staff.

Public Communications Intern—WBZ-TV 4, Boston, MA
Group W Television. Summer 1989

Participated extensively in Public Relations activities for a Traffic Awareness Campaign. Aided in the production of Public Service Announcements; wrote photo captions and press releases.

Marketing and Group Sales Intern—The Centrum, Worcester, MA
January 1989

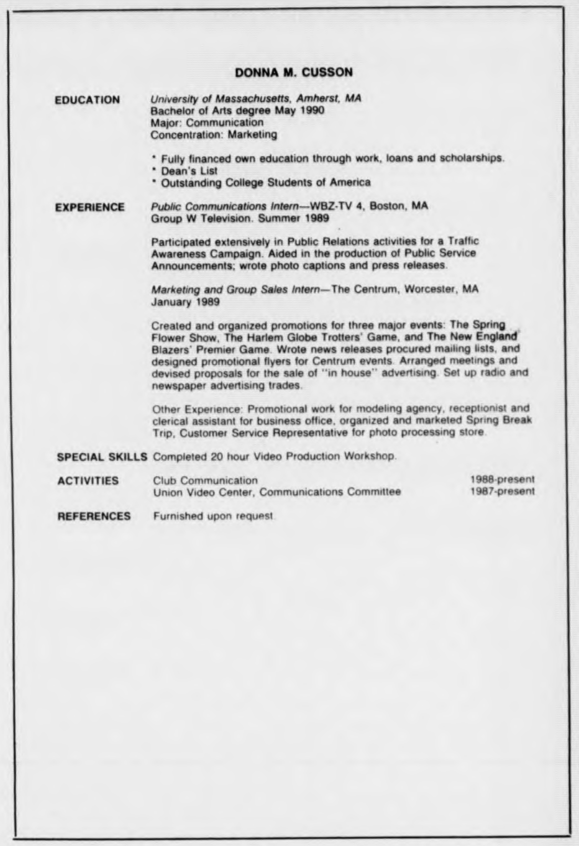
Created and organized promotions for three major events: The Spring Flower Show, The Harlem Globe Trotters' Game, and The New England Blazers' Premier Game. Wrote news releases procured mailing lists, and designed promotional flyers for Centrum events. Arranged meetings and devised proposals for the sale of "in house" advertising. Set up radio and newspaper advertising trades.

Other Experience: Promotional work for modeling agency, receptionist and clerical assistant for business office, organized and marketed Spring Break Trip, Customer Service Representative for photo processing store.

SPECIAL SKILLS Completed professional training seminar in Newspaper Selling Skills, completed 20 hour Video Production Workshop.

ACTIVITIES Club Communication 1988-present
Union Video Center, Communications Committee 1987-present

REFERENCES Furnished upon request.



DONNA M. CUSSON

EDUCATION University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA
Bachelor of Arts degree May 1990
Major: Communication
Concentration: Marketing

* Fully financed own education through work, loans and scholarships.
* Dean's List
* Outstanding College Students of America

EXPERIENCE Public Communications Intern—WBZ-TV 4, Boston, MA
Group W Television. Summer 1989

Participated extensively in Public Relations activities for a Traffic Awareness Campaign. Aided in the production of Public Service Announcements; wrote photo captions and press releases.

Marketing and Group Sales Intern—The Centrum, Worcester, MA
January 1989

Created and organized promotions for three major events: The Spring Flower Show, The Harlem Globe Trotters' Game, and The New England Blazers' Premier Game. Wrote news releases procured mailing lists, and designed promotional flyers for Centrum events. Arranged meetings and devised proposals for the sale of "in house" advertising. Set up radio and newspaper advertising trades.

Other Experience: Promotional work for modeling agency, receptionist and clerical assistant for business office, organized and marketed Spring Break Trip, Customer Service Representative for photo processing store.

SPECIAL SKILLS Completed 20 hour Video Production Workshop.

ACTIVITIES Club Communication 1988-present
Union Video Center, Communications Committee 1987-present

REFERENCES Furnished upon request.

Which would you rather submit to a prospective employer?

THE COLLEGIAN - WE BUILD CAREERS.

For more information,
come down to the Collegian
and speak to an editor or a manager today.
113 Campus Center
UMass, Amherst 545-3500

■ Evelyn Murphy

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"I think you are either pro-choice or you are not. There is no middle ground," she said. "Whenever people bounce around on this issue, I don't think they are credible."

When asked to comment on President Bush's State of the Union address Wednesday night, she expressed her disatisfaction with the administration's recent decision to remove funds from the federal buget for the cleanup of Boston Harbor.

"I am appalled at what the President is doing," she said. "I think not funding the cleaning up of Boston Harbor is politically dishonest especially after he made such a big issue of it during the election."

■ chancellor's task force

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

ding campus housing and student activities.

Tillis said that FAC programming is geared toward representing as many different cultural perspectives as possible.

He said that in a student's four years at UMass. he or she should be exposed to "a world view of culture" through music, dance and theater.

"The world is getting smaller," Tillis said. "I believe our students and the rest of the community will be better off for the exposure."

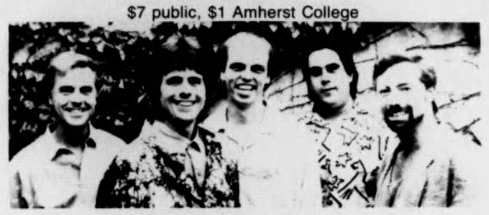
CORRECTION

Amherst College Presents

DO'AH

Sunday, Sept. 10—8 p.m.

$7 public, $1 Amherst College



Sundays at Eight

in the Campus Center Frontroom

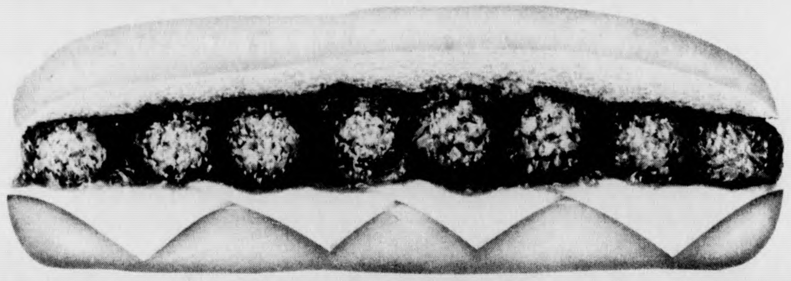
Info: (413) 542-5773

Coming: Feb. 11 - Michael Johnson, Feb. 18 - Sally Rogers, Feb. 25 - Priscilla Herdman, March 4 - Alison Krauss and Union Station

Collegian photo by John Woo

WALKING IN A WINTER WONDERLAND – Two unidentified people take a walk on the Amherst Common

SUBWAY'S MEATBALL.



A REAL HOT NUMBER ONLY$2.99

We start off with a loaf of our fresh-from-the-oven bread. Then we add some cheese, spicy meatballs and our tangy tomato sauce.

It's a delicious satisfying taste treat that'll fill you up and make you warm all over. So warm up to a Meatball sub at Subway today.

90 King St.
Northampton
*We deliver to Smith
College and surrounding areas*

Hampshire Mall
Cafe Square
On UMASS Bus Route

SUBWAY
My Way! SM

Rt. 9 Russel St.
Hadley
Across from Carbur's
Sunday Special
*noontime-7 p.m.
Buy 1 get 1 for 99¢*
Rt. 9 store only

UNIVERSITY STORE

BACK TO SCHOOL STORE HOURS

Tuesday 9-7
Wednesday 9-7
Thursday 9-5
Friday 9-5
Saturday 10-3

TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday 9-9
Friday 9-5
Saturday 10-3

APPLY NOW!

Resident Assistant Selection Process 1990-1991

Leadership is becoming a Resident Assistant

An RA is a live-in part-time student staff member. Duties include fostering floor and cluster community, assisting with hall management, and enforcing University policies.

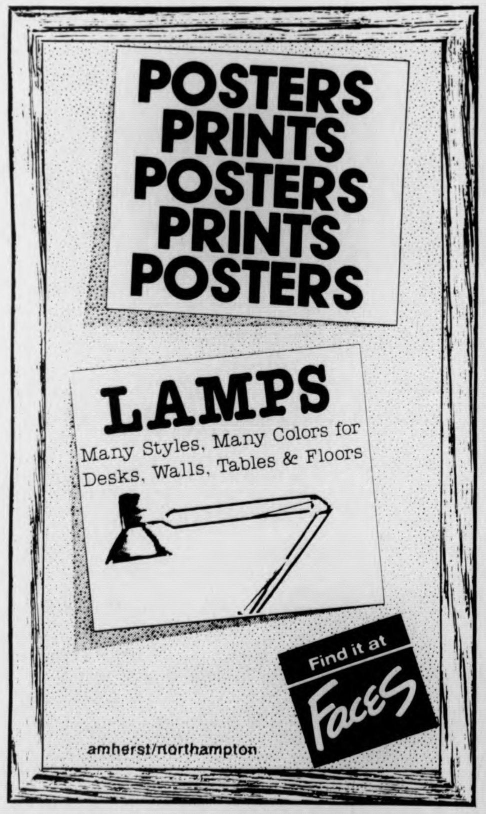
How to do it:

On Campus Students: go to your cluster office and pick up an application.

Off Campus Students: go to the following areas for applications–
Cance Area Office–SW South
Thoreau Area Office–SW North
Room B-30 Baker Area Office–OH/Central
Room 103 Johnson Area Office–NE/Sylvan

Become a student leader in your residence hall. Apply now for a Resident Assistant (RA) position. Application deadline extended to February 14, 5 p.m. 'O to the above area offices.

The University of Massachusetts at Amherst prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, sex, sexual preference, age, marital status, national origin, mental or physical handicap, political belief or affiliation, membership or non-membership in any organization, or veteran status. In any aspect of admission or treatment of students in employment.



DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Blossom, Thrive, Flourish.

University of Massachusetts at Amherst

Spring 1990

Plant the seed of knowledge this spring at the UMass Division of Continuing Education. Choose from over 100 hardy and fast-sprouting credit courses for a well-rooted and enduring future.

Late register for Continuing Education evening classes or University day classes, on a space-available basis, through February 12 in Room 615 Goodell Building.

For more information, or a free course catalog, call the Division of Continuing Education at 545-2414.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted

Courses lack 'real' issues

I wish the University would offer a course entitled Real World 101. I could use some serious instruction and guidance these days.

After all, we are attending classes to learn what it takes to make it in the real world:

Erin Martin

How to get a good job and raise a family.

How to be successful.

But there are no courses that teach us these things, and I need to know how to do a few things right now! Like, how do I pay my bills (the water, electricity, phone, rent, groceries) on a very limited budget?

It is so easy for me to get caught up in more immediate things, that my overdue bills have little effect - until my phone gets shut off.

I want someone to teach me how to balance my checkbook and how to get the most out of double coupons. I want to be independent and smart enough to make important financial decisions . . . and make them correctly.

I could also use some lessons in buying a car.

Over break I made a decision to buy a used car because my sister transferred to a community college, and took our car with her. For weeks my father and I drove to dealer after dealer in search of the car of my dreams, or at least something I could afford. I heard all the sales pitches. I even had one dealer tell me, "It obviously has to be an automatic, if it's for the little lady."

My dad offered some insight into the used car industry. He told me when the car was too old, if it had too many miles, and when I was being ripped off. But I was determined to find the perfect car, and one Saturday I did just that. I picked it out myself, and the old man that sold it to me promised it was a real dream. It was baby blue. It had a sun roof, cruise control, air conditioning - everything a car needed.

But a day after I picked up the car, I found it was lacking something I had hoped for, brakes.

I took the car to a mechanic who proceeded to tell me I needed $1,100.00 in repairs! Angry that I was foolish enough to buy a "lemon", I returned the car to the dealer and demanded a refund. But the salesman refused to take the car back, and I went crying home to my dad, asking for some help.

That same day, my father went to the dealer, and was successful in obtaining a refund. I was so proud of him, the way he was able to stand up for me, and make a difference. Especially since I couldn't help myself.

I can't help but wonder why no one ever taught me how to handle these kinds of situations. I wonder if the only way to learn is with age and experience?

I think life would be much easier if we could learn how to handle real world problems, before we have to face them on our own.

Erin Martin is a UMass student

Rechannel our military spending

While various pundits gloat about the fall of Communism and the wisdom and boldness of the U.S. invasion of Panama, we should ask how such an emphasis truly advances our nation's plight. There is much that the Bush Administration "spin doctors" are hiding from public scrutiny.

Repressive Communism is exiting from the world stage. Yet the very "people power" which catalyzed such upheaval merits a closer look as well as the acquiescence of the ruling elites (except in Rumania).

The fact that such monumental transitions of power were undertaken with so little bloodshed suggests a Communism that is not ruthlessly attached to power and privilege. Rather it may seek to reclaim its historic standing as the instrument of the people.

One wishes that more U.S. citizens would confront the knowledge that were they to withhold their consent from the government (or state) when its policies violate their sensibilities, the system would be forced to bend to their wills.

Regarding Panama, is there no way besides invasion by which civilized nations can resolve their differences? This belligerence violates our traditional exaltation of democracy, sovereignty and the United Nations.

Perhaps U.S. elites have simply grown twitchy of late with the cessation of imaginary war with our rival,the Soviet Union. To rationalize ongoing exorbitant military expenditures,they need a new enemy.

The American public now confronts an historic opportunity to seize on the demise of the Cold War and insist that our government rechannel wasteful military expenditures into the human sector. To do so, however, the public must not go catatonic at the mere mention of "defense" and "national security."

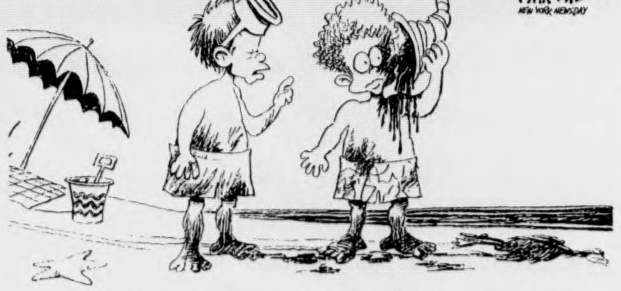
Like other verbiage issuing from the Capitol, these are terms designed to manipulate the popular mind.

When will we realize that to speak of "national security" is an obscenity, especially under the new conditions of detente with the USSR?

Certainly, I am not arguing for no military budget. But the paltry "peace dividend" that Bush envisions is a mere pittance.

Let us confront such appeasement!

Jay Allain
Northampton



"...AND IF YOU LISTEN CLOSELY YOU CAN HEAR EXXON'S EXCUSES!"

Editorial Policy

The Editorial/Opinion page welcomes letters and columns from UMass and the Five College Area.

All submissions must be typed, double-spaced, with the writer's name, address and phone number attached.

Anonymous submissions will not be printed.

Submissions become the property of the Collegian.

All submitted material is subject to editing for grammar, clarity and length. Any submission that is requested to be left unedited will not be considered for publication.

Letters should not be longer than 30 typed lines and columns should not exceed 65 typed lines.

The Editorial staff is not required to print all material submitted and will not print responses to letters or columns responding to letters.

We look forward to receiving any submissions from those who are interested. Send all submissions to the Editorial Desk, Collegian Offices, 113 Campus Center, c/o Minu Sebastian.

Any questions? Comments? Come down to the Collegian offices, and ask for Minu, Reggie, Gayle or Josh. We would appreciate your input!

True connotation of liberalism

David Mark has surely "pushed the envelope" on the meaning of the word "liberal."

One of the ideals that liberalism has always embraced is democratic self-government. Thus, no one who could be properly labeled a liberal would ever be found advocating the return of General Noriega to power.

A liberal would, however, most likely deplore Noriega's "bloody pipe" tactics of staying in power, as rightly does Mr. Mark. Hence, in his ignorance, Mark fails to realize that he is the one appealing to liberal ideology.

The first source of Noriega's "seed money" for his drug-running operation came almost certainly from the C.I.A., as part of the very un-liberal practice of propping up any petty Stalin who will do its bidding.

Noriega is not a problem created by liberals,but by this disastrously short-sighted Central American policy pursued by a Republican Administration.

Dana Hayter
Amherst

Role models not necessarily fashionable

We are the Johnny Depp generation. There is no doubt about it. Our male heroes are the chiseled-cheek, dimpled-chin, Gillete-shaving masters of cool and aloof. They are the G.Q., J Crew, hip-doo, gods of masculinity. The bigger the better or a Benetton sweater. The real man. Distant and assured. Mysterious.

Intriguing. What women want. What guys want to be. Gone are the humble heroes. Gone are the simple men. We are a media-made commodity. Flesh is in and it better look good. Or you better have money. Or you better not care.

Since the beginning of time, (I am sure), men have had role models in order to better define themselves as men. From caveman to cop, neanderthal to narcissist, primate to preppie, men have admired, idoled, and even worshipped, other men in our struggle for identity.

Signals have bombarded us since birth. Boys in blue. Little League. Dating. Sex. It's all a part of the game. Nobody can be gay in junior high. Dancers are queer. The intelligent are eggheads. The non-athletic are wimps. Be a man. Like hammer to nail. Force and forceful. Strong and un-emotional. The sensitive guy is a passing fad.

I am growing up. I am learning. I have had my views on what it is to be a man, challenged and rechallenged. Athletes doing drugs. Politicians corrupting. Rock stars exploiting. Celebrities selling out. Religious men lying. Coaches cheating. Soldiers killing. Acquaintances raping. I have seen so much. I have seen too much.

Josh Galitsky

I have finally decided to stop looking outside my smaller world for heroes. The men I admire the most are right around me. They are my friends. They are the people I look up to.

Pete is someone I admire. He picked up his life this past year and joined the circus as a clown. His spirit of adventure and willingness to risk and follow his dream is a wonderful gift.

John is someone I admire. He is a deeply sensitive person and very intelligent. He speaks with true understanding and clarity. His sense of loyalty is rare. He has a strong sense of values and incredible empathy.

Jarrett is someone I admire. He has the ability to make me laugh even in the darkest of situations. I also appreciate the fact that he is a black man who has never had to deny his culture in order to hang out with many of his white friends.

Sean is someone I admire. He is the most confident person I think I have ever met and there isn't anyone that does not like him. He has the kind of magnetism that is difficult to define. It is simply there.

Shane is someone I admire. He is about to be married soon. He has grown up the most of all my friends in the past few years. He is a truly generous person and is very kind.

Tommy is someone I admire. He has endless energy, loyalty, and has more talent than he even knows. He is one of the nicest people I have ever met in my life.

Tom is someone I admire. He is himself. He has no airs. He cares about kids and people. He doesn't worry very much and yet he is much deeper than most people see him.

And perhaps most of all, my father is someone I admire. He has patience. He is realistic. He is the kindest person I know. He works hard. Mostly, I love his sense of contentment in living life to its fullest each and every day.

These are the people I identify with. They are not the makeup-clad or the air-brushed. They don't live life in out-takes. They are simply, wonderfully, and genuinely . . . men.

Josh Galitsky is a Collegian columnist

MID-WINTER CLEARANCE SALE

All 1989-90 Ski Wear 15-30% Off

All Skis, Boots, Bindings & Poles
ON SALE NOW... SAVE up to 50%

ROSSIGNOL
750

OUR LOWEST PRICE IN 10 YEARS!

Rossignol 650 Junior Skis	$110.00
Salomon 57 Bindings	75.00
Scott Poles	20.00
Custom Mounting	30.00
Total Value	$235.00
Package Price	$119.95

Beating the High Cost of Skiing.

▶ We want everyone to enjoy the fun of winter skiing. So we're offering our Rossignol 650 junior package for just $119.95. That's our lowest price in ten years! Add a pair of custom fitted boots for as little as $59.95. Adult Rossignol packages start as low as $169.95*. As always, all our equipment is backed by the SkiHaus fit, performance and price guarantee. So come in and beat the high cost of skiing, 7 days a week at all 3 SkiHaus stores.

SKIHAUS SPORTHAUS

East Longmeadow 16 Shaker Road 525-6633 • Westfield 55 Franklin Street 562-5004 • Hadley Route 9 584-7880
Monday through Friday 10-9 pm, Saturday 10-5 pm, Sunday 12-5 pm

ARTS & LIVING

Women writers get support

By WILLIAM GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

While a great number of people are drawn to the Five College area to learn, hone and develop their skills in creative writing, very little of this real enthusiasm finds its way to the public.

The problem, generally put, is that the experiences of potential student writers tend to be expressed in a proportionally interesting way. That is to say, that by being young, and to some extent sheltered in a student environment, few have much of anything new to say. And because the process and technique of writing is being taught, nothing is being said in an original way.

However, something different is looming. It is what Nina Crow Newington, of the Northampton Artists Group (NAG) calls, "A new movement that's happening for women writing."

While this does seem a little on the exclusive side, Crow's words do belay a certain truth in the existence of the aforesaid group.

When I saw the group read last summer, I literally spent the time squirming in my seat, trying my best not to seem too effected. While that may reflect on my own inherent conservatism, but. . .

That's not to exclude everything in the area; there are worthy ventures happening all the time, most notably with Troy at UMass. But there are very few readings that I've been at or heard about that have illicited such a strong response — from red faces, to a few nodding heads, or a speedy exit.

What these three writers (and the recently departed Leah Ryan) did that day, was express the inexpressible in a format that was content over impressive form. This is a welcome relief from the overabundance of the opposite kind of work, as Tracy Mendham, co-founder of the group said, "others do seem to put technique over content; we do it vice versa."

Newington explained, "I think there is a definite separation in NAG. There are the meetings, which are nonjudgemental and listening and responding, and then separate from that is the NAG productions. Not all of the people in the meeting group are necessarily reading in public."

Newington, who is originally from England, was referred to as "the most professional writer among us," by Mendham, and is currently trying to get a novel published.

Mendham, on the other hand, is a recent Smith College graduate. She says of that experience, "It always felt like the point of the school was to make me say what they wanted me to say. It shut me up. There also seems to be this idea that if you get the Puritan work ethic then you'll be good . . . I don't think that's necessarily true."

This process of "shutting up" is one that NAG could not be more opposed to. "If it's true it's good," Mendham said.

She elaborated on the work of the group, saying, "A lot of our work is really raw and beautiful. Even if you don't share our particular trauma, it's still good to hear people talk about the stuff you're not supposed to talk about."

Newington echoed these sentiments when she said, "I don't try to get any reaction, I try to make what I write understandable. I don't have a sense of things that I shouldn't talk about, so I talk about whatever comes. It isn't a very conscious process."

Moira Gentry, co-founder of the group, said, "NAG was founded with the intention of providing a supportive audience for each others work. What happened was I wanted to have people I knew and trusted to give me feedback."

She also said that the readings have occurred four times in Northampton, as well as twice in New York, where Gentry is a student who works for a living.

Going on with Mendham's "if it's true it's good" ethic, Newington said, "I really like the classical belief of making the shape of poetry organic, and trying to find the shape inside of yourself. The idea goes that there's a sculpture already inside the block and the artist is just trying to get to it. Then it's up to you to leave out what's extraneous.

So NAG works on the level of providing a support group for what appears to be young female writers, as well as providing a forum for public readings. It's not particularly exclusive, Mendham said, "Secretly I'm just as prone to woman-hating as I am to man-hating."

But their are certain bonds between the writers that become apparent in their writing. The best advice for people with an interest in joining this group, would be to see them read or contact them, and see if your work is in a similar vein. Otherwise, Mendham suggested starting your own group. It's not so hard.

"What is hard," Newington said, "is getting to the inside, getting at that rawness and coming up with something." Mendham said, "I've been through a lot of really horrible shit and wanting to die, and the one thing that sometimes keeps me going is that I can make a lot noise before I die."

It's a noise worth paying attention to, for inspiration, and for getting that rarity in contemporary writing of being affected.

NAG will be giving a reading Sunday at 4 p.m. at the Northampton Center for the Arts. A $3 charge covers the non-profit organization's rent and printing costs.

Photo courtesy of Electric Artists

The Rockin' Reptile men of the Neighborhoods, will play Pearl St. tonight.

March 3 to 31 and April 7 to 14
BERMUDA COLLEGE WEEKS

Right from the start, the pleasures are nonstop.

Your holiday begins with a day-long Barbecue Bash at beautiful Elbow Beach: dancing, feasting and tanning on soft, pink, sun-splashed sands.

The fun continues with spectacular beach parties featuring Bermuda's top rock, steel and calypso bands. Daily lunches. A limbo festival. An outrageous Party Cruise to magnificent Great Sound. Plus golf, tennis and rugby tournaments—and a "Murder, Mystery and Mayhem" contest that'll have you super-sleuthing. All compliments of Bermuda's Department of Tourism.

Add to that all the things that make Bermuda, Bermuda. British ambiance. Colourful pubs. Whirring about on a moped. Treasure-hunting in our shops. And the special feeling of being separated from everywhere and everything by 600 miles of sea.

This spring, get your R&R on a very special island. Contact your Campus Travel Representative or Travel Agent for Bermuda College Week details.

KORLA

RENT A WRECK
New & Used Cars
Trucks & Vans Also Available
North Amherst Rent-A-Wreck
Rt. 63 No. Amherst
549-RENT

amc THEATRES
$3.50 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING
MT. FARMS 4 MT. FARMS MALL 584-9153

MUSIC BOX
JESSICA LANGE
Fri. at (4:15 at 3.50) 7:15, 10:00
Sat. at 1:30 (4:15 at 3.50) 7:15, 10:00
Sun. at 11:45, 2:30 (5:45 at 3.50) 8:30
Mon.-Thurs. at 8:30
PG13

INTERNAL AFFAIRS
RICHARD GERE ANDY GARCIA
Fri. at 7:30, 10:15
Sat. at 7:30, 10:15
Sun. 8:15
R Mon.-Thurs. at (6:00 at 3.50) 8:15

TOM CRUISE
BORN ON THE FOURTH OF JULY
A true story
Fri. at (4:15 at 3.50) 7:15, 10:00
Sat. at 1:30 (4:15 at 3.50) 7:15, 10:00
Sun. at 11:45, 2:30 (5:45 at 3.50) 8:30
Mon.-Thurs. at (5:30 at 3.50) 8:15
R

THE WAR OF THE ROSES
Fri. at (4:30 at 3.50) 7:30, 10:15
Sat. at 1:45 (4:30 at 3.50) 7:30, 10:15
Sun. at 12:00, 2:45 (6:00 at 3.50) 8:15
Mon.-Thurs. at (5:45 at 3.50) 8:30
R

THE LITTLE MERMAID
Fri. at (4:15 at 3.50) 6:00
Sat. at 12:45, 2:30 (4:15 at 3.50) 6:00
Sun. at 12:00, 1:45 (3:45 at 3.50) 6:00
Mon.-Thurs. at (6:00 at 3.50)
G

HAMPSHIRE 6 HAMPSHIRE MALL 584-7550

KEVIN BACON
Under the ground.
TREMORS
Fri. at (4:45 at 3.50) 7:30, 10:15
Sat. at 2:00 (4:45 at 3.50) 7:30, 10:15
Sun. at 12:30, 3:00 (6:00 at 3.50) 8:30
Mon.-Thurs. at (6:00 at 3.50) 8:30
PG13

HEART CONDITION
Fri. at (4:30 at 3.50) 7:15, 10:00
Sat. at 1:45 (4:30 at 3.50) 7:15, 10:00
Sun. at 12:15, 2:45 (6:00 at 3.50) 8:30
Mon.-Thurs. at (6:00 at 3.50) 8:30
R

A HIP COMEDY
FLASHBACK
Fri. at (4:15 at 3.50) 7:00, 9:45
Sat. at 1:30 (4:15 at 3.50) 7:00, 9:45
Sun. at 12:00, 2:30 (5:45 at 3.50) 8:15
Mon.-Thurs. at (5:45 at 3.50) 8:15
Special Engagement—No Passes or Coupons Accepted
R

BETTE MIDLER
Stella
Fri. at (4:30 at 3.50) 7:15, 10:00
Sat. at 1:45 (4:30 at 3.50) 7:15, 10:00
Sun. at 12:15, 2:45 (5:45 at 3.50) 8:15
Mon.-Thurs. at (5:45 at 3.50) 8:15
PG13
Special Engagement—No Passes or Coupons Accepted

DRIVING MISS DAISY
Fri. at (4:45 at 3.50) 7:30, 10:15
Sat. at 2:00 (4:45 at 3.50) 7:30, 10:15
Sun. at 12:30, 3:00 (6:00 at 3.50) 8:30
Mon.-Thurs. at (6:00 at 3.50) 8:30
PG
Special Engagement—No Passes or Coupons Accepted

ALWAYS
Fri. at (4:15 at 3.50) 7:00, 9:45
Sat. at 1:30 (4:15 at 3.50) 7:00, 9:45
Sun. at 12:00, 2:30 (5:45 at 3.50) 8:15
Mon.-Thurs. at (5:45 at 3.50) 8:15
PG

AMHERST CINEMA
The Great Rock & Roll Swindle
A documentary starring The Sex Pistols, Johnny Rotten & Sid Vicious
Friday, Sat. & Sun.
7 & 9 p.m.
M-Th 7:30 p.m.
$2.50 w/student ID

THE WORLD FOR SALE

from NEW YORK	round trips from
LONDON	$338
BERLIN	438
BRUSSELS	398
VIENNA	438
TOKYO	749
CARACAS	318
RIO	730

Taxes not included.Restrictions apply.One ways available.
Work/Stud abroadprograms.Int'l Student ID'.EURAIL PASSES ISSUED ON THE SPOT!
FREE Student Travel Catalog
Council Travel
79 So.Pleasant Street
Amherst
413-256-1261

Doah brings a world of music to Amherst

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

The music of Do'ah has often been called New Age, but that label is wrong.

When five musicians team up to play over 70 instruments from all over the world and dedicate themselves to "inspire mutual trust among the world's peoples and breaking down the barriers of prejudice that prevent peace," they are far more than players of that horrible trend of music that should be confined solely to elevators.

Do'ah, Arabic for "a call to prayer," prefer to call their sound world music. When Randy Armstrong and and Ken LaRoche formed the duo in 1974, their backgrounds had been classical and jazz. They soon were introduced to the sitar sound of Ravi Shankar and Carribean music. Their curiosity whetted, they began exploring and merging many different types of world music together. The result is a veritable symphony of sounds.

PREVIEW

But there's more to their world sound than just music. Although the band does not preach onstage, many of them are members of the Bahai faith and strive for world peace and love. They believe that in exposing people to other cultures, people will have a better understanding of those cultures. And what better way to do that than through music?

Armstrong, who plays guitar, West African balafon and adodo drum, Japanese biwa, African Mbira, and Bolivian charango, to name but a few, is excited by the efforts of Peter Gabriel, Paul Simon and David Byrne to bring the music of other cultures to the United States.

In 1983, Do'ah expanded into a quartet, adding the Indian and African percussion of Marty Quinn and the Germanic keyboards and bass of Volker Nahrmann. Their world of music grew. Their latest release, World Dance, appeared on the folk, jazz, pop, world beat and new age charts.

As a live act, Do'ah is not to be believed. It is not a rare occurance for Ken LaRoche to play two different flutes, simultaneously. Although they sound nothing like the punk rock group D.O.A., (They changed their name from Doa to Do'ah to avoid confusion.) they are far more compelling. Their music enthralls, entertains and, most importantly, exposes us to other cultures.

Do'ah appears at the Amherst College Front Room as part of the Sundays at Eight series.

Photo by Dorothy Imagire

Do'ah, in the flesh

TOWN OF AMHERST
LSSE

There's
never a trail fee
at Cherry Hill Golf Course.

All ages are invited to cross-country ski the scenic meadows and snowy hills of Amherst's Cherry Hill Golf Course with no trail fee this winter. Open 7 days a week (weather permitting) with ski rentals, lessons, refreshments, free parking and a warming hut. For information: 256-4071. For lesson signups: 256-4065.

Give a bottle a decent break. Recycle.

Convenience Store Hours

Mini Store

Monday-Friday	7:30-10:00
Saturday-Sunday	8:30-10:00

Hampden Munchy

Monday-Friday	8:00-9:00
Saturday-Sunday	12:00-8:00

Worcester Munchy

Monday-Friday	8:00-9:00
Saturday-Sunday	12:00-8:00

Franklin Munchy

Monday-Friday	7:30-9:00
Saturday-Sunday	12:00-8:00

COUPON
3 for $1.00
SNICKERS Diamond 60 Anniversary
Coupon good at all Munchy Stores and Mini Store
Valid thru Feb. 4

AN EVENING WITH
UPC PRODUCTIONS

VERSUS THE WORLD
MONDAY FEB. 5
STUDENT
UNION BALLROOM
$7 UMASS STUDENTS
$10 GENERAL PUBLIC
TICKETS ON SALE AT TIX UNLIMITED/ SUB, FOR THE RECORD/FACES IN AMHERST AND MAIN ST. RECORDS.

Pete Rose's exroommate convicted

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tommy Gioiosa began serving a five-year prison sentence Thursday for transporting cocaine and claiming Pete Rose's racetrack winnings, and confirmed one of the most serious accusations against the former Cincinnati Reds manager.

Gioiosa, who lived with Rose for five years, said in an interview broadcast last night that he was present when Rose bet on baseball games, including Reds games.

"I've sat in his office and watched him bet on baseball games, including the Reds and many other baseball teams. Yean, Pete Rose bet baseball, and also on Cincinnati Reds," Gioiosa said, in an interview broadcast on WKRC-TV in Cincinnati.

The interview was shown shortly after Gioiosa was led away by federal marshalls to serve a five-year sentenced imposed by U.S. District Judge S. Arthur Spiegel for his conviction last September on drug and tax-evasion charges.

Rose accepted a lifetime ban from baseball last August after admitting to illegal gambling. He identified Gioiosa as one of those who placed his bets with bookmakers, but has steadfastly denied betting on baseball games.

■ union bid rejected

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"Since then [1979], several universities have recognized graduate unions," Feldman said. "There has been no harm to those academic environments.

"Remember, the 1979 decision was made when graduate unions were only hypothetical," he said. "Now they are a reality at some universities like the University of Michigan, the University of California at Berkeley, and Rutgers."

GEO, which has been affiliated with District 65/United Auto Workers since last semester, also demanded the rescission of a $400 curriculum fee levied this semester, and the assurance that the number of teaching assistants, teaching associates and research assistants does not drop significantly this semester.

The administration said teaching assistants and associates graduate student employees who are eligible for financial aid will receive help with the $400 curriculum fee. They said the application deadlines will be extended.

Teaching assistants and associates with a 1989 household income of less than $20,000 or $50,000 or less if the graduate student has one or more children should qualify for enough aid to cover curriculum fees.

However, the situation is different for research assistants, who are financed through private and federal grants, she said. The administration said they will guarantee aid to eligible TAs and TOs but did not issue that same guarantee for RAs, she said.

In response to the third demand, the administrators said they intend to maintain the number of graduate student employees this semester according to the "constraints imposed by the availablilty of grant funding and the usual differences between fall semester and spring semester undergraduate enrollments."

State to get $1 million from firm

Settlement a result of insider trading

BOSTON (AP) — The Wall Street brokerage firm Drexel, Burnham Lambert agreed to pay the state $1 million in a statement announced yesterday, making Massachusetts the 41st state to reach an agreement with the securities firm.

"This is by far the largest settlement amount ever paid to the commonwealth in a securities related matter," Secretary of State Michael J. Connolly said.

Drexel pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court in New York last September to six felonies and paid $650 million to settle a range of fraud allegations stemming from the government's lengthy investigation of insider trading on Wall Street.

Drexel also agreed to dozens of administrative changes and unprecedented federal supervision in settling civil charges with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Under the settlement, Drexel paid $300 million in fines to the government and set aside $350 million for investors who can prove they were harmed by the firm's actions. Those who may be entitled to restitution include people who bought stocks in about 20 allegedly fraudulent transactions cited by the SEC.

The settlement with Massachusetts brings the total amount Drexel has paid states to $8.3 million.

"We're pleased we were able to settle it and now we can go about business," said Steven Anreder, a Drexel spokesman.

The $1 million settlement will go into the state's general fund, Connolly said.

Drexel originally offered Massachusetts $275,000, Connolly said. But the state held out for more.

"Their record settlement makes clear Massachusetts' firm commitment to enforce the law and combat fraud," Connolly said. adding a lower amount was "simply not adequate compensation."

Settling with the states relieves the firm of possible litigation and frees state regulators from having to investigate the firm's trading activities from 1984 to 1986, when the SEC alleged the fraud occurred.

It also generally preserves the firm's ability to underwrite securities and do other business in the states. Most states can revoke a company's right to do business if the firm is convicted or admits to committing a felony. Drexel abandoned the retail brokerage business last year.

In Massachusetts, the agreement includes a stipulation that Drexel must not solicit any new retail trade without first notifying the state Securities Division and demonstrating compliance procedures are in place.

The firm also cannot sponsor private placements to individuals , and must work with the Securities Division to identify any state investors injured by the illegal sale of Drexel junk bonds. Victims would be entitled to place claims with the $350 million compensation fund Drexel established.

In addition, Drexel must hire an independent consultant to scrutinize company policies and submit compliance reports; hire an ombudsman to receive and investigate complaints; finance annual audits by the state Securities Division and establish an oversight committee to review its internal procedures.

La Cucina di
PINOCCHIO
FREE DELIVERY
• SUBS • • PIZZA • • DINNERS •
Fast Service Great Prices Superior Quality
549-3669
1177 N. Pleasant St., N. Amherst

ALLIANCE
CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Welcome
Back
to
UMASS
For more info call Steve or Pauline 253-7206

6¢
Self-Serve Copies
253-2543
220 N. Pleasant
kinko's
the copy center

MENTAL HEALTH GROUPS
Spring, 1990

Self-Exploration Groups
Tuesday 3:30-5:00 p.m.
Wednesday 3:30-5:00 p.m.
Thursday 3:30-5:00 p.m.

Exploring Lesbian, Gay, Bi-Sexual Identities
Tuesday 7:30-9:00 p.m.

Eating Disorder Group
Tuesday 5-5:30 p.m.

ACOA Groups - in collaboration with Health Education Division
Beginner's groups (Psycho-educational)
Monday 5-5:30
Wednesday 3:30-5:30

Advanced group (Process)
Wednesday 2-3:30

All groups begin in late February and require pre-registration. For information or registration, call 545-2337 or stop by 127 Hills North.

Where is God When Disaster Strikes?

Disaster delights in surprise
Seldom does it phone ahead
It used to happen to other people
Now it happens to us!

Where is God when disaster strikes? Does He know when we are hurting? Does He care? If He does, why don't we hear the sound of his footsteps coming to help?

Explore the Bible to find an answer.
Join other students at this weeks 'TOUCH' meeting, 7 pm Friday, February 2, 1990 in the Campus Center Rm 162

Transforming Ourselves
Under Christ's
Hand

'TOUCH' is a registered Student Organization meeting every Friday at 7 pm in the Campus Center for singing, group discussion, support and fellowship.

Through Bowie's past, and then some

By JODY GABIN
Collegian Staff

As far as rock 'n' roll is concerned, it'd be pretty safe to call the '80s the "decade of the comeback." Let's face it, after being bombarded with so many "reunion" albums and tours, the thought of another artist trying to cash in on their "oldies but goodies" is enough to make anyone cringe – whether you're a Who or Stones devotee or not. With the dollars that these icons have been raking in over the past 12 months, you'd think that if you were once a big deal who's since fallen by the public's wayside, all you need is a good publicity agent and a big-name recording company to re-tip your popularity meter.

Photo courtesy of Ryko

As The Man Who Sold the World

There's no reason why David Bowie had to be an exception to this rule. By stepping away from his self-created characters such as Ziggy Stardust and the Thin White Duke, critics began to recognize Bowie as more than just an eccentric British rock star; he gathered enumerable fans (many of them of the younger, teeny-bopper set), and quickly secured himself a position on the pop charts.

With this in mind, it should seem a little strange to some that Bowie chose Rykodisc, a young independent label located in the small seaside city of Salem, Ma., to re-release his catalogue after he terminated his contract with RCA. After all, if Billboard, the "bible" of the music industry, names your work, "the most in-demand artist catalogue not currently available," it's pretty much certain that you've got your pick of the major labels to choose from.

Rykodisc however, offered Bowie a deal almost impossible to refuse. Priding themselves on their commitment to creative packaging (evident by their Sept. Sound and Vision release, which, incidentally, has been nominated for "Best Packaging" in this year's Grammy Awards) and sound quality, Rykodisc's proposal to Bowie and his affiliates was to release the catalogue with enhanced sound, rare tracks and detailed graphics, rather than putting out a cheaper product, as RCA had been criticized of doing.

And Rykodisc certainly did not renege on their promise. Jan. 30 marked the first three reissues of Bowie's 18-piece catalogue – Space Oddity, Hunky Dory, and The Man Who Sold the World. Each CD, LP and cassette includes previously unreleased bonus tracks, such as a demo-version of "Quicksand," and an alternate mix of "The Bewlay Brothers" on Hunky Dory, and a previously unavailable track entitled "Don't Sit Down," which was deleted when the album Man of Music, Man of Words was re-released as Space Oddity in 1972. Each audio form has "compact disc quality" sound, and includes the restored covers and lyrics from the original releases.

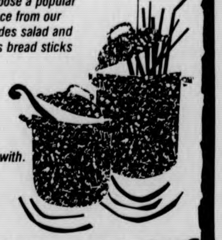
More importantly, Ryko's reissue of the catalogue represents Bowie as true artist and poet. Bowie's more recent releases just can't compare with what he composed before 1980. In earlier years, perhaps he wrote through the alter-egos he so carefully portrayed; perhaps that is why Ziggy's lyrics contain such biting emotion.

Patty Smith once wrote on Bowie, "It was not rock 'n' roll, it was cabaret."

For whatever speculative reasons, Bowie composed his best work during the period between 1968-1980. This work, which for a number of years has been virtually impossible to obtain, will be readily available within the next 30 months – bonus tracks, sound perfection and art work galore. Bowie's catalogue is one that deserves a second listen; and, thanks to Rykodisc, what an amazing listen it's going to be.

Photo also courtesy of Ryko

As Hunky Dory



◆◆◆
Man does not live by bread sticks alone...

Neither do women or children. That's why we're offering a great special for everyone on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Choose a popular pasta and a savory sauce from our special selection. Includes salad and all the Freddy's famous bread sticks you can eat.

At only
$5.95
it's a deal you can live with.

◆◆◆
spaghetti freddy's
That little Italian Place next to The Depot
586-5366
DOWNTOWN NORTHAMPTON

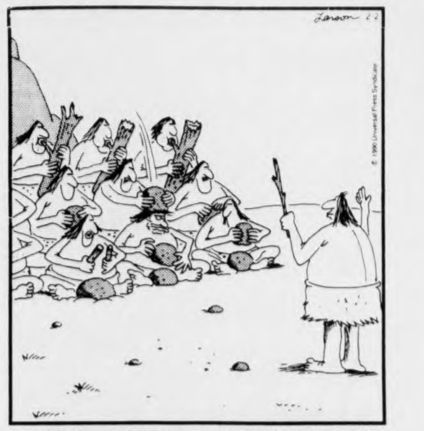
CHANGES
DANCE CLUB
Saturday Night — 50's, 60's & 70's Classics
Doors open at 8:00 p.m. — 1:00 a.m.
CHANGES Route 9 256-8284

CHANGES
DANCE CLUB
Every Friday Night
Alternative Night
Meet new people to the beat of the latest club music
Doors open at 8:00p.m.—1:00 a.m.
CHANGES Route 9 256-8284

SURPLUS SURPLUS
ATTENTION!
WINTER CLEARANCE SALE
Amherst Drop Zone
ARMY/NAVY STORE
103 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst ★ 256-0039
(Behind Bart's/Next to Panda East)
25% OFF
SATURDAY ONLY
EVERYTHING IN STORE
LIVE BROADCAST
99.3 WHMP 12-3
OPEN
Mon.-Sat. 10-6
Sun. 12-5
Open 7 Days a Week
Photo By
Buck Stewart
549-5454

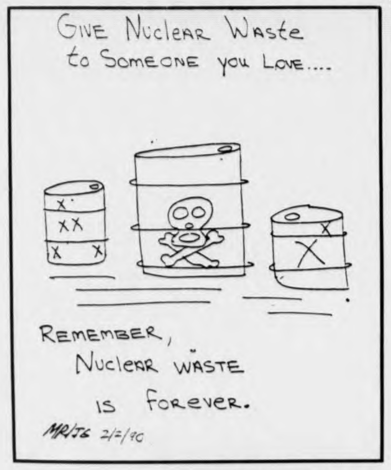
Helen's HAIR'UM
SALON
A Creative Hair Salon Specializing in:
Wave Nouveau • Leisure Curl
Care Free Curl • Weaves • Extensions
Braids • Color • Permanent Waves
Design Cuts • We have ethnic make-up
228 Triangle Street • Amherst • 549-3999
139 Dwight Street • Springfield • 734-4234
Monday thru Saturday

THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



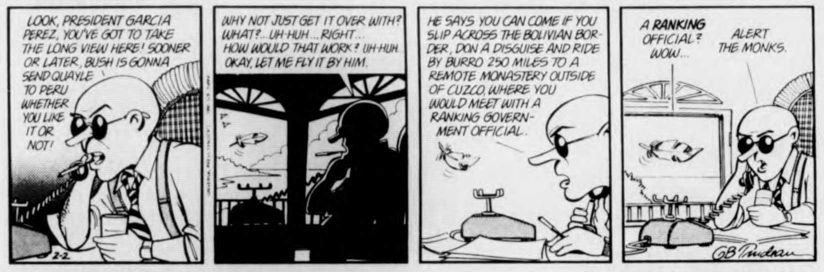
Larson 2-2
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate
Suddenly, second-chair granite rock's jealousy of first-chair granite rock becomes uncontainable.

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG



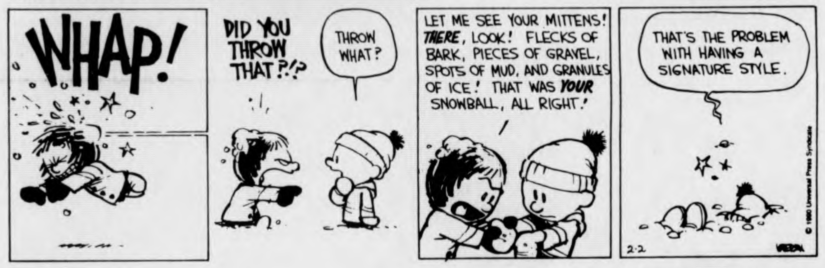
Give Nuclear Waste to Someone you Love....
Remember, Nuclear waste is Forever.
MR/JG 2/2/90

DOONESBURY
By GARRY TRUDEAU



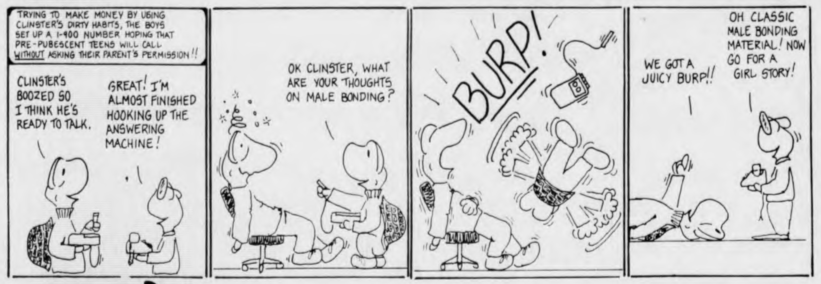
LOOK, PRESIDENT GARCIA PEREZ, YOU'VE GOT TO TAKE THE LONG VIEW HERE! SOONER OR LATER, BUSH IS GONNA SEND QUAYLE TO PERU WHETHER YOU LIKE IT OR NOT!
WHY NOT JUST GET IT OVER WITH? WHAT?... UH-HUH... RIGHT... HOW WOULD THAT WORK? UH-HUH. OKAY, LET ME FLY IT BY HIM.
HE SAYS YOU CAN COME IF YOU SLIP ACROSS THE BOLIVIAN BORDER, DON A DISGUISE AND RIDE BY BURRO 250 MILES TO A REMOTE MONASTERY OUTSIDE OF CUZCO, WHERE YOU WOULD MEET WITH A RANKING GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL.
A RANKING OFFICIAL? WOW...
ALERT THE MONKS.
2-2
GB Trudeau

CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



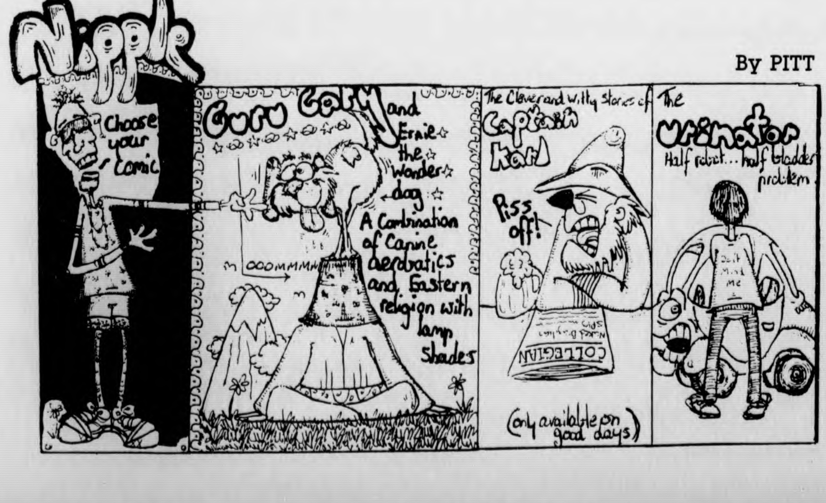
WHAP!
DID YOU THROW THAT?!?
THROW WHAT?
LET ME SEE YOUR MITTENS! THERE, LOOK! FLECKS OF BARK, PIECES OF GRAVEL, SPOTS OF MUD, AND GRANULES OF ICE! THAT WAS YOUR SNOWBALL, ALL RIGHT!
THAT'S THE PROBLEM WITH HAVING A SIGNATURE STYLE.
2-2
WATSN
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

IGGMAN
By DREW AQUILINA



TRYING TO MAKE MONEY BY USING CLINSTER'S DIRTY HABITS, THE BOYS SET UP A 1-900 NUMBER HOPING THAT PRE-PUBESCENT TEENS WILL CALL WITHOUT ASKING THEIR PARENT'S PERMISSION!!
CLINSTER'S BOOZED SO I THINK HE'S READY TO TALK.
GREAT! I'M ALMOST FINISHED HOOKING UP THE ANSWERING MACHINE!
OK CLINSTER, WHAT ARE YOUR THOUGHTS ON MALE BONDING?
BURP!
WE GOT A JUICY BURP!!
OH CLASSIC MALE BONDING MATERIAL! NOW GO FOR A GIRL STORY!

By PITT



Nipple
Choose your Comic
Guru Gary and Ernie the Wonder dog
A Combination of Canine aerobatics and Eastern religion with lamp shades
OOOMMMM
The Clever and witty stories of Captain Karl Piss off!
COLLEGIAN
(only available on good days)
The Urinator
Half robot... half bladder problem.

MENU

LUNCH	DINNER
Clam roll Deli ham on water roll	Spaghetti and meatballs N.E. style scrod
BASICS LUNCH	BASICS DINNER
Falafel pocket sandwich Clam roll	Hi-pro spaghetti N.E. style scrod

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

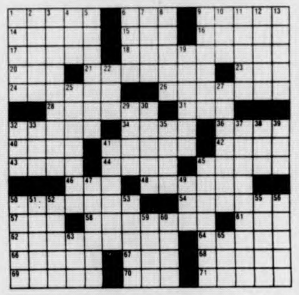
ACROSS
1 Hemmed
6 Stitch
9 Resign or relinquish
14 Wooded place
15 Mary Todd's mate
16 Rust
17 Romeo and Juliet
18 Forty-niner, for one
20 Finish
21 SRO patron
23 Musician's need
24 Home for a brave: Var.
26 Barely sufficient
28 Sea nymph
31 Chemical ending
32 Insertion mark
34 Frame of mind
36 Self-images
40 Aroma
41 Bill of fare
42 Accomplished
43 Mother of Castor
44 Give forth
45 Cockpit commander
46 Kind of father or mother
48 Attained great heights
50 Plant with blue flowers
54 County in NW Pennsylvania
57 Bird: Comb. form
58 Settles down, in a way
61 Simple sugar
62 Rainbow's end
64 Gladden
66 Fragrant resin
67 Louis XIV, was one
68 Snooped
69 Sophia
70 Silver St.
71 Carryalls

DOWN
1 Plumed bird
2 Male bee
3 Kentucky state flower
4 Palindromic name
5 Sweet course
6 Larger than life account
7 Black, to a poet
8 Solders
9 Lower in standing
10 Lincoln's "Cap'n —"
11 Painter of water lilies
12 Perfect "10"
13 English actor —Thomas
19 Make a choice
22 Links location
25 Members of the House of Lords
27 Requiring more
29 Moslem priest
30 A Day or a Duke
32 Pike's Peak st.
33 Lemon additive
35 Palindromic name
37 Ghana, formerly
38 Yoko
39 Word with coffee or tea
41 Giving up
45 Gift
47 Synthetic polymer
49 Electricity abbr.
50 Jacket feature
51 Convex molding
52 Puppy, at times
53 Future oak
55 A Lauder
56 Marsh plants
59 Cosmetic ingredient
60 DCCLII twice
63 Where an Eastender's earth is
65 Card game

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

L	A	T	E	■	■	U	S	E	R	■	S	O	H	O
B	R	A	N	■	■	S	A	G	E	■	T	R	A	P
J	U	X	T	A	P	O	S	E	S	■	R	A	N	I
■	N	I	E	C	E	■	E	S	T	R	A	N	G	E
■	■	■	N	O	R	A	■	T	R	O	Y	■	■	■
C	O	N	T	R	A	S	■	■	I	T	S	N	O	T
A	K	E	E	N	■	S	A	C	C	O	■	A	B	E
N	I	A	S	■	C	A	R	A	T	■	S	C	O	T
N	E	T	■	B	O	Y	E	R	■	S	P	R	E	E
A	S	H	C	A	N	■	■	A	C	T	R	E	S	S
■	■	■	E	N	G	I	■	S	H	O	O	■	■	■
A	D	J	A	C	E	N	T	■	A	M	U	S	E	■
N	O	U	S	■	A	L	I	E	N	A	T	I	O	N
O	L	D	E	■	L	E	N	D	■	■	E	N	N	A
N	E	E	D	■	S	T	E	T	■	■	R	O	S	Y

2/2/90



©1990 Los Angeles Times Syndicate 2/2/90

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Work hard this morning so you can make a quick getaway this afternoon. Money could be the crux of a personal problem. A college-bound teenager finds a temporary job. Be supportive.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Steer clear of a friend or relative's financial schemes. Attending a social function later today will offer you new business or romantic options. Do not be afraid to take calculated risks.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Communication with those in authority could be complicated or confusing. Your partner presents you with an interesting ultimatum. A child may turn rebellious for no reason at all. Be patient.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): After a difficult matter is sorted out, you may not be in a position to take further action. A personal relationship puzzles you. Intellectual pursuits enjoy the best influences.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): An invitation that never comes could leave you feeling left out. Stop worrying about things you cannot control. A financial tip from a close friend bears careful investigation. Someone could be misinformed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Try to be objective about any problems that arise. It is best not to let negative thoughts smoulder. Say what you feel. Others appreciate your honesty. Give a loved one a second chance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A burst of energy and a stroke of good luck brighten your day. The one you adore will applaud your enthusiasm. Look for a way to recycle an old project to make new profits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): It sometimes pays to play innocent; avoid getting involved in a sticky situation. Social plans are subject to change. Domestic disagreements can be averted if you make concessions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You could find yourself defending your philosophy of life today. Refuse to be rattled by someone belligerent. Romance grows more satisfying. Guard your money and valuables.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Moonlighting will bring in extra cash, but could disrupt family life. Your question - "Do I have enough energy?" - is valid. Seek the cooperation of your loved ones in keeping expenses down.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Others will surprise you when they listen approvingly to your ideas. The stakes are high, and you feel appreciated. A telephone call may hold romantic promise.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Expect the unexpected today. Drop in visitors and mysterious messages are featured. Give yourself extra time to get to appointments. You love to play "devil's advocate" at meetings.

TODAY'S STAFF

Night Editor	Lisa Shapiro
Copy Editor	Mike Wester
Layout Technician	Peter Leon
Photo Technician	Richard DuCree
Production Supervisor	Terry Starmer
Typesetter	Peter Leon
Production	Mike Scott, Arnold Salvati, Julie Rogers

■ men's hoop vs. Duquesne

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

based on their performance thus far. First year coach John Carroll has had to deal with the loss of four players, including his point guard Clayton Adams, who sat out for nine games with a stress fracture in his right thigh.

Nine games is not much compared to the other players who are out for the year. Keith English was sidelined for the season with a severe groin injury before the Dukes even played their first game. Forward Leroy Mabins suffered a fracture in his foot in Duquesne's first game of the year when a Detroit player stepped on it. Guard Junior Felix suffered a season ending knee injury in practice just before a game with St. Joseph's on Jan. 7. Carroll has not had much luck in his first season as coach of the Dukes. His bench has been almost depleted by injuries but at least he has his starting lineup intact.

"They've got five good starters," Calipari said. "They're starters are probably one of the top two or three in the league."

And because of those five good starters, the Minutemen cannot afford to take the Dukes lightly. Duquesne turned in an impressive performance on Tuesday, losing by just one point, 78-77.

"It's going to be a game where we are going to have to play," Calipari said.

Stevenson dropped 43 points in the bucket in that West Virginia loss. He's no worry though. Just hope Anselmino doesn't get hot.

■ men's swimming

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

The personnel for New Hampshire is by no means a match for the Minutemen. It's like comparing the 49ers and the Cowboys. It just doesn't work. Although the Wildcats do have two swimmers who have performed well. Junior Jerry Baily has been a New England champ in three events and is looking good this year as well. The Wildcats have a sensation in freshman Jeff Dix in the distance events.

"Dix and Baily are good swimmers," said Yarworth. "They'll give us a tough time, but they won't effect the outcome of the match."

Notebook: This meet and the BU date will be crucial to several members of the team. Yarworth must cut his roster down to 17 men for the upcoming championships. Dave Ehle, John Gardiner, Pete Reich, Chris Barrett, Jim Gregg, Sean Clark and Will Kleschinsky are fighting for the four remaining spots . . . With the rebirth of the Rage in the Cage, fans seem to forget that the swim team is the most successful team on campus with a 10-0 record. Let's see some of those painted faces at the Boyden pool next Saturday for the BU meet, and help the team win a fourth consecutive championship.

■ women's gymnastics

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

competitively."

The Minutewomen will stay with the same routines, trying to score high with more difficulties. Mitchell also plans to basically use the same rotation.

"We have the same people in each event, but just in a different order," Mitchell said. "Lisa Beth Cronen will be fourth instead of first on the bars."

The Minutewomen seem headed in the right direction this season as UMass was ranked 27th in the nation as of Jan. 30. In the Northeast, UM ranks third in team totals behind Ohio State and Penn State. Individually Turmail, Klier, and Marshall are among the top 75 all-arounders in the nation.

Women's Shoes, Clothing & Accessories
Zanna • 187 North Pleasant Street • Amherst
413.253.2563

ZANNA

OUR SOLES ARE DEPARTING.

WINTER SHOE SALE

There's only one problem with religions that have all the answers. They don't allow questions.

If you sometimes have questions about God and the meaning of life, come and join the search for answers in the fellowship of the Episcopal Church. The Episcopal Church

Come hear Horace Boyer sing the Gospel, Albey Reiner talk about healing, Richard Wilbur read his poetry,
Come to a place that sends people out to Colorado, down to Costa Rica, over to Tanzania,
Come Sunday night at 6:00 PM for dinner, good discussion, moderately good singing, the Eucharist. We welcome you.

THE ARK
758 NORTH PLEASANT STREET
549-5929

586-6344

45 State Street
Northampton, MA

The INDIA HOUSE RESTAURANT
Where Indian Food Is Not Just Curry

- TRADITIONAL TANDORI INDIAN COOKING SEALS IN FRESH FOODS NATURAL FLAVORS
- COMPLETE VEGETARIAN MENU
- EXTENSIVE WINE LIST
- BEWITCHING BIRYANIS
- ENTICING CURRIES

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

"INDIAN RESTAURANT WITH EXCELLENT FOOD & SERVICE." THE NEW ENGLAND MONTHLY.

GOOD • INEXPENSIVE
STORAGE ITEMS
For Closets, Kitchens, Baths
• Stacking Bins
• Plastic Crates
• Jumbo Bins
• Under Shelf Baskets
• Shoe Racks
• Hanging Nylon Stacks
RUGS
Hundreds of DECORATIVE PILLOWS
For BEDS, WALLS & FLOORS
BEDSPREADS
TAPESTRIES
Find it at Faces
amherst/northampton

Highlights abound from the meet

By ADRIENNE MATT
Collegian Staff

Aisde from the impressive scoring results, the University of Massachusetts women harriers domonstrated a great team effort at the Bates Invitational.

"The whole team concept was evident," said head coach Julie LaFreniere. "If they weren't competing, they were cheering each other on. We knew this was the meet to qualify in certain events."

New England qualifiers included senior Tina White, freshman Rachel Castriotta and both relay teams. White threw the 20-pound weight 43-4 for third place and Castriotta threw 40-11 and a half for fifth in the same event.

The 4x400-meter relay team took first (4:02.20) over Dartmouth by a full two seconds. Their time qualified them for NEs. Leading for the Minutewomen was senior Julie Muccini (61.9), coming on strong. She was followed by freshman Dana Smith (62.2), who lost a little time. Freshman Lennice Johnson (60.5) gained back the time and turf to pull the harriers into a cleaner lead. Sweeping up the relay was sophomore LeeAnn Ambrose (57.3).

By far the most nerve-wracking and vigorous race was the 4x800-meter relay, the last of the meet. Freshman Becky Johnson (2:21.95), who just qualified for NEs in the 1000-yard run, was neck-and-neck with New Hampshire's leader for a good length of the run. Slowing the pace but doing a fine job of hanging on was junior Cathy Crocker (2:30.5), followed by senior Shana Smith (2:23.87), who just wrapped up first place in the 800-meter. Nervous about losing the lead, freshman Maureen Meldrim took the baton after having run the 3000-meter one event ealier.

Within the first 400 meters Meldrim was passed. Yards after being passed, she sprinted to close the gap and passed the New Hampshire harrier at the final turn. The entire team (all 14 of them) was there to embrace her as she crossed the finish line. The relay team had finished with a time of 9:41.87, again qualifying for NEs.

"That was the gutsiest race out there," said LaFreniere. "It was a phenomenal race by Maureen."

The team had acquired 166 points for the meet and taken 10 first places. "Even the officials recognized our efforts and were impressed with our scores," LaFreniere said. "They [the team] made a point of being first. They were highly competitive.

"This was the first time Dartmouth lost this meet. The officials knew we were pumped. Our enthusiasm was contagious."

Next Saturday, the UM women will be at New Hampshire with Rhode Island at noon.

ACC blows whistle on Duke fans

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke could get a technical foul at its next home game if students continue their habit of throwing debris during pre-game introductions, according to the Atlantic Coast Conference supervisor of officials.

"Certainly, there's something to be said for being funny and creative and cute," Gene Barakat said. "But there's a fine line there. My concern was the physical welfare of the player."

Duke students tossed about 75 pairs of sneakers on the floor when the North Carolina State players were introduced prior to last Wednesday's game at Cameron Indoor Stadium.

N.C. State was handed a two-year probation by the NCAA earlier this season for illegal sales of shoes and tickets.

Last Sunday, the students threw doughnuts, cookies and other food when Georgia Tech's Dennis Scott was introduced.

The food was in reference to Scott's weight problem last season before he lost 25 pounds in the offseason.

Immediately following the introduction of the Georgia Tech starting five, Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski talked to Georgia Tech coach Bobby Cremins and offered an apology for the incident, Barakat said.

Following the game, Yellow Jacket guard Kenny Anderson says he was struck in the eye by a flying object.

Barakat said his decision to inform Krzyzewski of a possible technical foul call by officials is in accordance with NCAA rules.

"The rulebook allows the officials jurisdiction 30 minutes prior to the game," said Barakat, who consulted with Ed Steitz of the NCAA rules committee about the incident on Sunday evening.

"In that 30 minutes, the officials are basically looking for situations that might be adverse to the game. It's illegal to dunk, and sportsmanship is part of that jurisdiction."

Barakat said the officials have the power to penalize for unsportsmanlike conduct.

"Part of 'unsporting' conduct was the throwing of those doughnuts and bagels and boxes out at Scott in the introduction," Barakat said.

"I explained to [Krzyzewski] that that situation could lead to a penalty on the Duke team if the officials deemed it 'unsporting.' "

Barakat said a technical foul would be assessed against Krzyzewski and two free throws awarded to the visiting team. The Duke opponent would also be given possession of the ball to start the game.

Krzyzewski had planned to talk to the students prior to last night's game against Clemson.

"We don't want to inhibit [students'] creativity, but they should be aware of the fact that what they're doing with those introductions is breaking the rules of basketball," Krzyzewski said. "Now the officials are alerted to that."

Duke students are famous for their bleacher antics, but a lot of attention has been focused on their attacks on opposing players.

In 1984, Duke students tossed condoms and women's undergarments at Maryland forward Herman Veal during the pre-game introductions. Veal had been accused of sexual misconduct during the offseason.

The tradition, so to speak, dates back as far as 1974, when students tossed aspirin on the floor after then-N.C. State guard Moe Rivers was introduced. Rivers was charged with stealing aspirin at a Raleigh drug store.

■ women's swimming

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

points at Boston College. The down side of the victory over URI was the loss to BC in the same meet. However, BC is a perennial powerhouse, and no one expected the Minutewomen to win.

Since they are not healthy, Saturday's meet will be more of a test to see where the Minutewomen stand mentally rather than physically.

"We probably won't beat them (UNH)," Newcomb said. "They have a lot of people who can hurt us. We need the freestylers, flyers and divers to perform up to par in order for us to have a chance to be victorious."

Newcomb stressed that this meet was only another race, and because of the physical condition of his team, a loss in this competition would not be a catastrophe.

"It would be more positive to win than negative to lose," he said.

Come tomorrow, a dangerous UMass team will race against UNH, if it can put enough bodies in the water.

■ men's gymnastics

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

John Eggers, who tallied 52.75.

"Steve's a gymnast who's had a lot of experience at very high levels — he got off to a young start and he's had strong coaching," Johnson said. "If he continues to improve, he can be one of the best in the EIGL."

Eggers won the all-around competition against Navy in addition to his strong performance against East Stroudsburg. "John beat Jerry Haran of Navy, who was EIGL Champion as a freshman and a sophomore," Johnson said. "A few years ago they weren't even close, but John has gained a lot of experience and consistency through his hard work."

As a team, UMass' best performance against East Stroudsburg came on the floor exercises (44.3), still rings (45.4), and vaulting (44.5). "The vault was a really a nice surprise in that meet," Johnson said.

Among Saturday's rivals, Division II champion Cortland beat the Minutemen 257.1-253.95 last year in a meet about which Johnson simply says, "We should have won." UMass trailed by only four-tenths of a point entering the final event, the horizontal bar, before losing that event, 45.5-40.75. The team's high bar woes were eerily similar to the Navy meet, where the Midshipmen outscored UMass, 46.85-42.75.

"The key thing we need to work on for the high bar is our releases," Johnson said. "If we can get everyone doing flight releases for their routines, that can bring us close to Navy's level."

UMass last faced Kent State two years ago at Temple University and lost. Kent State has already hit a score of 264 this season, according to Johnson.

"Our goal this weekend is to hit 265," Johnson said. "It will be a good chance to see if we can break 270 later on this season."

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8:30-3:30, FRI 8:30-2:30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE, 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

COLLEGE LIFE isn't a one way street. Come take a look at it from another direction. Sorority rush begins Feb. 6 at 6:00 PM in Room 163 of the Campus Center. Come see how much sorority life can add to your college experience.

EARTHDAY 90 COALITION
Help plan the 20th anniversary of Earthday. Sunday-8PM in the MASSPIRG office 423B SU.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS MEETING
Important meeting Monday Feb 5 at 7:30 Herter 201 For more info call Jill 6-4006

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR MUSLIM WOMEN STUDENTS Special Muslim women students meeting Sunday Feb 11th 1:30 PM Where: Emerson House Lounge in SW 546-4576

STEP ON OVER to our INTERNATIONAL DANCE, Sat Feb 3. In SUB from 9-1AM

THE PAGAN STUDENT ORGANIZATION will meet Feb. 4 7PM CC for its first semester meeting. Call 546-6234 or 586-0347 for information.

WELCOME BACK
Sisters of Sigma Delta Tau!!
A new decade has begun. Get psyched for RUSH! BE HAPPY!
-Lisa T.

WILL JUGGLING CLUB meet today? Hey, anything's possible! Find out for sure today 3-6 on the CC Concourse. See you there.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

RECYCLERS: A new class in recycling education—MW 9:05-10:25 LGRC A339 call Lynn or Sherill 5-1960, 5-1982

INTERESTED IN HELPING a new recycling program? Contact Bonnie at 545-1960

INTERESTED IN Christian Fellowship? THE ALLIANCE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP WELCOMES YOU! More info: Call Pauline or Steve 253-7206.

BED AND BREAKFAST Downtown Amherst 549-5961.

WHAT'S CASH FOR GOLD? We will pay immediate cash for your gold in any form. Free quote. 256-0842

ATTENTION

DO YOU REMEMBER leaving a note on white Honda last September in Townhouse visitor parking? Please call 549-4387.

AUTO FOR SALE

1977 CHEVROLET CAPRICE needs work $700 or B/O 549-4786 Ask for Julie

1982 MAZDA GLC
Looks good Runs great
93K $1800 or BO
Call 253-7742 Leave message

IS IT TRUE..........Jeeps for $44 through the Government? Call for facts! 1-708-742-1142 Ext 5931A

RABBIT: Very well maintained. Rebuilt engine, with 23,000 miles. Recent paint job. Blue. 1980. Must sell. $1250. Jim 549-6306.

1985 MAZDA 626 Goodies include air, defogger, new muffler, battery & tires; just tuned; moon roof, body in great shape. $3200 as is-100,000-it'll eventually need work. Call 5-2934.

BOOKS FOR SALE

MGT 301, MKGT 301, GB FIN 301 and HUM DEV 270 Books for sale. Excellent Deals. Call Sue at 549-0446. After 10 pm.

CUT YOUR PHONE BILL IN HALF

CALLING 508 AND 617. Join the Fone Home Club. Call now! 549-3737.

FOR RENT

TWO ROOMS for rent, one to share. Close to campus. Reasonable rent. A.S.A.P. 549-3785

FOR SALE

1 WAY TICKET to Gainesville FL Sp Break 534-9041 Bill

COMPUTER AMIGA 1000, High graphics, stereo, 3 disk drives, 2½ meg board, mouse, and many many programs asking $1350 call Susan 253-2566

GROW LIGHT 1000 watts $135 or best offer 585-0754 John

RCA TERMINAL. Perfect for use with Cyber. Monitor and keyboard. $150 Pete 5-4784

FOUND

FOUND: BRACELET at Newman Center. 1-24 Leave message at 586-0490.

FOUND A WALLET endorsed by Glen Plake in Campus Center on Monday For more Info. call Greg Stump at 549-8336.

HELP WANTED

COINS 501 TUTOR sought for totally clueless student. 2-3 hrs. a week fee negotiable Call 6-6975 nights before midnight. HELP!

MODEL SEARCH—No experience necessary. Male and Female 562-9048 or 1-401-723-2900.

PEOPLE'S MARKET Student Co-op is hiring! Applications available now. A great place to work!

REAL ESTATE—Established agency seeks enthusiastic people for sales. Start parttime now and be ready for spring selling season! Call Kathy Borawski 584-5555.

HOUSECLEANER, 3½ hrs./wk., $25. Experience, references. 253-7840 eves.

ATTENTION: EXCELLENT INCOME for home assembly work. Info. call 504-646-1700 Dept. P1307.

WELCOME BACK Telefund Team! Intersession was successful and we're looking forward to a great 2nd semester. There are still evening positions available. Call Gerry Joiner at 545-3509.

LOST

LOST MY KEYS! Somewhere in Central Area/Franklin DC Area. Please call me at 6-6508. Thank you!

SMALL CRYSTAL IN dragon's claw behind the SOM building near Mahar. Call John at 546-5181

PERSONALS

EXCERPT FROM CHAPTER 6:
The College Years-The Collegian Personal
Happy 21st Birthday, Chris Latham
You are a friend with whom we all may be sincere.
Love from the cast of Blood on the Boot

GIRL IN GREEN sweater at Tuesday's basketball game - you waved, but we didn't meet. Still interested? I am. Call Tom.

LUNGS SLIP-Hope you get everything you wish for. We love you. Love us.

SCOTT AKA, SCOTTY, Happy Birthday!!! 2/4/90 one quarter of a century. Not bad! Always stay young. Live it up. CARPE DIEM! Take care T.F.N. Robin

SHEL-SHEL: How does it feel?
Boom bada boom? I think so!
Still smell like cashews? Maybe!
Remember: anysex is goodsex!
Love - The Man

THANK YOU ST. JUDE
for answering my prayers

TO SHAWNA OF Tri-Sigma I had a great time and can't wait to see you again??

TO THE SISTERS OF Tri-Sigma Intersession was a blast and Welcome Back everyone. I missed ya. Love Susan

TRI-SIGMA'S THIRD floor quad-Tracey, Chris, and Schlug get ready for OTEHC! Love, Schmitch.

RIDE WANTED

RIDE NEEDED TO Penn State Call 546-9165

TO NJ OR NYC and back on weekends. Call Steve 549-7432

ROOMMATE WANTED

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED immediately for gorgeous apartment in Mill Valley Estates $194 Inc. Call Lisa 253-5314

FURNISHED ROOM AVAILABLE in beautiful Apt. Rent-negotiable Call 665-7240 546-4563 Sunderland Female

ONE BEDROOM AVAILABLE in Brittany Manor $245 heat & hot water included. Call after 10 PM 256-3138

PUFFTON VILLAGE - One male roommate. $175/mo. Call 549-7432.

SINGLE AVAILABLE in house on Main St. Bus stop at front door, gas heat. $245 Call Sue 536-2199

ONE BEDROOM AVAILABLE immediately Brittany Manor female pref. non-smoker, non-drinker $280 heat, hot water incl. Call evenings 253-5455.

FEMALE GRAD STUDENT WANTED—1 bedroom available in condo. Rent-$400 (negotialbe). 253-3107.

SUNSET AVE. APTS.—Need roommate $165/mo. Call 549-3826 (across from Patterson)

ONE ROOMMATE (non-smoker) needed to share bedroom in Squire Village one minute from bus stop DIRT CHEAP! Call anytime 665-3012

NONSMOKING FEMALE needed to share bedroom in Southwood townehouse. Nice place, quiet, new rugs, on bus route, laundry room close by. Call anytime, leave message 549-6075 rent negotiable

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED
Brandywine, 185/mo., We're desperate Free heat, Kathy 549-5317

RUSH AEPI

WHY ARE THESE nights different than other nights? Feb. 6, 7, 11, 13, 15?

SERVICES

CASPANISH—ENGLISH TRANSLATER needed. 100 pages of nicaraguan interviews. Access to Macintosh preferred. Call 367-9787.

HAVE YOU BEEN ripped-off by a retailer? Contact the Legal Services Center regarding your rights as a consumer. 922 Campus Center, 545-1995

TRAVEL

CANCUN!! Cheap. Reliable-(Better Business Bureau). Act now! 256-0198 Melissa or Cindy

GREAT TRIPS! Great prices! Jamaica, Bahamas. Montego Bay, and Nassau. Michelle 546-7781.

SPRING BREAK—Can't beat our prices! Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulco, Daytona. Call now for info. Mary or Karen 549-8166.

NASSAU SPRING BREAK '90
Complete from $399
Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235

SPRING BREAK

TIME IS RUNNING OUT! Plan your spring break trip now! Bahamas and Cancun. We have the lowest rates available. Deadline February 10. Don't miss out on all the fun! Call Donna or Lisa at 549-8228.

TYPING

ACCURATE PROFESSIONAL TYPING
Campus pickup. $1.75/pg.
Gloria, 323-5140.

FAST ACCURATE TYPING
Spell Check $1.75/pg.
Call Ashley at 546-6756

WANTED

LOOKING FOR A good deal on IBM or IBM compatible. Will pay cash. Bob 549-1473

MARTHA'S VINEYARD-wanted 2 females to share a house for summer-$1600-for info call 6-6087 Ask for Helen

SPORTS

Minutewomen tripped up by Penn State

By JOHN STEVEN MARPLE
Collegian Staff

For a while it was too good to be true.

The University of Massachusetts women's basketball team was leading the 22nd-ranked team in the country. That's right, UMass jumped out quickly to leads of 8-2, 11-4 and 17-12 last night against Penn State at Recreation Hall. But by the 10:45 mark in the first half UMass' lead had been shaved to 17-16.

From there it was all down hill. With just under five minutes to go in the half the Lady Lions (15-3, 9-0) had assumed a six-point lead, 33-27. A 10-2 run keyed by Susan Robinson (28 points, 10 rebounds) finished off the Minutewomen and left them down at the half 43-29 on their way to an 91-58 PSU victory.

"We started off excellent," said UMass assistant coach Mary Vail. "But the last five minutes we got very tired and they were able to use their deep bench."

Point well taken. In the first half the Minutewomen (3-15, 1-9) were using mainly six players. And two of those players, Keyburn McCusker and Helen Freeman, were playing with three fouls. On the other side Penn State was going nine people deep.

"When we got tired we didn't have a deep bench to go to like they did," said Vail.

UMass was never able to cut into the halftime deficit and ended up being being outscored 48-29 in the second half.

The UMass problems can be traced to the explosiveness of the PSU offense which came into the game leading the Atlantic 10 in scoring (90.8 ppg.)

"The key to their offense was the running game," said Vail. "They were getting a lot of points off of turnovers. Plus we were getting very tired.

"But I can't fault our defensive effort. We came out with great intensity."

According to Vail UMass made Robinson work for everyone of her 28 points (in only 27 minutes).

"I'm real happy with the defense we played on her," she said. "We fouled her a lot and didn't give her any easy ones."

However when fouled, Robinson proved to be deadly. She nailed all 10 of her free throw attempts.

For UMass Sue Serafini had her most effective scoring night of the season, scoring 18 points. She hit 6-12 from the floor, including four 3-pointers. Helping out Serafini was Freeman who chipped in 15 points.

Hoop notebook: For the second game in a row McCusker had the task of guarding a big-time scorer.

After guarding Dale Hodges Monday she had to play D on Susan Robinson who came into the contest averaging 19.1 ppg. Despite giving up 60 points in the two games the coaching staff is happy with her defense . . . UMass will play at Temple tomorrow afternoon. "If we get the type of effort we've been getting we know we can win," said Vail.

Swimmers trek to NH

• Men looking to stay unbeaten

By C.J. ABATI
Collegian Staff

While the spring semester is just getting underway for a majority of the campus, the men's swimming team, under the direction of Russ Yarworth, is readying itself to close out the season and head into the New England Championships.

The team will travel north and take on the University of New Hampshire tomorrow afternoon, in what will be their final road meet of the regular season. The meet is scheduled for a 1 p.m. start.

New Hampshire should not cause any problems for the Minutemen. They are not a strong team, and have very little depth. In fact, Yarworth is so confident that he is looking ahead and preparing for the upcoming meet with Boston University.

"My guys have been New England champs for three years in a row. They're tough athletes, and they know what has to be done," said Yarworth.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14

• Flu taking toll on the women

By TAMIR LIPTON
Collegian Correspondent

No other team on campus has worked harder, or longer, than the University of Massachusetts women's swimming team.

"Over winter session we swam an average of 6.5 miles per day and four hours of practice per day," said UMass coach Bob Newcomb. "Intersession was so good. People are physically exhausted, they are so ready to rest."

But rest was not put on the schedule. However, when the Minutewomen face off against the University of New Hampshire this weekend in Durham, N.H. they will not only be battling an improved UNH team, they will be battling themselves. Fifty percent of the team is sick with stomach viruses, and the other 50 percent is just recovering from the same malady.

"I'm worried about this weekend, we are holding together with tape and wire," Newcomb said.

Why worry? Athletes who can swim 6.5 miles per day, and who have trained so vigorously all season will be ready.

UMass was ready six days ago when it handily defeated Rhode Island by 40

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

Minutemen to Duke it out at Cage

Men's hoop seeking revenge for earlier loss

By GEORGE AUSTIN
Collegian Staff

So what if the Atlantic 10's leading scorer is coming to Amherst this weekend. Guard Mark Stevenson and his 27.4 points per-game average is not UMass basketball coach John Calipari's biggest concern right now.

Calipari is content to let Stevenson get his 30 or so points. What he is more afraid of is that center Brian Anselmino and guard Tony Petrarca are going to hurt the Minutemen when UMass plays Duquesne tomorrow (7 p.m., Curry Hicks Cage). Petrarca averages just 10.7 points a game and Anselmino 13. But Anselmino could probably make a living playing against the Minutemen.

"Stevenson is not the guy that beat us down at Duquesne," Calipari said. "It was Petrarca and Anselmino. Anselmino has a career game every time he plays against us."

The latest chapter in Anselmino's dominance of the Minutemen was a 17 point, 12 rebound performance on Jan. 25. The Dukes, thanks to Anselmino's play, handed UMass a 70-69 loss at the A.J. Palumbo Center.

It was just the third win of the year for the Dukes and only their second win in the A-10. Duquesne will come into the Cage tomorrow with a 3-17 overall record and a 2-9 mark in the A-10. It was thought that of the four A-10 games that the Minutemen played on the road in January, that Duquesne would be the best chance for a win. But obviously that didn't happen and it was not only because Anselmino went crazy.

"We didn't play as well as we are capable of playing," Calipari said.

The Minutemen have lost five games in a row after taking over first place in the Atlantic 10 when they were 6-0. UMass is 10-8 now and 6-4 in the A-10. Four of the last five losses have come on the road. The latest setback was a 94-75 loss to a tough Connecticut team at the Cage on Tuesday. The recent losses have not been much of a surprise to Calipari though.

"I told the team yesterday (Wednesday) that in the last five games, I suspected we would go 1-4," Calipari said.

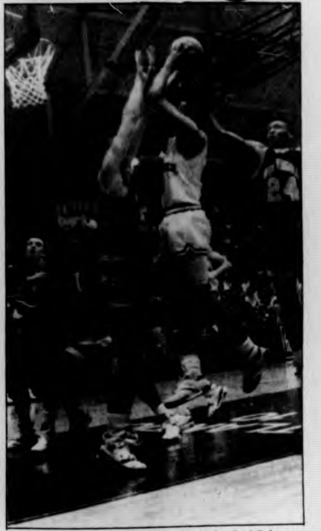
The Minutemen have entered a critical stage of their season.

There are nine games left and of those nine, eight are conference contests.

"Now we go to the third part of the season," Calipari said. "It will tell the tale of what the team's made of, how good we are. You judge your season on how you play at the end."

It would not be fair to judge the Dukes-

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14



Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Tony Barbee and the Minutemen face Duquesne tomorrow night at the Cage.

Gym teams in action this weekend

• Women set to face Yale, Rutgers

By CHRIS MIRACLE
Collegian Correspondent

After stumbling out of the starting gate against Towson State, the University of Massachusetts women's gymnastics team (2-1, 1-0 in the Atlantic 10 Conference) has hit full stride as it beat Cornell University 179.7-171.1 for its second consecutive victory last weekend.

All-arounder Erin Klier led the Minutewomen to victory with her lifetime-best performance of 36.7. Freshman sensation Tammy Marshall followed close behind with a 36.6.

"Our team is still plagued by problems," UMass coach Alfie Mitchell said. "Our routines are becoming more consistent, but we're not hitting the landings. That's costing us points."

In their four events, the Minutewomen recorded four falls in the vault and floor exercise and two on the balance beam, costing them five points.

"Last season we were happy with scoring in the 170's, but this year we should average in the 180's," Mitchell said. "We could have scored 185 in the Cornell meet."

Inconsistency in their routines didn't prevent the Minutewomen from breaking more school records. With Marshall and Kristin Turmail scoring a 9.5 and 9.4 respectively on the vault, the Minutewomen combined for a new record of 46.1. They also established a new mark of 46.25 on the beam, with Marshall's 9.7 leading the way. Marshall's 9.7 average on the beam ranks her seventh in the nation.

"It was a strange meet with many personal bests in two events," Mitchell said.

The Minutewomen hope their good fortune on the road will continue in their meet against Yale and Rutgers tomorrow at Yale University at 1 p.m. It was not definite if Rutgers could attend.

"Yale hasn't been scoring as high as we have been this season," Mitchell said. "We have to take advantage of this while we can before our tougher meets coming up. If Yale scores high, it might help us rise to the occasion

CONTINUED ON PAGE 14

• Men to host quad-meet

By JASON GEORGE
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team vaults into their Saturday meet against Kent State, Cortland, and Vermont at Boyden Gymnastics Center with a 1-1 record.

The Minutemen lost to defending Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League Champion Navy by a score of 265-256.35, before rebounding to defeat East Stroudsburg by 261.85-242.05.

Although pleased with a number of individual performances, Coach Roy Johnson feels that the team needs to become more consistent through hard work in practice.

"What we need is more consistency, which comes through getting people to take the time in practice to finish their routines," Johnson said.

Johnson draws from the meet against East Stroudsburg to illustrate the importance of perfecting routines in the gym. "In that meet, we had 11 major breaks out of 36 routines," he said. "If you can't go through your routine without a major break, you haven't lived up to the expectations and standards that have been set for practice.

"You have to look at the performances of each individual — Bart Balocki and Steve Christensen have been finishing their routines in practice," Johnson said. "Cal Booker has been doing well on four events — he just needs to work on two others."

UMass had a number of positive performances in the win over East Stroudsburg on Jan. 27. Christensen, a freshman, was the all-around high scorer for the meet with 53.45 points, edging out teammate and senior co-captain

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

EDITORIAL
Bob Bobala writes about Beeg Maks and french fries in the Soviet Union.

ARTS
UPC brings the "infected" The The to the Student Union tonight. Page 9.

SPORTS
Men's basketball, fresh off a win over Duquesne, take on Vermont at the Cage.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1990

COLLEGIAN

VOLUME CXXIV LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 5

Students elected to convention

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Two students and one African American studies professor from the University of Massachusetts were elected Saturday to be delegates to the state gubernatorial Democratic Nominating Convention.

Evelyn Murphy supporters won two more delegate slots than the uncommitted slate at the Amherst Democratic caucus. Of the 18 delegates elected at the Amherst Junior High School, 10 are Murphy supporters and the eight other delegates are uncommitted to any candidate. Student trustee Eric Nakajima, who ran on the Evelyn Murphy slate and Brian James Crawford and William Strickland, who ran uncommitted, will attend the June convention to be held in Springfield. Nakajima, said Murphy has outlined her support for choice, taxes and environmental issues better than any other candidate. He said the uncommitted slate is undercutting Murphy's ability to win, spurring fights within the party. "If Murphy doesn't do well [in the caucuses] her campaign is in danger."

Crawford, UMass student and candidate for Amherst Select Board, said he supports the uncommitted slate because it will help voters draft an education candidate, and force gubernatorial candidates to define their stances.

"[The candidates] are here to support us," he said, "but they are not to be found when there's work to be done."

Crawford criticized the candidates for lacking tough positions on the Childcare Linkage bill, environmental issues and tax reform.

UMass professor William Strickland, said individual candidates are not the

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

Collegian photo by K.A. Burke

Maki Mandela speaks at the University of Massachusetts on Friday.

Mandela's daughter reacts

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff
and The Associated Press

Maki Mandela, daughter of imprisoned activist Nelson Mandela, said in a press conference Friday at the University of Massachusetts that she is excited by her father's prospective release this month from prison in South Africa.

"The thought that I will have a father again is very good," said Mandela, a doctoral student at the University.

The conference followed an announcement early Friday morning that F.W. de Klerk, president of South Africa, legalized the African National Congress and agreed to release several political prisoners, including Nelson Mandela.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5

Transfer students take time to adapt

By KERRY HERLIHY
Collegian Staff

Last year when transfer student Russell Edgar swapped his Boston skyline view in his Northeastern University dormitory for a basement room looking out on a University of Massachusetts dumpster, he felt disconcerted.

Now, as Edgar begins his third semester at UMass, the dumpster as well as his confusion are gone. He said, "The decision to transfer was a tough one. When I first got here, I was disappointed. Now, I'm totally engrossed in what the school has to offer."

Edgar is one of approximately 6,000 undergraduate transfer students at UMass, approximately one-third of the undergraduate population. Kathy Ryan, director of transfer admissions, said transfer students send mixed signals about being singled out by the University.

"They [transfer students] don't want to be singled out because it may prevent them from doing things," Ryan said, "But at the same time, they sometimes feel lost."

Ryan said one quarter of transfer students come from two-year community schools while the rest come "from all walks of life," for various reasons.

Edgar cited both academic and financial reasons for transferring. "The transfer student is usually looking at the University for a particular reason," Ryan said. "If it is not for academics, it is because of money."

"I wanted to be in the woods as opposed to the city and UMass was one-third as expensive as Northeastern," Edgar said. "Also, I wanted to major in something which wasn't offered at Northeastern."

"At first, when I got here, I was disappointed. There was no real floor unity and it was really slow," Edgar said. "It was a shock. But, as the semester went along, it got better."

Senior, Lynne Wu, who transferred from Boston University at the beginning of her sophomore year, said the transition was "very hard."

"Imagine starting your freshman year all over again without any of the connections you had," Wu said. "It was tough, but I saw it as a fresh start."

Wu said although she adapted to the University, she felt the administration could organize more events in which transfer students could "get their feet wet."

Edgar, who was 21 when he transferred, agreed. "I felt like I was the only 21 year old freshman living in the dorms," he said. "It would be nice to know there were other

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

OVER THE RIVER AND THROUGH THE WOODS—A recent snowfall seen in Springfield's Forrest Park.

UMass students plead not guilty

By LISA SHAPIRO
Collegian Staff

Two University of Massachusetts students pleaded not guilty Thursday in Northampton District Court to charges stemming from a Dec. 13 incident at the Amherst Newsroom where more than $800 worth of pornographic magazines were destroyed.

Sandra Goodman and Lierre Keith were charged with malicious destruction of property after the incident, in which ornaments filled with paint apparently were thrown at the magazines. The case is continued until March 8.

On Thursday, the defendants released a press statement affirming their anti-pornography beliefs. They declined to discuss other aspects of the case.

The statement said pornography is linked to violence against women and notes that the Amherst Newsroom incident occurred in the time between the Montreal massacre, in which 14 women were brutally murdered, and the local slaying of UMass junior Sharon Galligan.

"Women in this town and all over the world know what malice really is," the statement said. "The systematic murder of women because we are women is the malicious destruction of one group of people.

"Pornography leaves no room for doubt as to the malicious intent of a misogynist society, men's intention to destroy women," the statement said.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN
113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA, 01003.
Phone (413) 545-3500 FAX (413) 545-1592

STAFF

Editor in Chief	Maria Sacchetti
Managing Editor	George Austin
Editorial Editor	Minu Sebastian
News Editor	Lisa Shapiro
Sports Editor	Jim Clark
Arts Editor	Al Kaufman, Will Georgiades
Photography Editor	Dondi Ahearn
Women's Issues Editor	Danielle Bionda
Multicultural Affairs Editor	Scott C. Hill
Business Manager	Robert J. Bikash
Advertising Manager	Jennifer Ronan
Finance Manager	Martina Rios
Circulation Manager	Chris Baker
Subscription Manager	Joya Faretra
Production Managers	Terry Starmer, Mike Wester
Ad Manager	Rory Evans

PROFESSIONAL STAFF

Business	Brian Harrington, Maureen Majerowski, Lori Black
Graphics	Andrea Belanger

New England's largest college daily newspaper. Circulation: 21,000. Published every weekday of the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts.

ATTENTION!

New Writers

Meeting Today!

3 p.m.
in the Collegian

Be There!!!

AP photo

RALLY NEAR RED SQUARE — Thousands of Soviets gathered Sunday on a broad square near the Kremlin, located at left, to hear demands that the Communist Party give up its monopoly of power.

FYI.

Monday, February 5, 1990
Film — A fourteenth century conquistador in quest of cities of gold, Aguirre: The Wrath of God, with Klaus Kinski will be shown at 7:30 p.m. at Mt. Holyoke College in the Hooker Auditorium. Free

Tuesday, February 6, 1990
Film —Tibetan Buddhism: Tibetan Trilogy - A Prophecy will be shown at7:15 p.m. in Seelye Hall at Smith College. Free.
Welcome Back — A welcome back from Israel get-together for anyone returning from or ever been to Israel will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Student Union room 301 (Dukes Room).
Concert — Mel Torme and Helen Ready will take to the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall at 8 p.m. Five college students pay half price on tickets, $21-25.
Lecture —Artemisla Gentileschi ... A Baroque Feminist - illustrated by Ann Sutherland Harris will be held in Wright Hall at 8 p.m. at Smith College.

Wednesday, February 7, 1990.
Training session — UMass Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Speakers Bureau seeks members to help educate others about heterosexism, reduce homophobia, prejudice and misunderstanding. Credit available for students. First session to be held 7-10 p.m. in the Campus Center. Call 545-4824 for more information.
PVTA — The UMAss Transit Service will be holding an applications meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in Campus Center room 101. This meeting is for any students interested in becoming part-time bus drivers for the PVTA.

WELCOME BACK
SENIORS!
DON'T FORGET TO BUY YOUR
1990 YEARBOOK FOR $25 WHILE
IT'S STILL AVAILABLE

COME AND SEE A YEARBOOK FOR YOURSELF IN THE INDEX OFFICE
AT 103CC!

SENIOR PORTRAIT SITTINGS ARE
FEBRUARY 28 thru MARCH 16
CALL 5-2874 FOR MORE DETAILS.

LOCAL

Housing board a key issue in election

By DARREN GARNICK
Collegian Staff

In 1986, in response to a housing shortage and a sharp increase in rental rates, the residents of Amherst, established a Housing Review Board at the annual Town Meeting.

The HRB was created to serve as a mediator between landlords and tenants over rent level complaints. The Board has the power to lower rents and deny rent increases that are judged unreasonable. The Board is also supposed to guarantee the landlord a fair and reasonable profit, based on increases in property taxes and operating costs.

The Board does not have jurisdiction over hotels, hospitals, college dormitories, private homes occupied by their owners, convents, and government-owned property.

According to the Housing Review Board's rules and procedures, the five members of the HRB are appointed by the Town Manager, but are subject to the town Select Board's final approval.

Because the Select Board ultimately decides who is in control of the Board, it has evolved as a central issue in the upcoming Select Board election.

The field of six candidates running for the two open seats on the Select Board will be narrowed to four at the primary election on Feb. 9. The candidates' positions on the Housing Review Board are instrumental factors in the primary.

Candidate Carolyn Holstein said she supports the concept of the Board, because it "is designed to protect renters from outrageous rents."

However, she said the "formula is outdated and biased toward the tenants," and therefore "needs revision." She did not offer specific suggestions because she said she has not examined the formula closely enough.

Candidate David Keenan said he objects to the Board in its current form because a tenant can appeal the terms of a lease one day after they sign it.

"When someone agrees to a contract, it should be binding common law," he said.

Fellow candidate Richard Gold said he also objects to the Board's format.

Gold has filed an appeal, which is still pending, in Hampshire Superior Court challenging the existence of the Board. He said the Board is not necessary because Amherst is no longer in the midst of a housing crunch, .

"We would function fine without one," he said, "because we have a lot of vacancies in town. Some places might go bankrupt [because of a lack of renters]."

Candidates Robert Smith and Brian James Crawford, supporters of the Board, have repeatedly said that Gold and Keenan, both Amherst landlords, are running for the board to protect their own property interests.

Keenan called these allegations "cheap shots which do not justify a response."

"They obviously don't know the real David Keenan," he said. "David Keenan has been a citizen of Amherst for 20 years. I could go on with all the wonderful things I've done for Amherst, but I don't want to toot my own horn."

Gold said that in the event of a conflict of interest, such as a vote involving his own property, he would abstain. He also challenged Smith and Crawford to attend a session of the Housing Review Board before they criticize his position.

Candidate H. Oldham Brooks could not be reached for comment.

Collegian photo by Jason Danzinger

Freshman geology major Taylor Reid and friend Mary Walling of Ringe, New Hampshire on a walk through Leverett last week.

Sorority rush week scheduled to start today

By CYNTHIA CONRAD
Collegian Correspondent

According to the Vice President of Campus Affairs for the Panhellenic Council, 200 to 250 women are expected to enter formal rush, which is scheduled to begin tomorrow and run until Feb. 15. "Rush is a one week commitment when women from UMass can visit the sororities through a program geared to help them choose the sorority best suited for them" Jeanne Bolduc said. "Rush is essential to keeping the Greek area alive; without new members, the Greek area cannot continue to exist." During orientation each rushee will meet the members of the Panhellenic Council, obtain basic information about the eight UMass sororities, and is assigned a group headed by a Rho Chi, Bolduc said.

Rho Chis are sorority member volunteers who act as counselors to guide rushees through the rush process, she said. No Rho Chi is permitted to disclose the sorority to which she belongs. "This makes the process as fair as possible," Bolduc said. "Rushees tend to become attached to their Rho Chis, so we have to make sure that Rho Chis will not influence the rushees's choice. "Keeping the anonymity enables the sororities to work together for each other and helps ensure that the rushees will base their decision on what is right for them."

House tours, which serve as an opportunity for rushees to ask questions about the sororities and their facilities, are 30 minutes and are conducted by sorority members, Bolduc said. Theme parties, which last for three nights, allow rushees to meet the sisters of each house and learn more about the sororities, Bolduc said. The parties last 30 minutes each on the first two nights and 45 minutes each on the third night.

On preference night, rushees rank their three top choices of sororities and attend a formal 45-minute party at each of the sororities they have selected. "Preference Night and Silence Day, the day after Preference Night, is a reflective time, a time rushees make sure that sorority life is really for them and that they have made the right decisions," says Bolduc. On Bid Day, the rushees receive an invitation to join one of the three sororities they have chosen. After a party at the Campus Center, the rushees go to their respective sororities for a celebration, she said.

"Sisterhood is hard to describe; it's a bond not only between the women you live with, but with those who have come before you and those who will come after you. A sorority is a home away from home; it can make a big school like UMass smaller. There is always someone there to talk to — someone's shoulder you can cry on; or, in your triumphs, someone is there to pat you on the back," Bolduc describes.

Christi Spadoni, Panhellenic Vice President of Membership, and in charge of rush, said, "Sororities have a lot to offer college women. They enhance the college experience, especially in the areas of scholarship, philanthropy, friendship and leadership."

"As a member of a sorority, there are a lot of resources available to you; the sorority provides a network accessible to you both personally and professionally throughout your life,"she said.

There are presently 500 women in UMass sororities and 1,100 students overall in the Greek system, making up a total of 5.5 percent of the UMass Amherst campus.

Sorority rush schedule:
- Orientation — 6 p.m., Feb. 6 in Campus Center room 163
- House Tours(3) —7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. following orientation
- House Tours(5) — Feb. 7, 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.
- Theme Parties(6) — Feb. 8, 5:30 p.m. to 9:45 p.m.
- Theme Parties(5) — Feb. 11, 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.
- Theme Parties(4) — Feb.12, 6 p.m. to 9:45 p.m.
- Preference night(3) — Feb. 13, 6 p.m. to 8:45 p.m.
- Bid day — Feb. 15, 5 p.m.

Collegian photo by Jason Danzinger

ROOM ON BOARD—Campus pedestrians avoid puddles as they walk past Old Chapel on Friday.

Area Repub. gains support Saturday

By JULIE LIVINGSTONE
Collegian Staff

SOUTH HADLEY — A slate of 36 Steven Pierce (R-Westfield) supporters were elected Saturday as delegates to the 1990 Republican gubernatorial convention to be held at the Boston World Trade Center in March.

The Pierce supporters were clear victors over Assistant U.S. District Attorney General Bill Weld supporters at the Franklin and Hampshire district caucus.

Delegates who are elected under a certain candidate's slate are not obliged to vote for that particular candidate, so the number of delegates who support one candidate does not guarantee a candidate a sure win, said Bess Conway, member of the Republican Party Finance committee.

After the votes were tallied by two tellers, and the Pierce slate was announced the winner, the Franklin and Hampshire district caucus chairperson Miles Washburn reminded voters, "Remember this:" as he pointed to a bumper sticker in the front of the room that said, "Remember: Vote Republican in 1990."

Any person registered as a Republican by December 15,1989 was eligible for election as a delegate. Delegates to the convention were elected by their hometown committees during the first three weeks of January, said Bess Conway. Caucuses were held in each of the state's 40 senate districts yesterday.

Hadley Arkes, of Amherst, was one of the delegates elected on the Pierce slate. "I'm very pleased with the way it went. It will be a novel experience, I've never attended a convention such as this before."

Legal Services tries to get back litigation power

By CRAIG BERGER
Collegian Correspondent

The University Legal Services Center will meet with University administrators in attempt to regain limited litigation power that was revoked three years ago.

On Feb. 13, members of the center will meet with Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs Dennis Madson and Dean of Students Dr. Jo-anne Vanin.

If the proposal to reinstate the service is accepted, the ULSC will have the right to represent University students in off-campus legal cases such as landlord-tenant disputes, job discrimination and auto accidents.

Joanne Mei, Chairperson of the University Legal Services Board and a graduate student in the Entomology Department said that without litigation power, the needs of students are not being met.

"Students can't afford private lawyers and many lawyers wouldn't represent a student because there isn't enough money for them to make in a student dispute," she said. "The cost is simply prohibitive."

Today, the ULSC is an active Registered Student Organization, but it's function is limited to giving legal advice and providing education for students, Mei said. University students have the benefit of using the office as a legal resource when they can't afford private legal consultation, Mei said.

Until 1986, the ULSC had the power to represent students in all cases, including those against the University. But in the spring of 1986, after the University settled out of court in a discrimination case surrounding a set of arson fires, the Board of Trustees decided to strip the ULSC's power to litigate against the administration, claiming it a conflict of interest for University employees and students to litigate against the University. One year later, the Board of Trustees ended all litigation rights for the ULSC.

After three years without litigation power, Mei is confident the center's proposal will be accepted by the University because the service will fill a student need. She said it will not cost the University because the office is financed by the Student Activities Trust Fund which is paid for and budgeted by the students.

Community leaders upset over budget

By DIANE HICKS
Collegian Staff

"Every gun that's made, every warship launched, every rocket fired signifies, in the final sense, a theft from those who hunger, and are not fed, those who are cold, and not clothed.
This world in arms is spending the sweat of its laborers, the genius of its scientists, the hope of its children."

NORTHAMPTON — This quote, uttered years earlier by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, was echoed here Friday by Dr. Ira Helfand of Physicians for Social Responsibility at a press conference concerning local effects of President Bush's proposed federal budget.

Nine local leaders, upset that President Bush's proposed budget for fiscal year 1991 includes $300 billion for defense, said the budget is unreasonable in light of perestroika and advances in Soviet-American relations in recent years.

Alan Sax, director of the Hampshire Community Action Commission, said: "The Bush budget contains the same faulty thinking about social programs for low income people as was found in the last eight years of the Reagan era."

Locally, the University of Massachusetts has seen a decrease in staff and students and scores of program reductions and course cancellations compounded by an increase in tuition and fees.

State Rep. Stan Rosenberg (D-Amherst) noted: "Tuition and fees are rising at unconscionable rates; now the federal government is going to further reduce the system four percent."

Gail Kielson of Necessities/Necessidades, a battered women's shelter in Northampton, said she is concerned that battered women's services may suffer a 25 percent cut statewide. "We are on death's doorstep and need money to survive," she said.

The small shelter, which can accomodate eight overnight guests, lost nearly $18,000 in funding last year and is sometimes forced to turn women away and back to potentially dangerous situations, she said. The center is asking those opposed to cuts in battered women's services to wear a red armband on Feb. 14.

Final exam reading period may be expanded

By JULIE LIVINGSTONE
Collegian Staff

Additional reading days for final exam week may be implemented for next semester, said Danny Cohen, chairperson of the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Government Association.

The committee told Provost Richard O'Brien last semester that one reading day per final period was insufficient for the average student carrying five classes, Cohen said.

"It is hectic and unrealistic to expect students to prepare for five finals when they only have one reading day," Cohen said. He cited that the University of South Carolina, comprable in size to UMass, has extended reading days for finals.

As the final week schedule stands now, classes run from Monday to Thursday with Friday as the only reading day before finals begin Saturday. No finals are scheduled for Sunday and resume on Monday.

The schedule proposed by the committee would make Friday through Sunday reading days, finals would commence on Monday and end on Friday. Saturday will serve as a snow day.

O'Brien reacted favorably to the suggestion, Cohen said. However, it remains for Norman Aitken, associate vice-chancellor for academic affairs to make the final decision. He was unavailable for comment at press time.

The academic affairs committee will meet with the provost today to further dicuss this new change.

■ students plead

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

The statement said pornography "dehumanizes the female body" and "licenses men to do anything to women's bodies; it licenses men to kill women."

The defendants challenged the use of the term "violence."

"While both the press and the legal system has [sic] tossed the word 'violence' around with ease in reference to the Amherst anti-pornography action, they have found it excruciatingly difficult to address the connection between the recent murders and every day male violence against women," the statement said.

■ transfer students

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

people in my situation."

Ryan said,"We don't do things with transfer students as a group because we found they don't need it. Also, it's hard because the variety of people and circumstances are so great."

Edgar said, "At Northeastern, everything is right there bombarding you. At UMass, you have to bombard the school and go get what you want."

Lambda Chi Alpha is beginning rush February 6th. Until then try to enjoy yourself as best you can.

PER CRUCEM CRESCENS
VIR QUISQUE VIR

Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity 374 North Pleasant Street 253-9032

■ Mandela reacts

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

President dé Klerk said he would lift bans and restrictions on more than 60 opposition groups, free most prisoners belonging to these groups, declare a moratorium on executions, and scrap most of the restrictions imposed during more than three years of a state of emergency.

"The season of violence is over. The time for reconstruction and reconciliation has arrived," de Klerk told Parliament, where his remarks were greeted with cheers from supporters and silence from right wing opposition.

ANC leaders welcomed de Klerk's concessions but said more must be made before negotiations with the government can begin. It said worldwide sanctions against South Africa should continue until more steps are taken.

Mandela said she agrees that de Klerk needs to take his policies several steps further.

She said the legalization of the ANC is one of the positive steps toward the recognition of Blacks as equals in South Africa, but added that these steps are meaningless until apartheid is completely abolished.

"Apartheid is not over today," she said.

Although her father, 71, has been jailed for more than 27 years, Mandela said he has continued to fight against the South African government.

"People are amazed that he never gave up," she said. "He sacrificed his life to see that apartheid is dismantled."

She said her father is already playing a crucial role in the formation of a new South African government by mediating between the government and the African National Congress.

"He's a man who can bring these forces in South Africa together," she said.

Mandela said the United States government's sanctions against South Africa also have been instrumental in effecting recent changes.

She said the sanctions have forced White capitalist owners to talk with government leaders to end apartheid. Multinational corporations do not want to invest in a country with a history of violence, she said.

"[The sanctions] pushed them to the realization that apartheid is an unnecessary evil that must go," she said.

Chancellor Duffey, who introduced Mandela at the conference, gave her a letter to give to her father, inviting him to visit UMass after his release.

■ students elected

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

answer to the state's problems.

"Our slate is not anti-Evelyn Murphy, not anti-Frank Bellotti," he said, "we're here to support the uncommitted slate because, frankly, we need a candidate to support our needs and our interests."

Sylvia Cuomo, chairwoman of the Amherst Democratic Committee, said she was very pleased with Saturday's turn-out.

"It was good to see more students," she said. "The fact that they've become more politically active [in Amherst] is a plus."

Stan Rosenberg (D-Amherst) said that Saturday's caucus was one of the most exciting ones Amherst has ever had.

"The speeches were stimulating and the number, diversity and student participation was great," he said.

Because candidates are not specific on issues including higher education, Rosenberg said the Democrats need to concentrate and hammer out a clear agenda. "The party still has serious work to do," he said.

There were no vocal supporters of other gubernatorial candidates. One poster for candidate John Silber, Boston University president, was posted in the lobby, but no Silber supporters ran for delegate slots.

Cuomo said she believes that some Francis Bellotti supporters may have run on the uncommitted slate.

JOIN IN THE EXCITEMENT OF SORORITY RUSH HOUR!

DON'T LET IT PASS YOU BY
RUSH ORIENTATION: February 6th 6:00 p.m. Campus Center 163

ALL UNIVERSITY MEN
DELTA CHI FRATERNITY
OPEN RUSH TONIGHT 8PM
Rush Dates: Mon.2/5, Tue.2/6, Wed.2/7
FOR MORE INFO CHECK THE PERSONALS DAILY!
Delta Chi
118 Sunset Ave
call 549 6505 for rides & info
ΔΧ

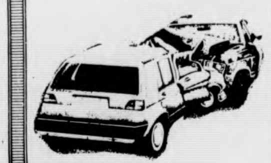
AN EVENING WITH

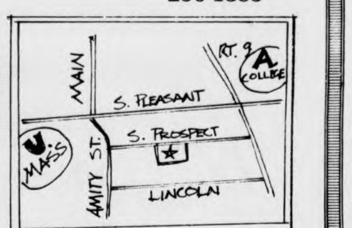
UPC PRODUCTIONS
the The

VERSUS THE WORLD
TONIGHT 8pm
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
$7 UMASS STUDENTS
$10 GENERAL PUBLIC
TICKETS ON SALE AT TIX UNLIMITED/ CUB, FOR THE RECORD/FACES IN AMHERST AND MAIN ST. RECORDS.

STEINBECK COLLISION REPAIR & AUTOBODY

53 So. Prospect — Amherst Center
256-8157 256-1385





- Imports & other unibody vehicles are our specialty
- State of art equipment for precision frame and unibody straightening (+ or - ½ mm)
- Over 90 years staff experience
- Accepted by all insurance companies for collision repair or glass replacement
- Advanced European Technology Painting and Refinishing Systems

REMEMBER it's your car and your choice of repair facilities

NOW OPEN
IN AMHERST

WHALEN STATIONERS
40 MAIN STREET
(across from Town Hall)
256-3120

College Supplies

Large selection fo writing instruments
Computer paper and ribbons
Dayrunner organizers
Resume and thesis papers, binders
Office products

"Serving the Five College Area
since 1958"

AIM HIGH

IF YOU'RE THINKING SCIENCE OR ENGINEERING, THINK AIR FORCE ROTC.

College is where your education in science or engineering reaches new heights.

Air Force ROTC can take that education even higher – into satellite, laser or other technologies that become the focus of your career upon graduation. You may also qualify for two- through four-year scholarships that help defray your college costs and provide you with $100 each academic month tax-free.

If you're thinking technology, think Air Force ROTC. Call

AIR FORCE ROTC
413-545-2437

AIR FORCE ROTC
Leadership Excellence Starts Here

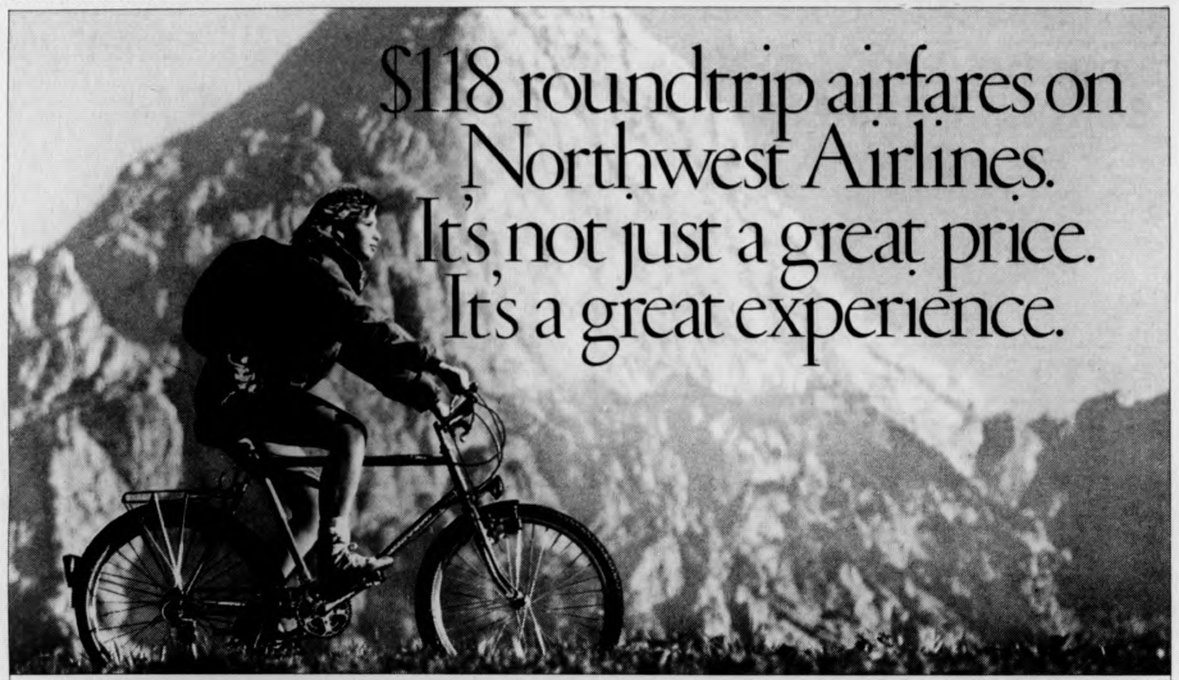
THE GYM IS A COMPLETE WEIGHTLIFTING CLUB FOR MEN & WOMEN!

Featuring over 10,000 pounds of weights, exercise machines, nautilus machines, bikes, rowers, climbers and full locker and shower facilities!

We also offer tanning and coming in February—AEROBICS!

The GYM
at mountain farms mall
Rte. 9 on the
Amherst/Hadley Line

EASY TO GET TO BY CAR OR BUS!
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!



$118 roundtrip airfares on Northwest Airlines.
It's not just a great price.
It's a great experience.

Only for student American Express® Cardmembers.

Apply for the American Express® Card. Then get ready to take off. In search of adventure, action–or just simply to escape.

American Express and Northwest Airlines have arranged these extraordinary travel privileges on Northwest–exclusively for student Cardmembers:

■ CERTIFICATES VALID FOR THE PURCHASE OF TWO $118 ROUNDTRIP TICKETS—to many of the more than 180 cities in the 48 contiguous United States served by Northwest. Each certificate is good for a six-month period, and they will arrive within six weeks after you receive the Card. Current Cardmembers will automatically receive their $118 certificates by March 15, 1990 provided they are still full time students.*

■ 10% OFF ANY NORTHWEST FLIGHT—with your own personalized discount card, valid through January 1991 on all Northwest and Northwest Airlink flights. (This discount is not applicable to the $118 student certificates and other certificates, promotional or special status airfares.)

■ 2,500 BONUS MILES TOWARDS FREE TRAVEL—when you enroll in Northwest's WorldPerks® Free Travel Program.

AND NOW BECOMING A CARDMEMBER IS AS EASY AS A TELEPHONE CALL. Just pick up the phone, call 1-800-942-AMEX, and talk to us. We'll take your application and begin to process it immediately. (If you have your banking information handy, like your account number and bank address, it will help speed the process.)

Keep in mind that our Automatic Acceptance Program makes it easier for you to become a Cardmember now, as a student, than it will ever be again.

And remember that as a Cardmember you'll enjoy all the exceptional benefits and personal service you would expect from American Express.

So don't miss out on a world of great experiences. Pick up the phone. Apply for the Card. And start packing!

Membership Has Its Privileges®

APPLY TODAY
1-800-942-AMEX

TRAVEL RELATED SERVICES
An American Express company

NORTHWEST AIRLINES

*If you are already a student American Express Cardmember and have a question about this program, please send your written question, a copy of your student ID and class schedule to: American Express, P.O. Box 35029, Attn: Student Marketing, Greensboro, NC 27425. Fare is for roundtrip travel on Northwest Airlines. Tickets must be purchased within 24 hours after making reservations. Fares are nonrefundable and no itinerary changes may be made after purchase. Seats at this fare are limited and may not be available when you call. Travel must originate by certificate expiration date and be completed within 60 days of that date. Travel may not be available between cities to which Northwest does not have published routings. City fuel surcharges not included in fare from Boston ($2.50), Chicago ($5.00), Denver ($2.00) and Florida cities ($2.00). Certain blackout dates and other restrictions may apply. For complete offer details, call 1-800-942-AMEX. ©1990 American Express Travel Related Services Company, Inc.

THE AMERICAN EXPRESS® CARD. FOR STUDENTS MORE THAN EVER.

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted

From golden arches to points of light

The bomb has been dropped. Communism will soon be vanquished.

But not because of a year of revolution in the Eastern Bloc and the tumbling of the Berlin Wall. No, the sheer will of millions who have struggled to overcome oppression throughout the world is not good enough. But fear not, there is something even more powerful, and now it has made its way into the heart of the world's communism capital.

Capitalism's secret weapon: the "Beeg Mak" attack.

Yes, it took 14 years of the most intense and volatile negotiations since Yalta, but it finally happened. Last week, the free world struck a soon-to-be fatal blow into the "Evil Empire." McDonald's opened in Moscow.

On a cold, gray morning, the shiny golden arches were unveiled and by 10 a.m. there was a line of people 500 yards long waiting to grab a taste of dvoini gamburger (double hamburger), kartofel-free (french fries), "feelay-oh-fish," and the Bolshoi Mak.

As recorded by the Washington Post, a factory worker named Mikhail Negilko stood outside Moscow's newest restaurant waving three McDonald's flags while he rallied the burger-hungry supporters and silenced the skeptics.

"Tell us, what is this Beeg Mak?" an old woman shouted.

"The Bolshoi Mak, comrades," Negilko began, but then, with the thought of those two all-beef patties, his tingling taste buds overcame him and he was silent for a second.

"The Bolshoi Mak is like something you've never tasted before," he finally said. "You take a bun, a very tasty bun, and you cut it in half. Then you add some grilled meat, top quality meat, mind you, not like the meat we get here. Then cheese, then very many vitamins and . . . you add some spinach. And that, comrades, is the Bolshoi Mak."

Bob Bobala

Evidently, Muscovites were convinced. Militiamen stood by to prevent a riot as the line swelled to several thousand people who waited for hours to get a hold of a Bolshoi Mak on the first day the grills were turned on. And all this took place only three blocks from the Kremlin. No wonder the hardliners are giving Gorbachev a tough time.

"Who cares how long we have to wait," said Viktor Kondratyev, a Soviet worker. "We're used to standing in line."

That they are. The Soviet Union has grown notorious not only for its long food lines but for its slow service at restaurants with limited menus. A clash between this fast-food franchise and those in the Soviet Union who are adverse to fast change is imminent.

But we all know who will win. First came Pepsi, now the Beeg Mak. What's next? Ben & Jerry's? Bartles & Jaymes? Or are they already there?

Capitalism will triumph. If the government invested a few million in McDonald's we could pull all our troops out of Europe. We could become allies with the Soviet Union. United in french fries, soft drinks, and McNuggets.

Next will come Nintendo. Then thirtysomething. Then politicians that need to raise $20,000 a day to finance television campaigns that keep them in jobs that pay less than $100,000 a year. Then a savings and loan system that collapses. And then a thousand points of light and so on and so forth until the Soviet people finally live through everything we've been through in the past three decades and finally catch up with us.

"Finding a decent place to eat is one of our biggest problems," said Gena Popov, an auto mechanic. "This looks different just from the outside. Everything is so clean and bright."

Sure, for now. But what little do they know. May God have mercy on them and may they enjoy their Beeg Maks while they can.

Bob Bobala is a Collegian columnist

Set thermostat to diversity

When I heard that Gorman Residence Hall was to begin a cultural diversity program, I was delighted. However, I was not aware that Gorman was intending to go as far as to match the culture with its native climate.

Steven Brykman

Apparently, my roommate and I have been placed into the American Eskimo room.

I arrived at this logical conclusion after days of pondering why our heater refuses to give off heat. "That's it," I finally realized. "Brian," I declared to my roommate, "welcome to the Eskimo room."

As neither my roommate or I are American Eskimos, this housing placement has caused us some distress. We had no idea why we were placed in the American Eskimo room. That is, until my roommate remembered that he had filled out a Gorman cultural diversity questionnaire on which he was asked: "What is the capital of Greenland?" He knew the answer — Godthaab.

"Oh no!" I shouted, "You must've been the only kcumhcs (Eskimo word) who knew that!" We soon learned we were right.

The future inhabitants of the American Eskimo room were to be designated based upon who could correctly answer the most questions about Greenland.

We have tried to live up to our placement's requirements. We bought big fish. We started wearing huge coats with fur around the hood. We even covered the floor and walls with fake snow and called the local taxidermist about the possibility of purchasing a stuffed polar bear. He said he didn't have any, but said he could sell us a dead sea elephant real cheap.

We have tried to cooperate with the Gorman house council's progressive ideas. Two days ago, we broke down.

We called the physical plant. "We got no heat," I politely told them. "That's 'cause you're in the American Eskimo room," they politely replied, "What'd you expect?"

I told them that we didn't want to be in the room any longer, and besides, we were running out of fish for the sea elephant.

They said they were sending Jim (name changed to protect the plumber). Soon, Jim arrived. After fifteen minutes of dismantling and remantling the heater, listening and talking to it, Jim finally concluded, "Somethin's f.d somewhere" (this really happened).

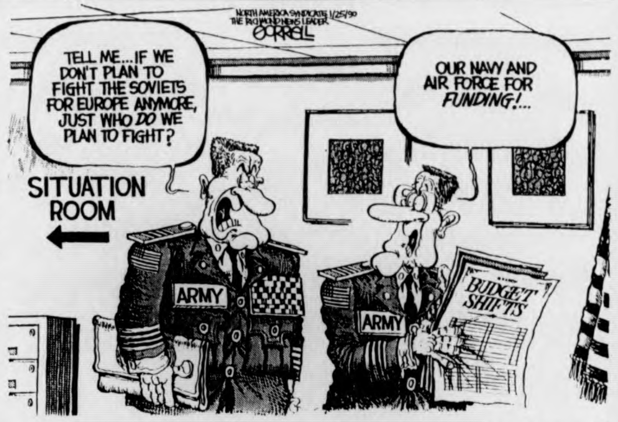
"Wow," my roommate said, "this guy's good." Obviously, only an experienced plumber, seasoned with years of sink unclogging and pipe mending, could have arrived at such an astute deduction with such remarkable speed of thought.

The following day we called the physical plant again. "The plumber's sick," they said. Apparently, Jim's immune system was unaccustomed to the frigid climate of the American Eskimo. The prolonged exposure to the arctic clime must have done him in.

In the meantime, Brian and I have adapted to the harsh environment, become used to sleeping in our furry coats and thermal underwear, taken up ice fishing, and begun renting out space to local fisheries and fruit merchants who use the room as an auxiliary industrial freezer.

Spirit of the American Eskimo, live on!

Steve Brykman is a UMass student.



NORTH AMERICA SYNDICATE 1/25/90
THE RICHMOND NEWS LEADER
GORRELL
TELL ME...IF WE DON'T PLAN TO FIGHT THE SOVIETS FOR EUROPE ANYMORE, JUST WHO DO WE PLAN TO FIGHT?
OUR NAVY AND AIR FORCE FOR FUNDING!...
SITUATION ROOM
ARMY
ARMY
BUDGET SHIFTS

How can communication improve?

In his column ("Whitmore history repeats itself," Feb. 1), Jim Clark reports that he did not become aware of the changes in the General Education requirements which were passed by the Faculty Senate in November until the end of Registration Day.

Communicating mid-year changes in academic requirements to 19,000 undergraduate students in a timely manner is not a simple task, but one that should be taken seriously.

Over the years we have found that the most effective way to communicate new information is to publish it in Registration Notes which is sent to all active students.

Registration Notes: Spring 1990 contained a section entitled "Changes in General Education Requirements" describing those changes approved by the Faculty Senate on Nov. 16,1989.

I am sorry that Mr. Clark overlooked this information and was inconvenienced because of it.

If Mr. Clark, or any other student, has suggestions as to how the administration could more cost effectively communicate such information to the student body, we would be pleased to receive such suggestions.

Norman D. Aitken
Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs

Notes from the Campus Center Basement

Good morning UMass. It's the first Monday of the semester, and what a lovely one it is, eh?

Over the weekend an amazing event occurred. No, it wasn't that George Bush, his cabinet and vice-president Dan-O resigned, that would be awe inspiring.

This was a protest, and it wasn't another "March on Washington." This was believe it or not a march on Moscow. The people of Russia have demanded the Politburo resign, the ruling communist party be restructured, a multiple party system be created, and that some private industry be allowed.

Now that is one big order. Strange thing is I think Gorbachev will give in on all the points. He has already hinted that the Politburo should be scaled down in size.

****

Speaking of George Bush, did y'all watch the State of the Union Address? He spent five minutes explaining that this speech wasn't about the state of the government, but about the union of states in the continent of North America. George then spoke about Eastern Europe for ten minutes. Next. . .

****

The GEO (Graduate Employee Organization) unionization drive is indeed an excellent idea. Graduate students do need to have some voice. But there are two things warranting notice.

First is the flyer put out saying they received a $400 pay cut, and in parenthesis explaining the new fee is just that.

I object to this kind of statement. I had the new fee on my bill too, but since I'm not a Grad student it doesn't count as a pay cut?

Peter Leon

Of course it doesn't. It is an additional expense in my life. My mother isn't paying for school, thus I thank the gods of Financial Aid for declaring my family is indeed poor enough so I can qualify for the emergency waiver . . . and another huge loan.

It seems the GEO would rather play word games instead of just stating the obvious. The amount of money we are now paying is more, yet we have fewer classes available thus equalling a cheap education, and that last adjective is not a reference to any monetary significance.

Second problem worth noting is the threat of a strike. Now usually this is quite a weapon, but when a certain Governor we all know and (ahem) love wants to slash the education budget even more, why not just go after these noise makers. So my advice to the GEO is to be vey careful, right now few people have any bargaining power.

****

Finally someone (Robert Ritchie, of the Mass. Civil Liberties Union) has told Amherst that its bylaw restricting the number of unrelated people living in one dwelling is wrong. This old law is definitely an attempt to help landlords. If after all few people can live together there is a greater need for housing. Isn't the free market system great?

****

Paraphrase of the week: 'and Bobby will be in a race car accident, paralyzed from the waist down and become an advocate for physically impaired people.'

T.V. Guide - previewing some plots planned for The Bradys, airing Friday, I believe.

****

Have a good week everyone. Do your work now, Spring is near.

Peter Leon is a Collegian Columnist

valentine's CARDS & GIFTS

Find it at Faces

amherst/northampton

PARSONS
SCHOOL OF DESIGN

Special Summer Programs

Parsons in Paris June 30-August 13
Paint on the Left Bank, explore prehistoric caves in the Dordogne, visit the masterpieces of renaissance art in Tuscany. Courses include painting, drawing, art history and the liberal arts. Students may choose to spend the last two weeks of the program in the Dordogne or Cortona, Italy.

Photography in Paris June 30-July 30
Study both the aesthetics and the craft of photography in the city that has inspired great photographers for 150 years. Guest lecturers and visits to Parisian galleries supplement the curriculum.

Fashion in Paris June 30-July 30
Study the history and contemporary trends of French fashion design through visits to Parisian museums and costume collections. Guest lecturers and visits to design studios and retail outlets are part of the program, as are daily classes in fashion illustration.

History of Architecture and Decorative Arts in Paris June 30-July 30
Offered in collaboration with the renowned Museé des Arts Décoratifs, this program focuses on the history of French architecture and European decorative arts. Excursions to points outside of Paris are included; last summer, students visited Versailles, Vaux le Vicomte and Fontainebleau.

Modern Paris June 30-July 30
Combining architectural history with drawing, this program focuses on the development of Paris in the modern period (1830 to the present).

Paleolithic Art and Archaeology of the Dordogne July 29-August 13
Daily class sessions near the town of Les Eyzies de Tayac, in southwestern France, are devoted to lectures and guided visits to the area's famous and less well-known prehistoric caves, living sites and archaeological excavations.

History of Architecture in Italy July 13-August 11
The architectural heritage of Italy is studied in Rome, Florence and Venice, where on-site presentations are made by Parsons faculty.

History of Architecture and Decorative Arts in Great Britain July 10-August 10
This four-week curriculum, covering the years 1600-1900, is offered in London, with several excursions to nearby towns and country houses.

Graphic Design in Japan July 16-August 14
Design students and professionals will discover the excitement of Japanese advertising and graphic design through workshops, seminars and presentations by internationally known designers. Studio, museum and gallery visits supplement the curriculum, which emphasizes the sources, in the traditional arts, of much contemporary Japanese design.

Parsons in Israel July 23-August 19
Offered in collaboration with Jerusalem's Bezalel Academy of Arts and Design, the program provides an in-depth introduction to major sites of historical importance, to the rudiments of archaeological practice and to techniques of artistic representation.

Parsons in West Africa July 2-August 1 and August 4-August 25
Workshops in ceramics and fibers will introduce students to artists and artisans in several Ivory Coast villages, where these crafts can be studied in their original context. A photography curriculum examines techniques of documentation and reportage in regions of great natural beauty and cultural diversity. The history of African art and architecture also is offered. Additional study in Mali may be taken as a separate option, or as a continuation of the Ivory Coast program.

All programs include round trip airfare, accommodations and land transfers. Academic credit is available to qualified students. For more information, please return the coupon or call:

(212) 741-8975

Parsons School of Design
Office of Special Programs
66 Fifth Avenue, N.Y., N.Y. 10011

Please send information about:

☐ Parsons in Paris
☐ Photography in Paris
☐ Fashion in Paris
☐ Architecture & Decorative Arts in Paris
☐ Modern Paris
☐ Paleolithic Art
☐ Architecture in Italy
☐ Architecture in Great Britain
☐ Graphic Design in Japan
☐ Parsons in Israel
☐ Parsons in West Africa

Name ______________________
Address ______________________
City State Zip

CP 40

Air National Guard part-time membership offers fantastic benefits! Join your local Air Force in Westfield. Several part time jobs available, including aircraft mechanics, medical lab, police, firefighting jobs also available. Other benefits include 100% free college tuition, high pay, G.I. Bill, retirement, free plane travel and more. Men and women without prior service are eligible through age 34. Veterans of all services are usually eligible into their 40's. Call your recruiter to see if you qualify. No obligation, no pressure.

Jobs guaranteed before you enlist.

Call any time, (413) 568-9215 or 1-800-AIR-9151.

MENTAL HEALTH GROUPS
Spring, 1990

Self-Exploration Groups
Tuesday 3:30-5:00 p.m.
Wednesday 3:30-5:00 p.m.
Thursday 3:30-5:00 p.m.

Exploring Lesbian, Gay, Bi-Sexual Identities
Tuesday 7:30-9:00 p.m.

Eating Disorder Group
Tuesday 5-5:30 p.m.

ACOA Groups - in collaboration with Health Education Division
Beginner's groups (Psycho-educational)
Monday 5-5:30
Wednesday 3:30-5:30

Advanced group (Process)
Wednesday 2-3:30

All groups begin in late February and require pre-registration. For information or registration, call 545-2337 or stop by 127 Hills North.

TOWN OF AMHERST
LSSE Leisure Services and Supplemental Education

There's never a trail fee at Cherry Hill Golf Course.

All ages are invited to cross-country ski the scenic meadows and snowy hills of Amherst's Cherry Hill Golf Course with no trail fee this winter. Open 7 days a week (weather permitting) with ski rentals, lessons, refreshments, free parking and a warming hut. For information: 256-4071. For lesson signups: 256-4065.

Welcome Back Students!
Buy 3 months at regular price and Get a Fourth Month Free!

Two new Stairmasters
CLIMB TO POWER!

584-4975

NORTHAMPTON NAUTILUS, INC.
216 North King Street
Northampton

Aerobics•Nautilus•Lifecycles
•Tanning•Free Weights

ARTS & LIVING

Photo courtesy of Epic

The The — Dave, Matt, James and Johnny

The The at SUB tonight

By WILLIAM J GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

There was a moment there when the hopes were dashed, when the scheduled show last semester was cancelled. At the time the Collegian managed to get a phone interview with the near God of angst, The The's Matt Johnson. Unfortunately the notes from those 15 minutes of crackling line and awed listening were lost in some mammoth files. Here's two things that still flicker in memory:

Are you misogynist? - referring to the line "She was lying on her back/ with her legs parted/ squealing like a stuffed pig," from the song "Out of the Blue" off Infected.

"No, I like women a lot actually," to paraphrase. "That song, and others like it, are more about making fun of males. If you really look at the lyrics you'll see that there's no hostility, more an expression of man's confusion and inability to deal with women."

Why did the record company (Epic) only put your mug on the album cover when this latest album is meant to be collaborative

"They didn't, I chose to have it done that way." Long pause.

So what are The The? According to a sticker on the cover of Infected, "Matt Johnson is The The." This notion probably came from the fact that Johnson conceived, composed and played everything on the albums that have made him something close to a living legend, Soul Mining and Infected.

Aside from great titles, what both albums did were express a coming of age, a soft scream and a loud whisper of a personal conflict that many could identify with. It wasn't just the expression of confusion, pain and neurosis that was so good, it was the form of that expression. While drawing too much on synthesized sounds (the only complaint), there was a definite sound there. A sound that was not only remarkably original at the time, but also a subtle undercurrent to the lyrics. And then there's that voice: Johnson can growl like a bear, and at turns whine like a choir girl (sort of).

Mind Bomb, The The's third album, came out late summer and is the obvious extension from Infected. It's more politically aware than his former work, but just as soul searching and good.

Having never toured at all before, Johnson said he tried to put most of his energies into the bands videos, but now The The has Johnny Marr (recently of the Smiths) on guitar, to back up some truly original lyrics for a change. And there's two other guys there as well, so there is a band, so The The is a band, or it's Matt Johnson's band. Whatever, words do no justice. See the show and you'll see why The The is everything to many people.

Tickets are still available at Tix Unlimited, For the Record (Faces-Amherst) and Main St. Records in Northampton; $7 for UMass students, $10 for the rest of you. Show starts at 8 p.m.

"Someday, Someway," Crenshaw will become a pop star

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

Marshall Crenshaw
Iron Horse
Thursday, Feb. 1

Marshall Crenshaw is a bigger rock fan than rock star, and he proved that with his rockin' good time, sold out show Thursday night, in which he payed homage to many of his friends and heroes of the music world.

Opening with Richard Thompson's "Valerie" (from Crenshaw's latest album, Good Evening), Crenshaw went on to cover two songs from Robert Fuller, one from Peter Case ("Steel Strings," off of Crenshaw's Mary Jane and 9 Others), and closed the evening with a rousing rendition of the Who classic "I Can See For Miles."

Not that Crenshaw isn't an accomplished musician in his own right. There are few that can pen a pop hook better, as all five of his albums can attest to. Unfortunately, he has never been able to regain the popularity of his self-titled debut album, which spawned the top 40 hit, "Someday, Someway."

His lack of recent commercial success was apparent Thursday, as songs from his first album ("Mary Anne," "There She Goes Again," "Cynical Girl" and "Rockin' Around in NYC") were greeted with the most enthusiasm by the older crowd, while the newer hits, such as "This Is Easy," received cooler responses.

Crenshaw, a former John Lennon in Beatlemania, was clearly enjoying himself onstage. His left leg often gyrated uncontrollably. Bassist Graham Maby (from Joe Jackson's band), offered strong support vocals and more humor. His head bobbed like a turkey's throughtout the evening.

Drummer extrodinaire Kenny Aaronoff, of John Cougar Mellancamp's band, was like a kid who just got a drum kit for his birthday. A huge smile covered his face as he drew from a bottomless reservoir of energy. His pounding on "I Can See For Miles" would have made Keith Moon proud.

Guitarist/keyboardest Glenn Burtnick also contributed fine backing and harmony vocals. But when he stepped out in the spotlight to sing his "Heartbreak Time," he sounded like a pop metal star trying to sing a ballad. Even Crenshaw and Maby's harmonies couldn't save it.

All in all, the band was extremely tight; rather remarkable for an "all-star band." To paraphrase Quincy Jones, "All egos were checked at the door," as they ripped through Crenshaw's cynical love songs and good time rockers, including "You're My Favorite Waste of Time" and "Whenever You're on My Mind."

The only problem was that the Iron Horse's cafe atmosphere was not conducive to dancing. If ever there was a concert to dance at, this was the one.

Counseling Psychology

Boston-Bouvé College of Human Development Professions at Northeastern University offers part-time and full-time graduate degree programs in the areas of Counseling Psychology. Students may work toward a Master's degree, a Certificate of Advanced Graduate Study, or a Doctoral degree.

All counseling courses are taught by licensed psychologists. Class size is limited to encourage individual participation. The curriculum includes analytical and theoretical courses as well as practice-oriented courses. In addition to classroom work, all programs include applied experience in a supervised clinical environment.

For more information and a free brochure on the Graduate Programs in Counseling Psychology call (617) 437-2708. Or write to Graduate School, Boston-Bouvé College of Human Development Professions, 107 Dockser Hall, Northeastern University, Boston, MA 02115.

Northeastern University

An equal opportunity/affirmative action educational institution and employer.

Auto Glass Center
American & Foreign

- SAME DAY SERVICE
- BILLED DIRECTLY TO INSURANCE COMPANY
- WINDSHIELDS REPLACED

North Amherst Motors
78 Old Sunderland Rd
North Amherst, MA,
549-2880

Most Major Credit Cards Accepted

6¢
Self-Serve Copies

253-2543
220 N. Pleasant

kinko's
the copy center

IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO SKI! AND GET CREDIT FOR IT!

SIGN UP NOW THROUGH 2/6 IN BOYDEN 248 OR ALPINE I OR II. CLASS MEETS WED., THURS., FRI. OR SAT. AT MT. TOM SKI AREA. ONCE A WEEK FOR 4 WEEKS STARTING 2/7. $66.00 FEE DUE ON FIRST DAY, ADDITIONAL $32.00 FOR EQUIPMENT RENTAL. FREE TRANSPORTATION PROVIDED.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL BETSY AT MT. TOM SKI AREA
536-0516
BOYDEN 248 545-2338

RUSH the DUCKS!!
ΔΥ

DELTA UPSILON

INVITES ALL UNIVERSITY MEN to OPEN RUSH

Feb 6th:	9:00 PM
Feb 7th:	9:00 PM
Feb 8th:	7:00 PM
Feb 12th:	9:00 PM
Feb 13th:	9:00 PM
Feb 14th:	7:00 PM

If you have any questions please call us at 549-3831 and ask for Matt or Steve for details, or feel free to come by our house located at 778 North Pleasant St.

WE OFFER
- 24 HOUR KITCHEN
- CATERED FOOD
- GREAT SOCIAL LIFE
- CABLE TV
- ABOVE AVERAGE SCHOLASTICS
- POOL TABLE
- LIFE LONG FRIENDSHIPS
- *STRONG INTRAMURALS

WE'RE CURRENTLY FIRST PLACE IN THE RACE FOR THE OVER ALL INTRAMURAL CHAMPIONSHIP tidbits

Student Affairs Information Services
Information Data Bank
and the
Taped Information Phone Service

QUESTIONS ABOUT ACADEMIC PROCEDURES? We have the answers at the IDB/TIPS!

Call TIPS at 545-1540 and ask for these tapes by number:

1026	Access to your Academic Records
1006	Adding and Dropping Courses
1012	Auditing Courses
1009	Credit Load
1042	Grade Changes
1031	Graduation Requirements
1027	Incompletes
1032	Pass/Fail Option
1033	Repeat Option
1005	Who is my Academic Dean?

If you have further questions call IDB at 545-1555

Information Data Bank (IDB)
Taped Information Phone Service (TIPS)

NEED ANOTHER CLASS OR CREDIT?
THINK IT'S TOO LATE TO REGISTER?
LOOKING FOR A SMALL CLASS?

There are still openings in sections of "The Everyday Life of a College Student."

What is The Everyday Life of A College Student?

A one credit (10 week) course taught by other students in the residence halls meeting once a week 7:00 – 9:00 p.m.

An opportunity to discuss current issues relevant to student life – relationships, communications, friendships, sexuality, date rape, academics, alcohol and drugs, time and stress management, and diversity issues.

Day & Place: There will be 3 sections of this course offered Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays in each of the residential areas. Also, there will be sections offered in the Greek area.

The first class meets the week of February 12th.

NOTE: Steps to take to ADD this course:

- Call 545-0422 the Residential Education Office and find out if space is still available,
- Bring your ADD FORM to the Residential Education Office – 130 Brett House to get the instructor's signature;
- Having completed these steps, you're now in a great small class!

Gallery exhibit focuses on conceptual art; making the extraordinary out of the ordinary

By KARI J. BODNARCHUK
Collegian Correspondent

The objects that comprise the new exhibition at the University Gallery at UMass, entitled, In Site: Five Conceptual Artists from the Bay Area are not out of the ordinary. In fact, they're just the opposite. But it's the way in which the talented artists arrange and experiment with commonplace forms that is intriguing.

The four Bay Area artists — Tom Marioni, Paul Kos, David Ireland and Terry Fox — have individually produced sculptures which test science and the mind. Their works play with the senses, creating sound where none exists, removing it from areas where it would be expected, and even using it in the form of music to create a work. These sculptures deal with the universal, in which the individual is an intricate part.

Paul Kos, in his politically metaphorical sculpture, "Memory Survives Silenced Tongues, 1990," has created a silent bell. The bell consists of a six-foot long pendulum, also known as the clapper or tongue, with a 1000 watt bulb at the base that swings back and forth between two solid-colored walls. Against each wall rests a plate of glass on which is etched the outline of a bell.

As the lit-up tongue sways between the two slabs of glass, the image of bells ringing appears on either wall as the etched pictures on the glass plates cast a constantly changing shadow on the walls.

The sculpture, a metaphor of freedom of speech, was designed and created last November. At that point, the Berlin Wall was still standing, the Eastern block was in existence, freedom of speech was being stifled in China and it was illegal to ring bells in Czechoslovakia. The work was representative of the silence in the East, but since the political scene has changed dramatically since November, the work now stands as a silent reminder of the past and of the present silence that still exists in some countries.

Terry Fox, another Bay Area artist showing in the exhibition, has produced a sculpture which, as opposed to Kos' work, creates sound. The only resemblance between the two is that both works are considered participatory sculpture. Kos' pendulum requires the push of a hand, while Fox's requires an ear.

Three brown beer bottles, seven 1/4' thick clear tubes, two funnels, two steel rods, three clear glass bottles and seven aquarium air pumps are all that make up Fox's sculpture. The bottles, funnels and rods are randomly dispersed throughout a bare room in the gallery, with a tube running by the mouth or end of each object. The air pumps, located in a crawl space above the ceiling, force pressured air through the tubes and the resonant vessels. This action produces a humming sound throughout the room, which constantly changes as the viewer shifts position in the room by walking, squatting and so on.

It's a clever, yet simple creation, and Fox's experimentation with sound, stresses the simplicity of using basic scientific values to induce a reaction that, in today's highly technical world, could be done with the flip of a switch. This exhibit reminds us of our days back in sixth-grade science class.

In a brief statement about the sculpture, Fox explained, "It's a way to produce acoustic sound, to use sound as sculpture and have an object produce its natural frequency without using electronics. The vessels create a certain standing sound wave, depending on their shape and size, which comes alive when one is a part of it or interrupts it."

David Ireland, focussing directly on the institutional theme, has used the gallery itself to mold the pieces which make up his work. He produced these objects by pouring concrete on the steps, around columns and in corners of the Gallery. These blocks, along with several school desks, chairs and a cabinet, ("accessories to learning") are displayed throughout a large room. The desks and chairs, however, are all attached to a wall, which is tilted up against the gallery's walls. The message here is that things may not always be the way they appear. We cannot assume all things are balanced, either in a school environment or across the world. The slanted objects symbolically demonstrate this idea by denying predictability.

The last of the four artists who showed up for this five-man exhibition (one of whom was not able to make it) is Tom Marioni, who has also focussed on the universal, in his, "From China to Czechoslovakia" exhibit. This tableau sculpture is a world map in beer bottles. Made up of 95 bottles (all purchased in Amherst) varying in color and size, this exhibit symbolizes the differing character of each country, from Poland to Munich to the U.S., while also referring to "the inherent role that beer plays in the universal need for social interaction."

There's not much to this exhibit — simply a bunch of beers on a shelf. But for those of you who are only used to seeing such beers as Budweiser and Coors, you might be interested in seeing what people around the globe are accustomed to drinking.

Marioni has several other works on display such as "Pi," a woodblock print which represents the world of science, "Yen," a xeroxed print of the Japanese dollar sign, (a symbol of the world of finance) and "Beauty and Skill ^{5} Art," a feather writing, depicting the Chinese word for beauty and skill, which here becomes art. Also in the exhibit is "Drum Brush Drawing,"which was created by striking drum brushes on sandpaper. This method not only produces a picture, but music as well.

The "In Site" exhibition is on display in the Fine Arts Center, Tuesdays through Fridays from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and Saturdays and Sundays from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Torme and Reddy twin bill rocks FAC

Tomorrow night, legendary performers Mel Torme and Helen Reddy will put on an 8 p.m. show at the UMass Fine Arts Center Concert Hall.

Torme, a two time Grammy winner for best jazz male vocal, is also an accomplished drummer, composer, talk show host, dramatic actor, TV producer and author. He was nominated for an Emmy for best supporting actor. But today he is probably best recognized as the idol of Judge Harry Stone (Harry Anderson) of TV's Night Court.

Photo courtesy of FAC

Mel Torme plays the FAC tomorrow night

Torme will be joined onstage by Don Osborne on drums, John Campbell on piano and Bob Maize on bass.

Helen Reddy, of "I Am Woman" fame, will open for Torme. Besides her 1971 Grammy winning single and women's anthem, Reddy has also sung the hits "Delta Dawn" and "You and Me Against the World." In theater, Reddy has performed in Anything Goes, Call Me Madamr and The Mystery of Edwin Drood.

Reddy will be joined onstage by her husband and musical director Milton Ruth on drums, Bill Breland on bass, Teresa Russell on guitar and Mary Ekler on piano.

Tickets for this rare double bill are available at the Fine Arts Center box office for $25, $23 and $21.

ALLIANCE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Welcome Back to UMASS

For more info call Steve or Pauline 253-7206

WE'RE LOOKING FOR GOOD TEACHERS
And we're willing to pay to get them

For highly qualified applicants willing to commit to teach in our schools for three years, we'll pay all or some of your tuition for the final year of undergraduate or graduate school.

We're especially interested in you if you plan to teach, at any level from pre-K through 12th grade, Math, Science, Reading, Computers, Montessori, Math/Science, Environmental Science.

We offer a wide array of teaching opportunities, from elementary schools specializing in Language Immersion (French, Spanish & German), Arts, Computers, Math/Science, Environmental Sciences, Montessori, or Latin Grammar to high schools specializing in Computers, Math/Science, Law and Public Service, Arts, Engineering, Agribusiness, International Studies and Communications. We'll even have a four year, full-time academically oriented vocational high school.

If you're a good teacher, we'll have a place where you can make a difference.

For more information about our Teacher Tuition Assistance Plan, contact:
The Human Resource Department
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF
KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI
1211 McGee Street, Kansas City, Missouri 64106
(816) 871-7700

Non. Work Study Job Hunting? No Luck Yet?

Attend A JEMS Workshop

Get On The Student Employment Office's Job Matching System

Mark Your Calendar

Workshops will be held February 6th in Rm. 165 and February 7th in Rm. 168C of the Campus Center. Times are: 11:00, 12:30, + 4:00

S.E.O., 243 Whitmore 545-1951

DMR '90

GRADUATE STUDIES IN MANUFACTURING

Interested in manufacturing? Join over 150 other students from engineering, computer science, and business in a multidisciplinary manufacturing program at

GEORGIA TECH

Excellent opportunities for study and research in all phases of manufacturing. Courses and research address intelligent design, sensors and actuators, cell control, communication and networks, system design,supervisory control, planning and scheduling, AI/ES and much more.

Financial Aid is available for top students from all engineering disciplines, computer science, and business. For more information, contact:

Dr. Leon F. McGinnis, Director
Computer Integrated Manufacturing Systems Program
A. French Building, Suite 225
Georgia Institute of Technolgy
Atlanta, GA 30332-0406
404-894-5562
COME BE A RAMBLIN' WRECK!

Half Of This Year's Medical School Class Got There With Our Help.

To study alone for the MCAT's is nearly impossible. To study without Stanley H. Kaplan is simply a bad career move.

Maybe it's our 50 years of experience. Our small classes and advanced teaching methods. Or a research department that reacts to test changes before most companies even know they exist.

Whatever it is, if medicine is in your future, Stanley H. Kaplan can help you start practicing right now.

For information call 800-KAP-TEST and find out more about any of our 135 centers nationwide.

STANLEY H. KAPLAN
Take Kaplan Or Take Your Chances
MCAT Starts Feb. 20th
GRE Starts Feb. 14th
GMAT Starts Feb. 8th
LSAT Begins in March
358 N. Pleasant St. 549-5780

Man does not live by bread sticks alone...

Neither do women or children. That's why we're offering a great special for everyone on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Choose a popular pasta and a savory sauce from our special selection. Includes salad and all the Freddy's famous bread sticks you can eat.

At only
$5.95
it's a deal you can live with.

spaghetti freddy's
That little Italian Place next to the Depot
586-5366
DOWNTOWN NORTHAMPTON

AMHERST CINEMA
The Great Rock & Roll Swindle
A documentary starring The Sex Pistols, Johnny Rotten & Sid Vicious
Friday, Sat. & Sun.
7 & 9 p.m.
M-Th 7:30 p.m.
$2.50 w/student ID

THE WORLD FOR SALE

from NEW YORK	round trips from
LONDON	$338
BERLIN	438
BRUSSELS	398
VIENNA	438
TOKYO	749
CARACAS	318
RIO	730

Taxes not included. Restrictions apply. One ways available. Work/Stud abroadprograms. Int'l Student ID'. EURAIL PASSES ISSUED ON THE SPOT!
FREE Student Travel Catalog
Council Travel
79 So. Pleasant Street
Amherst
413-256-1261

FREE NURSERY • AEROBICS CLASSES • PROGRAMMING FOR ALL AGES •
COMPLETE NAUTILUS WORKOUT ROOM • CARDIOVASCULAR TRAINING CENTER • FOUR RACQUETBALL COURTS
COMPLETELY RENOVATED LOCKER ROOMS • PRO SHOP & CLUB CAFE
3 INDOOR DYNA-TURF TENNIS COURTS • 2 MAGNIFICENT INDOOR CLAY COURTS WORLD RENOWNED TEACHING PROS

WINNERS' ATHLETIC CLUB
Formerly Amherst Racquet and Fitness Center
Established 20 years

"Winners are those people who make a habit of doing the things losers are uncomfortable doing."
-Edward Forman

A New Decade
A New You
A New Us

Students
Join the New
Winner's Athletic Club
4 months for the price of 3
$125
Full Facility Membership
(Valid Student ID required-Valid until February 28, 1990)
Call Today 549-4545
WINNERS' ATHLETIC CLUB
Conveniently located on Rte 116,
4 min North of Rte. 9

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Blossom, Thrive, Flourish.

University of Massachusetts at Amherst
Spring 1990

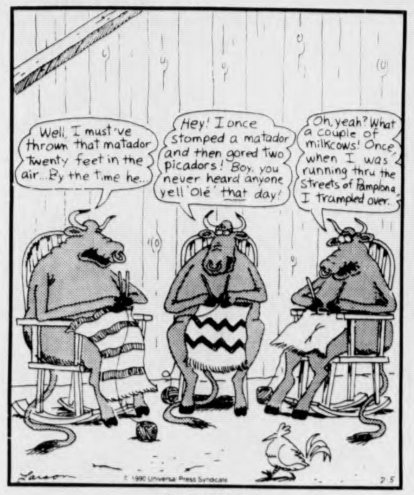
Plant the seed of knowledge this spring at the UMass Division of Continuing Education. Choose from over 100 hardy and fast-sprouting credit courses for a well-rooted and enduring future.

Late register for Continuing Education evening classes or University day classes, on a space-available basis, through February 12 in Room 615 Goodell Building.

For more information, or a free course catalog, call the Division of Continuing Education at 545-2414.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

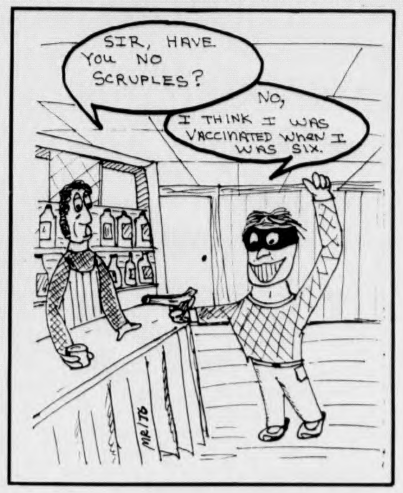
THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



Well, I must've thrown that matador twenty feet in the air... By the time he...
Hey! I once stomped a matador and then gored two picadors! Boy, you never heard anyone yell 'Olé' that day!
Oh, yeah? What a couple of milkcows! Once, when I was running thru the streets of Pamplona, I trampled over...
Larson
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate
2-5

Bullknitters

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG



SIR, HAVE YOU NO SCRUPLES?
NO, I THINK I WAS VACCINATED WHEN I WAS SIX.
MR/76

MENU

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

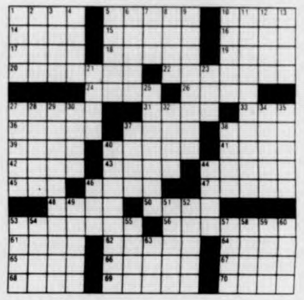
ACROSS
1 Baking chamber
5 Accumulate
10 Flower extract: Var.
14 Hill's partner
15 Columbus caravel
16 The latest thing
17 Viva voce
18 Poisonous snake
19 Wrinkle remover
20 Duplicate
22 E.M. Forster's "A — to India"
24 Monster's loch
26 "Where have you —?"
27 Show pleasure
31 Castle's protector
33 Even up
36 Heavy reading
37 European capital
38 Assist
39 Matterhorn's locale
40 Was overly fond, with "on"
41 Paris phone reply
42 Paddock dweller
43 Oh, dear!
44 Was not well
45 Before lunch or dinner
46 — Bator
47 Bright light
48 Without
50 Travel agent's org.
53 Keyboard instrument
56 Living rooms
61 Employ
62 Skirt features
64 King of comedy
65 Moslem prince
66 Brads and spads
67 Utopia man
68 Plant part
69 Papal cape
70 Scottish slope

DOWN
1 Scent
2 Rhine feeder
3 Smite
4 Relate
5 Swiftly
6 He had the golden touch
7 Conjunction
8 Staircase section
9 Stately court dance
10 Greet the day
11 Italian dance
12 Eager
13 French President Coty
21 Feminine endings
23 Place
25 "The Bartered Bride" composer
27 Postage
28 Grinding tooth
29 Sol Hurok was a memorable one
30 — majesty
32 Raw materials
34 Sicker
35 Lyric poem
37 Gaucho's weapon
38 Greet
40 From the sign: in music
44 A great distance
46 Corn or form starter
49 Ward off
51 Cast by John Wellington Wells
52 Container for cafe
53 Scorch
54 Transport for a VIP
55 Sound from the lion's den
57 Innocent one
58 Whistling swan
59 — avis
60 Snick-a-—
63 Creek

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

G	A	S	E	S	■	O	B	O	E	■	R	A	H	S
I	R	E	N	E	■	D	E	L	A	■	E	R	I	A
E	G	R	E	T	■	E	L	I	S	■	P	E	N	T
S	O	A	R	S	■	■	I	V	Y	■	U	N	D	E
E	N	C	O	U	R	A	G	E	A	N	D	A	I	D
■	■	■	P	O	S	H	■	S	O	I	■	■	■	■
A	L	T	O	■	T	A	T	A	■	T	A	S	T	E
B	I	R	D	S	O	F	A	F	E	A	T	H	E	R
A	S	I	D	E	■	E	N	O	S	■	E	Y	R	E
■	■	■	■	F	A	A	■	D	O	T	S	■	■	■
R	E	P	E	N	T	A	T	L	E	I	S	U	R	E
E	V	I	L	■	U	G	H	■	■	E	N	T	E	R
P	E	A	L	■	L	E	E	S	■	R	E	I	N	A
O	R	N	O	■	I	N	R	E	■	R	E	L	I	T
S	T	O	W	■	P	T	E	R	■	A	R	E	N	O

2/5/90



1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
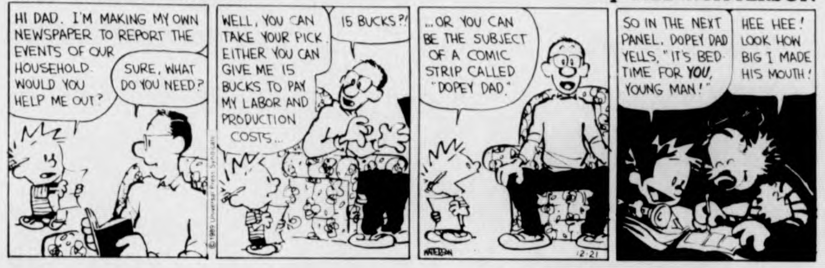
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29
30
31
32
33
34
35
36
37
38
39
40
41
42
43
44
45
46
47
48
49
50
51
52
53
54
55
56
57
58
59
60
61
62
63
64
65
66
67
68
69
70

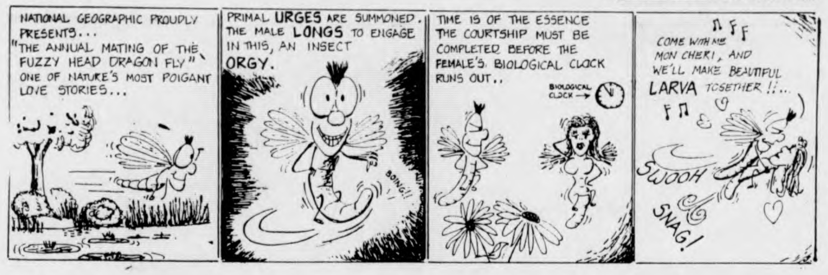
©1990 Los Angeles Times Syndicate 2/5/90

CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



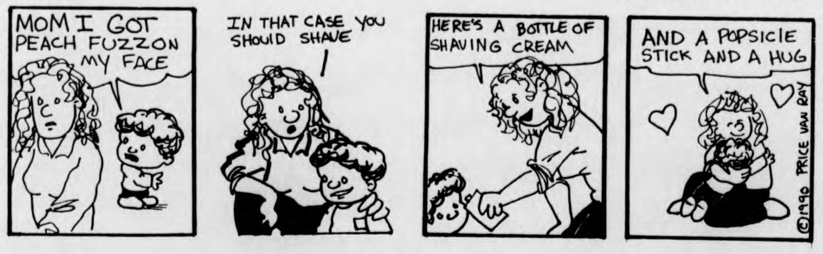
HI DAD. I'M MAKING MY OWN NEWSPAPER TO REPORT THE EVENTS OF OUR HOUSEHOLD. WOULD YOU HELP ME OUT?
SURE, WHAT DO YOU NEED?
WELL, YOU CAN TAKE YOUR PICK. EITHER YOU CAN GIVE ME 15 BUCKS TO PAY MY LABOR AND PRODUCTION COSTS...
15 BUCKS?!
...OR YOU CAN BE THE SUBJECT OF A COMIC STRIP CALLED "DOPEY DAD."
SO IN THE NEXT PANEL, DOPEY DAD YELLS, "IT'S BED TIME FOR YOU, YOUNG MAN!"
HEE HEE! LOOK HOW BIG I MADE HIS MOUTH!
© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate
WATTERSON
12-21

IGGMAN
By DREW AQUILINA



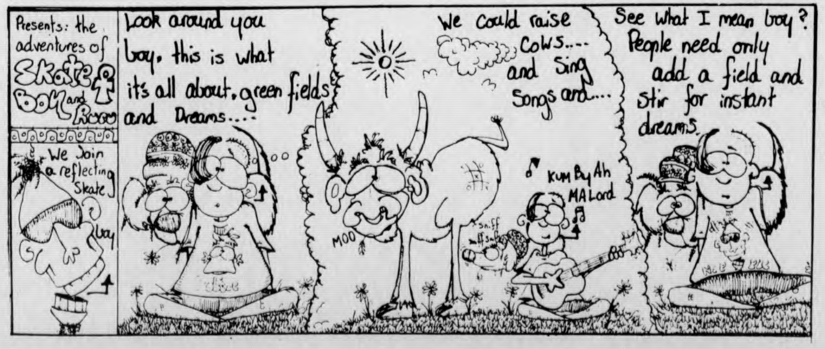
NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC PROUDLY PRESENTS... "THE ANNUAL MATING OF THE FUZZY HEAD DRAGON FLY" ONE OF NATURE'S MOST POIGANT LOVE STORIES...
PRIMAL URGES ARE SUMMONED. THE MALE LONGS TO ENGAGE IN THIS, AN INSECT ORGY.
BOING!!
TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE THE COURTSHIP MUST BE COMPLETED BEFORE THE FEMALE'S BIOLOGICAL CLOCK RUNS OUT..
BIOLOGICAL CLOCK →
COME WITH ME MON CHERI, AND WE'LL MAKE BEAUTIFUL LARVA TOGETHER !!...
SWOOH
SNAG!

PRICE
By PRICE VAN RAY



MOM I GOT PEACH FUZZON MY FACE
IN THAT CASE YOU SHOULD SHAVE
HERE'S A BOTTLE OF SHAVING CREAM
AND A POPSICLE STICK AND A HUG
©1990 PRICE VAN RAY

NIPPLE
By PITT



Presents: the adventures of Skate Boy and Roo
We Join a reflecting Skate
boy
Look around you boy. this is what it's all about. green fields and Dreams....
MOO
We could raise cows.... and Sing Songs and....
KUM By Ah MA Lord
sniff sniff sniff
See what I mean boy? People need only add a field and stir for instant dreams.

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES(March 21-April 19): Major gains are on the horizon but you will have to work longer hours. Complete work projects on time. A hobby could lead to a second income. Keep in touch with parents.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20): Sound advice is yours for the asking. Keep in touch with former employers. Joint endeavors go well but could still slow you down. A bit of mystique makes you more attractive romantically.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20): Let loved ones know how much you care. Help a friend who has a family emergency. Computer courses speed progress at home or at work. Do nothing to upset a sensitive acquaintance or relative.

CANCER(June 21-July 22): A more relaxed atmosphere boosts your productivity. Try to be more flexible with co-workers and family members. A loving gesture quickly heals bruised feelings. Romance should be happy.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22): Your keen intuition helps you make all the right moves today. Your recent indecision comes to an Abrupt end. Productivity rises. Expect a bonus or other award. Romantic partner is supportive.

VIRGO(Aur.23-Sept.22): The fewer personal questions you answer today, the better. Mate helps you find your true purpose in life. Children influence an important decision. Try a new tactic if pursuing a job. Romance beckons.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.220: You play a more important role at work than certain people realize. Turn down invitations that involve spending money. You will not enjoy something you cannot afford. Entertain at home.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21): Investigate stock tips from well-intentioned friends or relatives. A "sure thing" may be anything but. It is only natural to feel ambivalent about a relationship that has had its ups and downs.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21): Business takes a backseat to romance. Your whole world narrows down to just two people. Postpone non-essential appointments. Get away from your home base and do something really different.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19): You will increase your effectiveness by becoming part of a team. Give loved ones the independence they need. A writer has wonderful luck with a first work of fiction.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18): Pursue your goals even if influential business people prove difficult to reach today. Large organizations bring you luck. Romantic partner could set off fireworks. Apologize for making a mistake.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20): Beware of someone who makes promises to extract a favor. Mixing business with pleasure will bring more trouble than happiness now. Turn down any invitation that will cost you money.

TODAY'S STAFF

Night Editor..........George Austin
Copy Editor..........Rory Evans
Layout Technician..........Rick Seto
Photo Technician..........Joel Solomon
Production Supervisor......Michelle Gemme
Typesetter..........Arnold Salvati
Production..........Rick Seto, Nessa Richman, Renee Smith, Mike Scott

Folk singer Schloff mesmerizes crowd

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

Barb Schloff
Iron Horse
Saturday, Feb. 3

This is what a coffeehouse is for.

After opening for many acts at the Iron Horse Cafe, and only demonstrating a glimpse of her talents, rising folk star Barb Schloff was finally the feature act last Saturday. And the acoustic performer's show far exceeded all expectations.

REVIEW

As an opener, Schloff was usually limited to five or six songs and less than half an hour. Although that is more than ample time for people to realize her fine songwriting skills and wonderous, Joni Mitchell-like vocals, it takes a full two hour show to thoroughly enjoy all of fabulous qualities that make up Barb Schloff.

Obviously at ease, Schloff chatted casually with the audience, sharing many amusing anecdotes between songs. She also pulled out some unjustly obscure cover songs that left the crowd mesmerized.

Schloff introduced "Change Partners" as a song "written by Stephen Stills before he, you know, expanded." Her version of Bob Dylan's "Forever Young," stripped of all the unnecessary pop sugar that Rod Stewart added, was sung the way Dylan originally intended. But her angelic voice adds much more beauty to the song than Dylan's nasal twangs.

Her cover of Ferron's "Ain't Life a Brook," about the end of a relationship, was totally captivating. Schloff, with eyes closed, became as lost in the song as the audience. It was the evening's most beautiful moment.

Schloff shared other personal stories. She talked about what it was like recently performing at the University of Northern Michigan, her alma mater, and playing in an auditorium in which she used to take Philosophy 101.

The story segued into "Kites," a "little love song" she wrote in college about a boy she was seeing for a week and was "really in love with." She also played her personal love songs that have become Iron Horse classics, including "Finally Right," "Ray of Hope," "When I Look at You" and "Waiting."

She introduced "Waiting" with a cute story about her niece's friend, Lauren, a girl wise beyond her years, who introduced Schloff to her friends as "a rock star," a label Schloff confirmed as correct to the six-year-olds.

The evening's most chilling moment came during "The Few and the Proud," a song Schloff wrote after Marines were blown up in the Bierut bombing in 1983. The song, which Schloff said took on new meaning for her after the recent Panama invasion, tells why people join the military in the first place; to find a safe passage. "The few and the proud/Get away from the trouble/Away from the unemployment line." It was the only political song the former political science major performed, but it was also her most powerful.

Barb Schloff is currently searching for a record company. If any record executives were at her Saturday night show, they would have signed her on the spot. She was that wonderful.

Newkirk gets funky and raunchy

By NICK OSTIS
Collegian Correspondent

Funk City
Donald Newkirk
CBS
****

Add funkateer Donald Newkirk's name to the combustible mountain of sexy soul-synth serenaders torching the air waves. The theme of these lusty potboilers can be discerned by changing the "n" in Funk City to "c."

Songs like "Sweat You," "Delicious," "I Desire" and "Fanatic Love" graphically chronicle Newkirk's, and his appendage, "Jimmy's," search for carnal satisfaction. A running mock interview between songs offers a dose of comic relief.

"Nasty Fat Nasty" could be the next dance craze, especially if it receives the video treatment, It's funny as hell. Only on "Double Dutch on the Sidewalk" does he address a topic of social concern: the reformation of a troubled young girl. It's potent and sensitive and a wonder there's not more of it.

Newkirk is a talented rogue on the make with a sense of humor and soul in his spine.

The National Student Exchange Program

Will be holding information sessions,
From 4:00-5:00 p.m.,on:

Monday, Feb 5 CC 171-173
Thursday, Feb 8 CC 171-173

Special Notice
University of Virgin Islands,
Formerly a restricted school,
NOW OPEN!

Deadline for applications is March 1

Photo by Ron Pownall

Livingston Taylor

Liv Taylor; a regular guy

By KERRY HERLIHY
Collegian Staff

I hung up the phone, shaking my head and laughing, waiting for Livingston Taylor to call back from his car phone. He said he was driving through a bad area and he didn't want us to get cut off.

As I waited for the folk singer's return call, I realized Livingston will never acquire the "superstar" status, despite his talent as a writer and entertainer. He's just too down to earth and dare I say, ordinary.

When asked about being a superstar, he said,"What is that? I don't know what that is. It's such a silly thing. Artists create this world for themselves and they have to finance it. It costs a lot to finance this stupid behavior."

Taylor, who will be performing a benefit concert for the Northampton Community Playground at Smith College Feb. 14, has been performing since he was 13. He said his family is very musical oriented and his siblings, including his older brother James Taylor, have all released at least one record.

"The reality of it is my parents were very supportive of the lencept of all of us being professional musicians," Taylor said.

During his concert, Liv entertains the crowd with lighthearted anecdotes which turn into songs such as "Doggie Jail," "I Got My Pajamas On" and "Cambridge Kind of Guy." He feels he is a better entertainer now. "I know more and I have a bigger repetoire. Basically, I have more colors on my palate," he said.

"I don't feel I have much impact on the world," Taylor said. "I'm just a guy who goes out and makes a living singing songs."

Taylor's humility is part of his presence on stage. When you go to the concert, it's like going to see an old friend that you haven't seen in a while. Taylor answers all mail from his fans and is very appreciative of his audience.

"I realized in my early thirties that this is something that I am going to do for the rest of my life," Taylor said of his musical career. "I am very grateful to my audience. Making music is a great honor. It is a miraculous thing that people come see me perform. It moves me."

Taylor's theme in his music is the idea of hope prevailing in life. "My theme in my music is basically the triumph of hope over experience. We know that life can be summed up by a downward decline of aging and decay. In the end we probably die, painfully. In spite of this knowledge, even the most intelligent and bright people have hope in their lives," Taylor said. "I think that's something to celebrate."

When discussing his success, Taylor said, "I measure success in terms of contentment and satisfaction with my condition. Right now, success is being aware of problems in my life, coming to an understanding of them and doing something about them."

Livingston Taylor does not want to bring about a political or social revolution, he just wants to entertain people with his music. "I hope people feel a little better for having come to my show," he said.

Tickets for Liv's upcoming show on Feb. 14, at Sage Hall can be purchased at For the Record, Amherst College Campus Center, Broadside Books, Hampshire Council for Children Office, Main Street Cleaners and Northampton & World Eye Books

charlie's

1 Pray St., Amherst—549-5403 • Open 11 a.m
7 Days A Week • Call for Take Out
Kitchen Open 'till midnight

New Game Room with 2 Pool Tables

Tonight 10¢ Mozzarella Sticks
9:00 PM - 12:00 AM

Drink of the Week
Rum & Coke $1.75

Beer of the Month
Molson Bottles $1.75

FOOD GIVE-A-WAYS
Tues. 10¢ Buffalo Wings 9-12
Wed. 99¢ Nacho & Cheese Platters and 25¢ Cheese Pizza Silces 9-12
Sunday 10¢ Potato Skins 9-12

■ men's gymnastics

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

For Kent State, the long flight from Ohio was worthwhile. Kent was led in scoring by Matt Landress (53.5), and Derek Kish (53.2).

Cortland, last season's Division II national champion, was led by junior co-captain Gregg Curtis, whose 54.55 led all comers. Jeff Denney checked in at 52.15 for Cortland.

"Even though we had a couple of misses on high bar, Jeff Denney and Mark Headd still came through big for us in that event," Curtis said.

"We like to get charged up for our meets," Curtis continued. "With only nine or 10 meets a year, we want to go out and get a little nutty," he said, referring to Cortland's enthusiasm.

"We knew if we went into the final event a little bit behind, we'd still be in good shape," Cortland Coach Eric Malmberg said. "This year, our last two or three events have been very consistent.

"We were interested in coming into a quad-meet against good competition and doing will," continued Malmberg. "Our enthusiasm really helped to give us more focus and concentration."

Although Vermont is not in a league with the other three teams, Coach Gary Bruening was encouraged by his team's performance.

"As a team, we've never consistently been able to break 200 — we'd like to aim for that," Bruening said. "If we simply hit the routines we've been working on in practice, we'll continue to improve."

As for UMass, the Minutemen need to return to basics and work hard in practice.

"It's hard to go all out in practice every day; yet sometimes that's what you need to do win," freshman Rob Thomas said. "We just have to do a lot of routines in practice to get consistent."

The Minutemen will return to action on Feb. 10 against M.I.T. at Boyden Gymnastics Center. Until then, as senior Carl Russ said, "We just have to keep plugging away."

Collegian photo by Joel Solomon

Freshman Mitch Hall performs his pommel horse routine during Saturday's quad-meet at the Boyden Gymnastics Center.

■ men's swimming

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

meet of the season. Dan Benson, Rich House, Bob Tilton and Chris Sullivan ended their season with stellar outings. House, Tilton and Sullivan all had lifetime bests in their events on Saturday.

In the 100-yard breaststroke, House finished with a 1:03.01. Tilton, a senior, came in at 2:07.82 in the 200 butterfly. Sullivan's time in the 200 freestyle was 1:51.92, and 5:04.22 in the 500 freestyle. Benson's times may not have been his all-time best, but nevertheless he had a great day as well in both the 50- and 100-yard freestyle sprints. All four swimmers shaved for the meet.

"I was really pleased with their performance," said Yarworth. "It just proves that everything will click. As a coach, I know that the program is working. Sometimes, as athletes, they don't get that feeling. This kind of day gives them an extra boost."

Yarworth is not the only one who is seeing positive results.

"We had an all around good show," said senior diver Dan Chesnicka. "We really came together as a team. We had a lot of support for the guys who shaved. They swam their heads out."

In the best swim of the meet, the 200-yard freestyle, Brian McIver cruised to an easy victory with a 1:41.53 time.

"That is a stupendous time for him. It's only a second off his best time at 1:40. He's swimming great at this point in the season," said Yarworth.

Other outstanding performances were by Jay Peluso in the 200-yard breaststroke, and by Jim Gregg in the 50-yard freestyle. Gregg's performance was also a career high at 22.11. Chesnicka had a fine day as well, winning both diving events.

"I'm really pleased with the way we swam," said Yarworth. "It was a good indication of how we will in the post-season. These guys have won three New England Championships in a row, and they will win a fourth."

■ women's swimming

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

said.

With the exception of Theresa Jacobs, Lori Sheehan, and the performance of Leslie Cromwell in the breaststroke, the Minutewomen came home from Durham with very few highlights.

Jacobs swam season-best times in the 200-meter freestyle, and a personal-best time in the 100-meter butterfly. Sheehan qualified for the New England championships in the 100- and 50-meter freestyle.

"We are just looking forward to finishing up the regular season against Mt. Holyoke on Tuesday, and resting for the New England championships," Newcomb said.

Atlantic 10 Standings

Through last night's games:	A-10	Overall
Temple	9-2	11-8
Penn State	7-3	13-5
Rhode Island	7-3	11-8
Rutgers	7-3	11-10
UMass	7-4	11-8
West Virginia	7-4	12-8
George Washington	3-8	9-12
St. Joseph's	2-8	6-12
St. Bonaventure	2-8	4-14
Duquesne	2-10	3-18

Saturday, Feb. 3
UMass, 78, Duquesne 72
Geo. Wash. 83, St. Bonaventure 79
Penn State 92, St. Joseph's 72
Rhode Island 86, Temple 70

Sunday, Feb. 4
Rutgers 77, West Virginia 72

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8:30-3:30,FRI 8:30-2:30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE, 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

ASIAN AMERICAN STUDENTS' Association meeting tonight, 6:30 UACC/Knowlton New members welcome.

HILLEL SPONSORED "Welcome back from Israel" party Feb. 6 7:30 Dukes Rm (SU 310) Ever been to Israel? Come meet others.

INTERESTED IN TRAVEL & Tourism Join TTRA Come Mon. Feb. 5 at 6 PM in Flint Lab. All are welcome!

LEISURE STUDIES AND RESOURCES Society. Are you interested in outdoor and commercial recreation? Meeting: February 12, 7:00 PM Hills North.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS MEETING Important meeting Monday Feb 5 at 7:30 Herter 201 For more info call Jill 6-4006

VIETNAMESE STUDENTS ASSOCIATION First general meeting tonight 8:00 PM UACC-Knowlton
Welcome back party; T-shirts; and much more

ANNOUNCEMENTS

RUSH DELTA CHI!
Information night-118 Sunset Ave. Just past College Pizza-Tonight-8 PM Go Greek for the experience of a lifetime! 549-6505

INTERESTED IN Christian Fellowship? THE ALLIANCE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP WELCOMES YOU! More info: Call Pauline or Steve 253-7206.

BED AND BREAKFAST Downtown Amherst 549-5961.

WHAT'S CASH FOR GOLD? We will pay immediate cash for your gold in any form. Free quote. 256-0842

ATTENTION

DO YOU REMEMBER leaving a note on white Honda last September in Townhouse visitor parking? Please call 549-4387.

AUTO FOR SALE

1977 CHEVROLET CAPRICE needs work $700 or B/O 549-4786 Ask for Julie

1980 DODGE COLT WAGON-Re-built engine, dependable, good tires. $500/B.O. 549-4758

1982 DODGE OMNI 600 or B/O 774-3102

1982 MAZDA GLC
Looks good Runs great
93K $1800 or BO
Call 253-7742 Leave message

78 VW SCIROCCO, Well maintained, rust, runs great, $995. Please call 256-8077.

IS IT TRUE.......... Jeeps for $44 through the Government? Call for facts! 1-708-742-1142 Ext 5931A

1985 MAZDA 626 Goodies include air, defogger, new muffler, battery & tires; just tuned; moon roof, body in great shape. $3200 as is-100,000-it'll eventually need work. Call 5-2934.

CUT YOUR PHONE BILL IN HALF

CALLING 508 AND 617. Join the Fone Home Club. Call now! 549-3737.

FOR SALE

1 WAY TICKET to Gainesville FL Sp Break 534-9041 Bill

COMPUTER AMIGA 1000, High graphics, stereo, 3 disk drives, 2½ meg board, mouse, and many many programs asking $1350 call Susan 253-2566

GROW LIGHT 1000 watts $135 or best offer 585-0754 John

IRRESISTIBLE DWARF LOP BUNNIES Housebreakable; Rare Colors 584-4960.

ORGANIC 261 & 263 Text Lab Workbook $82 - Zoology 521 Text $38- Michelle 546-3251.

RCA TERMINAL. Perfect for use with Cyber. Monitor and keyboard. $150 Pete 5-4784

SNOWBOARD 1989 GNU $225 Nordica NR990 8½ $110 Raichle RX560 8½ $65 Need Money, Young 546-6129

WATERBED 250
Stereo 150
Commodore
584-4568

HELP WANTED

"ATTENTION": Earn money typing at home! 32,000/yr. income potential. Details, 1-602-838-8885 Ext. T-7627

"ATTENTION": Easy work excellent pay! Assemble products at home. Details, 1-602-838-8885 Ext. W-7627.

COINS 501 TUTOR sought for totally clueless student. 2-3 hrs. a week fee negotiable Call 6-6975 nights before midnight. HELP!

HOUSE CLEANER RESPONSIBLE References. Your schedule. Bus line. $6 549-0413

MODEL SEARCH—No experience necessary. Male and Female 562-9048 or 1-401-723-2900.

PEOPLE'S MARKET Student Co-op is hiring! Applications available now. A great place to work!

PREMIERING UNIVERSITY'S STARS Summer Counselors, Student Admissions Representatives, Tour Guides. Applications at University Admissions Center.

REAL ESTATE—Established agency seeks enthusiastic people for sales. Start parttime now and be ready for spring selling season! Call Kathy Borawski 584-5555.

ATTENTION: EXCELLENT INCOME for home assembly work. Info. call 504-646-1700 Dept. P1307.

LOST

I LOST A SMALL Multi-colored wallet last Wednesday night at Twisters. Inside were bank card, credit card and license. If you find it please call me at 256-8845. Reward for any information and no questions asked.

LOST DECEMBER GOLD Continent Axcess watch possibly Bartlett? Please call Maria 546-9350

SMALL CRYSTAL IN dragon's claw behind the SOM building near Mahar. Call John at 546-5181

MUSICIANS

WANTED-A SERIOUS Keyboardist or horn player (sax, trumpet) willing to join a band now consisting of a guitarist, bass, and drummer. Musical attitude should be eclectic, and open minded (jazz, fusion, rock, funk, rock & roll, and blues) If interested call Sean 546-6836, Matt 546-6032 or John 253-4014

PERSONALS

AMY BLAKE! Happy 21st Birthday! Let's go uptown. Love, The Girls

GIRL IN GREEN sweater at Tuesday's basketball game - you waved, but we didn't meet. Still interested? I am. Call Tom.

HEY HOLMES Your 21!
Can you believe it? Oh ya that's right - you'll believe anything!
Have a great B-day. Love, Steph and Eric

JEN, HAPPY 21ST Birthday (yesterday). Just wait until the end of the month, then we'll party! Love, Jen

LEE-MING
You make me so happy, I am the luckiest girl to have you in my life! I am still waiting to dance. 1-4-3 Sybill

MS PLANT
Badger and I painted a similar picture simultaneously and independently. It was not a conspiracy but simultaneous response.
Your pal

SHARON, HAPPY 21ST Birthday!!!!!!!!! Finally. Life is going to be so much easier now. We hope it's a very special night. We love you! Amy, Rachel, Missy, Randee, and Lisa

RIDE WANTED

HELP!! RIDE NEEDED To Rochester, NY 2/16 - 2/19. Will pay $$! Please call Michelle 549-6447

RIDE WANTED TO Central Jersey on 2/9 or any weekend. 549-2950

TO NJ OR NYC and back on weekends. Call Steve 549-7432

ROOM FOR RENT

ROOM FOR RENT on bus route Call 253-7172 and leave message

ROOMMATE WANTED

FURNISHED ROOM AVAILABLE in beautiful Apt. Rent-negotiable Call 665-7240 546-4563 Sunderland Female

ONE BEDROOM AVAILABLE in Brittany Manor $245 heat & hot water included. Call after 10 PM 256-3138

PUFFTON VILLAGE - One male roommate. $175/mo. Call 549-7432.

SINGLE AVAILABLE in house on Main St. Bus stop at front door, gas heat. $245 Call Sue 536-2199

ONE ROOMMATE (non-smoker) needed to share bedroom in Squire Village one minute from bus stop DIRT CHEAP! Call anytime 665-3012

NONSMOKING FEMALE needed to share bedroom in Southwood townehouse. Nice place, quiet, new rugs, on bus route, laundry room close by. Call anytime, leave message 549-6075 rent negotiable

WANTED MALE GRAD
Want to share a studio nonsmoker near Amherst town $150 549-1409 any time

RUSH AEPI

WHY ARE THESE nights different than other nights? Feb. 6, 7, 11, 13, 15?

SERVICES

MOVING? HAVE BUS to move you locally. Call Chuck 548-8177

TRAVEL

CANCUN!! Cheap. Reliable-(Better Business Bureau). Act now! 256-0198 Melissa or Cindy

DAYTONA BEACH - $259.00 (quad. occup.) Ten days, March 16-25. Includes transportation and OCEANFRONT, first class hotel. Spring Break '90 World Headquarters. Best location, best hotel, best clubs, best party. Call Yankee Tours M-F 8-6, 1-800-942-8890 for brochure.

GREAT TRIPS! Great prices! Jamaica, Bahamas. Montego Bay, and Nassau. Michelle 546-7781.

GET BURNED in Cancun, Bahamas, Daytona, or Jamaica. Time is running out! Call Janice 549-3934

SPRING BREAK—Can't beat our prices! Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulco, Daytona. Call now for info. Mary or Karen 549-8166.

SPRING BREAK in Cancun only $459 Trips selling fast Reservations due February 14th Call Chris or Amy 549-1856

NASSAU SPRING BREAK '90
Complete from $399
Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235

SPRING BREAK

TIME IS RUNNING OUT! Plan your spring break trip now! Bahamas and Cancun. We have the lowest rates available. Deadline February 10. Don't miss out on all the fun! Call Donna or Lisa at 549-8228.

WANTED

LOOKING FOR A good deal on IBM or IBM compatible. Will pay cash. Bob 549-1473

MARTHA'S VINEYARD-wanted 2 females to share a house for summer-$1600-for info call 6-6087 Ask for Helen

SPORTS

Men's hoop turns back Duquesne, 78-72

Minutemen snap five-game loss streak; face UVM tonight

By GEORGE AUSTIN
Collegian Staff

We are now entering the second week of February. It is early in the year. But it is getting late in the 1990 basketball year for the University of Massachusetts.

And after Saturday's 78-72 win over Duquesne at the Curry Hicks Cage, the Minutemen find themselves in a position that they are not familiar with at this time of the season. UMass is right in the thick of things in the Atlantic 10 Conference.

"The crazy thing is, we're in the hunt," UMass coach John Calipari said. "UMass is never in the hunt this late."

At 7-4 in the conference, the Minutemen are tied for fifth place. But that is deceiving. Three teams, Rutgers (which still has a game to play with the Minutemen Thursday in Piscataway, N.J); Rhode Island; Penn State, are 7-3. West Virginia is 7-4. The Minutemen have URI at the Cage on Feb. 20 and league-leading Temple (9-2) on the 11th.

After tonight's game with Vermont (7:30 p.m., Curry Hicks Cage), the remaining seven games on UMass' schedule are A-10 matchups. Four of them are home games and three are away. The Minutemen can basically control their own destiny.

The win over the Dukes on Saturday got the Minutmen one step in the right direction. Duquesne is the cellar dweller in the A-10 at 2-10. But the Dukes had lost point guard Clayton Adams for nine games. With him back and the leading scorer in the Atlantic 10, Mark Stevenson, Duquesne could figure to be a spoiler down the stretch.

"They're [the Dukes] playing as well as anyone in the league right now and I'm just glad we beat them," Calipari said.

The Minutmen held Stevenson (27.4 points per-game) to 32 which is not bad considering West Virginia held him to 43 last week as the Mountaineers escaped with a one-point win in its own building. Calipari was content to give Stevenson what he wanted. It was Brian Anselmino that Calipari wanted to stop.

"The biggest key for the game was defense," Calipari said. "We gave Stevenson 32, but we made him work hard for it."

Anselmino finished with an inconsequential six points as Tony Barbee and William Herndon, who was starting in place of Harper Williams (sprained ankle), limited Anselmino. The only problem was offensive rebounds, of which Duquesne got 15. "If we continue to do that [allow a lot of offensive rebounds], it's going to be a long eight games." The Minutemen are off to their best start ever in the Atlantic 10. Their 11-8 overall record is the best start for a UMass team since the 1975-76 season.

Minutemen, 78-72

Massachusetts (78): Tony Barbee 7-12 6-7 20; William Herndon 6-9 2-2 14; John Tate 2-4 1-2 5; Cary Herer 1-4 1-3 3; Jim McCoy 6-14 8-9 20; Tommy Pace 1-2 0-0 2; Rafer Giles 5-10 3-4 14; Anton Brown 0-2 0-0 0. Totals: 28-57 21-27 78.

Duquesne (72): Brian Anselmino 2-7 2-2 6; Mark Stevenson 12-23 7-9 32; Shawn Kelly 1-3 0-2 2; Clayton Adams 4-7 1-3 9; Tony Petrarca 7-12 2-4 23; Brett Paige 0-0 0-1 0; Thomas Keegan 0-0 0-0 0; William Schohn 0-1 0-0 0. Totals: 26-53 12-21 72.

Three-point goals: Massachusetts 1-5 (Barbee 0-1, McCoy 0-1, Giles 1-3); Duquesne 8-18 (Anselmino 0-3, Stevenson 1-3, Petrarca 7-11, Schohn 0-1). Fouled out: Kelly. Rebounds: Massachusetts 29 (Barbee, Herndon 6); Duquesne 36 (Anselmino 11). Assists: Massachusetts 17 (Herer 5); Duquesne 15 (Adams 8). Total fouls: Massachusetts 19, Duquesne 22. Technical: Barbee. Attendance: 4,024 (sellout).

Collegian photo by Jeff Holland

Sophomore forward William Herndon slams home two of his 14 points in Saturday's 78-72 win over Duquesne at the Cage.

Swimmers split at UNH

● Minutemen blast 'Cats to win 11th straight

By C.J. ABATI
Collegian Staff

As expected the University of Massachusetts men's swimming team defeated the Wildcats from the University of New Hampshire Saturday afternoon.

The surprise was the margin of victory. The Minutemen chalked up their 11th victory of the season with a 217-56 score.

The Wildcats have been plagued with the flu for the past week, and their best swimmer was unable to compete. Despite these excuses, the fact of the matter is that the Wildcats are simply not that good.

"I didn't want to run up the score like that, but there was nothing else I could do," said coach Russ Yarworth. "I talked to their coach before the meet, and talked it over. I had to swim my guys, and he understood that."

Despite the lack of competition from New Hampshire, there was plenty among several members of the Minutemen. Everyone was trying to get the best times of their lives, and many did just that.

For four swimmers, this was the last

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

● Depleted Minutewomen drop close meet

By TAMIR LIPTON
Collegian Staff

In the long season of swimming, through the grinding practices, the long bus rides, and the pressures of everyday life, a team is bound to go suffer an emotional and physical letdown. That time has come for the University of Massachusetts women's swim team.

Saturday the team traveled to Durham, N.H., with a bus load of sick, tired athletes, who were coming off possibly their worst week of practice of the season because of the various injuries and sicknesses. Despite the various ailments, everyone participated in the meet.

"The week took its toll," said UMass coach Bob Newcomb. "We couldn't finish races, the time out of the pool really hurt us," Newcomb said.

The final count read UNH 160, UMass 140. UNH is a greatly improved team, and they happened to catch the Minutewomen at a bad time of the season.

"UNH swam well, and we really didn't swim even close to our best," Newcomb

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

Minutewomen fall, 67-49

By JOHN STEVEN MARPLE
Collegian Staff

When a team is 3-16 (1-10 in the Atlantic 10) and loser of its last 12 games, it looks not so much for W's, but for smaller more attainable things such as playing solid and improving. That's what University of Massachusetts women's basketball coach has begun to do.

Case in point was Saturday night. The Minutewomen lost to Temple University, 67-49 in McGonigle Hall in Philadelphia. Yet after the game Hewelt was pleased with the play of her team.

"I thought we played extremely well." said Hewelt. "The score was not indicative of the game. We played very well for 32 minutes.

The early play was a standoff with UMass holding its last lead at the 9:45 mark, 19-18. However over the next 3:51 the Lady Owls went on a 10-0 run.

"We just couldn't get on track. That stretch really hurt us." said Hewelt.

At the half UMass trailed 33-27. Temple scored the first six points of the second half and kept that 12-point margin for most of the game. At the 3:00 mark the Minutewomen began to foul and the deficit swelled.

Forward Kelly Lane was the main gun for the Lady Owls, scoring 27 points.

"She's just a great player," said Hewelt. "She really kept them in the game early on."

For UMass Michele Pytko broke out of a slump to register 14 points and 10 rebounds.

"It was nice to see her really knock her jump shots down," said Hewelt.

Losing both games of their road trip by a total of 51 points Hewelt felt it was a positive experience for the team.

"I'm very pleased with the trip we had. We loosened up and played well," she said. "We just need everyone to play well at the same time. When that happens we're a good team."

Temple, 67-49

Massachusetts (49): Keyburn McCusker 4-8 2-2 10; Lisa Hair 2-5 1-1 5; Helen Freeman 4-10 6-8 14; Sue Serafini 0-6 0-0 0; Michele Pytko 7-14 0-1 14; Patty Robak ?-4 6; Kim Kristofik 0-0 0-0 0; Jen Olsen 0-0 0-0 0. Totals: 18-47 13-16 49.

Temple (67): Kelly Lane 12-23 3-8 27; Kelly Wickes 1-7 0-0 2; Rhonda Bates 3-4 1-3 7; Dallese Jackson 0-5 0-0 0; Wendee Booher 2-6 0-1 6; Roxanne Hildebrand 6-11 1-3 13; Nikki Inzano 1-1 0-0 2; Margarete Rougier 3-6 0-0 6; Sonya Perry 2-5 0-1 4. Totals: 30-69 5-16 67.

Three-point goals: Massachusetts 0-3 (Serafini 0-2, Pytko 0-1); Temple 2-9 (Wickes 0-3, Booher 2-6).

Women's gymnastics team springs past Yale

By CHRIS MIRACLE
Collegian Staff

The cards are certainly in favor of the University of Massachusetts women's gymnastics team this season, as the Minutewomen (3-2, 1-0 in the Atlantic 10 Conference) proved Saturday, dealing Yale University a 178-172.45 loss in New Haven, Conn.

All-arounders Tammy Marshall and Kristin Turmail picked up on their friendly competition which began early in the season. In the vault, Marshall placed first with a 9.55, followed close behind by Turmail's second place of 9.25. On the uneven bars, Turmail had the upper hand, edging out Marshall's 9.1 with her 9.25.

"Tammy did very well at this meet," UMass coach Alfie Mitchell said. "Kristin did a nice job on the vault and bars. She's been having some problems on those events the last two weeks."

Another friendly rivalry may be developing between the Minutewomen's Kim Grady and Erika Baxter. In the floor exercise, Baxter's 9.3 earned her first place followed by Grady's 9.15, while on the balance beam Grady's 9.2 gave her the top spot over Baxter's 9.05.

"As a team I'm definitely pleased with our win, but we performed down to [Yale's] ability," Mitchell said. "We definitely need harder competition."

Totally dominating the meet, UMass had no trouble with the competition as four of the all-arounders placed in the top five. Marshall's individual total of 36.0 bested all gymnasts for first while Grady and Baxter tied for third with a 35.4. Turmail and Erin Klier finished fourth and fifth, repsectively.

"This wasn't one of our better scoring meets, which may have been partly because of the tough New York judges," Mitchell said. "We also might have had a lack of concentration."

Well, the Minutewomen focused enough to come away with the W. Next weekend, UMass will travel again to Connecticut to take on Bridgeport University and Rhode Island College.

"Bridgeport has one great all-arounder who recently had an individual total of 38," Mitchell said. "That will give us something to shoot for."

Men's gymnasts third in quad-meet

By JASON GEORGE
Collegian Staff

Although the season is still young, the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team has already shown a marked lack of consistency.

That lack of consistency reared its head in Saturday's quad-meet at Boyden Gymnastics Center, where the Minutemen lost to Kent State 261.2-256.35 and to Cortland State, 256.9-256.35. The University of Vermont checked in at 198.85 to round out the field.

With a 2-3 record, UMass already has more losses than last season, when they were 9-2 in the regular season.

Senior co-captain John Eggers led UMass by scoring 52.95 in all-around competition. Eggers was also one of the few bright spots for UMass on the high bar, scoring a 9.3. The Minutemen had a slim hold on second place going into that event, but Cortland prevailed there by a score of 44.2-42.85 to edge UMass.

"I was pleased with the high bar, but not with my other five events," Eggers said. "I just wasn't consistent — I didn't hit clean routines."

Eggers searched for a reason to explain his team's struggles. "We're disappointed with where we are right now — there's a lack of push with people in practice," he said. "Our guys have got to realize their potential; the young guys sometimes don't see what's down the road for them."

Freshman Steve Christensen scored a 52.2, while sophomore Cal Booker tallied a 52.0 to help lead UMass.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

WEATHER	NEWS	SPORTS
It's a winter warm-up, with temperatures in the mid-40s and bright sun.	UMass student initiates student volunteer program at VA hospital in Noho. Page 3.	UMass Men's hoop team knocks off non-league foe Vermont. Page 16.

TUESDAY

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1990

COLLEGIAN

VOLUME CXXIV LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 6

Collegian photo by John Woo

TEARS OF LOVE AND RAGE — A welded steel sculpture by Bob Markey symbolizing the plight of captured slaves brought to America on display at the Fauve Gallery in Amherst.

Two men charged, connected with thefts

By ANDREW CANTILLON
Collegian Correspondent
and the Associated Press

A police stakeout this weekend led to the recovery of more than $12,000 in computer equipment alleged to have been stolen from McNamara and Van Meter Residence Halls and the arrests of two Amherst men in connection with the thefts.

Robert W. Gonsalves, 27, and Richard S. Harrigan, 24, both of Riverglade Apartments, pleaded innocent at their arraignment in Northampton District Court yesterday to 16 counts each of breaking and entering and larceny and one count each of receiving stolen property. Both were released on their own recognizance.

According to Larry Holmes, associate director of public safety, the pair were arrested by University of Massachusetts police and detectives Saturday in a truck stopped in a parking lot adjacent to University Drive.

Both men are scheduled to appear at Northampton District Court in mid-March for separate pre-trial hearings.

After the arrests, University detectives recovered from an undisclosed off-campus location more than $12,000 in property identified as allegedly having been stolen from McNamara and Van Meter, Holmes said.

Police have not determined if any of the recovered property was stolen from Fernald Hall, where more than $10,000 in electronic equipment was recently reported stolen between Jan. 28 and 29.

Residents of McNamara and Van Meter have been attempting to identify the recovered property, said Arthur Hilson, director of public safety.

An estimated $21,000 in electronic equipment was reported stolen from the residence halls and Fernald Hall, leaving close to $10,000 worth of equipment still unrecovered, police said.

Police also are investigating if the recovery is related to a similar rash of robberies at Smith College in Northampton.

Rosenberg negates GOP ad

By PRESTON P. FORMAN
Collegian Staff

State Rep. Stan Rosenberg (D-Amherst) in a letter Thursday asked a Republican gubernatorial candidate to stop radio advertisements which claim that the Massachusetts higher education system employs more administrators than teachers.

William Weld, former assistant U.S. attorney general, said in his advertisement: "We've got more administrators than teachers in our state universities. I've got a radical idea: Let's spend our education dollars in the classroom."

Rosenberg said the allegation is dead wrong.

According to figures released by Rosenberg's office, the state's public higher education system employs 1,553 managers and administrators and 9,500 full and part-time teachers.

Rosenberg also cited a U.S. Census Bureau report that said Massachusetts is ranked second lowest in the country in higher education employees per 10,000 citizens.

The state employs 39.5 persons per 10,000 citizens versus a national average of 57.9 employees per 10,000 citizens.

Rosenberg said the radio advertisement could have detrimental long-term effects on education.

"At least to me, this is the first Willie Horton ad of the campaign," Rosenberg said. "With those two sentences he has reached down into the bias against the public higher education system."

But according to Ray Howell, press secretary for the Weld campaign, the advertisements, which aired statewide last week, were geared toward the Saturday Republican caucus and are no longer running.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 12

Mind Bombing the Student Union

By WILLIAM GEORGIADES
Collegian Staff

The The
Student Union Ballroom
Monday, Feb. 5

Smoke filtered in, anticipation soared, the band teased with the opening strains of "Sweet Bird of Truth." And then the man strode out.

Matt Johnson, the epitome of all sincerity in musical expression, strangled his mike and started in on that breathy, growling, moaning, whisper of a scream, as a mixed bag of passionate youth swayed hither and thither, singing every word of every song for what proved to be no more than about an hour and a half of selections from The The's three albums.

And everybody got pretty much what they wanted, needed and expected: a run through of Johnson's favorite songs, sung and played almost exactly as if they were cuts from an album, with five band members playing mime that tune, revved up to an extortionate volume.

But what was one to expect? Breakneck energy, spontaneity, something a little different? This is the first time The The have ever gone on tour, the previous musical expressions being through albums and video only. But what albums they were and Johnson managed to take the near dead before it rose art of video into something uniquely fitting his own power.

And that's what he has. A power and intensity so rare in popular music that it's nearly impossible to listen to any of his work without being infected.

And so it was last night. Johnson's songs are so true that very little can damage their power. Especially when six solidly good musicians are playing them, with the accompaniment of a way slick sound boy, the very author of those tunes breathing down their necks.

So that's the critical part. Over-production. And Johnson's a little too cerebral a stage presence for his tunes. Sexy as all hell, ("take the jacket off" was a suggestion he refused to take) but not the bundle of neurotic energy his studio productions suggest.

To the raving: The band was very, very good. Johnson has assembled a very close to perfect band, including a sick, all muscle bass player, a constantly inventive organ grinder, a mountain of thudding drumming strength, a

CONTINUED ON PAGE 9

Collegian photo by Jason Danziger

"Gonna get angry"

WORLD & NATION

WORLD AND NATION IN BRIEF

Cheney says deal with Soviet military reality, not promises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Richard Cheney said Sunday it "makes no sense" to cut major weapons programs despite political changes in communist countries because "we have to deal with Soviet military capabilities and not just intentions."

Archbishop Tutu appeals to Harvard to divest

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Archbishop Desmond Tutu on Sunday urged fellow members of a Harvard University governing board to back divestment in South Africa until the changes promised by President F.W. de Klerk become reality.

Retirees charged with son's murder in deadly double-cross

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Police say Christopher Morris plotted with his parents to kill his ex-wife to collect $35,000 in insurance. When they found out the policy had lapsed, authorities allege, the parents killed him instead to collect a $70,000 policy.

ALLIANCE
CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

WELCOMES
YOU TO
UMASS

For More Info Call Rick or Jennifer 253-7206

Studds scrutinizes nukes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House panel chaired by U.S. Representative Gerry Studds (D-Mass.) opens hearings today into a Bush administration plan to open its nuclear weapons program to full environmental scrutiny.

Protests accompany Cristiani's visit to son

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Dozens of protestors demonstrated during El Salvadorean President Alfredo Cristiani's weekend stay near Harvard University, where he apparently watched his son play a squash match. His son is a member of the Princeton team.

HUD scandal continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Hamernick, former director of the office of insured multifamily housing, became the fifth former official of the Department of Housing and Urban Development to refuse to testify before congressional investigators.

Family murder in the midwest

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — A gunman with a history of psychiatric problems took four family members hostage early this morning before killing three of them and committing suicide.

Tax subsidies for alcohol Fuels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush Administration is moving ahead with a controversial plan to allow a new corn-based octane enhancer to qualify for a 60-cent-a-gallon tax subsidy for alcohol fuels even though it will cost the Treasury an estimated $192 million in lost revenue over the next three years.

Oil shortage predicted

BOSTON (AP) — An oil shortage similar to the one that caused long lines and high prices at gas stations in the mid-1970s could return unless the United States ends its dependence on foreign fuel, experts said in a report published yesterday.

Reagan ordered to give testimony in Poindexter trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge ordered former President Reagan to give videotaped testimony in the upcoming Iran-Contra trial of his one-time national security advisor, John Poindexter.

Gorbachev calls for change

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev told the Communist Party leadership yesterday that it must give in to the rising demands of the public and relinquish its monopoly on political power.

Czech services broadcast

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — State radio broadcast a regular Mass for the first time in four decades Sunday, and the official news agency said broadcasts of Protestant, Jewish and other Roman Catholic services would follow.

Foreign affairs expert resigns

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Silviu Brucan announced his resignation from the National Salvation Front in a letter to the national news agency Rompres just three days after the front agreed to share power with the opposition parties until May 20 elections.

Yugoslav province rejects national party rule

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Slovenia's liberal Communists on Sunday broke away from the national Communist Party and declared that they no longer recognize the institution that has ruled Yuglolavia since World War II.

Opposition gains eight East German seats

WEST BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Parliament today added eight members of pro-democracy groups to Communist Premier Hans Modrow's government, giving the opposition seats in the Cabinet for the first time in the country's 40-year history.

S. Africa steps towards reform

PAARL, South Africa (AP) — President F.W. de Klerk, in an historic speech on Friday, legalized the African National Congress, placed a moratorium on executions and lifted restrictions on hundreds of individuals and scores of anti-apartheid organizations.

Battle continues in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — General Michel Aoun's paratroopers drove holdouts of a rival Christian militia from a key coastal town north of Beirut in preparation for a final assault to dislodge the militia from the capital.

Israeli tourists attacked

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Two masked men ambushed a busload of Israeli tourists on an isolated desert road and opened fire with machine guns and hand grenades, killing at least nine Israelis and wounding 20 more.

March 3 to 31 and April 7 to 14

BERMUDA COLLEGE WEEKS

Right from the start, the pleasures are nonstop.

Your holiday begins with a day-long Barbecue Bash at beautiful Elbow Beach: dancing, feasting and tanning on soft, pink, sun-splashed sands.

The fun continues with spectacular beach parties featuring Bermuda's top rock, steel and calypso bands. Daily lunches. A limbo festival. An outrageous Party Cruise to magnificent Great Sound. Plus golf, tennis and rugby tournaments—and a "Murder, Mystery and Mayhem" contest that'll have you super-sleuthing. All compliments of Bermuda's Department of Tourism.

Add to that all the things that make Bermuda, Bermuda. British ambiance. Colourful pubs. Whirring about on a moped. Treasure-hunting in our shops. And the special feeling of being separated from everywhere and everything by 600 miles of sea.

This spring, get your R&R on a very special island. Contact your Campus Travel Representative or Travel Agent for Bermuda College Week details.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
COLLEGIAN
113 Campus Center, Amherst, MA, 01003.
Phone (413) 545-3500 FAX (413) 545-1592

STAFF
Editor in Chief........Maria Sacchetti
Managing Editor........George Austin
Editorial Editor........Minu Sebastian
News Editor........Lisa Shapiro
Sports Editor........Jim Clark
Arts Editor........Al Kaufman, Will Georgiades
Photography Editor........Dondi Ahearn
Women's Issues Editor........Danielle Bionda
Multicultural Affairs Editor........Scott C. Hill
Business Manager........Robert J. Bikash
Advertising Manager........Jennifer Ronan
Finance Manager........Martina Rios
Circulation Manager........Chris Baker
Subscription Manager........Joya Faretra
Production Managers........Terry Starmer, Mike Wester
Ad Manager........Rory Evans

PROFESSIONAL STAFF
Business........Brian Harrington, Maureen Majerowski, Lori Black
Graphics........Andrea Belanger

New England's largest college daily newspaper. Circulation: 21,000. Published every weekday of the calendar semester. The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an RSO of the University of Massachusetts.

LOCAL

Student initiates hospital VA program

By DARREN GARNICK
Collegian Staff

Thanks to University of Massachusetts student Christian Carino, volunteering now has academic as well as intrinsic rewards.

Carino, a senior communications major, has designed a one- credit volunteer class, matching students with patients at the Veterans Administration (VA) Medical Center in Northampton.

Students will spend two hours a week interacting with the veterans in a therapy program of their choice, Carino said. Participants can choose to work in areas such as woodworking, graphics arts, photography, small engine repair or horticulture (growing plants).

Tom Conroy, a VA volunteer and a teaching assistant in the UMass English and communication departments, said the horticulture program at the hospital has worked wonders with the patients. He said working in a greenhouse builds self esteem.

"Even a simple thing like digging some dirt and planting a seed is good for a patient," Conroy said. "People plant a seed and watch it grow. At the end, they have a product. Whether it is a plant or vegetable, they can feel that they were responsible."

Conroy said there is a "Very Important Person (VIP)" greenhouse which is specially equipped for physically disabled people. It contains planters on pulleys and shelves at heights accessible to wheelchairs, he said.

According to Dr. James Azar, a counseling psychologist at the VA hospital, the patients, ages 20 to 90, have a wide range of physical and psychological disabilities.

Among those under his care are cases involving depression, anxiety, panic reactions, post-traumatic stress syndrome, alcohol and drug abuse and thought disorders such as schizophrenia, he said.

Conroy, a Vietnam veteran himself, said that students are a breath of fresh air in the hospital.

"A certain positiveness inherent in youth benefits the veterans tremendously," he said.

Azar said student volunteers add a sense of vitality to his therapy programs and they make patients feel valued respected, and appreciated.

However, he said, the benefits are not so one-sided.

"A lot of students, particularly ones interested in counseling and psychology, can get first hand experience working with patients," Azar said.

Interacting with the veterans, Azar added, can help break down the "stigma of the mentally ill" in a student's mind.

"By working with a patient on a particular vocational task," he said, "you have a concrete activity as the focus between you. "When you are doing something together, mastering something together, you focus on what you are doing, rather than on the patient's illness," he said.

Carino's idea for a one-credit class at the hospital stemmed from his long-time interest in volunteering, he said. During high school, Carino donated his time at nursing homes, veterans' hospitals and children's hospitals for mentally ill and cancer patients.

"Helping someone else gives me an inner satisfaction," he said. "When I help someone else less fortunate than I am, I feel good."

Carino set up the course in conjunction with the University Honors department's "Student Initiated Seminar" program. Although the course is sponsored by the Honors Program, one does not have to be an honors student to volunteer, he said.

Anyone interested in participating in the VA Volunteer Program should attend a meeting tomorrow at 4 p.m. in Machmer room E35. Or for more information stop by the Honors office.

Minor arrested for fake ID

By Andrew Cantillion
Collegian Correspondent

Derek M. Silva, 19, of John Adams Residence Hall, was arrested outside of John Adams Friday night on charges of being a minor in possesion of alcohol and possession of false identification, police said.

ACCIDENTS

- A man reported his vehicle parked in E Lot Saturday was struck in the rear quarter panel by an unknown vehicle.
- Daniel S. Roberts, of 353 Pelham Road, was cited for a stop violation after the vehicle he was driving struck a vehicle operated by Kevin McGrath, of John Adams Residence Hall, on North Pleasant St. Sunday morning.

ARRESTS

- Christopher E. Aregan, 19, of New York, was arrested Friday night outside of Kennedy Residence Hall on charges of being a minor transporting alcohol.
- Willie C. Pearson Jr., 29, of Springfield, was arrested Saturday after being stopped on Fearing St. for operating a vehicle without headlights. He was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol and operating without a license.
- Douglas J. Vishaway Jr., 25, of Presidential Apartments was arrested Saturday on North Pleasant St. on charges of operating under the influence of alcohol, operating without a license and for driving an unregistered and uninsured motor vehicle.
- George E. Batchelder Jr., 21, of Lakeville, was arrested in John Quincy Adams Residence Hall Saturday on an outstanding warrant from Lakeville Police.

LARCENY

- A woman reported a window smashed out of her vehicle parked in Lot 32 Friday.
- A man reported a window smashed out of his vehicle parked in E Lot Saturday. A stereo and tapes valued at over $90 were reported stolen.
- A male resident of Grayson Residence Hall reported Saturday that his room was entered and $120 in cash was stolen along with two watches valued at $90.

Amherst awarded grant

College gets funds for training program

By Lori Menard
Collegian Correspondent

Amherst College was awarded a $100,000 grant to form the Gladys Brooks Psychotherapy Fellowship Program, a college-based psychotherapy training program.

Director of the Amherst College Counseling Center, Robert May said the grant, financed by the Gladys Brooks Foundation, could open five new spaces for training psychotherapy students, which would double the current spaces available.

The program brings students to Amherst who have already received a college degree or have had previous clinical experience and allows them to study for one year, he said.

The main objective of the program is to "train psychotherapists to be aware and skilled in dealing with college students," May said.

The training of the fellows involves hands-on counseling experience with college students and also an intensive amount of reading, May said.

He said counselors most often help students deal with anxiety and depression, which mostly stems from students' worries about issues such as their love life, parents, work, grades, and future.

The fellows in the program spend most of their time working with Amherst students because the Amherst College Counseling Center is the core of the program, May said.

However, as an outreach, the fellows are also assigned to clinical posts in the Five College Area.

In addition to these services, the fellowship also seeks to provide better communication and consultation within the five-college community by holding an annual Brooks Fellowship Seminar which includes representatives from the local college mental health services.

Collegian photo by John Woo

THE EASY WAY DOWN — Senior Tom Huott prepares for a smooth landing on the steps near the Campus Center.

Friends remember Galligan at Newman Ctr. service

By SARAH DEMASTER
Collegian Staff

Chi Omega sisters entered the Newman Center chapel yesterday carrying lit candles, as a group of about 300 students, faculty, administrators and law enforcement officials gathered to remember Sharon Galligan.

Father Joseph Quigley, director of the Newman Center, led the service with a prayer which called for people to celebrate Galligan's life and expressed many people's grief at her murder Dec. 18 at the Hampshire Mall.

"We have been stricken by this murderous and heinous assault on a beautiful woman," Quigley said.

While some people cried and hugged each other for support, others listened intently as faculty and friends spoke about Galligan's contribution to each of their lives.

Chief Undergraduate Psychology Advisor Lucille Halgin said, "Sharon was a bright, vivacious, compassionate young woman who gave generously of herself."

A psychology major, Galligan was a member of the National Psychology Honors Society Psi Chi, a teaching assistant for psychology 100 and worked with the mentally ill through the Boltwood Project, Halgin said.

Galligan also assisted psychology Professor Robert Feldman with his research on non-verbal behavior.

Feldman said he was immediately impressed with Galligan's intelligence and her sincere interest in contributing to the field of psychology.

"By every indication, she was the kind of person who would make her mark on the world," Feldman said. "Sharon was smart, intellectually curious, worked hard, and she was motivated. She was a member of society who was already making important contributions in the lives of others."

Chi Omega sisters Lisa Morace and Eleni Kallos read poems in Galligan's honor, after which psychology major Tim Crowell read from a Scripture passage titled, "Wisdom."

Chi Omega House Director Kathy Johnston said several funds have been established in Galligan's honor. Donations to Chi Omega will go toward the purchase of a tree and to the Everywoman's Center.

The Chi Omega alumni and Framingham North High School, Galligan's alma mater, also have established memorial scholarship funds. Donations to the high school fund can be sent to the Sharon Galligan Memorial Scholarship Fund, care of Baybank Middlesex, 1270 Worcester Rd., Framingham, MA, 01701.

GET READY FOR MAY

Other companies talk about being a leader.... May Department Stores Company is the benchmark for that comparison. Sales exceed $11.5 billion annually and May has achieved 14 consecutive years of record sales and earnings. Our talented, innovative team achieved this record.

Others talk about promotion from within.... May does it. We are looking for achievers to join May and continue our record-setting style.

Other retailers are recruiting buyers.... We're looking for vice presidents. We'll provide the coaching, counseling and training to help you reach your potential. Our compensation levels are very aggressive.

We will hire bright, goal-oriented students with strong leadership skills and the proven ability to work with numbers and think analytically. You owe it to yourself to listen to what we can offer YOU.

An Equal Opportunity Employer

Filene's, Boston and G. FOX, Hartford will be recruiting on this campus for positions in our Executive Training Program.

Stop BY and visit with recent alums to discuss career opportunities with MAY.

VISIT US WEDNESDAY

UMASS
SCHOOL of MANAGEMENT
FACULTY LOUNGE
WED FEB 7, 1990
10AM - 4PM.

FILENE'S

G.FOX
A TRADITION OF SATISFACTION

WOMEN'S FORUM

WEDNESDAY,FEBRUARY 7,1990

Women's Studies Brown Bag Lunch Series

The University of Massachusetts Women's Studies Program will be beginning its brown bag lunch speaker series. Each week a different speaker will give an informal preentation on feminst issues. The series is open to all. Students may register at the first brown bag. To earn one credit you nust attend and participate in the entire series. The first meeting will include welcomes and administrative details in the campus center room 174.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1990

Slide Lecture on Goddess Imagery

The Women's Caucus for Art is sponsoring Elinor Gadon who will be giving a slide lecture on the reappearance of goddess imagery in the work of contemporary women artists at Bangs Community Center in Amherst.

Write From the Heart

Local author and teacher Leslea Newman will be offering a new section of What Are You Eating/What's Eating You. This is a support group that uses the tool of creative writing to help women explore issues around body image, eating and food. Topics include hunger, sexuality, needs, anger, mother/daughter relationships, and more. The group will meet on Thursday evenings in Northampton. For more information call 584-3865.

MONDAY,FEBRUARY 12, 1990

Post-Abortion Support Group

A ten week Post-Abortion Support Group will be evenings from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. This group is free and is open to all women in the Five Colleges and the community. This is a pro-choice group, sponsored by the Everywoman's Center, the Abortion Right's Fund of Western Massachusetts, and the Civil Liberties and Public Policy Program of Hampshire College. For more information and registration call the EWC.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1990

Necessities/Necesidades

Volunteers are needed at Necessities/Necesidades, a battered women's organization in Hampshire County to staff the 24-hour hotline, provide counseling, legal/welfare advocacy, and community education. Training begins Februarv 15. Bilingual/Bicultural women are strongly encouraged to apply. Call 586-1125 for more information.

FEBRUARY 15.16,17, and 18, 1990

"Womb for Rent"

The Sleeveless Theatre is returning to the Northampton Center for the Arts at 8 p.m. with "Womb for Rent - A Pro Choice Comedy." "Womb for Rent" is an educational vaudevillian-style revue. Tickets are $5 to $7, sliding scale. Call 586-7282 for reservations.

FEBRUARY 17,1990

Womanshelter Companeras

Womanshelter/Companeras is an agency that provides services to battered women and their children in the Holyoke-Chicopee area. These services include a 24 hour hotline, emergency shelter, legal advocacy, children's programming , counceling, and outreach. Womanshelter is looking for volunteers. The next training begins February 17. For more information call Edie Jennings-Wigfall at 538-9717 or 536-1629.

NON. WORK STUDY JOB HUNTING? NO LUCK YET?

ATTEND A JEMS WORKSHOP

GET ON THE STUDENT EMPLOYMENT OFFICE'S JOB MATCHING SYSTEM

MARK YOUR CALENDAR

Workshops will be held February 6th in Rm. 165 and February 7th in Rm. 168C of the Campus Center. Times are: 11:00, 12:30, + 4:00

SED., 243 Whitmore 545-1951

DMR '90

charlie's

1 Pray St., Amherst—549-5403 • Open 11 a.m.
7 Days A Week • Call for Take Out
Kitchen Open till midnight

New Game Room with 2 Pool Tables
Tonight 10¢ Buffalo Wings
9:00 PM - 12:00 AM

Drink of the Week
Rum & Coke $1.75

Beer of the Month
Molson Bottles $1.75

FOOD GIVE-A-WAYS
Mon. Night 10¢ Mozzarella Sticks 9-12
Wed. 25¢ Pizza Slices & 99¢ Nacho & Cheese Platters 9-12
Sunday Night 10¢ Potato Skins 9-12

THE ONLY PLACE YOU WANT TO BE ON FEBRUARY 6, 7, 13, AND 14 IS 374 NORTH PLEASANT ST. 9:00pm - 11:00pm

THE FRATERNITY OF HONEST FRIENDSHIP

1989 UMASS INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS

DON'T SETTLE FOR ANYTHING LESS

RUSH
LAMBDA CHI

IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO SKI!
AND GET CREDIT FOR IT!

SIGN UP NOW THROUGH 2/6 IN BOYDEN 248 OR ALPINE I OR II. CLASS MEETS WED., THURS., FRI. OR SAT. AT MT. TOM SKI AREA. ONCE A WEEK FOR 4 WEEKS STARTING 2/7. $66.00 FEE DUE ON FIRST DAY, ADDITIONAL $32.00 FOR EQUIPMENT RENTAL. FREE TRANSPORTATION PROVIDED.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL
BETSY AT MT. TOM SKI AREA
536-0516
BOYDEN 248 545-2338

Spectrum magazine
is now accepting SUBMISSIONS
in

Art, Poetry,
Prose & Photo

for the 1990 edition.
SPECTRUM Magazine is the Arts and Literary
magazine at UMASS.
Submissions may be mailed to:
Box 125, Student Activities Office,
Student Union, UMASS
or
brought in person to the SPECTRUM Office,
406E. Student Union.
Please include your name and phone number
Submision Date Feb. 16

DON'T BE SHY

Pi Kappa Alpha
The Brotherhood of Excellence

- No Hazing
- 1989 Winner of the UMASS Silver Chapter Excellence Award
- 1988 and 1989 Greek Area overall athletic champs
- 1988 and 1989 UMASS overall athletic champs
- The largest fraternity on campus
- Over 180 chapters across the country
- Unparalleled social life
- Lifelong Friendships
- Olympic weight room
- Outstanding meal plan

ΠΚΑ

RUSH DATES: FEBRUARY 6, 7, 8, 13, 14 at 8 p.m.

418 North Pleasant St., 545-2150

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The opinions on this page are those of the individual writer or cartoonist and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Collegian or the University unless otherwise noted

Smooth State of Union?

> ...America is the center of a widening circle of freedom . . . the symbolic center of democracy. . .but dreams alone won't get us there.
>
> President Bush

Meredith O'Brien

— Jan. 31, State of the Union Address

Ahhh, the words flowed so easily for George. The days of fragmented sentences and awkwardness have finally passed. Now we know who's in control. Such the eloquent speech he gave. It was inspiring — chuck full of the ideals that all Americans should hold dear to their hearts.

As the President read a letter from a soldier who was among the first to fall during the December invasion of Panama, the words jerked at our heart strings. Private Markwell left a message behind for his parents — a message of hope and bravery that was echoed by his very actions down in Central America.

"He carried the idea of what we call America in his heart," Bush said, adding that Markwell had fought to ensure democracy's advance, to keep our world safe and free.

Bush's soft rhetoric warmed the cockels of everyone's heart. Members of Congress stood up at least 30 times in thunderous applause. Barbara beamed down approvingly from the balcony. The end of George's first year as president — it seemed to be almost a picture-perfect end to the first quarter of his presidency.

But the entire speech seemed like an excerpt from Born on the Fourth of July. I couldn't help but feel as though a crafty, well-trained salesman was trying to pull the wool over my eyes. I felt like I was being sold some cheap words that only sugarcoated cheap promises.

Bush laid out the historic events of 1989. He recalled the success of Solidarity in Poland, Havel's triumph in Czechoslovakia, Panama's newly-found democracy, the opening of the Berlin Wall and East Germany's crushing democracy movement. All of these events, he said, marked a "new era of world affairs."

And the members of Congress wildly applauded.

But what about the massive, dramatic democracy movement in China that was suppressed by brutal, vicious leaders? What about the deaths, and continued torture of dissidents and political activists violating every international human rights tenet? What about the Chinese students currently living in the "center of democracy" whose extended visas were denied by the Bush administration because it would insult the leadership in Beijing?

Rattling off a list of high priorities and "goals" for the Bush administration this year, the President claimed that a concerted effort would be put forth in areas of child care, the environment, illegal drug use, education, bigotry and disability.

He had stated that this would not be a speech about the budgets and numbers. Well, that's encouraging. I had begun to think that Bush was lacking in his mathematical abilities. Somehow his monstrous budget of $1.23 trillion would not even begin to cover all of the "goals" for the country in 1990.

His proposed budget only increases the education budget by two percent, while funds for the Drug Czar's drug war (Yes — in the "center of democracy" there is a "czar."). But he wants to "invest in America." He still wants to show the world that education is the one investment that means more.

He does want to upgrade the Environmental Protection Agency director to cabinet level, to show his commitment to the environment. But where is the increased funding to help clean up? Where is the federal funding to clean up Boston Harbor, the site where Bush stood to condemn his presidential opponent for being weak on environmental issues?

I was not impressed with the state of our union. Bush's smooth talking and gentle candor did not reassure me. In the face of deteriorating social services and a lowly ranked, under-funded educational system, Bush's "talk" just doesn't cut it. We're reading your lips George, but put some money where your mouth is.

Meredith O'Brien is a Collegian columnist

Ignorance elects abuse

"I call them mos, you know, like homos. Get it?"

Those words came not from a local moron but from one far, far away, though no doubt they illustrate the mentality of many of our so-called students. The words are in fact from an aide to William Dannemeyer, a republican representative from California.

David R. Mark

California, you say, land of the mos?

Oh, bright.

No, this is southern California, land of Ronald Reagan, land of Charlton Heston, land of William Dannemeyer. It's also land of many panic-stricken people, afraid someone from the gay community is going to move next door and lower the property values.

I had the luxury of listening to Rep. Dannemeyer when he came to our campus a couple of semesters ago.

A truly educational experience.

You listen to this guy and you wonder how he could be a political leader, and a powerful one at that. Then you remember he isn't representing a body of people who are rational, and that Dannemeyer, along with his aides, can scare the crap out of uneducated voters.

It's hard to believe Dannemeyer could come from the same state as Randy Shilts, another Californian who spoke here a couple of semesters ago.

Shilts, an articulate journalist from the San Francisco Chronicle, is a man who has written extensively about AIDS and pain and suffering and people trying to deal with ridiculous people like Dannemeyer. He was one of the people who inspired me, and no doubt other college-age journalists, to become professional writers.

Fortunately, more people came to listen to Shilts than to Dannemeyer, a credit to our area and its residents. However, there are people on our campus who do support Dannemeyer, and others who probably will now that they've heard of him through this column.

That bothers me. I wish people could hear themselves when they make derogatory references to the gay community. I wish they could see their facial expressions when they meet someone, or sit near someone, they assume is gay. I wish further that they could see and hear people from the 50s when the people in question were Blacks. Or people from the turn of the century when the people were Irish.

It isn't a pretty sight. In fact, it's quite ugly.

You need only to sit less than an hour in any one place on campus before you hear or see homophobia.

I'll tell you a quick story. I know someone from my high school, now at Rutgers, who came out of the closet his freshman year in college. Now I remember when he was in high school and dating and such, and no one thought, or at least openly expressed the belief that he was gay.

I talked to a mutual friend last summer and asked whether he confided in his steady high school girlfriend that he was gay.

"No, he didn't have to."

"Why not?"

The girl, he said, knew. She was a lesbian, and both were too afraid to admit to their friends that they were gay.

If only William Dannemeyer's aide could meet these two. Because these "mos" aren't anything to be afraid of. They're just two nice college kids.

But for some people, it's just easier to be homophobic.

David R. Mark is a Collegian columnist

No apologies for violent hatred

How very strange that a man should kill a womon and have everybody leap to his gender's defense. In Alise Harfield's column "Real people, real lives, a real story"(Jan. 30), she says that victims can be men, but fails to mention that the Northeastern student's attackers were men. She notes that everyone was quick to assume that Ms. Galligan's attacker was male but fails to note how statistics show men are most often perpetrators of violent crime.

Did you know that a girl friend of yours will be raped at some point in her life? Did you know your male friends will most probably not suffer this same fate? The Northeastern student was attacked in a disreputable neighborhood well-known for violent crime. Wimmin have lately become targets anywhere and the statistics for rape on this campus are quite alarming.

I do not need an apologist for my gender.

And I do not believe this game of hurting and humiliating wimmin will ever change if people continue to deny that it is in fact a problem.

Owen Broadhurst
Orchard Hill

Patients have rights

Talk about a nightmare come to life.

Usually I do not mind hospitals and doctors. I have never actually had to spend much time with either except for a yearly physical and maybe occasional check-ups. I also have never really been sick except for the usual cold and cough which becomes a way of life if you are a college student.

Minu Sebastian

So I guess it's correct to conclude that I am a beginner when it comes to hospitals and their procedures.

When I first found out I was to have minor surgery, I was a little worried. My doctor and a surgeon assured me though that the surgery I was to have was a common procedure and I had nothing to fear. The surgeon who was to operate on me was a specialist in my type of problem so I felt fairly confident.

But the night before my surgery I had some discomforting thoughts.

What if I never wake up from the anesthesia? What if while they are doing the surgery they see something else in my body that needs to be taken out? What if I have to stay in the hospital for more than a day? What if everyone is lying to me and I really have some incurable disease and this surgery is just the beginning?

Looking back these thoughts were irrational, but at the time these feelings were very real.

I had to be at the hospital at 8:00 last Monday morning (Lucky me, I got to miss the Add-Drop lines). I was told to come first thing in the morning to see when my surgeon could fit me in. It turned out that my surgery was scheduled for 11:00 a.m. which meant that I had to agonize another three hours about what was going to be done to me.

Since I would be spending a few hours in the hospital after the surgery, there was a room reserved for me. So my mother and I went up to the room and waited for the big moment.

Finally a nurse comes in. She takes my blood pressure and my temperature. She was nice and friendly, but she did not know that much about the surgery I was going to have. She then gave me some papers to sign. These papers did not help my nerves.

Basically, the papers wanted to make sure that I knew all the risks that go with surgery and anesthesia. The papers said that these should be explained to me by my physician, and I should not sign until I am informed. Since no one had told me any of the risks involved I told the nurse I could not sign until I talked to my surgeon.

I then started thinking about what kind of risks I was taking. I knew that anesthesia can be dangerous, but why did it take this long for someone to tell me about it?

Around 9:30 a nurse came in and put an i.v. in my arm. It was not a pleasant experience. At this point I'm lying in my bed with a needle in my vein and a tube hanging over my head wondering when my surgeon was going to come in and explain the risks to me.

For the next hour and a half I tried to be optimistic, but I kept thinking about what risks I was going to encounter. Around eleven o'clock my surgeon waltzes in and demands to know why I didn't sign the papers.

I said that nobody had told me the risks involved. He explained to me in a very condescending and irritating tone that there are risks in every surgery such as infection. Problems could also arise from the anesthesia.

That was all he said. He left me with the papers to sign and before I knew it I was in the operating room surrounded by people prepping me. The next thing I remember is someone putting an oxygen mask over me and falling asleep.

Obviously I woke up and luckily my surgery went well. But, I still felt like I was not adequately informed ahead of time. What if something had happened to me?

It was my body that was being cut apart and I was the one paying the bill, but why was it so hard to get answers to any of my questions?

Minu Sebastian is a Collegian columnist

Interested in sharing your opinions with the UMass community? The Editorial desk is looking for columnists. To become a columnist, you need to have five columns printed within a semester.

Send all submissions to Campus Center 113, c/o Minu Sebastian.

ΑΕΠ
SPRING RUSH '90

ΕΣΠΟΝΔΑ

A college is more than a diploma.

A Fraternity is more than a big house.

ALPHA EPSILON PI
IS MORE THAN YOU IMAGINED!

Why Are These Nights Different Than All Other Nights?

FEB 6 Get a Piece of the PI
Pizza and House Tours at 9 PM
FEB 7 White Castle Night
Original Food From the Famous Restaurant at 9 PM
FEB 11 Bagel Brunch
Sunday at the House at Noon
FEB 13 Guys Night Out
Hang with the Brothers for Pool, Pinball, cards, a movie, etc... at 9 PM
FEB 15 Special Invitation Evening

COME TO ΑΕΠ AND FIND OUT WHY!!!

Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity
382 N. Pleasant Street

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL SCOTT AT:
549-7510

To Campus
N. Pleasant St.
To Amherst Center
Philips St.
ΑΕΠ
Ferring St.
To Southwest

ARTS & LIVING

NAACP display

Located on the 25th floor of the Tower Library, is a special exhibit commemorating Black History Month.

The exhibit, entitled The Founding and Work of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, 1909-1954, consists of letters, documents, and antique photos compiled from the University library's own manuscripts.

The NAACP was started by Blacks and progressive Whites who joined together to ensure civil and political rights for all Blacks. Over the years, the NAACP fought and won freedom for Blacks from racial discrimination.

The NAACP's most important triumph was largely due to the dedicated efforts of Horace Mann Bond and others who brought about the Brown vs. Topeka Supreme court case, which made segregation illegal in schools.

A journal edited by W.E.B. Dubois for the NAACP called The Crisis, was the most intriguing part of the exhibit. The Crisis printed literary works by such well-known writers as Langston Hughes, and listed some disturbing statistics concerning violence directed at Blacks. For example, 840 Blacks were lynched between 1910 and 1919.

This exhibit highlights the major events concerning the history of the NAACP and its impact on America society. It runs from Feb. 1 until Mar. 15.

— DEBBIE RANKELL

■ The the

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

female vocalist (the only truly cloying part - like your baby sister singing over a favorite song) and Johnny Marr.

This is where some overly wasted member of the crowd tried his hand at witticisms: "Go back to the Smiths," was yelled as Marr proved once and for all that he's his own man, wah wahing to Johnson's tonsiled angst, throwing in a beautiful harp in all the right places. A perfect foil.

Audience reaction: "A melting pot of lust," moaned one lithe young thing, Amy Walsh, while her eloquent escort for the evening said something about being "stunned."

These did seem to be the general consensus, music experts, technical haters, and cynics aside. It was loud. That deserves it's own sentence. One's man expression has never before needed so much equipment, so much volume, in such a confined space. The speakers drenched the assorted hip young things in almost too much. Too much what? The The sound. I don't know.

Content should be what blows you away, technique should just help it along. Not the other way around, especially when the content has lines like "most everyone round here thinks they're something special."

Collegian photo by Jason Danziger

Johnson and Johnny

HAVE YOU EVER THOUGHT ABOUT:

FRIENDS
CONTINUITY CHALLENGE
IMPROVEMENT
BROTHERHOOD
ACADEMICS
DISCIPLINE
PERSPECTIVE
INVOLVEMENT ATHLETICS
LEADERSHIP
CAMPUS RELATIONS

TRADITION
EDUCATION
FUN
INTRODUCTION
ENCOURAGEMENT HONOR
RESPECT
EXPERIENCE
GOALS
HARMONY
MANAGEMENT
SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

THEN YOU SHOULD BE THINKING ABOUT RUSHING
ZETA PSI
RUSH DATES: FEB. 6, 7, 8, 13, 14, 15
23 PHILLIPS ST.

MENTAL HEALTH GROUPS
Spring, 1990

Self-Exploration Groups
Tuesday 3:30-5:00 p.m.
Wednesday 3:30-5:00 p.m.
Thursday 3:30-5:00 p.m.

Exploring Lesbian, Gay, Bi-Sexual Identities
Tuesday 7:30-9:00 p.m.

Eating Disorder Group
Tuesday 4-5:30 p.m.

ACOA Groups - in collaboration with Health Education Division
Beginner's groups (Psycho-educational)
Monday 4-5:30
Wednesday 3:30-5:30

Advanced group (Process)
Wednesday 2-3:30

All groups begin in late February and require pre-registration. For information or registration, call 545-2337 or stop by 127 Hills North.

To assure our consistent high level of quality in processing your photos, we are the only on-premises lab in the area using
KODAK PAPER
1 Hr. Color Service Available
Same Day Service
FILM IN BY 10:00 A.M. / PRINTS OUT BY 4:00 P.M.
1-HOUR SERVICE ALSO AVAILABLE
The Foto Factory
257 TRIANGLE STREET IN AMHERST
549-6490

Half Of This Year's Medical School Class Got There With Our Help.

To study alone for the MCAT's is nearly impossible. To study without Stanley H. Kaplan is simply a bad career move.

Maybe it's our 50 years of experience. Our small classes and advanced teaching methods. Or a research department that reacts to test changes before most companies even know they exist.

Whatever it is, if medicine is in your future, Stanley H. Kaplan can help you start practicing right now.

For information call 800-KAP-TEST and find out more about any of our 135 centers nationwide.

STANLEY H. KAPLAN
Take Kaplan Or Take Your Chances
MCAT Starts Feb. 20th
GRE Starts Feb. 14th
GMAT Starts Feb. 8th
LSAT Begins in March
358 N. Pleasant St. 549-5780

SORORITY
RUSH HOUR

GO

RUSH ORIENTATION: February 6th
6:00 p.m.
Campus Center 163

DELTA UPSILON
The Benefits Are Endless

Don't just spend four routine years in college! Make these days the most exciting in your life. The brothers of Delta Upsilon are doing just that.

The benefits if you join DU: You become part of our house, but more importantly, a part of our brotherhood. You move into a house with 30 of your best friends for life. You aquire an unmatched social life. You eat catered foods prepared by our professional chef. You can participate in our competitive intramural program. We are currently in first place for the coveted Olympus Cup. Out of over 600 teams, our softball team made it to the final four. We are campus champions in track and field and cross country, and co-champions in the Greek area in tennis and wrestling.

In the midst of all the fun we have at Delta Upsilon, we pride ourselves on our academic achievements. As a house, we have a very respectable GPA compared to the all mens average. In addition, academic files are available in the house to help you get ahead. Our alumni offer special internships and co-ops for an added advantage in the game of life. From turf management to sports management, from economics to theater, from engineering to journalism, we have brothers in all majors. You can't lose, so come by and see for yourself the benefits Delta Upsilon has to offer.

If you have any questions, feel free to call us or drop by our house, located at 778 North Pleasant St. Our telephone number is 549-3831, ask for Matt or Steve for details. See you at Rush!

Look for DU posters everywhere!

Feb 6th Feb 12th
Feb 7th Feb 13th
Feb 8th Feb 14th

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Blossom, Thrive, Flourish.

University of Massachusetts at Amherst
Spring 1990

Plant the seed of knowledge this spring at the UMass Division of Continuing Education. Choose from over 100 hardy and fast-sprouting credit courses for a well-rooted and enduring future.
Late register for Continuing Education evening classes or University day classes, on a space-available basis, through February 12 in Room 615 Goodell Building.

For more information, or a free course catalog, call the Division of Continuing Education at 545-2414.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

THE SPOKE

Drink Specials
Beer of the Month: Becks Bottles $1.60
Drink of the Week: Stoli & any mix $1.75

A Drinkery:
To Meet, Relax & Enjoy

Every Tuesday Night
Raffles - Hats, T-shirts, glasses & much more

Wednesday Night
Free Food! 7 PM-?

 Proper ID required
35 E. Pleasant Street

NEED ANOTHER CLASS OR CREDIT?
THINK IT'S TOO LATE TO REGISTER?
LOOKING FOR A SMALL CLASS?

There are still openings in sections of "The Everyday Life of a College Student."

What is The Everyday Life of A College Student?

A one credit (10 week) course taught by other students in the residence halls meeting once a week 7:00 - 9:00 p.m.

An opportunity to discuss current issues relevant to student life - relationships, communications, friendships, sexuality, date rape, academics, alcohol and drugs, time and stress management, and diversity issues.

Day & Place: There will be 3 sections of this course offered Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays in each of the residential areas. Also, there will be sections offered in the Greek area.

The first class meets the week of February 12th.

NOTE: Steps to take to ADD this course:

-Call 545-0422 the Residential Education Office and find out if space is still available,
-Bring your ADD FORM to the Residential Education Office - 130 Brett House to get the instructor's signature;
-Having completed these steps, you're now in a great small class!

Opportunities for film makers

By JIM COHEN
Collegian Staff

What does a man with an equilibrium problem, an old man with a chair and Albert Einstein have in common? Not a lot, except that they were the subjects of winning films by independent and student filmmakers in the 1987 New England Film and Video Festival. Entries are now being accepted for the 15th anniversary of the competition, and are due Feb. 12 for student filmmakers. The festival will be held in Boston on May 17, 18 and 19.

The competition, sponsored by the Boston Globe, is presented by the Arts Extension Service of the Division of Continuing Education at UMass, along with the Boston Film/Video Foundation.

"The show is a forum for emerging artists," said Festival Coordinator Pam Korza.

The festival features an array of genres on film, video and Super Eight, with titles like The Bride Market of Imichil, a film about the marriage rites of the Berber tribes of Morocco, and Rapsody in Orange: A Commemorative Portrait of Boston's Elevated Orange Line, a rap documentary that won Outstanding Student Video in 1989.

Valley students have not been isolated from the festival: UMass student Alan Edelstein and Hampshire College student Peter Friedman won Honorable Mention for their collaboration on Wizard of the Strings in 1984.

The festival, part of the New England Arts Biennial, and located in a grange barn at the Three County Fair until 1985, has begun to come into its own, Korza said.

Averaging 80 to 100 entries a year until last year when 258 entries were received, Korza attributes the increase in entries in part to having the Boston Globe become a sponsor in 1984.

"The show was more heavily promoted because of the association," Korza said.

While the show has categories for both independents and students, the independent category is larger because the show is "geared toward individuals making a living, but maintains a commitment to students because they will be graduating into the independent category."

Two special categories have been set up for students: Outstanding Student Film and Outstanding Student Video.

"Economics were playing a part in people turning to video," Korza said.

The cost of producing a film varies depending upon the subject and the austerity of the producer. Films can cost anything from several thousand dollars to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Korza told of one producer who was so strapped for cash while making his film, that he halted production and worked on a trawler in Alaska for the summer.

A three-member panel is chosen each year to judge the entries. The identity of the judges is not divulged, however Korza did say the panel would be composed of an experienced video maker from New York City, a film critic from Washington, D.C. and a film presenter from Boston. The films will be sorted at UMass, and then sent on to the panel in Boston where they will view them continuously for 36 hours.

All students attending a New England college or university, or having residency in a New England state are eligible to enter the competition.

The awards for winning entries will be presented at two locations: May 17 and 18 in the Remis Auditorium at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and on May 19 at the Emerson Majestic Theatre at 219 Tremont Street in Boston.

Katina's moves toward college crowd

By MARIA ATKINSON
Collegian Staff

Katina's on Route 9 in Hadley has undergone a complete metamorphosis of its itinerary over these past weeks. In order to better accommodate its patrons, the 18-and-over club, which manager John Myers insists, "is not a heavy metal room," the club is now offering a different kind of show every Wednesday through Sunday. Each show is meant to appeal to an audience with a particular preference in music.

Collegian photo by Jason Danziger

Katina's is changing its image

On Wednesday nights, Katina's features a band showcase in which various local and regional bands perform.

Thursday night is Alternative Night. There will be three bands, such as D.R.I. and the Red Hot Chili Peppers, playing progressive, newer music every Thursday.

For those who prefer more main stream acts, such as Physical Graffiti, the Romantics, and the Fools, Friday night is the night to go to Katina's.

Every Saturday night, there will be a DJ dance party, at which the cover charge will be only $1 for 21-and-over, and $3 for those 18 to 20. There will be prizes such as t-shirts and concert tickets every Saturday night. Larger prizes, such as a king-size water bed will be given away one Saturday of every month.

Sunday and only Sunday, is Heavy Metal night, when bands such as Sweet Cheater and Babylon A.D. can be heard.

Myers, who has managed the club for a year now, and also owns Myers Presents, a band-booking agency, is very excited about all the changes that are taking place at Katina's.

The club welcomes 18, 19, and 20-year-olds, who must present positive ID at the door.

"I'd like to see more of a college night on Saturday nights," Myers said.

The club is also currently working to obtain a Five-College bus stop. The management is particularly concerned with drinking and driving, and feels that a bus stop at the club would be an important step in preventing this practice.

Katina's offers pool tables, a munchies booth, 75-cent drafts every night, and a sound and light system that is, "the best in the area," according to Myers.

Fireplaces in the rooms adjacent to the dance floor and stage help create a cozy, intimate atmosphere. With a capacity of 600, there are no long lines in which to wait, and there's plenty of space.

Any local bands interested in performing at Katina's should contact John Myers at 584-8833.

Fight the anti-Semitism

By AL KAUFMAN
Collegian Staff

Public Enemy is a powerful band that makes many important statements about our society and its' portrayal of Blacks and the lower classes. They are not afraid to lash out and confront things they do not agree with. They should be applauded for taking our racist society by the throat and literally choking them until they listen. That is why it is painful to hear a band that is so vehemently fighting for equality to repeatedly state bigoted remarks about Jews.

In his now infamous interview with the Washington Times, Professor Griff, Public Enemy's "minister of information" said Jews are "responsible for the majority of the wickedness that goes on across the globe."

Professor Griff, if you believe that, then fine. You have just as much right as anyone else to view your opinions, no matter how twisted. But how can you justify your demands for equality by oppressing another culture? Just as it's abhorrent for the Ku Klux Klan to denounce Blacks, among others, so is it wrong for you to denounce Jews? Bigotry is just wrong.

Griff was dismissed from Public Enemy last June but has since been quietly reinstated. Now the band is about to strike again. Their upcoming album, Welcome to the Terrordome contains, according to the Anti-Defamation League, "blatantly anti-Semitic lyrics, including the repulsive and historically discredited charge of deicide [killing of a deity] on the part of the Jews."

The lyrics are: "The crucifixion ain't no fiction/So called chosen, frozen/Apology made to whoever pleases/Still they got me like Jesus."

Public Enemy has often said that people, especially Jews, have been focusing on the anti-Semitic issue because these people are afraid of Public Enemy's real message; that Blacks must unite together to empower themselves.

Public Enemy's empowerment message is similar to that of Malcolm X and Louis Farrakhan. In the immortal words of Malcolm X, they want empowerment "by any means possible."

Great. Fight the system. Or, as they state in the theme song from Spike Lee's brilliant Do the Right Thing, "Fight the Power." But to single out the Jews as the power to fight is prejudice.

In our society, Blacks are mistreated. Blacks are oppressed. This must change. That is what Public Enemy must focus on: bringing this change about. Don't blame other people without backing it up. Don't blame the Jews for responding to anti-Semetic attacks. Fight the power, not the Jewish people.

The orchestra from Warsaw

The Warsaw Philharmonic Orchestra, a world renowned ensemble, has been highly regarded since it's first concert in 1901. Since then, it has performed over 5,000 concerts in various countries such as the Soviet Union, Japan and France. The Philharmonic, consisting of over 100 musicians, made a one night appearance at the Fine Arts Center Saturday night

The orchestra opened with Scherzo Tarantella, Op. 28, conducted by Kazimierz Kord. Kord has been leading orchestras since the '60s, and became Music Director and Conductor of the Warsaw Philharmonic in 1977.

The second selection, a three section piece entitled Piano Concerto -2 in C minor, Op. 18, highlighted the great talent of Hungarian pianist Zoltan Kocsis. Kocsis concertized in many countries and appeared with various groups such as the BBC Philharmonic of London, the Baltimore Symphony, and the Budapest Festival Orchestra before becoming guest soloist for the Warsaw Philharmonic. The audience responded to the piece with a standing ovation.

The orchestra concluded by performing Brahms' Symphony -4 in E minor, Op. 98. Following this powerful, four section piece, the orchestra was again honored by a standing ovation. This was a fitting tribute to an excellent performance.

— SHANNON HALL
— CHERYL HOWLEY

Thrash band wages assault on world problems

By DANIELLE DOWLING
Collegian Staff

The bio-sphere, the place we live
It seems like we don't give a damn
Other species flushed down the tubes
We need another race to rape
The way we live we will destroy
Every other living thing
'Til none are left except our race
And then we will destroy ourselves
— Nuclear Assault

A member of Big Audio Dynamite once said, "Messages are for the postman to deliver." This is not the credo for Nuclear Assault, a thrash band from New York consisting of vocalist/guitarist John Connelly, bassist Dan Lilker, guitarist Anthony Bramante, and drummer Glen Evans.

"I think that's about as ignorant as a statement can get," said Connelly in reference to the B.A.D. comment, "If he doesn't have anything to say — fine. But I do. If he doesn't like that then he doesn't have to listen to my band."

However, the opinionated content of their lyrics lead some to charge that perhaps the group is forcing their beliefs down the throats of their young and impressionable audience. "That's incorrect," claimed Connelly, "Half of our songs deal with making your own decisions. I'd rather see a thousand kids listen to our records and go out and do research and make their own opinions based on the facts than to just take my word for it."

This dogmatic foursome started in 1984 when Lilker and Connelly formed their own group after leaving the presently successful thrash group, Anthrax. They are not bitter about their former bandmates' current success. "God bless them," Connelly said, "Their success will help out groups like us."

After finding Bramante and Evans and paying their dues in the club scene, they were signed onto the Combat label. The EP, Brain Death was their first release in 1985, followed by Game Over and The Plague. Survive, released in 1988, proved to be a success for them and an impressive achievement for a band of their stature.

Their latest vinyl offering, Handle with Care, could gain more recognition for them. Their present video release for "Critical Mass" was aired on MTV's Headbanger's Ball at 12:30 a.m., a prime spot.

"I think the really powerful tunes on the album are the first four on the first side," bassist Dan Lilker said when describing his personal favorites on Handle with Care. "I think 'Surgery' is my personal favorite," Connelly added, "It's not your typical metal song."

The song Connelly referred to, "Surgery," describes animal experimentation from the animal's point of view. When asked if he would join an orginization such as PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals), Connelly replied, "No, PETA is a little too over the top for me. I've looked over their literature and I don't see myself joining them. I might join something like Greenpeace. Their tactics are directed at gaining public awareness for ecological problems, whereas I can see PETA becoming some kind of terrorist organization with bombing raids against cosmetic companies."

Underneath their grim socio-political exterior lies a sense of humor. Avid Monty Python addicts, the group's comedic taste has reared it's ugly head in at least two of their videos, "Critical Mass" and "Brainwashed."

But their humor is not reserved for their videos alone. It has also eeked into their songs, particularly in the tracks "F-sharp" and "F-natural." "With 'F-sharp' we couldn't come up with a decent title for it," Connelly said describing the connection between the two songs,"With this one we said, 'It's got the same theme as 'F-sharp,' so let's call it 'F-natural.' On the next album, look for a song called 'E.' " advertisements

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

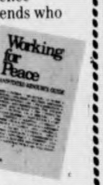
Howell said the Weld campaign is standing by its advertisement.

"We stand by the contention that there is more non-faculty than faculty in the university system," he said.

Howell called Rosenberg's reference to Willie Horton 'outrageous.'

"Stan Rosenberg represents a district of high-paying administrators; a statement like this is no surprise," he said. "He is doing the bidding for the administrators in his district."

Working for Peace Our resource guide brings together a wide range of approaches into one easy-to-use book covering peace organizations, arms control, personal diplomacy, peace studies, how to work through your church, school, business or local government, and lots more. For your reference and for friends who don't know where to begin. $5.95 per copy



The Fund for Peace
345 East 46th Street, New York 10017

DELANO'S
57 North Pleasant Street
253-5141

DELANO'S GOES ON SPRING BREAK... STAY TUNED

BEERS OF THE MONTH
BUD $1.25
AMSTEL LIGHT $1.75

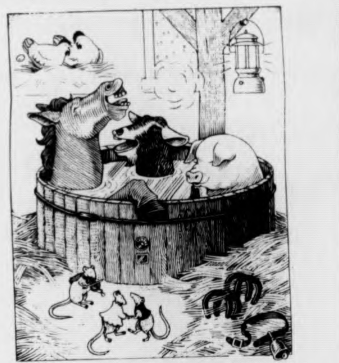
DRINK OF THE WEEK
ABSOLUT & TONIC $1.75

Proper Identification a Must

6¢
Self-Serve Copies
253-2543
220 N. Pleasant
kinko's
the copy center

OOPS!
Now's the time to call...
North Amherst Motors
78 Old Sunderland Rd., No. Amherst
549-2880
Expert Repairs and Reconditioning
Most Major Credit Cards Accepted

DEBATE?
People keep telling you to stop arguing? We won't. Come to first team meeting, Feb. 6, Machmer 313 at 5:30 p.m. Shy people welcome.



EAST HEAVEN TUB Co
Luxurious private hot tub room rentals.
33 West St. Northampton

Mondays 4 p.m.-1 a.m.
Tues.-Sun. 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

for reservations
586-6843

Valentine Special

"Be My Valentine" cakes are available now at Hampden Creamery in Southwest

Choose a display cake or give us 3 days notice and we'll order one for you!

Cakes may be held to pick up between Feb. 12th and 14th.

$1.00 OFF with this ad

AMHERST CINEMA
The Great Rock & Roll Swindle
A documentary starring The Sex Pistols, Johnny Rotten & Sid Vicious
Friday, Sat. & Sun.
7 & 9 p.m.
M-Th 7:30 p.m.
$2.50 w/student ID

THE WORLD FOR SALE

from NEW YORK	round trips from
LONDON	$338
BERLIN	438
BRUSSELS	398
VIENNA	438
TOKYO	749
CARACAS	318
RIO	730

Taxes not included.Restrictions apply.One ways available. Work/Stud abroadprograms.Int'l Student ID'.EURAIL PASSES ISSUED ON THE SPOT!
FREE Student Travel Catalog
Council Travel
79 So.Pleasant Street
Amherst
413-256-1261

Buckle Up For Spring Break '90

THE GYM IS A COMPLETE WEIGHTLIFTING CLUB FOR MEN & WOMEN!

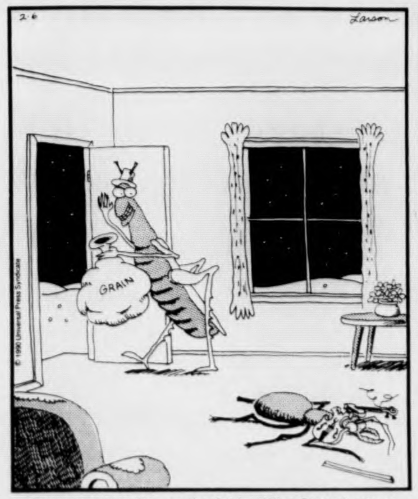
Featuring over 10,000 pounds of weights, exercise machines, nautilus machines, bikes, rowers, climbers and full locker and shower facilities!

We also offer tanning and coming in February—AEROBICS!

The GYM
at mountain farms mall
Rte. 9 on the Amherst/Hadley Line

EASY TO GET TO BY CAR OR BUS!
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!

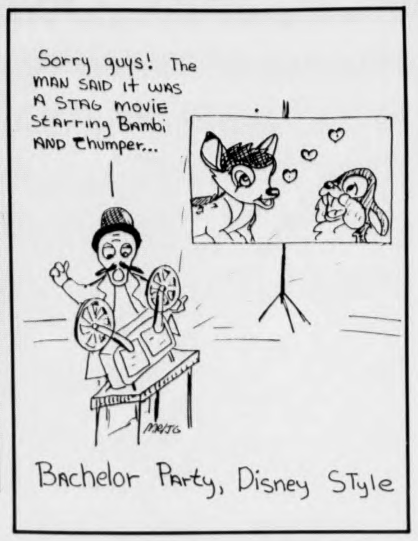
THE FAR SIDE
By GARY LARSON



2-6
Larson
GRAIN
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

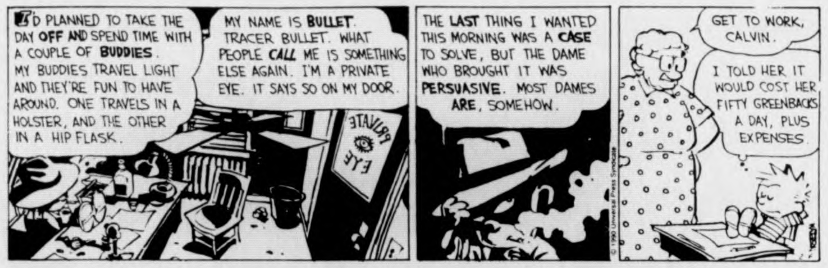
The untold ending to the fable, "The Grasshopper and the Ant."

BONES IN THE BARREL
By J. GELLER & M. ROSENZWEIG



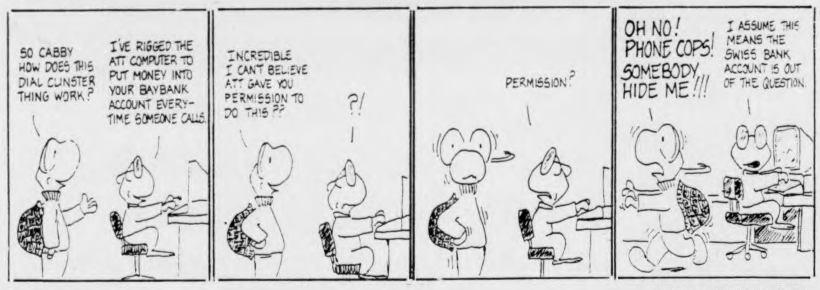
Sorry guys! The MAN SAID it WAS A STAG movie Starring Bambi AND Thumper...
MR/JG
Bachelor Party, Disney Style

CALVIN AND HOBBES
By BILL WATTERSON



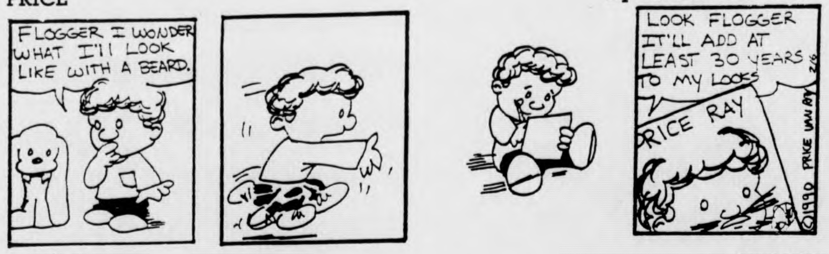
I'D PLANNED TO TAKE THE DAY OFF AND SPEND TIME WITH A COUPLE OF BUDDIES. MY BUDDIES TRAVEL LIGHT AND THEY'RE FUN TO HAVE AROUND. ONE TRAVELS IN A HOLSTER, AND THE OTHER IN A HIP FLASK.
MY NAME IS BULLET. TRACER BULLET. WHAT PEOPLE CALL ME IS SOMETHING ELSE AGAIN. I'M A PRIVATE EYE. IT SAYS SO ON MY DOOR.
PRIVATE EYE
THE LAST THING I WANTED THIS MORNING WAS A CASE TO SOLVE, BUT THE DAME WHO BROUGHT IT WAS PERSUASIVE. MOST DAMES ARE, SOMEHOW.
GET TO WORK, CALVIN.
I TOLD HER IT WOULD COST HER FIFTY GREENBACKS A DAY, PLUS EXPENSES.
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

IGGMAN
By DREW AQUILINA



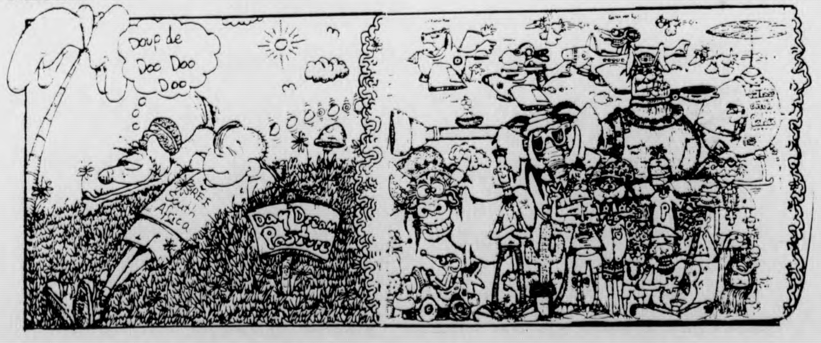
SO CABBY HOW DOES THIS DIAL CLINSTER THING WORK?
I'VE RIGGED THE ATT COMPUTER TO PUT MONEY INTO YOUR BAYBANK ACCOUNT EVERY-TIME SOMEONE CALLS.
INCREDIBLE I CAN'T BELIEVE ATT GAVE YOU PERMISSION TO DO THIS??
?!
PERMISSION?
OH NO! PHONE COPS! SOMEBODY HIDE ME!!!
I ASSUME THIS MEANS THE SWISS BANK ACCOUNT IS OUT OF THE QUESTION.

PRICE
By PRICE VAN RAY



FLOGGER I WONDER WHAT I'll LOOK LIKE WITH A BEARD.
LOOK FLOGGER IT'LL ADD AT LEAST 30 YEARS TO MY LOOKS
PRICE RAY
2/6
©1990 PRICE VAN RAY

NIPPLE
By PITT



Doup de Doo Doo Doo
South Africa
Day Dream Pasture

MENU

LUNCH	DINNER
Fishburger on roll Ravioli with tomato sauce	Southern style scrod Roast turkey
BASICS LUNCH	BASICS DINNER
Garden sandwich Ravioli with tomato sauce	Southern style scrod Vegetables with dill

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE
Edited By TRUDE MICHEL JAFFE

ACROSS
1 Young oyster
5 Smart follower
10 NCO
14 Candystriper, e.g.
15 Alcott's "Little —"
16 Tarn's hue
17 Weather map storm belt
19 Type of stem
20 Besmirch
21 Essential to completeness
23 Still
24 NBA Hall of Famer Thurmond
26 Pen inmate?
27 What a business hopes to do
29 Tarsus
32 National park in SW Alberta
35 Gob
37 Catch
38 Canine's neighbor
40 Small rocket launcher of WW II
43 Before, in Berlin
44 Not any, in law
46 Worked on
47 Make use of
50 Ties the knot again
52 Companions of "O" and "U"
53 Muslim judge
54 Ready
57 — Valley, Calif.
60 Houston player
62 Olive genus
63 Saw-whet's cousin
65 Old-growth specimens
66 Vice follower
67 Ron Howard role
68 Author of "The Dinner Party"
69 Kilt feature
70 Crave

DOWN
1 Fresh
2 Irritate
3 No longer a minor
4 Freshwater duck
5 Puncher, of a sort
6 Nabokov character
7 Outstanding
8 Copper
9 Word with deep or high
10 Mark over a vowel
11 Intercom
12 Pigeon, in a way
13 Scot's cap
18 Wildcats
22 Juliette Low's org.
25 Child's cover-up
27 Gram or graph lead in 28 Smidgen
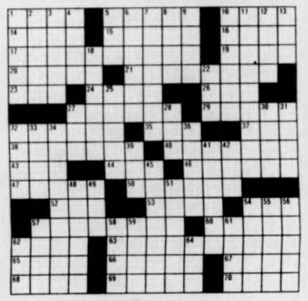
30 Titicaca, for one
31 "Zounds!"
32 Cab Calloway specialty
33 "Strong as —"
34 Sensational headlines
36 Tore
39 Robot drama
41 Astrologer's research source
42 West. hemisphere gp.
45 "A Perfect Spy" author
48 Spread
49 Draw
51 Poland's Lech
54 "A face that would — clock"
55 Stu of screendom
56 Landlord's sign
57 Hip bones
58 Invitation letters
59 Westernmost country of Eur.
61 Arrive as expected
62 Away from the job
64 Down

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE:

O	A	S	T	■	A	M	A	S	S	■	A	T	A	R
D	A	L	E	■	P	I	N	T	A	■	R	A	G	E
O	R	A	L	■	A	D	D	E	R	■	I	R	O	N
R	E	P	L	I	C	A	■	P	A	S	S	A	G	E
■	■	■	■	N	E	S	S	■	B	E	E	N	■	■
S	M	I	L	E	■	■	M	O	A	T	■	T	I	E
T	O	M	E	S	■	B	E	R	N	■	H	E	L	P
A	L	P	S	■	D	O	T	E	D	■	A	L	L	O
M	A	R	E	■	A	L	A	S	■	A	I	L	E	D
P	R	E	■	U	L	A	N	■	■	F	L	A	R	E
■	■	S	A	N	S	■	A	S	T	A	■	■	■	■
C	L	A	V	I	E	R	■	P	A	R	L	O	R	S
H	I	R	E	■	G	O	R	E	S	■	A	L	A	N
A	M	I	R	■	N	A	I	L	S	■	M	O	R	E
R	O	O	T	■	O	R	A	L	E	■	B	R	A	E

2/6/90



YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
By JEANNE DIXON

ARIES(March 21-April 19): Higher-ups are preoccupied; postpone asking for special favors. You reap the benefits of being in the right place at the right time. Get rid of outmoded methods. Enjoy a special evening with mate.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20): Use your charisma to advance your career goals. An older influential person shows a special interest in you. Taking small risks pays off. Invest in a new wardrobe - you will look and feel great!

GEMINI(May 21-June 20): Display your talent for diplomacy if thrown together with a former mate or partner. You are skilled at getting what you want. Focus on what others have forgotten and you will win.

CANCER(June 21-July 22): Hang in there! Do not let negative people or difficult circumstances get you down. Lunching with a close chum will lift your spirits. Avoid giving unsolicited advice to your friends or kin.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22): Go ahead and make a major change in lifestyle. Get to know your neighbors; they could become your close allies. Put romance on the back burner for now. Time is on your side.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept. 22): Repeating gossip could boomerang on you. Repay favors quickly. Investigate "hot" stock tips; they may not prove worthwhile. Enlist you family's cooperation if revising your budget.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22): Take advantage of any unusual opportunities that come your way. Set new goals. Although the idea of romance appeals to you, you may lack the initiative. Take a chance.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21): Try not to be so impatient. Steady effort and positive attitude are essential for you can find some terrific bargains. Stop hiding your true feelings.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21): Your business associates could move in a direction that complicates things. Use your talents to unscramble confusion. Even small changes in a relationship will delight you. Say what you mean.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19): A decision is reversed; you benefit. Work form a background position to achieve the results you want. Travel brings good luck in the career or financial area. A friend clarifies a confusing situation.

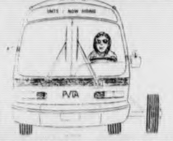
AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18): Work goes well. If you have the time, shop for household items. You find that you have the answers to a young person's questions. Romance has its rocky moments; be patient.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20): A morning breakthrough could reinforce your ambitions; in fact, the whole day will be full of surprises. Trust your intuition. What needs to be done must be done right away.

TODAY'S STAFF

Night Editor....................Beth Gately
Copy Editor....................Julie Livingston
Layout Technician....................Rory Evans
Photo Technician....................John Woo
Production Supervisor....................Tricia Hanley
Typesetter....................Kim Frisino
Production.......Terry Starmer, Mike Atkins, Jenna Dye, Jodi O'Rourke, Carolyn Mills, Mike Wester

THE UMASS TRANSIT SERVICE
ANNOUNCES
SPRING TRAINING TO BECOME A BUS DRIVER.



COME JOIN THE TEAM THAT KEEPS UMASS MOVING:

- Friendly atmosphere, all of our 180 drivers are UMASS students just like you.
- Fun & rewarding
- Paid training
- Starting pay of $5.25/hr

COME TO OUR
APPLICATIONS MEETING
TONIGHT at 7 p.m.
in ROOM 101 of the
CAMPUS CENTER

(This is a Mandatory meeting if you are interested in training this semester. If you have a class conflict you should come to our office BEFORE the meeting to sign an attendance sheet.)

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CALL US AT
545-0056
UMTS is an AA/EO EMPLOYER

BLUEWALL

Continental Special

Buy any breakfast pastry and get another at ½ price.
Offer good now through March 31, 1990.

The Breakfast Menu

Cinnamon Rolls	Breakfast Juices
Gourmet Coffee	Assorted Teas
Fresh Fruit	Danish Pastry
Muffins	Croissants
Yogurt	Bagels

HOURS: MON.-FRI. 8:00AM-10:30AM

THE PARTY PENGUIN SAYS:

SKI
MOUNT
SNOW

with the
UMASS SKI CLUB

SUNDAY FEBRUARY 11th

$20

All Day Lift Ticket
and transportation included

Buses Leaving:

Townhouse/Brandywine	6:45
Hasbrouck	7:00
Southwest	7:15

Sign up for the trip during Ski Club tables hours in the Concourse
Tues.—Thurs. 8:30-3:30.

Make sure you sign up early so you can assure yourself a spot on the bus.

TWISTERS
TAVERN
The Uptown Alternative!

TUESDAY	COME CELEBRATE BOB MARLEY'S BIRTHDAY WITH NEW HORIZON
WEDNESDAY	REGGAE NIGHT New Horizon
THURSDAY	COLLEGE NIGHT NO COVER!
FRIDAY	from Martha's Vineyard THE ULULATORS Live Reggae, Soca Calypso Music
SATURDAY	INTRODUCING WORLD BEAT NIGHT WITH UPROOT – LIVE ZYDECO CALYPSO MUSIC
SUNDAY	POST-GAME UMASS BASKETBALL PARTY!
MONDAY	UMASS BASKETBALL POWER HOUR! Hosted by Coach Calipari 7:00 p.m.

WHERE THE MUSIC COMES ALIVE!

Come Meet The Team!

Great Food Served Daily!

30 Boltwood Walk, Amherst, MA • 253-2663

A-10 notebook

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 16

face doesn't look like a big deal. But remember two years ago, when the Cinderella Runnin' Rams of coach Tom Penders lost twice to the Dukes, including once at Ye Hallowed Hell of Keaney Gym. Plus, Duquesne, though 2-10, has been playing well of late.

Thursday, on top of UMass traveling to "The RAC" to take on Rutgers, West Virginia plays at George Washington (no automatic W's from the Smith Center), Rhode Island at Penn State and St. Joe's at St. Bonaventure. That alone will be a fun night for standings watchers.

Saturday, GW is at Duquesne and Penn State at St. Joe's, while Temple comes to the Cage Sunday and Rutgers visits West Virginia (remember, Rutgers just beat them Sunday).

The rest of the season doesn't promise to be any easier for anybody. So stay tuned.

Checking last night's action: Temple 81, St. Bonaventure 64; Penn State 64, Lehigh 60; GW 83, St. Joe's 73.

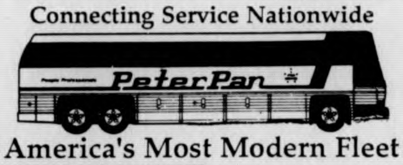
He really said this, honest: Rutgers coach Bob Wenzel was caught on his postgame radio show after beating West Virginia Sunday. Point guard Earl Duncan went down with an injury with about 10 minutes to go, and someone asked Wenzel his status.

His reply . . . and, repeat, I'm not making this up, went something like this: "We're going to look at it. We may hold him out of [tonight's] game against St. John's so we can have him ready to face UMass." Kinda scary, eh?

And while we're still in the Garden State: Dickie V. may be calling them one of his big disappointments, but a quick check has the Scarlet Knights currently at 7-3 in the league. This writer keeps tabs on this sort of thing, bearing in mind that he picked Rutgers to win the A-10 this year. It's not over yet.

Peter Pan
New England's Largest Bus Line
Offers Daily Express Service
Throughout the Northeast!

HOURLY EXPRESS SERVICE
• Boston • Springfield
• New York City
• Hartford • Worcester
Connecting Service Nationwide

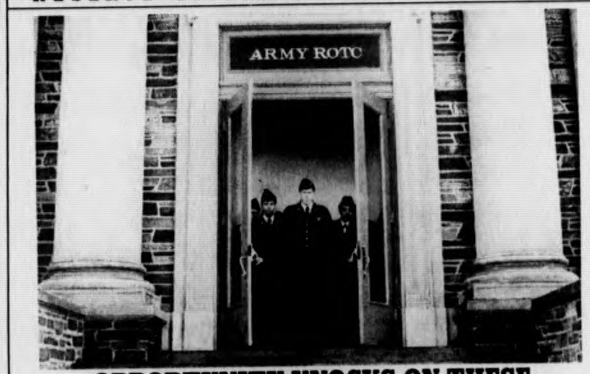


America's Most Modern Fleet

Amherst to
Boston	NYC
Student Fare	As Low As
$23.95 round-trip	$39.95 round-trip

One call does it all:
Peter Pan Bus Terminal
79 South Pleasant St., Amherst
256-0431
U-Mass Hotel 545-2006

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS



OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS ON THESE DOORS FIRST.

Why? Because Army ROTC helps you develop management and leadership skills. Builds your self-confidence. And makes you a desirable candidate in the job market.

There's no obligation until your junior year, but stick with it and you'll have what it takes to succeed—while you're in college and once you graduate.

ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

Contact Captain John Popp
Department of Military Science
545-2321/2322

CLASSIFIEDS

COME TO THE COLLEGIAN OFFICE—CC 113 MON—THURS 8:30-3:30, FRI 8:30-2:30•DEADLINE 2 DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION•CASH IN ADVANCE. 20¢/WORD/DAY FOR STUDENTS

ACTIVITIES

DO IT RIGHT!
RUSH SIGMA ALPHA MU Tonight it's Casino Night in the Commonwealth Room Campus Center, 7:30 p.m. See you there!

DON'T SPEND YOUR TIME at college yielding to oncoming traffic. Come to sorority rush orientation tonight at 6:00 PM in Room 163 of the Campus Center. Don't let rush pass you by. Come see what the 9 UMASS sororities have to offer you!

DVP MEMBERS. Meeting tonight. Go to office for location and time. We need to discuss the first lecture.

FIRST GENERAL MEETING for the index yearbook tonight at 6:00 CC103. Welcome back Indexers! New members always welcome!

HILLEL SPONSORED "Welcome back from Israel" party Feb. 6 7:30 Dukes Rm (SU 310) Ever been to Israel? Come meet others.

JAPAN AMERICA CLUB first general meeting Wed 2/7 Mary Lyons basement 7 PM Everyone is welcome!

MOVE INTO THE fast lane of sorority life tonight at 6:00 PM in Room 163 of the Campus Center. Get out of the UMASS traffic jam. See what sorority life has to offer you!

SPRING BREAK: Go to Killington, Steamboat, Barbados and Jamaica mon. Any questions call 545-3437.
IMAN says: Questions?? Me??
UMASS SKI CLUB

UPC MEETING TODAY 6:30 pm, See showcase for location.

YOUR DAYS OF SUFFERING are over GREENOUGH SNACK BAR IS BACK!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INTERESTED IN Christian Fellowship? THE ALLIANCE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP WELCOMES YOU! More info: Call Pauline or Steve 253-7206.

BED AND BREAKFAST Downtown Amherst 549-5961.

WHAT'S CASH FOR GOLD? We will pay immediate cash for your gold in any form. Free quote. 256-0842

ATTENTION

DO YOU REMEMBER leaving a note on white Honda last September in Townhouse visitor parking? Please call 549-4387.

AUTO FOR SALE

1977 CHEVROLET CAPRICE needs work $700 or B/O 549-4786 Ask for Julie

1980 DODGE COLT WAGON-Re-built engine, dependable, good tires. $500/B.O. 549-4758

1982 DODGE OMNI 600 or B/O 774-3102

1982 MAZDA GLC
Looks good Runs great
93K $1800 or BO
Call 253-7742 Leave message

78 VW SCIROCCO, Well maintained, rust, runs great, $995. Please call 256-8077.

IS IT TRUE.......... Jeeps for $44 through the Government? Call for facts! 1-708-742-1142 Ext 5931A

SEIZED CARS, trucks, 4 wheelers, TV's stereos, furniture, computers by DEA, FBI, IRS, and US Customs. Available in your area now. Call 1-805-682-7555 Ext. C-1675.

CUT YOUR PHONE BILL IN HALF

CALLING 508 AND 617. Join the Fone Home Club. Call now! 549-3737.

FOR SALE

COMPUTER AMIGA 1000, High graphics, stereo, 3 disk drives, 2½ meg board, mouse, and many many programs asking $1350 call Susan 253-2566

GROW LIGHT 1000 watts $135 or best offer 585-0754 John

IRRESISTIBLE DWARF LOP BUNNIES Housebreakable; Rare Colors 584-4960.

ORGANIC 261 & 263 Text Lab Workbook $82 - Zoology 521 Text $38- Michelle 546-3251.

RCA TERMINAL. Perfect for use with Cyber. Monitor and keyboard. $150 Pete 5-4784

REPOSSESSED VA & HUD HOMES available from government from $1 without credit check. You repair. Also tax delinquent foreclosures Call 1-805-682-7555 Ext H-2009 for repo list in your area.

SNOWBOARD 1989 GNU $225 Nordica NR990 8½ $110 Raichle RX560 8½ $65 Need Money, Young 546-6129

WATERBED 250
Stereo 150
Commodore
584-4568

FOUND

FOUND JAN. 27 in NE area - watch Call 546-4848 to identify

HELP WANTED

"ATTENTION": Earn money typing at home! 32,000/yr. income potential. Details, 1-602-838-8885 Ext. T-7627

"ATTENTION": Earn money watching TV! $32,000/year income potential. Details 1-602-838-8885 Ext. TV-7627

"ATTENTION": Easy work excellent pay! Assemble products at home. Details, 1-602-838-8885 Ext. W-7627.

CAMP COUNSELORS NEEDED for co-ed camp located in northeastern Pa. near New York City. We have openings for general counselors as well as specialists in both land and water sports. Specialty areas include baseball, tennis, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, hockey, waterskiing, sailing, scuba, WSI, canoeing, windsurfing, gymnastics, archery, fencing, arts and crafts, piano accompanist, drama, radio and rocketry. Pioneering staff needed for both land and canoe trips and for our ropes challenge course. Other openings may be available. We will be conducting on-campus interviews on March 6th. For information call or write: G. Lustig, 60 W. 66th St. 15E New York N.Y. 10023, tel. 212-724-0113.

CRUISE SHIPS NOW HIRING for spring, Christmas and next summer breaks. Many positions. Call 1-805-682-7555 Ext. S-1120

EASY WORK! EXCELLENT PAY! Assemble products at home. Call for information 504-643-8003 Ext. 598

UNLIMITED INCOME! Assemble products in your home. Easy work. Excellent pay. No experience needed. Call 318-828-4989 Ext H1283.

COINS 501 TUTOR sought for totally clueless student. 2-3 hrs. a week fee negotiable Call 6-6975 nights before midnight. HELP!

MODEL SEARCH—No experience necessary. Male and Female 562-9048 or 1-401-723-2900.

PEOPLE'S MARKET Student Co-op is hiring! Applications available now. A great place to work!

PREMIERING UNIVERSITY'S STARS Summer Counselors, Student Admissions Representatives, Tour Guides. Applications at University Admissions Center.

REAL ESTATE—Established agency seeks enthusiastic people for sales. Start parttime now and be ready for spring selling season! Call Kathy Borawski 584-5555.

ATTENTION: EXCELLENT INCOME for home assembly work. Info. call 504-646-1700 Dept. P1307.

I NEED MY WALLET BACK!

LOST GRAY VELCRO WALLET. Need personal articles back! Last seen: Boyden 1/25. If found please call 5-2690. Ask for Matt or leave number where you can be reached

INSTRUCTION

BE A MATH TUTOR: Enroll for 3-credit tutoring practicum. Valuable, rewarding experience. Pay available after successful completion of the course. Call 545-2882 or go to Brett B-35.

LOST

LOST: A set of keys. Two keys a swiss army knife and a bottle opener. If found please call 546-9561

MUSICIANS

WANTED-A SERIOUS Keyboardist or horn player (sax, trumpet) willing to join a band now consisting of a guitarist, bass, and drummer. Musical attitude should be eclectic, and open minded (jazz, fusion, rock, funk, rock & roll, and blues) If interested call Sean 546-8360, Matt 546-6032 or John 253-4014

PERSONALS

CHARLIE, HAPPY ANNIVERSARY! One year today. I love you. Flo

CONGRATULATIONS
To the new Brothers of Alpha Phi Omega Beth, Mike, Tammy, Sari and Tra love the Brothers of APO

XXX CONGRATULATIONS TO THE XXX NEWEST ALPHA CHI OMEGAS
I hope initiation went great! You are all lucky I wasn't there for the party. We would have had many BOAT RACES - right Gina! I've got the Cerveza though!
Congrats again!
Siempre una amiga,
Lara XOXOXOXO

MICHELLE M - Yeh you with the Mediterranean eyes - How have you been?

PATTIE, Welcome back to the Y.B.B.C.

TREES, BEES, PLANTS, and animals
I couldn't play in your Wendy house.
Good luck to you future.
Your pal.

TO THE RUB CLUB at the pub it was great rubbing with you hope to rub again
Ronda Rub President

RIDE WANTED

HELP!! RIDE NEEDED To Rochester, NY 2/16 - 2/19. Will pay $$! Please call Michelle 549-6447

RIDE WANTED TO Central Jersey on 2/9 or any weekend. 549-2950

TO NJ OR NYC and back on weekends. Call Steve 549-7432

ROOM FOR RENT

ROOM FOR RENT on bus route Call 253-7172 and leave message

ROOMMATE WANTED

FURNISHED ROOM AVAILABLE in beautiful Apt. Rent-negotiable Call 665-7240 546-4563 Sunderland Female

ONE BEDROOM AVAILABLE in Brittany Manor $245 heat & hot water included. Call after 10 PM 256-3138

PUFFTON VILLAGE - One male roommate. $175/mo. Call 549-7432.

SINGLE AVAILABLE in house on Main St. Bus stop at front door, gas heat. $245 Call Sue 536-2199

ONE ROOMMATE (non-smoker) needed to share bedroom in Squire Village one minute from bus stop DIRT CHEAP! Call anytime 665-3012

NONSMOKING FEMALE needed to share bedroom in Southwood townehouse. Nice place, quiet, new rugs, on bus route, laundry room close by. Call anytime, leave message 549-6075 rent negotiable

WANTED - COOL ROOMMATE QUICK! Single room five bedroom home M/F smok/non 230+ N. Amherst Alison or Porter 549-4643

WANTED MALE GRAD
Want to share a studio nonsmoker near Amherst town $150 549-1409 any time

RUSH AEPI

WHY ARE THESE nights different than other nights? Feb. 6, 7, 11, 13, 15?

SERVICES

MOVING? HAVE BUS to move you locally. Call Chuck 548-8177

VISA OR MASTERCARD! Even if bankrupt or bad credit! We guarantee you a card or double your money back. Call 1-805-682-7555 Ext. M-1207

TRAVEL

AFFORDABLE BEACHFRONT HOTEL-Deluxe Accommadations-guaranteed 7 days-sunshine-incomparable nightlife-Call Marc for a good time at 253-2170

CANCUN!! Cheap. Reliable-(Better Business Bureau). Act now! 256-0198 Melissa or Cindy

DAYTONA BEACH - $259.00 (Quad. occup.) Ten days, March 16 - 25. Includes transportation and OCEANFRONT. First class hotel. Spring Break '90 World headquarters. Best location, best hotel, best clubs, best party. Call Yankee Tours M-F, 8-6, 1-800-942-8890 for brochure.

GREAT TRIPS! Great prices! Jamaica, Bahamas. Montego Bay, and Nassau. Michelle 546-7781.

GET BURNED in Cancun, Bahamas, Daytona, or Jamaica. Time is running out! Call Janice 549-3934

SPRING BREAK—Can't beat our prices! Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulco, Daytona. Call now for info. Mary or Karen 549-8166.

SPRING BREAK in Cancun only $459 Trips selling fast Reservations due February 14th Call Chris or Amy 549-1856

NASSAU SPRING BREAK '90
Complete from $399
Tom 6-5307 Andrea 6-5235

SPRING BREAK

TIME IS RUNNING OUT! Plan your spring break trip now! Bahamas and Cancun. We have the lowest rates available. Deadline February 10. Don't miss out on all the fun! Call Donna or Lisa at 549-8228.

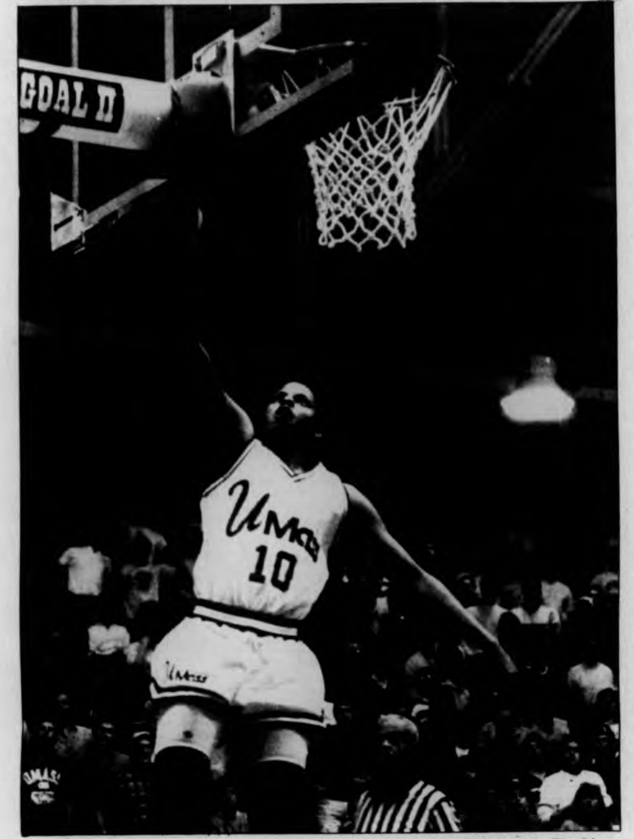
WANTED

MARTHA'S VINEYARD-wanted 2 females to share a house for summer-$1600-for info call 6-6087 Ask for Helen

SPORTS

Minutemen dispose of Vermont

Giles scores 27 to lead UMass in 85-70 win



Collegian photo by Elise Johnson

Junior Rafer Giles coasts in for two of his game-high 27 points in last night's 85-70 win over Vermont at the Cage.

By C.J. ABATI
Collegian Staff

Last night's game wasn't exactly a Rage in the Cage, but the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team did manage to put away the Vermont Catamounts with an 85-70 win. The victory improves the Minutemen's record to 12-8.

The Minutemen were led by the spectacular play of junior Rafer Giles and sophomore William Herndon. Giles shot 9-of-11 for a career-high 27 points. Herndon was 10-for-16 with 22 points, most of which came from above the rim. They carried the team last night.

"Will Herndon and Rafer Giles won the game for us," said UMass head coach John Calipari. "Rafer has been playing great the last two games, we wouldn't have won without him. I'm really happy for him."

The game started out slow for the Minutemen as Vermont jumped out to a quick lead with a 13-2 run. The Catamounts held UMass scoreless for almost two minutes before the first basket came on a thunderous alley-oop dunk by William Herndon from Cary Herer.

Things began to turn around for the Minutemen after Calipari called a time out to regain the teams composure at 16:17. In the next two-and-a-half minutes Herndon scored three times and Giles twice to tie the game at 13-apiece, and forcing a Vermont time out. At 12:03 Giles was fouled on a shot from 15 feet. After he hit the shot from the charity stripe, UMass led 16-15, a lead they would never relinquish.

The Catamounts kept it close for the remainder of the half, through the play of Rahim Huland El and Matt Johnson. Huland El had three offensive rebounds and four points and Johnson chipped in with eight points (six of which came on three-pointers) to keep them in reach. The Minutemen countered with a 10-3 run to close out the half, as UMass went into the locker room with a nine-point 38-29 lead.

Vermont did all they could to give the Minutemen a difficult time. The Catamounts attempted 23 three-point shots, hitting 43 percent. They also handled the press rather easily. To make matters worse, Vermont won the battle of the boards. They grabbed 34 rebounds, 13 of which were off the offensive glass.

"That was our biggest problem of the game," said Calipari. "They had 13 offensive rebounds. How are you going to win with those kind of numbers? That means they're getting the ball one foot from the basket after a shot. You can't win against good teams playing like that."

The Minutemen kicked things into gear and put Vermont away in the second half. Freshman Tony Barbee decided to join the Herndon-Giles show. Barbee, who seemed to miss the first half (0-for-4 in 13 minutes) came alive in the second half netting 14 points (4-of-9, fourteen minutes) and grabbing four boards.

The Minutemen put the game out of reach with a 12-1 run that took five-and-a-half minutes off the clock. Barbee, Herer, Herndon, Giles and Jim McCoy all contributed to the run. McCoy tied his season low of seven points, and also played a season-low 22 minutes.

"People expect Jimmy to score 30 points a night," said Calipari. "That's a hard thing to do. He was getting banged, pushed and his shots weren't falling. You have to expect that every now and then. Although, we're not going to beat Rutgers on Thursday, if he plays like that. For us to play with the top teams in our league, Jimmy has got to be on the top of his game."

But Vermont coach Tom Brennan gave much of the credit to Herndon.

"Herndon had more moves than Greg Louganis," he said.

Minutemen, 85-70

Massachusetts (85): Tony Barbee 4-9 6-8 14; William Herndon 10-16 2-2 22; John Tate 2-2 4-6 8; Cary Herer 2-3 1-4 5; Jim McCoy 2-11 3-4 7; Tommy Pace 0-0 0-0 0; Rafer Giles 9-11 6-6 27; Anton Brown 0-2 2-2 2; Chris Bailey 0-0 0-0 0; Matt Anderson 0-0 0-0 0. Totals: 29-54 24-32 85.

Vermont (70): Rahim Huland El 2-6 0-0 4; Rich Tarrant 0-4 2-2 2; Kevin Roberson 6-7 2-3 14; Matt Johnson 9-21 0-1 22; Kenny White 4-9 0-0 11; Dave Ostrosky 1-2 0-2 2; Brian Tarrant 4-6 0-0 10; Brad Chandler 0-0 0-0 0; T.J. Whitaker 0-0 0-0 0; Mike Malachuk 1-3 0-0 3; Craig Gaffin 0-1 2-2 2. Totals: 27-59 6-10 70.

Three-point goals: Massachusetts 3-6 (Barbee 0-2, Giles 3-4); Vermont 10-23 (R. Tarrant 0-2, Johnson 4-9, White 3-6, B. Tarrant 2-3, Malachuk 1-3). Rebounds: Massachusetts 30 (Herndon 6); Vermont 34 (Roberson 9). Assists: Massachusetts 14 (Herer 9); Vermont 11 (White 4). Total fouls: Massachusetts 14; Vermont 25. Attendance: 3,360.

Field events emerge for men's track

By JON REIDEL
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's indoor track team is not known for its field events.

On Sunday at the Ocean State Invitational at Brown University, however, a handful of weight throwers and jumpers attempted to change that reputation.

"Our jumpers and weight people have been in the background for awhile," said O'Brien. "They're starting to really come on now, and will play an important role in the weeks to come."

Leading the way in the jumping events was Jerome Bledsoe. Bledsoe, who has recently recovered from an injury he sustained while playing for the UMass football team, finished second place in the long jump with a leap of 22-8.

Not far behind Bledsoe was David Borges. Borges, finished in fourth place (21-7) and then found similar success in the high jump where he cleared the bar at 6-4, good for fifth.

Taking care of the weight events was Joseph Edgerton, who heaved the shot put nearly 49 feet, placing him third overall.

The Minutemen had their usual success in the middle and distance events as Art Smith cruised to a second place mile finish in a time of 4:15.

The Minutemen's only first place finish of the day came in the 400 meters when Steve Brown crossed the line in 50.66.

One second behind Brown was Garfield Vaughn in third place.

"Brown and Vaughn give us a great one-two punch," said O'Brien. "You can count on them being near the top."

Perhaps the best individual performance of the day came from Kevin Walters.

Giving the Minutemen a boost in another traditionally weak area. Walters managed a pair of second place finishes in the 60-yard dash and 200 meters with times of 6.5 and 22.73 respectively.

Walters was involved in photo finishes in both events.

"Kevin had a great day," said O'Brien. "Everybody has responded really well since our double sessions over break."

Atlantic 10 notebook

League ready for topsy-turvy week

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

Odds are, there won't be any seismic activity in the vicinity of Woodbridge, N.J. anytime this week, but there will probably be a seasick effect at the Atlantic 10 Conference offices nonetheless.

With six teams still very much elbowing their way around the top of the men's basketball standings, things are still up for grabs. As far as who will finish where, and who will be playing who when the conference tournament opens at Philadelphia's Palestra on Mar. 3 . . . well, let's wait till Sunday to talk about that.

As it stands right now, Temple has inside position at 10-2, but three teams are within range at 7-3, while two others, including the University of Massachusetts are 7-4. Less than three games separating Nos. 1-6. Kinda sounds like the National Hockey League's Patrick Division.

For those of you making your plans for the trip to the Place of Brotherly Love that weekend, don't fret. Barring a total monkey wrench in the ol' proceedings, nobody from spots 7-10 will slip into the picture. The top six teams receive byes into Sunday's action, while 7-10 face off Saturday for rights to the quarterfinal round. It's safe to say that, for the first time in three years, UMass will be spectators on Day One.

But where they will be seeded when they do play? Draw straws, roll dice, consult your expert on tarot cards. It's anyone's guess, especially considering this week's A-10 slate.

Duquesne visits Rhode Island tonight, which on the sur-

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15

Swimmers at Mt. Holyoke

By TAMIR LIPTON
Collegian Staff

Historically, the University of Massachusetts women's swim team has beaten Mount Holyoke with ease to cap off the regular season.

"We have never lost to Mt. Holyoke in my six seasons," said UMass coach Bob Newcomb. "It is a real fun meet, we let different people swim different events."

"Mt. Holyoke is a very good Div. III team. They like this meet because they get to swim against good competition, we like it because we can experiment different people in different races," Newcomb said. "All in all both teams are happy with this meet."

A win against Mt. Holyoke would give the Minutewomen an impressive 8-4 record for the season. "Before the season I thought we would end up 6-6, so I am very happy with this team," Newcomb said.

"What everyone has to remember is this is a very young team that we have, what our swimmers must understand is they will get better, and they will be swimming as fast as possible at the end of the season," said Newcomb. "And, if they do not perform as well as they would like, they must remember they are young and there is always next year."

For Michele Leary, the time is now, she is so close to qualifying for the national swim championships.

"If she is going to qualify, she will do it at the New England championships," Newcomb said. Leary is probably the finest swimmer to ever come out of Newcomb's program, and nothing would please him more than to take a trip to Pennsylvania to watch his prize athlete swim with the elite college swimmers.

The young Minutewomen have battled much adversity, all season, and now they are winding down the long season tonight. The season may be ending, but the future is bright for the Minutewomen.

FOCUS

A closer look at the Grass-roots work of Greenpeace, MassPIRG, and CWA. Page 5.

EDITORIAL

The Massachusetts budget crisis; an editorial by Stan Rosenberg. Page 7.

THIRD WORLD

A critical look at the U.S. invasion of Panama last December. Page 13.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1990

COLLEGIAN

VOLUME CXXIV LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND ISSUE 7

Four UMass sports teams affected by budget cuts

Collegian file photo by K.A. Burke

Varsity women's tennis is among three UMass sports teams affected by the budget cuts.

By JIM CLARK
Collegian Staff

Feeling the crunch of the state-ordered budget cuts, the University of Massachusetts athletic department yesterday announced that three varsity sports will be suspended, effective spring 1991.

The women's lacrosse program will be hit hardest, suspended indefinitely following this season. The men's and women's tennis teams also will have their spring schedules suspended, although they will continue to play during the fall.

Also, the water polo team, which was given varsity status two seasons ago, will be allowed to continue to play but without University funding.

The athletic department went through a similar sport cutback in 1985, when wrestling, tennis, golf and skiing were eliminated. Tennis and skiing were later reinstated.

"I feel the current fiscal crisis is immeasurably more severe and more difficult than any time I can ever recall," said UMass Athletic Director Frank McInerney. "And the prognosis for its ending is not in sight."

The latest cutbacks are a result of an overall decrease of more than $100,000 in state funding for athletics, according to David C. Bischoff, dean of the School of Physical Education.

"The initial budget proposal was a budget that was running a deficit," Bischoff said. "I told the [athletic] department they would have to come back with a balanced budget. It's not prudent any time to run in the red."

A projected decline in undergraduate enrollment made it necessary for the Board of Trustees to approve a $16 increase in the existing athletic fee (from the present $134 to $150 for fall 1990). But the fee increase was only intended to help keep varsity programs afloat, and a variety of other costs made it necessary to suspend the programs.

"The $16 increase is so that we wouldn't have to cut out major sports," said Ben Doherty, UMass trustee and chairman of the Athletic Committee. "All the [UMass] campuses are going through tightening here. It was a fight even to do this. It was not an easy thing to do. I thought this was a must to keep the UMass sports program alive."

According to McInerney, the athletic department faced a tough situation in deciding which sports would be cut, but understood that certain sports were more beneficial to the University.

"We put together a variety of alternatives since last summer," McInerney said. "We came up with this as the best response, and offered it to the Athletic Committee and the Board of Trustees. They all agreed it was the best response to the situation.

"This campus is wildly excited about basketball. If we're

CONTINUED ON PAGE 20

Student access limited in New Africa House

By MEREDITH O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

